SEED DEALERS TO HOLD MEET

Farmers Invited to Meeting at City Hall Thursday Night

Seed, feed and fertilizer dealers of Delta county will meet with D. Kuhn, field crops specialist of the Michigan State College extension department, and Russell Horwood, dairy specialist, at the city hall on Thursday evening, October 31. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Both Mr. Kuhn and Mr. Horwood will give talks, explaining the proper selection and use of seeds, feeds and fertilizers.

The purposes of the meeting are to bring to the dealers of the county the latest information, as well as recommendations of the department on the kind of seed, feed and fertilizer being recommended for use in this county. Experiments are continually being carried on to discover new varieties of seed as well as to make improvements on those we already have. The desirable varieties of feed can best be put in use in the county if everyone connected with the feed game is working on a unified program.

Recommendations on fertilizer used ten years ago and today are an entirely different story. Sufficient experimental evidence has been obtained, so that the soils department of the college can safely recommend the use of certain analysis of fertilizers for upper peninsula conditions. The greatest return from fertilizer use cannot be obtained unless the fertilizer used on the particular crop has shown by past experience to most nearly meet the needs of the particular crop on which it is used.

See Unified Program

Money can be thrown away in the use of fertilizer, unless that material is used intelligently. The same might also be said of the feed situation in feeding the various classes of livestock. There is a right way of mixing the various grains to make a balanced ration or of combining the home-grown grains with a commercial feed, so that the dairy cow or other class of livestock is being fed correctly and at the same time, economically.

It is the hope of those sponsoring the feed seed and fertilizer dealers that these three problems may better understand each other and work on a unified program in the county. Everyone who is either handling seed, feed or fertilizer is cordially invited to attend this meeting and to participate in the discussions that are held.

LOOK OUT FOR FIRE TRUCKS!

Motorists Should Draw to Curbing When They Approach

Violations of that section of the city traffic ordinance, requiring that motorists exercise caution upon the approach of fire department equipment, have been frequent of late, according to Fire Chief Arvid Johnson.

Sirens have been placed on the heavy fire trucks and also the red-painted coupe driven by the fire chief, and are sounded continuously when the department is making a fire call. The ordinance states that the police, fire department and ambulances shall have the right-of-way on any street, and that motorists are required to immediately pull over to the curbing upon the approach of these vehicles, and remain stationary until they have passed.

Chief Johnson reports that in responding to a call to North Escanaba a collision almost occurred because a motorist failed to draw up to the curbing.

The penalty for violation of this ordinance is a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 15 days, or both fine and imprisonment.

Household Goods Damaged by Fire; Assistance Needed

Mrs. Nellie Weisert Farrell, proprietor of the Weisert animal park south of Escanaba, brought to the city yesterday the pathetic story of a neighbor who is in dire need of household goods and bedding which Mrs. Farrell believes will be provided by kind-hearted people of this city.

Two weeks ago a fire in the home of Miss Bovine, while members of the family were absent, did considerable damage to the furnishings. Miss Bovine is caring for her blind father, who is 87 years of age, and a four-year-old child of a younger sister.

No bedding and little clothing escaped the fire. Mrs. Farrell says. Furniture, too, was wrecked.

Anyone who has material he cares to donate to the family may leave it at the Weisert animal park, or may telephone No. 82-J at 210 North Thirteenth street.

In a recent month more than 5,000 tractors were exported from the United States.

A club composed of people past 40 years of age, and known as the over Forties Club, has been started in Europe.

Miss Fay Hulbert, who won the world's amateur dancing championship in Paris last year, recently died at her home in London.

The Innocent Cheat
By Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL," ETC.

CHAPTER XIII

Brent and Helen lunched in Yonkers, in a cheerful little tea room where an experimental-minded proprietor was trying out the idea of a gypsy atmosphere, achieved through the medium of a palm-reading fortune teller whose fee was included with the price of the meal.

Helen was at first too excited and apprehensive to take an interest in the woman when she came to their table, but later, after Brent had talked to her and the woman came back Helen submitted to having her "fortune" told.

She smiled at Brent over her outstretched hand, thinking more of him and his remarkable power to sway her than of the woman who sent a grimy finger tracing the lines of her palm.

A moment ago, little more, she had been intuitively afraid of the near future—afraid that her grandfather, once convinced of her relationship to him, would demand that she give up Brent's guardianship of herself and accept her place in the world as the Cunningham heiress.

Brent had swept aside her fear, declaring that Mr. Cunningham was of too suspicious and crabby a disposition ever to accept the truth. "But even if he did," he added cunningly, "I can't see why you should be unhappy about it, Helen dear. I know you aren't interested in his fortune but if he needs you . . . He had let his voice trail off with effective suggestiveness, planting the first seed of sacrifice in Helen's mind.

Before either of them spoke again the gypsy woman returned and Helen bore her thoughts away from Brent to listen to what was told to her.

She smiled over the woman's promise of lots of money and a happy marriage, with a warning to beware of an older man.

Brent smiled too. It was, of course, a stereotyped fortune, but it amused him. The law of averages had worked to make the advice good on this occasion, he told himself.

After lunch they drove up the Hudson and Helen tried to talk of the future—where they would live—what they would do—but Brent was strangely silent.

Helen too fell silent and when they returned to Bramblewood she was conscious that Brent had accepted the change in their plans as being inevitable.

It had a depressing effect upon her and when they again entered Mr. Cunningham's room she experienced a sense of futility. Whatever these two men decided for her would be her fate. She knew it, because she knew she had not the will to stand against Brent. She could not force herself upon him. For in spite of what he had said about his own secret dreams there was his past that she could not weigh. This would keep her from trying to settle the issue herself.

So she said nothing beyond a polite greeting to Mr. Greaves when he was introduced to her. The lawyer's keen eyes swept her face in one searching glance and he satisfied himself in an instant that whatever she might be she was no common crook.

Of Brent he formed a similar opinion. The man aroused an intense interest in him. For Brent was as poised and unemotional as the sphinx.

He answered the questions put to him calmly and unhesitatingly.

Mr. Greaves was puzzled and at the end of the interview, when Brent and Helen had gone downstairs to wait in the library, he told Mr. Cunningham that he could not give an opinion on the matter, except to advise a thorough investigation of Brent's story.

Mr. Cunningham nodded in agreement. He had already decided that such an investigation should be made.

"Attended to it at once," he ordered, rather peremptorily. "And in the meantime," Mr. Greaves said, "we must keep these two under observation."

"Quite right, quite right," Mr. Cunningham rapped out impatiently. "Ask Miss . . . er . . . Brent, to remain here. Either she really does not care to do so, or she is a consummate actress."

"You mean remain as a member of your household?" the lawyer questioned.

"Yes. We will keep her here on probation."

"Not a bad idea," the lawyer returned, "if she will agree to it."

A few minutes later, when he repeated Mr. Cunningham's request to Helen, he was not prepared to have his doubt of her consent so emphatically realized. She declined to accept Mr. Cunningham's proposal. Declined in the simple words of sincerity.

Brent came over and put an arm on her shoulders. "Helen dear," he said gently, "I'm afraid that you don't realize our position, I believe," he paused and looked at Mr. Greaves, "that we are under suspicion."

Mr. Greaves barely refrained from nodding assent.

"I should never forgive myself if I let you do anything rash—anything you might ever regret," Brent went on, smiling tenderly down at Helen.

"Oh, you wish me to stay!" she cried in dismay.

"Yes," he said, "I do. Because there must be an end to ruthless ness somewhere. It may be your duty to think of your grandfather. And I do not want you to make a hasty decision. I want you to be sure of what you do. It may be only for a short time. Their investigation may not satisfy them."

"I hope it doesn't!" Helen declared, the tears of defeat springing to her eyes.

"H'm," Mr. Greaves said to himself, "H'm, h'm."

"Then you will stay—until you are sure of yourself?"

"I'll stay," Helen promised; "but as for being sure of myself, Leonard, why can't people ever believe that even kids have minds of their own?"

Brent smiled, and turned to Mr. Greaves.

When Helen's answer was carried to Mr. Cunningham he did a strange thing. "Thank God," he said, it had been a long time since those words had passed his lips.

Helen's first night under the roof that she believed had sheltered her mother was spent in tears. She felt like a prisoner and remembered that her mother had actually been imprisoned there. For a moment she hated her grandfather with a white-hot hatred. Then the memory of his goodness to her came to her mind afresh and she buried her face in her pillow, feeling like a traitor.

He had put out his hands and Manager L. J. Jacobs of the Delft theatre, where Thomas Meighan's first Vitaphone picture, the all-talking detective play, "The Argyle Case" is now being shown, issues an appeal to those who have already seen the picture, asking them not to reveal the plot to their friends.

"Much of the pleasure of witnessing a motion picture of this type, lies in the inability of the audience to fathom the mystery, and their consequent interest in trying to arrive at a solution. This Warner Bros. production is remarkably baffling as a mystery story, and its ending is a most unusual surprise.

"So let your friends see for themselves how the baffling murder mystery is solved by Thomas Meighan, as the detective, and don't spoil their complete enjoyment of the picture," says Manager Jacobs.

Mr. Meighan's support includes H. B. Warner, Lila Lee, Bert Roach and many other talking picture favorites. Harvey Thew did the adaptation of the Ford O'Higgins stage hit. Howard Bretherton directed.

No matter how hard you try.
You may paint with care but the stain is there.
And stays around where the painter's found.
You can't fool around where the foolish kind.
Make friends of the foolish kind.
But it leaves some taint like the mark of paint
On your heart or your soul or your mind.

You may say you can and may think you can.
That you'll keep your own hands clean.
But it leaves a mark that is deep and dark.
A mark that you have not seen.
For sin's a thing that will always cling.
Though you only meant to play;
It will leave some stain on the heart or brain
That is hard to wash away.

You can't paint black and not get black.
You can't fool around with sin:
It will leave its trace on the human face.
Its mark on the soul within.
By the words you use and the friends you choose
You are made for the years to be;
You may think they'll not, but they'll leave their blot
For the rest of the world to see.

HAIL TO THE COLORS!
THE WOLVES are howling in the Ann Arbor wilderness. They are claiming Coach Harry Kipke of the University of Michigan football team as their meat. The prediction is being passed around that Kipke will not be retained as coach next year. The reason is the loss of three successive football games by the University eleven. The idea that other conference teams may, this year, actually have been superior to anything that anyone could have produced at Ann Arbor is unthinkable—even irrelevant and immaterial. Teams must win or coaches must go.

Fielding H. Yost, who selected Kipke as coach, has heard the howling of the wolves before. More than once they have stood outside the camp and screamed for his scalp. But he always fought them off and produced a winning team the next season. And when you've produced a winner there aren't any wolves.

It may be that a man's ability as a football coach can be thoroughly tested in one season. But we doubt it. First seasons for any coach are generally nightmares.

Kipke, the wolf-meat of 1925 may be the hero of 1930.

No more potent propaganda for the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the other funny cuckoos who "view with alarm" the so-called "over-emphasis" of athletics, possibly could be concocted than the attitude of the Wolverine fans who are yowling for a coach that can win them all. They are demonstrating to the public that, as far as they are concerned victory is the one and only consideration.

STAYING MARRIED IN MICHIGAN
MICHIGAN had 37,500 divorces and annulments granted in the state totalled 10,613 the same year, according to figures released by the United States census bureau. In other words there was one divorce for each 3.5 marriages during the year. The tables show an increase of 2.8 percent in the number of marriages and an increase of one-tenth of one percent in the number of divorces.

Michigan, as a divorce state, occupies what might be termed as "middle ground." In the country as a whole in 1925, 6 marriages for every divorce were reported. The District of Columbia and New York State each having but one cause for absolute divorce reported 52.6 and 21.6 respectively while the rates in the other states ranged from 14 marriages to each divorce in Georgia to 1.6 marriages to each divorce in Nevada. Wisconsin had 3.5 marriages to each divorce, Illinois 5.1, Indiana 5.2 and Ohio 4.1.

The wide differences in figures and ratios in the country would seem to indicate that the organizations which for years have been contending for uniform marriage and divorce laws still have a long way to go. It is a lengthy leap from the District of Columbia ratio of 52.6 to one and Michigan's 3.5 to one—and to Nevada's 1.6 to one.

CARELESSNESS IN THE AUTO
THE Motorist, once in a while, is guilty of amazing thoughtlessness.

In Massachusetts the other day a man was driving down a busy city street when the accelerator of his car stuck. Instead of throwing out his clutch promptly and bring his car to a stop with the foot brake before trying to fix it, this motorist simply bent forward while the car continued in motion and tried to pull the pedal up with his fingers.

The result? His head went below the level of the bottom of the windshield and he could not see where he was going. The car swept along at a rapid clip and struck a street railway repair tower, killing one man and injuring another.

Such carelessness is almost unbelievable. Yet it is a safe bet that nearly all of us, at some time or another, do something nearly as foolish.

The man at the wheel of an automobile owes it to his fellows to keep his vigilance keyed up every second.

New York now has an anti-noise commission. Chicago ought to consider this move, too, and at least provide Maxim silencers for the machine guns.

Along about December it is barely possible you will see some college president's name in the papers, if he does something sufficiently sensational.

A two-dollar bill may not mean misfortune, but you don't have a lot of luck trying to buy something with it.

THE HIGHWAY AGE.
HISTORIANS of the future, looking back on the first quarter of the twentieth century, may well consider it the "Highway Age."

In 1900 paved roads were almost unknown. Uneven dirt or gravel surfaces were the best even urban localities had to offer. And in rural districts the suffering farmer struggled through mud holes and over roads indistinguishable from cow paths.

The change made in little more than a quarter-century has been epochal. From coast to coast broad, smooth highways stretch, an invitation to the motorist to travel. Automobiles may range hundreds of miles a day. The result has been to break down of barriers between farms and cities, states and even nations.

Highways have cost money—lots of money. And they will continue to demand huge expenditures until the rural roads are

POINTERS FOR DEER HUNTERS

Warning Placards to Be Placed on Three Car Ferries

Warnings, cautions, and don'ts for deer hunters going into the upper peninsula for this year's season will be displayed on big placards in the cabins of the three state ferries at the Straits of Mackinac. The placards have been prepared by the Department of Conservation and will be posted with the cooperation of the State Highway Department.

The placards list information as to what a deer hunter may do while he is in the woods; and what he may not do; what he should do if he becomes lost; and display slogans that it is hoped will help to reduce the annual list of fatalities.

"Your license does not permit you to: Use artificial light, use dogs in hunting; Kill a doe; Kill a fawn; hunt a deer while it is in the water; hunt from your automobile; have a weapon in your possession more than 30 days after the close of the season; hunt on private property without owner's permission; have loaded gun in your car." one of the placards says.

"Don't neglect to: tag your deer; wear your license button; unload your gun before you enter camp or an auto; carry a compass," says a second poster.

Advice to those who are lost is contained on a third card. It says: "If you get lost, don't get excited. You will probably be able to find a fire tower or its telephone line. Follow the wires. They will take you to town. If it is dark, build a fire and wait until morning. Don't tire yourself out walking in circles. Always carry a compass and matches."

"Be sure it has antlers before you shoot," and "Some of you may not come back if some are careless," are among the slogans listed on the posters.

A large percentage of the deer hunters going to the upper peninsula enter by way of the state ferries.

Those who attended were, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. John Gueiff, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Zerbel, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brott, Mr. and Mrs. Lang Foard, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hanson, all of Marquette.

D. of I. Hallowe'en Party
Huge pumpkins laughed gleefully at the antics of more than one hundred members of Trinity Circle, Daughters of Isabella, as they frolicked in fancy dress at the Hallowe'en party staged Monday evening in St. Patrick's hall.

Quaint decorations, weird lighting effects, favors in Hallowe'en patterns and various other things added to the enjoyment. Witches, cats, etc., adorned the walls and the beautiful decorations were highly praised by the large assembly.

Two bridge lamps dressed as witches were the only lights turned on during the grand march in which everyone took part. The march led the guests through the chamber of horrors which was arranged on the stage and darkened. Chairs and pedestals had been covered with white sheets and several girls dressed as ghosts stood about the make-believe cemetery shaking hands with those who marched through. Shrieks of terror resounded through the hall as the cold, clammy hands of the ghosts were clasped. The ghosts were provided with rubber gloves moistened in ice cold water preceding the grand march.

Community singing and bingo with splendid awards for the winners were part of the evening's program. Two fortune tellers read cards and palms for the amusement of the large crowd of women who thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

Stack Lumber Camp at Gould City Opens About Dec. 1

Woods operations of the Stack Lumber company will get under way in the Manistique region about December 1. It was announced at the company's offices here yesterday. H. M. Stack, president of the Stack Lumber company, disclosed yesterday that since last January 1 the Manistique mill has purchased 9,300,000 feet of logs from large and small jobbers in the timber country surrounding. The value of the logs secured from the jobbers, many of them farmers, was about $235,000, which gives a fair idea of the importance of the lumbering industry to the residents of Schoolcraft county. The Manistique mill has still about four weeks to run on its supply of logs, and then will close down for three weeks to make the usual general repairs. The Stack Lumber company will again operate its own logging camps eight miles north of Gould City, where about a hundred and fifty men will be employed. Besides this, about three hundred and fifty men are indirectly employed by the company through the jobbers, numbering about thirty, who furnish their output to the Manistique mill. The Stack Lumber company's mill at Little Lake will resume sawing operations within a few days after a brief shutdown. The log supply for this mill is secured entirely from jobbers.

HEALTH

In recent years studies have been made in most of the states of the United States as to the number of cases of gopher occurring in the population. It has been found, as most people know, that gopher is more prevalent in those districts in which the waters are glacial waters containing small amounts of iodine and that the giving of small amounts of iodine to adolescent girls and to pregnant women prevents many cases of simple gopher.

Kentucky is outside the gopher belt and it has long been believed that such cases as are found in Louisville and in surrounding territory occur in persons who have moved into Kentucky from neighboring states on the north. Recently a survey has been made by Dr. W. O. Johnson, who examined 5083 girls in Louisville schools and found that adolescent gophers occurred in 13 per cent. He found that these adolescent gophers did not occur in families which had moved into Kentucky from gopher districts, but that the cases occurred largely among people of local origin.

He also found a large amount of tooth decay among all the children and serious infections of the tonsils were not infrequent. His investigations lead him to believe that gophers occur more commonly among undernourished children with decayed teeth and bad tonsils. An interesting sidelight on his investigations was the fact that more of the children with gopher had been using iodized salt than those without gopher. The result of this investigation offers opportunity for many theories.

It is, of course, important to study the diets of all of these children to find out how many of them were eating diets deficient in vegetables and food containing iodine. The investigation throws some doubt on the use of iodized salt as an exact preventive of gopher.

Unless the iodized salt is used freely on the table and in cooking, one cannot be certain that much of the salt gets to the child. This confirms the views of many physicians who have insisted that the only safe way to be sure that the child receives an adequate dose of iodine is to give it iodine in the form of tablet, liquid or other medication.

It is generally agreed by those who accept the idea of evolution that man, who walks on two feet, is developed from a type of animal that walked on four. Dr. E. Schwartz of the United States Public Health Service emphasizes the fact that the human being has not yet become fully adapted to the upright posture. As a consequence, strain on various portions of the anatomy results in such disturbances as flat feet, backache, round shoulders, narrow chest, drooping of the internal organs, fatigue and similar disturbances.

In a recent issue of Hygiene, Dr. Armitage Whitman asks how may we transform round-shouldered, pot-bellied, hollow-backed, knock-kneed, flat-footed children into self-respecting physical and mental specimens?

He is a firm believer in the importance of controlled exercises for good posture. The active athlete carries his weight slightly forward on the balls of his feet and walks with his feet rolled over somewhat to the outside. The forward bending of the trunk serves to flatten the hip curves of the spine, to expand the chest, to draw up the abdominal muscles and to keep the head up.

This attitude will unquestionably seem at first to tire the person who holds it because it requires active muscular effort to keep the upright position. In the fatigued position, all of these relationships are reversed. The feet are turned out so that the weight falls on the inner border, the knees tend to fall together, the back aches, the stomach and abdomen protrude, the chest is flat and the head flops forward. A man who is very tired carries his head far forward. Thus, the first step in the control of posture is to learn the proper position of the bones and the muscles and to make a constant conscious effort to maintain this position. The result will be manifest in improved health, easier breathing and general well being.

Blaze Starts In Satchel; Cigaret Or Match Blamed

A cigarette or match, thrown unintentionally in an open satchel containing papers, is blamed for the small fire at the Andrew Christopherson home, 800 South Seventeenth street, Monday evening. John Hurley, who is employed at C. H. Thordarson's summer home on Rock Island, who was rooming at the home, explained that he had been smoking cigarettes while dressing to go uptown. While he was walking uptown, he heard the fire trucks on the street, little thinking that the blaze was in his own room. A small hole was burned in the floor and the grip was ruined. Yesterday morning the fire department extinguished a chimney blaze at 1330 Stephenson avenue and a small fire in an automobile parked on Washington avenue. The automobile blaze was caused by the short circuiting of wires. Little damage was done. Filipino business men have offered to pay the city of Manila $25,000 a year for the privilege of operating three cockpits within the municipal limits.

MULTI-RANGE POWER

DOES MORE THAN POWER EVER DID BEFORE . . .

Something revolutionary has happened. In these brand-new cars, Chrysler engineering science has developed a marvelous new principle of power control. A new type of four-speed transmission with extraordinary superiorities plus the advantages of the Multi-Range gear shift, giving a new ease in shifting without danger of clashing gears. THESE NEW MULTI-RANGE CHRYSLERS are so far ahead in driving pleasure that nothing on the road can serve as a comparison. You have only to ask for a demonstration —and a new sensation awaits you.

EASY to handle and control

The more time you spend behind the wheel of a Dodge Six—driving on crowded streets and busy highways—the more enthusiastic you will be over its easy handling. The roller-bearing steering guides with minimum effort. The clutch is easy-acting, so is the gear shift. Weather-proof, internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes afford easy operation and are positively equalized. The lively motor with its 7-bearing crankshaft, Invar Strut aluminum alloy pistons and other refinements, responds instantly with a quick surge of power. In every way, the Dodge Six is easy to handle and control. That is why it is particularly prized by people who do a lot of driving.

Tumultuous Day Is Without Parallel

The United States Steel corporation, directors of which met after the close of the market, reported earnings for the first nine months of $18.82 a share, as contrasted with $18.17 in the corresponding period of last year. The corporation, which arranged earlier in the year for the retirement of its funded debt through the sale of additional common stock, has been paying regular annual dividends of $7 per share on the common.

Albert Conway, head of the New York state insurance department, after a conference with the heads of leading insurance companies, said he had recommended to them the purchase of leading common stocks in view of "drastic readjustment of prices." He also told executives of large life insurance companies having headquarters in this state that he intended to recommend to the legislature an amendment to the insurance law permitting the purchase of leading common stocks by such companies.

Fire, marine and casualty insurance concerns, as well as surety companies, may buy common shares under the present statutes. Sets Record
Mr. Conway said the life insurance executives had offered to meet with him tomorrow to determine whether there was any way in which they could make purchases under the existing law.

The New York Stock Exchange, with a record that dates back more than 100 years, had never witnessed such tumultuous trading as took place at the opening of today's market.

The following table illustrates some of the largest opening transactions, with the overnight declines:

Share	Stock	Price	Loss
30,000	Commonwealth & South	11.12	1.87
75,000	Transcon'l Oil	6.00	2.00
50,000	International Tel	71.00	17.00
50,000	Packard Motors	18.50	1.87
50,000	United Corp.	26.00	7.50
50,000	Alleghany Corp.	24.25	4.87
50,000	Stand. Oil N. J.	57.00	7.75
50,000	Chrysler	33.00	7.00
50,000	General Motors	45.25	2.25
47,000	Internat'l Nickel	30.00	8.75
45,000	Anacosta Copper	52.00	11.50
45,000	Consolidated Gas	95.25	2.00
45,000	Curtiss-Wright	10.62	2.25

Scores of other issues opened with blocks of 5,000 to 40,000 shares. This deluge of selling carried total sales in the first half hour to 3,259,000 shares.

Easing of credit conditions was one of the first measures put into effect by bankers to calm the wave of hysteria which has suddenly swept over security holders. The call money renewal rate, ordinarily announced about 10:40 a. m., was fixed at five per cent, a drop of one per cent below yesterday's figure, before the market closed.

Time money and bankers acceptance rates were then lowered in sympathy.

After the mid-day meeting of bankers, it was announced that leading banking firms of New York had reduced the margin requirements on street demand loans to 25 per cent, thereby releasing a huge volume of credit to facilitate the financial operations of stock exchange firms during the market crisis.

Some of these requirements previously ran as high as 40 per cent. F. B. Keech & Co., one of the large commission houses, also announced a reduction in the margin requirements demanded of its customers to 25 per cent on the theory that current price levels were sufficiently attractive to warrant such action.

Wall Street attributed the dumping of huge blocks of stocks at the opening to forced liquidation by large operators, who were no longer able to protect their rapidly dwindling accounts after having amassed paper profits running into hundreds of millions of dollars. Few of these operators, regarded as the leaders of the recent "bull" market, escaped totally unscathed, as most of them continued to hold long lines of stocks for investment, and the sustained decline of the past week took them completely by surprise. Sizeable fortunes have been amassed by a few traders on the "short" side, but these are only a drop in the bucket compared to the losses sustained by stock market "bulls."

CHICAGO FEELS IT
Chicago, Oct. 29 (AP)—The second million share day in the history of the Chicago Stock Exchange was witnessed today as traders showed their way into the market and forced prices still further downward. Total sales were 1,179,000 shares as compared with 1,220,000 shares last Thursday when the market first started to drop.

Commonwealth Edison led the list downhill, dropping 65 points to close at 235. Middle West Utilities dropped four more points, finishing at 21 1/2 and hung up a new record for the exchange when a block of 30,000 shares changed hands in a single sale.
Auburn slid down to 120 after opening at 150 but managed to close at 140. Bendix also reacted after dropping 11 3/4 points and closed at 41 3/4, its opening figure. Cities Service continued down grade, closing at 23. It opened at 25 and touched 23 before a reaction set in. Zenith closed at 18, a net loss of seven points.

UPROAR IN LONDON
London, Oct. 29 (AP)—Scenes which amazed the old timers here witnessed during the final hour of business in the London stock exchange which has been following closely the New York market.
During the final hour all shares in which London and Wall Street are both interested were marked down heavily, the weakness being emphasized by the continual drop of prices in the continental centers principally Amsterdam. Prices fluctuated wildly.

the big clock were barely heard as they struck four, the closing hour. At that moment Throckmorton street where the curb traders meet suddenly became a human beehive. Previously it had been a quiet thoroughfare with a few stik-hatted individuals sauntering along. At the moment of four men rushed from all the doors of the stock exchange into the long panting, fighting stream into shorters court where American prices are shouted, dividing themselves into oil markets, mining markets and industrial markets.

Because of the differences in time between London and New York, prices on the New York stock exchange were still pouring in and the London traders still kept at it. Prices were shouted from two windows. Arms were raised above the crowd with fluttering paper forms. Clerks struggled in and out, harassed on every side. As the minutes passed and more news was received of the New York break, the excitement became more and more tense. Fortunes were made and lost in a few minutes.

LOSSES IN MONTREAL
Montreal, Oct. 29 (AP)—Losses all along the line ranging from $65 downwards, today further reduced price levels on the Montreal stock exchange. The close showed no firmness and most stocks ended the day at prices near their lows. The greatest recessions were Smelters off $65 at $235; Montreal Power off $24 at $123; National Steel Car off $15 at $46; Dominion Bridge off $16 at $66; Steel of Canada off $13.25 at $38; National Breweries off $13 at $110; and International Nickel off $8.50 to $30.50.
