ITALY LOOKING FOR U. S. HELP WITH FINANCE

MUSSOLINI DENIES WAR AND RED RUMORS

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Jan. 3.—The most important international event of the new year was the speech of Premier Mussolini of Italy. It was important not so much because of what the Italian leader said but because of the impression which he was plainly trying to erase from the minds of other peoples.

Three separate criticisms have been made of Italian policies under Mussolini. First, that Italy was developing an entente with Soviet Russia. Second, that France and Italy were drifting apart because of rivalry on naval building. Third, a general policy of isolation on the part of Italy as against a program of cooperation with the other nations of Europe.

Fascism Wants Peace.—The Italian premier struck at each one of these criticisms in his speech openly taking cognizance of them by declaring that fascism had nothing in common with communism that Italy was not warlike and that he himself regarded the last war as too horrible to be repeated.

"Italy never will take the initiative in starting a war," said the premier. "Italy needs peace. Fascism desires to secure for the Italian people, in cooperation with all other peoples of the world, a future of prosperity and peace."

Signor Mussolini has rarely delivered a speech with less belligerence in it when discussing foreign affairs. There is no doubt that the economic situation in Italy has caused the change in tone. Perhaps the most significant paragraph in the premier's speech was the following:

"Need United States."

"We cannot conceive modern history without the United States. Had they not brought their formidable weight to bear on the situation—moved mainly by idealistic motives—The war would not have been won. Without their cooperation the world cannot recover from the post war crisis. Their help is necessary if prosperity is to return."

Panama Continues As Though There Were No Revolt

Panama City, Jan. 3 (AP)—Panama went about its business as usual today as though there had not been an overnight change in the government, and from the presidential palace itself Harmodio Arias, head of the junta which replaced President Arosemena announced that recognition by foreign powers was not necessary since the change of government was entirely constitutional.

J. J. Vallarino, a member of the Valleriano cabinet, appointed a new head of the police force which also serves as Panama's army and declared that he would see to it that order was maintained and that the reorganized police would be a credit to the country. The Arias government will function as it is now constituted until Ricardo J. Alfaro, comes here and assume the presidency. Dr. Alfaro was designated for that office by the junta.

More Car Value at Lower Cost is Auto Keynote

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—More car and more value at less price was the keynote of the 31st annual national automobile show which opened at Grand Central Palace today.

Brightly-colored literature thrust into the hands of spectators as they inspected the more than 300 models on display featured such statements as "the lowest priced car we ever built." Demonstrators explained a multitude of mechanical improvements, while changes in design and color were left to speak for themselves.

All but three makes were equipped with fuel pumps, virtually unthought of four years ago. Five makes, Studebaker, Huppmobile, Auburn, Lincoln and Pierce-Arrow, featured free-wheeling, purporting to be a panacea for gear-shifting troubles. Studebaker introduced this feature in the middle of last year.

Ten models were equipped with carburetor silencers, which Chrysler, Studebaker and Buick brought out in the fall. Chrome plating for finished parts was almost universal and the majority of the manufacturers answered the demand for non-shatterable glass in their cars.

There were also aluminum alloys of greater strength; rubber as insulation against vibration in greater use and considerable improvement was claimed for carburation.

Multi-cylinder engines stepped more boldly into the picture than in former years and there was great increase in the number of new eight-cylinder cars. One six had an increased wheel base to permit the insertion of an eight cylinder engine should the demand develop.

Chrysler exhibited a new six and two new eights, Dodge a new six and eight, Cadillac a new twelve, Chevrolet a car with a longer wheelbase.

In appearance the cars were generally lower with a trend toward pointed radiators, spare tires in fender wells, wire wheels, and spongy colors. Much attention was paid to streamlining and aerobility.

Among novelties displayed was a vacuum-operated gearshift and an electrically operated door lock, which, at the press of a button, locks all the doors of the car.

CONGRESS EYES WORK UNDONE

Leaders Are Doubtful If Legislative Load Will Be Finished March 4

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Congressional leaders today eyed the legislative load they will throw their weight against Monday and wondered if they could tug it safely over the rise before March 4, thus avoiding an extra session.

The returning congressional hosts brought new controversies for debate and a day of conferences on Capitol Hill left the leaders still hopeful but not certain of success.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, conferred with Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the house appropriations committee, and it was agreed that every attention would be given to enactment of the appropriation bills carrying the funds for next year's governmental expenses.

At the same time Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, was issuing a statement demanding an extra session on "the ground it would be impossible to solve the problems confronting congress before March 4."

Word went out that forecasts may be seen next week in the senate on three issues which have commanded attention during the holiday recess—the eastern railroad consolidation plan, the Lucas-Norris

BILL SEEKING BAN ON WHEAT TO BE PUSHED

PROPOSAL TO GIVE JOBLESS GRAIN IS OPPOSED

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—The farm board's proposal to place an embargo on wheat will be laid before congress in legislative form on Monday by Representative Burnett, Republican, North Dakota.

Burnett made this announcement today while Senator-Elect Dickinson of Iowa was issuing a statement through the Republican national committee asserting the Hawley-Smoot tariff had "more than fulfilled the promise of its backers by maintaining prices of American farm produce high above world levels and preventing the dumping of competitors' products into our markets."

At the same time, the board made an unfavorable report to the senate agriculture committee on the Capper proposal to use 40,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the board agencies for feeding the unemployed.

The argument was made that the board had no authority to give away wheat and such action would impair its revolving fund and divert the money "for purposes other than for which appropriated."

Burnett said that acting on Legge's suggestion he will introduce a bill for a temporary embargo until March 1, 1932, on wheat, butter and other substitutes and the feed grains including corn, barley, oats, their manufactures and bran and bran screenings.

"The importation of all these products is increasing and the present tariff is not high enough to keep them out," said the North Dakotan.

"Despite the higher tariff wall," he said, "the complete break in market prices is bringing in larger imports. The procedure under the flexible provision is too long. It is like locking a barn door after the horse is stolen."

"It is also very doubtful whether the tariff commission would find increases justifiable because the commission can not take into consideration abnormal competitive conditions. Very likely the present rates are adequate under normal conditions."

Dickinson said the farmer's situation was far from satisfactory, but that "the tariff averted an agricultural catastrophe from which we would have been years in recovering."

He quoted lower wheat prices elsewhere in support of his contention that but for the tariff American prices would have broken to the level of foreign markets. Without the tariff, he said, wheat would have sold at 11 to 25 cents less than was paid in the American market.

Minister Appointed To Welfare Position

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Governor Wilber M. Brucker today chose the Rev. William S. Carpenter, of Marshall, to fill the post of state welfare director vacated by the late Carl T. Murray.

Mr. Carpenter wrote to the governor today accepting the appointment and indicating his intention of moving to Lansing to take over his new duties February 1.

Mr. Carpenter will retain his status in the ministry despite his work in Lansing. He is a former moderator of the Lansing Presbytery and during the World War was welfare officer overseas with the 89th Division. Mr. Carpenter has been active in baseball and golfing circles and is the present American Legion golf champion for Michigan.

Americans Held Marshal Joffre in High Esteem

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Through all the official messages of condolence sent to France today on news of Marshal Joffre's death ran a note which showed the esteem in which the old warrior was held by American leaders and people.

President Hoover, who was in nearby London when Joffre saved France at the Marne, cabled President Doumergue that in the name of the American people and in his own name he wished "to express to your excellency the deep sorrow which is felt in this country at the passing of this great patriot."

General Pershing grew to know him well while commanding the American army abroad.

"As the 'Rock of the Marne' he saved the allies from defeat," Pershing's message said. "Under the most trying circumstances he never lost his calm demeanor."

"He had a deep friendship for America. My association with him was always a most delightful one and he was honored to call him my friend."

General Douglas McArthur, chief of staff, and Secretary Harley both of whom served abroad, expressed their sympathy to the French army. Other messages were sent by Secretary Stimson and Secretary Adams, while from his home in Florida, Major General Charles P. Summerall, who recently retired as chief of staff, said the marshal's visit here in 1917 was a factor in crystallizing sentiment for a larger American army in France.

Joffre came here in April, accompanied by Rene Viviani, French minister of justice, to tell the United States that the situation was critical. He made a brief tour of the country, his sturdy figure and genial impetuosity catching the fancy of the people. Crowds met him everywhere and shouted "Papa Joffre." The French soldiers called him "that man who wasn't around."

Pleased at his reception, the marshal said that he was coming back. He did in April, 1922, and was entertained by Pershing.

MINE BLAST IS FATAL TO FIVE

Bodies Are Recovered by Rescue Workers; Seek Cause of Explosion

Midvale, O., Jan. 3 (AP)—Bodies of five men killed in an explosion in the No. 4 mine of the Midvale Coal company this morning were recovered by rescue workers tonight about nine hours after the blast.

The bodies were brought to the surface by a rescue crew composed of federal and state mine rescue workers and local miners.

The victims apparently were killed by the explosion, which seemed to have centered where their bodies were found scattered about the floor of the tunnel about 3 1/2 miles from the entrance of the drift mine, rescuers said.

Fifteen other men in the mine when the blast let go at about 10:30 a. m., escaped without injury, a few minutes afterward.

The dead are: Mark Rennick, Clyde Ohler, Charles Carnahan, Sam Boggs and Ludé Demitt all of Midvale.

Begin Investigation. Immediately after recovery of the victim's bodies, federal and state mine inspectors began an investigation to determine the cause of the explosion. They would advance no theory prior to their inquiry, and said the cause would probably not be determined before tomorrow.

BOOZE REPORT BY LAW GROUP FAVORS DRYS

NEITHER BEER NOR WINE WILL BE RECOMMENDED

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—The long-awaited prohibition report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission was described today in high official quarters as predominantly dry, with a majority of the members conceding little to anti-prohibition views.

From an official in a position to be fully cognizant of the commission's activities came this analysis: Tentative report, agreeable to more than a majority of the 11 commissioners, has been completed. In it is no recommendation for beer or wine. Neither does it urge any other major modification of the Volstead act designed to relax the enforcement structure built up around the 11-year-old drys laws repeal or modification or the eighteenth amendment did not enter the picture.

In effect, the view taken by a majority of the members was said to be that prohibition as such has not yet had a sufficient trial. It was asserted this stand was based upon facts recently uncovered, showing that enforcement of the dry law during at least part of the past decade has been riddled by politics and surrounded at times by graft.

The statement was made emphatically that in the final report to President Hoover there will be "no pussyfooting" concerning conditions as the commission has found them during the most extensive investigation ever made into prohibition, extending over more than 19 months of deliberation and research.

Corruption and graft, law enforcement and crime resulting directly or indirectly from the dry law, it was said, will be set forth alongside the reasons why it is believed these problems can be solved.

Despite the virtual completion today of the report, authoritative word came that it could not be placed before President Hoover before the end of next week.

Even after the report has gone to the White House and the prohibition-weary commissioners are free to complete the rest of their crime report, it was said small possibility existed that the president could send the report immediately to congress.

It was described as a bulky document, comprising not only a majority and possibly a minority report, but also lengthy opinions prepared by each member, containing his or her concurring as well as dissenting views with the solution of the dry law problem presented.

At least one of these opinions, it was asserted, will be longer than the report itself. Work still being done upon some of these individual documents was given as one cause for the delay. Then, too, the commission will not meet again until the middle of next week for a final consideration of the report.

Possibility of changes in the tentative report was held not unlikely, although a majority was said to be completely committed to a dry stand.

Escaped Convict Seriously Wounded By State Officers

Midland, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Edward Cassidy, 26, an escaped convict from the state reformatory at Ionia, was shot and seriously wounded this afternoon by state police who surprised him at the home of a relative near here. Cassidy was taken to a Bay City hospital where his condition was said late this afternoon to be critical.

Cassidy, sentenced from Ogemaw county in October, 1929, for robbery armed, escaped on Labor day with two other prisoners. On the strength of reports that he was in hiding near here, a detachment of state police from Bay City came here today. Cassidy was found in the home of an aunt and he was wounded in the head when he attempted to escape capture.

Richard W. Nebel Returns to Munising

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Richard W. Nebel, who has served as commissioner of pardons and paroles for the past six months, returned to Munising today to resume his duties of probate judge. Nebel was granted a leave of absence from his judgeship when former Gov. Fred W. Green appointed him to the state post.

Gangsters Lose More Each Day as Interest Piles on Unpaid Tax

LINK OFFICER WITH SLAYING

Patrolman Held as Suspect in Murder of Beulah Limerick

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—A cartridge shell patrolman Robert F. Langdon voluntarily turned over to superiors and his statement that he peeped into a sleeping room on his beat on New Year's Eve gave detectives the evidence upon which they sought tonight to link him with the murder of nineteen year old Beulah Limerick.

Inspector Shelby disclosed the "extremely unusual circumstances" which brought the 35 year old policeman under investigation in the mysterious death of the former theater usher last Wednesday.

Shelby said, however, that a former arrest must await future developments, particularly a report by the bureau of standards ballistics experts on two pistols belonging to Langdon.

The patrolman, who, Shelby said, had tried to "date up" the girl within the past two months, has been held incommunicado since yesterday morning when he told his precinct officers he had found a cartridge shell in a coffee cup in a room adjoining that in Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP)—The minutes are eating away at gangster's ill-earned dollars. Minute by minute the fortunes of convicted Capone clansmen crumble as fines, penalties, interest charges augment the sums they must pay to exiate delinquencies in income tax payments of past years.

The government's offensive, sweeping gangsters and corrupt public officials into prison for tax evasions has uncovered in the channels of underworld finance vast wealth whose potential return to the federal treasury exceeds $2,000,000.

Claims against the eight principal defendants thus far indicted in the Chicago drive total about $1,737,000—of this some $600,000 constituting the 50% penalties added to the violators' tax bills—and this does not include the interest accumulating at 6 to 12 per cent since the day of their delinquency. In some cases the interest added in eight years may nearly equal the principal.

Government officials do not hope to recover the enormous sums they charge against the accounts of opulent gangsters. Wherever it may be found, the property bought from the fabulous profits of bootleg syndicates, vice, gambling and graft, will be seized by the government to satisfy the debts, but, falling to squeeze from this the full measure of its claims, the United States will extract an extra ounce of punishment in prison terms.

Funeral Wednesday. Tonight his body lay in the bare, white-plastered room in which he died at the hospital of St. Jean-De-Dieu, clad in a white dolman and the gold-buttoned uniform of the French colonial armies. Tomorrow it will be transported to the chapel of the Ecole Militaire—old French army school—where on Monday and Tuesday it will lie in state so that Poinu and general, the average man of France and her statesmen may file past it and give final salute to the kindly leader that all loved.

The funeral will be on Wednesday. As they did for Foch, church and state will unite in ceremony and pageantry to express publicly the nation's grief. The service will be held in the cathedral of Notre Dame and then through streets lined by the men who fought under him the body of Joffre will be taken to the Invalides, where it will be temporarily placed in the chapel that shelters Napoleon, Foch and a whole host of France's greatest dead.

Plane "Tradewind" Misses Bermuda So Pilots Come Back

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 3 (AP)—The trans-Atlantic freight plane the "Trade Wind" landed at the Hampton Roads Naval Air station here tonight at 9:35 o'clock. Lieutenant MacLaren and Mrs. Hart explained to officers at the naval base that as a result of some difficulty with their instruments they missed Bermuda and turned back for the coast of the United States, making for the Naval Air station here, as the nearest available field with night landing facilities.

The plane made a smooth landing on the comparatively calm waters of Willoughby Bay, a short distance off the air station landing beach and taxied in to about 75 feet off the ramp, where Lieutenant MacLaren and Mrs. Hart were taken off and the plane was anchored for the night. Lieutenant MacLaren and Mrs. Hart went to the home of one of the officers of the air station, where they were to spend the night. They will decide in the morning what their next move will be.

FRANCE WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO WAR HERO

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY

BY MELVIN WHITELEATHER

Paris, Jan. 3 (AP)—All the world, no less than France itself, tonight mourned the passing of Marshal Joseph Jacques Joffre, savior of Paris in 1914, who died at 8:23 a. m. after a long and grim struggle with arteria.

His country, plunged in grief, was preparing to honor by a great national funeral the memory of one of the most illustrious soldiers of her history.

Marshal Joffre—the "Papa" Joffre of the French Polu and of all his countrymen, passed away peacefully the day before his seventy-ninth birthday. He had been critically ill for more than a fortnight and on December 19 suffered the amputation of his left leg, which had become infected with gangrene.

Amazing Vitality. Given up by his physicians as lost, he fought with amazing vitality, and although he had been unconscious most of the time for nearly a week before death came, he was able to arouse himself at times to smile at a friend or murmur a few words to Madame Joffre, who throughout his illness, remained almost constantly at his bedside.

Definite plans for the funeral have not yet been made known, but if Joffre's wishes are respected he will lie, not like his illustrious comrade Ferdinand Foch under the great dome of the Hotel Des Invalides, but in a modest chapel in the grounds of his country home at Louveignes, high on a plateau overlooking the wading valley of the Seine.

Joffre's visit to the tomb of Washington in 1917, friends revealed tonight, inspired him with the desire for a simple burial on his own homestead, "La Chataignerie," "Chestnut Grove" which he and Madame Joffre had built and laid out.

Colonel Jean Fabry, the marshal's aide during the war and his closest friend, said that the old soldier had often expressed the wish that "Chestnut Grove" would become another Mount Vernon, and that there his collection of military relics, gathered in more than forty years of military life, might be preserved.

Funeral Wednesday. Tonight his body lay in the bare, white-plastered room in which he died at the hospital of St. Jean-De-Dieu, clad in a white dolman and the gold-buttoned uniform of the French colonial armies. Tomorrow it will be transported to the chapel of the Ecole Militaire—old French army school—where on Monday and Tuesday it will lie in state so that Poinu and general, the average man of France and her statesmen may file past it and give final salute to the kindly leader that all loved.

The funeral will be on Wednesday. As they did for Foch, church and state will unite in ceremony and pageantry to express publicly the nation's grief. The service will be held in the cathedral of Notre Dame and then through streets lined by the men who fought under him the body of Joffre will be taken to the Invalides, where it will be temporarily placed in the chapel that shelters Napoleon, Foch and a whole host of France's greatest dead.

Interesting Features In Today's Press

Several interesting features are to be found in today's issue of the Escanaba Sunday Press:

There is the story of Waucauda, one of the ghost towns of the upper peninsula, which was a booming community back 45 years ago when the Green mine was running on a full production basis.

Another ghost town is written up in today's Press. It is Dolaville, the early day lumbering town founded by Captain Robert Dollar, who after leaving the upper peninsula amassed a large fortune in the shipping and lumbering industry on the Pacific coast. He is the head of the Dollar Around-the-World Steamship Line.

Interest in reading is growing in Escanaba, it is disclosed by the circulation records of the Carnegie Public Library. Read the story of the book reading habits of Escanabans on the woman's page.

Do you remember the "winter of the big snow"? It was back in the late eighties. The recollections of several old-timers make up a feature story, concerning that season of record snowfall.

VIOLATOR LIST IS UNDER 1929

Carrying loaded rifles in automobiles and carrying rifles in deer areas before the opening of the season are two deer laws most generally violated by hunters preceding and during the 15 days open deer season, according to the conservation department.

In a report issued today by the law enforcement division, listing the convictions for conservation law violations during November, 78 convictions were listed for carrying rifles or guns loaded with buckshot in closed areas, and 59 convictions were listed for carrying loaded guns in automobiles.

The list of convictions included 622 names, a drop of 59 from the number reported for November a year ago. The report shows that conservation law violators paid fines and costs aggregating $15,357.79 of an average penalty of $25 for each violation. Violators served an aggregate of 1,550 days in jail.

Trappers Convicted
The approach and opening of the various trapping seasons brought a long list of violators. The muskrat trapping laws headed the list of this class of law violators. The department's report shows 42 men convicted during November for trapping without licenses. Fifty-five convictions are listed for trapping rats out of season. Two convictions are reported for trapping muskrat out of season. Under an order of the conservation commission protected, may be trapped only during the open rat season.

Among the less numerous convictions for violations of various deer laws are: headlighting deer 7; illegal killing or possession of doe, 25; illegal possession of venison other than doe, 28; killing or possession of fawn, 7. Eight convictions are listed for illegal possession of partridge.

Seth A. Caldwell, South Bend, Ind., received the most severe penalty of any of the 622 violators listed. Convicted of perjury to obtain a resident deer license, Caldwell paid fine and costs totaling $235.

It is that Italy looks to the United States to help her adjust her financial and economic problems. Large sums have already been loaned to companies in Italy by American investors and there is talk of a huge loan for the Italian government, Count Volpi, Italian financial expert, has recently visited the United States and probably reported on the state of public opinion. Unless there is a more favorable impression of Italian foreign policies the flotation of a loan would naturally be difficult. Also the American government is very much interested in whether Signor Mussolini and Foreign Minister Briand of France can get together and straighten out the differences which prevented France and Italy from signing the London naval treaty. The signature of Italy to the naval pact would probably have a profound effect here in confirming the friendly tenor of Signor Mussolini's New Year's message.

Student Absolved Of Responsibility In Girl's Death

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 3 (AP)—Robert L. Williams, 18, University of Texas sophomore, was absolved by a grand jury today of responsibility in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Elizabeth Johnson, 16, shot to death a week ago. Williams was released from bond of $10,000 posted in Port Arthur, where the shooting took place. A charge of murder had been filed by an uncle of the girl.

The youth, who had gone from his home in Austin to Port Arthur, where his father, the Rev. S. W. Williams, formerly was pastor of the First Methodist church, south, to spend Christmas, told officers he did not know how Miss Johnson, whom he had hoped to marry, was shot.

He said he drove with her to the study of the Rev. Glenn Flinn, his father's immediate successor as pastor of the Port Arthur church, and left her in his automobile while he went in to request the minister to intercede for him in an effort to effect a reconciliation with Miss Johnson.

Grove Rouse Loses Position On Public Utilities Comish

Lansing, Jan. 2 (AP)—With the changing of the state administration Grove M. Rouse, for several years head of the bus division of the public utilities commission, was dismissed today and in his place former Representative Joseph E. Warner was appointed.

While the commission technically made the change it was understood it was suggested by Governor Wilber M. Brucker. In the recent primary campaign Rouse openly and actively supported Alex J. Groesbeck for the Republican nomination for governor. After the election Brucker is said to have suggested to Governor Green that Rouse be ousted, but the ex-governor refused.

Wayne Jury Meets Again Next Monday

Detroit, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Wayne county grand jury's investigation of the slaying of Radio Announcer Jerry Buckley will be resumed Monday with the appearance of witnesses and the consideration of information turned up by investigators since the last session.

Three of the witnesses on Monday's list are police officers who were called to the La Salle hotel early on the morning of July 23, shortly after Buckley was slain. The other three made up a group of men who were talking in the lobby when the gunman entered and shot the radio announcer.

The policemen are Sgt. Clyde Zimmer and Patrolmen Felix Beasley and Gregory J. Schiel. The other three witnesses, Rex Loxlar, Eddie Rosenberg and Morris Bassett, have appeared before the jury before.

Body of Diekema Arrives In Holland

Holland, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Accompanied by a delegation representing the state of Michigan, the body of Gerrit John Diekema, United States minister to The Hague, arrived here today to receive the final honors of the nation, state and city. Burial will be made here Monday afternoon.

The body of Mr. Diekema, under escort of the state delegation and another representing the city, was taken from the railway station to the Diekema home, where it will lie until tomorrow, when at 2 p. m. it will be placed in state in the Hope Memorial chapel.

The widow, the son, Willis A. Diekema, and daughter, Mrs. J. M. Rodger of Chicago, accompanied the body here from New York.

Impressive, but simple public funeral services will be carried out Monday afternoon in the Hope Memorial chapel. There will be an oration by U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, for years an intimate friend. A choir will sing some of the favorite hymns of Mr. Diekema.

Bonds of Farmer And Son Reduced

Cadillac, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Bond of Ralph Nutter, 19 year old farmer charged with smashing a bottle of alleged intoxicating liquor to prevent its seizure by a deputy sheriff, was ordered reduced from $1,000 to $500 today at a hearing in circuit court before Judge Fred S. Lamb. The bail of James Nutter, father of Ralph, was reduced from $1500 to $500. James Nutter is charged with possession and transporting a pint of liquor.

Earlier this week, bonds of the two men were reduced by Records Judge E. J. Millington for a few hours and then, as preparations for securing their release were being carried forward, Judge Millington changed his mind and restored the bond requirements to the original amounts.

Arrest of Ralph Nutter for breaking the bottle is the first attempt in the history of the county to enforce the statute covering that offense.

English Farmers Demand Merchants Give Them Food

England, Ark., Jan. 3 (AP)—Farmers estimated to number 500 or more stormed the business section of the town today, demanding food and threatening to forcibly take it from merchants before a hurried call to the Red Cross produced authorization of food distribution. More than 200 were provided with food but 66 still stood in line tonight.

George E. Norris, attorney, spoke to the farmers, practically all of whom were white men, but his speech was frequently interrupted by those in the crowd, from which shouts of "We want food," and "Give us food for our starving families," were heard.

Republican row and the dismissal of employees by the newly organized power commission.

While no legislative action is in prospect on any of these, considerable ammunition for debate is involved in each.

Consideration of the $6,000,000 appropriation authorized for loans to the drought stricken farmers will get first attention next week in the house. Speaker Longworth said Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee also will give immediate attention to this appropriation and its immediate passage is expected.

On Tuesday the senate appropriations committee will begin hearing the officers in touch with unemployment and relief problems and on the basis of this inquiry is believed to rest the prospects for relief legislation above that recommended by President Hoover.

"I think we will avoid an extra session," said Senator Watson, "for I believe congress can do its work. But there is no certainty that the session will be avoided."

Guerrilla Warfare Flares Again In Nicaragua; 2 Hurt

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 3 (AP)—Guerrilla warfare flared again today in the densely wooded country between Totogalpa and Ocotal, and in a brush with Sandino followers two United States marines were seriously wounded.

The wounded men are Privates James Robert Earnhardt, of Concord, N. C., and David Monroe Kirkendall, of Chicago. Earnhardt suffered a serious wound in the spine. It was said Kirkendall probably would recover. They were brought here by airplane.

After the battle their comrades, under command of Captain Ernest Russell, pushed on toward Ocotal, driving their opponents before them.

When news reached Ocotal of the clash, which followed closely upon that of Wednesday in which eight marines were killed and two wounded by the insurgents, another marine patrol set out to aid in the pursuit.

The name of the insurgent leader in the newest assault on the marines was not known, but he is supposed to be Miguel Ortez, famous Sandino chieftain.

Einstein Lights His Pipe; Starts Intensive Work

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP)—Albert Einstein lit his pipe today and went to work.

"He puffs so much when he is in 'deep thought'" explained Fran Elsa, the professor's wife, in telling how he finds much pleasure in his pipe.

It is a straight stemmed pipe, with him all the time like the pencil in his jacket pocket. The two work together, pencil and pipe, as his thought expands in the endless circles that embrace matter and space, making the universe.

The pipe is not lit during press interviews, for he regards them as diversions. Then it is used as a pointer for emphases.

Today he spent most of his time in one of the monastic-like cells at the California Institute of Technology, called laboratories.

Dr. Paul Sophus Epstein, professor of theoretical physics at the institute commended in thought with the Berlin mathematician. Epstein has an intimate understanding of the general principle of relativity and has been of great help to Einstein.

Franklin Dodge Ordered Held by Court In Detroit

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Franklin L. Dodge, former investigator for the federal prohibition service, was ordered held for the federal court in Detroit today pending his possible return to Savannah, Ga., to face charges of perjury.

Dodge's case which has been pending for several months came before U. S. Commissioner Joseph H. Dunnebacker today. The commissioner ruled that final decision as to whether Dodge should face the government's charges of perjury would rest with the federal court.

Commerce Comish Formally Notified Of Planned Merger

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission was notified formally today of the desire of eastern railroad executives to consolidate all eastern lines except those in New England into four major systems, but it gave no indication of its attitude.

The commission acknowledged receipt of a communication informing it that an agreement had been reached among the roads. The commission said it assumed that the plan was forwarded by the executives for its information only, pending further steps.

The acknowledgments went to Presidents W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania railroad, Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio; P. E. Crowley, of the New York Central and J. J. Bernet, of the Chesapeake and Ohio, who worked out the proposed four system plan.

The notification of the executives was considered today at a meeting of the commission. Speculation in railroad circles still centered upon whether the cartons proposing their consolidations or whether the commission would be expected, if it approved, to amend its own plan promulgated last December.

Hours before it was known the girl was murdered, her brother, Vernon, and other members of her family, had coffee together, leaving six cups unwashed on a table. That night an undertaker discovered the bullet wound. The next night Patrolman Langdon was detailed to the house with a special guard.

Denies Connection
At this time, Shelby said, Langdon was not under suspicion and police in searching the house had found only one shell, this on the floor beside the girl's bed.

Yesterday morning, Shelby said, Langdon turned over the shell he said he had found in one of the coffee cups, along with a bullet, which he said he found embedded in the floor under the girl's bed. He was detained and detectives took from his person a .25 calibre pistol. At his home they discovered another .25 calibre pistol in an old ice box.

Langdon denied any connection with the murder, the inspector said, but said that while patrolling his beat, on which the house is located, he had walked up to a door and peeped through at the sleeping girl early Wednesday morning.

Shelby said he had information that the girl complained to her family several times that the patrolman was annoying her.

Shelby said Langdon had killed two persons in line of duty while assigned to prohibition work but that in each case he had been absolved.

The $1,000 went to M. A. Tuve, L. R. Hafstad and C. Dahl, of the Department of Terrestrial Magnetism, Carnegie Institution, Washington, for their paper read Wednesday before the American Physical society here.

The three scientists announced they were able to produce still more penetrating rays from a 5,000,000-volt tube, but no measurements of these had been taken. The rays from a tube having this volume are equivalent to those given off by 112,000,000 worth of radium.

DEATH INQUEST TO BE MONDAY

Carl Hansen of Cornell Brother of Missing Trombley Man

A coroner's inquest will be held at Escanaba Monday afternoon at four o'clock in an attempt to establish the identity of a man whose burned remains were found in the ashes of a log cabin near Trombley last week.

Not enough of the body was left to make it recognizable, but the man is believed to have been Victor Hansen, 52, who had been living at this camp cabin, owned by Ed Hart. The barrel and metal portions of a shotgun were found beside the remains of the body, and authorities will also seek to determine at the inquest whether the man met his death from a shotgun charge or was burned to death with the cabin.

Carl Hansen of Cornell, a brother of the missing man, Victor Hansen, will be among those present at the inquest Monday. The Cornell resident, who is the only living relative of Victor Hansen in this country, talked to his brother about a week before the incident at Trombley. He said that he would be unable to definitely identify the remains. The only thing he noticed his brother wearing when last seen was a gold ring on his little finger, but it is believed that this was melted in the fire which destroyed the body.

Officers are hoping to have the gun parts identified by Gus Sage, who reported his own shotgun was missing when he returned from work in the woods the night of the fire.

Residents of the community in the glow of a fire about 10 p. m., but concluded it was a burning brushpile and no one investigated until the next morning. The sheriff's department has been in touch with Victor Hansen's employer and other neighbors who talked with the missing man recently, and these persons have all been summoned to attend the inquest.

Waucedah Was Lively Village When Breen Mine Ran Full Blast

Waucedah, Mich., Jan. 3 (Special)—Forty-five years ago, if the name of Waucedah was mentioned in connection with the usual items of conversation, the listener would readily see in his mind's eye that thriving village in all its picturesque gaiety. For it was a gay town in those days when the Breen mine employed more than five hundred men shortly after its opening somewhere in the vicinity of 1878.

Eight saloons catered to the wants of the thirsty. Three hotels furnished the accommodations of all those who cared to pay for them. Two general stores supplied the hundred and one necessities of the miners and their families.

Klondike Dan's Saloon "Yea, sirree, it was a great town in those days," said Mrs. John Rochon, proprietress of the general store of Waucedah. "You couldn't think so to see it now. We've got a picture of the town taken in 1885 and we couldn't even find our own home on it. It's that crowded."

The general store which Mrs. Rochon keeps today is located in the rear of one of Waucedah's most famous saloons. Klondike Dan's place. The building itself is well over fifty years old and the garish name is emblazoned across the doorway. A little below the name is a large blob of orange and brown paint mixed to produce a bonanza masterpiece for all who care to see.

In 1885, with the Breen mine operating at its maximum capacity, there must have been nearly a thousand people in the town. Today there are only sixty voters in the village.

Farming Country Now From a mining community, the place has changed into a haven of farmers and dairymen. The surrounding countryside is well adapted to farming although this is not apparent to the casual observer. Waucedah, observed in the wintertime from the top of the hill which leads off U. S. 2, seems a rather desolate and barren village. A closer inspection reveals what is a homelike and cozy retreat sunk well into the shelter of the high hills which were once the scenes of busy mining activities. Electric lines have been installed for a number of years and the power is supplied by the Twin Falls power system of Iron Mountain.

Originally the mines which were discovered and prospected were very good investment projects. The Breen mine was owned by the two Breen brothers who were prominent mining men of the "eighties" and numerous other stockholders of the communities surrounding Waucedah. Directly opposite the Breen mine is the Emmett, another mine which is fully as large or larger than the Breen. The Breen is a shaft mine and the shaft, which is well littered with the debris of the years, is hundreds of feet deep.

The Emmett is of the open pit type. The pit is two hundred feet deep and has been further exploited beyond this point. At present it is filled with water and looks like an excellent skating rink.

Suspended in 1907 Between 1885 and 1907 the date when operations were definitely suspended on the Breen, there were three shutdowns which foretold the coming of the end for these mines. In the beginning the mines were money makers because they were among the first mines opened in the Upper Peninsula. The fact that the ore was low grade and difficult to mine made scant difference because there was a demand for the ore at that time. With the discovery of new operations such as Virginia and Hibbing, Minn., mines such as the Breen could no longer afford to operate.

Reading the dates on the boilers which date 1905 it is possible that the company itself had slight knowledge that it was soon to suspend operations in the year 1907. It is also significant to note that the tracks of this mine were not removed until 1918 when it must have been definitely established that the mine was through as a producer.

Fourth Grade—Frederick Deno, Eleanor Deno, Kenneth Larson, Elizabeth Ferguson, Margaret Sauter, Richard Larsen, Llewellyn Larson. Fifth Grade—Dorothy Larson. Sixth Grade—Clarence Stonecliff, Lawrence Deno, June Anderson. Seventh Grade—Rayfield Gardner, Viola Irving, Robert Larson. Eighth Grade—Oscar Larsen. The perfect attendance honor roll for December:

May Reopen Mine However, sales of the stock have been made within the last five years. Attorney Carpenter of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was the lawyer for the Breen interests reported the sale of $40,000 of the stock in 1925. This would seem to indicate that all hopes are not yet dead for the revival of the Breen.

Recent news dispatches reveal that Henry Ford has secured the Blueberry Mine, a mine of low grade ore, for special purposes for which he thinks this ore is suited. The Breen mine is also a low grade ore mine and its facilities for shipping are excellent. It is within one hundred yards of the Chicago and North Western line, and mine tracks could easily be installed at little cost. It is generally agreed that the only reason the Breen shut down for was on account of the low grade of the ore produced. If the Ford interests have developed a method of using this ore to advantage some of the other motor manufacturers may discover a use for it also thus creating a demand for ore such as is in the Breen and Emmett mines.

Some of the inhabitants still get a thrill out of the occasional rumor that sometimes is wafted about "The Breen is going to open up again." Then the old-timers picture the times of yore when miners swarmed the streets of Waucedah, a hardworking, hard drinking, hard fisted lot. They see again the bars, eight of them, remember, lined three deep with the droves of mine workers drinking, fighting, cursing, and generally having a good time much the same as another class of empire builders, the lumber jacks.

FORGOT LICENSE Aaron Leventhal and his assistant, Lester Gordon, both of Rogers City, engaged in the fur buying business, failed to obtain the proper license before starting operations. Their activities were halted when they were haled into court by conservation officials and assessed total fines and costs of $167.45 by Justice John Pettifger of Atlanta, Mich. Millions of fish were destroyed by drought last summer in at least 19 states.

Mrs. A. Tousignant, Schafer Resident, Dies On Saturday Mrs. Amede Tousignant, 59, a resident of Schafer for the past 27 years, died at the family home Saturday morning at 8 o'clock after an illness of two years due to a complication of diseases. Mrs. Tousignant, the former Miss Virginia LeRoux, was born June 27, 1871, in St. Pierre les Bequets, Quebec, and came to Michigan about 30 years ago, making her home at Ferronville and later going to Schafer. She was a member of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters and St. Anne's Sodality, and an active worker in the church. Mrs. Tousignant is survived by her husband, Amede Tousignant, and the following sons and daughters: William of Big Bay, Mich., Alcide of Chicago, Edward, serving in the U. S. Army and stationed at San Pedro, Cal., Thomas and Louis of Schafer, Mrs. Julia Vashow of Sagola, Mrs. Eugene Simard, Mrs. Eli Taylor of Schafer, and Mrs. Lucian Fish of Stephenson. Three brothers and one sister, Tim LeRoux of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Alfred LeRoux of Duluth, Minn., James LeRoux of Westbury, N. H., and Mrs. Alcide Gagnon of Marquette, Mich.; also fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild survive.

The body was prepared for burial at the Allo funeral home and was removed to the family home at Schafer Saturday evening. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church with Rev. Fr. Philip de Neri Jutra as celebrant at the solemn requiem high mass. Interment will be made in the family lot in the Schafer cemetery.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MICHIGAN

Marilyn Miller dances into the Michigan Theatre today and tomorrow in "Sunny," the Vitaphone adaptation of her famous stage success.

This is Miss Miller's second film. Her first, "Sally," was one of the most popular pictures ever produced. Despite the fact that the dialogue was in English, the picture "packed them in" in practically every foreign country.

Miss Miller holds a unique place on the American stage. She is so outstanding as a dancer and as a light comedy opera star that she has no competition. There is no other actress with her combination of talents who can challenge her supremacy.

"Sunny" is a different type of picture from "Sally," but the same comedy prevails. Miss Miller introduced a number of novelties in dancing. There is no chorus in the picture.

Lawrence Gray, Joe Donahue, O. P. Heggie, Judith Vosselli and Barbara Bedford are among those in the supporting cast. William A. Selter directed for First National.

AT THE DELFT

Charles Rogers is given splendid support in his most recent starring picture, "Along Came Youth"—a romantic comedy about a young American sportsman stranded in England.

Stuart Erwin is the chief fun-provider. He was in "Dangerous Nan McGrew," "Sweetie," "Young Eagles" and "Playboy of Paris."

Frances Dee, Maurice Chevalier's sweetheart in "Playboy of Paris" is Rogers' girl friend. William Austin, the English character comedian of "Sweetie" fame, is a skittish aristocrat. Evelyn Hall is a doughty dame. Leo White is an impetuous South American; Mathilde Comont is his

Dollarville Founded By Famous Lumbering And Shipping Magnate

By Marjorie H. Morrill
Newberry, Jan. 3. (Special)—Captain Bob Dollar is remembered in Luce county as a "raw-boned, sandy Scotchman with a healthy color." Not much change in him, according to the old timers, who watch each new portrait of him they see in newspapers and magazines. For the little village of Dollarville, just a short distance to the west of Newberry on the Tahquamenon river was founded by and named for the famous founder and owner of the Dollar round-the-world steamship line.

The story of the village, now one of the ghost towns of the Peninsula, is not easy to trace. As far as can be learned from old records the first land in that locality was filed against by two men, David Preston and John L. Harper in 1872. Just who those gentlemen were is not clear. It is thought that they were English or Scotch "as the woods were full of them at that time," a local man remembers. At any rate nothing was done with the property for a decade when an organization composed mostly of Scotchmen, among whom was Dollar, was completed. Articles of incorporation for this company appear to never have been on file. Newberry was just getting a start, the first tree being cut in this village in May of that year. A saw mill was built on the Tahquamenon, a crew hired, homes built for them, a store and boarding house made ready and all set for a prosperous business when it was found that the company had no timber. That commodity, however necessary for the successful mill business, had in some manner, gotten into the hands of individuals. The company failed. The Peninsula Land Company, Ltd., was next in order. This was composed of Detroit gentlemen, among whom were Frances Palmer and the McMillans, founders for these families the great fortunes which they still hold. Their charter did not allow them to lumber so the Dollarville Lumber Company was organized. This was along about 1887.

fat, but gay wife. And there are the five Neetsfoot Boys, appearing along with the general fun.

Several hundred nice residences were built, camps flourished, in the woods and saloons in the town. There were Scots, Swedes, Frenchmen, English, and plain Americans swaggering along the board walks on a Sunday and adding their chapter of colorful romance to the story of the Upper Peninsula. Many of their children and grand-children are still here.

Lived in Marquette Robert Dollar did not make his home here for any length of time. He kept his residence in Marquette, but spent a good deal of time at the mill and offices and at the home of his stepmother for whom he built a house in Newberry. This is the place now known as the Herb Duff house and was first standing at the corner of Newberry avenue and West John street, where the J. P. R. Realty store is now located. Here Mrs. Dollar, a gentle little lady and a devotee church woman, kept house for her sons, William and Joseph who were also lumbermen, operating in the north part of the county. A son-in-law by the name of Proudfoot also lumbered, working for Bob Dollar. His camps were back of the Higback near Twin Lakes to the south of Newberry, the logs being hauled on winter roads to the Dollarville mill.

Joe was taken sick with typhoid one summer while at camp. They brought a boat to Deer Park and put him aboard, starting with him to the Sault, but he died before they got there. That was more than 40 years ago, the older ones remember. The rest of the Dollars left here later, Mrs. Dollar leaving somewhere around thirty six or seven years ago. Many Newberry women remember this nicely-spoken woman. For years she was a faithful teacher and worker in the Presbyterian church.

Lumbermen Had Troubles It was never easy going for any company located at Dollarville. There may be many reasons for this. Beside modern methods the old ways now appear wasteful and costly. Men became rich but the companies and the town did not prosper. The Tahquamenon was never an easy stream to manage. Lumbermen say that more money was lost in it than ever was earned. And some odd things were attempted at times. Tahquamenon is believed to be the only river in the world that ever was driven upstream. A boat was built at Dollarville. It was after the manner of the Ohio river boats with a paddle-wheel at the stern, and was operated by Captain Joe Hurst, a lame man. Logs were strung together and towed upstream. Sometimes they managed fairly well but when the current was swift it took a lot of fuel to feed the boilers and in low water the boat could not turn around. After a brief trial the craft was abandoned. A year or so ago the old timbers could still be seen on the banks of the stream.

Tahquamenon also had a bad habit of giving trouble in high water, backing up so that the fires of the mills at Dollarville and Newberry were put out. The Peninsula Land Company, after much legislation and trouble got permission from the state to lower the Big Falls but found that impossible. They spent thousands of dollars, however, in blasting the ridge at the head of the rapids, lowering the stream enough so that the river no longer caused that particular trouble but it also made a swifter current against which the boat could not compete.

Mill Ruins Still There Dollar left this locality after a few years. The village has had many ups and downs but never the prosperity it knew during its first decade and a half. The American Lumber company took a partner, William Ducey. Then Danaher and Melindy Company of Ludington took hold and ran for a time. The South Shore Cedar and Scott and Talbot were the last of concerns to manage the property.

Two bad fires nearly wiped out the village and all of the best buildings were razed, never to be replaced. Now there is the old ruin of the mill, the mill dam still spreads the golden water over a large territory, making excellent swale land for water birds and musk-rats. Few of the old families still remain. Many of them have moved out of the locality, others now live in Newberry. The school house, a few years ago a three-room structure, has been cut up and now makes several dwellings and a woodshed or so. The swamp country between the two towns is being slowly drained and homes are being built along the Dollarville road, where a few years ago, the bull-frog chanted and cat-tails waved. The village street is now a part of M 28. Where oxen and log teams once strained at high-

Negro Miners Find Ishpeming Rather Cold Place

Ishpeming, Mich.—The Inland Steel Co. which is opening the Greenwood mine six miles southwest of Ishpeming has reduced its shaft sinking crew to a few men until "stringers," on which the hoisting equipment rides, can be set in place. Following the sinking of a concrete shaft by 70 negroes, white miners have been put to work "sinking" through the solid rock. The shaft is to go down 1,000 feet.

Negroes were "imported" to Ishpeming by the Foundation Co., which had the contract to put in the concrete shaft by the caisson method. The negro labor was procured through employment offices in Chicago, St. Paul, Kansas City, Mo., and Pittsburgh, Pa. Work Takes Heavy Toll.

The first crew of negro workers came to Ishpeming from Chicago, where they had signed up as "experienced sand hogs." All claimed to have worked under air pressure and officials believed them until after two days' work the "bends" or calcium disease began to take effect. A few hours after the first case developed one of the negroes had died and three others were in serious condition at the Ishpeming hospital. Every other man on the job quit the mine and left Ishpeming as rapidly as possible, some of them not even taking time to draw their pay checks.

A Foundation official then took charge of hiring the negroes and only men with actual experience under air pressure were signed up. The negroes earned $6 for two hours' work and some of them worked three two-hour shifts a day. After the first payday Ishpeming merchants began doing a remarkable business in the more flashy apparel.

Some of the negroes opened bank accounts and others sent money home; others spent so freely that they did not have rail-loaded but sleighs, automobiles now whiz past at a speed never dreamed of in the old days, and gas stations have replaced the lumber-jacks saloon.

Over on the western coast "Bob" Dollar has made a name for himself which is known around the earth and as "Cappy Ricks" in the books by Peter B. Kyno is known by thousands of readers. The little village, which he founded half a century ago dwindles yearly.

Season Is "Open" to Feed Pheasant

Lansing — Somebody recommended an "open season" for the winter feeding of Michigan's pheasants and quail. There's nothing wrong with that, according to the game division of the Conservation Department. Legislative action is unnecessary and the Conservation commission does not have to act, unless it be to applaud. It's a matter for the hunters themselves to handle, either individually or as clubs or associations.

After January 1 there will be practically no hunters in the pheasant territory, excepting possibly a few who will hunt mink and skunks. Yet this is the season when the ground feeding birds face their greatest dangers. Ice and deep snow will cover food supplies, and some of the larger hawks and owls will find easy prey among the birds.

For suggestions as to winter feeding methods send for the Department's bulletin on this subject; address the game division, Conservation Department, Lansing.

Delta County Vets Plan to Entertain Legion Commander

All Legion posts in Delta county are expected to participate in the affair, which will be featured by a 6:30 banquet, the place and other details to be announced later. Arrangements are in charge of County Commander Tom Dufour and the following committee: M. Beaudoin, C. J. Corcoran, E. L. Brotherton and L. A. Hoyler.

POLAR VOYAGE IS PLANNED BY CAPT. WILKINS

It is to determine whether it is possible to establish one or more permanent meteorological bases on the polar ice. There are to be 32 permanent stations within the arctic circle, and twelve new stations within the arctic. These, correlated with other stations now existing, will make it possible to forecast seasonal conditions with accuracy.

Sir Hubert's flights from his Alaskan base in 1928, as well as his flight over the north pole, failed to reveal any land points, but he believes it possible to find ice of sufficient permanence to build stations. The entire meteorological project will be under the direction of the Aero-Arctic Society. It has headquarters in Berlin, but will be supported by every nation in the northern hemisphere.

"Our second object," he continued, "will be to collect compass data, and high air observations for the probable establishment of air lines across the arctic circle. I believe these lines are sure to come because of their tremendous savings in intercontinental distances.

"We must make a particular study of compasses, since the magnetic compass is useless at the magnetic pole and the gyro type is useless at the north pole. Only by a combination of these two will accurate navigation be possible."

Starting from Spitzbergen about July 1, Sir Hubert plans to cruise through the Greenland Sea, making observations on the inflow and outflow of water in the Arctic Ocean. From the edge of the ice field, where the vessel must submerge, he intends to move at a cautious four knots an hour, stopping every fifty miles on a zig-zag course across the pole for the craft's big circular drill atop the conning tower to penetrate the ice.

Through this opening the men will emerge and, while Diesel engines charge the storage batteries of the electrically driven Nautilus, they will devote eight hours each day to the collection of scientific data. Captive balloons will carry instruments aloft for high aerial recordings and aerial photographs.

As the bow of the boat is an observation chamber from which other scientists will study marine life. Special air locks underneath will permit divers to descend for the collection of samples, or to make minor repairs.

The entire expedition is an 11-year-old dream of Sir Hubert Wilkins. Before he began his explorations in the arctic and antarctic he realized that there was much more than fantasy and romance in such a trip through the only absolutely unexplored regions of the world.

Only Practical Method
"And this is the only way," he pointed out, "that such extensive research could be accomplished. Our instruments alone, for instance, weigh 15 tons, and provisions for the men will weigh another 20 tons. Imagine trying to transport anything like that weight either by dog team or by aircraft.

"There are dangers, of course, many of them. But I really believe that the trip under the ice will be less dangerous than our journey through the open sea. We have provided the largest possible factors of safety for every detail. We shall have fuel and food supplies enough for two years. We hope, however, to finish the cruise within about two months.

"Contrary to general belief, the temperature of the water will be only from 27 to 33 degrees Fahrenheit. Nor will there be any danger of encountering submerged bergs for there are none in the solid ice fields. Most of the time we expect to find the ice overhead only from two to ten feet in thickness. At the same time, we have ice drills 60 feet long which can be used to admit air in an emergency."

In case the power should fail, all of the apparatus is designed to be operated by hand. And since the vessel will have a positive buoyancy at all times it would rise against the ice when not under power, thus allowing the men to cut their way to the surface. Powerful radio equipment will permit two-way communication with civilization whether the Nautilus is submerged or on the surface.

Vast Depths Threaten
Collision, or crushing by heavy flocs, still remain the greatest dangers. The men prefer not to dwell too long on the thought of the vast, dark depths which always will lie below them. Between Spitzbergen and the pole, Roald Amundsen made a sound- ing of more than 14,000 feet through the ice. Wilkins himself, while north of the Bering Sea, dropped a line to 18,500 feet— more than three miles.

"The personnel is being chosen with greatest care," Wilkins said. "The crew will be composed entirely of men who have seen naval service on submarines. Scientists have been recruited from America, Germany, Norway and England."

The master of the submarine will be Sloane Danenhower, Annapolis graduate of 1907 and veteran submarine technician. In 1918 he was put in charge of all Allied salvage operations off the coast of France.

Dr. H. U. Sverdrup, chief scientist of the Norwegian Geophysical Institute, with seven years of arctic experience, will be chief of the scientific staff.

WOMEN DRIVERS BEST

London — Women automobile drivers, according to Stenson Cooke, secretary of the Automobile Association, are better than men. "I am all for the woman driver," he says. "We have 430,000 members and 60,000 women drivers. I'll put the 60,000 women drivers against any 60,000 of the remaining men drivers any time."

EXPORT TRADE IN CARS DROPS

Automobile Industry Had 3,505,000 Units in 1930 Production

Detroit (AP)—Preliminary figures on the automobile industry for 1930, as compiled by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, place the year's production of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada at 3,505,000 units having a total wholesale value of $2,159,600,000. The figures, subject to some slight revision when final production records for December are available, compare with a total output of 5,621,709 cars and trucks produced in 1929, with a wholesale value of $3,576,645,881.

Parts and accessories for replacement and service equipment produced in 1930 had a wholesale value of $527,800,000, while tires produced for replacement were valued, wholesale, at $429,000,000, for a combined total wholesale value of $1,106,400,000. A year ago the total covering the same output aggregated $5,142,315,542.

A falling off in export trade amounting to 44 per cent is shown in the analysis. The number of American motor vehicles sold outside the United States is placed at 661,000 units compared with 997,111 vehicles a year ago. It is interesting to note that only 625 vehicles were imported during the year. The exported vehicles, parts and tires were valued at $344,700,000. The chamber's figures place the world registration of automobiles at 35,513,000, of which 26,713,000 are listed in the United States. It estimates that taxation on automobiles in 1930 yielded $1,010,000, but gives the aggregate expenditure on highways and streets at $2,200,000,000.

Found Not Guilty

Marquette—A five-man jury in municipal court yesterday found four chocolate township young men not guilty of being drunk and disorderly, after a rather lengthy trial conducted by Clarence E. Lott, prosecuting attorney.

The Chocolate men, Richard Ratke, Emil Gutman, Raymond Dupras and Joseph Miner, were arrested early this week on complaint of Orville Weiger, 16-year-old Chocolate township boy, who alleged that they had prohibited him from driving his car away from the town hall following a Christmas program on the night of December 19 and that they were intoxicated. They were arraigned here Tuesday and demanded a trial.

Glorifying Yourself

By Aletha Hart

Dame nature may have cheated you when she was giving out those perfectly arched eyebrows about which poets sing.

Darkening eyebrows for beauty's sake was done centuries ago, if we are to believe archaeologists who have found pots of paint buried with mummies.

Today, darkening the eyebrows is a matter of choosing the right shade of eyebrow pencil, using it restrainedly, but first of all deciding just what arch you want.

The safest way to beautify the brows is to merely emphasize their natural line of arch or straightness until you make sure that it is or is not as becoming to you as another line would be.

Should Watch Shadow. Choose a brown, blue, black, mauve or other colored eyebrow pencil to match up with your brow's own tone.

To darken your eyebrows, merely take your pencil in your hand just as you would an ordinary pencil and trace a line over

Book Survey

In "Imperial Palace," Arnold Bennett makes the curious experiment of using a modern hotel as his leading character.

Perhaps that is over-stating it a little bit. This fat novel has the usual complement of human being, who get mixed up in the usual conflicts that go to make the usual novel; but it is the great, sumptuous London hotel which provides both the title and most of the narrative.

All of this makes for a somewhat unusual novel. It may be that Mr. Bennett has tried to project his hotel as a sort of symbol for all modern life; an elaborate and complicated mechanism, interesting and glittering, but specious and soulless. Certainly the hotel overshadows any of the people in the novel.

Now a hotel is a thing worth reading about, and in that sense "Imperial Palace" is entertaining. But after all, when you've seen one hotel you've seen them all. The book seems to me to miss fire, just a little. When you finish it you certainly do feel as if you had gone through a great hotel from top to bottom, from the laundry to the bridal suite; but you haven't really met anyone on your tour, and you don't care very greatly if you ever repeat the experience.

"FOR MEN ONLY" "For Men Only" is a strange and dizzy sort of novel. Its central character is the flamboyant lady proprietor of a very highly gilded establishment, the name of which is not given. The kind that used to be spoken of as "white shudders," as a house of ill fame; and the author, Bel Brown, leads this lady through some of the most unbelievable adventures that any lady of the class ever encountered anywhere.

I can see no good reason why an author should not write a book of that kind of setting, surely, in this outspoken era, a symbol for all modern life; an elaborate and complicated mechanism, interesting and glittering, but specious and soulless. Certainly the hotel overshadows any of the people in the novel.

Today's Bridge

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY Sec'y, American Bridge League During the week of the national championship tournament the various new champions broadcast each evening. One of the sports announcers of the radio station got into a discussion about bridge and was invited to the tournament to sit in and watch some of the games in the role of a kibitzer. The more he watched, the more confused he became, but finally he did solicit the opportunity of broadcasting one of the hands.

The following interesting hand was selected and will go down in history with the title "The hand of the four deuces." The writer will describe the play of the hand in the words of this sports announcer.

NORTH S-10-5-4-3 H-A-Q-9-5 WEST None H-K-10 D-Q-J 10-9 6-7 C-8-4 SOUTH-DEALER S-A-Q-J-8-6-2 H-6-4-2 D-6-3-2 C-2

The Bidding North was the dealer and bid one heart, South then bid one spade and that closed the calling of signals, as the announcer put it.

The Play The announcer then started to describe the play in this manner: West places his faith in the ladies and showed out the queen of diamonds. The dummy went down for the count immediately but came up strong and won the trick with the ace. Declarer false-carded with the six. The three of spades was returned from dummy. East poked out the lucky seven and the announcer decided that all bridge players were in love with the ladies when South played the queen. The brunet lady, however, won over the blond as this queen of spades held the trick. West presented the lady with a small diamond, discarding the four.

Declarer led the three of diamonds, trumping it dummy with four of spades. When the king was knocked out from the East hand, this warned declarer that East was out of diamonds. The five of spades was returned from dummy. East played the nine, and the declarer sneaked the jack through. West continued to discard diamonds. South's next lead was the six of hearts and when North played the queen and it held the trick, the announcer was thoroughly convinced that bridge was a ladies' game.

The declarer finally decided to win a trick with a large card and led the ace of hearts from dummy. South dropped the four of hearts, retaining the deuce. Now the ten of spades was led from dummy. East played the king, and South won with the ace. West continued to surrender his diamonds. The declarer now started his squeeze play by playing the eight of spades, discarding the five of clubs from dummy. East discarding the three of clubs and West the ten of diamonds. South continued with the six of spades. West discarded the eight of clubs, the five of hearts was played from dummy and East discarded the four of clubs.

If you will follow the hand closely, you will notice that the declarer's hand contains four deuces. The announcer decided that the broadcasting was over as about all the declarer could do with four deuces was to meld them if he were playing pinochle, or, if he were playing poker, he would probably call his opponents. But the declarer insisted on playing the hand out, and the

Appreciable Increase in Patronage of Carnegie Library During Year 1930

More Interest In Non-Fiction Than Ever Before

That residents of Escanaba appreciate their public library and are each year making great use of its facilities, is shown by statistics taken from the circulation records, compiled by Miss Margaret Pease, librarian, who has just completed her reports, closing the year 1930.

The past year, 1930, was the busiest in the history of the library. The circulation of books during the calendar year totaled 55,601, which represents a gain of 12,572 over the number issued in 1929. Of this number 44,296 were juvenile books and 21,205 were adult.

Seventy-nine per cent of the books issued during the year were fiction, and twenty-one per cent, non-fiction, which, comparatively speaking, has been found to be the average of libraries practically everywhere. About three and one-half per cent were from the arts and sciences; approximately three per cent from literature which included poetry, drama and the classics. History and biography were represented by a little more than three per cent and travel by two per cent of the total number of books issued.

While no record is kept of the use of the reference collection or of the reading room, the use of the reference department is increasing, and those in charge of the library make it their aim to keep the department supplied with the most up-to-date and reliable sources of information.

"The amount of non-fiction read is gradually increasing," Miss Pease said, "and every effort is being made to secure books called for by people who are studying. At present a number of residents of the city are following reading courses, using those outlined in the Reading with a Purpose series published by the American Library association, and any books called for in those courses are secured for individuals seriously following a course, upon application."

Gain Every Month

A gain of circulation every month of 1930 with the exception of the month of July, is shown by the year's report. This one month was not an average month, due to the fact that it was necessary to close the library building for ten days while reports were being made. The largest circulation was in November when the total for the month reached 10,208. The largest gain was made in December and represented an increase of 2,246 over the corresponding month of 1929.

The circulation at the Webster school station which is open during the school year one afternoon a week totaled 6,888. At St. Francis hospital, which Miss Winnifred Harvey, assistant librarian, visits one afternoon a week, the circulation for the year was 938. Several collections of books were sent to school rooms the total circulation of these amounting to 1,940.

The library has had a larger amount of money to spend for books during the past year, due to the co-operation of the city council and the library board. This fact accounts in part for the increase in library patronage. Newspaper lists and publicity, Miss Pease believes, are also a great help in promoting interest in the library.

A large number of new borrowers have registered during the year, and there are many college students whose homes are in Escanaba, who are good patrons during vacations. Many visitors in the city deposit a small fee and draw books while here. The library has 788 borrowers who reside outside of Escanaba in Delta county.

Approves County Library

County library service could be inaugurated successfully in Delta county, in the opinion of Miss Pease. "Menominee has had county-wide service for some time," she said in discussing the matter. "There is every reason to believe that it would be successful in Delta county and it would mean much to the people in smaller communities."

Church Events

Christian Science Churches "God" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science church on Sunday, January 4. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord, thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: I am the Lord thy God, which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldst go." (Isa. 48:17).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The starting-point of divine Science is that God, Spirit, is All-in-all, and that there is no other might nor mind—that God is love, and therefore He is divine Principle. To grasp the reality and order of being in His Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is." (p. 276).

Woman's Guild Meeting

The ladies of the Woman's Guild of St. Stephen's Episcopal church will hold their regular monthly meeting in the church parlors on Tuesday, January 6, at 2:30 in the afternoon. A large attendance at this meeting is desired as there are several important election matters as well as the annual election of officers to come before this meeting.

FAMOUS CHURCHES

Milan Cathedral Is Largest in Europe

The Cathedral at Milan

The cathedral at Milan, constructed through many centuries of a style of elaborate Gothic, is the largest church in Europe.

Built of brick faced in marble, the church covers an area of 14,000 square feet. The tower holds 49,000 people. The tower lifts skyward 356 feet. The interior is 189 feet wide and 486 feet long and the nave is 157 feet high.

The elaborate roof is built of blocks of marble and is ornamented with 4400 turrets, pinnacles and statues of many styles and periods. The roof is supported by 52 pillars with canopied niches for statues.

The church was begun in 1386. Among the more notable of the masters who designed the structure were Amadeo, who designed the octagonal cupola, which dates from 1774, and Tibaldi, who laid down the pavement and designed a baroque facade, which was completed in 1813 by order of Napoleon.

In a crypt under the choir lies the body of the cardinal saint, Carlo Borromeo, who consecrated the cathedral in 1577. It is contained in a rock-crystal shrine, encased in silver, and is vested in magnificent robes blazing with jewels.

The cathedral is located in the most prosperous section of Italy. Milan is the chief financial center and the wealthiest commercial and manufacturing town in the country. From the cathedral roof, the fertile countryside presents the appearance of a vast garden divided into square spots by rows of trees.

Finds Charred Post Of Jesuits' Chapel

St. Ignace, Mich., Jan. 3.—A small section of wood unearthed within the last six months is preserved here by the Rev. Fr. J. T. Holland, pastor of St. Ignace's Roman Catholic Church, as an authentic relic of Fr. Marquette. The wood, Fr. Holland believes, is a portion of a cedar post which served as a prop to the chapel the great explorer and missionary built here in 1671 for conversion of the Indians. The chapel was burned in 1708 after Cadillac, who had quarreled with the Jesuits, induced their primitive charges to join him at Detroit.

The discovery of the fragment, which has rotted to the consistency of punk, was made last August when workmen dug a space for the 16 pillars linked with chain which now enclose Marquette monument and grave, and mark the outline of the chapel. The inclosure was dedicated Aug. 3 by the Rev. Fr. John P. McNichols, S. J., president of the University of Detroit, at a special service.

The fact that the remains of the post were found at the corner of the original mission and were charred at the top, has convinced Fr. Holland of the connection with Marquette. The local priest believes the early Jesuit explorer imbedded the post with his own hands. "There is no doubt over the relocation of the lines marking the outline of Marquette's chapel," declared Fr. Holland. "When in 1877 Marquette's bones were found in a birchbark box within the present enclosure, records showed them to have been buried beneath the altar of the mission. The Rev. Fr. Jacher, of St. Ignace, who made the discovery, traced the foundation's outline at the time."

For 171 years the secret of Marquette's chapel site had remained unsolved. Birches, pines and thick underbrush covered the area where the little French settlement and the homes of the Indians had stood. David Murray, owner of a tract of land near the bay, was surprised one day to come upon traces of a limestone foundation. He summoned Fr. Jacher, the parish priest, who could after prying all that he could from Marquette and St. Ignace, established that the distance from the foundation to the lake corresponded to the mission. "The excavation which revealed Marquette's bones was under the present mission," Fr. Holland added. "All the visible relics including the birchbark casket and a few pieces of iron were removed. The foundation was measured and mapped for future reference. Somehow for excavators missed the post, or it was lost sight of the other finds."

The explorer came to St. Ignace in 1671 and left on his voyage of discovery down the Mississippi in 1673. He died on the return trip, his faithful Indian followers burying him at the mouth of the Pere Marquette River near Ludington. He was disinterred and buried at St. Ignace in 1677. A portion of his bones are in the possession of Marquette University, Milwaukee, today. "The chapel was the first permanent building to be erected within what is today the State of Michigan," Fr. Holland concluded. "This adds to the historical value of the fragment."

A New Game A New Deal and A Winning Hand

Let's All Play 31 for All It's Worth

IN the Game of Life, as in a game of cards, we must take what Destiny deals us and play our hands with good, clean sportsmanship, win or lose.

Lady Luck is fickle in her fancies and moods. If she may have frowned on us in the deal of 1930 she is quite likely to smile upon us in the deal of 1931. Hard luck is never for long, no more than Hard Times can survive in a country so basically prosperous as this country of ours.

But Life is not all a Game of Chance. We can, if we will, influence the tide of Good Fortune because Fate abhors a "quitter" and looks with favor upon the optimist, the opportunist, the doer, the getter and those with energy and faith to persevere.

Let us determine to play this new deal for all it is worth. Let us constantly play "trump cards" so that we can take the tricks that score. Let us make the most of our strong hands... the Aces of Action, Enterprise and Co-operation supported by "Honor Cards" in every deal we pursue.

C. OF C. HAVE FIRST MEETING

Will Elect New Officers at Elks' Temple Tomorrow

The Chamber of Commerce will begin its 1931 program tomorrow evening, when members of the organization meet at the Elks' temple to elect officers for the ensuing year. At this meeting the present officers will make their reports for the past year.

The business meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6:15. It is expected that only one new officer will be elected for 1931. Frank Lied, president during the last 12 months, has declined to accept this office for another term. W. B. Thomas, secretary, will undoubtedly again be re-elected for the same position.

During the year 1930 the Chamber of Commerce has carried on an active campaign for the betterment of the city. A city wide clean up movement was sponsored by the organization, and an advertising campaign conducted throughout the mid-western states. The club has a number of beneficial projects on its program for this year.

Nomination of new officers will be in charge of a committee consisting of W. J. Shinar, M. Heinz and A. F. Hall.

LOCAL PORTER GETS WEALTH

Horatio Alger, Jr., has passed away, and the generation of boys that once read his tales of poor boys who rose to riches has grown into manhood. Yet if the master of these stories were alive today he would find good material for another novel in the story of George Coates.

George works as a porter in a local tenement parlor. He is very neat at shinning shoes, cleaning hats and clothes, and has become very popular in the city. For several years George and his wife have lived upstairs over the shop in several small rooms, leading their own life and bothering no one.

And now George announces that he is to receive $5,000 from the lady who adopted him when he was a ragged little pickinny down in Florida years ago. He asserts also that, at five year intervals, during the next 15 years, he will receive sums of $5,000 from this benefactor of his.

It seems that the Lawsons were wealthy folks that were staying down in Florida for awhile, enjoying the sunshine and warmth of the southern climate. One day Mrs. Lawson happened to give a little colored boy a friendly smile, and, unknowingly won a little heart within a little black body. Every day thereafter the little boy came to the Lawson home, bearing offerings of macaroni to the kind white lady.

When the rich folks decided to return north again they took George along with them. It was quite a change for the 9 year old youth from below the Mason-Dixon line. His body, however, formerly covered with a few tattered pieces of non-descript clothing, was now dressed in a regular suit of clothing, and for the first time in his nine years of existence, his feet were protected by shoes.

After a time Mr. Lawson died, and George, kneeling at the death bed, heard the words that settled a good sized fortune on his shoulders. After several jobs in different cities, George came to Manistique and secured a position as a porter. For several years he and his wife have resided here.

The little porter seems very un-concerned about his new wealth. When asked about his future plans he said he would remain where he is now, and spend the money in Manistique. This latter statement of George's is very commendable, and he should be given credit for his loyalty to the town.

MURDER TRIAL STARTS MONDAY

Alexander Williams to Face Trial for Slaying of Mrs. Robare

Residents of Manistique will eagerly follow metropolitan newspaper reports of the proceedings of the case of Alexander Williams charged with the murder of Mrs. Fred Robare. The case is scheduled to come up tomorrow, at the county court house, Glen Mills, Pa.

Mrs. Robare, formerly Miss Viola Kinne, of Thompson, was serving as a matron in an industrial school for boys at Glen Mills, at the time of the tragedy. One day, during the latter part of October, her body was discovered, badly cut and bearing proof of a struggle. Later Alexander Williams, 18 year old colored boy, was arrested for the alleged slaying. It was charged that Williams stabbed the woman to death with an ice pick.

The body was shipped to Manistique where burial was held. Fred Robare, who has been in this city since the funeral left the latter part of this week for Glen Mills, where he will appear as one of the principal witnesses for the state's prosecution.

REXALLS LEAD ELKS LEAGUE

The Rexalls are still leading in the Elks bowling league with one game to the good over the fighting Bear Cats and Hungary Ylgers. The Browns and Cardinals are tied for third place with three games behind the leader.

The Tigers piled up a total of 253 pins in their match against the Rexalls, which was easily the best score of the season.

en's Lions sprung into action with a mark of 244 without handicaps and downed the Paper Makers three straight.

The railbirds were given quite a few surprises, one that of John Girvin cracking the maples for a neat count of 218, and the other of Doc Powers chalking up 203. Other scores over the 200 mark were registered by Roberts and Quick.

Weber leads the individual bowlers with an average of 172, with Quick and Art Hall tied for second honors with averages of 171. Girvin, Thomas, Leonard, and George Swanson hit the pocket with regularity and countered with averages well above the usual.

Captains of the respective teams are requested to check the handicaps computed before the series gets underway. Several glaring mistakes have occurred thus which can be obviated by "check and double check."

The schedule for the week is as follows:
Sunday, Giants vs. Cardinals.
Monday, Rexalls vs. Bear Cats.
Tuesday, Tigers vs. Cubs.
Wednesday, Pirates vs. Paper Makers.
Friday, Yanks vs. Paper Makers.
Saturday, Lions vs. Maroons.

This program is dedicated to childhood and depicts the hunger of many a child to grow up into a man. In a beautiful setting two children will be playing with their toys as their father returns from the distant lands to be a man like his daddy, and his longing is the occasion for a poem and song which will be sung and illustrated by Mr. Pellowe. The pastor of the church Rev. P. L. Lomas will bring a message illustrating the childhood of the Master Himself. This address will be a survey of all the references in the scriptures to the childhood of Jesus. The church extends to all a most cordial invitation.

Halt Building Work On Cloverland Station

Building operations on the new Cloverland Oil company's gas station, on Arbutus avenue, have been temporarily halted, due to weather conditions, according to Friedolph Danielson, contractor in charge of the construction. Mr. Danielson states that work will be resumed early next spring. The station, which is to be one of the finest in the upper peninsula, was started about two months ago. Due to the inclement weather it was impossible to work steadily on the edifice, and progress has been retarded. The forms for the foundation have been erected over the excavated basement and part of the concrete has already been poured. The building, when completed, will be 40 by 42 feet with modern linings and conveniences.

Misses Inez Passenheim, Eileen Waters, Marjorie Morrison and Alice Girvin who attend Alma College, Alma, Mich., will leave tomorrow after spending the holidays at their respective homes.

BY JOHN COOLEY

New York, Jan. 3. (P)—The rail stocks tugged the entire market higher today, although the gains in all groups were considerably less than yesterday.

Submission of the four-system merger plan to the interstate commerce commission so soon after the preliminary announcement of the agreement brought another display of strength in the carrier shares.

Industrials followed less enthusiastically, despite advances in U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and others through their highs of the December 17 rally, while some utilities were buoyant. The motor issues were content to hold yesterday's gains. Oils closed higher. On the whole, few pivotal stocks, with the exception of the rails, were up more than one or two points. Sales totaled 1,547,790 shares.

When the market closed the composite of 90 issues was 10.5 points above last Saturday's final level. How much of the rally has been due to short covering, making the move a technical affair, became a matter of conjecture. Bears sold rather freely this morning on the theory that the recovery was temporary and many leading stocks were leaning "flat" when the session was over, indicating a revival of the short interest.

Steels Look Better

Improved activity in the steel and automobile industries, firmness of the commodities and continued strength of the bond market were favorable influences on sentiment. Steel mills in the Westchester district will increase their rate of production 2 per cent next week to 39 per cent of capacity.

Some of the rail stock quotations bore faint resemblances to the prices prevailing three weeks ago. Pittsburgh & West Virginia, which the merger plan places in the joint control of the four systems, soared 15 points. Baltimore & Ohio, Erie and Reading rallied 2 points. Missouri Pacific, New Haven, Washburn and Atlantic Coast Line, and New York Central, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio about one each. Some of the southwestern lines joined the advance, Atchafalaya rising 3 1/2 and Frisco 6.

The Standard Oil Shares

and several of the independents were up 1 to nearly 2 points. American Telephone led the utilities with a 3 point gain.

U. S. Steel closed at the top, 143 1/2, up 1/2. American Can, General Electric and Westinghouse lagged.

Foreign exchanges sagged with the French franc again conspicuously easy.

BY DONALD C. BOLES

New York, Jan. 3. (P)—The forward movement in the bond market continued through the short session today.

There was a liberal sprinkling of large advances in railroad, utility and industrial obligations and the movement in the foreign list straightened out as support improved. Short term Treasury issues made the largest gains in several weeks, Treasury 4 1/2 and 4 1/2 rising from 1-3 to 1 1/2 points respectively.

REINVESTMENT DEMAND

a strong market, and reversion to the easy money conditions that prevailed throughout most of the fall has enabled the bond market to stage a strong recovery this week. The advance represents a rise of 2 per cent for the week as gauged by the averages. At the close today they stood at 101 1/2 compared with 99 1/2 a week ago.

Convertible

made a rally in sympathy with stocks. There were large advances in Allegheny Corporation bonds, R. & O. 4 1/2 American International 5 1/2 Rock Island 4 1/2, American Telephone 4 1/2, General Theatres 6 1/2, Richfield Oil 6 1/2 and Warner Brothers 6 1/2.

RAILROAD ISSUES

of all descriptions advanced as in previous sessions this week, the previous for some was very brisk. Average gains, however, were not as large as yesterday, but there were many of a point or more.

Telephone and Electric company obligations moved upward. American Telephone bonds gained fractionally, and International Telephone 5 and 4 1/2 were about 2 points higher. The inquiry for some of the industrials was the best of the week-end firmer prices were the rule.

The rally in Australian bonds was a feature of the movement in the foreign section. There was a heavy demand for Italian 7 1/2 and several other European issues. Latin American bonds were dull and irregular.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

New York, Jan. 3. (P)—Stock operations in the Youngstown district next week will average 39 per cent of capacity, an increase of 2 per cent over this week. Dow Jones & Co. reports Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. activities will continue unchanged at 35 per cent, while plants of the Carnegie Steel Co. will remain at 50 per cent. Republic Steel operations will advance 10 per cent chiefly by increases in pipe production.

Linn Creek

a village of 550 inhabitants in central Missouri, will be buried under 60 feet of water when Bannell dam starts impounding the waters of the Osage river as the final step in a $30,000,000 hydro-electric project.

PETROLEUM IS GIVEN A PUSH

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER

(Associated Press Financial Writer)
New York, Jan. 3. (P)—The curb market found gushers in its petroleum division as it closed a week of recovery today.

In a turnover of 219,900 shares, the trend was definitely upward from the start of the session and most of the shares closed at the top of the day's movement.

Petroleum shares such as Gulf and Humble that were sharply depressed in the latter months of 1930, showed the greatest vitality in weeks. Gulf closed at the top of a 6 point rise, and Humble finished 6 5-8 points higher. In addition to Humble, others in the Standard group gained about a point each, and Cities Service nearly as much. Strength of this group was apparent in response to firming gasoline prices.

Leaders in the utility group moved quietly forward. Electric Bond and Share reached the best level in sometime at 45, an advance of 1 5-8. American Gas and Electric advanced more than 2 and lost but a small fraction.

In the industrial section, Wheatworth advanced 4 1/2 points following announcement that a majority of stockholders had approved its acquisition by the National Biscuit Company. It closed at 44 1/2 compared with a 1930 high of 40.

Newmont Mining gained 3-8. Aluminum of America 5-8. Driver Harris 3-8, and Ford of Canada 1-8, all sure and closed 1-8 higher.

Bevenocs Will Oppose Stambaugh Cagers Today

TILT WILL BE AT COLISEUM

Visitors Have Real Team to Put Against Escanaba Crew

The famed Johnson and Warner Brothers combinations of the Escanaba Bevenocs will get a real test at the Coliseum gymnasium this afternoon when they meet the Stambaugh Big Jo basketball team in a tilt scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock.

In a preliminary game the Ramblers will clash with the Rock cagers, both Tri-County league outfits who are among the league leaders. This game will start about 1:15 o'clock.

A record of thirteen consecutive victories backs the Escanabans in their battle with Stambaugh today but that mark has failed to impress the Big Jo boys.

Since graduating from high school, they have played on industrial league teams or with college organizations.

U. P. Briefs

Leave Public Service
Sault Ste. Marie—Two men, long in the service of the county, left office as the old year passed. Robert Holmes, for 15 years poor commissioner, was replaced by his wife, Mrs. Holmes, and Frederick Brown, for 40 years county surveyor, was replaced by Alford Colwell.

Lumberjack Slain
Ironwood—John Nidofski of Iron Mountain, brother of Stanley Nidofski, who was shot to death at a logging camp near Gogebic Station a week ago, arrived here today to make arrangements for the funeral.

Waite in Office
Crystal Falls—For the second time in 10 years, Thad R. Waite became sheriff of Iron county New Year's day. He succeeded James A. Dickie, who was sheriff for three terms, or six years.

Montreal Maroons Beat Boston Bruins
Montreal, Quebec, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Montreal Maroons came from behind in the third period to beat the Boston Bruins, 5 to 3, in a National Hockey League fixture here tonight. It was a fast and furious game with the score tied, twice. Boston had a 3-1 lead at the start of the third period and looked like easy winners until Nels Stewart and Jimmy Ward went on a scoring rampage and ran up four goals within a few minutes.

International Ski Tournament Planned
Lake Placid Club, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP)—An international ski competition which its sponsors hope may come to mean to skiing what the Davis cup means to tennis, was announced here today. It will be inaugurated here February 21-24, during the United States eastern amateur ski association championships under the sponsorship of the National Ski Association of America. The best of foreign skiers have been invited.

Boxing
Grand Rapids, Jan. 3 (AP)—Harry Dubinsky, lightweight flash of Chicago, who whipped Bruce Flowers at Milwaukee New Year's Day, has been signed to fight Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo in the 10 round main event of a boxing show here Wednesday night. Dubinsky is substituting for Wesley Ramey of Grand Rapids, who was ordered by the state boxing physician to withdraw from the bout today because of a severe attack of boils.

Many Colleges Plan To Cut Expenses of Their Sport Program

(NOTE—This is another of a series of stories based on an Associated Press survey of current college athletic conditions, trends and problems, dealing particularly with football.)

BY ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—With a few notable exceptions, colleges throughout the country, large and small, will practice strict "economy programs" for 1931. The Associated Press survey of conditions disclosed today.

Replies from more than 150 representative institutions so far have indicated a falling-off averaging approximately 15 per cent in football gate receipts.

In round figures, for the colleges and universities involved, this is estimated to represent a decline of more than $3,000,000 at the "gate" for 1930.

Ohio State Expands
At the bigger institutions, such as Yale, California, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Southern California, where college sports have reached the million dollar scale, such reductions as have been felt Illinois and Northwestern have expansion projects and Purdue has decided not to adopt its proposed curtailment of minor sports programs. Indiana has reduced the admission scale in basketball.

The Big Six and Missouri Valley Conference groups nearly all will effect economy programs. Together with the neighboring Big Ten, these schools plan to cut out long trips for track, baseball and basketball squads. On the other hand, Oklahoma A. & M., Oklahoma City and Tulsa University experienced banner football seasons and collected record gate receipts to fortify their positions for 1931.

Most southern colleges reported varying decreases and plans for some curtailment, ranging as high as 20 per cent in track, baseball and basketball for the new year.

None of the major eastern colleges have reported plans for any substantial curtailment of activities, although most of them will blue-pencil some of the athletic luxuries. Pennsylvania, Cornell, Army, Navy, Colgate, Yale, Harvard, Carnegie and Pittsburgh all have declared business will be "as usual," regardless of reduced income in 1930.

West Virginia, apparently with resources in good condition, plans to boom boxing and wrestling, also to install a new football coaching regime.

Rocky Mountain institutions have found night football profitable and plan a number of Friday night games next fall. Six of the larger and better drawing colleges—Colorado, Utah, Denver, Colorado College, Colorado Aggies and Utah Aggies—have moved toward a closer alliance to make football schedules more attractive and profitable.

Baseball and track are due for curtailment in the Southwest conference, composed largely of Texas colleges, but football programs for 1931 in that section are more ambitious than ever.

DeHart Will Go to Washington & Lee
Lexington, Va., Jan. 3 (AP)—Jimmy DeHart, retiring football monitor at Duke University, will come to Washington and Lee University as head football coach next season. An agreement has been reached between DeHart and R. A. Smith, director of athletics, Smith announced this afternoon and only approval of trustees of the university remains to make the matter official.

Basketball Topics
Penn Attack Features Fast Passing, Quick Breaking With Very Little Dribbling.
BY EVERETT S. DEAN
Basketball Coach, Indiana U.
When Lon Jourdet, former advisory basketball coach at Pennsylvania, took over the active coaching duties this year, he declared that his team would feature a fast passing attack with very little dribbling.

This style of offense is very effective and much harder to stop than one featured by the dribble. Good passing tends to get the defense out of position and encourages a five-man offense as compared with the trend to individualism in the dribbling attack.
Jolo Schaaf, high scorer of the Eastern Intercollegiate conference two years ago, was one of the main cogs in the offense diagramed here. The offense consists of fast passing by three men out in front who pass in to two men who have penetrated the defense. Fast accurate passing to men meeting the ball and cutting for basket describe this attack.
A trophy donated by Charles J. Beck, of Philadelphia, to foster international ski competition being the world's best, will be the prize.

GOLF DISTINCTION

The honor of winning the first tournament in which the new golf ball was accepted as the standard ball of play was bestowed upon Tony Manero, above, Elmsford, N. Y., golf professional who gained the distinction in the recent Pasadena Open event. It was the second straight year that Manero had won the winter season's first big money tournament in Southern California. The triumph paid him $10,000.

St. Louis Cards To Play 22 Games

St. Louis, Jan. 3 (AP)—Twenty two games have been arranged for the Cardinals for their 1931 spring exhibition schedule. It was announced tonight by Secretary Clarence Lloyd. The list, as usual, is climaxed by the two game series with the Browns of Sportsman's Park here.

The National league champions will play fifteen of the games against major league opposition, featuring in Florida, a four game series with the Cardinals, conquerors in the last world series, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. Major league games on the Cards schedule, in addition to those with the Browns and Athletics, are Yankees, Braves, Phils, Reds and Robins.

Toronto Maple Leaf Team Wins by 2 to 1

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 3 (AP)—A capacity crowd of 9,000 saw the Toronto Maple Leafs defeat the Canadiens of Montreal in a National Hockey League game here tonight, 2 to 1. The victory boosted Toronto to a tie with the Canadiens for second place in the Canadian division.

Toronto took the lead in the first period on Jackson's goal. The second period was marked by wild excitement after Sylvio Mantha had tied the score with a spectacular solo dash. Later in the same period, Blair scored the winning goal on a pass.

STILL HUNTING FOR NEW COACH

Many Candidates Being Considered to Fill California Post

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—The quest for a head coach at the University of California, to succeed Clarence M. (Nibs) Price, was completed today, so far as the east is concerned, but still has some additional territory to cover. Graduate Manager William W. Monahan told the Associated Press.

Monahan leaves tomorrow for Chicago, where he will hold additional conferences, presumably with prospective candidates for the job, before returning to Berkeley to report his findings.

"It will be several weeks, at least, before any definite announcement as to Price's successor is possible," Monahan said.

Rumors have connected dozens of names with the California position, considered as one of the most attractive in the country from the coach's standpoint, but it was reported today Monahan's list of most desirable men have been reduced to not more than a half dozen. These were understood to include Charles Bachman, present head coach at the University of Florida, a former Notre Dame player; Clark Shaughnessy, head coach at Loyola of the south, formerly at Minnesota and Tulane; William (Navy Bill) Ingram, head coach at Stanford for the past two years; Dan McGinn of Vanderbilt University; and Harry Stuhldreher, head coach at Villanova and former All-America quarterback at Notre Dame.

Previously the names of Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Bob Zuppke of Illinois were mentioned, but it is understood both expressed reluctance to consider any change.

"Your guess is as good as mine," Monahan remarked, when asked how the situation stood. "Naturally, I can't say a thing as to who will be selected until we have gone over the returns at California."

Elizabeth Bolla Scores Third Win In $3,000 Handicap

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—Elizabeth Bolla, one of the most consistent thoroughbreds of the winter season, scored her third consecutive triumph today in carrying the Colgate stable sika to victory in the $3,000 Pontchartrain handicap at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans.

Although the five-year old mare has faced the barrier seven times since the season opened, she has yet to finish out of the money. Today she met the class of the sprinters at the New Orleans track and won like a champion, covering the six furlongs in 1:12 3-5.

Under the guidance of Jockey A. Richard, Elizabeth Bolla kept close to the pace for the greater part of the journey but finished strong to defeat D. Bentham's Martin by one-half a length with Mrs. D. L. Keffer's Ben Marshall third. The winner paid $9.40 in the mutuels and won $2,590 for her owner.

Okaybe, a five-year old daughter of Omar Khayyam, with questionable staying ability, stepped the six furlongs in T:13 4-5 to win the $1,000 Elks Club handicap for Mrs. G. W. Carroll at St. John's Park. J. P. McGovern's Hacky H. was second with the well backed favorite, J. C. Ellis' Ellice, third.

Seven clever juveniles were introduced to racing in the kindergarten purse at Oriental Park, Havana, with Mrs. Ed. Springer furnishing the winner in Howe. Running like a veteran, the turf youngster easily defeated Gambia from the Paradise stock farm and H. Neusteter's Infatigable to pay 4 to 1.

Ottawa Senators Defeat Quakers

Philadelphia, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Ottawa Senators broke their losing streak here tonight and defeated the Philadelphia Quakers, 5 to 4, in an overtime National Hockey League game.

The Quakers held a 3 to 2 lead in the third period with less than five minutes to play but with Milks of the ice the home team was weakened and Touhey slammed the disc into the net and tied the score.

Boxing Lineup Calls For Battle Between Schmeling, Stribling

BY EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—Max Schmeling will defend his heavyweight title next June—but the match will take place in Soldier Field, Chicago, regardless of any action the New York state athletic commission may make Tuesday in its lengthy wrangle with the socking Teuton.

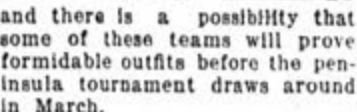

Young Bill Stribling, the pride of Georgia, and not Jack Sharkey, the Boston biffer, is slated to battle Schmeling for the championship. Red Maxie won last June on a foul from Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium. Furthermore if all goes well, the title duel will be preceded by an elimination match between Stribling and Primo Carnera, the Italian whale. In Miami, Fla., sometime in February.

This mystic peering into the crystal ball of the future is done with the assistance of Schmeling's "White House spokesman." The details of the entire plan are scheduled to become official property following the Tuesday meeting of the state fathers.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's pilot, is due to answer Tuesday the ultimatum of the commission ordering the German to fight Sharkey again here in June or find himself bereft of the title recognition. Jacobs, after lengthy communications with Schmeling in Berlin, has decided to answer the commission just as he did a week ago when the fathers gave him seven more days to reply "yes" or "no" to the Sharkey proposition.

Fight In Chicago
Jacobs will tell the commission he is ready to sign Schmeling 90 days before the match takes place for a title duel in the Yankee Stadium against the "outstanding contender" at that time. The commission if its own forecasts are accurate, will immediately reply that the answer is unsatisfactory and the heavyweight championship is as vacant if the state athletic commission is ready to sign Schmeling in the upper peninsula basketball circles takes new breath. A pretty good idea of the strength of high school cyclists will be known when the teams take up their schedules where they left off before the Christmas vacation.

Many teams which appeared to be weak sisters at the start of the season have shown flashes of form in their most recent games.

Three Teams Tied In Golf Tournament

Santa Monica, Calif., Jan. 3 (AP)—Three teams tied for first place in the first day's play in Santa Monica's $1,500 amateur-pro two day 18-hole golf tournament today with best ball scores of 66, five under par.

The three fortunate twosomes able to hammer the new ball consistently despite a heavy wind were: Fay Coleman, Los Angeles amateur, and Harold Long, Denver pro, with 31-35; Leo Diegel, pro, and Thurston Bowman, amateur, both Agua Caliente, 34-32 and V. E. Blalock, Culver City amateur with Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., pro with 34-32.

One stroke behind came Roland McKenzie, Washington, D. C., amateur and Walter Hagen, Detroit; Chuck Harlow, Long Beach, Calif., amateur, and Morrie Dutra, Long Beach pro; and Chuck Berdow, amateur and Dan Williams, pro, both of Culver City.

The remaining field of approximately 70 will tee off tomorrow.

CLEVELAND PRO LEADS GOLFERS

One Putts on Nine of 18 Greens to Come in Ahead of Field

BY REX SAFFER
Miami, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Eddie Williams, Cleveland, one-putted on nine of eighteen greens and streaked into the clubhouse at Miami Springs course today with a sizzling score of 74-70—144 for a two-stroke lead at the half way point in the 72-hole Miami-open golf tournament.

The Cleveland professional's 36-34—70 was one under par, the first such accomplishment since the tourney opened Friday.

Two strokes behind him was Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., professional who followed his 73 of yesterday with another for 146.

Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., evaded a rattlesnake hazard on the fourteenth fairway to tie with Henri Cluet, Stratford, Conn., at 147 for third place.

The professionals saw John Brown, Portland, Maine, amateur hang up a hole in one as a part of his day's accomplishment. The ace was made on the 225 yard seventh.

Williams scored an even break with par for 36 on the outbound trip today, coming back he was one under par. His putting of the new large ball, being used officially in the tournament play for the first time, earned the attention of spectators and contestants.

Farrell sited a small rattlesnake coiled in front of his ball on the 14th fairway. Spectators said the reptile struck, barely missing the trouser leg of the former national open champion. A spectator, taking Farrell's nibble, killed the snake and exhibited its two rattles. Farrell continued play to score 73 for the day.

Play will be over 35 holes tomorrow to conclude the tournament, with 67 qualified entrants participating.

15-Round Title Bout Is Sought

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP)—A bill to legalize 15 round bouts when championships are at stake will be submitted to the Illinois state legislature when it convenes Monday. Since the return of legalized boxing to Illinois, all boxing matches, professional and amateur have been restricted to 10 rounds. Several leaders in the ring sport, headed by General John V. Clinlin, chairman of the state athletic commission and president of the National Boxing Association, drafted the new bill and were confident of its passage.

"Winter of Big Snow"

Old-Timers Recall Heavy Snowfall Back In Eighties

These folks who complain about the discomforts of winter in northern Michigan nowadays should have been traveling over the rough roads and trails in this region about forty-five years ago when the state did not maintain a snow removal program. Roads were kept open for automobile traffic throughout the winter, but in the old days there were times when terrific blizzards made it tough for even the horses and sleighs.

Old-timers of Delta county still tell of their experiences in the "Winter of the Big Snow." It was sometime in the late eighties, but just what year it was there seems to be a lack of agreement. Some of the pioneers recall that for "three winters hand running there was a lot of snow."

Records of the U. S. weather bureau office here however, reveal that unusually heavy snowfalls occurred in the winter of 1885-86. During December, 1885, a total of 26.5 inches for the month was measured, while a record was established in the following month of January, 1886, when the snowfall amounted to 40.4 inches. This is an exceedingly large amount for one month when it is considered there have been some winters when the total for the season did not approximate 50 inches.

Legg Recalls Winter
Peter R. Legg, veteran schoolmaster who is now in his forty-eighth year of educational work in Michigan, recalls the huge snowdrifts of "The Winter of the Big Snow."

"As it was my first winter in the northern peninsula, I well remember the events of that season," Mr. Legg relates. "The fall was a mild one and very little frost was in the ground until at Christmas. The bay was frozen over rather thinly until January and in fact it was poor ice that winter though the thermometer had said goodbye to the zero mark and went skidding towards the bulb more than once. "I remember one morning especially as the snow was at least piled many feet high and the children had quite a time getting up the hill to the Fayette school as the drifts were high-impassable."

"I shall never forget my trip to Escanaba to take the teachers examination. I think it was about the last of February or the first of March. We arrived at Escanaba, and while there another two feet had been added to the already deep snow. We left Escanaba about eight o'clock in the morning to return over the bay to Fayette. We stopped at the Beggs home on the Bay de Noc peninsula at noon for dinner. Four teachers, including myself, left Beggs' at 12:30 o'clock and were walking yet at 6:30 p. m. when Harry Trimboth, now with the state insurance department, came after us with a team and hobsleigh. He and the horses were so played out, however, that a number of men had to come from Fayette to help him return to town."

Snow Over Boxcars
"A short time later the snow had drifted so high that we could walk out of the upstairs window at Mr. Reed's home and go right over the shed to the ground. At this time there was a railroad from Fayette to Center Kilns. The Hart boat came into the Fayette harbor on May 8, and there was abundant old snow on the ground yet."

John P. McColl of Escanaba was also a resident of Fayette during the "winter of the big snow." He relates that it snowed for a week at a time without cessation. The snow was six to seven feet deep on the level, and much more than that where it drifted.

"The roads over the land were impassable, and everyone traveled over the bay ice to making the trip between Fayette and Escanaba," Mr. McColl recalls. "It was even tough going over the bay, and large stakes and trees were placed upright to mark the route. Four Kates Bay men were caught in a blizzard, lost their bearings and wandered around the bay all night. They kept their team of horses on the move all the time, and when morning came the animals dropped dead on the ice, only a short distance from Fayette. The men had been moving around in circles on the bay, but because of the blinding snow-storm never realized how close they were to home."

In that memorable winter, folks woke up in the morning and found huge snow drifts against the doors of their homes, necessitating the digging of tunnels so that they could go to their daily labors, according to Charles Pollo, 414 South Eighth street, who was also living in the thriving furnace town of Fayette that winter.

"I can remember how we used to take the horses and hobsleigh and drive over woodpiles and fences across the clearings to my grandfather's farm," Mr. Pollo states. "The snow must have been five feet deep at least, and the hard crust that formed on the surface was strong enough to hold up the horses and sleigh."

Barber at Gaastra Donates Hair-Cuts

Between 55 and 60 free hair-cuts were donated to children of indigent families in Gaastra last week by Victor Liberty, Gaastra barber, who has his shop in the village hall.

A few days before school closed Mr. Liberty approached E. T. Quilatt, principal of the Palatka and Gaastra schools and offered to donate the haircuts to children whom Prin. Quilatt selected from the school.

The offer was made voluntarily for the benefit of all little folks whose "dads were out of work." It was, Mr. Liberty is quoted as saying, merely a little Christmas present.

"But," said Prin. Quilatt the other day, "it takes a lot of time to trim a matter of 60 heads, and I think it was a mighty fine thing of Mr. Liberty."
