COURT RULES DRY LAW VALID

U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Says Amendment Is Legal

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—The eighteenth amendment was held to have been legally adopted in a decision today by the United States circuit court of appeals, ruling on a case in which the defense was the same as in the recent Sprague case in New Jersey, in which Federal Judge Clark held that the amendment had not been legally ratified.

The court of appeals affirmed the conviction of Louis E. Thibault of Windsor, Vt., who was accused of possessing and selling two pints of whisky.

As in the Sprague case, counsel for the losing side announced today that appeal would be taken to the United States supreme court.

In each case counsel defending the accused person contended that after adoption of the tenth amendment, no amendment giving the national government additional powers over the people or over their rights could be adopted except by the people in convention, or by their delegated representatives. The eighteenth amendment they contended was not legally ratified by the states because it was approved by the legislatures instead of by state conventions gathered for the express purpose of considering it.

Already Held Valid

Judge Clark supported and elaborated upon this contention in New Jersey federal court and freed William Sprague, the defendant in the case, on the ground that the amendment had not been legally adopted and therefore the Volstead act was without force.

The court of appeals declared, in its decision today, that the supreme court had already held the eighteenth amendment to have been lawfully proposed and ratified. The amendment, it ruled, "had become a part of the constitution and must be respected and given effect the same as the other provisions of that instrument."

"There has been a long acquiescence and approval of the method of proposing and ratifying amendments as followed in the case of the eighteenth amendment," the decision said.

"The constitution was adopted in 1789. The first ten amendments were adopted in 1791. All even the first ten amendments, were proposed and ratified in like manner to the eighteenth. Pursuant to article five the alternative power was vested in the people, to be exercised by a choice of the members of the legislature of the several states, or the constitutional conventions, and by choice of representatives in congress.

estimate of the number we can get in and get appointed."

The measure would provide $10,000 for prohibition education to be conducted through monographs and pamphlets about conditions under the dry laws, prepared by a staff of research experts.

Acting as spokesman for the attorneys defending the Judge Clark decision, Frederick M. P. Pearce told the supreme court other engagements would prevent their appearing for at least three months.

At the same time he criticized as incomplete the brief filed by Solicitor General Thacher, contending the government appeared to have assumed that the highest tribunal "is foreclosed from considering the points raised by us and favorably passed upon by the court below."

Pearce asserted the New Jersey decision apparently was not hampering enforcement of the prohibition law, and that the government was exhibiting undue haste in bringing the matter before the supreme court.

TYPHOON TOLL NOT FULLY KNOWN; 82 ARE KNOWN DEAD

Manila, Jan. 5 (AP)—With eighty-two dead and fifty missing, fears were felt tonight of even greater loss as a result of the typhoon which roared across the central Philippine islands last week end.

Wires were prostrated and roads blocked, but belated reports indicated the list of casualties probably would be lengthened with restoration of communication.

A large number of native fishermen perished in the sinking of many small boats off the coasts of Leyte and Cebu islands. Property damage on those islands was reported more than $500,000 and $250,000 respectively.

Further reports, it was feared, would bring details similar to the great storms on Leyte island of November, 1928, when 234 persons died, and May, 1929, with 119 deaths. Those typhoons destroyed sugar, banana and rice crops. Outside aid was necessary to save the people from famine, as thousands made homeless by wind and flood wandered helplessly.

CHEAPER LAND MAKING MORE FARM OWNERS

taxation, inability of the bank and associations under the law to make large enough loans to take many of the short term loans on farms because they are larger than the law will permit under current appraised values, and a genuine diminution of demand for first mortgage farm credit."

The volume of new loans has also fallen off in the district presided over by President Wood, Netherlands, of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis. He says that a substantial number of farm sales have been made throughout the district and that much interest in farm lands will be manifested during the ensuing year, particularly if unemployment in the cities should continue. "For many people are learning that the farm is one place where a family may buy a home and a job at the same time."

More Diversified

From the Northwest also come reports of increasing sales of farm lands, with the number being 50 per cent higher than in 1920 and 50 per cent higher than in 1928. President Klawon of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, Minn., remarks that the past ten years have brought forth a decided increase in diversified farming. "Thus giving our farmers added means for combating unfavorable conditions."

Collections are not as good as last year but they are "satisfactory considering general conditions," according to president Hogan of the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, while President Fields of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita reports "an increasing demand for farm land and states that 'borrowers have made earnest efforts to discharge their obligations to the bank notwithstanding drought conditions and low prices for farm products.'"

Farms and ranches in the district embraced by the Federal Land Bank of Houston, Tex., are now generally in "satisfactory condition due to good season throughout the district." This is the word from President Gossett, who adds that the outlook justifies the belief that both the federal land and intermediate credit banks "will render a large and useful service in 1931."

Morale Favorable

From the Federal Land Bank of Berkeley, Calif., President Ellis telegraphs that while 1930 conditions made it difficult for farmers because of the series of dry years and the increased irrigation costs, the morale of the farmers is good.

The low commodity price level, rather than short crops has been the principal factor affecting agriculture adversely in the states of Washington, Montana, Oregon and Idaho comprising the twelfth Federal Land Bank district. President Ehrhardt of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane says that the outlook for agriculture is not bright but that the picture would be "entirely drab" were it not for the fact that with industry less active and the labor situation unsatisfactory, the city has lost its lure of a steady job and good wages.

"This is retarding farm abandonment," he says, "and many big families are now turning to the farm, not with the thought of making money so much as for the purpose of existence."

Generally speaking most of the land bank presidents believe that the pressure for employment will result in a better balanced situation as between the cities and the country districts.

PACKERS WIN COURT BATTLE

public as well as their companies. There was no indication of the course the government would take but active dissatisfaction with the opinion was expressed by J. H. McLurin, president of the American Wholesale Grocers' Association. This organization and the National Wholesale Grocers' Association had intervened in opposition to modifying the decree.

McLurin said the modification would "not prevent the packers from dominating the food business, making it hard, not only on wholesale grocers, but on consumers."

Protects Independents

Justice Bailey, in his opinion said if the packers were given permission to sell at retail it might result in driving out of business the few independent grocers left. His ruling, however, allows the packing groups to use all their facilities such as freight and refrigerator cars and branch plants in putting their products into retail stores but there they must stop.

Justice Bailey said there was no evidence that the packers had the monopoly of wholesale meat handling and cited the testimony of independent packers that the business was highly competitive.

The hearing covered several weeks and was virtually a history of the modern food business, evidence of the rise of chain grocer and a new refrigerating method being included in a sweeping scrutiny of the meat business.

by the establishment of separate funds which may not be transferred or juggled are recommendations Brucker may make which found favor in the eyes of early arrivals.

Reapportionment proposals, ranging from representation on a citizenship basis to equal representation in one branch for all counties—both of which would call for the initiation of constitutional amendments—are anticipated. Labor measures seeking the inclusion of occupational diseases in the compensable classification and higher compensation and promises to tax contract carriers on a parity with common carrier trucks are expected to introduce new legislation.

The battle for positions in the new legislature promises to be exceedingly tame. Speaker Fred R. King, of the house, has no opposition for re-election. There are three or four candidates for postmaster and other minor places in the lower branch, but Myles F. Gray, clerk, has no opponents. In the senate the only prospective fight has flattened out because the administration will not oppose Grove M. Rouse for sergeant-at-arms, according to Governor Brucker.

back into the open book of his fruitful life," he said, "and find it an illuminated scroll. Every paragraph records some worthy service. Every page finds him giving of himself to society and to the institutions he adorned. Every chapter points to service—and not to reward—as the relentless impulse and objective of his busy life."

Rev. J. M. Vandermeulen, Louisville, Ky., dwelt in his eulogy on his days as a college student here and his admiration for career of Mr. Dikema. Likening the deceased statesman to the Apostle Paul, he said the Biblical words, "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith," were a fitting biography of Dikema's life.

An augmented choir sang the favorite anthems of Mr. Dikema. There were scripture readings and prayers, the congregation joining in murmuring the words. Many wept as the pallbearers lifted the casket and bore it from the building.

At the grave, men of exalted stations in public life, as well of those in lesser positions, bowed reverently in last respects.

Hundreds of messages of condolence were received today from all parts of the country. Personal messages and flowers were received from Secretary of State Stimson and other cabinet members; from J. H. Ming Opposes Cut In Workers' Wages

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 5 (AP)—At east one branch of state government cannot be affected by Governor Wilber M. Brucker's economy program, according to Speaker Fred R. Ming, of the house of representatives.

Ming asserted that the pay of employees is low, and the number cannot be reduced. He indicated he is opposed to following the lead of the senate which recently cut the pay of its secretary to $2,500.

The clerk of the house receives $5,000. Committee clerks and similar employees in both branches are paid $3 a day during the regular legislative session.

According to Ming the legislature has not been extravagant and therefore cannot slash payrolls nor reduce the number of employees. In as much as the legislature is a constitutional and legislative body it can do as it pleases in regard to the number of employees and their salaries.

NEW DICTATOR RULES WITH ARMY OF 100

as an honor bestowed upon a member of a reigning house, but as a daring soldier.

During the World War, he won acclaim as a French cavalry officer, taking part in many engagements, including the fierce battles at Verdun. At the time he became Monaco's ruler, he was serving on the staff of the French commander of the allied troops stationed in Silesia for the purpose of preserving peace between the Poles and the Germans.

Monaco is situated on the Mediterranean near Nice and has a population of 25,000 and an area of only eight square miles. The entire country could be set down within the confines of Chicago's business district with plenty of room to spare.

The nation's residents, both subjects and foreigners, pay hardly any taxes. Virtually all bills are paid by the income from Monte Carlo gambling concessions, which runs from $250,000 to $500,000 annually. This has been the enviable situation since 1869 when Charles III abolished all taxation in the kingdom.

The famous gambling houses draw patrons from all over the world but inhabitants of Monaco are forbidden to enter them.

When Louis became ruler in 1922, he did away with as much regal pomp and ceremony as possible.

Although the country derives its support from Monte Carlo, Prince Louis is opposed to gambling and extravagance. As soon as he could arrange affairs of state, he deserted the palace and since has been an absentee ruler.

When he was a young man, he spent time on his estate near Paris. He is fond of hunting and spends many pleasant evenings chatting with old army comrades.

Typical of his simplicity is the bedroom of his palace, where he lives when in Monaco. Over a hard military couch hangs his most cherished possession, the hat of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The prince is wealthy, owning mining interests in Belgium, as well as millions of dollars worth of investments in England and the United States, but he has known the pinch of poverty.

While serving as a soldier, he was forced to content himself with an exceedingly restricted income owing to strained relations with his father, the late Prince Albert, who had married Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, daughter of the English Duke of Hamilton, in 1869.

After the birth of Louis in 1870, Lady Mary and Albert quarreled violently and the mother was obliged to leave Monaco and carry her two-year-old son to Italy, and later to Germany, Russia and England, where he spent many years of his boyhood.

When he was 18 and stationed with the French army in Algeria he fell in love with an extremely pretty young girl, Juliette Louvet, of French peasant parentage, and married her. A year later she gave birth to a daughter, who received the name of Charlotte.

The young prince's father, however, refused to recognize the marriage. Later difficulties were settled when Louis' wife relinquished her claims to the child. Not long ago, Prince Louis proclaimed Charlotte's son, Prince Ranier, as heir to the throne.

Ranger Basketeers Practice Wednesday

Northern State Teachers College Gives Up Tourney

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 5 (AP)—John M. Munson, president of Northern State Teachers' college, announced today that the college will not conduct the annual Upper Peninsula regional high school basketball tournament in March. The regional tournament has been held in the normal college gymnasium each year for 15 years.

President Munson said he already had informed A. W. Thompson, state director of interscholastic, of the college's action.

CRIMINAL CASES FIRST ON TRIAL

Fifteen Plead Guilty; Sentences Will Be Given Thursday

Arraignments made at the opening of the January term of Delta county circuit court Monday morning brought in a total of 15 pleas of guilty. All those who pleaded guilty will receive their sentences Thursday morning at nine o'clock, Judge Frank A. Bell announced.

Pleas of not guilty received yesterday indicate that about nine criminal cases will be listed for jury trial on the week's docket. The jurors will report for service this morning at nine o'clock. Judge Bell announced that the court would be in session only one week, due to the conflict with schedules in other counties, but evening sessions will be held this week in an effort to get all non-jury matters settled.

Prominent among the criminal matters scheduled for hearing is the trial of Joel Druckenmiller, 19 year old Delta resident, who is charged with the murder and armed robbery of A. E. Mertens, 66, on Oct. 4, 1930. Druckenmiller was arraigned before Judge Bell Monday morning, and his attorney, T. E. Strom, announced that he would stand mute, so a plea of not guilty was entered. Attorney Strom asked a continuance on the grounds that he had been called in the case Dec. 8 and had not had time to prepare his defense, but the judge overruled this motion.

Woman Pleads Guilty

Other cases in which pleas of not guilty were entered are: Oscar Johnson, larceny; Eddie Paul, assault with dangerous weapon; John Kauva, prohibition violation and resisting an officer; Norbert Fosterling, prohibition violation and resisting an officer; Douglas Schafer, non-support; Patrick Murray, possession of liquor; Fred Kennedy, prohibition violation; Irving Pomrening, carrying loaded pistol in automobile; Eusebe Charboneau, prohibition violation.

Those who pleaded guilty and now await sentence are: Stanley Milecki, Clarence Schwartz and Arthur Gardner, unlawfully driving away an automobile; Thom Arnedo Volos, purchase and possession of liquor; Frank Stenac, Frank Louis, Ed Jones and Tom Ward, larceny; Eusebe Beaudry and Walter Feathers, burglary; Tom Feathers and Levi Feathers, burglary; William O'Donnell, possession of liquor; Effie Barnhart, possession of liquor and keeping a place; Carl Slodin, unlawfully driving away an automobile; Otto Smith and Ambrose Beaver, listed as parole violators, are also scheduled to appear for sentence.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MICHIGAN

The story of "The Office Wife," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture coming to the Michigan Theatre today, is one that should interest every wife and every husband. It is a vital drama that might confront any man and any woman.

Lawrence Fellows, president of a publishing firm, believes that every wife is jealous of her husband's secretary, and every secretary is jealous of the wife. He marries—and finds out later that every wife is not jealous of her husband's secretary. While he is becoming attached to his secretary, Anne Murdock, his wife, Linda, begins a flirtation with a young man of her acquaintance. Fellows does not know that his wife is falling in love with Jameson, and he does not know that Miss Murdock is falling in love with him. He only knows that he needs her—when he goes away, he finds he has to send for her.

AT THE DELFT

With stark-drama worthy of Eugene O'Neill at his best, "Renegades," the Fox movie-tone feature which opened at the Delft Theatre yesterday, is one of the most engrossing and entertaining talkies this reviewer has seen in many months.

The finest picture of the French Foreign Legion to reach the screen, "Renegades," has much to recommend it. The notable performance of Warner Baxter in the leading role is a revelation to those whose admiration for this fine actor has heretofore revolved around his impersonations of dashing bandits in the old Southwest. As the luckless French officer who flees to the Legion when his sweetheart proves to be an enemy spy, only to encounter her deadly activities at the moment of his triumph, Baxter's work is flawless. Myrna Loy is as alluring as ever and fascinates while she repels the spectator in her difficult but excellently handled role.

Noah Beery, George Cooper and Gregory Gage are a contrasting but delightful trio. Baxter's carefree and rollicking ventures, and Henry Gordon, a newcomer

Dog Teams Almost Thing of the Past

In the earlier days of the development of this region dog teams were a common sight. To see a team of dogs pulling a sleigh now but serves as a reminder of a common method of transportation employed by the pioneers. Mail was carried, packages delivered and journeys made with dogs all through the north, over wastes where horses could not travel. So the dog, man's most faithful companion among the lower animals, has played an important part in our early development. Such thoughts as these come to mind as we observe a dog team on our streets, occasionally.

Frank Lord is the owner of a fine dog team, two nine months old Newfoundland and Mastiff pups. Cap and Cub as the dogs are called weigh about 100 pounds each. They can pull a load of about 1,000 pounds with good sleighing and are used by Mr. Lord to haul wood and for fishing trips out on the ice of Lake Superior, often traveling long distances, starting early in the morning and returning at night. Mr. Lord feeds his dogs but once a day, after the day's work is done, and then they are permitted to eat their fill of corn meal and herring. Fishermen know that the entrails of trout, especially the livers, are not good for the dogs. They can eat whitefish livers with impunity, but no one feeds whitefish livers to a dog nowadays, unless the owner is especially fond of his dogs. Mr. Lord's dogs seem to enjoy their work, pull willingly, and appear to be in the best of health.

WANTS AN AUDIT

Two auditors, accompanied by Road Commissioner Abe Artibe visited the court house for the purpose of starting an audit and an examination of the records of the Alger county road commission. The request for the records was made of County Engineer George Depew, who referred the matter to Road Commissioner Brown, who, in turn, refused his permission for the examination, on the grounds that the books of all county departments were audited this past fall by state auditors.

Bite of Black Fly Kills Young Ducks

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Another reason for swatting the fly has been discovered at the University of Michigan.

Their bites are killing young ducks. They are the same black flies which annoy man. In the ducks they introduce a blood parasite which causes death in about two weeks. The fly bites, however, are harmless to adult ducks.

MRS. ARTHUR H. LONGHURST

"It has been eighteen months since I quit taking Konjola but if I am ever in need of a medicine I shall take it again," said Mrs. Arthur H. Longhurst, 1014 Sparrow avenue, Lansing. "Stomach trouble had me in a badly weakened condition. I had indigestion pains, heart palpitations and a dull aching pain across my back. I did not sleep well and felt miserable all the time. "Konjola proved to be the right medicine for me, there can be no uncertainty about that. It restored me to health and that is why I am eager to endorse it. I wish others to know of my experience and I hope they will give this fine medicine a trial." Konjola is that kind of a medicine. It is recommended over a six to eight week period for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Try Konjola today. Konjola is sold in Escanaba, Mich., at People's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Plows Out After First Snowstorm

Escanaba residents awoke Monday to find their first real snow storm of the season. About three inches fell according to records of the local weather bureau, and a little more was anticipated for last night. The temperature dropped slightly last night.

City snow removal equipment, including tractors and snow loader, were put in use for the first time this winter yesterday, and most of Ludington street was cleared. The snowfall was not heavy enough to impede wheel traffic on highways, although the going was slippery.

Don't neglect your child's COUGH or COLD

TRY this milder "counter-irritant." Good old Musterole now made milder for babies and small children. So pleasant to use and so reliable—apply Children's Musterole freely to the affected area once every hour for five hours. That's the safe, sure treatment that millions of mothers and leading doctors and nurses recognize and endorse.

Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

That's why this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Keep full strength Musterole on hand for adults and Children's Musterole for the little tots.

ESCANABA TRIO FACES UPBAYS

Gladstone Wranglers to Speak Here on Chain Question Friday

The debaters of Escanaba high school will appear in the fourth debate of the season Friday night at 8 o'clock in the local high school auditorium. The affirmative team will face the undefeated negative team from Gladstone.

This debate will conclude the preliminary series of debates in which every high school must participate in order to qualify for the elimination series of debates. Gladstone, by virtue of three victories, is practically certain to qualify for the elimination series, while Escanaba will not qualify because of two defeats.

Joseph Shipman, coach of the Esky wranglers, will use the same affirmative team that lost a close debate by a one-point margin, because of the unpopularity of attitude of the audience, to Negunee on Dec. 16. The speakers in the order that they speak are: Edward Fuqua, Isla Shackelford, and Robert Oshins.

The personnel of the Gladstone team will be announced later in the week by C. P. Titus, the Gladstone debate coach.

Gunther C. Moyland of the faculty of Northern State Teachers' College will be the judge of the debate.

The subject of this debate as well as all debates throughout the state during the coming winter months will be: "Resolved: that National Chain Grocery Stores operating in the State of Michigan are detrimental to the people of the State."

The debating of this question has been endorsed by the National Chain Store Association, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, Kroger Grocery and Baking company, The Independent Merchants Association, and the Independent Grocers and Meat Dealers Association in Michigan.

Health Meeting In Lansing This Week

Lansing, Jan. 5—Michigan's 2300 health officers and public health nurses will hold their annual meeting in Lansing on January 7, 8 and 9 when the Tenth Annual Public Health Conference convenes under the joint auspices of the Michigan Department of Health and the Michigan Public Health Association. Headquarters will be at the Hotel Olds.

County health department practice will occupy the opening session with Dr. W. F. Draper, assistant surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, as the main speaker. Ten county and district health officers of Michigan will follow Dr. Draper, reporting on the activities of their departments.

William J. Norton of Detroit, vice president and secretary of the Children's Fund of Michigan, will speak at the conference dinner on January 7.

School health supervision, diphtheria prevention, public health law, maternal and infant hygiene, and the control of dental caries are topics of the Thursday sessions, with Dr. Chester B. Emerson, pastor of the North Woodward Congregational church, the speaker at the opening evening session on Thursday.

The Friday morning session will be taken up with discussion of tuberculosis, causes of feeble-mindedness, and malaria, with the close of the conference at noon.

Between four and five hundred health workers from all sections of the state are expected to be in attendance at the conference. The list of speakers includes many men of national prominence.

DEATH CLAIMS JAMES HICKEY

Resided in Escanaba 50 Years; Retired C. & N. W. Employee

James Hickey, 9, passed away Sunday morning at 8 o'clock at his home, 1309 First avenue north, following an illness of two years, due to disabilities of old age and complications which developed following a serious operation some time ago.

Mr. Hickey was born January 26, 1881, in Cedarburg, Wis., and came to this city in 1881. He entered the employ of the Chicago and North Western Railway company and later was promoted to foreman of a bridge building crew, which work he followed until he was pensioned ten years ago. He was a member of St. Patrick's church and a charter member of the Knights of the Macabees.

He is survived by four daughters and one son: Mrs. Minnie Harwood, Mrs. Ben Baker, Mrs. John Burke, Escanaba; Mrs. William Dalton, Minneapolis, Minn.; and George Hickey, of Chicago; sixteen grandchildren and five great grandchildren; three brothers, Henry Hickey of Milwaukee, Andrew and Hugh Hickey of Olmitz, Kas., and one sister Miss Katherine Hickey of Cedarburg, Wis.

Mrs. Dalton is expected to arrive from Minneapolis today. Arley Harwood, a grandson, arrived last night from Sault Ste. Marie. George Hickey came from Chicago four months ago to take care of his aged father.

The body was prepared for burial at the Alto funeral home and was removed to the family home Monday morning.

There until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's church. Burial will be made in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where his wife was buried two years ago.

New Decorative Plans Delight Little People

New York, Jan. 5.—Giving the child of the family a room of his or her own should mean more than merely allotting the necessary space and filling it with useful odds and ends of furniture.

There is such charming juvenile furniture to be had today. The best period pieces are often reproduced in miniature to give pride and joy to a little miss or master.

At a cost not exorbitant a room can be fitted on a scale of dimensions that will give importance to the wee ones or one's who occupy it.

There are the cutest little beds, small in dimensions and much lower to the floor than adult beds, made of fine woods in good lines. Chairs are low enough for short, fat legs to get little bodies down into them without stretching up.

Gay Colors Are Used. And the best part about most of these bedroom sets for tots is that the colors used in conjunction with them are all the gay ones children love and feel inspired by.

Two of the cutest rooms for children are the early American and the Colonial room with its paneled walls and simple furniture.

In the early American room there is a sturdiness that little boys and girls would like. It has a charming low bed with diminutive dimensions and a hand-quilted bright yellow counterpane in durable satenee.

The chest of drawers has a wider lowest drawer, giving it a sturdy look. And the mirror above it is quite simple in design, just the mirror a little boy could look into and not feel silly.

For the little girl of slightly more years, indeed a room a child would love until she begins to grow into her teens, is one that has soft peach and green for its coloring and an adorable four poster bed with canopy of glazed chints in the peach and green design in floral pattern.

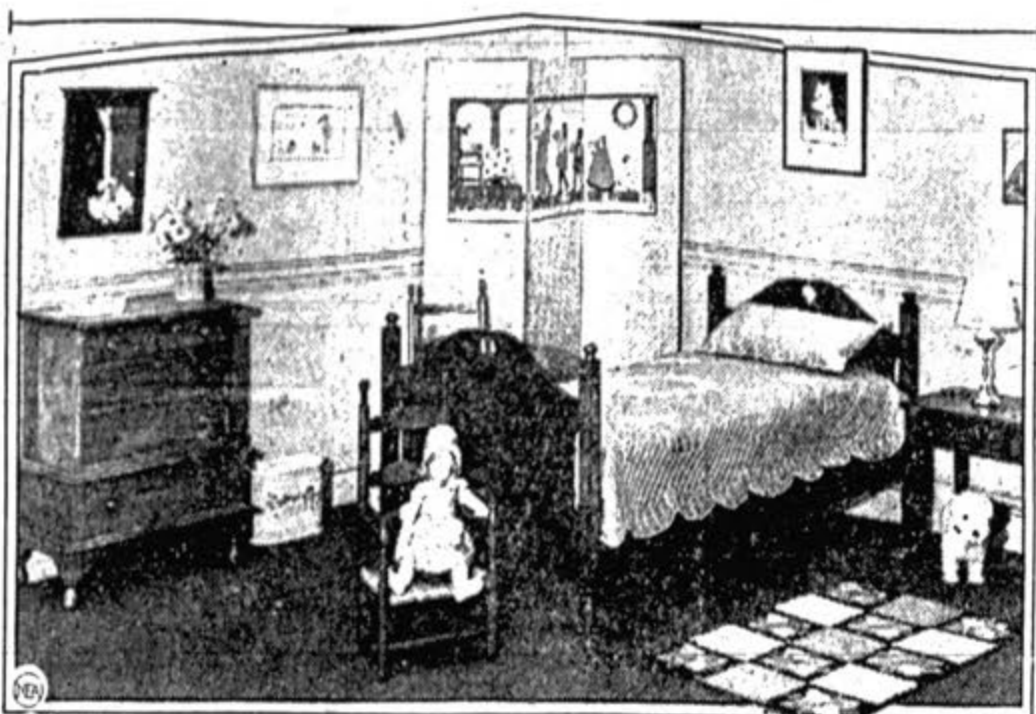

There is a hooked rug with a rich floral design on the floor and a perfectly cunning little upholstered arm chair with frounce all pleated. There is a little foot stool in early American design, matching up the bedside table on which a little lamp sits. And the mirrors are much fancier than the boys.

If one believes at all in environment, it is simple to realize the far-reaching effect on character that either room would have. Background has much to do with a person's serenity and beauty of thought.

The closing event of the evening will be a dancing party which will follow the installation.

A cordial invitation has been extended to all Rebekahs and Odd Fellows and their invited guests to be present for the evening's program.

Today's Bridge Article No. 88 BY WM. E. McKENNEY Secretary American Bridge League

The following interesting hand is from the national auction men's pair championship, and is one of the prettiest played hands of the tournament.

NORTH: S-K-8-5-2 H-3 C-10-8-4 SOUTH-DEALER: S-J-6-4 H-K-Q-J-7-4 D-A-K-Q-7-3 C-NONE

The bidding: South, the dealer, bid one heart, West overcalled with two clubs, North passed, East passed, and South bid two diamonds.

West went to three clubs, South three diamonds and West to four clubs, which North doubled.

South should go to four hearts and not allow the double to remain in, but the South player in this case passed, hoping that he and his partner could defeat the contract.

The Play: North opened the nine of hearts, the top of the first suit bid by his partner. Declarer refused to win the trick, playing the three of hearts.

South returned the king of hearts and when North played the deuce, the declarer won the trick in the dummy with the ace.

The jack of diamonds was returned with the queen and declarer trumped with the deuce of clubs.

Mother of New Year Baby, Escanaba Girl

Those of you who happened to glance at the Chicago Tribune's picture a few days ago of a New Year's baby, born on the stroke of midnight at Franklin Boulevard hospital and did not recognize the name, will be more than interested to learn that the 1931 arrival is the daughter of a former Escanaba girl.

Mrs. Peary Hansen, who before her marriage was Miss Marie Fredrickson, daughter of Mrs. Marie Fredrickson, 514 South Twelfth street, Mr. and Mrs. Hansen are now residing in Chicago at 3348 N. Central avenue.

Church Officers Are Elected at Annual Meeting

Officers of the Swedish Baptist church were elected and reports for the year were presented at the annual meeting of the church, held Sunday afternoon.

The church reported a successful year, with the addition of twenty-one members to the congregation, and with all departments functioning successfully and maintaining financial independence.

Officers of the church for the year, headed by Rev. John Hugo, pastor, whose position automatically makes him chairman of the church, are as follows:

Vice Chairman—Carl Frans, Secretary—Miss Mildred Peterson, Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Andrew Johnson, Treasurer—Carl Frans, Treasurer, building fund—Arthur Karlsson, Organists—Misses Anna Peterson and Evelyn Olson and Edward Rudness, Trustee, new member of the board—Nels Johnson, of Danforth, Building Committee—Carl Frans, chairman, Otto Karlstrom, Edward Rudness, Alex Olson, Nels Johnson, J. B. Lingquist, John Sheedlo, Board of Deacons—Axel Sutherland, Alex Olson, Alex Wixner, Gust Swanson, Sunday School officers named are: Superintendent—Miss Lucille Johnson, Assistant Superintendent—Miss Mildred Peterson.

Teachers—Rev. John Hugo, Misses Lucille Johnson, Mildred Peterson, Linnea Sundman, Viola Peterson, Organists—Miss Ina Peterson, Mrs. John Hugo. Plans to select a name for the Swedish Baptist church were made at the annual meeting. Each member of the congregation will select a name, and at the next business meeting, the first Thursday in February, members will vote on a new name for the church.

ing the six of hearts from dummy. Declarer leads the ten of hearts, North discards the eight of spades and declarer trumps in the dummy with the three of clubs. The ten of diamonds is returned from dummy, South covering with the ace and declarer refuses to trump, discarding the nine of spades. He had originally counted the North hand for four clubs, and if his deductions were correct, North will be forced to trump and will have to lead into the declarer's ace-jack.

This allows the declarer to make his contract of four clubs doubled, scoring 40 for tricks, 20 for honors, 125 for game and 50 for making his contract.

"Yes, Lois Morrow and Peter Dunlap, Johnny Drake and Carolyn Swann, and Tracey and Flora," Penny answered. "Although I was 13 by then, and really too old for the role, I had the fun of being flower girl for Lois and Flora both."

"Do you think Flora was really in love with Tracey?" Dundee asked curiously.

"Oh, yes! But she'd have been in love with anyone who wanted to marry her, and the funny thing is that, with the exception of Peter and Lois, they are the happiest married couple I have ever known. . . . You see, Tracey has never got over being flattered that so pretty and passionate a girl as Flora wanted him. . . . And that's why I laughed!"

"Tracey, with that deep-rooted inferiority complex of his, would have been so flattered if Flora had told him she killed Nita out of jealousy that he would have forgiven her on the spot. On the other hand," she went on, "if Flora had told him that Nita had documentary proofs of some frightful scandal against her, can't you see how violently Tracey would have reacted against her?"

"Oh, no! Tracey would not have taken the trouble to murder Sprague, when Sprague popped up for more blackmail!"

"Perhaps he might have, if the marriage," Dundee argued. "Let's suppose Sprague did pop up, and Flora turned him over to Tracey. When Sprague appeared apparently uninvited last night, Flora must have been on pins and needles, trying to make Tracey treat him decently and hoping against hope that Tracey would simply pay the scoundrel all the blackmail he was demanding."

"Which is exactly what Tracey would have done, instead of taking the awful risk of murdering him in his own home," Penny cut in spiritedly. "Besides, Tracey wasn't gone from the porch long enough to go outside, signal to Sprague in the trophy room, shoot him when Sprague raised the screen, and then hide the gun. I told you Tracey was gone only about a minute when he went to see if Sprague's hat and stick were gone from the closet."

"Did Tracey and Flora both step outside to see their guests into their cars?" Dundee asked suddenly.

"Tracey did," Penny answered. "Flora told us all good night in the living room, then ran up stairs to see if Betty was still asleep. . . . But remember we didn't leave until midnight, and Dr. Price says Sprague was killed between nine and 11 last night."

"Dr. Price would be the first to grant a leeway of an hour, one way or another," Dundee told her. "Of course, if Tracey did kill him, he let Flora believe that he had given Sprague the blackmail money he was demanding. For it is inconceivable that a woman of Flora Miles' hysterical temperament could have slept—even with two sleeping tablets—knowing that a corpse was in the house."

"Oh, I'm sick of your silly theorizing!" Penny told him with vehement scorn. "Listen here, Bonnie Dundee! You probably laugh at 'woman's intuition,' but take it from me—you're on the wrong track!"

"Oh, I'm not so wedded to that particular theory!" Dundee laughed. "I can spin you exactly six more just as convincing."

you—happen to run across my father, which of course you won't, tell him that—mother would like for him to come home."

At intervals during the 16-hour run to New York, Penny's faltering words returned to haunt the district attorney's special investigator, although he would have preferred to devote his entire attention to mapping out the program he intended to follow when he reached the city which, he fully believed, had been the scene of the first act of the tragic drama he was bent upon bringing to an equally tragic conclusion.

As soon as he had registered at a hotel near the Pennsylvania station, and had shaved and breakfasted, he took from his bag a large envelope containing the photographs Carraway had made of Penny alive and of Nita dead, both clad in the royal blue velvet dress. In the envelope also was the white satin, gold-lettered label which the dress had so proudly borne—"Pierre Model. Copied by Simonson's, New York City."

Half an hour later he was showing the photographs and the label to a woman buyer in the French salon of Simonson's, one of New York's most "exclusive" department stores.

"Can you tell me when the original Pierre model was bought, and when this copy was made and sold?" he asked.

CHAPTER XII
The white-haired, smartly-dressed buyer accepted the sheet of photographs Bonnie Dundee was offering. "I'll do my best, of course," she began briskly, then paled and uttered a sharp exclamation as her eyes took in the topmost picture. "This is Juanita Leigh, isn't it?"

"Yes," Dundee agreed gravely. "She was dead when that picture was taken."

"No," the woman breathed, her eyes still bulging with horror. "But I've seen so many pictures of her in the papers. . . . To think that it was one of our dresses she chose for her shroud! But you want to know when the dress was sold to her, don't you?" she asked, brisk again. "I can find out. We keep a record of all our French originals and of all our copies made of each."

"Let me think! I've been going to Paris myself for the firm for the last 15 years, but I can't remember buying this Pierre model. Oh, of course! I didn't go over during 1917 and 1918, on account of the war, you know, but the big Paris designers managed to send us a limited number of very good models, and this must have been one of them. Otherwise, I'd remember buying it."

"When she returned about 10 minutes later, Miss Thomas brought him a pencilled memorandum. "This Pierre model was imported in the summer of 1917, several months in advance of the winter season, of course. Only five copies were made—in different colors and materials, naturally, since we make a point of exclusiveness. The royal blue velvet copy was sold to Juanita Leigh in January, 1918. I am sorry I cannot give you the exact date of the month, but our records show the month only. I took the liberty of showing a picture of the dress to the only saleswoman in the department who has been with us that long, but she cannot remember the sale. Twelve years is a long time, you know."

"Indeed it is," Dundee agreed regretfully. "You have been immensely helpful, however, Miss Thomas, and I thank you with all my heart."

"If you could just tell me—confidentially, of course," Miss Thomas whispered, "what sort of cine this dress is."

"I don't know myself!" the detective admitted. "But," he added to himself, after he had escaped the buyer's natural curiosity, "I intend to find out!"

Before he could take any further steps along that particular path, however, Dundee had an appointment to keep. After arriving at his hotel that morning he had made two telephone calls. He smiled now as he recalled the surprise and glee of one of his former Yale classmates, now a discouraged young bond salesman, with whom he had kept in touch.

valuable acres.

"Miss Earle says to come to the office," a maid told him when he had given his name, and led him from the vast hall to a fairly large room, whose long windows looked upon a tennis court, and whose walls were almost covered with group pictures of graduating classes, photographs of amateur theatrical performances, and portrait studies of alumnae.

A very thin, sharp-faced woman of about 40, with red-rimmed eyes which peered nearsightedly, rose from an old-fashioned roll-top desk and came forward to greet him.

"I am Miss Earle, Miss Pendleton's private secretary," she told him, as she shook her thin, clammy hand. "I should have told you when you telephoned this morning that both Miss Pendleton and Miss Mason sailed for Europe yesterday. We always have our commencement the last Tuesday in May, you know. . . . But if there is anything I can do for you—"

"I should like to know something at the first hand of the history of the school, its—well, prestige, special advantages, curriculum, and so on," Dundee began depressedly.

"I should certainly be able to answer any question you may wish to ask, Mr. Randolph, since I have been with the school for 15 years," Miss Earle interrupted tartly.

"Then Forsyte must take younger pupils than I had been led to believe, Miss Earle," Dundee said, with his most winning smile.

"The secretary corrected him, but she thawed rapidly. "Of course, I was a mere child when I finished business school, but I have been here 15 years—15 years of watching rich society girls dawdle away four or five years, just because they've got to be somewhere before they make their debut. . . . But I mustn't talk like that, or I'll give you a wrong impression, Mr. Randolph. Of its kind, it is really a very fine school—very exclusive; riding masters, dancing masters, a golf 'pro' and our own golf course, native teachers for French, Italian, German and Spanish. . . . Oh, the school is all right, and will probably not suffer any loss of prestige on account of that dreadful murder out in the Middle West."

"Murder!" Dundee echoed, as if he had no idea what she was talking about.

"Haven't you been reading the papers?" Miss Earle rallied him, with a coquettish smile. "But I don't suppose Boston bothers with such sordid things," she added, her thin-lipped mouth tightening.

"Miss Earle was all cut up about it, because Mrs. Selim, or Juanita Leigh, as she was known on Broadway, had directed our Easter play the last two years, and the reporters simply hounded us the first two days after she was murdered out in Hamilton, where a number of our richest girls have come from."

"By Jove!" Dundee exclaimed. "Was the Selim woman connected with this school, really? . . . I only read the headlines—never pay much attention to murders in the papers."

"I wish," Miss Earle interrupted tartly, fresh tears reddening her eyes, "that people wouldn't persist in referring to her as 'that Selim woman.' . . . When I think how sweet and friendly she was, how—how kind!" and to Dundee's surprise she choked on tears before she could go on: "Of course I know it's dreadful for the school, and I ought not to talk about it, when you've just come to see about putting your sister into the school, but Nita was my friend, and it simply makes me wild."

grown more and more sour and envy bitten every year of the 15 she had served there—and she liked Nita Leigh Selim better than anyone she had ever met. The opportunity for direct questioning was too miraculous to be ignored. So he changed his tone suddenly and said very earnestly: "No, I am not a reporter," Miss Earle. But I am not James Wadley Randolph, Jr. I am James F. Dundee, special investigator attached to the office of the district attorney of Hamilton, and I want you to help me solve the mystery of Mrs. Selim's murder."

It took nearly 10 precious minutes for Dundee to nurse the terrified but obviously thrilled woman over the shock, and to get her into the mood to answer his questions freely.

"But I shan't and can't tell you anything bad about Nita!" she protested vehemently, wiping her red-rimmed eyes. "The papers are all saying now that she got $10,000 for double-crossing some awful racketeer named 'Swallow-tail Sammy,' but I know she didn't get the money that way! She was too good."

"From Nita's confidences to you, do you have any idea how she did get the money?" Dundee asked.

Miss Earle shook her head. "I don't know, but she got it honorably, I know that. . . . Maybe she found her husband and made him pay alimony."

Dundee controlled his excitement with difficulty. "Did she tell you all about her marriage and divorce?"

Again Miss Earle shook her head. "The only time she ever spoke of it was last year, the first year she directed why she didn't get married again, and she said she couldn't—she wasn't divorced, because she didn't know where her husband was, and it was too expensive to go to Reno."

him or something—and got a divorce sometime this last year, and this money she got was a settlement."

"She must have got a divorce, since she was planning to be married again to a young man in Hamilton," Dundee assured her soothingly.

"The worst everybody puts the very worst interpretation on everything, when a person gets murdered!" Miss Earle stormed. "If poor Nita had belonged to a rich family, like the girls here, they would have spent a million to hush up any scandal on her! . . . I've seen it done!" she added, darkly and venomously.

TEACHER LOSES LIFE IN CRASH

Miss Evelyn Tuxbury Is Fatally Injured in Auto Accident

Evelyn Tuxbury, 23, former Coombs school teacher, died early this morning in an Alpena hospital as a result of an automobile accident Sunday evening according to word received here yesterday by a local insurance company.

Ferdinand Gorsche, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gorsche of this city, who was driving at the time the mishap occurred, suffered only minor injuries. The car was totally demolished.

Both Miss Tuxbury and Mr. Gorsche left Manistique Sunday afternoon enroute to Oscoda, where they were teaching. Miss Tuxbury had spent the Christmas holidays with her parents at her home near Minneapolis, had come to Manistique by train, and had planned to make the remaining part of her trip by auto with Mr. Gorsche.

Late Sunday evening word was received here from an Alpena garage telling of the accident. Mr. and Mrs. Gorsche had a telephone conversation with their son yesterday morning. Reports state that the car leaped off a thirty foot embankment into a stream. It is believed that the slippery pavement was the cause of the tragedy.

John T. Bouchard, Newberry, who has been the holiday guest of Miss Tuxbury in this city and in Coombs, she taught at the Coombs consolidated school for two years in 1926-27 and 1927-28.

THEATRES

Stirring! Whizzling! Action! Fun! Clara Bow's in town in "Her Wedding Night," a deliciously romantic farce-comedy, written by Avery Hopwood, king of farce. "Her Wedding Night" opens today at the Gero theatre. It's laughs at the start, the middle and love at the end. It's a Bow knockout.

Imagine Clara Bow as a red-headed film star in France, where because she doesn't understand the language, she unwittingly becomes the bride in a wedding ceremony in which the groom is masquerading under an assumed name. Thus she becomes the wife, by proxy, of a man she has never seen. And when they meet, and when Charles Ruggles gets in his complicating comedy, and when Skeets Gallagher, the bridegroom's proxy, gets through explaining, there's a diverting love story with Clara falling hard for her strangely acquired husband, Ralph Forbes.

NORMAL BUYING

NORMAL TIMES

AN Arkansas newspaper has announced that it will print no more news in its columns in which the terms "hard times" or "depression" are mentioned. Coming on the heels of a year that has been characterized by a hysteria of inaction...of looking under the beds for a bogey-man that didn't exist...followed by an equally abnormal hysteria that urged an orgy of wild spending as a cure...this pronouncement is like a breath of spring.

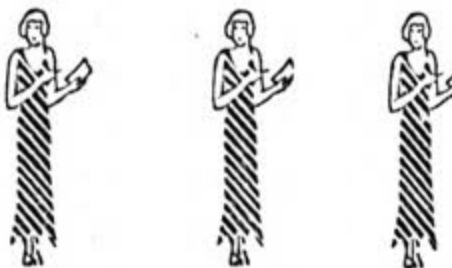

It means that the public at large...as well as the press...is beginning to realize that nothing is so frightfully wrong with the country after all. It means that public morale is coming up out of the cellar for air; that a jumpy mental condition which doctors describe as neurotic is giving way to a state of mind that causes folks to look sheepishly at each other and say "Let's go to work."

Shown that the economic structure of the nation will not come crashing down like a house of cards, the buying public is beginning to resume its matter-of-fact, sane, normal ways of living. And as the householder, the family head and the man in the street begin to buy the things they want and need, those loose threads of trade that have hung idle for a time again start to weave themselves into a fabric of prosperity. For, after all is said and done, hysterical efforts to cure an abnormal condition usually result only in more hysteria. Normal thinking, normal living, normal buying really DO the job. And the job is already well begun. So let's keep it up.

If your normal buying requirements call for the purchase of three suits a year . . . just plan to buy three suits . . . no more, no less . . . this year.

If your normal buying schedule would plan the purchase of three dresses for spring and summer wear . . . why merely buy those three dresses this year.

If, normally, you expend ten dollars each week on foodstuffs . . . just resume a healthful, normal living schedule by spending that weekly amount now.

If your normal entertainment program calls for three nights at the movies each week . . . merely fall back into a comfortable way of living by visiting your favorite picture house three times weekly.

If, in normal times your holiday schedule calls for three trips to the country each year . . . plan now to take those three trips this year.

If, ordinarily, you employ three stenographers or clerks in your office . . . do so this year. With business on the upturn, there'll be plenty of work for them to do.

Subsidization in College Athletics Decreasing

PROBE CLEANED UP TWIN EVILS

Other Authorities Say Investigation Had Little Effect

BY CHARLES GRUMICH
Assoc. Press Sports Writer
Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5 (AP)—Increased interest and vigilance of college officials, in the opinion of several middlewestern sports authorities, has diminished subsidization and recruiting, the twin evils charged against college athletics in the Carnegie report more than a year ago.

Some leaders in the Big Six conference, which recently was in turmoil over accusations against the "Simon-purity" of athletics at the member University of Kansas, held to the belief that publication of the Carnegie reports had incited in professors and presidents consciousness of the ill arising from a policy of "win at any cost."

Others say there has been little or no effect from the expose of the investigators, who concluded that every seventh college athlete in the nation was subsidized and that coaches "went shopping" for their talent.

Careful Scrutiny

The general belief expressed was that the exhaustive Carnegie survey a year later seems to have brought home to university and college officials a necessity for careful scrutiny of their own athletic personnel, or of others.

A concrete example was seen in the charges brought by Prof. W. A. Tarr of the University of Missouri that the University of Kansas was guilty of proselyting and subsidization, in the degree labeled subsidization.

Dr. Tarr, a new representative in the ruling Big Six council of professors, conducted a one-man sleuthing expedition into Kansas last fall and prosecuted the charges before his colleagues.

The powerful faculty body voted to ostracize Kansas after this year, but a few weeks later rescinded its order after the Kansas athletic board banished James A. Bausch, all around athlete, under a clarifying interpretation of subsidization adopted by the Big Six faculty men and college and university presidents.

Kansas promised to accept the rulings of the conference eligibility committee, which will meet on the Jayhawkers' home grounds January 9 to consider the cases of ten to twenty other athletes accused of having been lured to or subsidized by the university, directly or indirectly.

Murmurs of resentment emanated from the Kansas campus. The general cry was, "let's investigate the other Big Six schools, too."

Mike Ahearn, veteran athletic director for the Kansas Aggies, asserts "there have been no changes in our attitude toward subsidizing and recruiting since publication of the Carnegie report."

Familiar With Rules

It is recalled significantly that Bill Meisinger, an Aggie athlete, was summarily found ineligible by his school authorities when they discovered he received a salary from man insurance company head for future service as farm manager.

The same insurance man employed Bausch at Kansas as a salesman for $75 monthly and this was found to constitute subsidization.

C. L. Brewer, athletic director at Missouri, says the most evident development since publication of the Carnegie report is "that university presidents, faculty members and athletic authorities have all become genuinely more interested in a wholesome attitude toward athletics."

"Entire college faculties," he asserts, "have become more familiar with the rules, ethics and standards of different sports."

E. C. Lytton, business manager of Drake university, says he feels certain there was an annual improvement in college athletics before the Carnegie report was issued. "Conditions now as compared with ten years ago," he added, "are very favorable indeed."

From Nebraska, Athletic Director Herb D. Gish speaks favorably of the report. He believes officials of all schools keep a closer watch over their athletic departments to prevent subsidizing and recruiting by alumni.

Oklahoma college and university authorities, questioned about the report, said their schools were not affected. St. Louis university's answer was the same.

Rules Clubman Was Correctly Assessed

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—In a decision described as important to golfers and clubmen, the federal court of appeals ruled today that E. O. Munn was correctly assessed $480 on his purchase of two shares of stock of the Deepdale Golf club at Great Neck.

The assessment was made under a provision of the revenue act taxing initiation fees ten per cent. Federal agents said golf and social clubs have adopted the practice of selling stock to prospective members since the tax became operative.

CUPID WINS THIS GAME

These bullet-like forward passes Henry Friedman threw professionally this past football season appear to have registered a touchdown in the heart of Miss Shirley Immerman, pretty Brooklynite. Recent news dispatches indicate that the former Michigan All-American football star and Miss Immerman will wed this spring. Friedman captained the New York Giants professional eleven this past season. The couple met last summer.

Horse Racing Fans Predict Equipose 1931 Derby Winner

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—It is a long cry from January's wintry blasts to the Kentucky Derby, but already the future books are forecasting that C. V. Whitney's Equipose will be out in front when the turf's best three-year-olds thunder past the judges' stand at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 16.

Thoroughbred trainers say a thousand things may happen to keep Equipose from even facing the barrier in the Blue Grass classic, but the winter book-makers nevertheless have established the Whitney ace as the favorite. Very little wagering is reported, however, as few care to risk their money before the eligible list appears the latter part of February.

Sturdy Runner
Equipose ranked as one of the greatest of the 1930 crop of two-year olds, winning eight of his 17 starts to top the juvenile division in money earned with $156,823. He proved a sturdy runner, campaigning from early April to late October over tracks of three states and winning at all distances.

With a record of having run the fastest mile in the history of two-year old racing, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand holds second place in the winter books. The speedy son of St. Germain—Bonus stepped the mile in 1:36 to win the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes, defeating among others the derby favorite, Equipose.

Although generally acclaimed as the two-year old champion, George D. Widener's Jamestown is being held at long odds. The great son of St. James, winner of the rich Saratoga stakes and the Belmont Futurity, had only one defeat to mar his 1930 record, but there is some doubt as to whether he will start in the derby. Although not generally known, the Widener youngster was bothered with weak legs all through the season.

The only unbeaten colt slated to start in the derby will be the Tennessee stable's Vanderpool. Despite the fact he never stepped out of sprint classes in winning eleven consecutive races, he is considered a good proposition, especially out in the Blue Grass country.

If the got of Sir Gallahad II are to follow in the footsteps of Gallant Fox, it will depend on the ability of Inco, winner of the Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington Park, and William Woodward's Ormesby, a stablemate of the mighty 1930 derby winner. Neither were good enough to rank among the 30 leading money winners of the past year, but they showed signs of developing and Sir Gallahad offspring are famous for their improvement as three-year olds.

Inco is quoted at long odds by western bookmakers and longer odds in the east, while one may write out his own ticket on Ormesby and the remainder of the probable starters.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5 (AP)—Benjamin Bass, junior champion, defended his title successfully at the arena tonight by punching out a 10-round decision over Lew Massey, Philadelphia Italian. Bass weighed 128½ pounds, Massey 138.

Basketball Topics

Plays and Players

BY EVERETT S. DEAN
Basketball Coach, Indiana U.
A Wisconsin out-of-bounds block play is diagramed in the top half of this chart. (F1) and (F2) run past each other in an effort to lose (F2)'s guard. The man out-of-bounds, the center in this play, bounce-passes to (F2) under the basket. On this play the guards should shift men to prevent being blocked off.

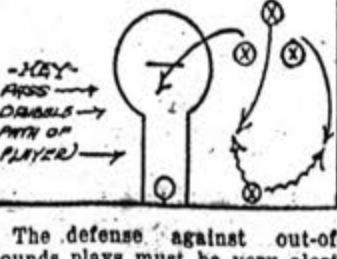

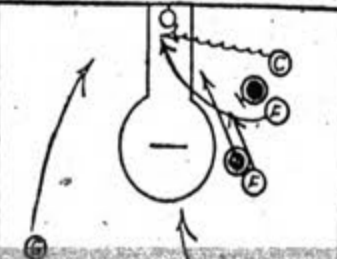

College team employ out-of-bounds plays in the following ways: The quick pass-in for a quick shot, the block play, and the pass to the back men for possession. The quick pass-in play consists of speed and clever footwork and the purpose is to get the ball in play before the defense gets set. The block out-of-bounds play is used after the play for possession is used any time.

A Purdue out-of-bounds play is diagramed in the lower part of the chart. The forwards line up side by side and spread, allowing the guard to drive through for a close-in shot. As a variation the forwards cross-cross and the guard remains stationary.

There should be a relation between out-of-bounds plays and the regular offense in order to get better execution. One play for the offensive end of the floor is sufficient. Players should know the play from different positions as it will be necessary to play them from time to time.

The defense against out-of-bounds plays must be very alert. Defensive men should stick to their men so closely that it will be hard to put the ball in play. Shifting is necessary on block out-of-bounds plays.

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Outsiders scored heavily at the fair grounds, New Orleans, today as the seven races were decided over a track made heavy by recent rains.

Petabit, a three year old filly from the Colgate stable, led the procession of longshots when she won the third race and paid $49.10 for a $2 mutuel ticket. Valadictory, a speedy runner owned by I. E. Clark's estate, was a close second, however, accounting for the fourth number at odds of 20 to 1.

When Golden Prince was scratched from the Pines purse, E. R. Bradley's Paradise Lost was made the favorite in the six-furlong feature, but the race was won by A. Dufauchard's Dark Simon, which paid $9.10 for a $2 straight ticket.

The sixth race, a gallop of one and one-sixteenth miles, went to A. P. Canale's Albee Goldsmith, a 5 to 1 shot.

In contrast to the fair grounds, the favorites won the majority of the races at St. John's in Florida, although the track also was heavy.

Four of the six races went to favorites or near public choices. Sport Hallahan was the shortest priced winner of the day, paying 4 to 5 for his victorious jaunt over six furlongs in the second event.

Jockey Malley put over two winners for riding honors of the day. He was up on Prince Tokalon, which showed the way home in the St. Augustine record claiming handicap, and Rubberneck, winner of the last race. Prince Tokalon paid 15 to 5 while Rubberneck closed at 9 to 5.

Escanaba Gridders See Football Show

Members of the Escanaba high school football squads yesterday afternoon saw movies of the Notre Dame Ramblers' practice session at Tucson, Ariz., last fall. The pictures, taken when the Rockne athletes held a limbering-up session in the Arizona city, clearly show the plays that a few days later beat Southern California.

BEVENOCS BEAT BIG JO CAGERS

Escanabans Chalk Up Win No. 14 at Expense of Stambaugh, 22-18

A strong finish enabled the Escanaba Bevenocs to tack up their fourteenth consecutive basketball victory Sunday afternoon at the Coliseum gymnasium with the Stambaugh Big Jo cagers, the victims, 22 to 18. The victory kept the record of the Escanaba crew free from defeat.

After an air tight first half in which both teams seemed satisfied to confine their activities to defense, the quintets put on a scoring exhibition in the two final periods. The Stambaugh boys pulled away from the Bevenocs in the third period but the Escanabans came back in the last period to gain their advantage.

R. Warner led the attack for the Bevenocs with five field goals and a free throw. Maki was the offensive star of the visitors with two field goals and two free tosses.

Friday evening the Bevenocs will tussle the Munising Dragons on the Munising floor.

BADGERS BEAT ILLINOIS, 12-9

Both Big Ten Teams in Fine Defense Form; Little Scoring

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 5 (AP)—Wisconsin got away to a victorious start tonight, defeating Illinois, 12 to 9, in the inaugural of the Western Conference basketball season.

The contest was a bitter defensive affair, with the Badgers holding Illinois to two field goals, both of which were scored in the second period. Chuck Harper, Illini captain, scored the first point of the game, a foul goal after seven minutes of the first half, and Illinois did not count again until after four minutes of the final frame.

Crimson-Gopher Football Battle Is Not Probable

Minneapolis, Jan. 5 (AP)—Prospects for a football game between the University of Minnesota and Harvard, frequently mentioned, were characterized as a "dead issue" today by Herbert O. Crisler, athletic director of the Gopher school. Similarly, he said, hockey games with eastern schools, will not materialize.

Crisler made his statement after a two weeks trip to the east in which he sought to build up athletic relations between Minnesota and schools in that region. He ascribed failure of his efforts to apprehensions existing in the east about football conditions.

Toledo Not Included in Schedule for Big Line Harness Racing

Cleveland, Jan. 5 (AP)—Thirteen weeks of big line harness racing were scheduled for the summer of 1931 at the annual meeting of the stewards of the Grand Circuit here today. Failure to include a Toledo meet was the outstanding surprise.

Unless the unforeseen develops, the Fort Miami track at Toledo will be out of the Grand Circuit picture for the first time in 13 years. It was revealed that the track is no longer a member of the country's premier light harness organization and did not send a representative to the meeting. Only an improbable revision of the schedule would result in bringing Toledo back into the fold.

Not Interested
Guy A. Reeder, a director of the Toledo track, said his course was not interested in Grand Circuit racing. He did not comment on predictions of other racing moguls that the track would conduct its own meet the week before the circuit opens on June 29 and hold an independent meet during the weeks of July 29 and 27, which were awarded to Toronto.

Toledo's failure to ask for dates came as a surprise, as reports had been heard that it would battle for assignments given it and other tracks in the tentative program drafted in advance by the Trotting Horse Club of America last November. On that schedule Toledo was to start the season June 22 and was optional with the New London, Ohio, course for the week of September 14.

Tracks at Syracuse, N. Y., and Milwaukee also failed to schedule meets, the former because it conflicted with Indianapolis and the latter because no dates were available. Last year Indianapolis and Syracuse split a week for their state fair. It was understood that the week of August 71, which was not scheduled, will remain open.

North Randall track at Cleveland will open the season with two weeks of racing, June 29 to July 11. It also agreed to take the week of August 17 to 22, if it could land the $50,000 Hamiltonian three year old trot, the Kentucky Derby of the harness tracks.

Re-elect Officers
The officers of the American Harness Association were re-elected for 1931 as follows: E. Roland Harriman of New York, president; William P. Engleman, Kalamazoo, Mich., first vice president; Lawrence B. Shepard, Hanover, Pa., second vice president; and Will Gahagan, Goshen, N. Y., secretary-treasurer.

The complete schedule announced was: North Randall, June 29 to July 11; Kalamazoo, July 13-18; Toronto, Ont., July 23-25 and 27-29; Hartford, Conn., August 3-8; Goshen, N. Y., August 10-15; North Randall, Cleveland (conditional August 17-22); Springfield, Ill., August 24-29; open week, August 31-September 5; Indianapolis, September 7-12; Lexington, Ky., September 14-19; Lexington, Ky., September 21-October 3.

First period:
1. Crossman (Reid) 2:52.
2. Reid (Crossman) 17:52.
Penalties: Smith, Schlanderer.
Second period:
1. Scollie (Bob Henry) 4:40.
2. Reid, 5:40.
3. Reid, 13:34.
4. Crossman, 15:05.
5. Crossman (Reid) 15:42.
Third period:
1. Reid, Schlanderer, 3:40.
2. Schlanderer, 5:51.

Miami Amateur Golf Meet Starts Today

Miami, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—The Simon Pures of Florida winter golf-dom will trek across the links tomorrow to open the season for Miami mid-winter amateur tournament honors.

Jimmy West, formerly of Atlanta and now of Miami, will lead the crowd of non-professionals in qualifying to play as he defends his 1930 title. Match play will start Wednesday and continue through Saturday.

Tournament officials said today they expected more than 100 prospective qualifiers, and hoped to send six flights of 16 golfers from the tees Wednesday.

Gladstone Woman Being Treated in Green Bay Hospital

After hearing a physician's affidavit regarding her condition, Circuit Judge Frank A. Bell Monday morning granted a second continuance in the murder trial of Mrs. Jennie Ver Hamme, 31, of Gladstone, charged with the killing of Cyril Van Rosen, 43, at the Ver Hamme home in Gladstone last May. The case is now scheduled to come to trial at the April session of court in Escanaba.

Attorney T. E. Strom, who represents Mrs. Ver Hamme, presented the affidavit of Austin O. Olmstead, M. D., of Green Bay, in which it was stated that Mrs. Ver Hamme was now undergoing radium treatments, having been admitted to St. Vincent's hospital Jan. 2, 1931. The doctor's statement said that he had previously examined Mrs. Ver Hamme Dec. 20, 1930, and advised her to return after the first of January for further treatment. Rest and quiet were cited as essential to aid the treatment, and the defendant was described as not in physical condition to withstand the strain of a court trial. She is now reported as in improved health.

Prosecuting attorney G. W. Jackson voiced objection to any further postponement of the case, declaring that Mrs. Ver Hamme had been seen on the streets at Gladstone, that she had attended a party, and that she took a trip to a hunting camp last fall, in addition to several automobile trips to Green Bay for medical examination and treatment. She has been out on bonds since last summer, and continuance of her case was granted at the September term of court after affidavits of physicians were presented attesting to the seriousness of her condition. One doctor said that she was suffering from a severe case of cancer and probably would not live three months.

In granting a continuance of the case, Judge Bell said that he would "assume the responsibility" on the strength of the affidavit made by the Green Bay doctor and those previously presented by local physicians.

Returning Students Fill Up 14 Coaches

Train 102, leaving Escanaba Sunday evening at 8:55, had 15 coaches out of Powers, an unusual length for passenger trains in this vicinity.

Fourteen of the coaches out of Escanaba carried students returning to various schools and colleges after the holiday vacation, and holiday guests returning to their homes.

GAME VIOLATIONS

Newberry, Jan. 6 (Special)—Wardens making an inspection trip among the camps in the northern part of the county ran onto a "tough bunch" and were forced to make several arrests Sunday. Venison was found in several places and at one shack the hearts of three deer were discovered. Eliza Webb, James McSweeney and a man named Mercer will appear before Justice Fred Beck today to answer to the charge of having venison in their possession. Mercer, who has a wife and several children living in the most terrible condition, is now being threatened by the officers. A pair of brass knuckles was taken from him and turned over to the state police. Assistant District Warden Julius Thorson, and Warden Peters and Mariett made the arrests.

DRUNKEN DRIVER

Loy Ellis, the keeper of a lumberjack restaurant at 111 East Helen street was arrested by state police on Saturday night when he ran a car into the ditch between the police station and the court house. He will be arraigned sometime today.

MULLEN FUNERAL

The funeral of George McMullen, who died on January 2, following a long illness, was held from the family residence on Parmelee street on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The Rev. Sam Bottrell of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated, and burial took place in Forest Home cemetery. His wife, Pauline and all of his children were able to be present. Mrs. Walter Borson and John Borson from Reed City. The others, Archie, Gullie, Howard and Mrs. A. W. Talcott, make their homes here. Besides these he leaves one brother, William, of Denver, Colorado.

MRS. CAMPBELL REELECTED

Mrs. E. H. Campbell was re-elected president of the Newberry Study Club at the regular election held on Saturday afternoon at the community building. The club first assembled at the Johnson restaurant where luncheon was served, then convened at the place of election. Other officers are: Mrs. John Brown, vice president; Mrs. A. M. Chamberlain, secretary; Mrs. W. G. Fretz, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Shaw, treasurer; Miss Morrill, librarian. During the business meeting "thank you" letters were read from the Good Will Farm at ing to various schools and colleges after the holiday vacation, and holiday guests returning to their homes.

Houghton, the National Child Labor committee, and two families whom the club has assisted at Christmas time. Mrs. Shaw and Miss Heurmann reported for the Christmas basket committee. They sent baskets to nine families and furnished clothing for a little boy, besides gifts and candy for two other children.

Two names were elected as honorary members, Dr. Minta Kemp of Philadelphia and Dr. Rutledge-Burgess who is now practicing in Missouri, both of the ladies have served the club in valuable manner while they were living here.

The question of a topic for 1931-32 was discussed. The suggestion of Mrs. Chamberlain that the study take the form of a round-the-world trip with consideration of literature and living conditions met with such enthusiasm that it was decided to adopt it.

SCHOOL REOPENS

With the closing of the Christmas holiday the Newberry schools reopened on Monday morning with every teacher on hand for the opening session. The students who are attending schools and colleges in other places have been leaving rapidly the last day or so, the last of them going Sunday. On Saturday night about sixty took the evening train for Ann Arbor, Lansing and other down state college towns and most of the Northern Teachers' college people left during the day, some driving and others going by train.

Succeeds Winkler

George Van Stratton, a graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, has been appointed road engineer for Gogebic county to succeed Carl F. Winkler, who recently resigned to accept the same position in Houghton county. Mr. Koronski has been in the Gogebic highway department since 1921. Previous to that he was engaged in mining engineering and was city engineer for Bessemer.

Former Manistique Resident Passes Away In Hospital

Mrs. Alec Secrist, 57, of Hermansville, formerly of Manistique, died at a local hospital Monday morning, at 1:30 o'clock, following an illness of several weeks, due to gangrenous gallbladder and gallstones. Mrs. Secrist had been ill at her home for some time and was taken to a hospital in this city December 31.

Mrs. Secrist was born May 26, 1873, at York, Kentucky, and had lived in Manistique 18 years, until five years ago when the family removed to Hermansville.

Mrs. Secrist is survived by her husband, three sons and one daughter, Rock, of Manistique, Vernon, of Iron Mountain, Mrs. Deady De-rochey, of Newberry, and Ralph, at home. There are also five grandchildren.

The body was prepared for burial at the Anderson funeral home and will be taken by automobile to Manistique this morning. The body will repose at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rock Secrist, North Cedar street, where funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery at Manistique.

Car, Wagon Collide Driver Is Injured

George Van Stratton, 45, of Flat Rock, suffered internal injuries Saturday night about 7 o'clock when his wagon was struck by a sedan driven by Joseph Beck. The accident occurred on the Chalmers road, west of Gladstone. The injured man is a patient at St. Francis hospital in Escanaba. According to officers of the sheriff's department who investigated, the sedan was driven by Joseph Beck. Mr. Beck was accompanied by his mother and Louis Beck.
