

LIQUOR AND ECONOMY RECEIVE ACTION

NEW VIEW ON FOREIGN DEBT NOT WELCOME

REVISION URGED AS "GOOD BUSINESS" BY BANKER

Washington, Jan. 14.—Suggestion made by Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank, largest bank in the United States, that this government for reasons of "good business" should start a movement for debt reduction, are naturally unwelcome to officials of the government of the United States. As far as congress is concerned, the view is pretty much the same as held by the treasury—the best settlement possible was made and this is not the time to discuss a change.

Political Suicide.

The plain truth is that any political leader whether in the executive branch of the government or in congress, who wishes to commit political suicide can advocate reduction of war debts, but nobody else will try it. Neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have developed anybody willing to take up the cudgels for foreign governments, either on cancellation of war debts or anything else. The atmosphere here is so distinctly nationalistic that even the proposal to join the world court and submit disputes thereto, after the senate with a two-thirds vote in each case has approved a resolution to submit such a dispute, is in danger of being defeated.

Mr. Wiggin advances "good business reasons" as the basis for his plea. Congress doesn't understand that language at this time, particularly when any diminution in the payments of the foreign government would increase the foreign deficit here and cause either an increase in taxation or the flotation of bonds. When bankers in New York City last summer argued for the suppression of tariff revision, on the ground that it would hurt foreign trade, Congress in effect replied that it would protect the domestic market at all cost. Now that foreign trade has fallen off about a billion, two hundred million dollars and factories in the United States have been closed, the opponents of the tariff say their viewpoint was vindicated; but the protectionists insist that in progress before the tariff went into effect. So it has not been possible to convince congress that it made a mistake in tariff policy, even though many business men in New York feel that the figures prove it.

Allies Next Move.

Neither Mr. Wiggin and the bankers of New York nor Congress, however, may need to debate the question if the Allied governments should take the initiative in asking for a revision of war debts. American policy would be determined on the basis of the reasons given for the request. It is improbable that a request for revision would be declined if it was apparent that capacity to pay had been affected. The strong position of France today financially, as compared with the arguments made by her commissioners a few years ago, is of

RITCHIE TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Inaugurated Governor of Maryland for Fourth Consecutive Time

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14 (AP)—Albert C. Ritchie, whose name figures in Democratic presidential timber talk, discussed national questions almost exclusively in his address as he was inaugurated governor of Maryland for the fourth consecutive time here today.

Holding up what he said are the traditions of the Maryland free state for the nation to emulate, he called for less government, attacked national prohibition, urged return of the problem of temperance to the states and blamed the high tariff for business depression and asserted that the problem of unemployment is for business and not for government to solve.

The address, delivered from the crowded house of delegates chamber, was broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup, and several thousands of Ritchie's admirers, standing in the corridors and on the grounds of the historic capitol building, heard his voice through amplifiers.

Pompous Ceremony

An outspoken opponent of national prohibition from the start, Governor Ritchie said that "we have been steadfast in this position when others who now embrace it and acclaim it lacked either the courage or conviction to declare it."

Governor Ritchie, the only man ever to be re-elected governor of this historic state, will, if he completes the present term of four years, have a record of 15 consecutive years in the executive chair, longer than any other governor in the history of the United States.

The ceremonies today were in keeping with the pomp and splendor of Maryland tradition. Flags and bunting covered the capitol from the top of its old wooden dome to the ground floor.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond of the court of appeals. After the oath was administered the governor passed from the capitol building between long lines of national guardsmen, their rifles at present arms and the bayonets gleaming in the afternoon sun. Close by the United States Naval Academy band played "Maryland, My Maryland."

ferred as a reason for being cautious about further revision, though to be sure the whole question of revising foreign debts revolves largely around the payment by Germany of most of the Allied war debts. Government officials here do not relish the idea of being placed in the position of collecting indirectly from Germany, and that was their main objection to the young plan.

It even the Allied debt agreements are revised it is unlikely that either the principal or the interest rate will be changed, but the annual payments would be affected so that the entire debt would be spread over a much longer period than sixty-two years or else spread more evenly over that period.

Doherty Says U. S. 'Passes Buck' In Oil Conservation

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service company, in full-page advertisements to be published in newspapers tomorrow charges the United States with "passing the buck" in conservation of oil and that meanwhile the national resources are being wasted.

"I have no fight with our federal officials who have been afraid to take a firm stand on this oil matter," he says, "for I doubt if they would have gotten any place in a fight with a great line of oil barons, but the situation has now gotten so bad that many of these oil barons are themselves frightened and, I believe, now is the time to strike."

In his statement, issued simultaneously with a meeting in Washington tomorrow of governors of the oil producing states, he said he has been trying for more than ten years to protect the nation's oil supplies from "needless waste and reckless exhaustion."

Missing Manistique Woman Sought Here

Mrs. Doris Bashore of Manistique, who has been missing from her home since Tuesday has been traced to Escanaba by relatives but the track is lost here. A woman answering her description boarded the Soo train at Manistique Tuesday afternoon and transferred to a street car at Gladstone. She has relatives in this city but has not appeared at any of their homes.

Mrs. Bashore is 22 years old, weighs about 125 pounds, has dark hair and blue eyes. When she disappeared she wore a red hat, tan coat with fur collar, light rubber slippers and a black dress. Anyone knowing of her whereabouts is asked to notify John Peterson, chief of police, Manistique or Chief of Police Tolon of Escanaba.

BILL IN HOUSE SEEKS REPEAL OF MALT TAX

Insists on Reduction

Governor Brucker told the house ways and means group that the budget now on their desks was not his and that he will insist on drastic cuts. He said the administration will submit later its own budget bill to submit later in the session.

Rep. Ate Dwyer, of Grand Rapids, offered a joint resolution to increase the pay of the governor from $5,000 to $8,000 a year. An increase to $10,000 met with favor from other sources. A report was current that a bill is being prepared to award Governor Brucker $5,000 a year for his service on the administrative board as a means of providing him with extra pay. Any permanent change in the gubernatorial salary could not become effective until 1933.

Appointment of judges for courts of record was provided in another joint resolution submitted by Rep. Milton R. Palmer, of Detroit, who offered a similar measure in the 1929 session. The resolution does not set up the machinery of appointment but fixes the age of 70 as the automatic retirement age.

Another measure by Rep. Joseph C. Armstrong, of Detroit, seeks the repeal of the 1929 private employment bureau statute. The last legislature took the office of superintendent of the bureau out of the jurisdiction of the state department of labor and industry and placed the office directly under the governor's supervision. The measure today would reinstate the office to its former status.

Delinquent taxpayers could redeem their property from the state if no disposition had been made of the lands under a bill submitted by Rep. Cuthbertson. The present law provides that lands on which taxes have been delinquent five years revert to the state.

Rep. Frank P. Darin, of Wayne, offered a bill to fix the terms of members of the state crime commission at three years.

Rep. Wardell submitted a bill to make one dollar the maximum fee that any municipality could charge for towing an automobile and impounding it.

Resolutions were approved by the house memorializing congress for the immediate payment of soldiers' bonuses and for early action on the St. Lawrence waterway project.

The house adopted a concurrent resolution to adjourn tomorrow until January 26 to permit members to go on their institutional junkets. The senate is expected to concur in the adjournment.

Ice Fishing Gives Work to the Idle

Sandusky, Ohio (AP)—Fishing through holes in the ice was once a winter sport here, but unemployment has turned it into an industry.

On Sandusky Bay and along the shores of Lake Erie winter colonies have sprung up. There are tents in which the anglers sit by oil stoves while they wait for a bite on their lines, hung through holes in the ice outside.

Around the islands of Lake Erie, where pickerel and whitefish are abundant, some fishermen have reported catching as much as 600 pounds in a single day in former years. They have netted as much as $60 a day from their "catches."

An average return is $5 or $6 a day.

Keweenaw Waterway

Houghton—Improvements for Keweenaw Waterway and the need for establishing a harbor of refuge on the shore of Lake Superior in the vicinity of Keweenaw Point were considered at a public hearing held yesterday morning in the court room of the court house. The hearing was conducted by Major P. C. Bullard, Corps of Engineers, district engineer, and Lieut. C. R. Bathurst, military assistant to Major Bullard.

The hearing was attended by about 40 representatives of Copper Country industries, county officials, representatives of municipal governments and associations of commerce, and several commercial fishermen.

In opening the hearing, Major Bullard explained that the government was making a preliminary investigation of improvements needed to improve rivers and harbors for the benefit of navigation. He emphasized that the investigations did not necessarily mean any improvements will be made or, if they were decided upon, would be made in the immediate future.

FRANCE LEAST AFFECTED BY HARD TIMES

due to the war, which smashed the economic fabric of Europe. Before 1914, Europe was a vast factory making articles for the entire world. The long war forced the former clients to build their own factories with a view to making articles which Europe could no longer supply. These new factories caused the super-production immediately after the war which has upset the economic equilibrium of the world.

Industrial production here has a volume only about 74 per cent below the average throughout the record year of 1929, which was 39 per cent above the pre-war level. The extremely small drop in which France has suffered when it is taken into account that during last year the world experienced perhaps the worst industrial crisis ever known, is astounding even to its own economists.

Has No Breadlines

Unemployment, which is such a formidable problem in England, Germany and the United States, remains of very minor concern here. There are no breadlines, nor is there any need of them. Less than 10,000 persons are drawing unemployment pay throughout the country, and most of these belong to special trades. These figures fluctuate weekly, but the list of unemployed remains well below 30,000, while benefiting there is a list of averaging 10,000 of jobs remaining unfilled.

All this time France finds it necessary to import foreign labor to meet the demands of industrial and agricultural districts. It is estimated that of 12,000,000 workers in the country, there are 1,700,000 foreigners. These are largely Belgians, Italians, Czech-Slovakians and Poles. The chief unemployed class is in the Paris district, and this is regarded as due to infiltrations of laborers from the provinces who are attracted by life of the capital.

It is pointed out, therefore, that while unemployment lists are published, the actual fact is that France must have foreign labor to maintain production.

"During the past few weeks France has begun to feel the effects of the general disturbance in trade," declared Germain Martin, finance minister. "The countries of various continents reduced their purchases, and the French export industries suffered."

Gold Flows to France

"Yet it is impossible to close our eyes to the fact that capital is continuously flowing in for investment in France, and this explains the steady increase in the gold holdings of the Bank of France. It also shows the confidence of other countries in the stability of French currency and French economic development. Why, therefore, should there be any discouragement in France?"

As a matter of fact, France actually has more money than ever before. For the gold reserve of the Bank of France has been swelled to the largest total in history, and circulation of French banknotes backed by this gold reserve also has reached a new high—nearly 76,000,000,000 francs.

Much of the gold drain from the Bank of England has been finding its way into the Bank of France. In December the latter was receiving some $1,750,000 daily. Many millions of dollars worth of virgin gold arriving in England from South Africa has been bought by France. And in consequence the price of the precious stuff has been forced up in London to the highest figure since British currency returned to a gold basis in 1925.

Wants Gold Spent

With three-fifths of the world's gold controlled by France and the United States, Britain believes that it must be put back into international circulation before its own prosperity, or even French and American prosperity, can return.

Finance Minister Martin, however, is calling upon every citizen to go on quietly and steadily with his work, as the best means of assuring full economic recovery, which he believes will be accomplished soon. The cost of living remains unchanced and, in general, is lower than that of other countries. He pointed out that at the same time a considerable surplus of tax receipts is certain for the loss of the financial year on March 31.

Business houses, especially the luxury trades, have admittedly suffered, but this is attributed to the spirit of economy which has been inspired by pessimistic reports from abroad. Taking no chances, the average citizen appears to be retrenching before it is too late.

Suit to Break Will of Publisher Begun

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Trial of Lindsay McRae's suit to break the will of his father, Milton A. McRae, millionaire publisher, was started today before Judge Ormond F. Hunt in Wayne county circuit court.

Under the terms of the will, disposing of an estate valued originally at $4,000,000, the son was given an income of $500 a month, of which $150 was to go to the support of Mary Anne McRae, daughter of the elder McRae, formerly of Grand Rapids.

The son charges in his suit that his father was influenced by a secretary to alter an earlier will, which provided more liberally for him. He charges his father's judgment was questionable in his declining years. The will now under attack was dated June 13, 1930.

Harris Youth, 15, Dies at Hospital

Joseph Skrusienki, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skrusienki, of Harris, passed away yesterday afternoon at three o'clock at St. Francis hospital where he was admitted in a critical condition a few hours before, suffering from nephritis in an advanced stage.

He was born in Harris, February 22, 1915, and attended the public school in that village. He was the only son in the family. Five sisters, Lillian, Stella, Viola, Josephine and Irene survive him. Besides his parents.

The body was taken to the Alto funeral home where it will remain until Saturday morning. It will be taken directly to St. Michael's church at Ferronville where funeral services will be held at nine o'clock, with Rev. Fr. T. G. Drenjak as celebrant at the requiem high mass. Burial will be in the Harris cemetery.

the bill carries funds for next year's operation of the agriculture department.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, just before the conference report was agreed to, asked the administration to task "The issue, after all," he said, "who is going to pay the bill created. The administration has used the treasury doors and said they are not going to pay it. The administration is for exempting the large income tax payers and the corporations from paying a share, and on the backs of the small property owners will be piled increased taxes for relief."

Will Start Relief

Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee in moving recession on the food loan provision, said:

"The more quickly we get the $5,000,000 appropriation the more quickly relief will start."

The senate also receded from its amendment of Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, to the emergency appropriation measure providing that no geographical restrictions shall be observed in the drought regions in administering the loans.

Senator Jones said he understood the department of agriculture did not intend to observe any geographical limitations. However, Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, introduced a resolution to have the senate declare itself against such limitations.

The $25,000,000 proposal of Robinson and Black would place no limitation upon the use of the money by the Red Cross.

It reads:

"There is hereby appropriated the sum of $25,000,000 to be expended by the Red Cross for the purpose of supplying food to persons otherwise unable to procure the same."

Reapportionment Will Be Studied By House Group

Lansing, Jan. 14 (AP)—Federal reapportionment received initial consideration in the legislature today as Rep. Robert D. Wardell, of Detroit, chairman of the house reapportionment committee, issued a mandate to his colleagues on the committee that each begin work on a measure to reap the congressional districts of the state.

Chairman Wardell urged that for introduction in the legislature by March 15 when the new federal reapportionment will go into effect. The new congress will also meet March 4.

Michigan will gain four congressmen under the new federal reapportionment as announced some time ago by President Hoover. The delegation in congress from this state will be increased to 17.

The Detroit legislator pointed out to his committee that some Michigan congressional districts have a population of less than 100,000 whereas the rate under the new federal apportionment will be 281,000. The sixth district has a population of about 1,250,000.

Dodge Changes His Lawyer Once More

Lansing, Jan. 14 (AP)—Franklin L. Dodge, former prohibition investigator for the department of justice who is awaiting extradition to Savannah, Ga., to stand trial on perjury charges, announced today he had retained John W. H. Krim, the New York City attorney, as his defense counsel publicly five years ago when he successfully prosecuted Colonel Charles B. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans Bureau.

Dodge, who must appear in Savannah February 11 has changed counsel three times since initial perjury proceedings were filed against him. He changed from a local lawyer to O. L. Smith, former assistant attorney general, and later to James E. Haggerty, of the firm headed by Edward N. Barnard, Detroit litigation lawyer. The charge against Dodge is in regard to his testimony at a bootlegger's trial last year, alleged to have varied from official reports filed by him on the case while a federal investigator.

department. The commissioner of insurance would grant or withhold approval. Rushton said such a law would prevent outside companies from cutting rates. They now slash rates until domestic companies are forced out of business, after which rates go higher than ever, he claimed.

Delinquent Tax Lands

Senator Rushton also introduced a bill which would wipe out the law which makes seizure of lands tax delinquent for five years and their transfer to the state conservation department. His aim is to select what delinquent lands it needs for conservation purposes, but the rest could be placed on public sale, and original owners would have an opportunity to recover by bidding in their property.

A measure to re-enact the state appropriation of $100,000 a year for advertising Michigan in cooperation with tourist and resort agencies, was sponsored by Rushton.

Senator Peter B. Lennon, of Genesee, offered a bill giving the state agricultural commissioner greater authority in the matter of revoking milk dealers licenses. Under existing laws the procedure is complicated. The Lennon bill provides that the commissioner may refuse or revoke licenses upon proper complaint. The applicants may seek redress in the courts if they feel aggrieved.

Favorite Recipe Betty Ann

Did you ever eat Chinese Chews? They are delicious. And this morning's recipe is one which Mrs. Oscar Peterson, 515 South Twelfth street, likes particularly and finds most successful.

- Chinese Chews. Two and one-half cups of oatmeal. One cup of flour. One cup of brown sugar. One-half cup of butter. One teaspoon soda. Cream butter and sugar, add oatmeal, then flour sifted with soda. Mix well with hands, saving out one cupful. Pack the remainder in a shallow pan. Make a filling of one pound of dates, one cup of water and one cup of brown sugar and cook slowly. Cool and flavor with lemon and spread on top of mixture in pan. Sprinkle remaining cupful of mixture over the top. Bake twenty minutes. When cool cut in squares.

Glorifying Yourself By Alicia Hart

Japanese make a cult of the bath that Americans might do well to copy. Not that we are not head and shoulders above the rest of the world in our bathroom equipment. We are. But just how to make the most of all the loveliness that is ours in the name of modern plumbing and pastel coloring is our problem. The Japanese scrub mightily with soap and brushes and rinse several times before they climb into the bathtub for their soak, which is the last rite in the bath. There is no question but that they are clean before they begin that soak, which often lasts a half hour in water so hot that Americans cannot stand it. I do not advocate such hot water. But there is something wrong with the way we roll in a tub in which we have scrubbed ourselves off and then climb out without rinsing and consider ourselves quite clean. The Japanese bath consists of taking mildly hot water and soap and brushes or wash rags and thoroughly soaping the body, washing the hands, feet, neck and ears meticulously, before entering for the final rinse. This way you are sure of a thorough cleansing. Scrub yourself very well and rinse off and then get into your tub, which should by all means have a faint scent to lure you and keep you there for a restful, relaxing rinse. If you bathe this Japanese way, you will not require the last shower rinse that the ordinary American bath needs for completion. It is an excellent way to scrub.

LOOK FOR REFERENDUM

ACTIVITIES of the anti-prohibition forces in the Michigan legislature, at the outset of the session, offer strong ground for belief that legislation, looking to a wet and dry referendum in this state, will be seriously considered before the close of the term.

A CONSTRUCTIVE MESSAGE

A CONSTRUCTIVE note was voiced in practically every paragraph of the message of Governor Wilbur M. Brucker to the state legislature last Thursday.

His "legislative holiday on non-essential laws and regulations," will be approved by the general masses of people over the state. Not new legislation is wanted so much, as revision of many existing laws to make them conform to the present straightened needs of the state of Michigan, with its deficit of over $7,000,000 that must be provided.

While Governor Brucker asks that property tax be reduced $3,500,000, he does not appear to favor an income tax to meet this reduction of the state deficit.

Referring to the special commission of inquiry into taxation, which has recommended an income tax, in spite of the fact that the people of the state have rejected it repeatedly, he declares that "the recommendation of the commission is opposed by a minority report. Both should be seriously weighed," he urges.

He evidently is expecting his orders to the different department heads "to get back to first principles in cutting state costs."

ANOTHER LYNCHING

AN ENRAGED mob once more has taken the law in its own hands in the burning to death of a Missouri negro, who was charged with murdering a young teacher after criminally assaulting her. The lynchers seized the negro suspect in the sheriff's automobile, dragged him three miles to a schoolhouse, chained him to the ridgepole, and then set fire to the building.

It is claimed that the negro confessed his guilt, but granting this is true the seriousness of the mob's crime is not lessened. There was every chance that justice would have meted out to the murderer with due process of law.

As far as lynchings are concerned, the new year is getting a bad start. Last year, 23 persons met death by mob violence, blemishing a fine record that had been maintained for the preceding six years.

George Bernard Shaw says the Russians make the best movie films. The manner in which they carried out their conspiracy trial would indicate they are at least capable of putting across a good show.

Anniversary

THE FIRST LOCOMOTIVE

On Jan. 15, 1831, the first locomotive built in America, appeared on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. It was called the "Best Friend." Designed by Adam...

The "Best Friend" had a vertical tubular boiler carried at one end of the horizontal platform or frame, while the cylinders were arranged at the other end.

The West Point foundry built a second locomotive, the "De Witt Clinton" in 1831, which was put to work on the Mohawk & Hudson railroad, now part of the New York Central & Hudson railroad.

This second engine was very similar in design to the first, but, of course, possessed a number of improvements.

MURDER AT BRIDGE

(By NKA Service) By ANNE AUSTIN

CHAPTER XLIX

"There's a blank cartridge in the gun now, of course, but Miles, in his panic, took my words literally. See the electro-magnet strapped to the gun butt? He got it from the bell Sprague had installed from here to Lydia's bedroom. The magnet was connected with the two lamp sockets, as you see it now, and the long cord of the bell in the dining room—so connected that when anyone stepped on the two little metal plates under the dining room rug, the kitchen bell would ring and the gun would be fired simultaneously. But if you will examine the jewel hole," he suggested, as he removed the gun, "you will see that Miles had to enlarge it considerably, using a reamer, which I found in the tool chest in the basement, along with all the apparatus which Sprague had bought for installing Nita's alarm bell. I could see no reason for Sprague's having needed a reamer, however, and this morning I was lucky enough to get proof that Miles himself had purchased it at a hardware store on Tuesday."

"How did he connect the lamp cord with the dining room bell?" Strawn puzzled. "These modern houses don't have exposed wiring."

"You forget Sprague's wiring for the alarm bell from here to Lydia's room!"

He threw back the rug. Near Nita's bed there was a hole in the floor, and out of it came a short length of electric wire, ending in two small metal plates. But attached also to the wire was the cord from the bronze lamp.

"The plug of the lamp cord is nearly out of the baseboard outlet behind the bookcase. Just as Miles left it, so that there is no contact with electricity there. And the rug hid the joining of the two wires. An unexplained wrapping of adhesive tape both on the lamp cord and on the wire of Nita's alarm bell here gave me the clue. In installing the alarm bell, Sprague copied the arrangement under the dining table, of course. And Miles simply had to drop a bit, fastened to the augur Sprague had bought, down the four inches

Health Tips

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Today medical investigators are giving more attention to rheumatism and rheumatic disorders than ever before in the history of medical science. There are clinics in every large medical center for studying and treating this disease.

One of the reasons for this attention, as pointed out by Dr. Ralph Pemberton, is the realization of the fact that pain in the joints and in the muscles and many of the other conditions generally classified as rheumatic are responsible for a tremendous amount of disability in industrial workers and that the cost is a great economic problem.

In true scientific medicine, the method of attack on the disease is first to discover the cause and then to attempt to eliminate the cause rather than to treat the symptoms. Of course, a competent physician can relieve the patient of his pain and give him back the function of his limbs by the use of appropriate remedies while attempts are being made to discover the exact causes.

It is already recognized that a tendency to this disorder may run in families, because certain types of people are more frequently attacked by the disease than others. It is recognized that the condition is not merely inflammation in one joint, but that profound changes take place throughout the human body, affecting the blood, the other fluids in the body, and tissues sometimes far removed from the spot in which the pain is localized.

For years it has been understood that infection in the teeth and in the tonsils might be responsible for setting up intima-nations far distant. It is now recognized that these factors are of the greatest importance and should be controlled when present, but that infections may also exist in other parts of the body and be directly related to pains in the joints.

Apparently the blood supply in the rheumatic person is not up to normal standard. The fact that there is a decreased blood flow in the parts of the body affected may explain the added discomfort expressed by people with rheumatism when there are changes in the weather.

Dr. Pemberton has emphasized for many years the relationship which the food intake of the body bears to rheumatic disorders. If the gastro-intestinal function is improved, and the burden lowered by cutting down the intake of food, particularly substances which are difficult to digest, there comes not infrequently improvement in the rheumatic condition.

It is thus obvious that there is no single cure for arthritis to be found in a bottle of any kind of medicine, but that every patient with the disease must be studied as a unit and treated according to the condition which exists in him as an individual rather than in all human beings with rheumatism.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch Copyright 1931 by Douglas Malloch HOUSEWORK We've had a little trouble. I've had a little cold. So he's been doing double. His work, and mine of old. He's had to run the mangle. And scrub things in and out. And that is what the wrangle is really all about. Now, don't misunderstand me: It's work he's glad to do. A little help to hand me. 'Till my cold is through. He's had to run the cleaner. And lux the thing around. It hasn't made him meaner. But kinder, I have found. He said to me this morning. "Why, this will never do. I want to give you warning. BAND CONCERT FOR CHARITY

Proceeds for Kiwanis Fund to Feed Under-nourished Pupils

Arrangements for the benefit concert by the Escanaba high school band, which will be held on Feb. 4, will be discussed by the children's welfare committee of the Kiwanis club at the Carnegie Library next Tuesday evening.

Proceeds of the concert will be added to the fund established by the Kiwanis club for providing meals to hungry children in the Escanaba schools. The Escanaba high school band had been planning to give a concert to finance another activity, but recently offered to donate its services, instead, to the child welfare project, being carried out by the Kiwanis club in conjunction with the Parent-Teachers associations.

Tickets for the concert will be placed on sale in the near future.

OBITUARY

CHRIS M. THOMPSON

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 - at the First Presbyterian church for Chris M. Thompson, 612 South Third avenue, who died early Monday morning following a brief illness due to peritonitis.

Rev. Carl E. Berger, pastor of the congregation will officiate at the services.

The pallbearers chosen are Joseph La Fleur, Grover Lewis, Wolfred Peterson of this city, James Ray of Cornell, John Brukhardt and Fred Lewis of Gladstone.

Mrs. Louis Harmon and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LeDuc of International Falls, Minn., arrived Wednesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hallman of Racine arrived yesterday afternoon and other relatives and friends are expected to arrive today.

Interment will be made in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery.

MRS. KATHERINE MANNING

The body of Mrs. Katherine Manning was removed Wednesday afternoon from the Allo funeral home to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Provo, 1201 South Tenth avenue, where many friends have called to extend their sympathy.

Funeral services will be held this morning at nine o'clock at St. Patrick's church when a requiem high mass will be read.

Interment will be made in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery.

MRS. ADELIN BLANCHET

St. Anne's church was filled Wednesday morning at nine o'clock when funeral services were held for Mrs. Adeline Blanchet, widow of the late Narcisse J. Blanchet, who died at Detroit early Saturday morning after a few days' illness due to a stroke of paralysis.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques was the celebrant at the solemn requiem high mass. Rev. Fr. George Laforest, pastor of Holy Family church at Flat Rock and Rev. Fr. A. Waechter of St. Anne's parish were deacon and subdeacon. Willard Clark, Jr., a grand son of the deceased was one of the acolytes who served the mass.

The senior choir sang the mass. A quartet composed of Mrs. Thomas Toussignant, soprano, Miss Irene Villeneuve, alto, A. J. Cyr, tenor and Joseph Desjardis, bass, sang "Pie Jesu" at the offertory. During the communion Gust Trottier sang "O Meritum Peccatorum" and as the mourners left the office Mrs. Toussignant sang "Will You Come to My Grave."

Members of the St. Croix Society who were honorary pallbearers were Meses, Joseph Filion, David Godin, Julia Beaudouin, A. Nerbonne, Clementine L. Heureau and Marie Plante. Members of St. Anne's Sodality formed an honorary escort and attended the services in a body.

The active pallbearers were chosen among close friends and neighbors, Albert D. Laviolette, Charles Coteau, John Erickson, Hugh Barbe, Joseph Moreau and Charles Lefebvre.

Out of town relatives and friends were Mr. and Mrs. Zane DeMors, son Francis and daughter Adeline, of Waukegan, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mr.

Munising News

Alger County Board Has All-Day Meet

The Alger county board of supervisors held an all-day session Tuesday, transacting but little business with the exception of the auditing of monthly bills. During the session representatives of the First National Bank of Alger County and the People's State Bank appeared before the board and protested against the amount of the bonds required by the county from their banks, which are the depository banks for public funds.

Bonds of $50,000 from both banks were required up to last November when the supervisors raised the amount up to $100,000 an amount which would equal the maximum amount of public funds on deposit at any one time. This action of the board was based on the provisions of the state law requiring depository banks to furnish bonds up to the maximum sum of public funds on deposit.

The county board took no further action in the matter yesterday, but County Clerk Hannah has sent letters to the county clerks in adjoining counties asking for information regarding similar situations in their respective counties, and the replies he receives will be placed before the Alger county board at the February meeting for whatever action they choose to take in the matter.

ARRESTED FOR NON-SUPPORT

Sheriff Runast Tuesday afternoon arrested Joe Furnjack of Shingleton on a warrant charging him with non-support of his family. He has been occasionally employed in the camps, but it is alleged that he contributes nothing to the support of his family.

His wife is at the Alger county infirmary with a month old baby and is in poor health.

There are three other children in the family, one boy eight years of age, and two little girls, one two years of age and the other four years of age. Sheriff Runast placed these three children in the Munising hospital where they will be temporarily cared for. They are not ill of any disease but undernourished and poorly clothed. Furnjack will have a hearing before Justice Walters. He is held in the Alger county jail, awaiting disposition of his case.

Frank Davis of "The Pines" nine miles east of Shingleton, was in the city yesterday and informs us that during the past few weeks he has seen many signs of deer killed by wolves and coyotes. He says that in the region south of Shingleton it is almost impossible to catch foxes, coyotes or wolves, for they will pay no attention to the bait, but rather will move away from an area where traps are set for the reason that they find plenty of food on the carcasses of deer or any other animals that fall victim to the predatory tribe.

JUSTICE TRACEY'S COURT

The slander case of Mrs. Nola Douglas vs. Mrs. Eva Reiter, both of Shingleton, which was postponed from Dec. 29 to Jan. 13 was brought up before Justice Tracey.

Mrs. Reiter was charged by Mrs. Douglas with having used indecent and immoral language in a public place, viz. in Bowman's store in the presence of Walter Neuman. Mrs. Reiter pleaded not guilty to the charge. Mrs. Douglas and Mr. Neuman submitted testimony. Mr. Neuman stated that he did not hear a word of the conversation which purported to be a slander, consequently Justice Tracey dismissed the case.

On complaint of Chief Pelletier James Dodd and Cott Ellis were charged with being drunk in public places in the city and were arraigned before Justice Tracey Tuesday. Both men pleaded guilty and each was fined $5 and costs or ten days in the county jail. Dodd paid fine and costs and was dismissed, but Ellis chose the jail term.

That a new industry will be established here the coming spring as a result of the extensive drilling explorations that have been conducted in East Munising territory and in other areas contiguous to that locality for a long time past seems most certain. Although much secrecy has been maintained concerning the exact nature of the business it is known that the drilling was carried on for the purpose of obtaining samples of what is known as glass sand which the drilling discloses exists in large quantities. It is reported that A. C. Hartho will have charge of this new development work.

Mr. Hartho is a former resident of Munising but now resides in Menomonie Falls, Wis.

We are informed that there are two grades of this sand; one to be used in the manufacture of glass and the other for moulding glass. It is not contemplated that a glass factory will be located here, but that the sand will be shipped away for manufacture. A large amount has already been expended by the promoters in exploration work and we are informed that the work of obtaining the product and shipping it will

Three Arrested for Stealing Gill Nets

Newberry, Jan. 14 (Special)—Three young men living near Garnet were arrested on Tuesday forenoon by state police Piersou and Kinkema at the shack owned by one of them at Garnet and charged with theft of gill nets belonging to George Fraser of Epoufette. Kenneth Browning and Gerald Shirk were tried before Justice Ralph Henderson of St. Ignace and given fines of $25 and costs after they pleaded guilty.

Robert McGilveray is only 16 years old and his case was given over to Probate Judge Murray. He was put on probation for one year.

The nets were taken on Monday night and a hand sleigh was also stolen on which they were hauled to the road where a car owned by one of the boys was waiting.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

A pay-to-play card party was given by the American Legion Auxiliary on Tuesday night at the home of Miss Kathleen Gormely. This is one of the monthly events of this organization.

A daughter was born on Jan. 13 to Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Lawrence of Germfask at the local hospital.

Miss Shilson, Luce county nurse, left on Wednesday for Pinecrest sanitarium at Powers with Raymond Lee to place him under the care of the institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns of Cowell and Burns were here from the Sault on Tuesday.

Alvin E. Richards of Marquette, state tax commissioner, spent Monday and Tuesday in Newberry going over work that the commission is doing in Pentland township.

Mr. McDougal of the Sault, federal post office inspector, paid and Mrs. Floyd Rightenburg and two sons, Miss Lucille Loff, all of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark and son Willard of Jackson, Noel Blanchet of Minneapolis, Eugene Mewler and Lawrence Robare of Ishpeming and Mrs. E. H. Noblet of Gladstone.

Burial was made in the family lot in St. Anne's cemetery where Mr. Blanchet and several children are buried.

AN "OPEN" WINTER

Local woodsmen are talking about an "open" winter. It seems that the beaver houses are thin on top, so thin in fact, that a little stamping on the roof will send the animals splashing into the water, the noise of which can be easily heard. Muskrats, also, have not laid heavy protection and deer are running in the hardwoods as they do in the autumn months. When winter sets in in earnest these animals take to the swamps where they "yard" keeping trails open from one place of feeding to another. Timber cruisers report that they have done little of this so far.

Can't PLAY Can't REST

—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, the parents are distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child. All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

develop a business of large magnitude. We are not informed of the exact time that the work will begin, but without doubt it will not be very long.

SOCIAL

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church, met at the church parlors last evening.

The members of the Eastern Star will hold a card party at the Masonic hall this evening.

The Roderick Prato Post of the American Legion will give its annual banquet at the Legion County club next Sunday evening at 6:30. Guests will be state and district officers of the Legion. All service men and their ladies are requested to attend as the state commander has promised some very interesting and important news for members of the organization throughout the county. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance from every part of the county.

On the evening of January 20 a play entitled "Her Husband's Wife" will be presented at the Mather high school auditorium by the company of players sent out by the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Chicago. The entertainment will be offered under the auspices of the Munising Rotary Club and the proceeds will be used in helping to establish a student's loan fund. It happens from time to time that worthy young people who have started out to obtain a higher education find themselves in need of funds in order to complete their work. The Rotary Club members are deeply interested in education and have already done considerable work towards helping needy students by way of small loans to take them over difficult periods. It is now proposed to build up a fund that may be called upon as occasion arises for such aid. The company which presents "Her Husband's Wife" comes well recommended and Munising people are assured of an evening of excellent entertainment.

The Toughest Old Cough Can Now Be Stopped

Lingering coughs—the kind that hang on and hang on and rob a man of his sleep—the kind that makes him peevish and all worn out.

Those are the breed of coughs that prove common cough syrups are about as useful as a bottle of finger pop.

The quickest and surest way to get rid of a persistent cough is to take a teaspoonful of Broncholine Emulsion four times a day.

It's guaranteed to stop the old-timers—the tough ones—and it does it without any loss of time.

For ordinary coughs three or four doses is usually enough. Peoples Drug Store and dealers everywhere can supply you.

Timber Tax Measure Will Be Presented To the Legislature

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the complete text of the timber tax bill, which will be considered by the present state legislature.)

A bill to provide for the establishment of commercial forest reserves and for the administration and taxation of the same, and to repeal acts inconsistent therewith.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

Section 1. It is the purpose and intent of this act to preserve the remaining forests of the state from destruction or premature cutting and encourage reforestation and proper forest management on lands chiefly valuable therefor. The Department of Conservation is hereby vested with authority and charged with certain duties in connection with the establishment and maintenance of commercial forest reserves as herein defined and shall have authority to administer this act so as to accomplish its intent and purpose.

Section 2. A commercial forest reserve, within the meaning and purpose of this act, is hereby defined to be any tract of land producing or suitable for the production of forest products and which is dedicated by the owner to the growth and production of forest crops. Such tract or tracts shall not be primarily valuable for agricultural, grazing, mining, industrial, recreational or resort purposes.

Section 3. It shall be the duty of the Department of Conservation upon the application of the owner being filed with it to fix a date for a public hearing to consider objections if any to the determination as to the eligibility of such land for listing as a commercial forest reserve. Said hearing shall be held at such place as shall be determined by the Department of Conservation in the county where the lands or some part thereof shall be located not later than sixty days after the Department of Conservation has made the determination provided for in Section 3. If such hearing shall be held at the county seat it shall be held at the court house, if not at the county seat it shall be held in the town hall in the township in which it is held. The Department of Conservation shall cause a notice of such hearing and a list of the descriptions to be considered for classification as commercial forest reserves to be published in a newspaper published and circulated in said county and at least twenty days shall elapse between the date of publication of said notice and the date of the hearing. Any person desiring to be heard regarding the listing as a commercial forest reserve of any of the descriptions given, may appear and be heard at such hearing. Such hearing may be conducted by the director or any employee of the Department of Conservation designated for the purpose.

Following such hearing, the Department of Conservation shall within ten days confirm or modify the determination theretofore made and prepare a list of the descriptions to be included in commercial forest reserves within each township and shall forthwith report such determination to the supervisor of the township and shall record with the register of deeds in the county in which said commercial forest reserve is located, the names of the owners and the descriptions of the land so classified. From and after the first day of April after such final determination has been made by the Department of Conservation, said first day of April being hereinafter referred to as the "effective date," such lands so included in said classification shall be taxed in accordance with the provisions of this act and not otherwise.

Section 4. Lands classified as commercial forest reserves and certified as such by the Department of Conservation to the supervisor of the township within which they are located, shall thereafter be subject to the ad valorem general property tax except as to such taxes as may have been previously levied, and as to other values specified in Section 14 of this act, but shall be subject only to an annual specific tax of ten cents (10c) per acre and to a yield or stumpage tax as hereinafter provided. The supervisor of the township shall remove from the list of descriptions assessed and taxed under the ad valorem general property tax the descriptions certified to him by the Department of Conservation as being commercial forest reserves and shall enter such descriptions on a roll separate from lands assessed and taxed under the ad valorem general property tax and shall spread against such commercial forest reserve lands the specific tax hereinbefore provided and the township treasurer shall collect such specific tax at the same time and in the same manner as ad valorem general property taxes are collected and subject to the same collection charges. Lands listed and taxed as commercial forest reserves shall be subject to return and sale for non-payment of taxes in the same manner, at the same time, and under the same penalties as lands returned and sold for non-payment of taxes levied under the ad valorem general property tax laws. No valuation shall be determined for descriptions listed as commercial forest reserves. And such lands shall not be considered by the County Board of Supervisors or by the State Board of Equalization in connection with County or State equalization for taxation purposes. All sums collected because of the annual specific tax as hereinbefore provided shall be returned to the County Treasurer by the officer collecting the same and by the County Treasurer shall be distributed as follows: Twenty-five per cent of such sum shall be credited to the general fund of the County and the balance shall be credited to the townships in which such lands are located in proportion to the acreage of such lands in such townships and when received by the Township Treasurer shall be distributed as follows: Twenty-five per cent of said sum shall be credited to the contingent fund, and the balance credited to the school districts in said township in proportion to the acreage of such lands in each district.

Section 5. On the first day of November of each year after the passage of this act, the Department of Conservation shall certify to the Auditor General the number of acres of land determined and listed as commercial forest reserves in each county on or before the first day of December the Auditor General shall transmit to the treasurer of each county in which such lands are situated a warrant on the State Treasurer for an amount equal to ten cents (10c) per acre upon each acre of land so certified and listed. The County Treasurer of each county shall distribute such sum of ten cents (10c) per acre in the same manner as the specific tax herein provided to be paid by the owner of such land.

All forest crops harvested from land classified as commercial forest reserves shall be subject to a yield tax of 10 per cent of the stumpage value of such products based upon current stumpage rates at the time of cutting, in accordance with schedules of stumpage rates to be furnished by the Department of Conservation.

For products cut within five years from the effective date after listing as hereinbefore provided the owner shall only be required to pay a yield tax of two per cent each year that has expired from said effective date until the first day of April following the service of the notice of intention to cut as hereinafter provided for.

Section 6. The owner of land registered as a commercial forest reserve shall be entitled to cut forest products on such land without withdrawing it from classification as a commercial forest reserve and without payment of any fee or tax other than the annual specific tax and the stumpage tax hereinafter provided. Any owner desiring to cut and remove merchantable forest products from land that has been listed as a commercial forest reserve shall notify the department of Conservation of his intention to cut, stating in his notice the description or descriptions from which forest products are to be cut and the approximate amount and stumpage value as he shall be entitled to cut such products as may be of such cutting, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the owner to file with the Department of Conservation a bond in the amount of fifty per cent of the stumpage value as stated in said notice conditioned that the owner will pay to the State Treasurer the full amount of any yield or stumpage tax that may be levied upon the forest products cut under said permit. The surety of said bond may be either a surety company duly authorized to carry on business in Michigan, or a bond with two or more personal sureties approved by the Department of Conservation which sureties shall justify as to their financial responsibility. It shall be unlawful to cut or remove forest products from land registered as a commercial forest reserve until such bond has been filed. Whenever, in the opinion of the Department of Conservation the financial responsibility of the owner shall be deemed adequate, the giving of a bond may be waived.

Section 7. On or before August 1st in each year the Department of Conservation at such time and place as it shall fix and after at least ten days notice thereof shall hold a public hearing or hearings and not later than the first day of September thereafter shall make and file in the office of said Department and open to public inspection a determination of the reasonable stumpage value of the wood products usually grown upon any of the tracts constituting commercial forest reserves which values so determined shall be used in computing the stumpage or yield tax herein provided. If the Department of Conservation finds there is a material variance in such stumpage values in the different localities, it may fix separate zones and determine separate values for each zone. As to any locality or zone in which the Department deems that there has been no material variance from the preceding years in stumpage value, it may omit to make any new valuation in any year in which event the last preceding stumpage valuation shall continue in force until changed in a succeeding year.

On or before the 15th day of May and of November succeeding any time in which any merchantable wood products were cut on any commercial forest reserve the owner of said forest products or the person cutting said forest products shall transmit to the Department of Conservation a written statement under oath of the products so cut for the six months preceding the first day of that calendar year, specifying the variety and quantity of each kind of forest product so cut as shown by the scale or measurement thereof made on the ground as cut, skidded or loaded as the case may be. The Department of Conservation may accept such report as sufficient evidence of the fact or may make an independent investigation to determine the fact of the quantity and kind of forest products so cut during said periods covered by such reports.

The Department of Conservation shall compute the total stumpage value of all forest products cut and shall certify such amount to the owner and the owner shall, within ninety days thereafter, pay to the State Treasurer as the full stumpage or yield tax due from him ten per cent of the total stumpage value as above determined. All sums received on account of such stumpage or yield tax of 10 per cent shall be distributed as follows: One-half shall be retained by the State Treasurer and credited to the general fund of the State and one-half shall be paid to the County Treasurer of the County in which the lands are situated and from which the forest products were cut and shall be distributed by the County Treasurer and Township Treasurers in the same manner and proportions as the specific tax paid by the owner of such land.

Any party aggrieved by a determination of the Department made pursuant to this Section may review such action in the manner provided by Section 24. Section 10. The owner of the timber shall be personally liable for any yield tax because of any forest products cut therefrom, which tax shall also be a lien on such wood products wherever situated and in whatever form.

STICKERS

The above word puzzle, a divided into eight sections, each containing a word. If you start at section one and pick out the right letter, and do likewise in all the rest of the sections, in numerical order, going three times around the puzzle, you will spell out four words that form a complete phrase. ment shall find that such lands are not meeting the requirements set forth in Section 2 of this act, such lands shall from the date of such finding, cease to be classified as commercial forest reserves and shall, thereafter, be subject to the ad valorem general property tax.

Section 16. Any owner of land affected hereby or any person, or the accredited representative of such owner or person shall, upon request, be granted a hearing before the Department of Conservation on any subject relating to the action of said Department under this act affecting his or their properties or interests as such owner or as a taxpayer.

Section 17. There is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $20,000.00 or so much thereof as may be necessary for the year commencing July 1, 1931, and the sum of $30,000.00 for the year commencing July 1, 1932, and thereafter increasing appropriations up to $100,000.00 annually are authorized to take care of the State's share in the support of commercial forest reserves and administrative expenses incurred pursuant to the provisions of this act.

Section 18. All applications, statements, and information required by the Department of Conservation in the administration of this act shall be under oath.

Section 19. On application of the owner, the Department of Conservation shall have power when emergency or other just cause exists to extend or shorten the period when forest products will become eligible for harvesting; and in case of fraud or for other proper cause, may revoke any classification.

Section 20. The transfer of title of any land listed as a commercial forest reserve shall not affect the status of such land as a commercial forest reserve.

Section 21. Changes in the terms, fees, taxes or other provisions of this act as from time to time enacted into law shall apply to all lands which are listed after such enactments become effective. Owners of lands listed under this act may without prejudice apply for relisting under such laws as may from time to time be enacted changing the terms, fees, taxes or other provisions of this act.

Section 22. Any owner of lands listed as a commercial forest reserve in accordance with the provisions of this act shall have the right of withdrawal by serving notice of his intention so to do upon the Department of Conservation which said notice shall contain a description of all lands so to be withdrawn. Said withdrawal shall be effective as of the first day of April following the date of the filing of said notice with the Department of Conservation. Said notice shall not be effective unless and until the owner thereof shall pay to the State Treasurer the amount of all real estate taxes that would ordinarily have been charged against said lands had they not been subject to the provisions of this act with simple interest thereon at five per cent per annum after deducting as of the date of the several payments any and all yield and annual specific taxes paid thereunder under the provisions of this act at the rate of five per cent per annum.

Section 23. It shall be the duty of the Department of Conservation to cause to be made and filed in the office of the Department of Conservation a list of all lands classified as commercial forest reserves and being protected and cared for in a manner which will accomplish the purposes of this act. Kelly to Speak At Forum Meet Thursday Night

Reservations for the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce forum dinner, which will be held at the Delta hotel Thursday evening, Jan. 22, are now being made at Secretary H. P. Lindsay's office. Thos. K. Kelly, Minneapolis, president of the T. K. Kelly Sales System, nationally known advertising and merchandising organization, will be the principal speaker.

Mr. Kelly, who is prominently identified with business activities in Minneapolis, has been in great demand as a speaker during the past year, and in his travels about the country has found occasion to use the airplane extensively. He is a director of several banks in Minneapolis and is associated with many other business enterprises.

His topic at the forum meeting will be "Community Selling."

Byrns Is Speaker at Woodmen Meet

Ishpeming.—The annual turkey dinner and installation of officers of Hematite camp, Modern Woodmen of America, was held Monday evening in the American Legion clubhouse and was largely attended.

Charles J. Byrns, of Escanaba, former member of the board of directors of the Modern Woodmen, was the principal speaker. He is a member of the Hematite camp and at one time was state deputy for the society. In six years he increased the membership in the upper peninsula about 30,000.

Mr. Byrns, who recently celebrated his seventieth birthday, came to Ishpeming when he was 20 years old. He was born in New York and when he was 10 years old he delivered telegrams to the Western Union at Marquette. Later he became identified with the law firm of John L. and George E. Cochran, who were among Marquette's earliest attorneys.

Mr. Byrns still retains his membership in Hematite camp and although he left here 13 years ago to take the general management of the Birds' Eye Veneer company's plant at Escanaba, he still has a warm spot for Ishpeming.

Radio equipment shipped from the United States to France in the first half of 1930 was nearly three times that for the same period of the previous year.

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan. 1930. "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 59c cents at Peoples Drug Store, Escanaba; Gladstone Agent, G. E. Dehlin and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Tri-S Club Holds Meeting at School

At an interesting meeting of the Tri-S Club at the Escanaba high school last evening subjects of world wide interest ranging from conservation to the latest developments in aeronautics were discussed.

Brief talks were given on "The World's Largest Dirigible" and "Land Reclamation" by Boyd Ketchum and Virvan McMonagle. Robert Moll presented a "Chemical Magic" show. The bulletin board committee, a group responsible for the posting of newspaper and magazine clippings of current scientific achievements on the science club's bulletin board, consisted of Marion Hanson and Esther Stein.

Peninsula Men Help Plan Dairy Congress

Representatives of the agricultural interests of Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan will meet in Duluth Friday, January 16, to perfect arrangements for the fourth annual Tri-State dairy congress, which will be held in that city March 20, under the auspices of the Duluth Chamber of Commerce.

Upper Peninsula representatives going to Duluth Friday include C. E. Gunderson, Ironwood; and R. E. Horwood, J. G. Wells, Jr. and George E. Bishop, Marquette. The preliminary conference will be held at the offices of W. H. McGenty, editor of The Duluth Stock and Dairy Farmer.

The Irish Free State has a population of 2,943,000, according to a report just issued.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 30 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them 15c, 30c, 50c.

CHAPTER I

"THE trouble with us," declared Ginger fiercely, "is that we're too good."

"I will even go so far as to say," she added, glancing with some apprehension at the parsonage windows where ministerial ears might overhear, "I might even go so far as to say," she repeated softly but with increasing firmness, "that we're too—damn—good."

"Soap and water for Ginger Ella!" called Eddy Jackson.

"Too," she swallowed deeply, "too—damn—good."

"Yeh," Eddy Jackson grinned. "I doubt if you could get many subscribers to that theory around Red Thrush."

"I know what you mean, Ginger," said Wesley Meeker sympathetically. "And you're darn well tootin'—we are too good. Wesley Meeker always showed a flattering deference to Ginger's opinions, he being—albeit a junior in college—a mere minister's son, while she was daughter of the District Superintendent."

"But Ginger," protested Patty Sears anxiously, "it doesn't do us any real harm to be good, does it?"

"Well, it jolly well doesn't do us any good either!" declared Ginger. "For my part, I'm pretty well fed up with it. Why, we're so good we don't even get into any interesting scrapes to tell our children about."

"What children?" inquired Eddy Jackson, with interest.

"When we get them," she added hastily.

"You might tell them about the time you locked your sister Helen in the attic on her wedding day," suggested Eddy Jackson. "And about your being arrested for using the mails to defraud. And about your startling mismanagement of your erstwhile Home for the Blind."

"Those," said Ginger coldly, "were mere incidents."

The four of them sat under the budding maples beside the old parsonage, the very parsonage that had been Ginger's own home until her father's marriage to Phil Van Doorn.

It was Easter Week, and Wesley Meeker was home from college for his spring vacation. The maples were just curling out into leafy tendrils, and the first hardy tulips were showing bright colors in the narrow beds under the bay window. The grass seemed fairly springing up beneath their restless tapping feet, for spring was in their nature as it was in the nature of earth.

Ginger Was Bored

GINGER took a morbid pleasure in visiting the familiar old parsonage of which she had called herself official head for so many years. Long, long ago those days seemed new.

It was her father's marriage to Phil Van Doorn, Miss Philadelphia Van Doorn, of Doorndee, which had effected the change in the worldly estate of Ginger Ella Tolliver, and incidentally, of her father also. Even the powers of his church could see the incongruity of retaining as a plain minister in a modest pastorate a man whose wife had more money than the whole Southeastern Iowa Conference put together.

Something had to be done about it, and the only thing that could be done was to make him a District Superintendent, independent of local charges—which presto, was accomplished. The Reverend Mr. Tolliver moved out to Doorndee, the beautiful estate of his wife, taking with him Ginger Ella, the one remaining daughter of his original four, the others, as Ginger often plaintively stated, having "degenerated into a state of total marriage."

The fact is that Ginger was bored. For a while she had experienced a tingling satisfaction in the mere possessiveness of her new and enviable estate. She had been thrilled with her pretty home; with her own thoroughbred riding horse, as good and as well accoutered as Phil's own; with the rich and simple elegance of her wardrobe. There had been a particular joy in showing off before the properly impressed, familiar, friendly eyes of Red Thrush and Eddy Jackson.

But as the novelty of possession ebbed, the tide of boredom flowed. Gone were the old mad merry days of scheming to make one dollar do the work of three or four—and the even more desperate scheming to get hold of a dollar in the first place.

Ginger had a bank account of her own now, founded on a check for $5000 given her by Phil when she was graduated from high school. Gone were the days of flying in a panic to the kitchen to gather together scraps and remnants of food to be stretched into a meal for three or four, and expanded again at the last minute to provide for the inevitable unexpected guest.

There was a cook at Doorndee, a large Scotch woman, to whom Phil had taken a fancy on a trip abroad and, in the offhand way of rich people, had imported for her private use. Goobins, her name was, but Ginger, her innate spirit of democracy rebelling at the proletarian discard of a formal prefixed title, had shortened it to an affectionate "Gooby."

Why Go To College?

GINGER had always been a bit unusual, and her sudden acquisition of wealth with its accompanying prestige had done nothing to render her more-to-be-expected. In the first place, although it was certainly the proper thing to do, she refused to go to college.

"Go to college?" she queried blandly. "What for? I am neither going to teach school nor marry a minister."

"But a little cultural background," suggested her father mildly.

Ginger's grin disconcerted him. "Listen, precious," she said, "the post-graduate preachers who comprise the faculty at Wesleyan are far more up on orthodoxy than they are on culture. They know a lot more about the Discipline than about the Fine Arts. I was brought up on the Bible and oatmeal porridge, just like they were. And in some respects, I think the results in my case were better."

"But what are you going to do?"

"Phil wants to support me," said Ginger moodily. "Let

She Wanted Action

GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER

her! We've always been supported by somebody. Might as well be Phil as a Ladies' Aid. Better, if you ask me."

Ginger, having been born and bred in the cheerful charity of a parsonage, had none of the temperamental prejudice against the acceptance of gratuities common to those who are accustomed to giving and receiving little.

Phil, for her part, was more than satisfied. It was what she desired of all things in the world. In the privacy of her most secret thoughts she admitted that her marriage to the minister had been prompted more by a desire to get hold of Ginger than to surrender her future to the keeping of a husband.

For Mr. Tolliver she had a cordial and affectionate regard, for Ginger a passionate and gay devotion. Certainly the two Tollivers had brought purpose and plan into the useless, well-ordered, complacent routine of Doorndee and its mistress. Ginger beyond a shadow of doubt was the most amazing and amusing human being Phil had ever encountered, and she often told herself that she would gladly have married half a dozen preachers if it had been necessary to gain the charge of Ginger Ella.

As long as she could keep the girl with her, she was well content. Indeed she was inclined slyly to encourage Ginger in her defiance of what-was-to-be-expected. Phil did not want her to become like everybody else in Red Thrush.

A Little Flame Needed

"RED THRUSH," Ginger was confiding hotly to her particular intimates on the parsonage lawn that mild spring day, "Red Thrush is fatal. I've made up my mind to that. It gets under your skin before you know it, like a flea on a dog."

"I don't see how the others stand it," agreed Wesley Meeker. "We're brought up on it, and sort of used to it by this time, but it sure must rile the heathen."

"It not only riles the heathen," Ginger went on. "It riles me. Eddy, you weren't there, you didn't see it. It was the last straw, and I'm a camel's back. Saturday night at the Country Club! Heaven knows it isn't much of a Country Club, and Saturday night there is nothing to brag about. All husbands and wives, with two or three children apiece, cluttering up the floor in the beginning, and sleeping all over the best chairs toward the end."

"Heaven knows it's not much—but it's all we have. But last Saturday night—Bishop Stains was here, so father and Phil took him to the Country Club to dinner. Well, it's the only place to take anybody, and you've got to take a bishop somewhere. And I ask you—Wes, you were there—I ask you—is it your idea of a wild night when they get up before a dinner dance and call on the Bishop to ask a blessing?"

Eddy laughed, but after a moment he, with the others, tapped into a troubled and throbbing silence. Plainly, Red Thrush had sunk pretty low.

Mutely, each for himself, they considered it in comparison to the going-on in the rest of the world: the dance marathons, the pocket flasks, the midnight swimming parties, the strip poker—all commonplaces of social intercourse as portrayed by modern novels and magazine stories, and emphasized a hundredfold by the betrayals of the silver screen, so lately bursting into speech.

All Red Thrush could give them was Saturday night at the Country Club, with everybody's babies falling, asleep on their evening wraps and the Bishop asking a blessing before dinner.

"Phil says she will take you to Canada this summer if you want to go," suggested Patty, yearning to be of comfort.

"I don't want to go," said Ginger darkly. "I'm not the type to go tripping from resort to resort. I can't flirt with people until I've known them from the cradle up and understand their line. These piazza petters who offer you a flask for life in the first intermission give me a pain in the neck. I don't want to go any place. I want to do something."

"I say so too, Ginger," said Wesley Meeker. "What this town needs is a little flame for its youth."

"What this town needs," said Ginger, "is a place where its youth can get away by itself—away from its fathers and mothers and nieces and nephews and family dogs and bishops—and do its flaming without benefit of clergy. Nothing puts a wet blanket on the incandescent like a family reunion in public."

A Home For the Bored

"A HIT mixed," said Eddy Jackson, "but on the whole, true. I suppose you're grouching because you had to nurse Helen's baby through the last strawberry festival."

"I'd rather nurse anybody's baby than attend the best strawberry festival in the world," cried Ginger. "I never want to see another strawberry festival. The next person that offers me a strawberry I'll—I'll—"

"Yeh, but you're lucky," said Wesley drearily. "Look at me. I've got to go. Your father's Superintendent. You can make excuses and cut off somewhere in the car. Us—we've got to go! We've just got to. No cutting away for us."

"Wait," Ginger stood up suddenly. "Wait." Her eyes darkened with the strange far-away intentness that from her early childhood had been a warning signal that she was up to something. "I've—got—an—idea. Let's have a Home—"

"For the Blind," suggested Eddy Jackson brightly. "Ginger did not smile. "For the Bored," she said drearily. "Wait."

She struck off briskly across the lawn in the direction of the street.

"Ginger," called Patty Sears plaintively, "are you going home? Aren't you going to take me with you—you brought me here?"

"Wait," Ginger tossed back over her shoulder without turning. "I'm just going up to Jenky's a minute."

In the village of Red Thrush, Ginger Ella Tolliver had two staunch and unflinching allies, poor, faithful, blind old Benny Brooks, and his wife, the former Miss Jenkins. Of these two Ginger was more sure than of her very self. Her plans might be wild, her hopes intangible, even her intentions not above reproach, but they two saw never a flaw in them or her.

Miss Jenkins had served as a doting, gratuitous companion to the four Tolliver girls during the hectic years of their growth from a troubled motherless childhood to a romantic young maturity; had indeed, as Ginger Ella stoutly believed, hoped one day to officiate in place of a parent, as the wife of their reverend father.

But coming, and largely by the machinations of that same Ginger Ella, to realize the futility of her fond and foolish fancy, in a final desperation at the prospect of the dreadful and futile loneliness which threatened her declining years, in a sudden accession of great sweet courage, she had become the wife—and at no instigation but her own!—of poor, blind, shrinking Benny Brooks.

During nine months of the year she continued her work in the kindergarten schools of Red Thrush, thus financing their modest menage, and saving every possible penny against the inevitable rainy years that lay ahead.

In a small, three-room apartment on the second floor of the old house across the street from the parsonage, she made a happy home for the lucky man, while he assisted in every way possible—making baskets, weaving rugs—to further the financial good that plays so large a part in spiritual contentment.

Upon the support of these two Ginger could unfailingly count, and the occasions when she required support were not infrequent. In her young girlhood she had known no intimate friendships.

The boundless enthusiasm with which she, the youngest of four, had assumed active management of the parsonage and its inmates; her feverish devotion to her father and everything that concerned him; her passionate determination to marry off her sisters as best became their separate charms and values; her eagerness to enhance the family fortunes by means either fair or almost foul; all these interests had united to occupy both all her time and her affection.

Ginger Gets Into Action

BUT with her sisters happily married—albeit not entirely to her own best judgment; with her father comfortable in the companionship of Phil Van Doorn; and with no financial needs to egg her on, Ginger wanted a chum.

It was natural that of all the girls in Red Thrush, her fancy should center upon Patty Sears, pretty, ambitionless and unopinionated, a happy satellite to revolve around irrepressible Ginger. "Ginger's central moon," Eddy Jackson called her.

But Ginger had learned much. For one thing, she had discovered that a secret shared is not a secret kept. And she had found by bitter experience that plans only half perfected may be easily prevented. Patty Sears, for all her love and loyalty, was susceptible to friendly overtures, and the suspicious nature of Eddy Jackson rendered him dangerously adept at ferreting out Ginger's intentions.

When she went to Ben and Jenky Brooks, on the other hand, it was not to confide a secret, but merely to place it in a private and practical repository all her own. Neither the sweetly sympathetic Patty nor the indolently sly Eddy Jackson could pry a secret of Ginger's from that faithful pair.

Ginger's mind was apt to leap kangaroo-like from crag to crag of high accomplishment. She never bothered to blaze a trail for herself through the studied valleys of detail that lay between the mountain peaks of inspiration.

From her sudden grand concept of a Home for the Bored Youth of Red Thrush, it was but one flying five-mile leap to an old, neglected, run-down farm-house on a wooded curve of the Rabbit river, a house which had borne a For Sale sign so many years it was all but obliterated by time and weather. From this abandoned house on the Rabbit, in another deep breath she was back the five miles talking it over with Ben and Jenky Brooks. And as this peak was more physically accessible to her at that moment, being right across the street, she was practical enough to turn to first things first.

She tore breathlessly up the stairs and bounded through the open door of their cheery sitting room. Jenky was tearing old clothes into long thin rags and tying them together end to end in a seemingly eternal chain for the small rug Benny was weaving.

"Darlings," Ginger began explosively, "what in the world

He Fell for Ginger

BARD HOLLOWAY

are you going to do all summer when school is out?" "Finish this rug," said Benny, with an apologetic little cough.

"What have you thought of?" inquired Jenky, who knew Ginger much better than Benny did.

"Well," said Ginger impressively, "I think you ought to go out in the country and get a lot of fresh air and exercise and sunshine and build up rosy cheeks and backbones and what-have-you. I thought maybe you would like to act as caretakers for my little place out in the country!"

Ginger's Big Idea

"I DIDN'T know you had a place in the country," said Jenky breathlessly, dropping the pile of rags in a great heap at her feet.

"Well, I've practically got it," said Ginger. "A sort of get-together ground for the Junior Country Club."

"Why, I didn't know there was a Junior Country Club," protested Jenky.

"Oh, of course there is a Junior Country Club—or practically so, at any rate. What do you think of it?"

"I'd like to finish this rug," said Benny modestly.

"You can finish it out in the country," said Ginger. "Right out in the fresh air and sunshine with the birds and bees all around."

"Where is it?" asked Jenky.

"It's the old Mill Rush farm out on Rabbit river," said Ginger.

"Why, I didn't know it had even been sold."

"Well, it's just the same as sold. To tell the truth, you've practically bought it," said Ginger, with a faint smile.

"I've bought it!" gasped the amazed woman.

"Yes. For me, of course. I want you to go to old Jop Westbury and get it on the best terms you can and I'll give you the money to pay for it. Pay as little down as you can and stretch the payments out as long as possible. And then you can give me a bill of sale for it or a note or whatever you call it. Because I'm not altogether sure that father would be heartily in favor of my owning a road-house."

"A road-house!" gasped Jenky. "How terrible! Is Mill Rush a—road-house?" She almost whispered the horrible words.

"Well, practically so," said Ginger. "Anyhow, it'll be a road-house as soon as we get it fixed up, and you and Benny are running it for the Junior Country Club. Why don't you run along uptown now and find out what old Jop wants for it? You've got enough rags tied to carpet half the Middle West. Pretend you want it for yourself and don't mention me. And whatever he asks, you bring him down."

"I will," said Jenky, who loved to transact business for other people. "I'll go this very minute. We won't have to pay any rent if we live out there, will we?"

"Not a cent! And we'll pay all your living expenses, too, and maybe give you something to boot—if there's any money left over after we get it fixed up."

"I'll go this very minute," said Jenky excitedly.

"And for goodness' sake, don't say anything about it before Eddy Jackson, or somebody'll put a stop to it before we get started."

"Are you sure you've got enough money to pay for it?" suggested Benny, with a meek cough.

"Well, practically," said Ginger. "I can mortgage the Dido if I have to." The Dido was the small smart roadster Phil had given her for her birthday.

Jenky's hands trembled nervously as she put on her hat. "I've always liked the country," she said. "We'll can a lot of fruit and put up enough jelly to last all next winter. It'll be good for Benny. He doesn't get outdoors enough. We'll raise chickens, Benny."

"Be sure to argue his price down," cautioned Ginger. "Half of what he asks will be about right. And pretend you're buying it for yourself."

CITY LEAGUE OPENS TONITE

K. of C. Take Place of Pathfinders in New Circuit

Tonight the reorganized city league will swing into action at the Bault alleys with the West Side forming the opposition for the Bakers. On Friday evening the Bault Specials will be opposed by the newly organized Knights of Columbus team.

The results of the reorganization show a change in the personnel of the teams, in the number of bowlers, and the dropping out of the circuit of Gray's Pathfinders. Personnel changes were necessary on account of some of the bowlers being in the Elk's league. The four teams are composed of four men each with a substitute for each team. A Knighthood of Columbus team has been substituted for the Pathfinders, although the personnel has no new faces in city league bowling.

Probability that two teams consisting of the ten highest bowlers in the organization will be selected for competition in the upper peninsula tourney at Gladstone seems imminent. Merry-ground doubles will also be undertaken during the latter part of the season.

Personnel of the teams is as follows:

Specials—A. Busch, Steor, Bratche, Miller, sub.
Bakers—Van Eyck, Carr, Conette, Christensen, Dumond, sub.
K. of C.—J. Dupont, Heinz, Faketty, Schuster, Sungenberg, sub.
West Side—Cool, M. Nelson, W. Nelson, Peterson, Burns, sub.

Last Rites For Garden Pioneer Are Held Today

Last rites for Oliver Charbonnet, Garden pioneer, who passed away Sunday morning at the John Neehan farmstead at Cooks, will be held this morning from the Cooks Catholic church with Rev. Father B. J. P. Scheevers officiating.

Interment will be made in the Cooks cemetery with Sven Johnson, Manistique mortician, conducting the funeral.

Carl's Russia manufacturer have been selling cotton thread at such low prices in Latvia that British thread producers have twice reduced their prices recently.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It is the most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases. A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

Today and Friday

"Family Nights" to Begin Thursday at Methodist Church

The second annual series of "Family Nights" sponsored by the First Methodist Episcopal church of Manistique will begin on Thursday evening of this week. Supper will be provided in the church parlors at 6:15 o'clock for which no charge will be made with the exception of a free will offering which will be used to help defray the expense of the series.

The devotions of the evening will be held at the supper tables under the guidance of the pastor of the church, again we shall join in "The Big Sing" and in the fun of the evening. An illustrated talk will be given to the children each week.

In connection with this series of meetings which will be held every Thursday evening over a period of ten weeks we have organized The Standard Leadership Training Curriculum which is a course of study approved by the forty-one denominations comprising the International Council of Religious Education. It is organized on the basis of course units each of which covers not less than ten fifty minute class periods. A diploma is granted to those who complete the required number of units.

The following courses are offered:

Course 1—Children's story hour. Children under seven. Teacher, Mrs. Van Eyck. Approved text book.

Course 2—Junior Epworth League. Children's hour, children of ages 7 to 12. Teacher, Mrs. P. L. Lomas. Approved text book.

Course 3—Junior High Students Hour. Bible study class. Approved text book "Student's History of the Hebrews."

Course 4—Senior high students hour. Approved text book, "The Most Beautiful Book Ever Written." Teacher, Mr. S. B. Carlson.

Course 5—Teacher Training class, course approved by the International Council of Religious Education. Open to all teachers of Sunday schools. Accredited teacher for this course is Mrs. K. Bundy.

Course 6—Pastor's Study class. Text book, "Finding God in the Beautiful." A course from the University of Chicago for which credits may be received.

This series of Family Nights is open to all those who desire to enroll in one of the classes. The classes will start promptly at 7:40 and will close at 8:30. Either part or the whole evening may be enjoyed by all.

LOCALS READY FOR MAROONS

Coach Preston Tails' affirmative debaters are ready to tackle the heretofore undefeated Menominee negative forensics team here tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium in what promises to be the best battle of words of the season. The Maroons, like Manistique, have won all of their debates in impressive fashion, and the chain store question will receive a thorough probe from all possible angles.

A new feature to be introduced at this debate should prove exceedingly interesting from the spectators' point of view. A pamphlet questionnaire will be presented to each member of the audience to determine the influence of the forensics contest upon the spectators. The questionnaire, when filled out, will determine what the spectator's opinion on the question was previous to the debate and after the debate and leaves space for comments upon the work of each speaker. The name of the writer need not be inserted. The pamphlet is the result of efforts being conducted on the subject by Prof. Howard S. Woodward of Western Reserve university.

The Menominee team, coached by J. E. Editt, will present their debaters in the following order: Roger Goodman, Joyce Bakeman and Jeanne Seldi. Personnel of the Manistique team will be Lorraine Doyle, Jack McIntosh and Walter Morrison.

The debate will start at eight o'clock with special music to be furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Wayne S. Martin as a preliminary event to the debate. Immediately following the debate the Girls Glee Club will sing several selections under the direction of Miss Helen Hulbert. Prof. Forest A. Roberts, of Northern State Teacher's college, Marquette, will act as sole judge of the contest, Walter Dreydahl will preside over the debate.

POLICE SEEKING MISSING WOMAN

No Clues Found in Dis- appearance of Mrs. Mayne Bashore

Police authorities are searching for Mrs. Mayne Bashore, 22, who disappeared from her home at Manistique Heights at eleven o'clock Tuesday morning and has not been heard of since. Mrs. Bashore before her marriage was Doris Needham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Needham of this city.

Mrs. Bashore had been with her mother a half hour previous to her disappearance. It was at first believed that she left for Manistique, but when she did not return, authorities were notified and a search started. No clues have as yet been found. Police authorities in neighboring counties have been notified to keep a sharp lookout for her.

Leaves Note

A note addressed to her husband was found on a table in the home which stated that he should take good care of the children. Mr. and Mrs. Bashore have two children. Only two theories as to the cause of Mrs. Bashore's disappearance, that of monetary matters and the fact that she had been in poor health, have been given.

Mrs. Bashore is about five feet three inches tall, has light blue eyes, light brown hair, and weighs about 125 pounds. She was wearing a black satin dress, dark shoes, usually wore light colored stockings, was attired in a brown cloth coat, and wore a close fitting red hat.

CIRCUIT COURT TERM CLOSES

The January term of circuit court was brought to a close early yesterday afternoon by Hon. Judge Herbert W. Runnels with the hearing of non-jury civil and chancery cases. The term was exceedingly short, court having convened on Monday.

The civil case of Elizabeth Musgrove vs. the Manistique and Lake Superior railroad, which ended in a mistrial, was the only case which necessitated the calling of a jury. No criminal cases were brought for trial.

In the case of the People vs. William Preston in which the constitutionality of the itinerant vendors ordinance was questioned, the court took the matter under advisement after hearing the arguments of the respective attorneys. Judge Runnels is expected to render a decision in the case sometime before the next term of circuit court. Attorney J. C. Wood is representing the city and Attorney John I. Penigore of Manistique, is upholding Preston.

A game violation case against George Parks was not prosecuted because of a legal technicality, with the possibility of the case coming up at the next term of court. The only other criminal case considered was that of the People vs. Helmer Mattlin. It will be continued until the next term of court.

DEATH CLAIMS ISAAC SEBECK

Ensign Resident Lived in Section for Last 45 Years

Isaac Sebeck, Ensign, resident of Delta and Schoolcraft counties for the past 45 years, passed away at an Escanaba hospital Tuesday evening after an illness of six weeks' duration. Death was caused by kidney disorders. He had observed his 67th birthday anniversary.

Mr. Sebeck was born Jan. 12, 1864 in Finland, where he was reared. He married there and as a young man came to the United States settling first at Manistique. Since coming here he has resided in either Schoolcraft or Delta county, living at Stonington, Ontonagon and later at Ensign. His first wife passed away 21 years ago and he was remarried a year later at Ontonagon.

He is survived by his wife, seven daughters and seven sons, namely, Mrs. Charles Holm, Mrs. Walter Lassar, Mrs. Harvey Larson and Miss Tillie Sebeck, of this city; Mrs. Ole Nelson, Ensign; and Ulma and Alice at home; Abraham, Manistique; Olaf, Escanaba, Helmer, Gladstone, and John, Carl, Ferdinand and Melvin at home. Twenty-four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren also survive.

The body was prepared for burial at the Swenson Brothers mortuary and will be returned Saturday morning to the family home at Ensign where it will repose until the hour of services. Funeral services will be conducted from the home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Carl S. Ohman, pastor of the local First Lutheran church officiating at the rites. Interment will be in the family lot in the Ogotz cemetery.

The program:
Song—Congregation.
Invocation—Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom.
Song—Girls' quartette.
Pianna duet—Helen and Mildred Olson.
Reading—Hilding Olson.
Vocal solo—Mrs. C. V. S. Engstrom.

ACES CAPTURE BOWLING HONOR

Defeating the Green Lassies by two games out of three, while the Yellow Jackets were beating the Red Knights by a similar margin, the Blue Aces, par excellence in the Gladstone girls' bowling league, captured honors for the first half of the 1930-31 season. Final matches of the first half were played Tuesday evening, the Aces leading the Jackets to the tape by a margin of one game.

Second half play will begin Monday evening, January 19. A schedule for this round is now being drawn up. At the close, the winners of this round will play the Blue Aces for the championship of the city.

Keen rivalry has grown between the participants for league honors, and this, coupled with the fact that the feminine bowlers are steadily improving in form and ability predicated a real battle for the title during the coming matches.

The final team standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Blue Aces	21	9	.700
Yellow Jackets	20	10	.667
Red Knights	10	20	.333
Green Lassies	9	21	.300

Feb. 22—Leader, Viola Foster; speaker, Mrs. C. W. LaFaver.

Sanction of the relocating of highway US-2 and 41 within Gladstone, requested sometime ago by the city commission, has recently been received from the state highway department, and the highway now runs south on Ninth street to Dakota avenue, then west to Central, and then south to the old route. Highway route markers and arterial signs have been changed to the new route.

The proposal for a second and future relocation of the highway calling for the route to run south to Ninth to Minneapolis avenue and thence in a large sweeping curve through the city park to the intersection of Central and Lake Shore Drive has also been approved. It is believed that it may be included in the department's 1931 program.

Changing of the former route eliminates the dangerous "blind corner" at the intersection of Wisconsin and Central avenue, where the Presbyterian church blocks the view and also greatly reduces the hazard of children being struck by autos as the highway does not now run through the school zone.

CAGE TOURNEY IS SANCTIONED

Board Approves Holding of Class B Regional Meet Here

Formal sanction of the holding of the upper peninsula class B regional cage tourney at Gladstone was given by the Board of education at a special meeting held here in the Junior high school Monday night. A poll of the board members showed their approval to be unanimous.

Principal C. C. Strickland was named manager of tournament arrangements and is now outlining tentative plans for accommodating the crowd of players, coaches and fans who will gather here in March for the meet.

What the tourney would mean to the city and that the facilities here are ample to care for the numbers who will attend the meet was shown by Principal Strickland, who outlined the situation before the board.

It is believed that the crowd, including players and coaches, will not exceed 200 because of the present business conditions and because of the distance that a number of competing teams will have to travel. A partial survey made Monday revealed enough places to house almost 200 and accommodations for the others and probably many more can be arranged before the time of the meet.

Is Honor
In past years those attending tourneys have been entertained without charge. However, now each person pays one dollar a night for lodging. It is estimated that each person attending the meet will spend about five dollars in the city. Providing that 150 attend, this would mean $750 would be spent here; if 200 attend, approximately $1000 would be spent.

The gymnasium here can accommodate about 600 spectators, which it is believed will be ample for the crowds which come.

Board members were unanimous in declaring that a signal honor has been accorded Gladstone by the U. P. tournament committee in the awarding of the meet to this city. Gladstone was chosen as the site over two other cities which sought it—L'Anse and Munising.

Mrs. Sam Hubert is critically ill at her home at 413 Delta avenue.

ANVIL CHORUS CAUSES ACTION

Poor Material Is Also Blamed; Nothing in Sight at Present

BY PAUL MCKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—Pat Page has resigned as football coach at the University of Indiana.

Taking advantage of the periodical lull of the Hoosier "Anvil Chorus"—which was stifled after his team defeated Purdue in the biggest upset of the 1930 Big Ten champion—Page came to Chicago today, conferred with several of his friends and then mailed his resignation.

The resignation is to be effective at the end of the present season if accepted—as it probably will be. So far Page has no plans for his football future although it is known that he is dickering with several universities throughout the East, Middle West and West Coast.

Material Not So Good A combination of circumstances caused Page, football mentor at Indiana since 1926, to resign and to take a chance on obtaining a berth next fall. The material at Indiana hasn't been exactly to Page's liking or if it has, it has had to compete with the great Hoosier pastime—Basketball; the Indiana faculty athletic committee hasn't cooperated enough to suit him; the alumni in Indiana have been a loud Anvil Chorus for years and their complaining chants finally have punctured Page's feelings, and, finally, Page believes he can do better elsewhere.

Page, one of the University of Chicago's greatest football, basketball and baseball stars, started his coaching career as Amor Alonzo Stag's right hand man at Chicago immediately after graduation in 1911. He helped Stag develop winning teams in football and directed the basketball and baseball teams. His greatest fame came at Butler college at Indianapolis where he went as athletic director and coach of all sports in 1921. His football teams won surprising victories while his basketball machines won recognition as the strongest in the country.

No Championships His office at Indiana, a door mat of the Big Ten conference since the death of "Jumbo" Stehm, was a failure from a basis of championship teams, although his teams annually ranked as dangerous. In good or bad years, Page's Hoosiers came through to upset some team headed for the title as in 1927 when the upset Minnesota with a tie; in 1928 when Indiana scored its first victory over Michigan, and during the years 1927 to 1929 when he tripped up Northwestern's good teams three times straight. The upset of Purdue last fall was considered a crowning triumph for Page and silenced his critics.

Bill Ingram, who coached the Hoosiers before Page took the job, didn't have any better luck and Indiana became known as the "grave yard of football coaches."

Ingram, however, came back with the Navy and is now with California—and Page believes he can do likewise.

Possible successors to Page are many. Among them are Wally Middleworth, Page's assistant for the past five years; Otto Strohmeier, Indiana freshman coach, and Hartley "Hunk" Anderson, assistant to Knute Rockne at Notre Dame.

AA Baseball Loop Surrenders After Long Draft Fight

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—The American Association made an unconditional surrender to the major league draft ultimatum today.

By a mail vote of five to two, the class AA circuit, one of the original opponents of the revised draft plan, accepted the major leagues' proposal and sent the official acceptance to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. Unlike the Pacific coast league, no reservations were made. As a result of the acceptance, which was blocked last month by George Muehlbach, president of the Kansas City club, on the grounds that the first mail vote was illegal, the American Association and the majors again returned to friendly business relations. Kansas City and Louisville, leading opponents of the draft plan, stuck by their guns until the last. Milwaukee, St. Paul, Indianapolis, Toledo and Columbus voted acceptance while Minneapolis originally aligned with the opposition group, refused to vote. In the first mail vote, Minneapolis voted against the proposal, making the vote five to three. "I haven't anything to say on the matter although I am glad it has been decided," said President Thomas Jefferson Hickey of the

BEVENOCS HOLD SCORING PARTY

Swamp Manistique 45-20; Garden Defeats 'Stique Athletic Club, 25-23

Manistique, Dec. 14 (Special)—The Escanaba Bevenocs were in tip-top form tonight and they staged a scoring party at the expense of the Manistique Legionnaires, winning easily, 45 to 20, to chalk up their seventeenth consecutive victory. In the preliminary the Garden team defeated the Manistique Athletic club, 25 to 23.

All members of the Bevenoc team found the range for the goal but Schumeman, Johnson tallied six times from the field and Ray Warner and Dauber Drafft connected four times. Wassberg led the Manistique attack with four field goals.

Farrell Says Golf Depends On Form And Not On Scores

Miami, Fla., Jan. 14. (AP)—Golf has reached the point where too much attention is paid to tournament scores and not enough to the mechanics of the game. Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, said today.

Farrell related his views along the lines of golfing here as he left for St. Augustine to prepare for defense of his title in the Pensacola open next month. "I know, and every professional or amateur golfer knows, when the game is right," he said, "you have a feeling when you've hit your stride, and when you know that, you know the play and not the score is the important thing."

Johnny pointed to his scoring positions in the last two tournaments in which he played—the Miami open and the Fort Lauderdale open. In the latter, he split the runner-up position. He landed alone in the Miami open, and stroke behind the leader, Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y. "I wanted to win both tournaments," Farrell said, "but I know I played consistent golf in both, and what else can you do?"

Ten Years Pass Since that old, January evening. Years that have passed since that old, January evening. Years that have passed since that old, January evening.

The long stretch saw him gather an all-time record for knockouts, more than 200. Hundreds of fights, here and abroad, most of them victories, some heart-breaking defeats and a scattering of draws. But he was never knocked out.

Jones Makes His Debut Over Air

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14 (AP)—Bobby Jones made his professional radio debut tonight as nervous and excited as any shy southern debutant.

Two hours the all highest of golf spent before the terrifying microphones during the afternoon rehearsal for his speech of less than 15 minutes.

He was in the studio of WSD fully a half hour before his scheduled time nervously fumbling with cough drops and listening to Bill Mumford, radio announcer and sports writer, remind him at maddening intervals:

"Just don't worry, Bobby, soon we'll be on the air."

"Gee, Bill don't keep reminding me. It's bad enough now," Bobby replied.

Then O. B. Keeler, golf writer, who has followed Bobby in every major tournament of his brilliant career told of Bobby's reactions to the microphone.

"I've never seen him so nervous and I've followed Bobby in 27 major tournaments," O. B. said.

What Bobby would have given for those marines at Philadelphia or the bobbies in England to protect him against "mike," only Bobby himself knows, but he admitted frankly he was "scared."

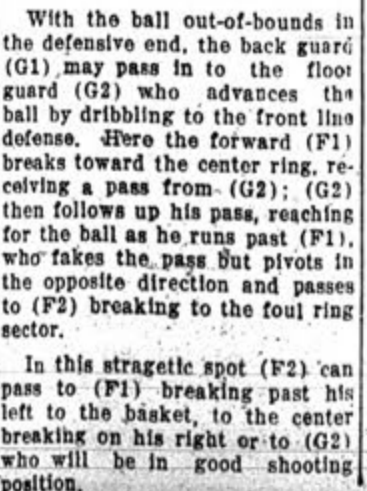

He sighed for one of those yipping golf galleries of 10,000 persons as he fought against the thing that carried his voice to an estimated 30,000,000 persons over a coast to coast network of the National Broadcasting company.

ELECTION AFTERMATH Staunton, Va.—Carney Kaly Rosser, 56, who ran on an independent Republican ticket for a seat in the House of Representatives for the 10th Virginia district, was defeated and lost his all. Shortly after his defeat, he was found obtaining food and shelter from the Salvation Army here. Then he applied for admission to the almshouse.

Basketball Topics

By Everett S. Dean, Basketball Coach of Indiana U.

An offensive formation that is particularly good for high school basketball teams is one successfully employed by Ohio State and Indiana University quints. It is strong defensively, and just as strong offensively. For the spread formation makes for an open style of play. Incidentally, there are many variations from this play, all to be used against set defenses.

GOLDEN LEADS FOR BIG PRIZE

Ed Dudley and Mortie Dutra Are Tied For Second

BY BRIAN BELL. Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 14 (AP)—Holy Poly John Golden, professional at the Wee Burn Club, Noroton, Conn., came through a Scotch mist which almost amounted to a hard rain today, to lead the field in the $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament with a first round score of 70, two strokes under par.

The stolid Golden, who never grows excited no matter what the golf provocation, owed his one stroke lead to a magnificent brassie shot at the home hole. Golden, after a long drive at the 18th, fired his wood coming fully 230 yards, the ball coming to rest within two feet of the cup.

To hole the little putt was simple. Tied for second place were Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open, and Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., one of the most deliberate players in the competition, at 71, each winning by one stroke in the battle with par.

Dutra off to a great start with three at the second, third and fourth holes. Two were birdies. He grabbed two more birdies coming home, one a two at the short 15th where he holed a big putt.

Bunched at par 72 stood five players, any one good enough to win the $10,000 first money. Gene Sarazen, last year's winner, MacDonald Smith, the veteran Scott who is always a threat, Harry Cooper, the last striding Chicago pro, Horton Smith, the young star from Missouri by way of New York, and Leo Diegel, the home pro, were in good position.

Although Sarazen declared the Agua Caliente course, little more than a year old, was greatly improved over its inaugural form last year and played "far easier" only eight were able to meet par on even terms.

PURPLE SQUAD PLAYS KAYSEES

Parochial Cagers Have Tough Game at Coliseum Tonight

The St. Joseph basketball team will meet the Escanaba Knights of Columbus in a basketball game at the Coliseum gymnasium this evening. Fresh from their victory over Vulcan last week, the Parochials are primed and ready to match shots with the newly organized Kaysees organization which boasts such stalwart stars as Puckelwartz, McGinn, Gleich and others.

Strenuous practice sessions have occupied the Gerald crew this week and several new formations will be worked for the first time against the lodge men and it is believed that they will strengthen the Parochial offense.

Coach Gerald announced a probable starting lineup as follows: Pettie and Harvey, forwards; Larson at center and Frasher and Sharkey guards.

In the preliminary game the Ramblers will meet the St. Joseph Reserves. Both teams have been playing a fine brand of ball and hot battle is expected. The Ramblers have merched themselves on top of the Tri-County league and have scored a record of 11 consecutive victories to date. On the basis of their past record, they are conceded the edge on the Reserves squad.

Stanley St. Louis will referee the main game. The preliminary will start at 7:30 o'clock with the main game following at 8:30.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MICHIGAN Gary Cooper stands today, the foremost fighting men of the screen.

With six-shooter, sword, bayonet and fists, Cooper has been fighting his way through one picture after another during the past year. Now, in "Morocco," his best starring picture, in which he appears with Marlene Dietrich and Adolph Menjou at the Michigan theatre today, he is still a fighting man, this time a private in the French Foreign Legion.

Since Cooper shot it out with Trampas in "The Virginian," he has had a continuous succession of hardy roles. He was a "kiltie" in "Seven Days Leave," in "Only the Brave," he fought battles of the Civil War. He went back to the six-gun and the plains for "The Texan," and "A Man From Wyoming" saw him in action in France again.

AT THE DELFT Although diminutive girls are the backbone of the American chorus, tall women are by far the most graceful ballroom dancers, according to David Bennett, Paramount dance director, who selected distinctive types of both short and tall women for Paramount's all-Technicolor production of the Schwab and Mandel stage hit, "Follow Thru."

"Tall women appear more 'willowy' on the dance floor than their short sisters," says Bennett. "There is an enthusiastic revival now of artistic ballroom dancing in pictures and on the musical comedy stage. That means that the girls who measure five feet four to seven inches in height will be in demand by directors."

In spite of the demand for tall women for important extra parts, however; Nancy Carroll, who plays the feminine romantic lead in "Follow Thru," and Zella O'Neal, the comedienne, are well within medium measurements. Charles Rogers and Jack Haley, the famous stage comic, are also in the featured cast of "Follow Thru," the Delft theatre entertainment for today.

South Not Affected By Carnegie Report

Atlanta, Jan. 14. (AP)—Athletic directors, faculty advisors and publicity directors of Southern college and universities are overwhelmingly of the belief that the publication of Carnegie Bulletin No. 23, has had little if any effect in their territory.

They were asked by the Associated Press to answer the question: "What, if any, changes have been manifest since the publication of the Carnegie report on subsidizing and recruiting?"

No Changes Result. The answers ranged from the observation of H. C. Byrd, director of athletics at the University of Maryland that "it gave an impetus to recruiting" to the statement of Dean S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, that "it has been accepted as a real asset."

The answer generally was "none." Dan McGugin, director of athletics at Vanderbilt and one of the leaders of Southern thought, said he regretted "I do not see any evidences of changes generally."

Dr. Thornwald Jacobs, President of Oglethorpe, believes as does Dean Sanford, that the bulletin did some good and thinks efforts being made in many cases to justify systems of subsidizing and recruiting or in other cases to ignore its existence," was cited by Stanley Robinson, of Mississippi college.

"It has not affected us at all," said H. H. Norton, director of athletics at Centenary college. Dr. Wilbur Smith, director at Tulane university and H. H. Clarkson, of Virginia military institute, two schools which received a clean bill of health in the Carnegie report, merely called attention to the fact and did not hazard an opinion as to its effect generally in the South.

South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, Poly and others believed it had had no effect whatsoever.

Not "Over-Emphasized." On the question "do you think college football is over-emphasized" the answer was unanimous. It was a ringing "No."

"Not nearly so much as supposed to be the case," said Clarkson, of V. M. I.

"I do not think football is over-emphasized so far as students and players are concerned," McGugin answered, "although it apparently is in the minds of a certain element of the public."

President Jacobs, of Oglethorpe, said: "It is the most wonderful blessing ever to come to a college. It is the best advertisement and draws students."

"There is no such thing as over-emphasis in college football in the sense that the word is generally used," he added. "There are some things in college football that might well be rectified."

Campbell Leaves For United States With Speedy Auto

New York, Jan. 14. (AP)—The financial sands apparently smoothed for his arrival, Captain Malcolm Campbell, British racing driver, today was on the high seas with his racing machine, Bluebird, 2nd, bound for Daytona Beach, Fla., via New York, and another assault on the world's speed record.

L. Warren Baker, Florida representative of the contest board of the American Automobile Association announced today in Jacksonville, Fla., an agreement had been reached among the A. A. A., a racing committee and municipal authorities of Daytona Beach that the trials would be held between Feb. 2 and 16.

Captain Campbell boarded the liner Homeric in Southampton tonight with the threat that if the dispute over finances between the two American groups was not settled before his arrival he might continue right on to New Zealand and make his speed runs there, but that was before word of the agreement came from Jacksonville. Although details of the agreement were not made public it was believed almost any compromise that would not leave him paying most of the freight would be acceptable.

ROCK, RAPID PLAY FRIDAY

Traditional Basketball Rivals to Meet at R. R. Gym

Rock, Mich., Jan. 14. (Special)—Rock high school cagers will play their basketball classic of the season on Friday evening, when they journey to Rapid River to meet their traditional rivals from the baytown. In the first of a two game series. The annual games between these two schools ranks along with the battles of Escanaba and Gladstone, in the traditional classics of Delta county.

Both teams have remarkable records so far this season, but if there is any edge on records to date, it seems to lie with the Rapid River outfit. This apparent superiority is shown by the fact that they are as yet undefeated, and have won eleven games with apparent ease from teams in all classes in the lower part of the Upper Peninsula.

Among their more notable victories are the ones over St. Joseph of Escanaba, Stephenson (both class C schools), and the strong Nahma aggregation, besides several class D teams. Coach Peterson's men like their eye on an undefeated season and they are turning their big guns on Rock, not only to keep their slate clean, but to win the big game of the year.

On the other hand, the Little Giants have a record that can favorably compete with that of Rapid River. Their record to date shows six victories in seven starts, their only defeat being at the hands of the Gladstone outfit, which was apparently playing over its head, as subsequent games have proved. Among the victims of Rock are, Escanaba, Stephenson, Gwin (all much larger schools), and two class D teams. No one knows better than Coach Weingartner that his charges will have to be at their best if they expect to defeat Rapid River. The team showed a let-down in the last game, and Coach Weingartner is far from pleased with the mental attitude of his players. However, the team is not underestimating the strength of its opponents, and they will be out fighting with their best on the big night.

The two schools have met twelve times in the past four years, when the first game was played. In that time, Rock has had the decided edge, winning ten and losing but two of the games. However, everyone of these games were bitterly contested and most of them ended with less than two or three baskets difference. From all pre-game predictions, the battle Friday evening promises to be one of these nip and tuck affairs. Fans can be sure that before the game is over, they will have seen more than an average basketball game.

ESKIMOS PLAY MINERS FRIDAY

Captain Baillargeon Is Back on Squad; Hard Battle Looms

The expulsion of one member and the return of another marked the developments of the Escanaba high school basketball situation yesterday afternoon as the Eskimos made plans for their battle with the touted Negaunee Miners here on Friday. Captain Babe Baillargeon, who has been under a doctor's care since the beginning of the season, was declared in good physical condition by an examining doctor and was ordered back to the squad while Eloy Johnson, letterman, was dismissed as a disciplinary move by Coach Puckelwartz.

The Eskimos lost a heart-breaking overtime game to Gladstone on Monday evening but they have forgotten about that for the time being and have pushed practice preparations for the game with the Miners who are classed with the peninsula's best.

A steady improvement has been shown in the play of the Eskimos this season. The Negaunee game will be one of the toughest on the local schedule but the Escanaba coaching staff seems confident that the Puckmen will have a 50-50 chance to turn back the onslaught of the visitors.

Negaunee, led by the clever Rudness, has a veteran team, all members of which have had at least one year's experience. The Miner star has played three years already with the Negaunee aggregation.

ALL IN ONE Sydney, Australia—A player-piano, radio, and phonograph, all in one unit, is being displayed here in the showrooms of its manufacturer. It looks like an upright piano, with a sliding panel which reveals the player controls and the front of a radio set. The phonograph is contained in the stool which accompanies the piano.
