CAMPAIGN ORATORS FIND AMMUNITION FOR 1932

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright, 1931, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, March 5—The wind-up of congress was much more of a routine affair than any adjournment in ten years.

David Lawrence.

The Democratic national committee meeting here this week to consider ways and means of wiping out its deficit, brings national politics to the fore just as the gathering of progressives immediately afterward focuses attention on the group that will probably hold the balance of power in the next congress.

Prohibition, which is supposed to be the principal interest of Chairman Raskob, is far from settled as a party issue but it is apparent that inside the Democratic party the wet element is beginning to feel its strength just as the republicans in the eastern states have pushed prohibition ahead of all other issues.

The revolt has hardly begun, however, in the Republican party, particularly since President Hoover is sticking to the dry side.

Complete Independence Is Goal, Says Leader of Congress Party

BY JAMES A. MILLS (Copyright, 1931 by the Associated Press.)

New Delhi, India, March 5 (AP)—"That is the birthright of India as it is of every nation worthy of the name," he said. "If the all-India congress has shown a readiness to participate in the second round table conference, it is because it seeks to make federation an Indian responsibility, with such safeguards and reservations as will promote the real growth of the country along political, social, economic and moral lines.

"If the congress succeeds in making its position acceptable to the conference then I claim the fruits of that effort will be complete independence, but I know the

TRUNK PAVING JOB APPROVED FOR ESCANABA

ACTION TAKEN ON WASHINGTON AV. AND 14TH ST.

A resolution asking that Washington avenue be taken over by the county and paved with concrete from Sheridan Road to the junction with the new highway US 2-41 at Twenty-first street, was adopted by the Escanaba city council at their regular meeting last night.

Under this plan, the county will pave Washington avenue to a width of 20 feet. The balance of the 36-foot street, including a six-foot parking lane and curb and gutter on each side will be constructed by the city. Plans and specifications for the city's portion have already been made, and will be advertised along with the county's portion after the plan is given final approval.

RUMMEL OFFERS LABOR MEASURE

Bill Places Occupational Diseases in Compensable Class

Lansing, March 5 (AP)—Occupational diseases in industry returned to the legislature as an issue today as members adjourned to attend the Republican spring convention at Kalamazoo. A bill to make occupational diseases compensable was offered in the house by Rep. Alvin L. Rummel, of Ironwood. The measure would amend the present statute to place occupational diseases within the meaning of accidental injuries.

The Rummel bill, sponsored by the Michigan Federation of Labor, with administration support, is an extension of a principle advocated in a previous measure submitted by Rep. Frank Wade, of Flint. The Wade bill lists only 19 diseases which would be made compensable.

Liquor Issue Reappears

The house took another flare at the liquor issue when it passed the Burbanck bill permitting medical examination of persons suspected of being under the influence of liquor or drugs. Testimony of the physician should be admitted in court. Protracted debate swamped the measure before it was approved by a vote of 52 to 19. Rep. Robert D. Wardell, Detroit, lead speaker, claimed the bill would lead to abuses by the police. Proposals to have the examination before two physicians instead of one and to make the examination mandatory, were defeated.

Partridge Session

Representative Philmore J. Miller offered a bill to suspend penalties on 1930 state and local taxes for 60 days. A bill by Rep. Dexter G. Cook would permit townships and counties to contract for highway lighting systems for a period of ten years with the costs levied against the entire county. A bill by Rep. John P. Espie would advance the season on partridge and pheasant from October 25 to October 15-31. A measure by Rep. Adriaan A. Lingsma would place Lake St. Clair under the commercial fishing instead of the inland fishing statutes.

convention was for the nomination for places on the state board of agriculture, and factional leaders intimated they were not sufficiently interested to get excited. The terms of L. Whitney Watkins, of Manchester, and Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, of Lansing, expire, and each is faced with opposition. Gilbert Daane, Grand Rapids banker, is pitted against Watkins, and the former has the backing of former Governor Green. Daane's friends claim he is certain of the nomination. A. J. Rogers, Beulah cherry grower, also is in the race. The latest contender for the place held by Mrs. Stockman is Mrs. Alfred Dodge Wilson, of Birmingham. Friends of both Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Stockman were active.

Casing In Gas Well Capped by Valves

Corning, N. Y., March 5 (AP)—The deafening roar of gas, escaping from a six-inch casing at the rate of 100,000,000 cubic feet daily, was silenced today by the successful application of a "christmas tree" valve to the Meeker Gas Gusher at Tioga, Pa., 12 miles south of here.

Twenty-eight tons of concrete were forced about the casing of the well to hold in place a mushroom arrangement of small valves. Once in place the valves were turned off slowly, one by one, and the roaring column of gas that had shaken the ground for hundreds of feet around was gradually brought under control.

Prince and Party At Buenos Aires

Buenos Aires, March 5 (AP)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, reached the principal objective of their South American tour this afternoon. A flag-draped special train brought them into the city from El Palomar flying field.

An hour before the princes had landed at El Palomar from Mar Del Plata. A large crowd waited in a scorching sun to greet them. Thousands of persons who lined the decorated streets of this city obtained only a fleeting glimpse of the princes as they were whisked in automobiles from the station to the residence of the British ambassador. Other crowds were packed along the route to the Casa Rosada where the royal party went almost immediately for an official visit to President Urburu. Later the president returned the visit.

bition issue into the party at this time. Mrs. Norton insisted the women wanted modification of prohibition and accused Robinson of "changing his position" since she nominated him as the running mate of Smith in 1928.

Senator Morrison of North Carolina followed Mrs. Norton with another assault upon the proposal to inject prohibition at this time and called for the "Democratic party of Joe Robinson and Jack Garner."

His fiery prohibition speech provoked constant interruption and Patrick H. Quinn, of Rhode Island, protested that it was out of order. Chairman Raskob who recognized the North Carolinian while others were seeking to talk, ruled he could proceed.

Former Hull of Tennessee, a former national chairman, was the first to respond to Raskob's invitation to discuss the platform proposal. In temperate words, the Tennesseean stated his belief that the committee was without authority to adopt policies, and that it was not its function either to recommend policies to the national convention.

All Smith Talks

All speakers agreed that only the national convention could commit the party on issues. All this talk about influencing the national convention is just bunk," snapped Smith.

"Atta boy," shouted a commiteeman.

"I have been brought up in the Democratic party to believe that the platform comes from the people," he continued.

Turning again to Senator Robinson, but this time with a smile, Smith said: "I am sorry to think that my old time traveling companion and political snarling partner, who traveled all over the state of New York in 1928 with a constitution in his hand explaining to the people that all this Republican propaganda of what we would do couldn't happen, is going off here today without an understanding of what was said by our chairman."

"If there is anything that could give greater comfort to President Hoover and his cohorts than what has happened here today I don't know what it could be.

"No one has said anything about repeal. In fact, something was said against repeal. As far as the principles enunciated by Dr. Raskob are concerned I want to say I never heard of them until today and I'm not sure that I'm for them all.

"But when the Democratic party reaches the point where no one can express an opinion and its chairman is going to be dragged around the lot because he expressed his opinion we'd better stop talking and abandon free speech."

FAVORS HOME RULE

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Prohibition under home rule that "is neither a wet nor a dry plan" but "guarantees that the saloon cannot return" was urged today for the 1932 Democratic platform by Chairman Raskob of the national committee.

He recommended that the next convention pledge the party to support the eighteenth amendment and advocate another constitutional change designed to permit complete state control of liquor.

Besides prohibition, the Democratic chairman foresaw the removal of "unreasonable governmental restriction" of business as an outstanding issue in the next presidential campaign.

Basing his prohibition plea on Jeffersonian principles of state's rights, Raskob said:

"My recommendation is that this committee suggest and advise that the platform adopted by the next national convention shall contain a plank pledging the Democratic party to retain the present eighteenth amendment and advocating a new amendment which shall not be a part of the constitution unless and until ratified by conventions of the people in three-fourths of the states and which amendment will provide that any state may thereafter direct and control absolutely the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes within that state, provided the plan under which that state is to do this is first approved by the people of that state in a statewide referendum."

Under the plan, he said, states desiring to remain dry could do so with "the full cooperation and help of the federal government in patrolling their water boundaries and in assisting them in protecting their land boundaries."

Mosley's New Party Launched by Wife

London, March 5 (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley was ill abed tonight, but his "new party," rallying ground for malcontents from the labor ranks, was ably launched by his "right hand man" and wife, the Lady Cynthia.

Lady Cynthia, who is the daughter of a British peer—the late Marquis Curzon of Kedleston—and the granddaughter of a noted Chicago merchant—the late Levi Leiter—was an eloquent substitute for her millionaire Socialist husband at the inaugural of the British Infant in politics at old Memorial Hall in Farringdon street. The hall was jammed inside and blocked by the overflow without.

BUCKLEY'S LAST HOUR IS RETOLD

Radio Commentator Was at Party For Time Before Slaying

Detroit, March 5 (AP)—The defense in the trial of Ted Plazino, Joe Bonmarito and Anselmo Livochi indicted for the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley July 23, hammered away at state witnesses today in an effort to set up a counter-motive for the assassination of the radio political commentator.

This effort by the defense paralleled an effort by the prosecution to show what Buckley said and did during the last hour of his life, with whom he talked and his reactions to the result of the Detroit recall election in which he had taken a prominent part.

Tells of Party

The contention that the recall movement in the suburb of Hamtramck rather than the earlier similar agitation in Detroit was the basis of the attack against Buckley was made by defense counsel in arguments before Judge Edward J. Jeffries. In his opening statement, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy charged that Buckley was slain by gangsters who opposed his work in behalf of the movement to recall Mayor Charles Bowles. Anthony Malullo, defense counsel, said today that he had information that Buckley was planning to espouse the then impending recall movement against Rudolph G. Tenerowicz, mayor of Hamtramck.

Witnesses called today included Leonard A. Dyzarz, long prominent in Hamtramck political affairs. He told of a party held after the recall election in the suite of William T. Skrzycki on the eleventh floor of the La Salle hotel. Among those present were Charles Dyzarz, brother of Leonard, Martha Dyzarz, their sister, and William J. Janszewski and Chester Williamowski. Buckley looked in on the party shortly after midnight, he testified. He said the radio announcer talked about the election, joked with the persons present and left "to get a little air."

Shortly after they heard police sirens in the street and learned that Buckley had been slain while sitting in the lobby.

Dyzarz told the court that Buckley had appeared happy, untroubled "but tired" during that last hour of his life. Testimony regarding Buckley's comments on the election was ruled out by Judge Jeffries.

Atlantic Storm Dissipates Self

Boston, March 5 (AP)—The storm which yesterday lashed the northeast coast, causing damage estimated in the millions, blew itself out today. There was no recurrence of the extreme high tide, which was responsible for the greater part of the destruction.

As the sea rolled back it left in its wake a shore line strewn with splintered dwellings and summer cottages and uprooted and undermined sea walls and breakwaters. Highways and road beds of electric and steam railroads were washed out in many places.

Although the force of the tidal storm was felt all along the north Atlantic states, the most destructive blows fell on the Massachusetts and New Hampshire coasts.

Cooks, March 5, (Special)—The honor roll for the Cooks Consolidated school as released yesterday by Principal Rennetta Johnson is as follows:

Eighth grade—Harold Mortenson, Harold Curley.

Ninth grade—Virginia Demars, Violet Nelson, June Hartman, Doris Curley, Marion Kelly, Addie Boyd, Kenneth Mortenson.

Tenth grade—Dorothy Hartman, Nona Hartman, Jack Griffin, Eugenia Demars, Fern Wright.

Eleventh grade—Joe Handl, Donald Middaugh.

ISABELLA NEWS

Isabella, March 4, (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nedeau and little daughter, who have spent the greater part of the winter with Mrs. Nedeau's grandfather, Jacob Roberts at Kate's Bay, have returned to their own home here.

Mrs. Adam Budzis, Mrs. Nell Ackerman, Mrs. George Beveridge and three sons spent Sunday with the former's daughter, Mrs. Phil LaBella of Gladstone.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church are making their plans for a basket social to be given in the Grange Hall on the evening of St. Patrick's Day. Further details will be announced at a later date.

Miss Lenora Hall, who recently moved to Isabella from Flint, started Monday to attend the high school at Nahma.

The election board serving at the Primary Election Monday consisted of the following: Chairman, Charles Olmsted. Clerks, Grant Truckey and Joseph Des Rochers.

Inspectors, Bert Peterson and Henry Landis.

It was not deemed necessary to appoint Gatekeepers or an officer. The election was an unusually light one, with very little interest judging from the number of votes cast. At three o'clock, only one vote had been cast. By the time the polls closed there were eleven votes cast, five of which were cast by the members of the board.

The Mahatma appealed for aid from the princes of native Indian states and from moderate Indian political groups, Englishmen generally, the United States and other countries which value liberty.

"The Indian princes' acceptance of the idea of federation was certainly a surprise for me but if they will become equal partners in a federal India, I venture to suggest that of their own free will they should advance toward the position which British India has for all these years been seeking to occupy."

TERMS OF TREATY

New Delhi, India, March 5 (AP)—The terms on which John Bull and mother India will resume a speaking acquaintance were made public today, but the way to the altar was still fraught with bypaths to discernment.

Mahatma Gandhi ordered the termination of the civil disobedience campaign and Lord Irwin moved to revoke the statutes against those who waged it, pending the next turn of the wheel of India's fate.

The text of the agreement shows Gandhi obtained Britain's promise to release non-violent political prisoners; to permit the manufacture of salt in certain restricted areas; to repeat statutes applied to all who practiced civil disobedience and permitting non-violent picketing.

The concessions made by Gandhi included the lifting of the boycott against Britain; the cessation of civil disobedience and the withdrawal of demands for an investigation into police brutalities.

Rule Weapons Are Not Machine Guns

Detroit, March 5, (AP)—Ruling that the weapons offered for sale by the Sequola Importing company in Detroit were not "machine guns" in the meaning of the state statute, Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen today quashed an indictment against Mrs. Mary Touhey, manager of the branch, and Louis Silver, an employee.

The two were indicted by the grand jury after the police had raided the offices Jan. 22 and reported the finding of machine guns, bombs and bombshells.

Judge Scallen ruled that defense had proved itself within the law in the sale of the merchandise. He also stated that the police had withheld important information from the prosecutor's office which if communicated to that office and to the grand jury would have shown no grounds for indictment.

NEW EARL NOW IN PARLIAMENT

Companionate Marriage Proponent Ranks as Intellectual

London, March 5 (AP)—Frequently in his many-sided career Bertrand Russell, raising the banner of an ultra-liberal cause, has striven in vain for a seat in parliament.

Today the widely renowned philosopher, mathematician, pacifist and proponent of companionate marriage found himself a member of the house of lords as the Third Earl of Russell, successor to the title of his brother, John Francis Russell, who died at Marseilles last night.

The new earl's accession brings to the peerage one of the great intellectuals of his time, with an experience as stormy as it is diverse.

Explains Einstein

When only a dozen men understood the Einstein theory of relativity Bertrand Russell ranked well toward the top of the twelve. He wrote a book in 1925 explaining the theory.

When Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, Colo., advocated a period of trial marriage for young people he found Russell one of his earliest and most vociferous champions.

When Britain was at war with Germany Russell pamphleteered against British treatment of conscientious objectors and paid a fine for it, and when the American army poured in France in the winter of 1917-18 Russell was sentenced to six months in prison for averring that whatever merits the Yanks might have as fighting men they probably would be "capable of intimidating strikers, a task to which they are accustomed at home."

Has Socialist School

As author of a dozen books on subjects ranging from geometry and German social democracy to modern morals and the problem of China, as a lecturer on mathematics and philosophy in his own Trinity college and in American universities, and as a platform speaker he has won a world wide hearing.

He conducts at Peterfield, England, an experimental Socialist school with his second wife, Dora Winifred Black, who three years ago was forbidden a hall in Madison, Wis., wherein to advocate companionate marriage to students of the state university.

Russell's first wife was a Philadelphia girl, Alys, daughter of R. Pearsall Smith, Quaker preacher and merchant, and herself a suffrage lecturer. They were divorced in 1921.

PUPILS MAKING COACH MODELS

Manual Training Class of Newberry Doing Fine Work

Newberry, March 5 (Special)—Four students in the manual arts classes of A. W. Talcott in the Newberry high school are working on coach models using the plans and specifications furnished by an automobile body company.

Albin Erickson is an eighth grade student, Arvo Juhola is in the tenth grade and the two others, Leo Johnson and Paul Serafin are twelfth grade students.

The work is delicate and unusual. The body and much of the running gear together with the wheels are carved out by hand. On the four corners of the box are eagles the detail of feather and claw being especially well done as are the delicate lines on the ends of the wheel hubs and along the windows. Each wheel is made of twenty pieces all carefully carved and glued together with decorations of sheet brass. Springs are made from old clock spring, bits of tin can and other cast off metal are used for other parts, one coach the little step at the back is made from the lead coupon from a department store.

Mr. Talcott is also proud of the note book work of Leo Johnson. Although this boy is a senior this is his first year of mechanical drawing. The instructor stated that he would not be afraid to allow Johnson's book to compete with any first year book he has ever seen.

Especially good work is also being done by the eighth grade boys in wood working. Each of the thirty in the class is making a shoeing outfit. This consists of a neat stand with a cover and places for brushes, blacking, polishing clothes and so on. The modern family is sometimes bothered because there is no place to keep this useful if unsightly outfit. The stand solves that problem nicely as it is good looking enough to stand in a kitchen, bathroom, or even in the corner of the bedroom or hall.

Leo Smith, a seventh grade boy is working on a personal project that is good looking and unusual. It is a modern book shelf for wall hanging and has a scroll top and a small mirror in the center of the lower compartment. Painted a gay color and filled with a few small books and ornaments it will look well in many rooms.

MILL WORKER BENEFITED

Picked Up After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Towanda, Pa.—"I was working in a silk mill and got so tired and rundown that I weighed only 80 pounds. I was not well enough to do my work. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to pick up. After being married for thirteen years, I had a baby boy and the next year I had another boy who now weighs 37 pounds and is healthy as a bear. The Vegetable Compound has helped me in a dozen ways and I hope others will try it too." —Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Webb Street, R. D. #6, Towanda, Pennsylvania.

Musicians Score Big Hit Thursday

Replete with variety numbers, the program presented by the Escanaba municipal band under the direction of Joe Greenfield proved a popular attraction at the high school auditorium last night. Vocal and instrumental solos were introduced, along with the first series of the young music clubs contest and a special stage appearance of the Legion drum and bugle corps. The contest for piano players, which will complete the young musicians contest, will be run off at the high school auditorium tonight, beginning at 8 p. m. Due to the large number of entries and wide interest in the contest, all of the entries could not be accommodated last night. Director Greenfield is offering gold and silver medals to the winners.

IS AMATEUR HOCKEY POPULAR?

HOCKEY got a good start in Escanaba this winter, but unfortunately the unusually mild weather that prevailed prevented its receiving a good tryout.

Up in the copper country, however, the introduction of amateur hockey to take the place of the professional brand this winter has been given a favorable reception.

There, the game is played on indoor rinks, where better playing conditions prevail. Commenting on the popularity of amateur hockey in that district, the Houghton Mining Gazette states editorially:

"Is amateur hockey in this district popular? One has only to note the attendance at the games to answer that question. Monday night in Calumet, 1,900 wildly cheering fans—the largest crowd in the Colosseum in recent years—witnessed the game between the Tamarack Falcons and the South Side Bandits for the championship of the Calumet Intermediate tournament and possession of the Hawks trophy.

The opening games of the amateur tournament in the New Amphidrome in Houghton also are attracting large crowds, and record-breaking attendances are expected when the semi-finals are reached.

Attendance at the upper peninsula league games throughout the season now being brought to a close has been encouraging for the first year of purely amateur hockey. This interest promises to grow as more local boys are given opportunities to play on the senior teams. Meanwhile, encouragement of the amateur sport among the younger generation will assist largely in developing new players from which the league teams will draw their recruits."

HOOVER SIGNS BILL

ALTHOUGH President Hoover has signed the bill for the establishment of Isle Royale as a national park, there remains much to do before this will be an accomplished fact.

The measure contains a clause that the island must be donated to the federal government. At the present time, much of the land is owned by private individuals, who have intended at some time in the future to cut the virgin timber that covers it, while the rest of the tract is owned by the state.

It is unlikely that these private owners, most of whom live in Minnesota, will be ready to relinquish the lands for park purposes without some monetary reward. A popular subscription for funds to purchase these private lands, will probably be the next step.

ACHIEVEMENTS

BUSINESS depressions, political struggles and international complications may come and go, posing briefly as the important monopolizing the headlines and news of the day; but all the while medical science goes unobtrusively along its path, and without any blare of trumpets accomplishes things that will be considered the highlights of the age when historians get busy half a century hence.

A brief article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association points to some of the accomplishments of medicine during 1930—a year noteworthy, to most of us, merely for the misfortune it inflicted on us.

It wasn't all misfortune. A great many lives will be saved, through many centuries to come, because of things that were done in 1930.

To begin with, the artificial lung, or respirator, was perfected by Drs. Philip Drinker and L. A. Shaw. This has already saved the lives of a number of people whose breathing apparatuses were paralyzed by infantile paralysis or gas poisoning.

Dr. J. Shiga of Seoul, Korea, found that feeding vitamins in affluent quantity to animals prevented leprosy; and it is hoped that this will point the way to the prevention of leprosy in human beings.

Investigators at Columbia University and Johns Hopkins Medical School believe they have found the virus causing the common cold.

It was discovered that Vitamin D shortens the time that it takes blood to clot—a matter of vital importance in surgical operations.

An instrument whereby heart disease can be disclosed in its early stages, before the ordinarily noticeable symptoms are apparent, was demonstrated by Dr. P. V. Wells of Newark, N. J.

Drs. Szymanski and Hicks of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital Institute of Pathology found that extremely short radio waves can be of value in killing the poison of diphtheria. Similarly, Dr. W. T. Richards of Princeton University found that fever produced by radio waves is helpful in treating paralysis; and the germ that causes creeping paralysis was discovered by Sir James Purves-Stewart and Katherine Cheavussat of Westminster Hospital, London.

That is an imposing list of accomplishments. It may be that some of you who read this will live longer, because of these discoveries, than you would have otherwise. At any rate, it indicates clearly that 1930 was not quite the year of disaster that some of us have supposed.

Anniversary

E. B. BROWNING'S BIRTH

On March 6, 1806, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, English poet, was born near Durham.

She early displayed great literary precocity, composing when about 11 an epic poem on the Battle of Marathon. When she was 20 her family moved to London where Miss Barrett established her reputation by the "Sonnets" and other poems.

In 1845 she met Robert Browning, whose writings she had previously praised. A year later they were married against her father's wishes. Proceeding to Italy they made Florence their home and there in 1849 a son was born, Robert, who became known as an artist and poet.

The married life of these brilliant poets was singularly happy, and their mutual influence is clearly seen in their verse. Mrs. Browning's "Sonnets, From the Portuguese," which were in reality original compositions, written after her engagement to Browning, "are unrivaled, of their kind, in the English language, as an 'exquisite expression of pure yet rhapsodic love.'"

LINES To a Lady Inclined to Be—Well, or What You Might Call Stout You worry much too much, my dear.

Because you're—well, not growing thinner. I'm rather glad it doth appear I sometimes take you out to dinner. Had you a lean and hungry look, Like Cassius had in Shakespeare's book, I'd fear that folks would think you're stunted. And starving hinted.

You worry much too much, my love, Because you're—well, a little stouter; Why, I've observed the cooling-dove A certain plumpness has about her. Had you the likeness of the crane I'd fear you might not long remain; Your look substantial seems to say, dear, You're here to stay, dear.

You worry much too much too much Because you're—well, you're getting fatter. You needn't worry over such, Because it really doesn't matter. The more of you there is, my dove, The more of you there is to love. Don't exercise, massage, and hike it; I rather like it.

You worry much too much too much Because you're—well, you're getting fatter. You needn't worry over such, Because it really doesn't matter. The more of you there is, my dove, The more of you there is to love. Don't exercise, massage, and hike it; I rather like it.

You worry much too much too much Because you're—well, you're getting fatter. You needn't worry over such, Because it really doesn't matter. The more of you there is, my dove, The more of you there is to love. Don't exercise, massage, and hike it; I rather like it.

MAD MARRIAGE

(By NEA Service) By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER II

There was no sign of recognition on Alan Crosby's face. He came down the gangplank slowly. His gray topcoat was tasteful, inconspicuous. The gray felt hat lowered over his eyes had the faintest touch of the picturesque in its tilt.

Crosby stood half a head above his neighbors. His features were clear-cut, pleasing, and there was an air of distinction about the young man. He had dark eyes and fair skin. His eyes roved the crowd at the foot of the gangplank.

"Alan!" Gypsy cried again. He heard her. A smile lighted his face and he hurried toward the girl. Gypsy ran to meet him, flung herself into his arms.

"Oh, Alan—I'm so glad you're back! I'm so glad that you're come at last!" She was clinging to him. Alan's face became a misty vision. Gypsy winked back the tears. She pressed her cheek against Alan's coat and felt the rough, woolly fabric slowly, breathlessly. She lifted her head. And then—

"Gypsy!" Crosby's voice came cheerfully, heartily. "This is a surprise—I didn't expect to see you here! Say, you're looking great!"

"So are you, Alan!" The girl's face was radiant. A slight hesitation, then Alan's kiss landed somewhere between Gypsy's right ear and forehead.

"Why, you haven't changed at all!" he grinned. "Same turned-up nose. Same crop of freckles! No, sir, haven't changed a bit." He held her off at arm's length and gazed down at her.

Gypsy loved his teasing. She knew she hadn't a turned-up nose though Alan had always said so. She didn't mind the freckles which once they had quarreled over.

"Alan—are you really glad to see me?" "Why, of course I am. Of course, dear! Gosh, but I'm going to be home and know I'm going to stay a while. Say—maybe I'd better have a look at what's happened to my bags—"

She had to take rapid, short steps to keep up with him. The panorama of noise and confusion, work has been practically completed on the construction of an immense storage warehouse for the Stegath Manufacturing Company on upper Ludington street where all of the products made by the company may be displayed. The new building is an immense affair 50 x 140 feet in dimension.

Announcement was made yesterday that a large number of beautiful pictures and an upright piano, the property of the late Father Langran, will be sold in the near future. Any one wishing to purchase these pictures may call Rev. Fr. Barth or John O'Meara.

Masonville is on the boom. In addition to the bringing of new industries to the town by the Escanaba Lumber Company, the Soo Line has lately taken cognizance of the town's advancement and has built a station which was opened Wednesday for the first time. T. P. Hannigan, the company's relief agent is temporarily in charge.

John Duncan, who has been operating a set of camps near Woodlawn, has completed operations for the season after banking 1,500,000 feet of logs and 100,000 pieces of cedar.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Starrine left last night for Chicago where Mrs. Starrine will submit to an operation at Augustana hospital.

opened luggage, chattering impatient travelers and unhurried inspectors became glamorous now that Crosby was by her side. "Oh, look, Alan! Look at that woman over there with the funny little monkey!"

Crosby followed her glance, nodded. He was searching for a well-worn trunk and traveling bag.

"There's a man from India. The one with his head all wrapped up in a turban. Did you meet him, Alan? He looks as though he might be a prince. Or a sultan, maybe! No, that's wrong—they're in Turkey, aren't they? Oh, it must be thrilling to cross the ocean on a boat. You've got to tell me all about it, Alan. And, oh, there are a thousand things I want to talk to you about! I don't know where to start—"

Gypsy stopped, aware that the young man was not listening. He had turned and Gypsy's eyes widened as she followed far down the pier. A woman stood there. She was dressed in sleek, rich black and her shoulders were wrapped in a luxurious fur scarf. Even Gypsy knew that the costume, the tiny black hat were Parisian. The

"The woman in black—the one who waved? She's beautiful!" The young man was casual, too casual, a person of more experience might have said. He laughed easily. "You're seeing things, Gypsy. There are a dozen women around here wearing black. None of them very beautiful, though, to my mind. I don't know which one you mean?"

The chill about Gypsy's heart again melted. Then it congealed again. "I mean the beautiful woman who just went away," she said. "She was standing there. Wearing furs and a little black hat. She waved to you, Alan."

"Now it was Alan who seemed confused though he tried desperately to hide it. "Oh, you must mean Mrs. Langley," he said carelessly. "At least it sounds like her. Funny—I didn't see her wave. Just a passenger I met on shipboard. Sorry I didn't get around to say good-bye. She'll think me rude."

As the modern skyscraper goes up, people in the vicinity are either annoyed or entertained by the music of the compressed air drill and the compressed air hammer used in such construction.

The popularity of these devices has grown rapidly and industrial physicians are beginning to pay special attention to the hazards associated with pneumatic tools. In Germany, diseases of the muscles, bones and joints from the use of pneumatic tools are now included among the diseases and injuries scheduled under the German compensation acts.

Recently Dr. M. Seyring has given consideration to some of the special forms of diseases that may arise from this type of work. The most common conditions are disturbances in the blood vessels, commonly called "dead fingers."

The fingers lose sensation when they become cold as occurs also in the disease called Raynaud's disease.

Dr. Seyring finds that the tendency to this condition increases as the years of work go on. It apparently has to do with the effects of vibration and contact of the hand with the cold metal, although associated also with exposure of the hands to cold air from the exhaust of the compressed air.

Dr. Seyring is inclined to believe that the second cause is not so important, since the left hand, which does not come in contact with the exhaust from the compressed air, is the one most frequently affected. On the other hand, the left hand is the one subjected to the most serious vibration during operation of the pneumatic tool.

Some of the workers suffered degeneration of the muscles of the thumb due to the constant strain of holding the valve at the top of the handle of the pneumatic device. Wherever there is excessive muscular exertion with pressure on the nerve or muscle in any occupation such paralysis may occur.

The final type of inflammation involved in these occupations is a serious inflammation around the elbow joint, particularly the right elbow. In these cases there is pain and limitation of movement and in some cases detachment of pieces of bone results from the constant vibration and pressure.

New industries with new devices constantly expose men to hazards for which his body was never created. The machine age has introduced not only hazards to the mind of men and to his social organization, but also to the very muscles and tissues of which he is composed.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE</

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

- (1) Cheap tobaccos.
- (2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.
- (3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidior and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

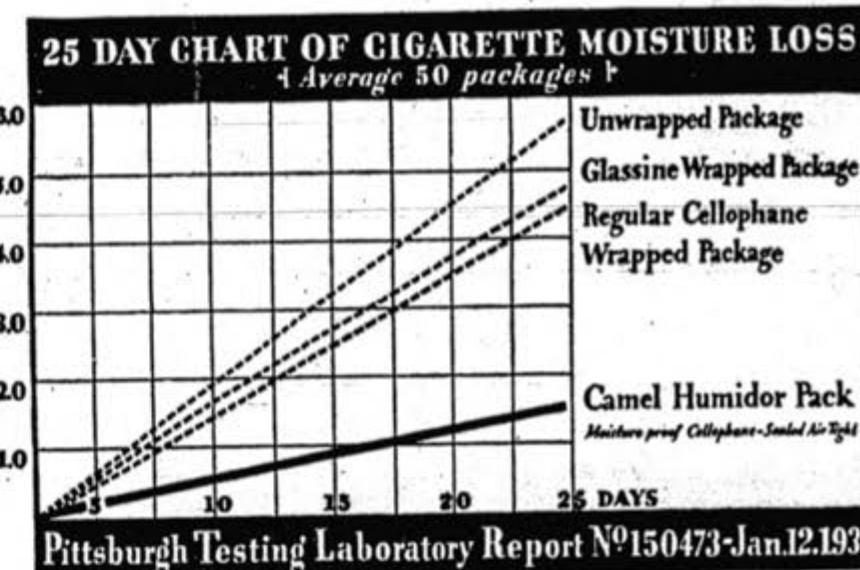

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

- (A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.
- (B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.
- (C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection. (D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

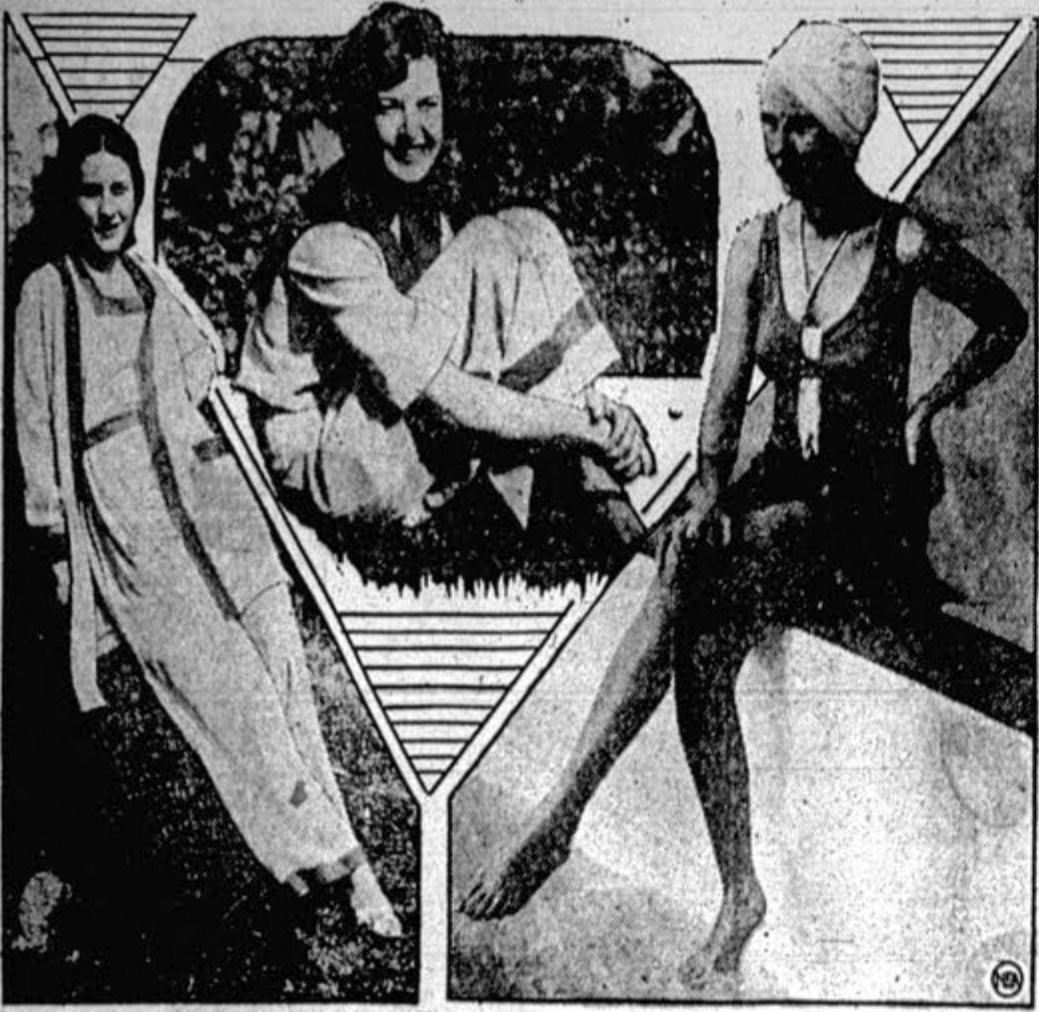

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

FASHION SWIM

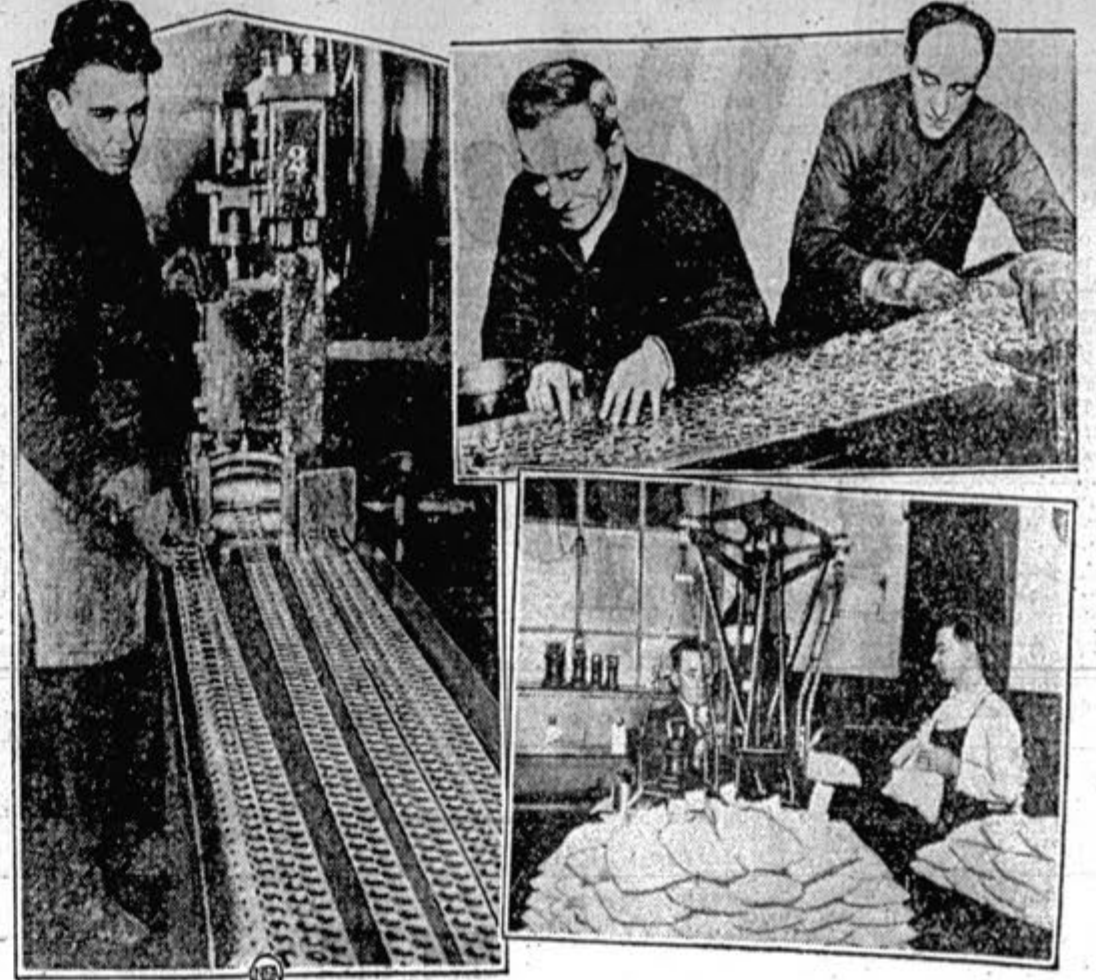

Very Feminine is the fitted bathing suit worn by Rowena Goddard (right), swimming at the Breakers in Palm Beach. The suit was cut on princess lines, with flared short trousers to give fullness. The piece de resistance was the little jabot of white rubber to match her cap. Mrs. E. B. Sory (center), of Palm Beach, attired in a sailor pajama suit of white linen with blue collar and banding, was one of the human pieces in the backgammon party Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall gave. Enjoying one of Palm Beach's favorite sports, tanning, Miss Carmen Mather (left), of Atlanta, Ga., wore a charming pale yellow three-piece pajama suit, with bands of deeper yellow.

This hitherto unpublished photo, taken 55 years ago at a reunion of the Hoover family in West Branch, Ia., is believed to be the first ever made of President Hoover. It shows him (1) as a babe in the arms of his father, Jesse Hoover (2), the village blacksmith. Other members of the Hoover family shown in the picture are: Theodore Hoover (3), a brother of the president; Mrs. Mattie Pemberton (4) of Le Grande, Ia., sister of the president's father, and owner of the original of this picture; Mae Hoover (5), the president's sister, and Mrs. Hulda Minthorn Hoover (6), mother of Herbert Hoover. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover expressed great pleasure at receiving a copy of this recently-discovered photo at the White House, and went to great pains to identify all the sitters.

These Workers Make Money—And Lots of It!

There are few money-makers anywhere who can compare with the workers at the British mint in London, and here are photos showing how the shilling—the English silver piece that ranks approximately with the American 25-cent piece—is turned out. At the left a worker runs silver strips through a cutting machine that cuts out the new coins. Above, at the right, workers are sorting the new shillings for defects. Below the shillings are being weighed in bags. Each of the bags shown contains coins worth 100 pounds—$500 in American money.

"College Convicts" Cut Capers

New Orleans' best-looking "jail birds" are Virginia Catlin, left, and Sara Forsythe, who appeared on Newcomb College campus wearing stripes and carrying a ball and chain in protest against a ruling that they should remain within the college grounds for two weeks without dates because they remained out too late one night during the Mardi Gras celebration. "It was just like solitary confinement," Miss Catlin said, "so we decided to wear stripes and carry a ball and chain as convicts do."

BEAUTY SUES FOR $150,000

Miss Dolly Arney, 16, above, has filed a $150,000 breach of promise suit in Independence, Kas., against Glen W. Dickinson, Kansas City, Mo., theater owner. Miss Arney, who has won many bathing beauty contests at Kansas City, and who competed last year for the national beauty crown at Miami, claims that Dickinson promised to marry her, and then failed to do so, being already married.

An Eye-Dropper Is His Bottle

An eye-dropper is the nursing bottle for little Harvard Lewis Hunter, who weighed just 24 ounces when he was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hunter of Kansas City, Mo. The lad arrived two months ahead of schedule, but he is said to be thriving so well that he will not have to be an incubator baby. Dr. Richard Simmons is shown here holding the baby while Mr. Hunter looks on. Both mother and child are doing well.

IS SHE INDIANA'S MRS. BLUEBEARD?

Are these pictures of the same woman at different ages? Los Angeles police believe they may have found Belle Guinness, long-sought Indiana "murder farm" slayer, in the arrest of Mrs. Esther Carlson, above, on charges of poisoning her 81-year-old employer, August Lindstrom. Mrs. Guinness, shown below in an old picture, disappeared from a farm near La Porte, Ind., 23 years ago after murdering 18 men and children in a plot to collect insurance and savings. Similarity of the crimes and likeness of Mrs. Carlson to Indiana's "Mrs. Bluebeard" led to the investigation.

What? No Piano!

"Why was I born?" queries Helen Morgan, stage and screen star, in her latest Broadway musical success. Maybe to play golf down in Florida. Anyway, this famous piano-sitting singer seems to have quite a flair for golf as you can see in this exclusive picture at Miami Beach.

Did You Hear the One About—?

That story must have been a funny one. Look at the smiles on the faces of John D. Rockefeller's hearers. The aged oil magnate is shown here, at left, in the unusual role of impromptu entertainer for fellow golfers on the links at Ormond Beach, Fla., his winter home. He'd just been introduced to British women players competing in the South Atlantic tournament.

Will One of These Be Next "First Lady"?

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow It's pretty early to be forecasting now, but one of these ladies may be the next mistress of the White House, since their husbands are already prominently mentioned as likely candidates for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations in 1932. Mrs. Roosevelt is the wife of New York's Democratic governor, while Mrs. Morrow is the wife of Senator Morrow of New Jersey, a leading Republican.

She's Bride of Baseball Star

Miss Francis Toun, New Orleans debutante, is now on her honeymoon as the bride of Eddie Morgan, former star first baseman of the Cleveland Indians. Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of an old and socially prominent New Orleans family.

Actress Attends Dog Show

"APPLE SIR?"

A crate of apples became a sidewalk puppet for the Rev. Elliot White, as this unusual picture shows, after his resignation from the staff of fashionable Grace Church in New York had climaxed a dispute with Bishop William T. Manning over marriage views. Now, deprived of a pastorate, he designates himself as a "clergyman at large" and is seen here working during the lunch hour for an unemployed apple seller in the mid-town business district of the metropolis. He has championed companionate marriage and recently officiated at the wedding of his own daughter whose marriage, it was announced, would be "companionate."

ANOTHER PLAN.
Wilmington, Del.—Edward R. Armstrong, president of a company planning the construction of seadromes in the Atlantic, believes that by utilizing floating islands anchored every 250 or 400 miles across the sea, trans-oceanic aviation would be practical. He suggests a route between New York and Vigo, Spain.

AT THE DELFT
Because every theatre audience is largely made up of those who are married, have been married, or hope to be married, "Divorce Among Friends," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone comedy-drama about married life, opened last evening to a capacity house.
After two years of happy wedded life, the Morrises are set at sixes and sevens by the arrival of blonde Jean Whitley, Helen's ex-room mate and the tipsy Paul Wilcox, a former sweetheart of the pretty matron.
Having set his stage for a theme that might easily become too serious, Director Roy Del Ruth deftly keeps both comedy and the humanity of the characters through one hilarious mishap after another, effecting the reconciliation of the Morrises finally near the divorce court.
The comedy sense of both Irene Delroy and James Hall is delightfully evidenced.
Natalie Moorhead, as the "blonde menace," gives one of the most alluring characterizations of her career, and Lew Cody, who makes up the foursome, was enthusiastically welcomed by all who witnessed his performance.
Many gorgeous gowns are worn by the ladies of the evening.

AT THE MICHIGAN
John Halliday's third talking screen vehicle sets the well known stage and screen player in an interesting dual role in the title characterization in "Captain Applejack," Warner Brothers latest comedy which opens at the Michigan Theatre today.

Many Attending Retreat Services

The retreat which is being held at St. Francis hospital chapel with daily sermons preached by the Rev. J. M. Cunningham, S. J., of Loyola university, Chicago, are drawing large crowds every day.
Confessions are heard every afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock and in the evening after the services.
The topic for this evening will be "The Mercy of Jesus Christ." Saturday evening the topic will be "Perseverance, or Sticking to It." Father Cunningham who is a forceful speaker, has given splendid sermons during the week on the fundamentals of faith and the commandments of God and of the church.
Members of the Knights of Columbus who were privileged to hear the Jesuit father, speak highly of the eloquence of the sermons delivered here by Father Cunningham.
The retreat will close Sunday morning at the eight o'clock mass which will be held in the hospital chapel, at which time several hundred Knights of Columbus will receive Holy Communion in a body.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT
Because every theatre audience is largely made up of those who are married, have been married, or hope to be married, "Divorce Among Friends," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone comedy-drama about married life, opened last evening to a capacity house.
After two years of happy wedded life, the Morrises are set at sixes and sevens by the arrival of blonde Jean Whitley, Helen's ex-room mate and the tipsy Paul Wilcox, a former sweetheart of the pretty matron.
Having set his stage for a theme that might easily become too serious, Director Roy Del Ruth deftly keeps both comedy and the humanity of the characters through one hilarious mishap after another, effecting the reconciliation of the Morrises finally near the divorce court.
The comedy sense of both Irene Delroy and James Hall is delightfully evidenced.
Natalie Moorhead, as the "blonde menace," gives one of the most alluring characterizations of her career, and Lew Cody, who makes up the foursome, was enthusiastically welcomed by all who witnessed his performance.
Many gorgeous gowns are worn by the ladies of the evening.

AT THE MICHIGAN
John Halliday's third talking screen vehicle sets the well known stage and screen player in an interesting dual role in the title characterization in "Captain Applejack," Warner Brothers latest comedy which opens at the Michigan Theatre today.

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:
"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.
ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to build the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sick Man Cured in Day Through Help of Legion

How a "painful" case of appendicitis was cured and an expensive operation averted through mental persuasion is related by an official of the Escanaba American Legion, who was instrumental in effecting the rapid "cure."
A man who represented himself to be an ex-soldier came to the police station in Escanaba for aid. He was very sick, he said, and needed money for an immediate operation. The police could do nothing for him, so they called the Legion official.
The official met the stranger at a restaurant, and over a cup of coffee the stricken man told how sick he was feeling. He was all bent over with pain.
"Well, what do you figure you would need?" asked the Legionnaire.
"I think I could get by if I had $300," said the invalid.
"Yeah," the benefactor said, and started for the telephone.
"You don't happen to know Dr. So-and-So's number, do you?" he asked the restaurant man.
"What are you going to do," the sick man queried anxiously.
"Going to call a doctor and see how soon he can take care of you," was the reply. "You belong in a hospital, and maybe we can have an examination right away and shoot you out to the hospital for an operation."
The stranger was downright will be seen as the scion of a great English family who has been pampered through life as all of his ancestors have been, but who wishes to break away from the monotony of things and becomes a real he-man. Through a series of exciting events he not only finds himself a man who must protect his aunt and pretty ward from a dangerous band of cut-throats, but a swashbuckling pirate of the high seas as well, if only for a night.

"Captain Applejack," which is taken from the stage hit of the same name by Walter Mackett was adapted to the screen by Maude Fulton.

NEW FLOORS
Makes a Difference

WHEN floors are scratched and unsightly all your attempts at "fixing up" seem to go to naught. New draperies and cushions, even new furniture, do not make the room look fresh.
Armstrong's Linoleum Floors step right into the gap. Their smooth, glossy surfaces and fresh, spring-like colors banish the gloom of shabby rooms.
An Armstrong's Linoleum Floor, properly laid and well cared for, serves you with undimmed patterns and exceptional foot comfort for a lifetime.
When once you have an Armstrong floor you will find that a daily dusting with a dry mop and an occasional waxing will keep your floor in perfect condition.

worried then. He argued that it was a little bit sudden, but the Legion official insisted that a man in such serious condition must have care at once. The sick man said he was feeling a little better.
"Let's make it tomorrow afternoon," he suggested.
"Okay," agreed the would-be benefactor, as he put away the telephone book. "I'll meet you here at 2 p. m., and we'll go right over to the doc."
At 2 p. m. the next day the Legion official appeared at the restaurant for his appointment, but it was just as he had expected. The stranger wasn't there and hadn't been there. He was gone from Escanaba, and the police said they never saw him again.

Favorite Recipe Betty Ann

Betty Ann readers, you are going to have a number of the best recipes for cream puffs that there are. Busy housewives took time the last few days from their duties to send in their own recipes in answer to a Reader's request for a cream puff recipe; and they are going to appear in the Betty Ann department for all of you to clip or copy for your cook books. This recipe of Mrs. Turnquist's, whose ability in the art of cooking is something to be decidedly proud of, is an excellent one, and with it, are two recipes for filling, a special cream filling and a real cream filling, that Betty Ann readers will welcome.

Cream Puffs One cup of hot water. One-half teaspoon salt. One-third cup butter. One and one-half cups pastry flour. Four eggs. Put on water, salt and butter and boil. Allow to boil about five minutes and remove from stove and set aside to cool. Beat one egg at a time into the mixture. Drop tablespoons of batter into a muffin pan. Bake about thirty minutes, starting with a hot fire and increasing the heat, and let stand fifteen minutes longer in oven when baked.

Real Cream Filling One pint heavy whipped cream. Beat until thick. One teaspoon sugar. Two or three drops of vanilla, Split puffs and fill. Mrs. Frank O. C. Turnquist, 1003 Lake Shore Drive.

Another request from a Betty Ann reader, received yesterday, is for recipes for both Sunshine and Angel Food cake, and particularly the method, which makes them light and fluffy. This reader has tried a number of recipes but has not been successful in this feature of her cake making.

Black Petals Trim Chinese Red Gown

Washington, (AP)—Mrs. Porter H. Dale, wife of the senator from Vermont, has a striking afternoon dress of Chinese red crepe trimmed with black velvet petals. A band of the leaves extends round the neck and down the outer edge of the revers which form a jacket effect. Matching bands go round the bottom of the skirt and midway of the long sleeves. A small black hat, black satin pumps and black beads complete the ensemble.

Franklin Tops Dental Honor Roll on City

According to the February Dental Honor Roll report issued by the Escanaba public school system, seven class rooms in the system have fifty per cent or more of the pupils in perfect dental condition. The Franklin school leads the five grade school buildings in the percentage of the total enrollment on the honor roll.

Each of the five buildings in the school system shows a gain over the totals reported for February last year. The Franklin school leading the system with 42.9 per cent of its enrollment having perfect teeth also leads in the gains made since the February 1930 report, with the Washington and Webster buildings showing the next biggest improvements. Miss Dorothy Rose's third grade room at the Franklin is shown to have 71.8 per cent of its pupils on the Dental Honor Roll which is the highest record made by any room in the entire system. With 64.7 per cent of the class in perfect dental condition Miss Mildred E. Sour-

Good products flourish. Poor ones soon disappear. Mother's Macaroni has been sold for over 30 years. How long would you use a food product that you thought was inferior? Poor products usually disappear within a year or two. But Mother's Macaroni has increased in favor and use for over 30 years. Today it's more popular than ever! There must be a reason.

Good products flourish. Poor ones soon disappear.

Mother's Macaroni has been sold for over 30 years. How long would you use a food product that you thought was inferior? Poor products usually disappear within a year or two. But Mother's Macaroni has increased in favor and use for over 30 years. Today it's more popular than ever! There must be a reason.

SUICIDE? MURDER? MIRACLE? That night—my revolver. "Good-bye, angel-heart," I whispered and—THEN! Out on the lawn—I saw Raigoon—take her—my wife—in his arms. "I can't let her live in that disgrace," I cried. Slowly I raised my revolver—carefully I took aim—and...

What did John do? In that awful climax, did he kill Olga to save her from disgrace with Raigoon? Or did he murder that cad—an act which would blacken him forever in the eyes of his wife—of society—of God? What mighty miracle could have come to solve this pitiful tangle of helpless human destinies? You must read for yourself BECAUSE I LOVED MY WIFE—the true, heart-rending story of a man who wheeled his way through hell in an invalid's chair—and what he finally found at the very brink of oblivion. Read BECAUSE I LOVED MY WIFE and nearly a score of other astounding real-life stories, including titles such as "HIS FAMILY LOVE," "I MARRIED FOR MY FAMILY'S SAKE" and "IT'S SO EASY TO BELIEVE EVIL"—all in April TRUE STORY MAGAZINE. Because these flakes make rich double-suds

MANY of Grand Rapids' leading society women permit no other soap to be used in laundering their silks and linens—because the silky double-suds of American Family Flakes cannot harm the most fragile textures and tints. Even their wealth cannot command a purer, safer soap—not only to save the lovely colors and lustres of satin boudoir things and of smart woolen frocks, but to save dollars and dollars in the wear of household linens, children's clothing, lingerie, silk stockings.... all things washable. Then, too, being all pure soap, American Family Flakes loosens the dirt without hard rubbing, then rinses out like a flash, leaving never a trace of soap—an important help in saving clothes, in making easier ironing, and in making china, glassware, porcelains sparkle. Yet, amazingly, this purest of soaps is also the least expensive to buy. The flakes are richer—you quickly see that they make more suds, and do more work per ounce. Use American Family Flakes for dish-washing, cleaning, scrubbing, laundering... and so keep your hands always lovely, too.

Mrs. William M. Wurzburg wife of the president of Wurzburg Department Store, local vice-president of the Needlework Guild, and expert in the care of fine fabrics, says of American Family Flakes double-suds: "Even delicate laces and precious silks always come out of these suds as lovely and fresh as new."

American Family Flakes It's the double-suds that makes the difference

MUCH RELIEF BEING GIVEN

Salvation Army Appeals for Food and Clothing Donations

Since the first of January, a large amount of relief work has been carried on by the Escanaba corps of the Salvation Army, Captain Anderson reports.

Aid has been given as follows: groceries, 45 families; clothing and shoes, 34; cash, three; and fuel, two. More than two hundred pieces of clothing and 31 pairs of shoes have been distributed.

Because of unemployment conditions, the Salvation Army has received requests for aid from transients. The transient relief has been as follows: meals, 139; lodging, 38; garments, 44; and shoes, 14.

The total value of all relief for the two months was $297.47. At the present time, clothing is greatly needed, especially garments for children, Captain Anderson states. He says that donations of cash, food and clothing will be greatly appreciated. Anyone having anything to contribute is asked to telephone or write the Salvation Army here, and someone will call for the donations.

Crops, Dairy, Chick Meetings Scheduled Through Next Week

Four brooder school meetings and a series of seven crops-dairy meetings have been scheduled in Delta county for next week by J. E. Turner, county farm agent.

Teamwork

BASKETBALL, football, baseball or business, it's teamwork that makes for the fullest measure of efficiency . . and certainly the management of a well-conducted household comes under the heading of business--Yes--a little teamwork in handling the family finances will very materially increase the buying power of the household dollar.

The clever Housewife who reads the newspaper ads every day discovers many unusual opportunities to save money--Occasionally, however, she finds it inconvenient to run down town on a shopping trip--That's where "Teamwork" can be made to play an important part in this household business.

Rather than lose out the money saving possibilities of any special offering, she phones her husband or some other member of the family, to stop in and pick up the advertised article on the way home - - This type of "Teamwork" pays big dividends.

Two Delta County Farmers to Receive Recognition at Dairy Meet

THREE LOVING CUPS AWARDED

Anderson of Bark River and Holm of Ensign to Get Diplomas

The complete list of Upper Peninsula dairymen who will receive recognition at the Tri-State Dairy congress to be held at Duluth, Minnesota, March 20, has been compiled by R. E. Horwood, dairy specialist for Michigan State college.

The men who will receive loving cups are as follows: small herd, A. J. Waite, Iron county, with an average of 994.5 pounds of milk, and 453.2 pounds of fat per cow. In the medium herd class, Carl P. Hansen, Menominee county, leads for the third consecutive year with an average of 951.2 pounds of milk, and 478.4 pounds of fat per cow. For the second consecutive year Gust Theuerkauf, Menominee county, has the highest large herd, averaging 834.6 pounds of milk, and 410.1 pounds of fat per cow.

After winning this honor, the farmer is termed a "master dairyman." Menominee county now has four master dairymen, Carl Hansen, Gust Theuerkauf, George Hasner and Ed Nyberg.

Diplomas will be given to dairymen whose herds lead in the different classes in each dairy herd improvement association.

The names are as follows: South Chippewa Association—Bert Smith, Pickford—Small herd.

Forbest McDonald, Pickford—Medium herd.

North Chippewa Association—Art Talsma, Rudyard—Small herd.

Henry Ofala and son, Brimley—Medium herd.

Ed. Doll, Dafter—Large herd.

Iron-Dickinson Association—A. J. Waite, Iron River—Small herd.

J. and R. Johnson, Iron River—Medium herd.

F. Bernard and Son, Norway—Large herd.

Delta County Association—Fred Holm, Ensign—Small herd.

Andersign Bros., Bark River—Medium herd.

Marquette Association—Victor Waisanen, Negaunee—Small herd.

Lauri Hielkonen, Negaunee—Medium herd.

Chas. Hutala, Covington—Large herd.

Ontonagon-Gogebic Association—Chas. Jalonen, Bessemer—Small herd.

Sacris Niemi, Bruce Crossing—Medium herd.

C. E. Johnson, Ironwood—Large herd.

Menominee Association—John Lechman, Daggett—Small herd.

Carl P. Hansen, Wallace—Medium herd.

Gus Theuerkauf, Menominee—Large herd.

Menominee Holstein Breeders Organized

Many Menominee county Holstein breeders met at the town hall at Stephenson and listened to Jim Hayes, secretary of the Michigan Holstein Breeders' Association, define the kind of farmer that should be keeping pure bred Holsteins.

He said this breeder should be willing to test his herd in the cow testing association, that he should be willing to sell his poor pure bred to the butcher and not to his neighbor, that he should be willing to keep the necessary records, and that he should be willing to cooperate with other Holstein breeders.

After Jim Hayes' talk, a Menominee County Holstein Association was formed and the following directors elected: J. M. Kronsnoble, Stephenson; E. A. Steinbrecher, Daggett; Raymond Curran, Falthorn; Ed Nyberg, Stephenson, and Gideon Gronlund, Hermansville. From these directors J. M. Kronsnoble was elected president, Ed Nyberg, vice president, and Raymond Curran, secretary-treasurer.

The association then voted to promote the following projects during 1931: To assist the county agent and county club agent in promoting 4-H Holstein calf club work in the county; to organize a county herd to be shown at the U. P. State Fair at Escanaba; and to sell co-operatively the cull stock from their herds. Walter Wangerin was chosen to head up the 4-H club work, E. A. Steinbrecher to head the selection of the county herd, and Frank Erickson to organize the shipping of the cull stock.

A fee of fifty cents was voted as annual dues, and the newly formed association voted to hold their annual meeting at Carney about the middle of September.

It is expected that the association will be of real value in the advancement of the Holstein breed within the county.

Yarns From Cellos

Kingsport, Tenn. (AP)—The Eastman Kodak company plans large scale production of cellulose acetate yarns for the textile trades. Its subsidiary plant at Kingsport is to be enlarged to an annual capacity of 2,500,000 pounds.

Pure Milk For Chileans—Santiago, Chile. (AP)—President Ibáñez has signed a bill by which the Chilean congress to require the pasteurization of all milk sold in the republic.

Breeds Orchids for Fun

If Dr. David Lumsden, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, were a sailor, he'd probably spend his spare time rowing a boat. But he's a plant specialist, so he spends his spare time raising prize orchids. Here you see him with a flask containing 1500 orchid seedlings. They are valued at more than $10,000 to a commercial orchid breeder. Each seedling is the result of a hand-made cross-breeding, and it will be seven years before they bloom. No wonder orchids come so high!

Good Seed Wasted Unless the Plant Food Is Available

Most of the advantage gained through the use of better farm implements, improved varieties of seed, and knowledge of how to control insects and plant diseases is nullified in an attempt to increase crop yields unless the farmer has been careful to conserve the fertility of his soil, according to members of the Soils Department at Michigan State College.

Records of the State Department of Agriculture show that the average yields per acre for oats and wheat in Michigan were less in the last 10 years than they were in the 10 years between 1870 and 1880, and the yield of corn during the last decade was only a fraction of a bushel higher than it was in those years.

This failure to secure the reward of better farming methods is due to the loss of plant food elements from the soil through the successive years of cropping, and, unless provision is made for the return of plant food to replace that lost in the crops harvested, yields will fall still lower.

One of the vital food elements, nitrogen, can be conserved by keeping a normal supply of decaying plant tissue in the soil. This can be done by plowing down legumes, by the use of quantities of manure, or by plowing down crops such as rye where the soil is so low in fertility that it is impossible to secure crops of legumes without using such measures first.

Supplies of phosphoric acid and potash in the soil are most easily increased by the use of commercial fertilizers. The proper analyses for use in Michigan are given in detail in Circular Bulletin 53 which can be obtained from the College or from your County Agricultural Agent.

Texas Wars Again on Cattle Rustlers

San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—The cattle rustler still rustles in the lonely chaparral around San Antonio, but now he uses a motor truck to make off with stolen cows and calves.

The Southern Texas County Protective League, resembling somewhat the old-time vigilante organizations, has been formed and has posted a reward of $200 for conviction of cattle thieves, or buyers of stolen cattle.

Comb of Rooster Has Violet Rays

Chicago. (AP)—The rooster's gorgeous comb is not merely just a male ornament after all. It is his ultra-violet ray catcher. Experiments pointing to this conclusion are reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by L. V. Dorn of the University of Chicago. The ultraviolet seems to be absorbed for some use of sex glands. The hen's comb does a similar duty.

Talkies Adopted as Aid to Farmer

Washington, D. D.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture, in an effort to enhance its moving picture service to American farmers, has adopted sound recording apparatus for the making of sound motion pictures.

For the past 20 years the department has been making silent pictures on various farm subjects, and distributing them to 5500 county agents, extension, agricultural colleges and other educational institutions so that the lessons in the films could be strewn direct to farmers.

It is expected that the use of sound films will be of further value to farmers in that spoken lessons can be put across.

Soybean Oilmeal Cheap Hog Feed

Des Moines, Iowa. (AP)—Soybean oil meal, one of the most valuable of the high protein feeds, offers additional source of income to corn belt farmers.

It can be substituted for a considerable part of the tankage in the hog ration, benefiting both the hog and the hog-raiser's pocket-book. Home-grown, it does not involve freight rates to such an extent as so many feeds which are used in the corn belt.

F. M. Parrish, of Concord, N. C., harvested 4,700 pounds of Korean lespedeza seed and 16,030 pounds of cured hay from a six-acre field this year.

STATE EXPERTS HOLD MEETINGS

Poultry, Crops, Dairy Conferences in Delta County

A series of poultry, crops and dairy meetings has been scheduled in Delta County for the coming week by J. E. Turner, county agricultural agent. On Monday and Tuesday, L. R. Arnold, poultry specialist, will hold brooder schools in preparation for the spring chick hatching season. Approved methods of care and feeding for baby chicks will be explained to local hatchers, and Mr. Arnold will demonstrate how to bring chicks the best health and growth.

Russell E. Horwood, extension dairyman, and D. L. Clanshan, crops specialist, will arrive in the county Wednesday, and will be here for three days to conduct a series of crop-dairy meetings. They will help farmers to plan the farm to grow the most feed per acre for the dairy cow, and how to feed home grown feeds to the best advantage.

The schedule of meetings follows:

Brooder Schools Monday, March 9: 8:30 a. m.—Ensign. 2 p. m.—Fayette. Tuesday, March 10: 2 p. m.—Stonington. 8 p. m.—Ford River Switch school. Crops-Dairy Meetings Wednesday, March 11: 9:30 a. m.—R. N. Dahlberg farm, Bark River. 2 p. m.—E. M. Daigneault farm, Schaffer. 8 p. m.—Cornell Town Hall, Thursday, March 12: 9 a. m.—Rapid River. 2 p. m.—William Vinette farm, Isabella. 8 p. m.—Fayette Town Hall, Friday, March 13: 8 p. m.—Finn Hall, Rock.

First Harvest Now Starting

Michigan Ranks Fourth in Production of Maple Syrup

Weather conditions have started Michigan's first harvest of the year unusually early and many farmers of the state are devoting their time to tapping maple trees and are displaying their skill in manufacturing syrup or sugar.

Michigan ranks fourth in the production of this crop and the quality of its product gave it second place. Most of the Michigan harvest is marketed in the form of syrup while some of the states sell this product in the form of sugar.

The Forestry Department at Michigan State College says that maple syrup can be easily adulterated and they also say that there is a wide variation in the quality of syrups and, consequently, in the value of them.

It is probable that many Michigan farmers this year will tap their maples who usually do not bother with this crop. The forestry men recommend that the trees be tapped four feet from the ground and that the holes should be bored with a slight angle upward to a depth not exceeding two inches. A one-half or three-eighths inch bit should be used. The holes can be slightly enlarged about the middle of the season to increase the amount of sap secured.

Strict cleanliness is essential in preparing a high class syrup. Metal containers should be used and the sap should be strained when it is placed in the storage tank and, again, when it is taken from the tank to the evaporator. Prolonging the season for collecting sap will result in the production of poor quality syrup.

Animals should not be turned on pasture until the grass has had a good chance to start growth, and it is a good plan to provide a temporary pasture in which the animals can be turned when the summer drought has stopped the growth in the pasture field. Later, when the rains have started a new grass growth the animals can be changed back.

Sudan grass, ryegrass and vetch are recommended for temporary pasture crops. Sudan grass can be used in the fall and the others both in the fall and spring. Alfalfa and sweet clover have become very popular as pasture crops.

The use of 5-15-5 fertilizer in amounts from 300 to 1,000 pounds per acre applied four or five weeks before the stock is to be turned on the pasture in the spring is advised for the better Michigan soils. This application will be needed only every second or third year.

Hiawatha Township Residents Arrested

Caylor Beyers and Clarence Fletcher, both of Hiawatha township, were arrested Wednesday by Paul Knuth and Vic Deemer, local conservation officers on a charge of violating the game laws. The officers confiscated five beaver traps, a beaver skin, and a beaver carcass. The arrests were made in Hiawatha township on Hay Meadow creek where the men were living in a shack.

The men will be tried in justice court this morning at ten o'clock before Judge W. G. Stephens.

Experience Social The Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church observed its annual experience social yesterday afternoon. A large audience enjoyed a pleasing and delightful program which was well given. The following program was carried out:

Two vocal solos, "Kashmiri Song" and "Absent" by Rev. J. Gross. A pantomime "Pocky Huntas" by 15 members of the Aid and Mrs. W. S. Crowe, reader. Vocal solo "Whisperwill" by Mrs. Edith Hudson. Organ solo, "The Lost Chord" by Mrs. T. H. Bolltho. Instrumental quartette for two pianos, "Hungary" by Mrs. F. E. Davton, Mrs. E. Hudson, Mrs. W. J. Shinar and Mrs. T. H. Bolltho. A musical interpretation, "The Ladies Aid" by Mrs. L. C. Harbin, assisted by 10 ladies who in costumes displayed the fashions and styles of 50 to a 100 years ago.

The members of the society then brought their dollars and told in poetry how they earned it. Following the program dainty and delicious refreshments were served in the church parlors.

The whole affair was one of the most successful and enjoyable social functions of the society.

GLEE CLUB TO STAGE COMEDY

Miss Cherryblossom, 3-Act Opera to Be Presented Friday

Miss Cherryblossom, a three-act musical comedy which has scored instantaneous success both on the amateur and professional stage, is the opera which will be presented at the high school auditorium next Friday afternoon and evening, March 20, by the glee club. A large cast of characters have been rehearsing for the past several weeks under the direction of Miss Helen Hubert and the public is assured of a most enjoyable performance. Elaborate Japanese and American costumes will be worn by the cast.

The story of the play deals with Miss Evelyn Barnes, an American girl, born in Japan, and whose parents die of fever, is brought up as a Japanese maiden. Her father's secretary uses her property for his own ends. When Evelyn, who is known as Cherryblossom, is about eighteen, Worthington (the secretary) returns to Japan on his yacht with a party of American friends. One of them, John Henry Smith, falls in love with Cherry and wishes to marry her, but Kokemo who has brought her up as his daughter, wants her to marry Togo, a rich politician. The action of the opera centers around Jack's effort to outwit Togo and Kokemo. Eventually Cherry learns her true identity, marries Jack, and all ends happily.

Both singing and talking roles are offered in the production. The production was written by Mary Hewes Dodge and John Wilson Dodge. Tickets for Cherryblossom will go on public sale Monday.

The cast of characters is as follows: Cherryblossom, brought up as the daughter of Kokemo, in reality Evelyn Barnes of New York, U. S. A.—Helen Fagan. Kokemo, a proprietor of a Tea Garden in Tokyo, Japan—Clayton Burrell. John Henry Smith, a New Yorker on a visit to Japan as a guest of Mr. Worthington—Bryd Bolltho. Henry Foster Jones, Jack's pal, in love with Jessica—Harvey Eckdahl. Horace Worthington, a New York stock broker who is entertaining a party of friends with a trip to Japan on his private yacht—William Morrison. James Young, Worthington's private secretary—Albert Dart.

SCHOOL ENTERS FORENSIC MEET

Students to Compete in Oratory, Declamation and Debate

Gladstone high school will participate in the Upper Peninsula Forensic League meeting which is to be held at Negaunee on March 27. Entry will be made in three events, the oratorical and declamatory contests and in debate.

Winners in the U. P. contest will be entitled to compete downstate for the state title. Later champions of the various states will meet at Ripon, Wis., to contest for the national championship. Only forensic league members are allowed to enter the competition.

Seven students, all girls, have been chosen to represent the school. Gertrude Kee, who was selected as the school orator recently, will be the entry in the oratorical contests.

Two will be entered in the declamatory contests, Mary V. Watson, school declaimer, and Regina Forme being chosen.

In debate, four members of the squad that swept through the preliminary debate series and reached the semi-finals of the elimination round, have been selected to represent the school. They are Virginia Goodman, Marie Brodahl, Margaret LaFaver and Winifred Jackson.

The squad must be prepared to argue either side of the question, as sides are chosen by lot during the gathering.

Gannon and Barton Talk at Meeting of Railway Conductors

A masterly talk on problems confronting the railroad man and methods of adjusting satisfactory to the worker, was given by J. A. Gannon, St. Paul, vice-president of the grand division, at a meeting of Gladstone division, No. 340 Order of Railway Conductors, held Sunday in the Legion hall.

M. Gannon traced the history of the conductors' order since its organization in 1866 with a handful of men, to the present day and its membership of 50,000. He told of the betterment in working conditions, rate of pay, use of safety appliances and the granting of shorter working days, and ascribed them all to unified effort. He showed that even now in time of depression when men of other occupations are being forced to accept reduced pay schedules, that the brotherhoods have been able to enforce their regular standard.

Ht Communism
He admonished the members to beware of the widespread communistic propaganda which aims to destroy the benefits of organized labor. He also discussed the proposed changes in the insurance department which is to be placed on a legal reserve basis thus giving it a sound financial rating.

At present the organization has 47,000 members carrying a total of $90,000,000 in insurance. There is a reserve of $4,000,000. Since the adoption of the insurance plan the order has paid $43,000,000 in death and disability claims.

Mrs. Gannon closed with a pledge of future progress for the order and an earnest plea for the cooperation of every member of the order.

J. P. Barton, Minneapolis, general chairman of the grievance committee, was also present and gave a brief talk stressing the importance of every member having a thorough knowledge of his brotherhood. His aims, accomplishments and progress.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The gathering proved unusually enjoyable and was attended by a large number of local members as well as a few representatives of the Escanaba division.

William Hebbard, Ishpeming, spent Wednesday here at the home of his brother, A. L. Hebbard.

Mrs. George E. Webb, Green Bay, is visiting here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Slining, Michigan avenue.

HUPY TO SEEK FOURTH TERM

Will Again Be Candidate for Office of Justice of Peace

Phil Hupy, local real estate and insurance man, announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for reelection to the office of justice of the peace at the coming general election, April 6. Mr. Hupy will be seeking his fourth term.

A nominating petition has not yet been filed with the city clerk but is now being circulated and will be filed within the next few days.

Mr. Hupy is now completing his third term as a Gladstone justice. He was first elected in 1919 and has served continuously since, being reelected in 1923 and 1927.

Besides one justice of the peace for a term of four years, two city commissioners for three year terms will be elected in Gladstone at the April election.

A three-cornered race has already developed for the commission berths. J. H. Murphy, Peter Peterson and George P. Tostenen having announced their candidacies. Murphy and Peterson are at the present completing their second terms as members of the city governing body.

BOWLING NOTES

Make Plans to Care For Visitors During Regional Tourney

A committee of students and teachers headed by Hagle Quarnstrom have been appointed to take charge of assigning players and visitors, who gather here during the regional basketball tournament next week, to rooms in various homes about the city.

Homeowners—here desirous of accommodating visitors during the meet are asked to communicate with Mr. Quarnstrom. A set charge of $1 per person per night, and for those who furnish meals, of 50 cents per meal, has been established. All collection must be made by the home.

Further particulars may be obtained from Mr. Quarnstrom by phoning 24 any time during the day.

Arrange Program For Music Night

An interesting program is now being arranged for the Child's Welfare club music night, which is to be held Monday evening, in the high school assembly room. The meeting was originally scheduled to be held in the kindergarten building, but, due to the fact that the public is being given the opportunity to enjoy this exceptional evening of music, the meeting place of larger capacity has been obtained. Details of the program will be announced later.

Twenty-one members of the Senior Girls' league gathered at the home of Phyllis Hupy, Dakota avenue, Wednesday evening and were entertained at a taffy pull. Class advisors Misses Cornelia Henderson and Gladys Schutts were guests. Besides the taffy pull, there was a social time and dancing, followed by serving of a dainty lunch.

Norway and Gladstone Take Games at Coliseum

PURPLE QUINT IS ELIMINATED

Vikings Will Meet Vulcan in Only Game on Card Tonight

Favorites came through in their opening round at the Coliseum gym last evening in the district Class C tournament. Gladstone winning from St. Joseph, 22 to 10, and Norway taking an easy decision from Stephenson, 18 to 4. Gladstone's victory sent them directly to the finals which will be held on Saturday while Norway must defeat Vulcan tonight to reach the final round.

Norway, playing in the first game of the tourney, ran up a score of 13 to 0 on the Stephenson team before the first half had ended and then the Viking reserves just coasted in during the last two periods. The Norway scoring was well distributed while Stephenson's total points were scored on two field goals, one by Dean and the other by Deacon.

Gladstone Takes Victory

In the second and feature game, the St. Joseph Parochials could not turn the trick to upset the Kellmen and they were eliminated by a score of 22 to 10 after a 4 to 2 lead in the first period. Gladstone moved into high gear in the second period and they forged to the front, 11 to 6, before the half was ended. They were never headed thereafter but the Parochials put up a great scrap.

Coach Kell used nine men in the game to save his regulars for the finals on Saturday in which it is believed the Gladstone team will meet Norway. Father Gerald used only one substitute, Peltier for Hirm. The latter has been suffering with a light attack of the flu. Frasher, veteran Parochial guard, was kept on the bench throughout because of a recent infraction of training rules.

There will be only one game on tonight's card with Norway opposing Vulcan who drew a first round bye. The Vikings are given heavy odds to walk over the Vulcan team and establish their right to continue to the regionals at Gladstone the following week.

By virtue of their defeat last evening, St. Joseph was eliminated from further competition in tournament play this season.

Virginia Van Wie And English Star Beaten In Florida

St. Augustine, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Two great upsets today eliminated from the Florida east coast golf championship the pair that had been counted as finalists, Diana Fishwick, British champion, and Virginia Van Wie, Chicago.

Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, brought defeat to Miss Van Wie when she laid the Chicago girl a death stymie on the 18th hole, preventing her from squaring the match.

Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, Hutchinson, Kas., took the match from Miss Fishwick, 4 and 2. Mrs. Sterrett, playing great golf, was out in 35 to be one up at the turn. She held her added advantage when Miss Fishwick three-putted two holes and was short on another.

Miss Van Wie's game was sadly off and she was four down to Mrs. Hanley at the midway point. However, the Chicago sharpshooter staged a great comeback, starting on the 12th to become only one down going to the 15th.

ROCK AND COOKS WIN OPENING GAMES

Hermansville Survives Class D With Quinnesec

Hermansville, March 5 (Special)—A 25 to 11 victory over Channing kept Hermansville in the running for the Class D basketball championship here tonight. Pagararo led with 16 points to his credit. Hermansville will meet Powers in the second round of the series Friday night.

By defeating Daggett, 34 to 23, Quinnesec advanced to the second round of the Class D basketball tournament at Hermansville tonight, and is scheduled to meet Pelch, one of the "bye" teams Friday night. Dellatore, forward, was the high point man for the winners. The box follows:

WILD SCORING AT RAPID RIVER

Little Giants to Play Nelson Team in Big Game Tonight

Rapid River, March 5 (Special)—It was wild scoring night for teams in the Class D district tournament which opened here tonight, a total of 128 points being run up in the two games. Rock and Cooks were winners in games tonight with Garden and Nahma being eliminated. Rapid River and Trenary were idle tonight, having drawn byes in the first round but they will swing into action against tonight's winners in second round games tomorrow.

Rock's Little Giants began its quest of the state title by swamping Garden, 49 to 11. The Little Giants were runners-up in the state finals last season and are pointing for the championship this season.

Nahma, without the services of the Ranguette brothers, went down under an avalanche of field goals at the hands of Cooks, 49 to 23, but they freed the spirit of the crowd with their grim determination. The Ranguette brothers left the high school cagers to perform with the Ranguette quintet of Nahma which played at Manistiquette last evening.

Rock found little difficulty in turning back the Garden quintet. They took an early lead and built it up steadily until the fourth period when Weingartner sent in his reserves to finish the game. Johnson and Kaukola stole the spotlight from the Rock star, Raddeau, for the evening. Johnson tallied five field goals and a free throw for a total of 11 points and Kaukola netted six field goals. Rock led the Garden offensive with three field goals and a free throw.

Rock vs. Rapid River

Cooks gave warning that they will be a hard team to defeat when they swamped all over the Nahma team to take the 49 to 23 decision. Led by Middaugh at forward who scored 21 points individually, Cooks completely showed their mastery of the situation.

Rock and Rapid River, ancient rivals, will meet in the first and feature game of the tournament tomorrow evening. One of the teams will be forced out of the regionals. The Little Giants hold two victories over Rapid River this season and are heavy favorites to come through again tonight.

Cooks will meet Trenary in the second game and because of their showing tonight are picked to take the measure of the Alger county team.

A full house attended the opening of the tournament tonight and an even larger crowd is expected to witness the two feature games tonight.

Two Recruits On Tiger Team for Exhibition Games

Sacramento, Cal., March 5 (AP)—Two recruits top the tentative Detroit Tiger first string line-up for the exhibition series which starts March 13 at San Francisco. Indications are that it will be the line-up for the opening of the regular playing season, with one or two probable exceptions.

The line-up: H. Water, center field; G. Walker, right field; Gehring, second base; Alexander, first base; Dugan, third base; Doljack, left field; Akers, short stop; Schang and Hayworth, catchers.

McManus is expected to supplant Dugan at the hot corner as soon as he rounds into form, but Manager Bucky Harris hints at no other changes.

BIG TEN TRACK MEET TONIGHT

Wolverines Are Serious Contenders to Beat Present Champions

Chicago, March 5 (AP)—Wisconsin will start a defense of its Big Ten indoor track championship tomorrow night against what appears on paper to be four distinct threats.

At the top of the list of challengers is Michigan, coached for the first year by Charlie Hoyt, successor to Steve Farrell. Close behind the Wolverines and Badgers come Ohio State, Illinois and Indiana. The remaining five members of the intercollegiate conference have stars who are expected to account for high places, but lack of team balance leaves them out of the championship picture.

Heading the Badgers will be Captain William Henke, a really sensational quarter-miler; Sam Behr, defending champion in the 800-yard dash, and Ted Shaw, winner of the high jump last season. Wisconsin also has a group of capable distance runners, and with third and fourth places, expects to retain the title.

Michigan's strength is varied. Eddie Tolan, tiny negro sprinter, figures to win the 60-yard dash; Harvey Eggleston, a sophomore hurdler, looks good for points, and Perry Austin, two-miler, and Ed Russell, quarter-miler, should aid the Wolverines. Ohio State has Jack Keller, a sophomore hurdler of real ability; Bill Bloor, whose performances in the 880-yard run and the quarter-mile rank him a contender, along with strength in the high jump and the mile.

Indiana's bid will come from a crew of fine middle distance runners. Gordon, a sprinter, and Jim Hatfield, another good hurdler, Illinois has Lee Sentman, hurdler, and Verne McDermott, who seems to be a cinch in the pole vault, plus several dangerous entrants in the quarter, 800, and mile runs.

Iowa will depend on Ed Gordon in the high jump, and Henry Canby, pole vaulter; Chicago has Dale Letts in the middle distances, and Northwestern's Tommy Warne may have regained his form in the pole vault sufficiently to be a contender. Johnny Hass, sprinter, hurdler and all-around handyman, and Clarence Munn in the spot, are Minnesota's best bets.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 5 (AP)—Eight varsity letters were awarded today to members of the squad which gave University of Michigan the Big Ten hockey title this year.

The winners are Jack Tompkins, Royal Oak; Tom Proose, Ypsilanti; Keith Crossman, Royal Oak; Captain Arthur Schlanderer, Ann Arbor; Emerson Reid, Ann Arbor; William Williams, Chicago; Tommy Courts, Detroit, and Manager Hubert Unsworth, Burlington, Vt.

Reid was high scoring man for the season, with 18 goals and four assists.

Another day Gypsy might have doubted. Today she so wanted to believe the explanation. "Don't worry! She'll understand. Maybe I just imagined she was waving at you. I've been so excited today it wouldn't be a wonder!"

It was 20 minutes before she and Alan had reached the street and another 10 before they were in a taxicab.

"Where to, Gypsy?"

"Same old place—Mrs. O'Hare's. You're invited to lunch. Oh, you must come!" she went on as Crosby seemed to hesitate. "You must, Alan! She's expecting you."

He gave the driver the address and settled back.

"Well, that's darned nice but you see—"

Gypsy silenced him. "Not another word," she declared. "It's settled. Why, I'd lose my happy home if I failed to bring you. You just ought to hear the way Mrs. O'Hare talks about you. Honestly, she calls you a genius!"

Crosby grinned. He covered Gypsy's hand with his own.

"I'll make her my press agent," he said. "All right, I'll come! And now how about you, Gypsy? Tell me all about yourself!"

"But there's nothing to tell I want to hear about you."

They laughed like youngsters. Partly it was excitement and partly embarrassment. After nearly two years of separation they were finding, as have so many others, that the really important subjects were elusive. They talked of inconsequential things—the day, which was sunny for late February, traffic, the tower of a new skyscraper, a chewing gum advertisement glaring down from the heavens. Crosby was enthusiastic about everything.

"You're glad to be back, aren't you?" Gypsy sighed happily.

"Bright girl! So you've noticed it!"

She didn't mind his laughing at her. Anyhow, Alan was always teasing.

"And you're really glad to see me?"

"Of course I am. You're a sweet kid, Gypsy. Coming all the way to the boat to meet me!"

"You—you don't think I've changed, do you, Alan?"

"Madam, you don't look a day over 40! I give you my word for it you don't look a day older."

She chose another subject.

"Tell me about the trip. I tell me about that woman—that was her name?—the one you said you talked to on the boat?"

"Oh, nothing very exciting about the trip. We had a little rough weather the second day. There were lots of nice people on board."

"Yes, but I mean the one who was so beautiful! You know, Mrs.—I can't remember what you called her."

ed in Gypsy McBride's cheeks. It must have been nearly five minutes before the young man returned to his place beside Mrs. O'Hare.

"I'm terribly sorry," he said soberly, "but I must ask you to excuse me. Something unexpected has come up. It's—it's a business matter. I hope you won't mind!"

The young man smiled winningly. A minute later he was gone.

(To Be Continued)

There was a heartiness about Mrs. O'Hare which swept all else before her. Crosby and Gypsy found themselves in the rear dining room. Other guests crowding about them.

"It's a surprise!" Gypsy explained. "Mrs. O'Hare wouldn't let me tell you. All of the other roomers are here."

Hasty introductions followed. The hostess led Alan to the head of the table. "You're to sit here, Mr.

Eskymos vs. Kingsford; 'Stique vs. Mountaineers

PLAY CLASS B GAMES TONIGHT

Iron Mountain Doped to Cop District Meet Again This Year

The Escanaba Eskymos will travel to Iron Mountain today where they will oppose Kingsford in the first game of the district Class B basketball tournament tonight. Manistique will play Iron Mountain in the second game of the meeting.

With a record of three wins and ten defeats behind them, the Eskymos are not given serious consideration as a contender for the title but followers of the Puckmen predict they will open their campaign by taking a surprise victory from Kingsford. This would enable them to advance to the regional at Ironwood regardless of the outcome of the district final.

Iron Mountain is picked by all dope sheet critics to win the title again in a walk. They will play the Schoolcrafters with a heavy odds advantage and are picked to ride through to the finals where they would meet the winner of the Escanaba-Kingsford game. Neither of these teams are given an outside chance to block the Mountaineers from copping the title.

Eskymos Seek Victory

A decided upset would not prove a breath-taking surprise to fans in this district, however. Followers of the Eskymos, especially, look to see something of the unusual in this tournament. They freely predict that the showing of the Puckmen against Gladstone in the final game on the schedule has given adequate proof that the Orange and Black team has found itself at last. A victory over Kingsford is sought feverishly as they would be assured one of the eight places in the regional or peninsula final at Ironwood the following week.

Manistique was unfortunate in the luck of the draw, to pick Iron Mountain in the first round but then someone had to draw the Thunemen and Manistique is given a better chance to down the Mountaineers than either Kingsford or Escanaba would. The Schoolcrafters have not met the Thunemen this season and that fact is expected to prove troublesome to the host team who have no idea what style of ball the Manistique team plays.

Of the scheduled games played by the Eskymos this season, they amassed a total score of 209 points to 292 for the opposition, an average defeat of 16 to 22. The Eskymos scored their most points against Norway to whom they lost, 26 to 23. They scored their least points against Ishpeming who defeated them 23 to 9. Iron Mountain scored the most points against the Puckmen by defeating them 41 to 20. Manistique scored the fewest points against the local team when they were defeated by the Escanabans, 11 to 9. Escanaba played three overtime period games, two of them with Gladstone. They lost one overtime game to Norway, one to Gladstone, and won the other from the Kellmen.

Eligible To Play
The boys eligible to wear the Escanaba colors into the game with Kingsford next Friday night are Johnson, W. and R. Snyder, Nygaard, Engstrom, Arsen, Anderson and Wicklander.

The season's record:

'STIQUE DETERMINED
Manistique's aggregation of high school basketball stars will leave this noon for Iron Mountain where they will play Coach Lars Thune's Mountaineers in the second game of the district tournament at nine o'clock this evening.

Coach Wassberg's capers were unfortunate enough to draw the toughest assignment in the tournament in taking on the Thunemen. Not only will Iron Mountain have a distinct advantage in playing on its own floor, but they have the necessary psychological advantage of having trimmed Escanaba, a team which eked out a victory over Manistique in the early part of the season. Consequently, Manistique will go into the fray as underdogs. Manistique, however, will meet the Thunemen with all of the determination and fight which they possess. They have been going great guns of late and are now in top form. Coach Thune's team has had only a fair season, but the Iron Mountain mentor has a faculty of bringing his boys along slowly and they are always best in tournament competition.

Those who will leave today for Iron Mountain are Graphs, Ekblad, Bergman, Hudson, Berger, E. Orr, Jones, Harrison, and Williams. If the Wassberg clan win tonight's game they will clash with the win-

MUNISING, PIERCE COP TOURNEY TILTS

Art Shires received his quota of razzberries when he played here with the Milwaukee Badgers against the Bevenocs Wednesday evening. The fans paid little attention to the progress of the game and kept their eyes focused on the actions of Little Arthur—who also seemed to pay little attention to the progress of the game.

But the Great One is nobody's fool. To make crowds razz him is his racket. He has found it pays him in dollars and cents to be the butt of the crowd's jokes. He has made a business out of it and is reaping a fortune in reward. That's why he keeps taunting the spectators. He knows the value of publicity.

Art is not an actor no matter how you define the word. Yet he crashed Hollywood and took a nice chunk of dough for his work. Neither is he a prize fighter—but he took a fling at it and reaped in a nice assortment of shekels. It was obvious Wednesday night that he's not a basketball player but he received $50 as his share of the gate receipts. So the Great I am can not be blamed for bringing down the boss of the crowd when he realizes that it means bread and butter for him.

Out of the public eye, Shires is just one of the boys. He's a clown out front, a regular fellow back stage. He admits his work is a racket and says as long as he can raise his pay checks by getting the people to razz him, it's good business for him. Shires will receive $10,000 from the Milwaukee Brewers baseball team this year—which will rate him as the highest paid player in the American Association. That is $2,000 more than he received in the Big League.

Tournament time is here. Practically every high school basketball team in the state is beginning a campaign which they hope will carry them through the championship games. For many of the teams, their hopes have already been blown out by defeats last evening in the opening round. For many others they will not begin their quest of the titles until this evening.

Season's records are forgotten when tournaments begin. A team which has bowled over everything in its path during the regular season may stumble in the first round of a district tournament over some team which has been the foot mat for every team they played during the season's schedule. There's something different about a tournament game.

Some basketball teams are noted for their ability to come through in tournament play regardless of their record during the season. Ishpeming, Stambaugh, and Negaunee are three teams of this type. A review of records will show that these three teams have won more than their share of peninsula cage tournaments. On the other hand, Escanaba is not considered a good tournament team. It rarely ever has been.

Negaunee, Class B state champions, begins its campaign to retain its title at Ishpeming tonight by meeting Sault Ste. Marie, one of the best teams in the peninsula. One good team must be eliminated. The two other teams in that district tournament are Ishpeming and Marquette, both of which are rated high in peninsula basketball circles. The results of this tournament will be watched closely by peninsula fans as a good indication of what can be expected at the regional meet can be deduced at that all-important district event.

BEVENOCS TAKE SCORING SPREE

Manistique Legionnaires Lose to Escanabans By Score of 60-46

Manistique, March 5 (Special)—The Escanaba Bevenocs defeated the Manistique Legion here tonight in a heavy scoring, slam bang basketball game, 60 to 46. The game topped anything in the peninsula this year for heavy scoring.

The pellet was travelling through the net in rapid succession from the beginning of the game to the end, both teams showing an abundance of scoring power and paying little attention to defensive tactics. At half time, the score was 34 to 23 in favor of the Bevenocs, enough points then to account for any ordinary case tilt. The game failed to slow up during the second period, however, and the ball was still sailing through the hoop with consistency as the final gun barked. Drafts of the Bevenocs took high scoring honors for the evening with 17 points but was closely followed by his teammate, Ray Warner, who netted 17 points. Bartman of Manistique tallied 14 of his team's total points.

The Nut Cracker

One of Notre Dame's football players who traveled more than 20,000 miles with the varsity team last fall, fumbled a course the other day. And the course was geography, too—can you imagine that?

Speaking to a group of newspapermen at Clearwater the other day, old Jack Quinn remarked, "This fellow Vance must be a pretty fair pitcher, too."

The papers the other day carried the story that old Rube Marquard, a pitching teammate of the late Christy Mathewson with the Giants, has signed to manage a team in a new Dixie loop. Seems queer Uncle Robbie could have overlooked him.

William F. Carey, boss of Madison Square Garden, says that he launched upon an engineering career with exactly $17 in his jeans. Now O'Goofy wants to know if that's where the term, Cash and Carry, came from.

WABE HERMAN WAS UNDERWEIGHT WHEN HE REPORTED TO THE ROBINS' TRAINING CAMP AT CLEARWATER. HE ALSO MENTIONED SOMETHING ABOUT BEING UNDERPAID.

Lou Gehrig, he-man of the majors who has scorned wearing a vest all these years, was seen with one of the things on shortly after he signed for $25,000 a year. It's barely possible that he may go in for topcoats when he gets a couple more raises.

Michigan Farmers Plan to Purchase Sugar Beet Plant

Detroit, March 5 (AP)—Michigan retail clothiers and furnishers today elected Joseph L. Hickory, of Detroit, president of their association at the final session of their three day convention here.

Charles E. White, Jackson, was elected first vice-president; M. H. Martinson, of Alpena, second vice-president, and Wade L. Jones, of Adrian, secretary-treasurer.

Joseph B. Mills, director of publicity of the J. L. Hudson company, told the retailers today that "this year will be one of great opportunity," and that "the country is in a receptive buying mood and by advertising you can build up trade."

"Newspaper advertising will be the greatest factor in putting over the new emphasis on fashions in men's clothing," he declared. "Your greatest factor in doing business always has been newspaper advertising and with this new trend, you will find it even more necessary."

He advised them to "put glamour and kick in your advertisements."

Cubs Not Speedy But They Can Show Power

BY BRIAN BELL
Avalon, Cal., March 5 (AP)—If the race is to the swift in the National league the Cubs probably will not win the pennant, for speed is one of the baseball ingredients missing from the Chicago equipment. But fortunately for Rogers Hornsby and his crew power is placed ahead of speed and deception in the modern game.

CARNERA GETS SCRAP DECISION

Jimmy Maloney Pounds Tattoo on Giant Pug's Ribs
BY ALAN GOULD
Madison Square Garden Stadium, Miami, Fla., March 5 (AP)—The battle of the cracked rib, much after the fashion of a musical comedy, came to a glamorous climax tonight as panderous Primo Carnera won a disputed decision from Jimmy Maloney, the veteran Boston Irishman.

The big Italian's glove was lifted in token of victory by Referee Elmer (Slim) McClelland of Detroit after ten thrilling rounds. The decision which officially evened the Carnera score with Maloney in two bouts was greeted by a sustained outburst of booping from the crowd, estimated at 20,000, most of whom apparently believed the Boston Irishman had earned the verdict, even though spotting the Italian 73½ pounds, two doctors and a cracked rib.

It was a close and frequently exciting battle between the game Irishman and the black-haired giant from Italy. There were no knockdowns, although Jimmy was wrestled to the floor once by his ponderous foe and Carnera himself went to his knees on another occasion on losing his balance, backing away from a punch.

Carnera after an impressive start in which he staggered Maloney several times with wallops to the head, lost some of his aggressiveness as well as most of his punching arm.

Ringside critics were somewhat at variance in their conclusions, even though there was no mistaking the crowd's sympathy. Most of the experts, crediting Maloney with a stronger and more effective finish, apparently believed the worst Jimmy could have received was a draw.

Italian Out-Boxed
The Associated Press score sheet gave Maloney five rounds, Carnera three and two even. Jimmy was credited with the fifth, sixth, seventh, ninth and tenth. Carnera with the first three. The fourth and eight appeared even. Ben Davis, veteran member of the Miami boxing commission's staff of judges, unofficially scored five rounds for Maloney, four for Carnera and one even.

Carnera took considerable punishment in the region of his damaged side but it was not necessary at any stage of the bout to administer medical aid to the 273-pound giant in his corner. The Italian winced frequently, but did not appear badly hurt at any time. He was fast and blocked well but he missed many punches.

From the fifth round to the finish, with the exception of a few spurts, Carnera was out-boxed and frequently out-punched by his much smaller foe.

Maloney's best round was the seventh, in which he forced the fighting, pushed the big fellow off balance with left to the head and duk both hands to the sensitive right side of his opponent. Carnera was bewildered trying to pin Maloney down to any hand-to-hand battling in one spot.

Maloney's chief trouble was in offsetting Carnera's tremendous reach and the Irishman frequently left his feet in seeking connections with Primo's chin.

The show promoted by Frank J. Bruen faced financial failure, after being staged despite a flock of obstacles, but the crowd, as well as the gate, estimated at between $60,000 and $75,000, was somewhat above expectations. Notables from the winter colonies of Florida were prominent at the ringside, bundled in heavy coats, furs and blankets for protection against a chilly and only partly moon-light night.

Two Speed Stars
The Cubs have two speedsters. Caylor and Elwood English. There are a few steppers in the lineup and some downright slow.

The players, one and all, think Hornsby will pick up his managerial triumph where he left it off in 1926 when the Cardinals, under his direction, made baseball history by winning the pennant.

LUCE QUINTET DOWNED, 21-12

Munising Plays Gwinn in Feature of Second Round Tonight

Newberry, March 5 (Special)—Munising and John D. Pierce won tonight's games in the first round of the Class C tournament here this evening. The Algierites trimming Newberry, 21 to 12, and Baraga losing to the Pierce boys, 23 to 13.

After a slow start in the first game, the John D. Pierce team, district champions last year, drew a full head of steam in the last half and slowly pulled away from the Marquette Baragans. The score at half time was 6 to 6 while Baraga held a 3 to 0 lead in the first period. Bridgeman led the Pierce offense to defeat Baraga by netting five field goals and a free throw. His score, however, was matched by Richards of Baraga who scored four field goals and three free throws.

Munising found little trouble downing Newberry. They ran up an early lead and held it throughout. Newberry shot a reserve superior late in the game to stem the tide but the move was of no avail. Larson, Vertinen, and Randa scored all the Munising points, Vertinen leading the barrage with four field goals.

The Munising combination, however, is expected to have a battle on their hands tomorrow when they meet Gwinn, a bye team in the first round. Gwinn holds one victory over Munising this year and is rated as one of the outstanding Class C teams.

In the other game of the evening tomorrow, however, John D. Pierce is not expected to find St. Ignace a hard team to bowl over. St. Ignace, rated the weakest team in the circuit, was idle tonight, having drawn a bye for first round.

COMINSKEY SCANS LINEUP
San Antonio, Tex., March 5 (AP)—Charles A. Cominskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, had his first look today at the 1931 edition of the club. Whatever his opinions were, he kept them to himself, but asked lots of questions.

Smead Jolley, the big outfielder, arrived in camp and immediately started blasting the baseball, driving two out of the park in his first workout.

Lightning and Old Bill, two pigeons which did great service during the World war, were exhibited recently at a London poultry show.

Those who are really in anticipation of the dominant part the democrats expect to play in national affairs in the next twelve months.

Mr. Hoover's veto of the muscle shoals bill is an event also of much political significance. It aligns him definitely with those who do not favor public ownership or federal regulation of public utilities. The presidential message in this instance will probably afford the campaign orators plenty of ammunition on the power issue. It does not contain anything new so far as the Hoover attitude is concerned, for he has all along been opposed to government entry into the power business or any other business except as an emergency measure.

Whoops! Look Here! Annual Manistique Pin War Declared

Bowlers of the Manistique Elks lodge may speak superciliously when they allude to the brethren bowlers of Escanaba, but the Escanabans have forced their hand. In spite of their evident disgust for the ability of the Escanaba maple maulers, the Manistique boys have been drafted into an inter-city match, and the date has been set for Thursday, March 19.

Time was when Manistique felt honored to be allowed to play ball with the local alley wizards, but since they started their big lodge bowling tournaments, the Manistique brothers think their teams invincible, with the dubs at Escanaba quite beneath their notice. Be that as it may, the annual battle of the centuries is on. The date has been set, and the first round of the series will explode at Manistique.

Escanaba will invade the sacred precincts of the mighty finger-and-thumb expects loaded with talent and prepared for anything from bowling to bridge to pin-ocle. And that's that. Now let's hear from R. G. Hentschell, the Manistique Maple mentor.

DELTA SKATERS STEAL CARNIVAL

Dube Wins Senior Boys' Race; Norma Johnson Wins Girls' Event
Marquette, March 5. (Special)—Delta county speed skaters stole the show in the winter carnival races here this evening, sweeping the boys' senior events, winning the boys' junior and girls' senior races.

Leo Dube, Escanaba, won first place in the boys' senior with Dan Gallacher, Escanaba, second; and Mike Gallacher, also of Escanaba, third. The event was a 12 lap race.

Lloyd Cass, of Escanaba, won first place in the junior race for boys, an eight lap race. The girls' senior event was won by Norma Johnson, of Gladstone, in a six lap race. Gladys Hult, of Marquette, was second.

Other race winners were Walter Davis, Marquette, juvenile event over six laps, and Corinne Dorie, of Marquette, in the girls' junior.

In a special feature, Peter C. Dube, veteran Escanaba skater, raced 20 laps against a trio of Marquette hockey players, winning without a struggle. Wesley Gustafson, Carmen Colasanti, and Albert Davies were the skaters Dube met in the relay feature. The Escanaba skater just loafed through to an easy victory in the race.

Leo Dube and Norma Johnson, winners of the senior events, will receive silver loving cups for coping their races. Other winners will receive silver skates and shoes.

Sandy Ford Scores Impressive Victory

New York, March 5 (AP)—Making his last public appearance before going west to attempt to match strides with Sun Beau in the $1,000 KFSB handicap at Agua Caliente, Sandy Ford scored an impressive victory over a half dozen handicap performers in the Idle Hour purse at Hialeah-Park, Miami, today.

The one-eyed bearer of the red and silver banner of Willie Shea covered the mile in the good time of 1:33 4-5 and crossed the finish line with half a length to spare over the Brookmead stable's Raccoon, which beat Sun Shadow from the Arden farms a length for the place.

The triumph of the Shea speedster was popular with the crowd, which donned furs and overcoats to watch today's races. He ruled the favorite, paying $4.10 for a $2 investment.

Many Going Home

Officials of the foreign immigrant societies in New York say their members are the first to feel the pinch of depression and the last to receive aid, because of preferences shown to American citizens. These same organizations are reminding unemployed aliens of the economy of living in their homelands—if they can get there.

And even for those persons whose savings are exhausted, there seems to be plenty of ways of taking a cheap vacation in Europe. Large numbers of workers who have been sending money abroad to bring their families to this country now are said to be writing for the price of a ticket home.

All foreign consuls are authorized by their governments to repatriate worthy cases. A few are restricted to the advancing of 25 per cent of travel costs. Others, like Great Britain, may pay the entire charges. Each application is investigated and decided by consular officials, all of whom now are being besieged with requests for passage money.

In many instances, the United States government itself is coming to the rescue. In a statement the other day Secretary of Labor Daugherty called attention to the law which provides that within three years after entry aliens in distress may be returned to their homelands at government expense. In a previous conference with representatives of steamship lines, he reminded them that if reduced rates could be arranged, more aliens could be returned. The slash in round trip rates, however, does not affect the cost of sending aliens out of the country permanently.

While east-bound third class traffic is growing heavier daily, immigration is as steadily decreasing. It was several months ago that U. S. consuls abroad were instructed to observe stricter requirements for emigrants to America, but the news that millions were jobless here already had shattered the fortune-hunting dreams of many. None of the authorized quotas now are being filled.

More Third-Class Travel

According to figures of the Trans-Atlantic Passenger Conference, 30,000 more persons traveled eastward in 1930 than in 1929, especially significant because 1929 was a boom year in the passenger business. East-bound strictly third class traffic in 1930 amounted to 192,000. And during the first seven weeks of 1931, 90,000 third class passengers returned to Europe from ports of the United States. This represents an increase of 2000 over the same period of last year. In both periods more than 1200 third class passengers sailed from Canadian ports.

In 1929, when incoming quotas were filled, 213,000 workers came to this country in third class quarters. In 1930, while Central Europe still knew relatively little of the depression in America, the total was decreased by 35,000. Members of the conference expect 1931 to bring a record low in this kind of traffic, thus proving that an automatic factor tends to regulate conditions in an overcrowded labor market.

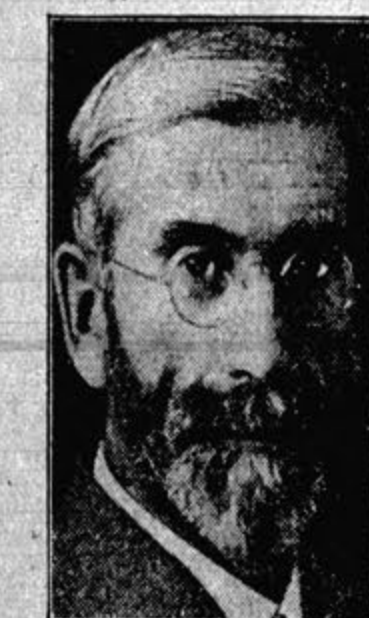

It is estimated that fully 85 per cent of trans-Atlantic travel will originate from this side, despite a greatly increasing number of English, French and German tourists who are booking better-class passages to America.

Word was received here yesterday announcing the death of Richard Campbell, former resident of this city, which occurred Sunday, March 1, at his home, 5166 Throop street, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and members of the family moved to Chicago about twelve years ago. They had a host of friends here who will regret to hear of Mr. Campbell's death.

Mr. Campbell was 80 years old and while in Escanaba was engaged as chef at the Oliver hotel, and for many years conducted a restaurant on Ludington street. While in Escanaba the family lived at 509 South Fifteenth street.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, Mrs. Stella Campbell Charles, Mrs. Tony Black and Mrs. Minnie Henderson, all of Chicago.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Chicago.

Father Harrington is reported as improving but he is still weak.

Hanson Refuses to Take Second Place

Andrew Hanson, Sr., of Stonington may be the oldest township treasurer in Delta county, but he takes a back seat for nobody when it comes to promptness in his work.

As usual, Mr. Hanson was the first to file his delinquent tax report for the year 1930. He brought his list to the county treasurer's office Wednesday.

Miss Godin's hand and shoulder were burned by electricity and she is confined to her bed part of the time.

SAFER FLYING.

Paris—A report of the air ministry shows that flying is growing safer in France. In 1929 there was one serious accident in every 225,613 miles flown in commercial aviation. In 1928 there was one accident for every 197,096 miles. It is expected that 1930 figures will show a further decrease.

FORD PICKS GLADSTONE

Kingsford Announces Waterfront Location Will Be Purchased

The Ford Motor Company has decided to acquire the waterfront site at Gladstone to carry on a new industrial development project...

Accompanied by the company's attorney, Raymond Turner of Iron Mountain, visited Gladstone and Escanaba today when the announcement was made for publication.

Blast Furnaces Planned.

It has been generally understood for several weeks that the Ford Motor company contemplated the construction of a large blast furnace and foundry plant somewhere in the upper peninsula.

The Delta Chemical company's site at Wells; and a fourth site along the Menominee river near the sugar company's plant in Menominee.

Options on the properties included in the four sites have been required in recent weeks by the Ford Motor company.

No Details Given. As soon as all the details of the Gladstone deal are completed, options held by the Ford Motor company on the property at the tannery and chemical plant sites will be returned to the owners.

How extensive an industrial project will be established at Gladstone could not be learned from official sources.

The Gladstone site, it is understood, consists of about 170 acres, taking in the Soo Line railway freight and coal docks, yards and grain elevator, the Mason's addition, and property located on the south end of the point, formerly owned by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company and recently in possession of G. J. Shilong.

Recent acquisitions of mining property in the Upper Peninsula by Ford interests are believed to have connection with the proposed development in the Gladstone area in expanding Ford iron and steel making facilities.

In concluding the ore deal, hailed as the most important industrial event in the north country occurring in recent years, Ford actually purchased more than half the ground over which the city of Iron Mountain is built.

The Ford ore land was bought from John Marsch, owner of the Michigan-Wisconsin Railroad and a leading railroad construction contractor with offices at Chicago. The deal was closed at Chi-

the ore being shipped to Escanaba or Marquette. It is stored in the winter and moved to Dearborn in the open months by giant Ford ore carriers.

The ore content of the Dickinson county properties is low but, according to Mr. Kingsford, they hold possibilities. It is known that the Ford company has been conducting experiments in the reduction of low grade ore.

The 1,000-acre deal involves properties at Iron Mountain, Norway and Metropolitan. The lands are located in scattered sections in Dickinson county.

The Millie mine originally belonged to Charles H. Jones, Welcome Hyde and Henry Hewitt. It was worked in the eighties by Silas J. McGregor, Iron Mountain.

At the same time he bought in the Millie property, Mr. Marsch purchased the entire capital stock of the Beaver Iron Company which had become inactive.

Owners of the Beaver Company included Edward Breitung and David Morgan, of Marquette; John B. Moss, of Negaunee; and two Pennsylvania capitalists.

The Ford deal involves the Northwestern mine at Metropolitan Iron Company in 1883. In two years it produced about 17,000 tons, then suspended. It was reopened in 1902 and operated another two-year period, yielding about 18,000 tons.

The River Rouge plant now has 240 coke ovens, two blast furnace stacks and a battery of 10 open hearth furnaces to which another unit was being added this year.

Ford investments in ore and timber lands in the upper peninsula run into many millions of dollars and the fact that the industrialist is adding to these holdings, holds promising possibilities for this section.

The full extent of Ford ore holdings in the upper peninsula are unknown, but it is certain that he has valuable mining rights throughout the iron range.

Ford leased the Blueberry property prior to 1926 and construction work at this location was in progress about three years prior to commencement of mining operations.

The Imperial mine has furnished the bulk of Ford requirements. This property produces about 450 tons of foundry ore daily. There are 90 men employed in the mine. Operations are maintained the year around,

Richard Campbell Dies at Chicago

Word was received here yesterday announcing the death of Richard Campbell, former resident of this city, which occurred Sunday, March 1, at his home, 5166 Throop street, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and members of the family moved to Chicago about twelve years ago. They had a host of friends here who will regret to hear of Mr. Campbell's death.

Mr. Campbell was 80 years old and while in Escanaba was engaged as chef at the Oliver hotel, and for many years conducted a restaurant on Ludington street. While in Escanaba the family lived at 509 South Fifteenth street.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, Mrs. Stella Campbell Charles, Mrs. Tony Black and Mrs. Minnie Henderson, all of Chicago.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Chicago.

Father Harrington Returns to Rectory

The Rev. Fr. Gerald Harrington of St. Patrick's parish who has been a patient at St. Francis hospital where he underwent an operation for relief from appendicitis, has been removed to the rectory but is unable to attend to all of the duties connected with the large parish.

Owing to this, no calls will be made at the homes of the various invalids who usually receive the sacraments on the first Friday of each month.

Father Harrington is reported as improving but he is still weak.

Hanson Refuses to Take Second Place

Andrew Hanson, Sr., of Stonington may be the oldest township treasurer in Delta county, but he takes a back seat for nobody when it comes to promptness in his work.

As usual, Mr. Hanson was the first to file his delinquent tax report for the year 1930. He brought his list to the county treasurer's office Wednesday.

Doctor's Assistant Reported Recovering

Miss Rachel Godin, who narrowly escaped death Monday afternoon while assisting the late Dr. W. A. Lemire, who was electrocuted while operating an X-ray machine in his office, is reported as resting easily at the home of her mother, Mrs. Della Godin, 304 South Sixteenth street.

Miss Godin's hand and shoulder were burned by electricity and she is confined to her bed part of the time.

SAFER FLYING.

Paris—A report of the air ministry shows that flying is growing safer in France. In 1929 there was one serious accident in every 325,613 miles flown in commercial aviation. In 1928 there was one accident for every 197,096 miles. It is expected that 1930 figures will show a further decrease.

FORD PICKS GLADSTONE

Kingsford Announces Waterfront Location Will Be Purchased

The Ford Motor Company has decided to acquire the waterfront site at Gladstone to carry on a new industrial development project...

Accompanied by the company's attorney, Raymond Turner of Iron Mountain, visited Gladstone and Escanaba today when the announcement was made for publication.

Blast Furnaces Planned.

It has been generally understood for several weeks that the Ford Motor company contemplated the construction of a large blast furnace and foundry plant somewhere in the upper peninsula.

The Ford Motor Company acquired its first ore holdings in the upper peninsula after the war, about the time that Ford built the present coke ovens, blast furnaces and steel mills at Dearborn.

Options on the properties included in the four sites have been required in recent weeks by the Ford Motor company. Engineers and other industrial experts were sent to the various sites by the company to determine the most advantageous location.

As soon as all the details of the Gladstone deal are completed, options held by the Ford Motor company on the property at the tannery and chemical plant sites will be returned to the owners.

How extensive an industrial project will be established at Gladstone could not be learned from official sources. A definite announcement of this will be forthcoming when Henry and Edsel Ford, heads of the large automobile manufacturing concern, return from their winter vacation trip in Florida.

The Gladstone site, it is understood, consists of about 170 acres, taking in the Soo Line railway freight and coal docks, yards and grain elevator, the Mason's addition, and property located on the south end of the point, formerly owned by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company and recently in possession of G. J. Shing.

Recent acquisitions of mining property in the Upper Peninsula by Ford interests are believed to have connection with the proposed development in the Gladstone area in expanding Ford iron and steel making facilities. Provisions for a practically independent ore supply for Ford industries is seen in the purchase of 1,300 acres of new ore properties in Dickinson county.

In concluding the ore deal, hailed as the most important industrial event in the north country occurring in recent years, Ford actually purchased more than half the ground over which the city of Iron Mountain is built. This property comprises half of the old Millie mine in Iron Mountain, ownership of which is now divided between Ford and the United States Steel Corporation.

The Ford ore land was bought from John March, owner of the Michigan-Wisconsin Railroad and a leading railroad construction contractor with offices at Chicago. The deal was closed at Chi-

the ore being shipped to Escanaba or Marquette. It is stored in the winter and moved to Dearborn in the open months by giant Ford ore carriers.

The ore content of the Dickinson county properties is low but, according to Mr. Kingsford, they hold possibilities. It is known that the Ford company has been conducting experiments in the reduction of low grade ore. In Detroit, too, the General Reduction Company, headed by William H. Smith, former Ford executive, has employed a revolutionary process for the reduction of iron from native ores without smelting.

The 1,000-acre deal involves properties at Iron Mountain, Norway and Metropolitan. The lands are located in scattered sections in Dickinson county. Nine 40-acre tracts are in the city of Norway and they include the old Monroe mine and the Few mine. Two 40-acre tracts are on the site of the old Northwestern mine.

The Millie mine originally belonged to Charles H. Jones, Welcome Hyde and Henry Hewitt. It was worked in the eighties by Silas J. McGregor, Iron Mountain. In 1903, the United States Steel Corporation purchased a 45 per cent interest in the property and five years later Mr. March acquired the remainder. The steel corporation worked the mine for a time, but operations were abandoned in 1918.

At the same time he bought in the Millie property, Mr. March purchased the entire capital stock of the Beaver Iron Company which had become inactive. The Beaver company was an early operator on the Marquette range. Its property included the Monroe Mining Company. After it had yielded 500,000 tons, the Monroe mine was shut down in 1922.

Owners of the Beaver Company included Edward Breitung and David Morgan, of Marquette; John B. Moss, of Negaunee; and two Pennsylvania capitalists. The sale included parcels on the Felch range in the vicinity of the Groveland mine.

The Ford deal involves the Northwestern mine at Metropolitan opened by the Northwestern Iron Company in 1883. In two years it produced about 17,000 tons, then suspended. It was reopened in 1902 and operated another two-year period, yielding about 18,000 tons.

Rademaker Appeals To Supreme Court

Manistee, Mich., March 5 (P)—John H. Rademaker today filed an appeal with the supreme court in his $5,000,000 suit against the late C. F. Ruggles, millionaire lumber and salt baron, and Rademaker's former partner. The suit was begun in 1929, before Ruggles' death.

Rademaker contends the decree drawn up by Circuit Judge Hal L. Cutler did not conform to the stipulations between the parties to the suit. The stipulations were dated December 12, 1929, but the decree was not drawn until February 9.

Rademaker contends he is not assured of a $323,000 interest in the Ruggles and Rademaker Salt company under the decree that charges against his Calaveras and Amador California timber account are unfairly made.

The appeal will be heard in June.

University Regent To Have Opposition At Kalamazoo Today

Kalamazoo, March 5 (P)—A contest for the nomination for regent of the university appears tonight when organization chiefs aligned themselves behind Donald E. Johnson, of Flint, for the place.

Johnson's name was put forward as a candidate for the place now held by Junius E. Deal, of Ann Arbor. Delegates tendered to Fred W. Green, former governor, Edward N. Barnard, Frank D. McKay and John Gillespie were said to be in support of the movement.

TRUNK PAVING JOB APPROVED FOR ESCANABA

ACTION TAKEN ON WASHINGTON AV. AND 14TH ST.

A resolution asking that Washington avenue be taken over by the county and paved with concrete from Sheridan Road to the junction with the new highway US 241 at Twenty-first street, was adopted by the Escanaba city council at their regular meeting last night.

Under this plan, the county will pave Washington avenue to a width of 20 feet. The balance of the 36-foot street, including a six-foot parking lane and curb and gutter, each side will be constructed by the city.

Approval was also given by the city last night to the plan for routing M-35 down Fourteenth street, and extending it straight from Eighth avenue to the junction of the tourist park. It was understood that the state highway commission had already ordered a survey of the proposed route.

Matters pertaining to the drafting of a sewage disposal plant ordinance, which is to be submitted for a vote of the people, were taken up by the council's delegation from the council to the city of Antigo, Wis., to inspect a sewage plant which has been in operation in that city since 1923, and on Monday and Tuesday a special meeting of the council will be called to meet with A. J. Brensey of the firm of Suhr, Brennan, Peterson and Suhr, municipal engineering firm, engaged to make a survey of the sewage situation.

The council granted a request of the Escanaba high school agricultural department, asking for the use of city property west of the city field for the planting of maple trees as a school project.

A report of the fire chief showed a fire on February 27, with a total damage estimated at $25,000. The fire fund relief for the month amounted to around $1,600, about 400 more than the corresponding period last year.

Men listed in "Who's Who" and the "Directory of Directors" were included in the 50 persons to whom detectives turned today in an attempt to catch the stranglers.

The 50 names, with addresses and telephone numbers, were found in the fat directories of the semi-monthly, alleged black-seller and friends of Arnold Rothstein.

A grand jury continued its investigation into the killing of the red-headed woman, who had been seeking evidence to support her charge she was "framed" on a fee charge in 1923. Just a week today her body, with a rope about the neck, was found in Vanortland park.

Among the new witnesses were three employees of the Polo Riding Academy in Van Cortlandt park whose stables join the spot where the body was found.

Marshall Farmer Vanishes Suddenly

Marshall, Mich., March 5 (P)—State police were asked today to search for John F. Hill, 46, farmer, who disappeared from his farm home near here six weeks ago.

A few days after he disappeared, a letter purporting to have been written by him, and postmarked Toledo, O., was received asking that arrangements be made to care for his livestock. No reason for his absence was contained.

Although friends suspect he was being held by someone against his will, there have been no withdrawals from his substantial bank account since he left home.

REPUBLICANS OF MICHIGAN GATHER TODAY

HARMONY EXPECTED AT CONVENTION; NO BIG ISSUE

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON (Associated Press Staff Writer) Kalamazoo, Mich., March 5 (P)—An atmosphere of harmony hung heavily over the Republicans who gathered here tonight for their state convention Friday.

The lack of a major issue to fight over appeared to be the principal reason for the spirit of good will, but at any rate factions that heretofore have flown at each other's throats mingled in amity.

Two years ago the forces led by Edward N. Barnard and William McKelghan snarled and clawed at the group headed by former Governor Fred W. Green and Howard Lawrence but in preliminary conferences here they vied with each other in extending courtesies. The aura of brotherly love embraced Frank D. McKay, former state treasurer, John Gillespie, newly crowned chairman of Wayne county Republicanism, Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, delegates from the Greenback, Ironhorse and Oakland, Muskegon and Macomb and many other groups which in bygone years have been out, or in, according to circumstances.

Advantage of the strange alignment, organization chiefs worked diligently to perfect the picture of party accord. For the moment, at least, they were able to say that factional strife has been buried, although no guarantees were offered that the same situation will prevail when the campaigns of 1932 roll around.

Henry Allen Cooper Buried at Racine

Racine, Wis., March 5 (P)—With congressional, state, and legislative delegations joining in the homage of thousands of his home folks, Congressman Henry Allen Cooper, late dean of the house, was buried here today on a hill in Mount cemetery.

In brief funeral services in Memorial building the Rev. H. R. Hogan, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, eulogized the "fellow of public service in which representative Cooper was engaged to the time of his death Sunday in Washington.

POLITICS GETS ATTENTION AS SESSION ENDS

CAMPAIGN ORATORS FIND AMMUNITION FOR 1932

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, March 5 (P)—The wind-up of congress was much more of a routine affair than any adjournment in ten years. At the moment the session ended preparations began for political activity in anticipation of the 1932 presidential and congressional campaigns.

Twelve months hence some of the states will be conducting primary elections and this means that the major parties will be crystallizing their respective positions before the end of the present year.

The Democratic national committee meeting here this week to consider ways and means of winning out its deficit, brings national politics to the fore just as the gathering of progressives immediately afterward focuses attention on the group that will probably hold the balance of power at the next congress.

Wet Element Strong Prohibition, which is supposed to be the principal interest of the Republican party, is far from settled as a party issue but it is a point that inside the Democratic party the wet element is beginning to feel its strength as well as the Republican in the western states have pushed prohibition ahead of all other issues.

The revolt has hardly begun, however, in the Republican party, particularly since President Hoover is sticking to the dry side. The Democrats, on the other hand, have a financial situation to face and many of the outstanding contributors are not likely to be donating their funds unless the party takes a position on prohibition. This is probably just as true of dry contributors as wets.

Conservation Body Gives State Land To U. S. Government

Lansing, March 5 (P)—At the request of Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, the state conservation commission today voted to give the federal government 2,800 acres of land on Isle Royale for the proposed national park there. The executive as well as the commission expressed pleasure over the designation of the Lake Superior island as a part of the national park system.

The commission also accepted an offer from Alger county of the 14 acre scenic spot known as "Liner's Castle on the Pictured Rocks near Munising, one of the beauty marks of the upper peninsula.

Conservation officers will not participate in any general law enforcement work at the smelt runs at Beulah, Boyne City, and other places this spring. The matter will be left to local officers, the commission decided.

RICHEST MAN

London—The world's richest man recently paid a visit to England and started the people with a small display of his wealth. He is the Nizam of Hyderabad, and outranks any of the American millionaires in wealth. His jewelry and bullion stored in a treasury house in his native land is estimated to be worth considerably more than $2,000,000,000.

HUSBAND TRAPPED HER

Cleveland—Although her husband wasn't a big game hunter, he often set large animal traps in the house to capture his wife, Mrs. Blanche C. Preston Mackey. That's what the woman recently charged here, Preston, she said, often hit her with his fists and kept revolvers handy. The traps were "vicious things," she said.

Teamwork

BASKETBALL, football, baseball or business, it's teamwork that makes for the fullest measure of efficiency . . and certainly the management of a well-conducted household comes under the heading of business--Yes--a little teamwork in handling the family finances will very materially increase the buying power of the household dollar.

The clever Housewife who reads the newspaper ads every day discovers many unusual opportunities to save money--Occasionally, however, she finds it inconvenient to run down town on a shopping trip--That's where "Teamwork" can be made to play an important part in this household business.

Rather than lose out the money saving possibilities of any special offering, she phones her husband or some other member of the family, to stop in and pick up the advertised article on the way home - - This type of "Teamwork" pays big dividends.

IS AMATEUR HOCKEY POPULAR?

HOCKEY got a good start in Escanaba this winter, but unfortunately the unusually mild weather that prevailed prevented its receiving a good tryout.

Up in the copper country, however, the introduction of amateur hockey to take the place of the professional brand this winter has been given a favorable reception.

There, the game is played on indoor rinks, where better playing conditions prevail. Commenting on the popularity of amateur hockey in that district, the Houghton Mining Gazette states editorially:

"Is amateur hockey in this district popular? One has only to note the attendance at the games to answer that question. Monday night in Calumet, 1,900 wildly cheering fans—the largest crowd in the Colosseum in recent years—witnessed the game between the Tamarack Falcons and the South Side Bandits for the championship of the Calumet Intermediate tournament and possession of the Hawks trophy.

"The opening games of the amateur tournament in the New Amphidrome in Houghton also are attracting large crowds, and record-breaking attendances are expected when the semi-finals are reached.

"Attendance at the upper peninsula league games throughout the season now being brought to a close has been encouraging for the first year of purely amateur hockey. This interest promises to grow as more local boys are given opportunities to play on the senior teams. Meanwhile, encouragement of the amateur sport among the younger generation will assist largely in developing new players from which the league teams will draw their recruits."

HOOVER SIGNS BILL

ALTHOUGH President Hoover has signed the bill for the establishment of Isle Royale as a national park, there remains much to do before this will be an accomplished fact.

The measure contains a clause that the island must be donated to the federal government. At the present time, much of the land is owned by private individuals, who have intended at some time in the future to cut the virgin timber that covers it, while the rest of the tract is owned by the state.

It is unlikely that these private owners, most of whom live in Minnesota, will be ready to relinquish the lands for park purposes without some monetary reward. A popular subscription for funds to purchase these private lands, will probably be the next step.

ACHIEVEMENTS

BUSINESS depressions, political struggles and international complications may come and go, posing briefly as the important monopolizing the headlines and news of the day; but all the while medical science goes unobtrusively along its path, and without any blare of trumpets accomplishes things that will be considered the highlights of the age when historians get busy half a century hence.

A brief article in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association points to some of the accomplishments of medicine during 1930—a year noteworthy, to most of us, merely for the misfortune it inflicted on us.

It wasn't all misfortune. A great many lives will be saved, through many centuries to come, because of things that were done in 1930.

To begin with, the artificial lung, or respirator, was perfected by Drs. Philip Drinker and L. A. Shaw. This has already saved the lives of a number of people whose breathing apparatuses were paralyzed by infantile paralysis or gas poisoning.

Dr. J. Shiga of Seoul, Korea, found that feeding vitamins in sufficient quantity to animals prevented leprosy; and it is hoped that this will point the way to the prevention of leprosy in human beings.

Investigators at Columbia University and Johns Hopkins Medical School believe they have found the virus causing the common cold.

It was discovered that Vitamin D shortens the time that it takes blood to clot—a matter of vital importance in surgical operations.

An instrument whereby heart disease can be disclosed in its early stages, before the ordinarily noticeable symptoms are apparent, was demonstrated by Dr. P. V. Wells of Newark, N. J.

Drs. Szymanski and Hicks of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital Institute of Pathology found that extremely short radio waves can be of value in killing the poison of diphtheria. Similarly, Dr. W. T. Richards of Princeton University found that fever produced by radio waves is helpful in treating paralysis; and the germ that causes creeping paralysis was discovered by Sir James Purves-Stewart and Katherine Chevasant of Westminster Hospital, London.

That is an imposing list of accomplishments. It may be that some of you who read this will live longer, because of these discoveries, than you would have otherwise. At any rate, it indicates clearly that 1930 was not quite the year of disaster that some of us have supposed.

HENRY ALLEN COOPER

THE grand old man of Wisconsin's congressional delegation is no more. He died as he wanted to die, in the harness. He died where he wanted to die, at the national capital, the scene of his legislative efforts beginning thirty-eight years ago. Coming when and where it did, the end was a fitting climax to a record remarkable in many ways.

To have served in congress under the rule of Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, eight presidents in turn, is in itself not only an achievement but a wonderful personal tribute to the man who so conscientiously followed the course of legislation as to hold his constituency, with the exception of one term during the war, steadfast to him.

Of course there was a sound reason for this phenomenon. Mr. Cooper was a student, a thinker in matters governmental, a fair, careful and intelligent legislator. He was that altogether too rare personage in our public and political life, one who carried neither ill will nor enmity toward those with whom he disagreed. Calmness in demeanor, kindness of outlook, tolerance of attitude, are vital essentials in the spirit that fathers good laws.

Of course his long service greatly redounded to the benefit of his district and the state, in the familiarity and detailed personal information carefully garnered about things governmental over such a long period of time. The state loses a noble old Roman. It must look around for another. It needs them.—Green Bay Press-Gazette.

An eastern university is paying students to swallow balloons in a diet experiment. And to think that in a few months baseball pitchers will blow up free of charge!

As profound as Einstein sometimes is, there's no denying he goes light on most of his theories.

An Arkansas university has two students, one weighing 350 pounds and the other 98. With neither able to wear the other's collars, socks or shirts they should, indeed, make ideal roommates.

Big Bill Thompson, mayor of Chicago, is Boston born. His recent political opponents, however, probably didn't notice any special refinement in his speech.

Some critics deny Charlie Chaplin is a genius. But what would you call a movie actor who dines with a prime minister and rates a Legion of Honor award from the French government?

Anniversary

E. B. BROWNING'S BIRTH On March 6, 1806, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, English poet, was born near Durham.

She early displayed great literary precocity, composing when about 11 an epic poem on the Battle of Marathon. When she was 20 her family moved to London where Miss Barrett established her reputation by the "Sohaphim" and other poems.

In 1845 she met Robert Browning, whose writings she had previously praised. A year later they were married against her father's wishes. Proceeding to Italy they made Florence their home and there in 1849 a son was born, Robert, who became known as an artist and poet.

The married life of these brilliant poets was singularly happy, and their mutual influence is clearly seen in their verse. Mrs. Browning's "Sonnets From the Portuguese," which were in reality original compositions, written after her engagement to Browning, "are unrivaled, of their kind, in the English language, as an exquisite expression of pure yet passionate love."

MAD MARRIAGE

(By NEA Service)

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER II

There was no sign of recognition on Alan Crosby's face. He came down the gangplank slowly. His gray topcoat was tasteful, inconspicuous. The gray felt hat lowered over his eyes had the faintest touch of the picturesque in its tilt.

Crosby stood half a head above his neighbors. His features were clear-cut, pleasing, and there was an air of distinction about the young man. He had dark eyes and fair skin. His eyes roved the crowd at the foot of the gangplank.

"Alan!" Gypsy cried again. He heard her. A smile lighted his face and he hurried toward the girl. Gypsy ran to meet him, flung herself into his arms. "Oh, Alan—I'm so glad you're back! I'm so glad that you've come at last!"

She was clinging to him. Alan's face became a misty vision. Gypsy winked back the tears. She pressed her cheek against Alan's coat and felt the rough, woolly fabric. Slowly, breathlessly, she lifted her head. And then—

"Gypsy" Crosby's voice came cheerfully, heartily. "This is a surprise—I didn't expect to see you here! Say, you're looking great!"

"So are you, Alan!" The girl's face was radiant. A slight hesitation, then Alan's kiss landed somewhere between Gypsy's right ear and forehead.

"Why, you haven't changed at all!" he grinned. "Same turned-up nose. Same crop of freckles! No, sir, haven't changed a bit." He held her off at arm's length and gazed down at her.

Gypsy loved his teasing. She knew she hadn't a turned-up nose though Alan had always said so. She didn't mind the freckles which once they had quarreled over.

"Alan—are you really glad to see me?" "Why, of course I am. Of course, dear! Gosh, but it's good to be home and know I'm going to stay a while. Say—maybe I'd better have a look at what's happened to my bags—"

She had to take rapid, short steps to keep up with him. The panorama of noise and confusion, opened, luggage, chattering impatient travelers and unburied inspectors became glamorous now that Crosby was by her side.

"Oh, look, Alan! Look at that woman over there with the funny little monkeys!" Crosby followed her glance, nodded. He was searching for a well-worn trunk and traveling bag.

"There's a man from India. The one with his head all wrapped up in a turban. Did you meet him, Alan? He looks as though he might be a prince. Or a sultan maybe! No, that's wrong—they're in Turkey, aren't they? Oh, it must be thrilling to cross the ocean on a boat. You've got to tell me all about it, Alan. And, oh, there are a thousand things I want to talk to you about! I don't know where to start—"

Gypsy stopped, aware that the young man was not listening. He had turned and Gypsy's eyes widened as she followed his glance. Alan was looking far down the pier. A woman stood there. She was dressed in sleek, rich black and her shoulders were wrapped in a luxurious fur scarf. Even Gypsy knew that the costume, the tiny black hat were Parisian. The woman was smiling. She turned so that for an instant Gypsy could see her clearly.

There was a fleeting impression of pale skin and red gold hair. A perfect nose and exotic lips. For the barest moment the woman faced them. Then she raised one gloved hand, waved and disappeared.

"Why—why who—why, Alan!" Gypsy stopped, stared up at Crosby. She noted the answering smile with which he received the signal. This was no stranger; this lovely creature was someone Alan knew.

Fear, gripping and terrifying, fastened itself about Gypsy McBride's heart. "You—you know her?" she asked tremulously.

Crosby's brow lifted. "Know who? What are you talking about?" "The woman in black—the one who waved? She's beautiful!" The young man was casual, too casual, a person of more experience might have said. He laughed easily. "You're seeing things, Gypsy. There are a dozen women around here wearing black. None of them very beautiful, though, to my mind. I don't know which one you mean!"

The chill about Gypsy's heart half melted. Then it congealed again. "I mean the beautiful woman who just went away," she said. "She was standing there. Wearing furs and a little black hat. She waved to you, Alan."

Now it was Alan who seemed confused though he tried elaborately to hide it. "Oh, you must mean Mrs. Langley," he said carelessly. "At least it sounds like her. Funny—I didn't see her wave. Just a passenger I met on shipboard. Sorry I didn't get around to say goodby. She'll think me rude."

Looking Backward

March 6, 1911 A marriage license has been issued to Matt Martinson and Miss Hilda Wilson both of this city.

Miss Ethel Weist of Brampton is in Ann Arbor where she will undergo an operation.

A daughter was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Walker, 317 North Birch street.

Work has been practically completed on the construction of an immense storage warehouse for the Stegath Manufacturing Company on upper Ludington street where all of the products made by the company may be displayed. The new building is an immense affair 50 x 140 feet in dimension.

Announcement was made yesterday that a large number of beautiful pictures and an upright piano, the property of the late Father Langan, will be sold in the near future. Any one wishing to purchase these pictures may call Rev. Fr. Barth or John O'Meara.

Masonville is on the boom. In addition to the bringing of new industries to the town by the Escanaba Lumber Company, the Soo Line has lately taken cognizance of the town's advancement and has built a station which was opened Wednesday for the first time. T. P. Hannigan, the company's relief agent is temporarily in charge.

John Duncan, who has been operating a set of camps near Woodlawn, has completed operations for the season after banking 1,500,000 feet of logs and 100,000 pieces of cedar.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Starrine left last night for Chicago where Mrs. Starrine will submit to an operation at Augustana hospital.

Miss Sadie Sprague of Grand Rapids, Mich., is visiting Miss Sadie Barras at her home on Hale street.

Eugene F. O'Leary, who has been ill, is able to be out again.

As the modern skyscraper goes up, people in the vicinity are either annoyed or entertained by the music of the compressed air drill and the compressed air hammer used in such construction.

The popularity of these devices has grown rapidly and industrial physicians are beginning to pay special attention to the hazards associated with pneumatic tools. In Germany, diseases of the muscles, bones and joints from the use of pneumatic tools are now included among the diseases and injuries scheduled under the German compensation acts.

Recently Dr. M. Seyring has given consideration to some of the special forms of diseases that may arise from this type of work. The most common conditions are disturbances in the blood vessels, commonly called "dead fingers."

The fingers lose sensation when they become cold as occurs also in the disease called Raynaud's disease.

Dr. Seyring finds that the tendency to this condition increases as the years of work go on. It is apparently due to the effects of vibration and contact of the hand with the cold metal, although associated also with exposure of the hands to cold air from the exhaust of the compressed air.

Dr. Seyring is inclined to believe that the second cause is not so important, since the left hand, which does not come in contact with the exhaust from the compressed air, is the one most frequently affected. On the other hand, the left hand is the one subjected to the most serious vibration during operation of the pneumatic tool.

Some of the workers suffered degeneration of the muscles of the thumb due to the constant strain of holding the valve at the top of the handle of the pneumatic device. Whenever there is excessive muscular exertion with pressure on the nerve or muscle in any occupation such paralysis may occur.

The final type of inflammation involved in these occupations is a serious inflammation around the elbow joint, particularly the right elbow. In these cases there is pain and limitation of movement and in some cases detachment of pieces of bone results from the constant vibration and pressure.

New industries with new devices constantly expose men to hazards for which his body was never created. The machine age has introduced not only hazards to the mind of men and to his social organization, but also to the very muscles and tissues of which he is composed.

LINES

To a Lady Inclined to Be—Well, or, What You Might Call Stout You worry much too much, my dear, Because you're—well, not growing thinner. I'm rather glad it doth appear I sometimes take you out to dinner. Had you a lean and hungry look, Like Cassius had in Shakespeare's book, I'd fear that folks would think you're stunted. And starving hinted.

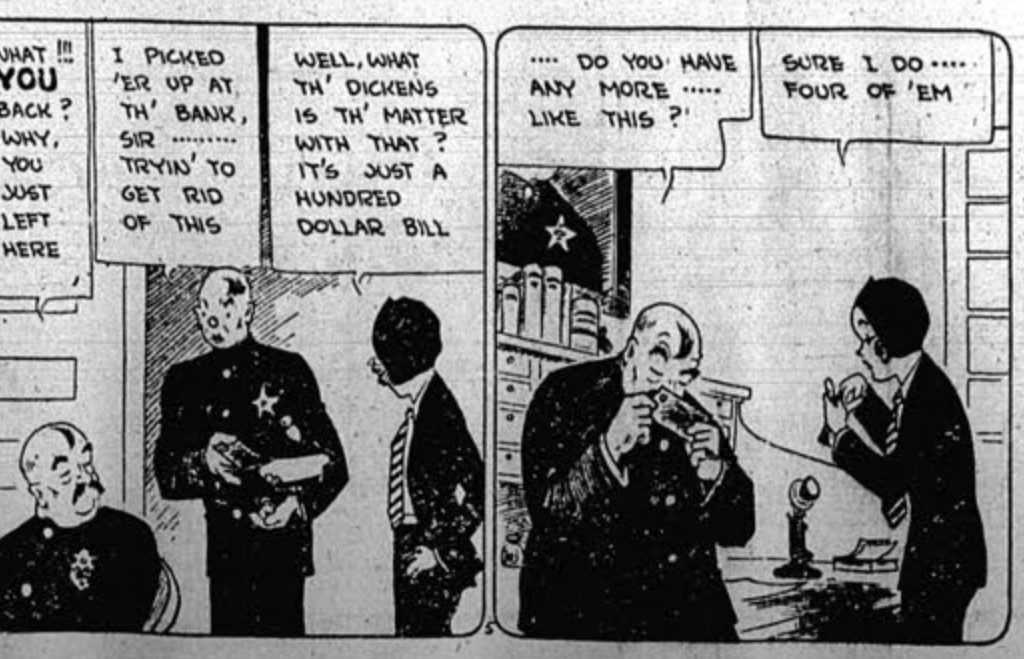

You worry much too much, my love, Because you're—well, a little stouter; Why, I've observed the cooling dove. A certain plumpness has about her. Had you the likeness of the crane, I'd fear you might not long remain; Your look substantial seems to say, dear, You're here to stay, dear.

You worry much too much too much Because you're—well, you're getting fatter. You needn't worry over such. Because it really doesn't matter. The more of you there is, my dove, The more of you there is to love. Don't exercise, massage, and hike it; I rather like it.

FASHION SWIM

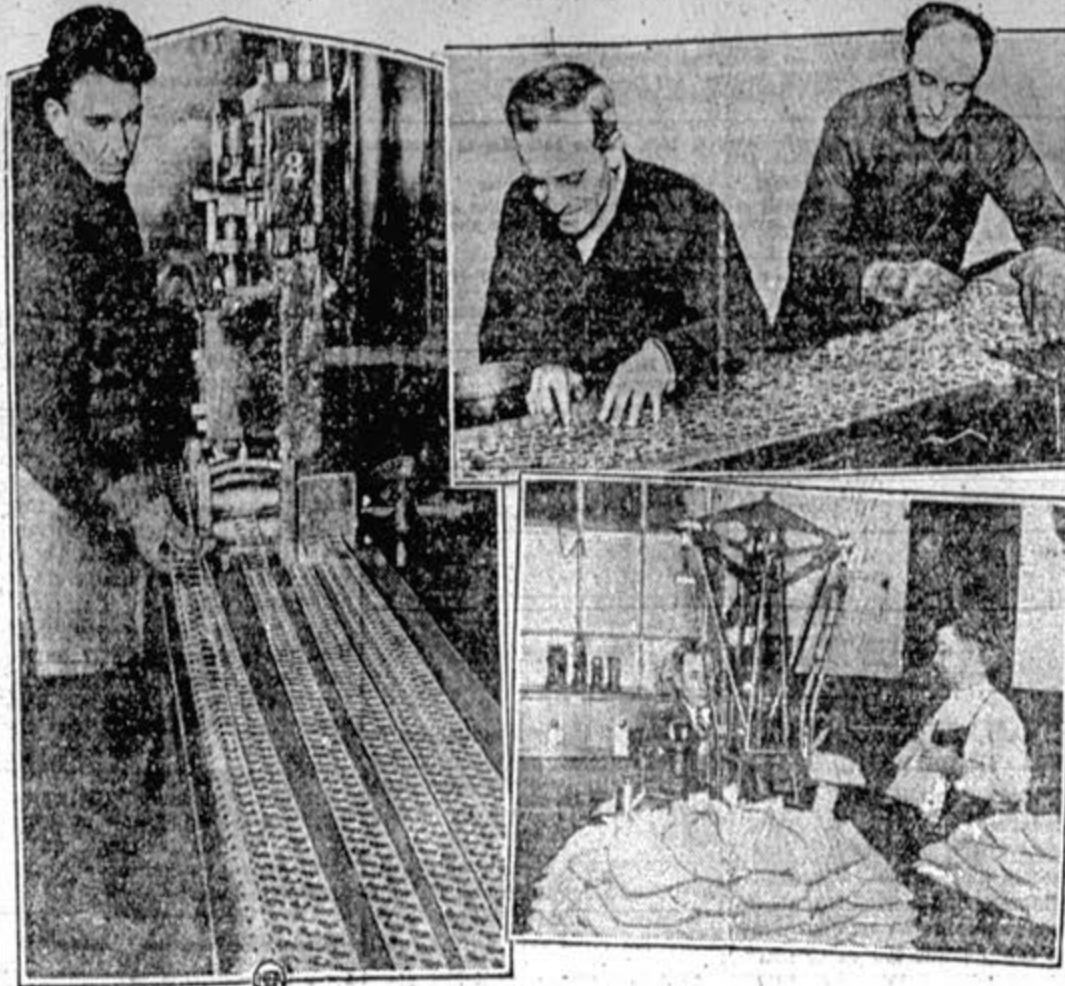

Very Feminine is the fitted bathing suit worn by Rowena Goddard (right), swimming at the Breakers in Palm Beach. The suit was cut on princess lines, with flared short trousers to give fullness. The piece de resistance was the little jabot of white rubber to match her cap. Mrs. B. B. Sory (center), of Palm Beach, attired in a sailor pajama suit of white linen with blue collar and banding, was one of the human pieces in the backgammon party Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall gave. Enjoying one of Palm Beach's favorite sports, lolling, Miss Carmen Mather (left), of Atlanta, Ga., wore a charming pale yellow three-piece pajama suit, with bands of deeper yellow.

This hitherto unpublished photo, taken 55 years ago at a reunion of the Hoover family in West Branch, Ia., is believed to be the first ever made of President Hoover. It shows him (1) as a babe in the arms of his father, Jesse Hoover (2), the village blacksmith. Other members of the Hoover family shown in the picture are: Theodore Hoover (3), a brother of the president; Mrs. Mattie Pemberton (4) of Le Grande, Ia., sister of the president's father, and owner of the original of this picture; Mae Hoover (5), the president's sister, and Mrs. Hulda Minthorn Hoover (6), mother of Herbert Hoover. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover expressed great pleasure at receiving a copy of this recently-discovered photo at the White House, and went to great pains to identify all the sitters.

These Workers Make Money—And Lots of It!

There are few money-makers anywhere who can compare with the workers at the British mint in London, and here are photos showing how the shilling—the English silver piece that ranks approximately with the American 25-cent piece—is turned out. At the left a worker runs silver strips through a cutting machine that cuts out the new coins. Above, at the right, workers are sorting the new shillings for defects. Below the shillings are being weighed in bags. Each of the bags shown contains coins worth 100 pounds—$500 in American money.

"College Convicts" Cut Capers

New Orleans' best-looking "fall birds" are Virginia Catlin, left, and Sara Forsythe, who appeared on Newcomb College campus wearing stripes and carrying a ball and chain in protest against a ruling that they should remain within the college grounds for two weeks without dates because they remained out too late one night during the Mardi Gras celebration. "It was just like solitary confinement," Miss Catlin said, "so we decided to wear stripes and carry a ball and chain as convicts do."

BEAUTY SUES FOR $150,000

Miss Dolly Arney, 16, above, has filed a $150,000 breach of promise suit in Independence, Kan., against Glen W. Dickinson, Kansas City, Mo., theater owner. Miss Arney, who has won many bathing beauty contests at Kansas City, and who competed last year for the national beauty crown at Miami, claims that Dickinson promised to marry her, and then failed to do so, being already married.

IS SHE INDIANA'S MRS. BLUEBEARD?

Are these pictures of the same woman at different ages? Los Angeles police believe they may have found Belle Guinness, long-sought Indiana "murder farm" slayer, in the arrest of Mrs. Esther Carlson, above, on charges of poisoning her 81-year-old employer, August Lindstrom. Mrs. Guinness, shown below in an old picture, disappeared from a farm near La Porte, Ind., 23 years ago after murdering 18 men and children in a plot to collect insurance and savings. Similarity of the crimes and likeness of Mrs. Carlson to Indiana's "Mrs. Bluebeard" led to the investigation.

An Eye-Dropper Is His Bottle

An eye-dropper is the nursing bottle for little Harvard Lewis Hunter, who weighed just 24 ounces when he was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hunter of Kansas City, Mo. The lad arrived two months ahead of schedule, but he is said to be thriving so well that he will not have to be an incubator baby. Dr. Richard Simmons is shown here holding the baby while Mr. Hunter looks on. Both mother and child are doing well.

What? No Piano!

"Why was I born?" queries Helen Morgan, stage and screen star, in her latest Broadway musical success. Maybe to play golf down in Florida. Anyway, this famous piano-sitting singer seems to have quite a flair for golf as you can see in this exclusive picture at Miami Beach.

Did You Hear the One About—?

That story must have been a funny one. Look at the smiles on the faces of John D. Rockefeller's hearers. The aged oil magnate is shown here, at left, in the unusual role of impromptu entertainer for fellow golfers on the links at Ormond Beach, Fla., his winter home. He'd just been introduced to British women players competing in the South Atlantic tournament.

Will One of These Be Next "First Lady"?

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow

It's pretty early to be forecasting now, but one of these ladies may be the next mistress of the White House, since their husbands are already prominently mentioned as likely candidates for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations in 1932. Mrs. Roosevelt is the wife of New York's Democratic governor, while Mrs. Morrow is the wife of Senator Morrow of New Jersey, a leading Republican.

She's Bride of Baseball Star

Miss Francis Touin, New Orleans debutante, is now on her honeymoon as the bride of Eddie Morgan, former star first baseman of the Cleveland Indians. Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of an old and socially prominent New Orleans family.

"APPLE SIR?"

A crate of apples became a sidewalk pulpit for the Rev. Elliot White, as this unusual picture shows, after his resignation from the staff of fashionable Grace Church in New York had climaxed a dispute with Bishop William T. Manning over marriage views. Now, deprived of a pastorate, he designates himself as a "clergyman at large" and is seen here working during the lunch hour for an unemployed apple seller in the mid-town business district of the metropolis. He has championed companionate marriage and recently officiated at the wedding of his own daughter whose marriage, it was announced, would be "companionate."
