

PROGRESSIVES LOOKING TO PRESIDENCY

REGULARS ARE WORRIED OVER REVOLT, SPLIT

DEMOCRATS READY TO AGREE WITH PROGRESSIVES

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, March 12.—The Republican regulars are far more worried about the meeting of the Progressives here today than are the Democrats.

The regulars are beginning to ask questions in an effort to get the Progressives to formulate their principles in definite language. The interrogatories propounded by Senator Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, were not accidental any more than was the statement issued by the Republican committee to the effect that the American people are tired of politics at the moment.

While the Progressives are not yet ready with any specific proposals they are not slow to bring them out if they are challenged. There will be no hesitancy about answering Mr. Watson's questions. The big point is whether the Progressives can achieve any kind of harmony within their own group.

The regular Republicans know the meaning of the Progressive conference just the same. It is the forerunner of action at the next session of congress—an attempt to drive both parties into acceptance of certain progressive doctrines as the price of Progressive support in organizing congress.

No "Political Holiday" The upshot of the present meeting will be an arrangement to continue the agitation for Progressivism together with appointment of committees to prepare specific legislation for the next session. As for the declaration of a political holiday advocated by James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, there is no likelihood of any serious effort to carry it out.

RUBINER REPEATS HIS CRITICISM OF SOLONS

EXPLAINS DRY LAW FINDINGS

Interpreting the report as a document from which he thought the "wets" would have derived more encouragement than the "drys," Mr. Wickersham revealed his surprise that "the most vehement criticism" had come from the opponents of prohibition.

NORRIS URGES INDEPENDENTS HAVE NOMINEE

Washington, March 12. (P)—The conference of political independents focused its attention on the 1932 presidential race in its closing hours today with a demand by Senator Norris for the election of a "progressive president."

Rejecting President Hoover as a "power trust" man, the Nebraska Republican also gave notice to the Democrats that a candidate chosen on the platform offered by Chairman Raskob would not do.

Political tongues were set to wagging by the Nebraska declaration that "we need another Roosevelt" meant Governor Roosevelt, of New York, prominently mentioned Democratic candidate.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MICHIGAN
The never ending battle between the elements and the men who drive the monster locomotives, is graphically and dramatically pictured in "Other Men's Women," the Warner Brothers and Vitaphone picture of that name which opens today at the Michigan Theatre.

The constantly recurring drama of the railroads and the men who run them could never be adequately told until the advent of the talking picture and it is only now, with this production "Other Men's Women" that it has been completely revealed in talking pictures.

Grant Withers, Mary Astor, Regis Toomey, James Cagney, J. Farrell McDonald, Joan Blondell and Walter Long play leading roles in "Other Men's Women" which William Wellman directed and which was made in the Jamaica-River valley, known to railroaders as one of the most dangerous runs in the country.

This is the story of two men who love one woman, shut together in a single engine cab to battle it out while the train with which they are entrusted, thunders to its certain doom. It is an action picture of tremendous momentum and powerful romance.

AT THE DELFT
In "The Southerner," which opened last night at the Delft Theatre, Lawrence Tibbett "goes modern," and by doing so provides his fans with an even more interesting Lawrence Tibbett than he did in former swash-buckling characterizations.

This is strictly modern characterizations, laid in the South of today. Romance and heart interest blend into a mighty dramatic situation, and Tibbett finds opportunity to sing haunting melodies of the South, one of his greatest concert numbers, and a love number that bids fair to be a classic.

The story is the simple and direct one of a prodigal who returns to an aristocratic family, and makes good in a startling situation that to disclose here would be to spoil when it is seen on the screen. Harry Pollard repeated his deft direction in "Show Boat" in handling this production, and the cast leaves nothing to be desired.

Ether Ralston plays the heroine, Antonia beautifully, and incidentally is a very charming figure in the spectacular fox hunt and other sequences in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

Old License Plates Now Out of Style; May Bring Arrest

Motorists still using 1930 automobile license plates may find themselves "telling it to the judge" one of these days, the sheriff's department warns. Now that the deadline for using last year's tags is past, state police and local officers must enforce the law, and failure to procure 1931 license plates may bring a stiff fine. One arrest by state police has already been reported here.

It is reported that a large number of cars are operating on old licenses in outlying sections of the county.

A. S. Reeve, the Cambridge student who rowed in this year's varsity race, has just been ordained a priest in the Church of England.

GEORGE W. ROCHE
Impressive funeral services were conducted Thursday morning at nine o'clock at St. Patrick's church for George W. Roche, 1618 South Fifth avenue, who passed away Monday morning at a hospital in Green Bay, Wis., where he had undergone a serious operation the first part of the preceding week.

Rev. Father Gerald Harrington was the celebrant at the solemn requiem high mass and was assisted by Rev. Fr. D. Joseph Breault, pastor of St. George's church at Bark River and Rev. Fr. S. Malora, pastor of All Saints church at Gladstone.

The casket was borne by Dr. G. C. Bartley, Coleman Nee, John Stack, Jr., M. N. Smith, George Harvey of this city and Victor Nystrom of Norway.

Out of town relatives and friends included C. L. Roche, Houghton; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Murray, Miss Fanny Roche, Duluth, Minn.; Mrs. C. L. Michigan Boy Amazes Mother

"Jackie's stomach was often upset and he had no appetite or energy," says Mrs. Alderetta Porth, 2209 Highland Ave., Detroit. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated."

"Our doctor recommended California Fig Syrup so I got some for Jackie. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

SAVE THE FALLS

"SAVE THE Tahquamenon Falls!" This is the answering cry that is heard from all parts of Michigan since the announcement was made that Cliffs Power and Light company might utilize the Tahquamenon river for hydro-electric power development.

EASIER DIVORCES

COMPETITION in the field of business grows more intense every year; but what are we to think of the growing competition in the divorce business? The number of divorces issued to American men and women rises each year. The granting of those divorces has lucrative side-lines; there are court fees and if the litigants are non-residents there is money in it for the hotel keeper, the grocer, the baker and almost everybody else.

WOMEN CLEAN UP

THE women folks do things in Stephenson. Cleaning house and doing other domestic duties were not sufficient to keep these energetic women busy. They looked out of the windows of their homes and saw new fields to conquer.

WHAT MAKES PEOPLE MOODY?

Did you know that our health and our moods are closely related to intestinal cleanliness?

When the system is clogged by constipation, poisons are generated. Often these bring on headaches and listlessness. You feel blue, or become irritable.

The poisons of constipation frequently aggravate nervous troubles, rheumatism, high blood-pressure and heart trouble.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoons daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it with milk or cream. Use in cooking too. Recipes on the red-and-green package. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron-for-the-blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

came bustling up to Gypsy's desk.
"Miss McBride," she said, "I'm afraid you were careless with these letters yesterday. Mr. Reynolds was disappointed. She held out two typed pages with glaring blue pencilled circles. "You surely cannot expect me to promote you on such work!"
"No, Miss Tuttle," she said, "I don't expect it. I'm resigning—today!"
"But, my dear young woman, you can't!"
Gypsy was half-way to the door. "No?" she asked, turning. "Who's going to stop me?"
And then the door shut with a bang.
When Gypsy opened the front door she heard footsteps on the second floor landing. Then a familiar voice called down. "Miss McBride—is that you, dearie?"
"Yes, Mrs. O'Hare," the girl answered.
"Well, somebody's been trying to get you on the telephone all afternoon. I told 'em you wouldn't be in until five, but they kept calling. Last time was about half an hour ago, I guess."
It couldn't be—no, of course not! Gypsy told herself it was ridiculous to let her hopes rise. Still there was a quickening in her voice.
"Do you know who it was?"
"No, they didn't give any name. Number's on the pad beside the telephone, though. They said you were to call back."
Gypsy's feet flew down the hall. At the far end was the pay telephone for the roomers' use and beside it a pad on which messages were posted.
There it was—"McBride—call Center 5942 before 5 p. m."
With a weary gesture the girl turned and started back toward the stairs.
"Did you find it?" the landlady's voice persisted from above.
"Yes, I know who it is—nothing very important, I guess."
"The woman who called the last time said you should be sure and ring the minute you came in!" Mrs. O'Hare said insistently.
"Well, I guess—"
Further discussion was interrupted by the jangle of the telephone bell.
"I'll answer it," offered Gypsy, turning back.
"Oh, that'll save me coming down. Thanks, dearie."
The girl placed the receiver to her ear. Immediately she recognized the voice at the other end of the line.
"Hello," the voice said. "May I speak to Miss McBride?"
"This is she," answered Gypsy. "Is that you, Anne?"
"Oh—at last I've found you! I've been trying all day long to get in touch with you! First I called your office and they said you'd gone. After that I tried this number. There's something you're simply sot to do for me!"
Just as she had thought, Whenever Anne Trowbridge called it was to ask a favor. Anne was the only relative of Gypsy's who lived within 1000 miles of New York but their paths crossed so infrequently they seldom thought of each other as cousins. Anne had come to the city as the bride of Phil Trowbridge. She had "married well," according to the old phrase. Anne's father and Gypsy's mother had been brother and sister but the two girls had never seen each other until the day two years before when Gypsy had called on young Mrs. Trowbridge in her hotel suite.
From that first day Gypsy had known they could never be friends. Anne, though she was three years older, had never worked at anything except making herself look attractive. Her mother (Gypsy's Aunt May) had been a Carroll—with all the distinctions that name implies in the Maryland community in which Anne had spent most of her life.
Here in New York Anne and her husband lived in an apartment on the upper east side. Gypsy took Sunday dinner there twice a year—and was slow about calling afterward. She thought Anne patronized her, though in reality the fault was on both sides.
It had been six months since she had heard Anne's voice.
"What do you want me to do, Anne?" Gypsy asked.
"I want you to come to dinner. Oh, you must! You see, I'm having some people in for dinner and bridge. There were to be 14 and this afternoon Mildred Lane was in a traffic accident and fractured her arm. I simply cannot have 13 people—I'm terribly superstitious!—and everyone I've called has been out of town or sick or giving parties. You're my only hope, Gypsy! Don't bother to change. You can dress here. I'll lend you something."
So that was what to Anne's mind was a tragedy! Gypsy had been trying to get a word in. Now she spoke abruptly.
"Sorry," she said. "I'd like to help you out but I won't be able to." What was the usual excuse? Oh, yes, of course—"I—I have an engagement for the evening." Gypsy stumbled a bit over the words.
"Oh, but Gypsy—can't you break it off?"
"A friend not!"
"But won't you try?"
There was nothing to do but work her way out. Gypsy tried a white lie.

"I'll try to," she promised. "I'll call you back about it. I mean I'll call you if I can come."
"Oh, I hope you can make it! Call before 6 o'clock—won't you? I'll be expecting to hear from you!"
"All right. I'll let you know if I can come. Goodby."
Gypsy replaced the receiver and mounted the stairs. She walked slowly, discovering that she was tired.
What if Anne's dinner party were spoiled? What did that matter? Had Anne ever known what it was to feel this weight like lead in her heart, to face bitter loneliness—not just for today but stretching on and on in the future? Had Anne ever known a pain like the one that had been throbbing at Gypsy's forehead all afternoon?
Well, then, who was Anne to need sympathy!
Gypsy reached her own room and entered. She threw her hat and coat on the bed and sank down beside them. It had been a long day. Purposely she had stayed away from the rooming house until after five o'clock, the usual time she arrived there. She did not want the other roomers of Mrs. O'Hare to know that she had given up her job. They would be curious and Gypsy was in no mood for questions.
She thought about tomorrow. Better start hunting a job, she supposed. What sort of a job?
It occurred then to Gypsy that employers would ask where she had worked before. They might want references. Should she go back to MacNamara's and ask Miss Tuttle for a letter? Hardly that!
There was McNider, the city editor who had helped her get the first job. She might call on him. Gypsy's mind wandered, taking half a dozen different trails, but never far from the main subject. Where was Alan? What was he doing tonight?
Suddenly the girl sprang up. She would not spend another evening here alone. She would not waste time thinking about Alan Crosby when he was having a gay evening with friends—friends whose company he preferred to hers.
She stood in the center of the room, staring at the wall in indecision. Then she caught up her purse and ran down the stairs.
Gypsy was breathless when she reached the telephone on the first floor.
"Operator," she called impatiently, "give me Center 5942. Hurry!"
A man's voice came over the wire.
"Is this Phil?" Gypsy asked.
"This is Gypsy. Will you tell Anne I'm going to be able to come for dinner. Tell her I'm starting right away. Yes, I'll try to get there in half an hour. That's all, Goodby."
It was reckless to spend money on taxi fare but Gypsy was in a reckless mood. She pulled on hat and coat without even a glance in the mirror, and hurried out of the house. On the curb she signaled a cab and 35 minutes later was alighting at the capoled entrance of the up-town apartment.
As the elevator car rose to the 15th floor Gypsy had a moment of foreboding. She stifled it. Anything was better than another evening alone.
"Gypsy—I'm so glad you came!"
Anne was waiting for her in the open doorway. Phil Trowbridge was there too and said a casual "good evening." Gypsy had always liked Phil.
Immediately the girl was whisked down a corridor to Anne's bedroom.
"I knew you wouldn't have time to dress so I got this out for you. Do you like it?"
Anne Trowbridge held up a creamy flowered chiffon with a vivid design in crimson, orange and dull green. Anne herself was gowned in flame. A stranger might have thought the girls were sisters. Anne was nearly an inch taller but her frocks fit Gypsy perfectly. The older girl's features were more regular. Anne's hair was dark but it was smooth and glossy instead of waving. Her complexion was fair and her eyes were blue.
How like Anne to say Gypsy "didn't have time to dress." Of course she knew the other girl had no such evening gown.
"It's lovely," Gypsy said.
"Glad you think so. Now hurry up and get into it. You'll find everything you need on the dressing table. Oh, do try my new rouge! I'm simply crazy about it. You'll excuse me, won't you? I've got to see Phil. Dinner's at seven—so you'll have time if you hurry. If you want anything just call!"
The hostess disappeared. Gypsy pulled off her jersey office dress and hung it away in a closet. A bath room, stunning in blue and silver, adjoined the bedroom; Gypsy took a quick plunge, wrapped herself in a rose negligee and went over to the dressing table.
What an array of lovely bottles and boxes—all for the purpose of making Anne beautiful! Gypsy picked up a jar of crystal and lifted the turquoise lid. There was creamy stuff inside with an odor sickeningly sweet. She rubbed some of the cream on her arm and found it pleasant. As she put the jar down Gypsy caught a view of herself in the mirror.
There were lamps at either side of the dressing table, flooding the glass with pitiless light. Gypsy studied her reflection; then she sat down before the dressing table and set to work.
Twenty minutes later there was a tap at the door.
"Gypsy!" Anne Trowbridge

FALSE ALARMS PROVE COSTLY
Gladstone Men Get Jail Terms for Calling Department

That turning in false alarms is not allowed even as a means of celebrating big events was demonstrated to two Gladstone men yesterday when they were arraigned before a local court and sentenced to pay fines totalling $45 or spend an aggregate of 35 days in the county jail. They chose the latter.

The arrests and sentences came as an aftermath of the big celebration, last Friday night, over the announcement of the Ford Motor company as to the selection of their new industrial site, during which three false alarms brought the force rushing forth from their quarters. Two of the alarms came after midnight. Answering of the three calls cost the city in the neighborhood of $45, many of the volunteers making the calls.

After a quiet investigation Patrick LaPorte, age 20, and Gene Holm, 22, were arrested for the offenses. The former turned in two alarms. Arraigned, they pleaded guilty. After being severely lectured as to the seriousness of the offense by Justice Hupp, LaPorte was fined $25 with an alternative of 20 days in jail, while Holm was sentenced to pay $20 or spend 15 days in jail. They were committed to the county jail yesterday afternoon.

HUGE FURNACE AT RIVER ROUGE
Ford Plant Near Detroit to Have World's Largest Unit

The Ford Motor company, which recently decided to acquire a site at Gladstone for a huge industrial development, understood to include the construction of blast furnaces, has launched a program which looks forward toward the entire control of the manufacture of its own steel, according to the current number of the Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record, industrial and business publication.

The Ford Motor company has awarded a contract to the Pennsylvania Engineering works of Newcastle, Pa., to furnish equipment for the construction of a 400-ton tilting furnace at the River Rouge plant at a cost of about $1,000,000, according to this publication. No mention is made in the article of the Ford company's project at Gladstone, however.

Increases Steel Production
The 400-ton furnace replaces a 100-ton furnace, one of a battery of ten open hearth tilting and stationary units now in use at Dearborn. The decision of the Ford Motor company to erect a large-capacity furnace may, it is thought in Detroit, mark the beginning of a far-reaching expansion at the Ford steel works in which all the present units; each having a capacity of 100 tons per heat, would be replaced by furnaces of greatly increased tonnage.

The new furnace and the mixers will occupy a location at the extreme south end of the Ford open hearth building. An idea of the size of the furnace can be gathered from the following dimensions. The overall length of the furnace proper is 56 feet and the outside height 34 feet. The diameter inside is 22 feet and the inside height from the bottom plate to the top of the brick work is 18 1/2 feet. The entire layout for both furnaces, mixers and other units covers an area well over 12,000 square feet. The furnace together with regenerators and slag pots are to have more than half this space. Foundations for the furnace and mixers range from seven to 15 inches.

Has Many Advantages
Figures were taken this week by Giffels and Vallet, Detroit engineers, for the foundations. The closing date for the award has not yet been announced but it is understood that work on the foundations is due to start within another week. New concrete is to be poured for all but the foundations of the regenerators which are already in place.

The chief advantage of a tilting furnace is duplex production; that is, it permits pouring a heat at any stage of the open hearth process. Usually, with a tilting furnace, the entire heat is never poured at once. In this way the great capacity of the projected unit can be utilized to the fullest advantage in pouring slag and repairing bottom.

In spite of the increased size of the new unit, no great change in operation will result. Hot metal from the Ford blast furnaces will move in 75-ton ladles on cars to the huge hot metal mixers. An electric crane will empty the ladles into the mixers from which the metal will be teemed into another ladle on a 2,100-ton scale. A crane will then carry the metal to the open hearth.

The new furnace means an increase of 30 per cent in the rated capacity of the Ford open hearth works. Ten furnaces now have a capacity of 2,000 tons in 24 hours and, when the big furnace is ready, the combined capacity will be 2,600 tons. The existing open hearth battery was built since 1925. All are basic furnaces. Four tilting units, put in use in 1926, are S. R. Smythe design having a forward swing of 22 degrees and a backward tilt of ten degrees. Six stationary furnaces are Alex Laughlin design. Three were built around 1927 and the remainder in 1929.

One wonders—after seeing and hearing Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser," at its local premiere at the Rialto theatre yesterday—whether the producer-star hasn't introduced, in her first all-dialogue United Artists picture, a new era in audible films. For we haven't been able to think of a single parallel to "The Trespasser" in the field of the vocal cinema. Certainly Miss Swanson's independently produced United Artists picture unfolds a technique that is new to the speaking screen. All of which amounts to the most pleasing sort of entertainment.

Keilmens Beat Lake Linden; Face Gwinn Tonight

FAVORITES WIN IN 1ST ROUND

Semi-Finals This Evening; J. D. Pierce Meets L'Anse

Without exception, favorites in the first round of the Class C regional basketball tournament at Gladstone yesterday came through successfully, although several of the quintets were forced to the limit to reach the semi-finals.

A racy crew from L'Anse, of which Little was known, proved a tower of strength and defeated Norway, 18-17. The game ended 17-17. Tonnay rules allow no overtime periods, and with field goals, free throws and number of fouls even, the game was awarded to L'Anse which had made the greater percentage of free throws.

Lake Linden, runners-up to L'Anse in the district meet, also an unknown quantity, proved tough competition for Gladstone and the Keilmens were forced to extend themselves to the limit, winning in the last minute of play.

J. D. Pierce of Marquette, topped St. Ambrose of Ironwood, 26 to 22, in the opener of the meet, and a yellow jersied whirlwind from Gwinn walked all over Munising to the tune of 49 to 23.

Keilmens Meet Gwinn
Gladstone will meet the crack Gwinn quint this evening at 8:30 in the lower bracket semi-final while L'Anse and J. D. Pierce will clash for honors in the upper bracket, at 7:30. As the result of Gwinn's impressive showing last night they rank favorites over the Keilmens in tonight's game, while L'Anse is expected to turn the tables on John D. Pierce.

The Gladstone-Lake Linden fracas easily proved the feature of the first round matches. The Keilmens jumped into the lead with the opening whistle and early in the period had worked an 8 to 2 lead. The score at the quarter was 8-4. Lake Linden went into the lead in the second period, gradually increasing it until they led 14 to 9 at the half. The Keilmens came back strong in the second half and Skellenger and Jahnik worked the count to 17-16, and then the rangy Keilmens knotted the count with a free throw. Damitz looped one from the field to put Gladstone into the lead, 19-17, just before the third quarter ended.

La-Motte, eagle eyed forward of the copper county crew cut the lead to one point and Hanner looped a long one to put his quint in front 22-21. Jahnik tied it with a free throw and then sunk two more from the foul line to give the Keilmens the two point lead that proved their margin of victory.

MINERS ADVANCE
Ironwood, March 12 (Special)—Negaunee, fighting to defend its state championship, started off on the right foot in the regional meet here this afternoon to knock off its old foe, Ishpeming, in an impressive manner, 23 to 14. Ishpeming had defeated the Miners in two of the finals of the district tournament last week and the battle created considerable interest as the winner was picked by critics to play a big part in the regional meet. Phillips was the big noise of the victors with five field goals.

Iron Mountain Advances After Hard Struggle With Local Crew

Hancock and Wakefield won last evening's games in the regional meet at Ironwood and advanced to the semi-finals along with Iron Mountain and Negaunee, winners of the afternoon games. Hancock took the measure of Ironwood, 31 to 25, and Wakefield eliminated Painesdale, 22 to 12.

In the semi-final games this evening, Hancock will play Negaunee and Wakefield will oppose Iron Mountain. The winners will qualify for the state tournament and will play in the finals Saturday for the peninsula championship. Negaunee, defending state champion, is given the edge over Hancock in spite of an impressive showing by the Copper Country boys last evening. Anything can happen in the Wakefield-Iron Mountain game as the teams appear to be exceptionally well matched. Promoters of the tournament are supporting Wakefield in order to guarantee a capacity crowd in the final on Saturday.

S. O. S. Sent Out By Manistiguers As Battle Nears

Those rash and rabid souls who guide the destinies of the Manistiguers Elks bowling team became all hot and bothered yesterday, wondering if the Escanaba Elks were going to keep their engagement to play off the first round of the annual inter-city bowling match March 19.

It seems that up at Manistique they feel the pin-maulers on raw meat or something else raw to keep them wild, and the brothers refused to go into such rigid training as the momentous event requires without definite assurance that Escanaba was coming over. Such assurance was given immediately. In fact, the next was any question about it. The Escanaba Elks have been clamoring for the chance for weeks. It seems that way back in the past sometime or other they suffered a slight defeat at the hands of the Manistique hook-holders, and ever since the hearts of the metropolis maple-maulers have rankled with deep, dark thoughts of r-revenge. So on March 19 the Escanabans will rally forth to remove the blotch that sullies their escutcheon, whatever that is.

MacFarlane Takes Four-Ball Tournery

Miami, Fla., Mar. 12 (AP)—Willie MacFarlane, single handed, won the championship of the classic international four-ball matches here today.

He was teamed with Willy Cox, but MacFarlane and his charmed putter won the match, an 18 hole playoff of the deadlocked 40 hole final round, from Gene Sarazen and John Farrell, 3 and 2.

MacFarlane and Cox won $750 each as first prize money. Sarazen and Farrell took $500 each as runners-up. Each of the playoff teams also took approximately $750 as their share of the playoff gate from a crowd of 2,500 that followed the match under a blistering sun. The battle yesterday ended as darkness fell over the course.

Rock Knocks Chassell Off Tournery Map, 45-5

A feature attraction looms tonight at Marquette when Rock, defending peninsula Class D champion, opposed Bergland in the second semi-final game. Both teams showed a world of offensive power last evening and it will be a battle of giants with the result so much in doubt that it's a question of flipping a coin to name your choice. Michigan, however, will play Quinnesec and barring an upset should head to the finals. Michigan eliminated National Mine last evening, 31 to 19.

GIANTS WIN EASILY
Marquette, March 12 (Special)—Chassell proved no match for Rock, defending champions, in the Class D regional first round game here this evening. The Little Giants romping home on the long end of the 45 to 5 count, thereby blasting all runners that the Little Giants are not as dangerous this season as they were last year when they won the regional title.

BERGLAND HAS POWER
Marquette, March 12 (Special)—Bergland, displaying a battering offense, crushed Hermansville in the Class D meet this afternoon 34 to 12, to take a front seat as one of the dangerous contenders for the title now held by Rock's Little Giants. The Bergland outfit swarmed all over Hermansville in the second period and, using reserve material, just added to their advantage thereafter.

BEVENOCS WIN FROM REDSKINS

Indian All Stars Prove Just Another Victim For Locals, 25-17

The Indian All Stars went down under the powerful attack of the Escanaba Bevenocs last evening by a score of 25 to 17 at the Coliseum gymnasium. In the preliminary, Nahma Ranguette brothers won from the Whit Wings, 16 to 14. The Bevenocs, maintaining a slight lead throughout, displayed a smooth working offense against the Redskins in which every member of the regular lineup scored at least twice. Draftz connected four times to take high point honors for the evening.

LOUGHRAN WILL BATTLE SCHAAF

Tom Eyes New Chance To Rate as Possible Heavy Contender

New York, March 12 (AP)—Tommy Loughran, a bit scared and aging but still full of fight and ambition, will get another chance tomorrow night to vault back into the front ranks of the heavyweight contenders. He will battle Ernie Schaaf, the barrel-chested Bostonian, for ten rounds in Madison Square Garden.

A decisive victory will boost Tommy again into the center of the Sharkey, Striplings, Schmeling and Carneras.

Tommy was up there once, after relinquishing the light heavyweight throne, but Jack Sharkey rapped him so solidly on the temple he suffered a dizzy spell and had to be helped to a seat. Loughran has always blamed that defeat on an effort to put on too much weight too quickly in the effort to qualify as a heavyweight.

Telephone Building In Escanaba to be Completed May 1st

Interior finishing is near completion at the new Michigan Bell Telephone company central office, Tenth street and First avenue south, and the installation of mechanical equipment will start next month. When the equipment is installed the structure will represent an expenditure of around $210,000. The date stipulated for completion of the building is May 1.

The telephone building is of semi-colonial design, constructed of reinforced concrete with outer walls of red face brick, trimmed with Indiana limestone. The edifice is set back sufficiently from the lot line to provide for landscaping, and fronts 60 feet on First avenue, extending 47 1/2 feet back along Tenth street. A three-car garage will be located at the rear for housing the company's motive equipment. Exclusive of the garage, the building has 7,700 square feet of floor space.

In the basement will be the power plant, cable vaults, heating plant and storage space. Local and long distance lines, entering the building through cable vaults in the basement, will lead to the terminal room equipment on the first floor. This floor will also have a business office of the counterless type, in which customers will be seated at individual desks to transact business with company representatives. From the terminal room, lines will pass to the switchboards in the local and long distance operating room, located on the second floor. The remainder of the second floor space will be devoted to class rooms and retiring rooms for the operating staff.

Trapper Williams Works Near Here

H. P. Williams of Munising, U. S. trapper in charge of predatory animal control in the upper peninsula, is making his headquarters in Escanaba this week while engaged in directing the extermination of wolves and coyotes in the region between here and Manistiquette.

Mr. Williams has been in the federal service for many years. Before coming here he was engaged in various states of the west, and at one time was employed by the government in the extermination of wolves that were killing many reindeer in Alaska.

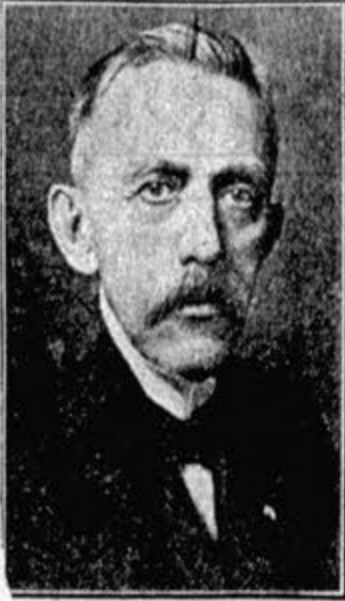

He states that wolves do a large amount of damage to farm livestock and deer, it being estimated that a den of wolves will consume a deer per day. A study of this problem also has revealed that a den, which consists usually of about a half dozen wolves, needs two or three cattle a week for subsistence.

The federal government is cooperating with the state in the control of predatory animals. The state employs about twenty hunter-trappers, who are engaged in this work under the supervision of Mr. Williams in the upper peninsula. Last year, these hunters averaged a half dozen wolves per month, although in some sections some killed as high as 25 and 30.

The four men, under the direction of Prof. A. L. Franzke, will leave Appleton March 22, by auto, going as far east and North as Maine. The exact schedule which is being arranged now, will be announced soon.

A Letter From O. B. Fuller

O. B. Fuller, Michigan's Auditor General, who in 1933 will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his service in the Knights of Pythias.

Michigan's Auditor General, O. B. Fuller, a member of Muskegon Lodge Number 32, Knights of Pythias, since June 18, 1888, and one of the organizers and a charter member of Escanaba Lodge, Number 98, formed July 10, 1888, and the first Past Chancellor of that lodge, has a letter in "The Michigan Pythian," official publication of the organization, which has much of interest not only to Pythians, but to all Escanabans who know or know of Mr. Fuller and appreciate his views.

"When I first saw the record of my membership in the Order, as it appears in the office of the Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, I must confess that I was somewhat perturbed. I will not be so extravagant as to say that it 'seemed but yesterday' that I became a member of Muskegon Lodge No. 32, back there in 1888; for I have not been wholly unaware of the passing of the years, but when I think of it in terms of fifty years, I have to pause and figure. My first impressions of the Order gained from its teachings and principles, have been with me always. I knew then, and know now, that men left to their own devices, will develop unhappiness and misery. The struggle for what we call success, the craving for place and power, and the doctrine of the survival of the fittest, all tend to make brutes of humans, and without the softening influences of better thought and teachings of better thought and teachings of the better side of man. These societies have their place in the affairs of men alongside the church, the schools and every kind of civic organization.

"In addition to this primary purpose and as a necessary incident to it, there follows the duty and responsibility of all fraternal societies to serve humanity, to relieve distress and limit suffering. Fortune and misfortune travel side by side. It always has been so, and doubtless always will be. It becomes, then, the duty of men to help those less fortunate than they. There are degrees of misfortune, as well as degrees of success, I think every fraternalist has been concerned more or less, with the record of actual performance by his own fraternity. Has it lived up to its pretensions? That is the rub. In my way of thinking, any failure of performance has not been due to willful intent, but rather to lack of sound methods and preparation.

"In the past half century we have seen a marked advance in public aid to unfortunates. This has become one of the most serious problems confronting the state and its municipalities. How far the public could go in this respect is only measured by the extent of human misfortune and the ability of the people to pay. But I am not discussing that problem here. Public charities unavoidably are stern and cold. Usually they are humiliating to the beneficiary. They are devoid of all for service. The all-important consideration is the best method for securing efficiency.

"I have studied with much interest the project which we know as the Greater Pythian Foundation. I have looked at it from many angles and the more I study it the better I like it. I know the men who have sponsored it, and the Foundation Trustees who have been chosen to promote and manage it. They are careful, conservative and capable and no one could fail to have confidence in their judgment and Pythian loyalty. I can see that the order needs to equip itself with the means to do things and accomplish its purposes. We have created a Foundation. It now remains for us to build upon it. Our means should not be scattered all over the domain but should be centralized so as to secure the best possible returns and the best management.

"I like the lifetime future of the plan. While some members may desire to make their endowment permanent, in whole or in part, there are many who would prefer to keep within their means until such time as circumstances permit them to leave a stated amount to work after they are gone. This enlarges the field of interest and opens the door to all. It is a fine satisfaction to be a part of the great undertaking to do some good in the world. We don't have to be millionaires to establish our Foundation. A million dollars is a lot of money but it can be done if the members will arouse themselves sufficiently.

"Fraternally,
"O. B. FULLER."
It is also of interest to know that Mr. Fuller will complete fifty years of service as a Pythian on June 18, 1933. His lodge is now preparing to celebrate the event and the Escanaba lodge will join in the occasion.
