

CONVICTS FIRE NEW ILLINOIS PRISON

NO OPPOSITION TO HOOVER AS 1932 NOMINEE

NEWSPAPER WRITER WILL BE USEFUL AS SECRETARY

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, March 18.—The appointment of Ted Joslin, Washington correspondent, as one of the three secretaries to President Hoover, was somewhat unexpected because it had been believed that the president would choose a member of Congress or a political leader.

Needs a Politician

Mr. Joslin is well qualified for the contact with the press because of his long experience and background. But it had been assumed in many quarters that when Mr. Akerson resigned to go into the motion picture business the president would select a politician to more or less take charge of the nomination strategy.

Stand Off Wets

There is no reason of course why Mr. Joslin, the new secretary, shouldn't try his hand at political maneuvering too. Certainly in the next twelve months it will be necessary to keep the federal office holders lined up against any possible invasion from the wet group who are just at the moment inclined to build up an opposition to the republican National Convention especially if Mr. Hoover does not modify his stand in prohibition. It is significant on the other hand that no opposition is even on the horizon.

Senator Borah and Hoover Have Talk

Washington, March 18 (AP)—A bumper crop of speculation sprang up today on Capitol Hill in the wake of a lengthy luncheon conference between President Hoover and Senator Borah.

Domestic and foreign questions were discussed but neither Borah nor the White House would comment. Borah attended the luncheon at the invitation of President Hoover.

The Idaho Republican independent, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, was one of Mr. Hoover's warmest supporters during the 1928 campaign. Later, however, he bolted the administration on such issues as the tariff and farm relief.

This was the first time Borah had talked with the president for several months. Speculation immediately arose as to whether the conference had any connection with the 1932 presidential campaign or the recent meeting of progressives at which Borah took a prominent part.

"All students were very much interested in the contests," declares Hazel I. Canfield, teacher of the St. Nicholas school. "I am very glad we entered the Spelling Bee. It certainly has aroused interest in spelling and helped those who were poor in this subject. Thank you very much for the Iowa Speller sent us sometime ago."

Wallace Dairyman Is Honored Guest at Dairy Congress

Carl P. Hansen, of Wallace, Menominee county, will be the honored guest of the fourth annual Tri-State dairy congress in Duluth, Friday, March 20.

Mr. Hansen is the only dairy farmer in Greater Cleveland, comprising the territory in northern Michigan, northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota, to hold the high record in the medium sized herd class for three successive years. He will be presented at the congress with a gold medal given by the American Jersey cattle club, and with a special trophy provided by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

"Mr. Hansen's achievement is an honor to Michigan and well worth commemorating," said George E. Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. "His herd has averaged 475 pounds of butterfat for three consecutive years. When we consider that the average Greater Cleveland production is 165 pounds per year, it is plain that he has attained a very high standard."

"Mr. Hansen is not looking for prosperity to come later on. He is enjoying it now, through the profits secured in efficient dairying and dairy herd improvement association work."

Large Crowd of Farmers Attend Birthday Party

Newberry, March 18. (Special). The largest meeting of farmers held in this locality in recent years convened at the community building in Newberry on Tuesday when about 300 accepted the invitation of Sidney Foster, local farm implement dealer. The event was in celebration of the centennial of the invention of the McCormack reaper and was under the auspices of the International Harvester company.

Herman Kohtola, field manager for the company in the Green Bay division and John Nooning, advertising manager, gave talks in connection with several fine movie reels showing their machines in actual service in the field and the upkeep service given their products. Mr. Olson, field representative of the American Agriculture Chemical Company, was also present at the invitation of Mr. Foster, and spoke on the use and value of commercial fertilizers.

C. P. West, Luce farm agent, talked on "Why Some Farms Succeed" giving his experiences of years both as a farmer and as a county agent.

Dinner was served at noon in the community dining room. Farmers and their families came from all over this end of the peninsula, Rappinville and Gernafsk being especially well represented.

MRS. McLEOD RE-ELECTED

Mrs. D. N. McLeod was on Tuesday afternoon re-elected for the fourteenth consecutive year as president of the Luce County Health Organization at their regular meeting held in the office of the county nurse in the community building. Mrs. Andrew Westin is vice president. Mrs. E. Shaw secretary and Miss Eva Buermann treasurer.

Plans for two clinics were discussed. The chest clinic, a semi-annual affair, together with the Early Diagnosis campaign will be held on April 1st and 2nd.

Dr. Towery of Pinecrest Sanatorium will conduct the clinic, this making the tenth year this physician has given Luce county this service. A committee composed of Mrs. W. G. Frets and Mrs. Andrew Westin, will look after the bill board publicity.

A crippled children clinic under the direction of Mrs. Esther Martin of the state Crippled Children's Commission will be held sometime in June, according to a communication from the field director to Miss Shallon, county nurse. The state program for these clinics is as follows: Coldwater, May 14; Charlevoix, May 21; Alpena, June 1 and 2; Sault, June 8; Escanaba, June 15; Alma, June 18. It is hoped to hold the Newberry clinic between the Escanaba and Soo dates.

Lists furnished by the state commission and compiled from previous clinics and from census returns, show 29 names of children coming under the direction of the clinic. Of this number several are from Mackinaw and Schoolcraft counties and these will be cared for in their own territory where health work has been recently established. Of the 29 there are 20 who have either been treated or are now under supervision. Of the nine remaining one or two have been refused help by their families, one or two are complicated with mental conditions, and several are of such a nature that the patient is not especially handicapped. It is expected, however, that there will be several others who have come into the county lately who will be present at the clinic.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

FIVE million modern mothers will tell you that children DO cry for Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers always give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tiny tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless, irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant—yet it is effective for children in their teens. You never have to coax children to take Castoria; they love its taste. Be ready for the next case of sour stomach, constipation, or other need for Castoria. When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

MUST RAISE FEEDS

FARMERS of the state must raise more of their own feeds if they are to realize a favorable income from their farm products. This fact was brought out in the discussion of the general agricultural situation by R. V. Gunn, agricultural statistician of Michigan State College, before farmers and business men here on Tuesday.

This advice, in fact, is just what County Agent Joseph E. Turner and other members of the extension staff of State College, have been giving to farmers of the upper peninsula for several years, and its importance has been given added emphasis during the past twelve months.

With the decline of prices of dairy and poultry products incident to the business depression, our farmers no longer can bear such high feeding costs profitably. To raise his own feeds means the exertion of extra effort on the part of the farmer, but it has been always so with the farmer. He must work hard for long hours in order to attain success.

65 YEARS AT ONE TASK FOR 65 years Sarah Thompson of Hendrysburg, O., has been piecing together bright squares of cloth to make a quilt. Now the quilt is finished.

Sarah was 10 years old when she began cutting and sewing together the bright colored squares of cloth. The quilt was designed for her hope chest. Back in the 1860's, sewing for a hope chest was the proper occupation for all young girls. They learned thus to make neat, even stitches and to take a sober, practical view of the future.

It was an ambitious pattern which Sarah Thompson chose for her quilt—a handsome pattern. There were times as the months and years passed when Sarah sewed diligently and other times when the work was neglected. Gradually time passed and it became evident that the quilt was not to take its place in a bride's hope chest. Miss Thompson never married.

Sixty-five years is a long time to devote to a single task. The 65-year-old quilt takes on the character of a life work. Ever since childhood the aged woman has had before her as a goal the day when her ambitious quilt should be completed.

Now the time has come. Sixty-five years of sewing bright colored scraps of cloth together are at an end. It is almost certain that the quilt maker will find something missing from her life now that the task is finished. Other men and women who have undertaken long drawn out objectives have felt the same. It is an ancient truth again demonstrated. Work, against which the human family is inclined to rail so often, takes on the glamour of a privilege once the worker is deprived of it.

WHAT! SQUARE PIES? MANUFACTURERS of round pie tins are worried. Not long ago a little Scotch lassie, working in a Philadelphia bakery, hit upon the idea of baking pies in square pans. And the idea is catching on in that city.

new model, too, is likely to have more crust than filling. So how are you going to vote on the question?

OLD AGE PENSIONS The measure providing for old age pensions in Kansas lacked one vote of passing the house of representatives. It would have attracted a similarly large vote in the senate. At the next biennium or the next, the old age pension measure will become a law.

This is another altruistic measure that is spreading over the United States. Before the end of this decade old age pensions will be established by the American states almost universally except in the South where the negro problem, as always in measures looking to social betterment, is a block across the path of progress.

Little by little and slowly Americans are coming to some approximate financial and social equality. The gap between the poorest and the richest today is somewhat a matter of bookkeeping and the arrangement of ciphers—mere ciphers—on the right hand side of the wealth account. Today the children of the rich and the poor go to the same schools, are protected alike in their health, enjoy the same books at public expense and hear the same music. Unless they are most miserably poor all the people in any community take water out of the same tap, light off the same wire, live in something the same kind of houses, the difference being in the number of rooms and chairs and beds and not in the actual comfort thereof and all smoke the same cigarettes which they should not smoke at all, and start life on the same breakfast food and coffee, and touch each other at a thousand points of equality in their day's work.

The terror of want in old age still is one of the few terrors that mark the fundamental approximate equality of the rich and poor in America. In ten years that difference will fade out and will be gone.—Emporia Gazette.

JIM THORPE—DITCH DIGGER SOMEHOW you can't help admiring Jim Thorpe.

Once the greatest athlete in the world, Jim was discovered the other day out in Los Angeles, a common laborer, swinging pick and shovel in a ditch.

In football, baseball, and track and field sports, none was greater than Thorpe in his day. Money came easy after he turned his talents to professional sport. But the money dwindled away.

Many men of the world sports, when their hey-day of quick, easy money passes, continue to seek money in some sort of cheap racket or near-racket, rather than work. The habit of easy-come, easy-go is too hard to break. They never amount to anything after that one brief moment of sporting triumph. They have forgotten, or have never learned, how to work.

But not Jim Thorpe. When need came, Jim rolled up his sleeves and took a pick in his hand. And he's been supporting a wife and two fine kids on his earnings. He doesn't earn much, but it's honest money. Many opportunities must have come to Thorpe to get money in devious ways, trading the last rags of his great name to some cheap racketeer, bootlegger, or film-flam promoter. But Jim digs with his hands instead.

A man who can do that must have stuff in him. Jim Thorpe deserves a break.

The best of motorists, unfortunately, often take turns for the worse.

Men who think, says a noted physician, are more likely to get sick than those who don't. We've noticed that motorists have been looking rather hearty of late.

LA SALLE'S ASSASSINATION

On March 19, 1687, Rene La Salle, the greatest of the French explorers, was shot by two of his followers while exploring the Mississippi.

La Salle came to America at the age of 23 and became a trader in furs and the possessor of a tract of land in Canada. After a voyage of exploration from Lake Erie to Lake Superior and down the Mississippi, he took possession of the land around the Gulf of Mexico, called it Louisiana in honor of France to get men and means to colonize it.

On his return, La Salle failed again to find the Mississippi, and wandered from place to place until nearly all his followers were dead. At last, giving up hope of reaching the land he was seeking, he set out for Canada with a small company in 1687. On the way, two of his men shot him.

La Salle was the discoverer of the Ohio and the first explorer of the greater part of the Mississippi river.

Only by seeing the United States in its immensity can one judge how powerful and wonderful a nation she really is.

MAD MARRIAGE

(By NEA Service) By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XIII It was plain from Wallace's manner that what he had to say was important.

"It's about my family," he said. "I'd rather tell you myself than have you hear it from anyone else."

Gypsy waited. Her heart was beating rapidly. There was nothing that she could think of to say.

"Last night," went on Wallace. "I told you I'd lived with my aunt ever since I was a kid. Aunt Ellen was my father's sister. She never married. I was 12 when my mother died. Pneumonia. She was sick less than a week with it. Father was away on a business trip and he didn't get home in time. When he did—I guess it was rather terrible. They'd never been separated before for more than a day or two in all the time they were married. Well, two weeks later Father shot himself."

Gypsy's shocked "Oh-h!" was involuntary. The exclamation was out before she could stifle it. Wallace was watching her.

"Most people," he said, "seem to think it's sort of a disgrace. That's why I wanted to tell you myself. Somehow I can't think of it that way. To me it's grown to be beautiful."

Gypsy nodded slowly. He could barely hear her words. "He must have been awfully fond of her!" she said. "He must have loved her."

"He left a note. I think Aunt Ellen has it yet. All it said was that he couldn't live without her where alone. Of course I didn't understand at the time. Tough for a kid to lose both parents but Aunt Ellen did everything anyone could to make up for a father and mother both."

Gypsy put out one hand and laid it on Wallace's arm. "I'm glad you told me," she said. "Jim Wallace looked out the window after that and the girl had no way of knowing what he might be thinking. He turned his head again when she spoke."

"Your Aunt Ellen—" Gypsy began. "Do you think she'll like me?" An uncomfortable premonition was stirring at the girl's heart.

"Of course she will," Wallace assured her with bland masculinity.

Health Tips

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

For years the impression has prevailed that sunlight is of great advantage in tuberculosis.

More than 100 years ago it was customary for people with tuberculosis in Great Britain to go to the sunny sections of France and Italy in order to prolong their lives.

Within the present quarter of a century, Dr. A. Rollier of Switzerland established definitely the advantage of sunlight and outdoor air in the treatment of tuberculosis of the bones and joints.

Recently, investigators have been checking the effects of the climate, and now Sir Henry Gauvain claims that it is possible to get just as good results in tuberculosis of the bones and joints in England as in the sunny Swiss Alps.

Apparently it is not so much the continuous exposure to the sun that is important as the stimulus to the production of the heat by the body as the result of exposure to outdoor air combined with sunlight, at least for some portion of the day.

One of the hospitals in England devoted particularly to the case of tuberculosis of the bones and joints in children has just made a report indicating that results were secured in England just as good as those secured in Rollier in Switzerland.

As part of the treatment, patients are given graduated sea bathing and outdoor sunlight, and if outdoor sunlight is not available, they are given treatment with artificial sources of ultra-violet rays. In addition, the patients are submitted to the stimulus of climatic change and, of course, they get the benefit of sunlight. Moreover, the period in the hospital is used to teach these patients various handicrafts and occupations and the opportunity is used to give them the advantage of modern reconstructive and plastic surgery in order to improve the functional action of the crippled limbs.

Such surgery employs both grafts and the transfer of skin, which, when performed by competent masters of the surgical art, yields excellent results. Among cases treated in the British hospital there were 34 cases of spinal disease, 52 disease of the hip, 21 of disease of the knee and 69 of tuberculosis in other parts of the body.

The study of this condition has been persistent, and today the child with tuberculosis of the bones or joints has a considerable opportunity of securing a satisfactory cure of his condition, and sufficient function to practice a useful means of securing a livelihood.

Apparently it is not so much the continuous exposure to the sun that is important as the stimulus to the production of the heat by the body as the result of exposure to outdoor air combined with sunlight, at least for some portion of the day.

One of the hospitals in England devoted particularly to the case of tuberculosis of the bones and joints in children has just made a report indicating that results were secured in England just as good as those secured in Rollier in Switzerland.

As part of the treatment, patients are given graduated sea bathing and outdoor sunlight, and if outdoor sunlight is not available, they are given treatment with artificial sources of ultra-violet rays. In addition, the patients are submitted to the stimulus of climatic change and, of course, they get the benefit of sunlight. Moreover, the period in the hospital is used to teach these patients various handicrafts and occupations and the opportunity is used to give them the advantage of modern reconstructive and plastic surgery in order to improve the functional action of the crippled limbs.

Such surgery employs both grafts and the transfer of skin, which, when performed by competent masters of the surgical art, yields excellent results. Among cases treated in the British hospital there were 34 cases of spinal disease, 52 disease of the hip, 21 of disease of the knee and 69 of tuberculosis in other parts of the body.

The study of this condition has been persistent, and today the child with tuberculosis of the bones or joints has a considerable opportunity of securing a satisfactory cure of his condition, and sufficient function to practice a useful means of securing a livelihood.

MAYOR JIMMY WALKER NOW UNDER FIRE

tute for Public Service claiming to represent 6,000,000 "injured" citizens, charged that during the first three and a half years of office he had been guilty of "prodigiously wasteful neglect, inefficiency, broken pledges, false official publicity, preventable delays, mispending, overtaxing, unfair assessing, and the encouragement of graft and violation of law." There were 26 specific charges.

Jimmy Walker has said that "there is nothing so disarming to a critic as to be ignored." Anyway, he did just that, and the critics were disarmed. He remained the Jazz Mayor, Jimmy the Jester, New York's Ambassador to the World, Mayor-at-Large, Lord Mayor of Gotham and, to most of those 6,000,000 "injured" citizens, "good old Jimmy."

No Break in Routine Never has he permitted disapprobation to interfere with his peculiar routine. He has continued to prowl the bright spots at night, to go late to his office, to break important official appointments without apology, and to dash hurriedly through transactions of city business of such moment that a wrong decision would mean the loss of millions of dollars. He is conscientious about presiding at important board meetings, where his wit and authority are given full play. But he usually is willing to leave an important conference to greet some bedraggled youth who has pushed a peanut across the continent to the steps of City Hall.

If Jimmy Walker chose to answer his critics he could, no doubt, point out that nearly all of his vacations have been taken at the same time each year, and that his present one was delayed for some time against his doctors' orders. He also could challenge his enemies to name any period during his two terms of office when a vacation would not have provided escape from some sort of scandal.

His administration has been expensive beyond any other on record, costing some $570,000,000 annually. Yet the Mayor has made no particular pretense of economy. "If we're going to improve this city," he said, "we've got to pay for it." With no definite idea of how they were to be financed, he has initiated vast projects, such as $300,000,000 for schools, $600,000,000 for subways.

He Acts Quickly With the apparent snap judgment that characterizes everything he does, he one day visited one ward of one hospital, found it "unfit for dogs," and forced an appropriation of $15,000,000 for the rehabilitation of all city hospitals. He took a ride through Central Park, went back to City Hall and sandbagged the Board of Estimate with a $1,000,000 appropriation to improve it.

All this is good "theater," and Jimmy Walker, frustrated in an early ambition to be an actor, is playing the leading role. More than once he has been officially reprimanded for his flagrant tardiness, and his happy-go-lucky attitude in general is conceded to have been the main reason for his break with Alfred E. Smith, Newspaperman know that Smith has cooled his heels for hours in his honor's office while Jimmy himself caught up on his sleep lost during a round of dinners and parties the night before.

"Let 'em wait," said Mayor Walker—though he could not have been thinking of Smith—"and they'll like you better when you get there." Again: "It isn't the one who always gets there on time; it's the boy who fixes things up right when he does arrive."

Depends on Friends He never has tried to make a secret of the fact that he leans heavily on his friends and subordinates and Tammany Hall. John F. Curry, Tammany chief and friend, sent his most trusted friend and advisor to City Hall to be the Mayor's private secretary, Charles F. Kerrigan, one-time newspaperman who now bears the title of "Assistant to the Mayor," shoulders masses of detail. On their advice are based many of his decisions. Another thing that irked Al Smith was this blind trust, particularly in the matter of appointments, such as magistrates, without personal investigation.

A year ago the Mayor broke all his personal precedents to admit that there "might be some waste, graft and incapability in the various city departments," and directed an inquiry into them. Nothing happened. Questioned about charges that he allowed police to encourage and exploit speakases he said: "Yes, I'm told there are about 30,000 speakases. And what of it?" Jimmy Walker is not averse to being waited upon by delegations of citizens. He has even received communists. Such encounters permit him the verbal fencing at which he excels. Committeemen go to City Hall expecting to state their grievances, remain to let him do all the talking, and are ushered out with heads so full of high-sounding earnestness and sentiment that they are half-way home before they realize that he has made no promises and has said, in fact, almost nothing at all.

At board meetings His Honor has a joke for one, a witty saying for another, and apparently righteous indignation for department heads who want increased appropriations. He never admits ignorance of a subject, and generally makes good his bluff. "More or Less Shocked?" But not always. Once when a suggestion was made that a dietitian be employed for the public schools, he held forth for several minutes on the "absurdity" of the proposal. "One dietitian for all those children?" exclaimed the Mayor. "Why, I've been to dozens of dietitians and they can't tell what's wrong with me." Nobody dared tell the speaker that what he meant were diagnostics.

With the disclosures of misconduct on the parts of some city magistrates, and the exposure of a vice ring involving police and minor court officials, Mayor Walker expressed himself as being "more or less shocked." When the legislature began considering a sweeping investigation of the city government, and the District Attorney was cited for trial, and a woman witness in the vice inquiry was defiantly murdered, the city's chief executive left for Palm Springs, Cal., where he is within easy motoring distance of the bright lights of Hollywood and the race tracks of Angua Caliente.

But not even Jimmy Walker's enemies consider this an act of moral cowardice. Political expediency it may be, or colossal indifference. But they know too much of the Mayor's career to lack respect for his sagacity and nerve.

NEXT: The rise of Jimmy Walker.

Escanaba Council Meeting Postponed

Due to the absence of members of the council, the regular meeting of the Escanaba city council scheduled for tonight has been deferred to next week, probably Wednesday.

The council is making a study of the advantages of the several alternate proposals for a new sewage disposal plant as presented by a municipal engineering firm, following a study of the local situation. After the type of plant suitable to Escanaba and the most advantageous site are decided upon, a special election will be ordered, and the question of issuing bonds for the construction of a plant will be placed before the voters. The special election will probably be in May.

Director Gives Interesting Talk On Value of Play

Speaking on the subject, "Why People Play," Professor Elmer D. Mitchell, associate professor of Physical Education and director of Intramural Sports, University of Michigan, delivered an intensely interesting lecture on the origin and development of play Wednesday afternoon before members of the Escanaba Woman's Club at their regular meeting in the First Presbyterian auditorium.

In his introduction Professor Mitchell spoke of the many meanings of play, which was formerly thought of as aimless, frivolous activity. "In the early days of history there was so much to do in a twelve hour day that there was no time for play," the speaker said. "The eight hour, six hour and four hour day, however, are bringing about changes, until the new definition of the word play, accepted by educators is 'activity' which gives its own rewards."

He spoke of the four different attitudes toward an activity, drudgery, work, play and recreation, and declared that the most fortunate person is one such as Edison or Jane Addams whose work is play. "Why do people play?" he asked. "Schiller, the German poet, and Herbert Spencer hit on the idea that the reason is surplus energy and play is a safety valve for this energy. Still, how explain the desire for play by convalescents or half-starved children? Another German philosopher, Gross, said, 'We play as preparation for life.' His theory is attacked by Watson, the behaviorist today, who says it is necessary to give people certain skills before they enjoy certain play, and play, therefore, is not instinctive. G. Stanley Hall advances the theory of recapitulation, each individual goes through all the experiences of the race, a theory which is now entirely abandoned, and the fourth theory is the recreation theory. This may look like a reversal and contradiction of the first—we play when we are tired—but this means when we are mentally tired. Freud's theory is a compensation theory—in play we find satisfaction."

Developments "Developments in the play life in America date back to Boston in the year 1836, when a charitable person who saw children using their imaginations about playing at the sea side, had a sand box put back of the settlement house in which they lived. In 1839 Boston opened an open air gym; in 1895 Jane Addams opened her playground at Hull House; in 1899, New York made contribution and opened ten school playgrounds supported by public money; in 1905 Chicago opened the great South Side playground with its field house and other equipment; in 1906 the National Playground Association was formed in New York for the purpose of helping with problems, sending out field workers and the like; in 1909-10, Gary's new type of platoon education was adopted, which calls for school houses fitted like the field houses of Chicago, preventing duplication of expense; 1910-15 saw the beginning of Boy and Girl Scouts and boys' camps; in 1916 a law was passed in Michigan making physical education compulsory and creating the need for trained leaders.

"More humorous aspects of play in Michigan," he continued, "tell of 1860 when physical culture was linked with the fine arts, especially in girls' schools and the superintendent of public instruction sent out sets of exercises to be used in all schools; of Hillsdale college's first gym, built in 1886, forty by sixty feet, and costing $3,000; of Albion college's first gym, built in 1892, at which time its catalog said 'no palaces to be seen on our campus'; of Albion college's first gym, forty by eighty feet, in 1896; the University of Michigan's request for a gym in 1870 which was refused.

"Athletics grew up among school boys," he said in conclusion, "and are called by President Little the one great contribution of the students to education. Their importance was fully recognized when the Michigan Educational Association voted to take athletics into the curriculum."

Slides were used by Professor Mitchell to show the entire athletic plant of the university.

Group of Songs Music of the program was a group of songs, beautifully sung by Oliver Thatcher, "For You Alone," (O'Reilly), "Uncle Rome," (Homer) and "A Cowboy's Requiem."

Mrs. Fred Leighton was chairman of the afternoon.

Today's Bridge

BY EDWARD C. WOLFE Member of the National Championship Auction Team To strip opponents hand or to squeeze him, that is the question today.

Table with columns for WEST, EAST, NORTH-DEALER, and SOUTH, listing card counts and suits.

The hand for today was taken from Mr. Milton C. Works' collection of interesting hands and was utilized by him to illustrate the principle of elimination.

In order to successfully perform the operation of elimination upon your adversaries, three conditions are necessary.

1. The declarer must be able to win all but one of the remaining tricks. 2. At the 11th trick, the declarer must be able to play a winning card from one hand and at that time have an entry card in the other. 3. The declarer must hold in either one of his two hands a card which is the second highest remaining in that suit.

That this deal should be played at hearts cannot be questioned. The hand was submitted in the contest as an illustration of either the squeeze or the stripping play. To my mind, however, it more naturally lends itself to the squeeze. The theory of the stripping play is to strip the hands of certain suits and force opponent to lead the one desired. That is usually accomplished by drawing opponents' trumps and leaving at least one in dummy and also in closed hand.

In either event the play starts with three rounds of diamonds. Note that the dummy is now left with a losing diamond. Immediately the adversaries' trumps are drawn and in the stripping process West leads that losing diamond which East trumps. On the lead of the third club, South is forced into the lead, and compelled to open spades up to East's major tenace. That looks easy, and scores game successfully, but only because South holds the queen, jack and 10 of clubs and cannot escape the lead at the fatal moment. Let's see the other side of the picture! Cannot that small diamond in West's hand be kept to

Glorifying Yourself

By Alicia Hart I have heard women rejoice because corsets are in again and they can have a restrained figure and still be in style.

Don't be fooled that way. No corseted figure on earth ever deceived any one into thinking a woman was beautifully and girlishly slender. There is no denying they improve your appearance, often, but usually there is a rigidity that is not to be confused with pliable, lithe, free figures.

After you have limbered up your waistline and become conscious once more that there are muscles there, instead of just an extra tire of a roll of fat, begin on the following abdominal muscle exercises, because the slenderness of your waistline depends on the strength of these muscles. 1. After relaxing by just flopping the body this way and that, lie down on the floor. Begin the leg and arm stretch which is done this way: Stretch out full length, on your back, wriggle around on your spine a bit to get more relaxed and then roll onto one side, and stretch the leg and force South into fatal discards? If the squeeze is to be applied, the first eight tricks can be accounted for by East by leading out all the trumps. East will then have left his spades and clubs, commanding each. South, forced to hold his diamond against West's threat, will have room for only four other cards. Apply the squeeze, and South is forced to unguard his clubs or spades, or discard his good diamond. In any one of the three cases, he is fatally hurt. If he attempts to protect his spade he is stripped of his two remaining clubs, thrown in with the diamond and comes a cropper by having to lead his spades at the close.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

John Gilbert is starred in "Gentleman's Fate," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, which will be shown today at the Delft Theatre for two days.

This is Gilbert's fourth talking picture and in it he negotiates a role combining the romanticism of his silent film triumphs with the dashy type of characterization so popular in sound pictures.

In his film, Gilbert again wears his mustache and immaculate clothes, although his role is that of a gangster who, despite gentlemanly rearing, reverts to the blood of his family when a crisis arises.

Although this is a gangster film, adapted from a story by Ursula Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife" and other best sellers, it departs considerably from the gangster narratives so familiar today. It has nothing whatever to do with Chicago. Indeed, the locale is in Jersey City and the plot is so fresh and novel that it seems entirely separated from any other relatively with underworld plots.

It concerns itself only with the feuds of gangsters among themselves and bears little, if any, "reassurance upon the gangster situation as affecting society in the accepted phase.

In this daring film, Gilbert has two leading ladies, Lella Hyams and Anita Page, the former the girl he wanted to wed but couldn't because of circumstances; the latter the girl he married as a mocking gesture to the love that all but died in his heart. Miss Hyams last played opposite Gilbert in "Way For a Sailor" and Miss Page's last appearance was in "The Eastest Way."

"In my view perjury could never have been more rude than it is at the present time," said Justice McCardie, a prominent English legal light, in London recently.

was the ruddiness that goes with bright blue eyes and with flaxen hair. Twice that morning Jim had surprised her with a quick, flashing smile that was like sunlight on steel. The smile had completely transformed him. Most of the time, however, he was sober-faced, and the eyes held a look which Gypsy could not understand.

She noticed for the first time that Wallace's chin might have been modeled from the figure of an athlete in a Grecian frieze. Strong. Splendid. Firm. She liked the well-tailored, careless look of his clothes. Gypsy heaved a tiny sigh. Her husband!

Now Wallace was frowning over the menu. "What would you like?" he asked. "Any suggestions?"

"I'm not very hungry," Gypsy admitted. "Do you go to eat. I didn't have much breakfast myself. How would you like to start with oysters?"

She might have informed him that her own breakfast had been exactly one cup of black coffee but she did not. "I'd rather have fruit," was what she answered. "Is there grapefruit?"

Yes, there was grapefruit. Wallace ordered blue points for himself. After that they had chops and a salad of vegetables and Gypsy chose ice cream for dessert and her husband ate a large wedge-shaped portion of apple pie.

They were having the dessert when Gypsy smiled across at him. "Here," she said, cutting into halves the tiny square of cake that was served with her ice cream. "You must eat half. It's the wedding cake."

Wallace flushed. "Not much of a party, I guess, is it?" he said. "We'll have to make up for it when we get home. Have a fancy party with one of those dancy cakes two feet high—"

Gypsy shook her head. "I'd rather not," she said. "I like this way better." She held the plate for him to take his half of the bit of cake with its hard, dry icing. It was not very good cake but each of them ate it. They had coffee and then went back to the other car.

It was a long afternoon. There were a dozen things about the new life in Forest City that Gypsy would have liked to ask about but she was hesitant. She wanted to know about the house. All he had told her was that his grandfather had built it and three generations of Wallaces had lived there. She wondered about his friends. They would come to call on her she supposed. Gypsy had heard that people in small cities were neighborly, always "dropping in" in friendly fashion. It was a little frightening.

She gazed out the window for long periods at a time, staring at the countryside. Often they passed through towns without stopping. Did the little towns feel slighted, Gypsy wondered? Wallace had met a man in the club car who knew one of his clients. He came back to Gypsy, mentioning the fact. She told him she did not mind being alone and soon he was gone again.

Now it was four o'clock. Two and a half hours and they would be in Forest City.

"Another hour and Alan will be leaving the office," Gypsy thought to herself. "What is he going to do tonight? Why does it make any difference to me? He said he was going to paint Mrs. Langley's picture. That's where he'll be, of course. If he should telephone Mrs. O'Hare's they'd tell him— but he won't! I know he won't telephone! Some day he'll find out, though. Some day he's sure to know about it!"

She thought about writing a letter to Jean Foster at the office and while she was thinking about it had the grace to blush. It was only because she was groping for some way to reach Alan that she had considered writing to Jean. Had she forgotten that she was married?

Gypsy turned away from the car window. It was the flying telephone poles, the flying houses and towns that had inspired such thoughts. The landscape seemed to jeer back at her: "You're running away—but you can't! You're running away but your thoughts won't let you!"

If only there was something she could do. Gypsy looked down at the purse in her lap, mechanically opened it and drew out the red enamel vanity case. She snapped the lid back and inspected herself in the mirror. Her reflection was not flattering. Gypsy patted powder on her nose and chin until the shine was gone. Then she reddened her mouth with lipstick, smoothing it with her little finger to make it even. She was trying to get her hair into order when the magazine in her lap fell to the floor.

"Let me set it for you!"

The young man in gray who had been walking through the car smiled as he returned the magazine.

"Thank you." Gypsy's tone was cool and dignified.

The young man hesitated, apparently thought better of it and went on disappearing through the car door.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce. I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—try one bottle and if not joyful, May all large people, both men and women who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Store, Escanaba, Gladstone Art, G. E. Dehlin or any drugstore in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—try one bottle and if not joyful, May all large people, both men and women who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone.

TALKS ON NEW SPORT PROGRAM

Prof. Elmer D. Mitchell, assistant professor of physical education at the University of Michigan and director of intramural sports, delivered an interesting address to a joint meeting of the Rotary and Chamber of Commerce organizations Tuesday evening on the subject of "Athletics and the Community Spirit." His talk was supplemented by stereopticon slides and motion pictures showing athletic facilities at the University of Michigan and intramural competition afforded in various sports.

"Athletics form the hub of many college activities and are as old as the human race itself," declared Prof. Mitchell in opening his address. "The present tendency of sports programs in colleges is toward having all students participate in some form of athletics instead of centering attention upon those who are skillful and adept at certain games. More and more interest is now being taken in minor sports such as tennis, volleyball, fencing, soccer, etc. The array of various games which are now available for students cannot help but secure the interest of all students in some branch of sport."

With the participation of all students, both men and women, in some branch of sport, increased managerial duties have increased upon universities and colleges, said Prof. Mitchell. Athletics are only as good as their supervision, he declared, and hence great efforts have been made in this line. Students, designated as student managers, take over the handling of the minor details such as making out schedules, taking care of equipment, securing officials to handle the contests, etc., and are rewarded for their work by receiving "letters."

Prof. Mitchell revealed in his talk the immensity of the athletic program carried on at the university which few people in his audience had ever realized. Tuesday afternoon Prof. Mitchell gave an interesting address on "Why People Play" to the Manistique Women's Club.

LOCAL PASTOR TO LEAVE CITY

Rev. C. M. Muilenburg to Have Charge of Church at Lansing

Rev. Cornelius M. Muilenburg, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, has accepted a call to take charge of the Westminster church at Lansing. His resignation here was accepted by the church with much regret. Passage of the transfer by the Presbytery is expected in the near future.

It is believed that Rev. Muilenburg will remain here until after the Easter holidays as the session has asked permission for him to deliver an Easter sermon here. He has served as pastor of the local church for the past four years.

Rev. Muilenburg had established a reputation as being one of the leading pastors of the upper peninsula and was extremely well liked by his congregation. His success here paved the way for his latest undertaking. The congregation was loath to lose his services, but was not inclined to stand in the way of this well-deserved promotion.

Besides being an orator of remarkable ability, Rev. Muilenburg had attained prominence as a writer. Several of his fiction articles ranked on a par with those of the greatest short story writers in the country.

Ford Expansion Program Impressive; New Fleet Lake Barges Being Built

Plans for the expansion of Henry Ford's vast industrial empire are going forward this year with a speed that is impressive even in Detroit where Ford exploits are ordinarily accepted with calm. First came the announcement that Ford was preparing to install the world's largest steel furnace at his River Rouge plant. Then came the announcement of E. G. Kingsford, Iron Mountain, Upper Peninsula Ford representative, that Gladstone had been selected as the site for a new industrial development and now during the past week it has been learned that Ford is building the first units of a fleet of specially constructed motor barges of large capacity, capable of navigating the Great Lakes but shallow enough to use the New York State and Chicago Drainage Canals.

The 400-ton electrically titled open hearth furnace, which Ford has ordered from the Pennsylvania Engineering Works, New Castle, Pa., will be used for melting old cars which the Dearborn plant is now dismantling at the rate of some 300 a day. The furnace, a giant bowl with an overall height of 34 feet, has doors large enough and so arranged that they can take through them a whole automobile after it has gone through the Ford crushing operation. Aside from being the largest steel furnace ever projected, it is unique in being the only one ever designed especially for disposing of junk automobiles. To admit the cars, the big furnace has doors that are 5 1/2 by 8 1/2 feet.

Ford, the pioneer in so many phases of automotive development, is the first manufacturer to attempt solution of the used car problem. It is little more than a year since he announced his plan to buy junk cars for $20 apiece and salvage them. Since the plan was inaugurated 50,000 cars have been scrapped and from these 21,000 tons of steel were recovered. The cars are stripped of all useful material, such as glass, batteries, tires and even floor boards, and are then run into the open hearth building where they are crushed and loaded into skips for the open hearth units. A 100-ton hydraulic shear slices the cars after crushing but, when the furnace is ready, this operation will be unnecessary.

Purchase by the Ford Company of a 175 acre site here, accessible to water transportation, presages important industry activity in the Upper Peninsula. This site is within easy reach of extensive low grade ore properties in Dickinson county, recently purchased by Ford. The belief is that Ford proposes to build a blast furnace, a foundry and, possibly, a glass plant in the Upper Peninsula. Even more promising, however, is the possibility that Ford may erect a plant at Gladstone for the reduction of low grade ore by the William H. Smith process which virtually eliminates the blast furnace. Mr. Smith formerly high ranking executive of the Ford organization, has spent several years working out his process with the assistance of the faculty and students of the University of Detroit.

The Great Lakes Engineering works, Detroit, is building the first two units of a fleet of barges Ford has planned in accordance with his policy of using water transportation wherever possible. According to a statement issued by F. F. Fletcher, Ford traffic manager at Chicago, the barges will be double-deck structures used in delivering finished cars from assembling plants to distributors throughout the eastern half of the country. This fleet will enable Ford to make wide use of both the Erie Canal and the Lakes-Gulf waterway.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and continue until one. The program of dance numbers arranged for the occasion promises to be most pleasing. The program will be dispensed by Charley Johnson and his Wolverines. Several specialties will augment the program.

A. D. Alquire has headed the committee in charge of arrangements. In this work he has been assisted by W. I. Tang, H. W. Turner, A. F. Reddant, S. J. Holman and Yens Peterson.

The dance program:

Onstep—"I've Got Rhythm."
Fox Trot—"Throw Me a Rose."
Waltz—"Moonlight and Roses"
Onstep—"Happy Days Are Here Again."
Fox Trot—"Lady Play Your Mandolin."
Onstep—"Sing Something Simple."
Fox Trot—"Just a Gizmo."
Waltz—"My Wild Irish Rose."
Onstep—"Ladders of Roses."
Circular Two Step—"Selection."
Waltz—"Carolina Moon."
"Down By The Old Mill Stream."

Property Transfer Will be Completed Within Short Time

First perfected abstracts on improved property included in the site selected by Ford for an industrial development were forwarded to Raymond Turner, Ford attorney at Iron Mountain yesterday. City Attorney G. W. Jackson announced yesterday.

These are the first title papers on any of the involved property to be sent to the company. When the abstracts have been approved by the company attorneys, transfer of the property will be completed by forwarding of the specified prices to each of the owners involved.

It is expected that the transfer on some of the property will soon be completed and work of removing the houses will then be got underway.

RIALTO

Brought to the theatregoing public by Radio Pictures, Edna Ferber's epic "Cimarron," at the Rialto Theatre, is even more powerful than the great story, read by millions in America, seems to have walked right out of the pages of the book. Lou Yountis will never be really slain until you see Dix do it. In the most poignant scene of talking picture history, the O-Keefe gambling and sermon episode.

And those stupendous clashes of wills between Yancey and Sabra, as portrayed by Dix and Irene Dunne, should make the original store more than an epic. It becomes an immortal record of those deep psychological differences between American men and women, out of which has arisen the fundamental character of our nation.

Bevenocs and Rangers to Fight It Out Tonight

TITLE OF CITY STAKE IN TILT

Class A Escanaba Teams Meet to Settle City Championship

The Rangers and Bevenocs, two Escanaba Class A cage teams, will pounce upon each other at the Coliseum gymnasium this evening in a game that from every angle appears to be a treat for the fans. The game will settle the city championship and will start at 8:30 o'clock. The Whiz Bangs and the Roughhouses will meet in the 7:30 preliminary.

The storm that has been brewing between the two local teams during the basketball season comes to a whirling climax tonight when the cagers will settle the issue on the basketball court. The battle of words is over. The Escanaba teams have carried their quarrel to many of the peninsula newspapers but all that is forgotten now and the present issue is only: Can the Rangers stop the Bevenocs?

Dope Means Nothing

Backed by a string of victories that stamps them as the outstanding team in the peninsula, the Bevenocs are given the favorite ranking over the Rangers. The Bevenocs have piled out an array of victims that touches the four corners of the peninsula, whereas in contrast, the Rangers have played fewer games and have not enjoyed the success of the industrial boys. All of which, however, means absolutely nothing in tonight's battle. The way the Rangers look at the situation, the folks are as good as the people. The Bevenoc record has not caused a shiver in the Ranger camp.

Coach Leo Brunelle of the Rangers stated:

"We're ready for them. We're not worried. The Bevenocs are a great team and we have respect for their prowess but we're not beaten. The Bevs will get a great surprise in the battle. We've got a good team, too, and what's more, we've got a style of play and a defense which we believe can stop the best that the Bevenocs have to offer."

Even Manager Byrns of the Bevenocs who has successfully predicted many victories for the Bevs this season is skeptical. "The Bevenocs, in view of their season's record, should pull through on top again but there can be no feeling of overconfidence if this is to be done. We've watched the Rangers play this season and they have plenty of power. The Rangers would like to win this game from us more than any other game they have played this season. We realize that fact which means we'll be ready to give everything we've got."

Chambers on Whistle

Monte, veteran Bevenoc center, will not start against the Rangers this evening. It was announced last night. The Bevenoc pivot man has been suffering with a spinal ailment and Manager Byrns decided it would be better to keep him out of tonight's game because of that fact. Charles Byrns will replace him. It was stated, but if the going gets rough, Monte will be quickly sent into the fray. The remainder of the team will be intact with Johnson and Ray Warner, forwards, and Dauber Drazt and Shirley Warner, guards.

The Ranger lineup will consist of Schou or Kholman, center; Schram and Andrews, forwards; and Puckelwartz and Christensen, guards.

Eddie Chambers, of Crystal Falls, will handle the whistle in the main game, assuring fans of a clean, fast game.

A capacity crowd will see the fracas, according to advance indications. Seats, however, will be available for all adults as students will be permitted to take seats until the adults are all seated. Bevenoc season tickets will not be honored at this game as the battle is under the sponsorship of the Escanaba Athletic Association, Ranger organization.

The preliminary between the Whiz Bangs and the Roughhouses is expected to attract considerable attention as each team has taken the measure of the Ramblers, league champions, and the battle should go a long way towards deciding the Class B championship of the city.

CUBS LOSE, 10-9

Los Angeles, March 18 (AP)—Doc Farrell, a Cub cast-out, turned against his old mates today by siding in the ninth inning and giving Los Angeles a 10 to 9 victory in their exhibition game.

The Cubs led 9 to 7 as Los Angeles came to bat in the ninth but the Angels tied the score and then won when Farrell struck a single that let Schulte, another Cub cast-out, trot home.

STATE CAGE TOURNEYS START TONIGHT

The Nut Cracker

BY JOE O'GOFFY

Winter Haven, Fla., March 18—While touring the training camps, seeking morsels of news, I have asked a few of the managers here and there if they needed pitchers, thinking perhaps I might try a comeback.

When I arrived here, I told Burt Shotton, manager of the Phils, that I was a pitcher and he offered me a chance with the Phils. But come to think about it, I guess I don't want to pitch for the Phils, after all. I would rather play the outfield, because any old kind of a bunt in the Baker Bowl at Philly is liable to clear the wall by a good 10 feet.

While on the subject of feet, the Phils' new outfielder, Buzz Arlett, ought to cover the outfield in Philadelphia entirely, and with room to spare. He asked Burt Shotton for a pair of shoes when he arrived here, and after Burt took one look at his dogs, he wired to Philadelphia for a pair of skis.

They are going to take Buzz over to Saratoga some day this week to weigh him at the Ringling circus winter quarters, where they have the kind of equipment necessary. Personally, don't think he weighs much more than Wilbert Robinson or John McGraw, but it will be interesting to find out just what he totals in gross tonnage.

Walker Develops His Brother for Detroit Tigers

San Francisco, Cal., March 18 (AP)—Harvey Walker, recruit outfielder whose performance in exhibition games thus far has made him a favorite for a regular berth with the Detroit Tigers, is devoting all of his spare time to drilling his brother, Gerald, in the hope of pulling him through, too. They have played baseball together through grammar school, high school, college and minor league days and are fighting hard against a separation on the threshold of big league careers. They came to Detroit from Evansville, of the Three-I league.

The wealth of outfield material makes it highly improbable that both will stick and Harvey has proved the most finished performer thus far. Gerald is the youngest, by a year and a half, and at this stage of the training season seems slated for a return to the minors for further seasoning.

Today's game, with the Missions here, was rained out and tomorrow the Tigers meet their first big league opponents of the season in the Pittsburgh Pirates. The game will be played here.

Manager Bucky Harris has picked Tom Bridges, strike-out king of the Three-I league, and Herring, a reserve pitcher last year, as the moundmen. Bridges was with the Tigers part of last season.

Yanks and Babe Ruth Best Club Attraction

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Despite the fact there appears to be at least two stronger units in the American league this year, the ball-busting New York Yankees still manage to rank as the premier attraction of the spring circuit.

"The Yanks are coming," still has its popular appeal. Say what you will about them, that their pitching is weak and their prospects bleak, by vacant chairs are scarce when the Bambino and his playmates come to town. There is no matching them for that intangible something called "teardrop," even though the passing years have removed some of the cogs from the championship machine that was piloted by the late Miller Huggins.

Babe Still Popular
Babe Ruth, now as ever the "strong man" of the troupe, is starting his eighteenth year in the big show, yet he has lost none of his value at the boxoffice. He still "picks 'em in," as the saying goes, and already has autographed enough balls this spring to endow a baseball college.

The whole crew has been banging the ball with gusto, as usual. There is no doubt in McCarthy's mind that he has a club capable of giving the Athletics and Senators a real battle if he gets pitching. Their battling rallies have been a feature of the exhibition series.

DELTA COUNTY HAS 2 ENTRIES

Gladstone and Rock Will Vie for Titles in Cage Meetings

Lansing, Mich., March 18 (AP)—Thirty-two high school basketball teams, survivors of district and regional tournaments, will undergo the test by fire in seven cities Thursday night, as the state finals to determine championships in the four classes get underway.

Agassawac, in class B, and St. Augustine, of Kalamazoo, in class C, are the only defending champions entered in the championship round.

Detroit Northern, holder of the class A title, is not competing because Detroit public schools no longer are members of the state association. Clarksville, last year's class D winner, was defeated in its district tournament this spring.

Far Flung Front.
Negaunee also was defeated in its regional tourney last week, but since the upper peninsula has no class A schools, it was permitted to enter two class B contenders.

So last year's champions will compete with Iron Mountain, its conqueror, for a repetition of last year's honors.

It is a far flung battlefield upon which tournament play will open. Gymnasiums in Lansing, Mt. Pleasant, Ypsilanti, Kalamazoo, Owasco, Grand Rapids and Pontiac will see the action in the elimination round.

Friday night, the semi-finals will be concentrated in Lansing gymnasiums and the champions will be crowned in finals, to be played Saturday night in Demonstration hall, at Lansing.

Thursday night's schedule: (All times eastern standard):
At Pontiac:
Grand Haven vs. Battle Creek (Class A) 9:30 p. m.
Iron Mountain vs. Traverse City (Class B) 7:30 p. m.

Holland Christian vs. Kalamazoo St. Augustine (Class C) 8:30 p. m.
At Owasco:
Pontiac vs. Saginaw (Class A) 8:30 p. m.

St. Clair Shores South Lake vs. Comstock Park (Class D) 7:30 p. m.
At Kalamazoo:
Lansing Central vs. Grand Rapids (Class A) 9:00 p. m.
Grand Rapids Catholic Central vs. St. Joseph (Class B) 8:00 p. m.

At Ypsilanti:
Detroit St. Joseph vs. Negaunee (Class B) 8:00 p. m.
At Mt. Pleasant:
Reed City vs. Saginaw St. Mary's (Class C) 8:00 p. m.

At Lansing:
Alma vs. Coldwater (Class B) 9:00 p. m.
Ann Arbor University vs. Gladstone (Class C) 9:00 p. m.
Detroit St. Leo vs. Charlevoix (Class C) 8:00 p. m.

corps, and he knows that pitching is just as important in the American league. He won't even attempt to predict what his new club will do until he sees how his twirlers stack up.

Pigpas "Out"
A blow to the Yankees' hopes of getting away from a fast start is the illness of George Pigpas, who recently underwent an appendicitis operation. He pitched 30 games last season and had been counted on as the wheelhorse of this year's staff. With him out probably the first month of the campaign, McCarthy will have to start with only five proved twirlers.

Herb Pennock, Henry Johnson, Charles Ruffing, Roy Sherid and Ed Wells. All but Sherid were winners last season, Wells leading the way with 12 victories and three losses. There was not, however, what could be called an "ace" in the bunch. It is such a pitcher, one capable of starting every fourth day with better than an even chance of winning, that McCarthy hopes to uncover from his big list of recruits.

The crop of prospects includes Louis McEvoy, who pitched four games late last season, losing three of them; Paul Andrews, from Birmingham; Frank Barne from Toronto; Walter Brown from Oklahoma City; Vernon Gomez from St. Paul; Gordon Miner from Jersey City; Gordon Rhodes, returned from Hollywood; Jim Weaver, from Baltimore; Phil Weibert from Louisville, and John Allen, a free agent from Jersey City. Weaver, who stands six feet, seven inches, won 19 for Baltimore last year and looks like a good bet.

Gladstone, March 18—Minus the services of their coach, Eldon Kell, the Gladstone High school cage squad, accompanied by Superintendent A. R. Watson, entrained this afternoon for Lansing where they will participate in the state interscholastic basketball tournament being conducted in the lower peninsula Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Coach Kell had been ill during the regional meet and left a sick bed to direct his team's play in the finals last Saturday night. The illness was diagnosed early this week as influenza and on the eve of the squad's departure for Lansing, Kell was suffering with a temperature of 103, which washed away all chances of his accompanying the quint on the jaunt. However, should the local mentor improve sufficiently and the squad come through their opening battle, it is planned to drive Kell to the tourney site so that he may direct play in the other battles.

The men making the trip are Damitz, Jahnske, Cannon, and Kircher, forwards; Skellenger (Capt.), center; Murray, Potvin, Froberg, and Murphy, guards.

Meet Ann Arbor
The Kellmen in their first round battle will meet Ann Arbor University High at the Lansing Eastern gymnasium this evening at nine o'clock, E. S. T. They are in the upper bracket and should they survive the opening round will battle the winner of the Detroit St. Leo vs. Charlevoix game.

Kalamazoo St. Augustine, defending champions, are paired in the lower bracket with Holland Christian. Reed City, doped as one of the strongest quintets in the lower peninsula, are also in the lower bracket.

Gladstone won the upper peninsula Class C title by sweeping both the district and regional meets—and this after suffering five defeats during the regular season. In the district meet they toppled St. Joseph (Escanaba) and Norway, while in the regional tourney held in this city they climbed to the top by victories over Lake Linden, Gwinn and J. D. Pierce (Marquette).

It will be the first time a Gladstone quintet has ever competed for state honors. It is the first time since Kell took over the athletic reins at Gladstone High that he has placed a team in the running for the interscholastic title and then fate intervened to lessen the chances of the local quintet.

What Big Leaguers are Doing in Spring Training Camps

PIRATES LOSE, 2-1
Oakland, Cal., March 18 (AP)—Oakland's Pacific Coast League representatives defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game here today, 2 to 1. There was mighty little hitting on either side during the fray and no extra base swats. The locals gathered four hits and the National Leaguers three. It was the second contest of a series, Pittsburgh having taken the first yesterday.

PHILLIES DROPPED
Winterhaven, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns took the Phillies into camp today, 8 to 5, in eleven innings. Gray started for the Browns and held the Nationals to three runs in the seven innings he worked. Ace Elliott pitched five innings for the Phillies and held the Browns to one run. St. Louis made three in the ninth off Bengt and Stoner and three in the eleventh off Schessler. The Phils tied the score in the ninth with two runs off Stiles, but were hopeless thereafter.

the mound staff, the team will be little changed. Last year's infield of Gehrig, Chapman, Lary and Lazzeri is ready to start again. The veteran Joe Sewell, acquired from Cleveland, is putting up a spectacular fight for the third-basing job, however, and there is a possibility he will get it. If he does, Lazzeri will be hustled back to his old post at second, leaving Chapman for utility.

Ruth and Coffey can be counted upon to take care of two outfield jobs, with Sam Byrd and Allen Cooke, holdovers, scrapping for the third. Myril Hoag from Sacramento looks like a good prospect.

Bill Dickey's big bat assures him first call behind the plate, and the veteran Cy Perkins will be carried as relief. His knowledge of American league batters should be valuable to McCarthy. Jorgens, a holdover, is battling a pair of recruits, Karlon and Padden, for the other place on the staff.

HOMER IN TENTH
Brenham, Texas, March 18 (AP)—Luke Appling's home run in the tenth inning gave the White Sox a 5 to 4 victory over Montreal of the International League in a heavy hitting game today.

Ted Lyons, Sox pitching ace, made his first start of the year and held Montreal to two hits in three innings. His successors, Fraser and Moore, however, were hit hard. The White Sox hammered three Montreal pitchers for 19 hits.

ONE BIG INNING
Bradenton, Fla., March 18 (AP)—One big inning, in which seven runs crossed the plate, was enough to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8 to 5 decision over the New York Yankees and break the American League club's winning streak, which had extended to six games.

The Yanks held a one run margin going into the sixth—the frame in which the National League champions pounded Charlie Ruffing for five hits and seven runs. One of the Cards' ten hits was a home run by Ernie Ostrati.

BURNING PERMIT REDUCES FIRES

The burning permit law, adopted by the State Legislature in 1927 and which required a permit before burning any but domestic fires in the fields or woods, has proved to be probably the most important fire prevention measure ever put in force in Michigan.

This is a view expressed by Howard R. Sayre, chief fire warden, in discussing the various means being taken by the state to reduce its enormous annual loss from forest fires.

Strict enforcement of this burning permit law has resulted in a large reduction in the number of fires caused by brush burning, Sayre said.

Only once since the law has been in force has it been necessary to suspend the issuance of permits. During the period of extreme hazard during the 1930 season—July, August and September—no permits were granted because of the dry condition of the fields and woods.

The burning permit law provides that a permit must be obtained from a conservation officer or township supervisor before starting any woodlands, grass lands, brush or slash fire for the purpose of clearing and improving lands or for preventing other fires.

Marquette to Seek 1932 U. P. Bowling Meet at Gladstone

Marquette, March 18—Marquette bowlers are in the field for the 1932 upper peninsula tournament. It was announced yesterday by Karl Hornbogen, president of the Marquette Businessmen's Bowling League, and A. E. Richards, proprietor of the Elks' alleys.

The 1931 event opens this month in Gladstone, and it is expected that one of the largest delegations in recent bowling history will attend from Marquette. Hornbogen said. Only one other city, Menominee, has announced its intention of seeking the tourney for next year.

It is probable, Hornbogen said, that the 1932 tournament can be brought to Marquette, because Menominee entertained the upper peninsula bowlers three years ago. Hornbogen also pointed out that many years have elapsed since the annual joust was held in this part of the peninsula, the 1930 event being held at Iron Mountain, the 1929 tournament at Hermansville and the 1928 event at Menominee.

Several teams will go to Gladstone from Marquette, all members of the city league, and it is possible that several booster teams will be sent down.

A. F. Sheldon, one of the peninsula's leading bowling enthusiasts, has sounded out sentiment in several cities and reports that Marquette is favored over Menominee for the next meet. Advances from Gladstone are to the same effect.

The last tournament held at Menominee was unsatisfactory, due largely to the heavy entry list of Wisconsin, particularly Milwaukee and Green Bay kegellers, who took a lion's share of the money. The distance to be traveled also is unsatisfactory, bowlers in this district point out, while Marquette is the most centrally located city in the peninsula.

"We have in Marquette accommodations unsurpassed in the peninsula, including good alleys," Hornbogen declared yesterday. "This district and particularly Marquette, is entitled to the tournament and we believe the peninsula's bowlers will award it to us at Gladstone."

Noajoyce Accounts For Seminole Purse

New York, March 18 (AP)—Noajoyce, a speedy but usually non-staying son of Noah from the Honey stable, finally managed to carry his speed six furlongs today to account for the Hotel Seminole purse at St. John's Park, Florida.

Noajoyce was pounds the best of the field, finishing the six panels four lengths in front of O. Torrell's Gilded Arch with P. H. Alchele's Talented Prince third. The winner was well placed, returning $550 for $2.

Tony Pascuma, who came back to the races aboard three winners yesterday, was astride another today. He put River Lee across in the opening number.

The Philippine insular government, with a decrease in revenue of approximately $5,000,000 pesos in 1930, collected $1,000,000 pesos.

RADIO

(Eastern Standard Time Throughout)
New York, March 18. (AP)—Television is beginning to take on more of the appearance of an actuality.

Coupled with the announcement that New York would join Chicago in the presentation of sound and sight broadcasts, came the statement that the 60-line picture standard is to be adopted by a number of eastern stations which now transmit with 48 lines.

Stations in Passaic, N. J., Washington and Boston are to be affected. The change gives 20 percent more detail to the pictures, which are then sent out at the rate of 20 per minute, and there is little or no flicker. Sixty lines are being used in the National Broadcasting company experiments and are to be used by the Columbia Broadcasting system when it gets on the air.

Under the broadcast plan to be put in operation about April 1, WGBS, New York, 254 meters, of the General Broadcasting company, and W2XCR, 147.5 meters, of the Jenkins Television Corporation, are to transmit afternoon and evenings sound and sight program from a common studio on Fifth Avenue. Apparatus is now being installed, with the television transmitter to be put in the studio building. It will use 5,000 watts.

Preliminary tests are to get underway within a week or so, with an elaborate program being arranged for the opening.

With Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia symphony orchestra, directing, the second act of the premiere of the opera "Wozzeck" will be broadcast from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, from 9 to 9:30 p. m., tomorrow by WEAF and coast to coast network.

The half hour will take the place of the Birthday Party, the time for which was donated by Charles Wolley, head of the company which sponsors this program.

Directional microphones known as parabolics, will be used for the pickup, and it is planned to make the broadcast as nearly perfect as facilities permit.

The opera, according to plans being made by Stokowski, is to be one of four he hopes to be able to put on the air. One of these, "Lulu" may possibly be broadcast with the aid of television.

Marja Kuzenko, Russian coloratura soprano, is to be guest singer in Orchestra Melodies on WJZ and network at 9:30 p. m. She will present two groups of her favorite songs.

Little Jack Little, piano modylogist, is to appear in the Rudy Vallee orchestra program over the WEAF chain at 8 p. m.

Grand Duchess Maria of Russia is to speak on the latest fashion on WABC and chain at 11:45 a. m.

Otherwise your dials may be set for:
2:30 p. m.—High school symphony orchestra composed of students of the north eastern part of the country, American School of the Air, WABC group.

9:30 p. m.—Eugene Ormandy, director, in a violin solo, and Many Gross, cymbal soloist, in Melody Moments, WEAF group.

Storm Bathroom Latest

Bathrooms in exclusive Mayfair of London include a new idea in decorations. It is mural paintings in which the natural features of the room are ingeniously used as part of the scheme. A well-known art dealer has just had his bathroom painted to represent a storm at sea. On the wash basin a ship is being wrecked; on the wall opposite a man clings to the fireplace, while in the bath tub itself a woman has found safety.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The Boston Braves broke their losing streak here today by pounding out a 9 to 3 victory over Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds. The Tribe, in the seventh, scored 7 runs on five singles, three passes, a sacrifice and an error.

COMMUNICATIONS

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Bark River, Mich.
R. F. D. 1, Box 62.
March 18, 1931.

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank you very kindly for the courtesy and opportunity you offer us to discuss this proposed amendment on "Capital Punishment."

In reply to the author's article which appeared in the Press March 17, I wish to say that I am very glad to discuss this important topic with him so others are able to know our views on this subject.

The writer says that the government carries the sword and that it is not to be used as an ornament, but to punish. I believe that in this twentieth century the government should not use the sword to kill people with but should use it to cut bread and spread butter with and pass this to the people.

In another place he says the government is from God. I don't think so. Did not Abraham Lincoln say that ours is "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people"?

Although the writer to whom I am answering seems very well versed in the Bible, he forgets that our Lord, in the hours of His death, prayed to God and said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

For this reason we should follow the advice, or prayer, of our Lord.

Yours very truly,
Stanley Mroczkowski,
Bark River Farmer.
