

CONVICT SHOT IN JAIL BREAK

Guard Beaten Into Unconsciousness at Maryland Pen

Baltimore, May 30. (P) A convict was critically wounded and a guard beaten into unconsciousness today when three prisoners, serving terms for robbery, tried unsuccessfully to escape from the Maryland state penitentiary here.

Irvin D. Limper, 27, sentenced last year to 20 years for a series of Baltimore holdups, fell in an exchange of shots with a wall guard, armed with a shotgun. One of the three in the escape attempt fired the pistol aimed from the beaten guard.

Second Attempt. Limper's wounds probably would be fatal. It was the second unsuccessful attempt to escape from the prison, located near the downtown section, in recent months. Last fall a guard was shot as nine prisoners tried to escape. All were sentenced to terms of from 25 years to life.

The other prisoners in the latest attempt were Frank James, 39, a native of South Carolina, serving 15 years for a robbery here last year, and Charles Cramer, 31, sentenced to 20 years for a Baltimore jewelry store robbery last June.

The beaten guard, Terrence Cox, said he was called to James' cell with a request that he hand some packages through the bars. As he did so, Limper and Cramer leaped from adjoining cells, which were unlocked, seized the guard's gun, beat him over the head, and locked him in a cell with his own keys.

Then, with a rope of sheets, they ran toward the west wall. The wall guard, George G. Lehmeis, raised his gun, but one of the three prisoners fired three times at him before he pulled the trigger. One shot from his gun missed, but the second charge struck Limper in the head.

Scene of Stabbing. Limper fell, and the other two prisoners dashed toward the nearby prison post house, where they were overpowered.

The prison was the scene of the fatal stabbing Sunday of Frank Allers, who after taking part in a fatal holdup in 1922, turned state's evidence and helped send four accomplices to the prison for life.

Edward West, serving 20 years for robbery, was presented by the grand jury yesterday on a charge that he stabbed Allers. Presentment is usually equivalent to indictment under Maryland court practice.

Two of the four holdup gang are still in prison. One escaped, and another, Charles Carey, was hanged in 1925 for the murder of a guard.

The penitentiary was called "one of the worst in the East" in the report of a prison survey committee recently. State officials have said it is greatly overcrowded. A second farm-type prison is being constructed in Washington county, and only the prisoners considered desperate are to remain in the institution here after the new prison is completed.

CLAIM THEY LED BIG LIQUOR RING

Prominent in Kansas City, Mo., politics, Miss Rosemary Lyon, above, collector of delinquent taxes, and John Latta, below, president of a north side Democratic club, are among those arrested by prohibition agents investigating an alleged gigantic liquor syndicate which they claim was financed by Al Capone. Miss Lyon is accused of keeping the syndicate's books.

Leading Batsmen In Big Leagues

(By The Associated Press)

Babe Ruth jumped into second place among the leading batsmen of the big leagues yesterday and finished only a point behind Mickey Cochrane, who has the best average of them all. The Babe gained only two points with his three hits in seven times up but Al Simmons hit only one out of nine and Cochrane two out of nine for losses of 11 and 18 points, respectively. The National League leaders all gained. Buzz Arlett and Rogers Hornsby each making four hits in eight tries. Riggs Stephenson hit three out of eight for a two-point gain that cost him his tie with Hornsby, who picked up eight. The standing:

Hold on to Good Stocks, Is Roger Babson's Advice Today

Babson Park, Mass., May 29.—The man who unnecessarily rushes to sell sound stocks now is just as foolish and unworthy a citizen as the man who participates in a run on a sound bank. The way to make money in the security markets is to render service. If twenty-five years' experience teaches me anything, it is this: The man who makes the most profits and at the same time best serves the public welfare is the one who buys and holds securities when everyone else is pinking, and who sells them when the majority are greedily pushing prices to dizzy heights. Such a man helps to keep prices where they belong, neither too high nor too low. Today many stocks are obviously too low. This is the period to buy the good ones rather than sell them.

A philanthropic individual up in Toronto tried to sell real estate gold pieces for $2.50 the other day. The crowd was so skeptical that he did not sell one for almost an hour. It took him all evening to dispose of six gold pieces. The same attitude of public skepticism applies to good stocks and bonds. People forget that stocks go far below their real value in a major depression just as they go far above it in a major boom. The very people who were scrambling to buy stocks when they were selling two or three times their normal value are now unloading them at one-third to one-half of what they are worth. Take a long range view. We have been through just such periods many times before. Those who in past depressions refused to become panic-stricken, not only laid the foundation for their own fortunes, but rendered a great public service by their example of level-headed calmness and confidence.

Stocks Are Under-Valued

Recently the New York Times average of fifty representative stocks fell to the lowest point since 1926. Remember that the outfalls behind these stocks in 1926 were not nearly so strong as they are today. Actual book values of the same stocks now average at least $5 per share higher than they did five years ago and some as much as $30 a share higher. Many good stocks are really back to their 1921 prices taking into consideration the growth in assets and equities.

Moreover, because of the current practice of writing off goodwill, trade marks, and patents, which are of tremendous value in many cases, current stock equities now appear smaller than they actually are.

Consider the tremendous growth in corporation property values, cash holdings, surpluses, investment holdings, and dividend disbursements in the past five years. It is false to assume that industry has stood still in this period. We know that it has experienced remarkable growth. For example, value of plants, buildings, equipment, etc., of two hundred and fifty leading corporations is $1,000,000,000 greater today than it was in 1927, a gain of twenty-one per cent. The same corporations have $141,000,000, or eleven per cent more cash than they then had. Their investment holdings are $300,000,000, or thirty-one per cent larger. Also the current financial position is better. Average ratio of current assets to current liabilities at the end of 1930 was 6.3 to 1 as against 5.2 to 1 in 1927.

Paying More.

Another reason why stock prices are really lower than they look is that, in spite of numerous recent cuts, they are still paying larger dividends than they did five years ago. Although quoted approximately at 1926 levels, good stocks are averaging to yield about 5.60 to 6.00 per cent as against 5.00 to 5.25 per cent in 1926. Accumulations of cash assets in the recent prosperity period enables companies now to maintain better dividends than would otherwise be possible considering the drop in earnings. Total industrial dividend payments for the first four months of 1931 were $1,073,500,000, or 2 1/2 times total disbursements five years ago. Don't forget also that the buying power of these dividends is at least twenty per cent greater than it was then, owing to the drop in cost of living.

Unquestionably many good stocks are now under-valued, and should be bought and held. This does not mean that the market as a whole may not again go as low later on. We may have a pre-election scare before the end of 1932 which would once more depress the averages. However, the long-pull investor does not have to pick the very bottom. He buys in a bargain zone, puts them away, and waits for the appreciation which must ultimately come. There will be plenty of bargains in the coming months. Hence, the wise man will now have at least fifty per cent of his stock funds in carefully selected stocks, and the remaining fifty per cent liquid for further stock bargains as they appear. Above all he will hold on to his good stocks now. Do not be frightened by mob pessimism into foolish sacrifice of values which forms not only your self but also your fellow men.

A word on bonds: I have always preferred bonds to stocks, and hence have always advised a good proportion of sound bonds in every investment list. The bond outlook is bright and bargains are plentiful. By no means forget bonds!

Business by the Babsonchart now registers 28 per cent below normal compared with 110 per cent below normal at this time a year ago.

After years of efforts to rid their land of species of cactus known as the spineless prickly pear, South African farmers have begun to cultivate it for stock food in dry seasons.

SOLDIER DEAD PAID HOMAGE

Entire Nation Joins in Observance of Memorial Day

(By The Associated Press)

A nation turned yesterday to honor in death the men who fought its wars.

So general was the observance that every patriotic element had a part in it. Yet it was more than a narrowly national occasion, for wherever a knot of Americans gathered abroad there was a recognition of Memorial Day and its meaning.

President Hoover, speaking at Valley Forge, said: "The American people are going through another Valley Forge at this time." But, he added, no one "can doubt that this, like a score of similar experiences in our national history, is but a passing trial."

At Gettysburg, a shrine of the Civil war, Vice President Curtis called for a rededication to the principles of the constitution.

In Washington, the Army's air fleet whirled over head during the ceremonies at Arlington cemetery. In New York 23,000 marched up Riverside Drive to the swing of martial airs.

Abroad there were formal ceremonies in France, Belgium, England and Greece. Ambassador Edge, speaking at Surances cemetery near Paris, hailed the friendship "twice sealed in the blood of heroes" between France and the United States. Groups of touring American mayors and gold star mothers attended ceremonies at Belleau Wood, and at Cherbourg flags were placed on the graves of four American soldiers killed during the battle between the Kearsage and the Confederate raider, Alabama, during the Civil war.

Flags of both nations were placed over the graves of 600 American soldiers buried in England, and in Belgium Americans paid a visit to the cemetery where nearly 400 Americans are buried.

RIFT BETWEEN VATICAN AND STATE WIDENS

ment stands firmly for "cleansing" the organization of what is described as its political character.

Vatican authorities insist the society is purely a religious body and its rights are guaranteed under the Lateran treaty. The government, on the other hand, is represented as believing that pressure has been brought to bear on the organization to assist in the suppression of Protestant propaganda in Italy against which the pope has made public protests.

In his address to the Salesian graduates tonight Pope Pius said that he welcomed them "in these sad hours, the saddest among many sad ones in our life."

"We tell you as your father and as bishop of Rome, you come to console us at the dusk of a day that has seen brutal violence visited upon that which is dear to us—the Catholic action."

"Naturally we have the right and duty to have recourse to the treaty and concordat and steps are already being taken. But nothing can prevent the bishop of Rome from raising his voice. 'One may demand one's life, but not one's silence. We tell you to induce you to pray for the plans of the Pope and especially for those of these days.'"

DUCE ISSUES DECREE

Rome, May 30. (P) Premier Mussolini tonight extended his order disbanding the Catholic action society to all of Italy, and Pope Pius XI, after a conference with the society's officials, placed the organization directly in charge of the bishops of the Catholic dioceses throughout the nation.

The membership of the society, including its six branches, totals 500,000 men, women, boys and girls.

The order was not officially announced by the government, but it was said it would be promulgated tomorrow or Monday. It was made known to the Vatican, however, and Pope Pius referred to it this evening in his address to the Salesian graduates, declaring that today was "one of the saddest days of my life."

Action Is Surprised.

Pope Pius tonight called a meeting of the directors of the Fascist party to discuss the situation with the Vatican. The meeting will be held June 3. The directors of the party consist of the Secretary Giovanni Giolitti, two undersecretaries and four inspectors.

The premier's dissolution decree came as a surprise. It had been rumored that he had a decree on his desk covering the entire country, but even when the Catholic clubs were closed earlier today in Rome, neither government circles nor the Vatican appeared to believe that country-wide action would be taken.

Only Temporary Measure

Until tonight it was assumed that the controversy would be settled in some manner. In closing the clubs in Rome this morning police told the club officials it was merely a temporary measure designed for their protection.

It was assumed the instruction of the Pope to the bishops to take personal charge of all the branches of the Catholic action in their dioceses was probably sent out after the pontiff had learned the real import of the closing of the club in Rome.

His reference to the 'lateran treaty and the concordat in his speech to the Salesian graduates this evening was taken to indicate he would contest the legality of the dissolution of the society.

Presbyterians Row On Birth Control

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 30. (P)—Feeling concerning two reports approving birth control flared to the surface at today's sessions of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

Faced with a committee report recommending no action on two overtures and two memorials discussing the reports of the federal council of churches of Christ in America and of an assembly commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage, the assembly demanded that debate be permitted. Only a few moments before it had refused to adopt the $1,250,000 budget of the church, until an $13,000 appropriation for the federal council had been segregated for further consideration.

Copper Production May Be Curtailed

New York, May 29 (P)—Coincident with the sailing for Europe today of F. Pisart and C. Gutt, representing prominent Belgian copper interests, it was learned in financial circles that conferences looking toward further curtailment of production were held recently.

By lending more than 14,000,000 books annually, the Chicago public library has the world's largest circulation.

OBITUARY

FRANK LINSLEY

Mr. Frank Linsley, for many years a resident of Escanaba, passed away at his home, 313 South Fifteenth street at 8:15 o'clock last evening. Mr. Linsley had been in poor health for over one year.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home to be prepared for burial but no funeral arrangements have been made pending the arrival of relatives.

The survivors in addition to Mrs. Linsley are three sons and four daughters; they are: Floyd of Vulcan, Mrs. Dave (Marion) Fitzgerald of Detroit, and Caroline, Orville, Lucille, Junior and Evelyn at home.

Sutter Wins Davis Cup Tennis Match

Washington, May 30 (P)—A dramatic four-set victory by young Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, making his Davis cup debut, today enabled the United States team to score a clean sweep of 5 matches to 0 over Argentina in the final American tie.

By stamina and cool-headedness he came from behind to wear down the 28 year old second ranking Argentine player, Guillermo Robson, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

Earlier, Frank X. Shields of New York, who has done yeoman service in the current Davis cup campaign, easily won his third match of the tie, defeating the giant Ronaldo Boyd, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Boyd, the first ranking Argentine player, did not live up to the promise he displayed in early practice. His teammates said the Buenos Aires ace was 20 per cent below his usual form, and the rangy young New Yorker was never extended to win.

Youth Confesses To Bank Robbery

Detroit, May 30 (P)—Morris J. Allen, 17 years old, son of a county official in Otsego county, was arrested here tonight and confessed, police said, that he robbed the Lewiston State Bank at Lewiston, Mich., of $600 on May 20.

Police recovered from him $338 after his arrest in the Woodward avenue station of the Michigan Central railroad.

Allen, Inspector William Collins said, told of stealing an automobile in Flint on May 15 and using it in the robbery.

Plans to Solve Church Problem Are Given Okeh

Pittsburgh, May 29. (P)—A plan of action intended to solve "the sorest point in the church today," relations between the pastors and their congregations, was adopted today by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

Introduction of the plan of the general council of the church, setting up a system of boards of mediation to attempt to solve pastoral difficulties, brought the first debate in the assembly session. Offered by Dr. Cleland M. McAfee, New York, as a means of placing responsibility for settling such questions, the plan was attacked by the Rev. W. A. Powell, Conshohocken, Pa., who contended that the plan would not solve the problem for the ministry, and the Rev. C. F. Van Horn, Honey Brook, Pa., who charged that virtual domination of ministers by a hierarchy of bishops was threatened.

More than 500 toy factories in the United States have a yearly production values at nearly $100,000,000.

New York, May 30 (P)—A great juvenile champion stamped himself as real contender for the three-year-old title as George D. Widener's Jamestown easily outran a field of seven crack colts in the fifty-sixth running of the Withers mile at Belmont park today.

His time was 1:36 3-5. Five lengths of daylight separated Jamestown from Walter J. Salmon's leader, which ran third in the Frankness, as he flashed past the judges stand. Another three lengths back of leader trailed Morton L. Schwartz's clock tower, a nose in front of surt board from the Greentree stable. Then followed Benjamin Block's Morstone, the Greentree stable's Anchors Aweigh, K. E. Hill's Sun Meadow and Fly Horse's Comuter.

Germany to Enter Olympiad In 1932

Berlin, May 30 (P)—The German Olympic committee adopted a resolution today to participate in the 1932 Olympiad at Los Angeles and the winter games at Lake Placid. It is hoped to send 130 athletes across the seas early in July, 1932, but the number of men in each branch of sport will not be determined until October.

The trip of the German team will be timed to leave Bremen for New York, through Chicago to Los Angeles with arrival on the west coast scheduled for 12 days before the games get under way.

DAN J. MURPHY GIVEN PENSION

Veteran North Western Conductor Placed on Retired List

Daniel J. Murphy, 505 South Thirteenth street, Chicago and North Western Railway freight conductor is being retired tomorrow June 1 on the company's pension list. Mr. Murphy received the official notice Thursday stating that the notice would go into effect June 1. He is one of ten men retiring with an average of 41 years service.

Daniel J. Murphy was born May 29, 1860 in Fond du Lac, Wis., and came to Northern Michigan when a young man in his teens. His first work in the upper peninsula was as barn boss in a livery stable in Negaunee. Later he came to this city and entered the employ of the C. & N. W. Railway company as a brakeman July 1, 1881 and was promoted to freight conductor April 27, 1886. He has always worked on the peninsula division and is widely known among railroad men throughout Northern Wisconsin and Michigan.

Early Experiences.
Among his early experiences as a brakeman he recalls when he was braking on a wood-train for James B. Moran who at that time was conductor on that division. During his many years of service Mr. Murphy had many varied experiences. When he began to "railroad" the old fashioned tin dinner pail was one of the essential things which an employe proudly carried, food for several days had to be taken on these trips, then the basket and newer style lunch buckets were used and now with restaurants and lunch rooms every twenty-five miles along the railroad's right of way, a man seldom carries more than one meal at a time.

Trails Replaced by Concrete.
Mr. Murphy came here more than fifty years ago and has seen this city grow with rapid strides, wooden sidewalks and trails led from the C. & N. W. Railway yards to the residential district and today there are many miles of concrete sidewalks and paved streets and a place without a sidewalk is seldom seen in this day and age.

Reared Family Here.
Mr. Murphy married Miss Alice O'Leary at Shirley, Wis., and brought Mrs. Murphy to this city as a bride. They have lived here continuously and have reared a family of four children. Kevill of this city. Dr. James A. Murphy of Milwaukee, Orville, a student in the Law School of Marquette University at Milwaukee and Miss Escanaba where he has a host of the public schools at Stambaugh, friends.

Giese Acquitted by Federal Jury
Milwaukee—Returning a verdict after only 45 minutes of deliberation, a federal court jury had acquitted Frederick W. Giese, ousted Outagamie county sheriff, and Lothar Kemp, his former deputy, on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.
The former law enforcement officers went on trial a week ago today and nearly 20 witnesses were called by special Prosecutor Nelson Carver in an attempt to prove that they conspired with Dan Kelly, Turnkey, to collect protection money from bootleggers and gamblers in the county. Testified for Government.
Kelly had originally been scheduled to be tried with Kemp and Giese but he entered a plea of guilty and turned chief government witness. He told of collecting money from bootleggers and selling confiscated stills to their original owners.
Defense Counsel Gerald Clifford of Green Bay based his plea for acquittal on grounds that neither the sheriff nor Kemp was involved in Kelly's dealings—that the turnkey worked alone and without authorization from his superior.

Giese was removed from office in January, 1930, by former Gov. Walter J. Kohler.

Shoplifters Beware of Escanaba!

Losses incurred by Escanaba stores through the activity of professional and amateur shop lifters have become so alarming that a definite decision to abandon our heretofore pacific treatment of apprehended parties for harsher measures has been arrived at by the Retail Merchants of Escanaba.

Hereafter all shop lifters will be turned over to the Escanaba Police Department to be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

This policy has been instituted only after careful deliberation. Losses resulting from the evil are naturally reflected in higher prices and if Escanaba is to continue as the city where greater value is always available, shop lifting must be eliminated.

Most habitual resident shop lifters are known to Escanaba merchants and the Escanaba Police Department. All merchants and employees will keep a sharper lookout and parties apprehended will be vigorously prosecuted.

We sincerely hope that the general public will accord us their sincere cooperation in a program that only excessive abuse could have forced us to adopt.

HEALTH TIPS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

In 1760, the statistics indicated that about 7 per cent of each generation of mankind was being killed by smallpox.

In one Scotch town 161 out of every 1000 children born alive died of smallpox, and there was an epidemic every four or five years.

It seems reasonable to believe that proper vaccination of all of the people and proper isolation and control of every case of smallpox would result in stamping out this disease entirely.

Vaccination against smallpox is merely the means of giving the person the kind of immunity from disease that results from a previous attack without causing him to undergo all of the tribulations of the disease and the pock-marking of his face associated with it.

In the 18th century, the unusual person was the one without the scars of smallpox on his face, but today the unusual person is the one who carries such scars.

Smallpox seems to the average man to be merely a disease of the skin with a severe eruption. It is, however, a disease with fever, aches and pains, and not infrequently with severe hemorrhages which may cause death.

The figures of the United States Public Health Service indicate that about 30,000 people per year develop smallpox in our country.

Due to the increased scientific care given to such people, there are only a few hundred deaths from these cases. However, diseases change in their virulence and there are severe outbreaks from time to time in which as many as 20 per cent of those who are not vaccinated and who get the disease die as a result of the attack.

Munising News

CONCERT HERE MONDAY NIGHT

Teachers' College Men's Band and Glee Club to Appear

Munising, Mich., May 30 (Special).—The Northern State Teachers' College Men's Band and Glee Club appears at the Mather auditorium next Monday evening for the organization's annual appearance in Munising. This organization is always greeted with a good house and much enthusiasm here, because the entertainment furnished always pleases. This year the band and glee club are coming under the auspices of the Munising Rotary Club, who are building up a fund for worthy Munising pupils attending higher schools who need temporary assistance in the form of small loans to tide them over difficult places. The glee club and band have enviable reputations. Every one likes to hear men sing in numbers. With the two types of musical entertainment interspersed, a delightful program is assured. Conways Peters, who has built up these two organizations and is directing them, will in addition contribute a number of violin selections. There will be other solo numbers, both vocal and instrumental, as well as the usual number of ensemble numbers. C. G. Kemp, chairman of the student loan fund committee of the Rotary Club, makes an especial plea to the people of Munising to greet this splendid organization with a crowded house, not only because Prof. Peters and his boys deserve it but because the purposes of the committee in sponsoring the entertainment deserve hearty support. The other two entertainments sponsored for this purpose were financial successes; the committee hopes that this entertainment will eclipse them both. The program will start promptly at 8:15.

Nearly 32 Millions Visited The National Forests in 1930

Recreational use of the national forests continued its steady growth, with 31,904,515 visitors last year, according to complete reports announced by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, today. Although this was an increase of 146,284 as compared with the preceding year, the gain was small in comparison with that of 1929 when the estimated number of visitors increased about 8 million as compared with 1928. Many of the 161 national forests participated in last year's gain. Campers and picnickers showed increases in number but guests of hotels and resorts located in national forests showed a slight decrease. Campers last year numbered 1,980,736 as against 1,902,961 in 1929. Most of the gain was in the national forests of the West. Estimates for picnickers showed 2,272,682 for 1930, against 2,056,457 for 1929, with increases both in the East and in the West. With forest highway and road extension making more areas accessible, the great majority of recreationalists last year entered the national forests by automobile. The total number of visitors traveling by motor increased from 28,786,516 in 1929 to 29,541,607 last year. Hikers entering the forests also increased—from 202,272 to 220,853. The Forest Service last year added several hundred miles to its system of national forest roads and trails. In those camps drinking water systems have been developed, sanitary facilities provided, and fire risks minimized. Improvement of public camps is continuing and there are now more than 1,500 recognized public camping grounds in the national forests. The Forest Service also has allotted suitable sites under special use permits for Boy Scout, club, summer school, and municipal camps. "Although essentially utilitarian in purpose, the national forests play an important part in the life of many regions as recreational grounds," says the Forest Service. "Rapid growth of population and travel facilities have brought the national forests into greater prominence for their inspirational, educational, and recreational values. Social needs have become as urgent in many of the forests as economic use." Camping in Michigan national forests gained 60 per cent last year. There were gains for campers also in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Oregon, California, and Arizona. Arizona was the banner state for gains in all types of national forest recreation, with a million and a quarter more visitors than in 1929, a gain of about 80 per cent. California still leads with the largest number of national forest recreationalists, more than 16 million entering the forests last year. The White Mountain National Forest in New Hampshire led all the rest of the East, with 1,925,000 visitors.

Machine Picks Out The Purest Beans, Discards the Cull

Grand Rapids, (P)—If there's anything in the lines that "his strength was as the strength of ten, because his heart was pure," the case of the Fabaceae, one of Michigan's most prominent families, ought to be a good example. For the machine age, with all its inventions, has brought forth a "lie detector," to be used against the members of the Fabaceae tribe—in other words, the bean family. Beans, long a favorite of large and small garden circles in Michigan, tell all their secrets when the "lie detector" is turned on them. If they're good beans, the machine quickly sends them on their way; if they're bad beans, the machine acts in extraordinary fashion, kicking up a fuss and finally ejecting them from the company of their comrades. Three young men, experimenting for several years, developed the machine which searches in the heart of the bean. They were led to their experiments through observation of the photo-electric cell, that delicate mechanism which has been used to count automobiles crossing bridges, to operate talking motion picture devices, and even to match colors. Two of the young men, Hugo Hammerling and Lewis Tinkham, of Grand Rapids, interested another, Martin C. Hanson, an experimental electrician, in the work of developing a machine that would sort good beans from bad. They had found in their work as bean brokers that the process of "handpicking"—separating good beans from bad—was not 100 per cent successful, that there was a great possibility of human error. Laboratory experiments were carried on for two years. Recently the machine was demonstrated here. The beans, as they come from the farmers' bins, are made to line up and pass in review before the "electric eye" of the photo-electric cell. Pure white and perfect beans pass unchallenged, but the unfortunate Fabaceae with the slightest wrinkle or blemish meets with trouble. The photo-electric cell registers its disapproval at once by actuating a magnet which in turn sends out a steel finger, and the bean is thrown into cull.

Crude Painting In Judge's Room Saves Many A Home Wreck

Detroit, (P)—As a piece of art, the picture hanging in the private office of Judge Homer Ferguson, adjoining his circuit court room, has never won attention from critics. But it has prevented the wreck of many a home, and has effected many a reconciliation. The picture, drawn in a non-to-perfect style, portrays in a simple manner a child sacrificed at a court bench to satisfy the wrongs, real or fancied, of a married couple. It is titled "The Real Sufferer." To the picture Judge Ferguson credits nearly half of the reconciliations effected in cases where parents with children sought to have their marriage dissolved. "The law," said Judge Ferguson, "will give parents a divorce if their differences come within the statutes, but the picture demonstrates to them why they should not want a divorce. When they speak of their legal rights, the picture shows them their moral obligations." "Fundamentally," the judge says, "people are of a sympathetic nature. They will not allow any person to suffer, and it is only a question of bringing before their eyes a picture of a person who will suffer through their acts. The juvenile detention home records show that a large number of offenders are those whose homes have been destroyed, either through death or divorce." Three times during the course of divorce proceedings Judge Ferguson brings the picture into the discussion. First, when the parties reach his office, before they take the stand, he directs attention to the portrait, and discusses the future of their family. Then, if the differences are not patched up, he refers to the picture during the course of the trial. "If I can catch them at the psychological moment," he said, "the moment at which there is a sudden desire on the part of both to 'back out' and drop the case, it often means reconciliation." Then, if reconciliation fails, and the divorce is granted, the judge uses the picture to drive home the lesson of support and custody of the children. There is usually, he says, an amicable settlement when the force of the picture is brought home to the separated parties.

A DIVORCE!—DOES THIS LOOK LIKE IT?

This is the answer of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks to wide-spread reports that they were contemplating a divorce. But from this picture, especially posed when they were reunited in London the other day, it doesn't even look like a separation.

ARNOLD KEEPS IN LEAD UNTIL HIS SMASHUP

(Continued from Page One) The 500 mile trip in 5:18:23.35. The others were strung out far in the rear of the first two to finish. Schneider Gets $40,000 By his victory, Schneider will earn about $40,000 in cash. He will receive $20,000 from the speedway management as first prize and will pick up another $20,000 in bonuses awarded by accessory firms and lap prize money. He won about $2,000 in lap money. The start of the race, postponed three times, due to drizzling rains, finally got under way at 12 o'clock, two hours late, and immediately developed into what apparently would have been a record breaker, with Arnold leading the parade. Arnold, driving his machine, the same one with which he rode to triumph a year ago, cracked the record for the first 75 miles, which he reeled off in 41:14.25, an average of 109.125 miles an hour. Then, the drizzle which had abated, for about 45 minutes set in again and for 75 miles the racers whirled around the track at reduced speed. It was the second time in the 19 years of the race that the start did not get away promptly at 10 o'clock. In 1915, the race was postponed for two days because of wretched weather conditions. In 1926 the race was cut to 400 miles because of rain. Schneider, more or less a stormy petrel in organized racing, drove his car courageously and always was regarded as a challenger. He never was more than three laps behind the leader at any time in the race, and when the opportunity came he moved into the lead and refused to yield it. He made only one stop, when he was forced into the pits, after traveling 372 miles, to replenish his tanks with gasoline and oil and to change a rear tire. Schneider finished third in the race of a year ago. Oil Burner Successful One of the gratifying results of the race was the performance of the oil burning Diesel engine which operates without ignition or spark plugs. It was a creation of Clessie Cummins, of Columbus, Ind., who built a marine motor and created it into automobile use. The machine finished twelfth in the field of 17, to survive, traveling along at 86.17 miles per hour and did not make a stop during the 500 miles. The cost of oil consumption was approximately $2.40, a low cost. The oil burner survived the costly 16-cylinder creations and many of the eight. Accidents and motor trouble forced many dangerous contenders out of the race. William (Shorty) Canton of Detroit, one of the ranking contenders, had to surrender because of motor trouble. Leon Duray, another skilled racer, had to give up the grind after 25 miles due to poor water circulation through the motor. Louis Meyer, who won the race in 1928, was another early victim. The race was marked by half a dozen accidents, but luckily all the drivers with their mechanics escaped serious injury. Harry Butcher, Wilmington, Ill., was the first to crack up, running

Battle Creek Girl Important Figure On London Stages

London, (P)—A Michigan girl who used to mimic the actors she saw on the stage has become one of London's important theatre directors. She is Ellen Van Volkenburg, born in Battle Creek, Mich., and a graduate of the University of Michigan. For three years she has been in London, and at present she is director of the London Theatre company and of Maurice Browne, L. When she was just a little girl she used to mimic—she calls it imitate—actors in plays she had seen, remembering lines and situations with a kind of knack. This she continued, for her friends, during her college days, until "a woman in Detroit" saw her. The woman hustled her off to an agent and she toured the states with her imitations. Soon, however, she was an actress and later became interested in the Little Theatre movement.

RECOGNITION SOUGHT FOR POOR INVENTOR

on a system of synchronizing movement and accompanying sound. On October 8, 1898, he got a German patent and on August 28, 1900, an American patent good for 20 years. With his own resources he built, in a Paris suburb, what would now be known as a studio. His rigging had, placed above the movie camera, a cupola which contained highly sensitive microphones of grain-carbons. A feeble current modulated by these microphones was amplified by three successive relays leading to the sound cabin at one side. Sound was registered on an old-fashioned wax cylinder, such as used by Edison in his first phonograph, so that it synchronized perfectly with the action of the movie. In principle his system was very much like that developed with such startling success a quarter of a century later. A Commercial Failure Baron's first talking films were produced in 1898 and could run for about four minutes. He spent about $40,000 on this work and could not get the support required to finance his experiments. He quickly concluded there was no commercial future in the talking film. Like so many men of science, he was not a good business man and was quite content when he astonished his friends by showing them what could be done. Eleven of his machines are now on exhibition in the Conservatoire des Arts et Metiers. In 1901 Baron turned his attention to the development of an automatic camera, which he called the "Multirama," and which could be attached to a balloon and operated in such a way as to photograph 100 kilometers of ground without change of film. During the war this did splendid service when carried by airplanes by taking pictures of enemy positions. Another of his photographic achievements was a camera capable of taking a 360-degree panorama picture. Now Completely Blind But although his employes protected their eyes against the harsh lights of the studio, Baron refused to wear glasses. Ten years ago his sight began to fail and shortly afterwards he became completely blind.

The Academy of Science granted him a pension of about $75 yearly and, without other resources, he was forced to enter a charity home. His wife, still proud of his achievements, cares for him lovingly and helps him as much as she can by giving piano lessons.

Baron still smiles cordially and has no grievance against his fate, but he at times becomes melancholy when he is told about the great financial success of the talking picture.

Too Late "Alas, it is too late to talk of me," he says sadly. When reminded that his brain was in advance of the times and that he has at least lived to know that his great idea was successful, he only adds: "I am infinitely touched, but I can only repeat that it is too late to talk of me. I am getting old and I ask nothing except when I die that my wife will be looked after."

And she in her turn says it is enough for her to have known those happy hours when he was succeeding with his work. "But I hope that my son will never become an inventor," she added. Baron's friends are now trying to have him decorated with the Legion of Honor and to gain for him some recognition from the government.

support of the Bethlehem bonus system which he founded. Mr. Schwab once discarded a prepared speech after getting before his audience.

"That's a rattling good speech, too. I didn't write it myself," he declared. Then he turned and graciously bowed to his secretary. One of the foremost foes of what he terms "the European belief that there is no romance or sentiment in American business," he never supports his arguments with the story of his own rise from a stage driver to steel magnate. The story of Andrew Carnegie's patronage of art, literature and science is his answer to "dollar-chasing" charges made against the Americans.

He is a keen student of human nature and enjoys being a spectator at a criminal court trial. Last summer he attended a murder trial and after the judge had instructed the jury Mr. Schwab casually expressed his opinion on what the verdict would be. He was right.

Your Bathroom Made Beautiful

with a Hess Mirror Cabinet

Is the bathroom the "skeleton" in your home? Does it seem hopelessly old-fashioned? Little details help so much—a new washbowl, tub or mirrored cabinet.

The old type of cabinet with its wide wooden frame, is not artistic nor even practical. Dirt lodges in the cracks unless they are continually painted over. Often wood swells and as a result the door will not close, or, if it is already closed will not open. This type of cabinet does not contribute to a nice looking bathroom. In every woman's heart there is a natural pride in a beautifully kept house. This pride does not stop at the bathroom. The fact that it is old-fashioned does not mean that it cannot be made beautiful at a minimum of cost. A white, sanitary—enameled steel cabinet made by the "House of Hess" will improve the appearance of any bathroom. It appears on the wall simply as a clear beautiful mirror, but at the touch of your fingers, opens to rows of gleaming glass shelves for toilet necessities. You will be surprised how one of these beautiful cabinets will improve the appearance of the much-used and often neglected bathroom.

Your guests expect certain niceties, and after all, is not a mirror the first thing generally noticed?

Prices are most reasonable!

Today's Bridge

By Wm. E. McKENNEY Sec'y American Bridge League In our previous article we discussed the bidding of four-card suits ahead of five. Not only does the bidding of four-card suits ahead of five card suits give partner an accurate picture of your hand, but it also converts a definite defensive strength.

Four-card suits are generally stronger than five-card suits, especially for defensive purposes. Supposing you held four diamonds to the ace, king and five spades to the king, jack, ten. Under the old system of bidding, you would open with a spade and if the bidding did not get too high, you would show your diamond suit. However, the opponents finally bought the contract and it was your partner's opening lead, he would undoubtedly open with a spade, the first suit you had bid, and this might be the only opening that would allow the opponents to go game.

However, under the writer's system of bidding, if you had bid a diamond first and a spade later on, your partner would definitely know that your diamond suit was a four-carded and that your spade suit was at least five cards long, therefore his proper opening would be diamonds. An ace king suit four times will take two tricks against an opponent's declaration a great deal more often than a five or six-card suit headed by ace, king. Very seldom will the second lead of the four-card suit be ruffed, while in most cases the second lead of a six-card suit will be, and very often the second lead of a five-card suit.

When holding two biddable four-card suits, bid the higher ranking of the two first. While it is true that partner will assume that your second suit contains five cards, by bidding the higher ranking one first, he should give consideration to the fact that both of your bids may be four-card suits.

Four-card suits are very seldom rebid excepting a four-card major headed by ace, king, queen or ace, queen, jack, ten. If partner has given you a double raise and you hold good outside strength, occasionally you will rebid your four-card major. When holding two five-card suits, the higher ranking of the two should be bid first. Supposing you held five hearts and five diamonds, you would open with the heart suit, on the next round show the diamond suit, partner will assume that you hold four hearts and five diamonds. Then on the next round rebid the heart suit. As the rebids of four-card suits are very rare, partner will now know that you hold five hearts and five diamonds. SHOWING SIX-FIVE DISTRIBUTION

In this same manner, in 50 per cent of the cases, you can show partner when you hold a six-card and a five-card suit; e. g., you hold six diamonds and five hearts. You bid the diamond suit first. On the next round you show the heart suit, then on the next round you rebid the diamonds. Partner naturally makes the following deductions—when you bid a diamond, he assumed that it was a four-card suit, then when you show the heart suit, that gives you four diamonds and five hearts. When you rebid the diamonds you show him at least a five-card diamond suit, but if you held five hearts and five diamonds, you would have bid the heart first. Why therefore did you bid the diamonds

Graduation Frocks

Young America will be graduating, with chic, soon now, and what the sweet young graduates wear is of utmost importance to themselves. Silks are still good. They have a way with them. But the new graduation dress walks to the wash tub with the same charm that it walks up onto the platform to get the sheepskin. Batiste, voile, lace, organdie, handkerchief linen, novelty lace cottons and other washables will be seen. Short sleeves of some kind are all-important for the graduation frock, no matter what the rest of the dress is. Berthas adorn some of them, making little cape sleeves. Fichus adorn others. Set-in-wee sleeves are in the majority. Full skirts and more or less fitted or bloused bodices and medium high necks, with some soft collar of fichu arrangement, are the vogue. And graduation frocks may be ankle-length or they may be high-shoe length, if you are old enough to know what that is! Two charming frocks for the 1931 model. Simple and universally becoming is a white crepe de chine (left) that has hand fastening, fine tucks and a surplus bodice tied with a girlish sash in the back. The little sleeves have fancy pleated cuffs that stand out in acute manner. Elaborately embroidered, organdie fashions the other, which can be worn all summer long as a party frock because its fichu cape is a removable little jacket of sorts, and a low necked gown appears when it is taken off. The frock is cut simply, with fine fitting and a sweet finish of pleated plain organdie. The fichu cape ties in the back in a great little bow.

FISH CHOWDER. A good, simple supper dish is old-fashioned milk chowder. Use one pound fresh halibut, cod or scrod, boil it until almost soft, add one sliced onion and two cups of diced raw potatoes and cook with salt until the whole is done. Then pour one cup of cream or one cup of milk into it, add butter and serve with round, hard crackers.

FANCY MOLDS. If you have mechanical refrigeration, do invest in some of the trickily shaped ice cream and dessert molds. You can simply enchant your family with the variety of shapes a given recipe can take.

Roosevelt Returns Hoover's Call

Returning the call paid by President Hoover during his Caribbean tour, Governor Theodore Roosevelt flew from Porto Rico to Washington and here is pictured upon his arrival at the capital. He went immediately to the Rapidan camp to confer with the Chief Executive.

SEEING IS BELIEVING! - - - - But Try to Picture These

STATE EXECUTIVE NAMED IN CHARGE

No, your eyes haven't deceived you, for pictures can't lie. So take a look at a golf ball as big as those Goliath played with; a rabbit with horns; another bunny almost as tall as a man; a stone piano, and a painless auto bumper. The details:

1—Viola Deming is examining one of "Goliath's Golf Balls," in Manti National Forest, Utah, where scores of these huge, perfectly round hard stones are found.

2—The horns of this rabbit, shot near North Platte, Neb., are three and four inches long. In addition, it has two three-inch tusks.

3—Diminutive E. J. Beverly went a-hunting jack rabbits near Fowler, Kan., and bagged this one almost as big as himself. It measures 36 inches long and weighs 19 pounds. Beverly is 45 inches tall and weighs 105 pounds.

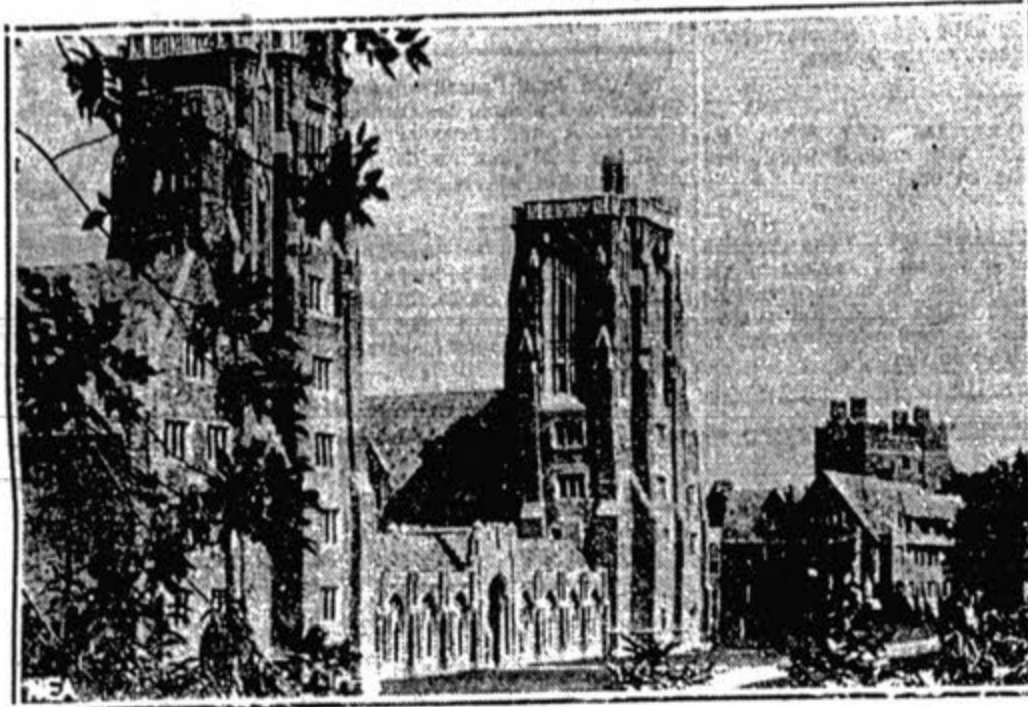

4—Memory lingers though the notes are stilled on this odd tombstone in a cemetery near London.

5—It's said to be almost a pleasure to be struck by this "painless auto bumper" invented by Harry Beaver. The frame is to be covered with an air-inflated cushion to bounce the pedestrian off.

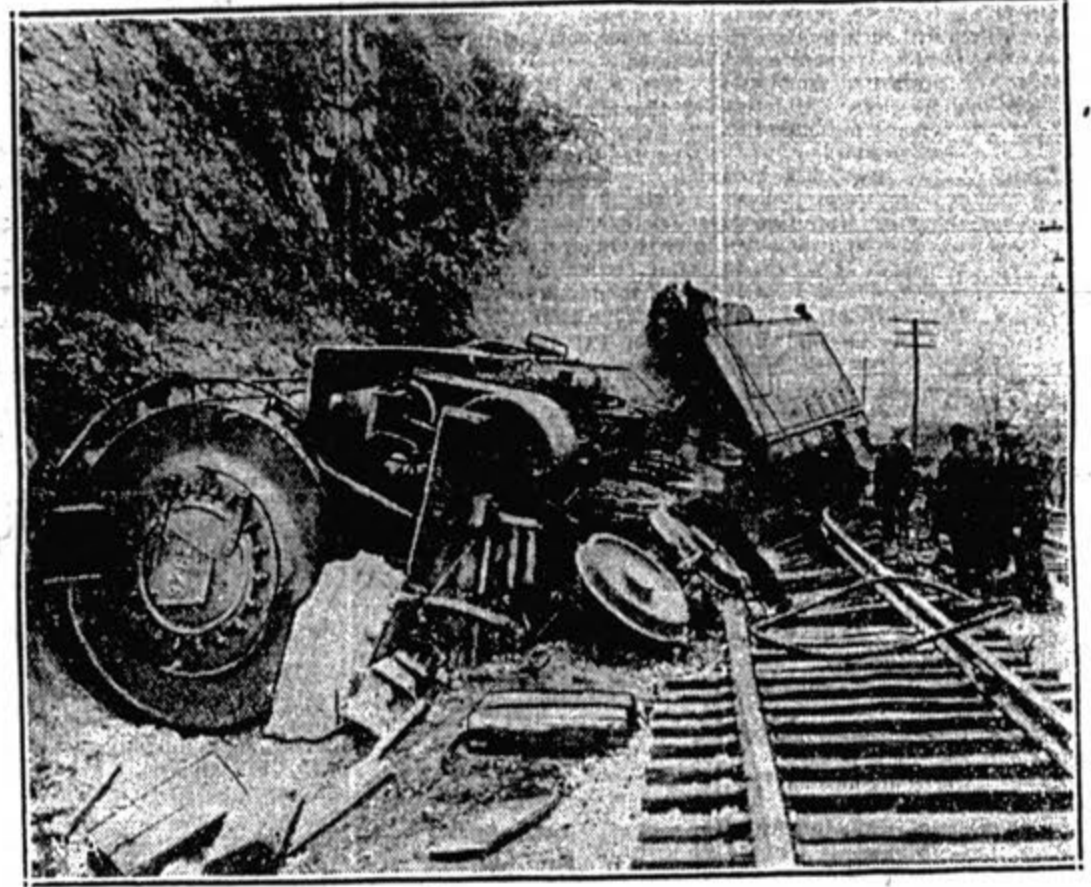

Governor Henry H. Horton of Tennessee, above, may face impeachment proceedings if a resolution is acted upon to study the report of a legislative investigation of the conduct in office. One member of the committee has accused him of "falsifying."

DEDICATION OF CORNELL'S MEMORIAL TO WAR DEAD

"A commemoration of sacrifice, not a glorification of war—" that was the way President Hoover described the student dormitory at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., when it was consecrated by a broadcast from Hoover's Rapidan camp as the university's memorial to its 264 World War dead. The dormitory is shown above. Below are Bishop Ashton Oldham of Albany, Cornell alumnus who pronounced the invocation; Frank H. Hisecock, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals, who presided; and President Livingston Farrand of Cornell, as they appeared at the dedication.

ENGINEER DIES, PASSENGERS ESCAPE IN WRECK

Speeding from Pittsburgh to Buffalo, this seven-coach Pennsylvania express crashed into a five-ton rock which had fallen on the tracks in a landslide. The engineer, L. H. Hillgrove, was killed but the passengers were uninjured.

HER BEAUTY WINS REAL LAURELS

It's laurel blossom time in the Pocono mountains, and the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York will be represented in a ten-day celebration. Strikingly pictured here against a background of the flowers is Miss Elsa Beamish, of Philadelphia, who has been chosen as queen of the festivities in the mountain resorts. Her coronation will take place at Stroudsburg.

NAVY'S HUGE NEW AIRSHIP IS NEARING COMPLETION

A mass of steel framework only a few weeks ago, the giant Navy airship Akron is shown here in its hangar in Akron, O., in the final stages of its metamorphosis. The control car, shown projecting below the streamlines, will house the commander and his staff. The radio cabin and commanding officer's quarters are directly above the car, inside the hull. The big ship is expected to take the air this summer.

HE WALKED

Sure, he won in a walk. And here you see Harry L. Clark of Boston as he did so in the 50,000-meter national A. A. U. walk at Franklin Park, in the Massachusetts capital. His time was 5 hours, 26 minutes, 41 seconds.

HE JUMPED

Yes, sir—a perfect landing! Above is an unusual bit of action as Nathan Muller, New York high school athlete, finished a running high jump of 5 feet 10 1/2 inches to tie for first place in the national interscholastic track and field championship held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

HE WATCHED

Even though President Ernest L. Hopkins of Dartmouth College was there to root for his track athletes, they met defeat at the hands—and feet—of Harvard thinly-clad in their annual meet at Cambridge, Mass. The camera caught President Hopkins in this attentive pose as he watched one of the trial heats.

BATTLES MOTHER HAWK IN MID-AIR

Dangling 20 stories in the air, Victor Nave, San Francisco window washer, barely escaped death when an enraged sparrow hawk attacked him. Nave brushed down a nest while at work and the mother hawk flew at him, lacerating his face and hands before he could kill it with his "aquegee" as he is demonstrating here.

Sound Insulation

ACOUSTIC design is of great importance in the construction of buildings. It involves both the reduction of disturbing reverberation in large rooms, and the elimination of sound transmission from one room to another. In order to perform these two acoustic functions, the preventing of reflection and transmission, the wall must absorb the sound.

function of special sound deadening materials. W. L. W., the Crosley Radio Broadcasting Station, is built entirely of cinder blocks. This material was used in the construction of this station because of its high sound deadening features. As partition tile in apartments, hotels, hospitals, schools or residences, Cinder Concrete Building Units reduce the transmission of sound to a minimum by their built-in sound absorption. The stability of walls of Cinder Block and Cinder Tile together with the cellular structure of the material account for these important features of sound insulation.

RIALTO
"Mother's Cry," which will open at the Rialto Theatre today is the screen version of Helen Grace Carlisle's novel of the same name. With rare discretion director Herbert Henley has chosen to reproduce the vividness of the novel exactly as written.

All the paths, and dramatic poignancy of Miss Carlisle's story are faithfully recorded in the celuloide adaptation. The story rings true from every standpoint, and for sheer drama and realism, has yet to be beaten since the advent of the sound medium.

With a cast that seems as though it were made for the characters, Henley has guided the picture through its many vicissitudes, and has brought out the wide humanity of the story.

The story deals with a mother's love and self-sacrifice for her children. It typifies the American home more realistically than has ever been done before. All the grief and heartbreak of a mother defending her "bad boy" against the world is seen.

Nor are the lighter moments neglected. Henley has inserted little realistic touches of home life, which are so dear to every mother's heart.

Dorothy Peterson, who plays the part of "Mary," the mother, gives a splendid interpretation of the hard-working woman, whose only thought is for her children.

A VALUABLE AID
Gloucester, Mass.—Airplanes are proving a valuable aid to coast guard rescue crews stationed along the north Atlantic coast. These planes carry a special life-line and drop it across the structure of a stranded ship, thereby allowing the breeches buoy to be connected between the ship and the shore. Tense, human, gripping in its amazing story of a young mother and her children who walk the high road and low road of destiny.

A picture that every member of the family should see—

Danny was my first baby, my first joy, my first pain. That pain is strong, er now, because they are taking him from me forever. He has shamed me, but I love him more than ever. Because he is in trouble—and I—I am his mother!

Helen Grace Carlisle's novel that Fannie Hurst, Theodore Dreiser, John Erskine and every leading critic hailed as a masterpiece.

Betty didn't believe in marriage and babies. She spoke of a love that shocked and hurt me. Where would it lead her? How could I stop her? What strange fate was making my children—why babies so different from me?

Love born of a baby's first sweet kiss. That's why mothers cry with heart tears. The screen tells all, with a fearlessness that has never been excelled.

ACME QUALITY HOUSE PAINT COSTS LESS per job per year

An average house has 4,800 square feet of paintable surface. It can be painted with any kind of "ordinary" house paint at a small saving per gallon. But, as a home owner, you know that it's the cost per year that counts—not the saving per gallon.

Acme Quality NEW ERA House Paint, due to fine quality, covers 360 square feet of surface, two coats. Only 13 gallons are needed for a handsome job. Compare this with "ordinary" paint which covers only 275 square feet. You need 17 gallons,—figure it out. NEW ERA, you will find, costs less by the job. Also NEW ERA looks good for 5 years. "Ordinary" paint is through in 3 years.

So ACME Quality NEW ERA costs less by the job—and less by the year. And that is real economy. If you'd like to see the actual figures as applied to your home, ask us. Do this before you buy any house paint.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding supper and dance was given at the Hotel Durant with 18 guests present. The couple then left by motor for a month's tour of the west.

The bride was born and raised in Gladstone and attended the public schools, moving away from here to Flint three years ago.

Fifty Entrants in Home and Garden Contest Thus Far

One more day of grace is being afforded residents to enter in Manistique's second annual Home and Garden Contest. The contest was at first scheduled to close on May 31, but inasmuch as this date falls on Sunday, the committee decided to keep the contest open 24 hours longer.

Fifty entries have been received to date and as there is a total of 37 prizes, entrants have an excellent chance at the $720 prize money. Many of last year's prize winners seem to be under the impression that they are not eligible for prizes this year. Walter M. Moon, chairman of the Paint-Up and Clean-Up committee, declares that those who won prizes last year may also win awards in this year's contest.

Property owners may register in the following classes: first class comprises vacant lots and property assessed at $500 or less; second class $501 to $1,000; third class, $1,001 to $1,500; fourth class, $1,501 to $2,000; fifth class, $2,001 to $2,500; sixth class, $2,501 to $3,000.

Prize Awards
Six prizes will be awarded in each of the six classes as follows: first prize $35, second $25, third $20, fourth $15, fifth $10 and sixth $5. In addition to the above awards a grand champion prize valued at $50 will be awarded to the home owner making the most substantial improvement to his property. The award will be made irrespective of class divisions.

Entrants in the contest are reminded that the judges will make frequent trips about the city this summer on inspection tours so that it will behoove residents to keep their homes and property in first class shape throughout the summer months.

Take advantage of this last opportunity to enter the contest by filling out the entry blank on this page and mailing it to Walter M. Moon, committee chairman.

Johnson Cottage Burned to Ground Early Yesterday

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the cottage belonging to J. B. Johnson, of Milwaukee, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning at Copenhagen beach, Indian lake. The loss is estimated at more than $2000, only a small part of which is insured. The building was burned to the ground and all contents destroyed in the flames.

Adjacent cottages belonging to Harry Erickson and Miss Ruth Simmons were periled by the flames, the Erickson cottage being slightly scorched. The blaze was first noticed by a party of campers who telephoned the local fire department from Arrowhead Inn. Efforts of the department were concentrated on the nearby cottages as the fire had progressed so rapidly that hopes of saving the Johnson cottage were futile.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson arrived in the city to spend the week-end

Short Hay Crop Indicates Good Market In 1932

"As far as we can judge this early in the year the 1931 hay crop will be short over most of the country. Perhaps not as great a shortage as last year, but considerable below normal nevertheless," said B. A. Heath, agricultural development agent of the South Shore railway, Marquette.

"Last year many farmers had to pasture new seedlings as the drought cut their other pasturage short and these new seedlings were already badly damaged by the dry weather. This left little cover for winter, and considerable winter killing resulted. The country as a whole is apt to be short of hay simply because of the smaller acreage of good meadow coming through the winter," continued Mr. Heath.

"U. P. farmers may again find a good market for hay next winter and spring. Most farmers don't think they brought very good prices this spring, but when you come to compare the prices of hay with those for grain in the big markets, hay prices were not so bad. Next winter the returns from hay should compare very well with those from other cash crops such as flax, peas, etc., if market values of these crops continue to hold the same relation to each other as now."

How Good Must Your Cow Be to Earn Her Keep?

Never before has it been so imperative that low producing cows be culled out. There are on farms in the U. S. more cows being milked than ever before and there are more heifers being saved, so if the dairy situation is to improve there must be a selling off of surplus stock.

A cow that would formerly make a profit, now is losing money. It takes a cow that will produce 300 pounds butterfat and 7,500 pounds of milk a year to show a profit over feed cost. Cost of feeding such a cow would be approximately $15 for silage, $18 for hay, $33.60 for grain and $10 for pasture, making a total of $76.60. Butterfat at 27 cents would bring $31.17 leaving a profit of $4.57. You just get paid for your hay and grain with this cow.

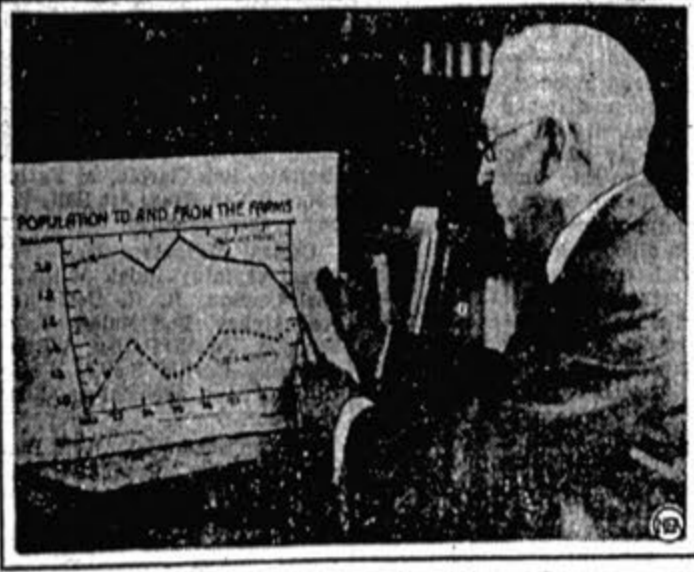

A cow producing 250 pounds of butterfat and 6,500 pounds of milk would eat as much hay, silage, and the pasture would cost as much, the only difference would be in the grain which would cost approximately $28.48, making a total of $71.48. 250 pounds of butterfat at 27c would bring in $67.50 or a loss of $3.98. This cow will not even pay market prices for what she eats.

Comparatively low prices are due probably for a couple of years, so it would seem better to sell off all cows producing under 300 pounds of butterfat, and either use the feed she would eat to feed your other cows, or sell the feed.

The best way to find the cow that is not paying her way is through the cow testing association work.

Russia produced 1,351,000 bales of cotton in 1929, and 1,850,000 bales in 1930.

FARM-TO-CITY TREND REVERSES ITSELF

The chart which Dr. C. J. Galpin is examining shows the trend of the farm-to-city and city-to-farm movements of the population.

By NEA Service
Washington, D. C.—Fewer people left farms in the United States for cities last year than in any year since 1926, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and more people moved from cities to farms last year than in any other year since 1924. The net result is the largest farm population in the last 10 years.

Dr. C. J. Galpin, rural sociologist of the Department of Agriculture, has prepared a chart which shows these trends have been going on since 1926, or in the case of the movement back to the farm, since 1925.

The significance of the trends for the last few years may be seen in a statement by L. H. Bean, senior economist of the department, in which he says, "The yearly movement of population from farms to cities and from cities back to the country appears to reflect the yearly changes in the condition of agriculture and of general business."

Income Rules Movement
Bean says improvement in farm income, in a seven-year period studied, was accompanied by a smaller movement of population from farms, and a decline in income was accompanied by an increased shift to industrial centers. Similarly, the movement from cities to farms has been greater in years of dull business conditions and smaller in years of plentiful employment.

The number of persons who left farms for towns and cities last year was 1,543,000 compared with 1,876,000 persons in 1929, and a peak movement of 2,155,000 persons in 1924.

The movement from cities to farms last year was 1,392,000 persons compared with a peak movement of 1,396,000 persons in 1924.

Farm Population Increased
Although the net movement away from farms last year was 151,000 persons, a normal increase of 359,000 births over deaths on farms brought the farm population on Jan. 1, 1931, to 27,436,000 persons as compared with 27,222,000 persons on Jan. 1, 1930.

The tendency to leave farms abroad has received a decided check according to the Department of Agriculture, in the middle Atlantic, south Atlantic and north central, and east north central states, in which area 262,000 fewer persons left farms in 1930 than in 1929.

Prize Lehighorns On Fadless Farm Free of Disease 30 Years
Aurora, N. Y. (AP)—A poultry farm here, celebrating its fiftieth birthday, boasts of virtual freedom from disease for 30 years.

The farm also claims credit for having supplied the foundation for practically every well-known strain of single-comb White Leghorn in existence.

The farm got its start back in 1851, when Charles H. Wyckoff found that poultry paid better than anything else on his farm. In 1929 Owen H. Kenyon became owner-manager.

Today its capacity is 2,500 layers and it occupies ten and a half acres.

Guided by no rules, Wyckoff selected, culled and mated his White Leghorns. Ten years after he started his flock was credited with being the first in the country to have a record of more than 200 eggs.

Mature hens of the present "egg week" 4 1/2 to 5 pounds; the eggs are uniformly white and average for the mature pullet 24 ounces to the dozen, and for the hen, 26 ounces. The strain runs remarkably uniform to true lehighorn true and whiteness of plumage. There has not been an epidemic at the farm in 30 years.

Kenyon says fads never have been followed, and he includes the trapnest and "egg record craze" among them. No man, in the opinion of Mr. Kenyon, "can put more eggs in a hen than nature put there, or change the germ plan."

"It is up to the breeder," he says, "using careful methods, to conserve, maintain and gradually increase the strength and vigor of his fowls so as to enable them to bring the largest number of these eggs to full development."

Here is how the breeding is done on the farm: Flocks are replenished from hens in their third year. The hens making up these pens were originally hatched from eggs from carefully selected stock of the same age. The birds are watched while developing, and any showing signs of weakness are eliminated.

In keeping the farm free from disease, natural and artificial drainage removes excess water and carries off impurities. The yards are treated annually with air-slaked lime, and each yard is kept in a loose, mellow condition by deep plowing. All are seeded to dry for further absorption, and planted each season to corn and soy beans.

Bull Pen Will Be Built June 2 At H. Vermote's

Lack of adequate facilities for managing the dairy bull is one of the greatest handicaps to permanent dairy herd improvement. Under present conditions many good young bulls are slaughtered before their value as a sire is proved. In this way hundreds of bulls worth thousands of dollars from the standpoint of breeding are lost each year to dairymen of the county, says J. E. Turner, Delta county agricultural agent.

A demonstration exercising pen and safety breeding chute will be built in Delta county on June 2 through the cooperation of the county agricultural agent and the Dairy and Agricultural Engineering Departments of Michigan State College. This pen will be built on Henry Vermote's farm at St. Nicholas.

On Wednesday, June 3rd, a bull pen and safety breeding chute will be built on the farm of George Ragner at Wallace.

With a bull pen and safety breeding chute it is never necessary to handle a bull. He is always safely kept in the pen and can be of no danger to anyone. The bull will also like it better, and will remain in service longer by the use of the pen. Old bulls that have proved their ability to transmit production can be kept with safety, thus saving money to the dairyman, by keeping bulls in service over a longer period.

The bull pen can be built of posts and poles, which can be cut on most farms in the county, and the breeding chute can be built at a cost of $12,000 to $14,000.

At 1:30 a meeting will be held at the demonstration to explain the construction and use of such a pen.

Quality Counts In Dairy Trade Today

Prices of dairy products are low and because of the low prices, people are buying only the best, and the poorer grades go begging on the market.

Dairy products have greater competition today than ever before. The housewife is continually reminded through advertisements to use many other products in place of dairy products such as tomato juice, sauerkraut, fruit juices of all kinds, and also oleomargarine. If the dairyman is to meet this competition he must produce nothing but the very highest quality product possible.

Milk and cream are clean and wholesome when they come from the cow that is free of disease and if the product is not of high quality it is someone's fault along the line.

Use of small tin milk pails, cotton pad strainer discs, immediate cooling of milk will do wonders towards keeping the quality of the milk high.

WALL STREET BRIEFS.

New York, May 30.—The first half of a double holiday was observed in Wall Street today, with business suspended until Monday morning because of Memorial Day.

The New York stock and curb exchanges, commodity exchanges and banks were closed.

A study of the cycles of general business and textile activity since the war, made by the Tuttle-Chatillon Corp., indicates that the next peak in the general business cycle will be recorded in 1932, but that it will not be as high as that reached in either 1932 or 1929, the current issue of "Textile Oregon" says. The study shows the general business cycle reaches its peak every third year and the textile cycle every other year.

Five-sevenths of the estimated coal reserves of the world are in North America. More than half of the bituminous coal of the world is in the United States.

Crack, And She's Out

"This shell ain't what it's cracked up to be, so I guess I'll go out and see what the world's like," says little Miss Chick. A photographer at Akron, Ohio, caught her just as she made her worldly debut.

"Well, here I am. I'm not so good-looking now, but just you wait until I get all the way out of this shell."

"Whoops! Still a little weak on my pins, but I'll be up and around soon."

"Well, well! So this is the world! I'll be seen 'yuh' next year—but I'll probably be stewed or fried then."

Cultivate Now to Get Best of Weeds

Use of the spike tooth harrow, weeder, or similar tools on ground planted to potatoes or corn while these crops are starting to grow will save a lot of later cultivation to control weeds.

For the most effective use of these tools the ground should be gone over whenever weed seed are sprouting, and before they are showing green. With these tools a much greater amount of ground can be covered in a day than with a cultivator, thus making a considerable saving in the cost of keeping weeds down.

Illinois farmers spread more than 925,000 tons of limestone on their soil during 1930.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT
"Body and Soul," Fox Movietone drama, opening today at the Delft Theatre, features Charles Farrell in the leading role, opposite his new leading lady, Elissa Landi.

Farrell, recently voted the most popular male star of pictures, needs no introduction to fans of this country. Miss Landi, however, is a new comer to American films. She scored triumphs on both stage and screen in Europe and then repeated her success on the Broadway stage before signing with Fox Movietone. Film critics are hailing her as the most sensational screen "find" of the year.

Myrna Loy, famous screen siren, and Humphrey Bogart, former Broadway star, are the other featured players in this production which is based on "Squadrons," stage play of Elliott White Springs and A. E. Thomas. Alfred Santell directed.

Monday's Program
Helene Millard's realistic scream of death in "The Divorcée" was the sensational bit of emotional acting that started her on her rapid upward flight to screen success.

Since this momentous occasion, she has been awarded increasingly important roles, climaxed by her latest success in "Doctor's Wives." Fox drama co-feature Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett which comes to the Delft Theatre today.

The story revolves about the tempestuous romance and marriage of Baxter and Miss Bennett. Baxter, as "Dr. Jude Penning," successful and handsome young surgeon, is much sought after by many of his female patients for other than his medical advice.

Helene Millard is the chief of these admirers, and her dark, alluring beauty is the contributing factor for Joan Bennett's jealousy when she discovers them together. Others in the distinguished cast are Victor Varconi, Paul Porcasi, Cecilia Loftus, Nancy Gardner and George Chandler. Frank Barzaga directed.

AT THE MICHIGAN
"Mr. Lemon of Orange," the Fox comedy which had its premiere performance at the Michigan Theatre last night, is one of the funniest pictures of the year to be shown on a local screen.

El Brendel, famous Swedish dialect comedian, and Fifi Dorsay, vivacious French comedienne, have the starring roles and succeed in keeping the fun going from the first scene until the final fadeout.

Miss Dorsay shines as the night club singer and incidentally delivers a clever song to prove she really can sing. "My Racket is You" has a rather catchy swing to it.

Brendel appears in a dual role in this picture, the first as the offensive toy clerk, "Mr. Lemon," and the other as the hard-boiled gang leader, "Silent McGee." The contrast in the two portrayals is very convincingly done, and Brendel proves that he really can act a straight part as well as do his usual Swedish characterization to a queen's taste.

Largest Track Crowd in History Sees Relays

MOUNTAINEERS WIN 3 AWARDS

Escanaba Gets One Cup; Gladstone Takes One for Good

Featured by the appearance of Lee Sentman, C. D. Werner, and Verne McDermont, all of the University of Illinois, the Fourth Annual Upper Peninsula Relays held at the Escanaba Athletic field attracted the largest crowd of fans ever to witness a track meet in this city.

Sentman and Werner ran a 120-yard high hurdles race, which Sentman won in the fast time of 14.6 seconds, just a fifth of a second slower than the world's record. In the 100-yard race against a high school sprinter, Sentman was nipped by Christman of Kingsford, in 10.1 seconds. To top off the day, Sentman and Werner ran a 120-yard flight of low hurdles in 12.3. They finished in a dead heat and the men gave the fans an unexpected thrill when they hurled the final string instead of breaking it.

Ekymos Get Cup

McDermont appeared in a pole vault exhibition which was well received by the fans. The Illinois vaulter vaulted 13 feet, 6 inches, which is the same height Tommy Warne of Northwestern vaulted in the feature of the 1930 Relays. McDermont attempted to make 14 feet but failed in three attempts.

Iron Mountain high school topped three of the 14 trophies to take highest honors. Other schools which won trophies are: L'Anse, Wakefield, and Rock River, two each; Gladstone, Escanaba, and Soo each won one. Section one of the Franklin copped the eighth grade trophy and the Franklin seventh grade won the seventh grade 440-yard cup.

Three of the trophies were won permanently yesterday, Gladstone, Rock River, and Soo each winning their medley relay for their third year. New cups will be offered in these events next year.

In addition to the three marks set up in the sprint medley for the first time, old records in the low hurdles, and 880-yard Class C relays were shattered. V. Johnson, of Iron Mountain, ran the low hurdles in 25.8 seconds, bettering the old record held by Jensen, of Escanaba, in 27.6 seconds. L'Anse ran the 880-yard Class C relay in 1:40.3, bettering the record held by Gladstone in 1:41.3.

Relay Results

Iron Mountain's 880-yard relay team came through to win the event true to form but Escanaba which placed second led the field until the last lap when the Mountaineers grabbed the lead which Johnson, anchor man, easily maintained.

Before the races were held, the American Legion drum and bugle corps, Legion firing squad, and Escanaba band participated in a flag raising ceremony which was exceptionally impressive.

The results of the events follow:

Pole vault: Anderson, and Herbert, of Escanaba tied for first and second. Height 11 ft., 3 in. 230 yard low hurdles: V. Johnson, Iron Mt., first; Battalgeon, of Escanaba, second. Time 25.8 seconds. New record.

The Nut Cracker

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY
Author of "Ptomaine Poisoning of -- Pens" and "Mustard Baths for Piapole Sitters"

Cleveland.—Max Schmeling and Young Stribling posed together for a couple of pictures here the other day shaking hands. It was later denied by Joe Jacobs, however, that Schmeling was considering a job as Willie's chauffeur.

Max and Willie were referees in the International Golden Gloves bouts recently in Chicago and sat amiably together at the ringside talking about the weather. Maybe this prizefight July 3 should be moved to The Hague.

In the days (not so long ago, either) a prizefighter used to train by threatening his opponent all day and spending the evening scowling at his adversary's picture. Now they play hoists together and enjoy pleasant visits chatting about the probable size of the gate.

Dempsey wrote Tunney a snappy letter in which he expressed the view that a person of Tunney's timid disposition never should be champion while a heavier mauler like Dempsey was around.

Away back in the days of Sullivan and Corbett, two boxers matched for a fight actually used to try to figure out some way of hitting each other.

TROJANS TAKE FOUR A MEET

Nose Out Stanford in Hectic Battle; Six Records Broken

BY ALLAN GOULD
(Assoc. Press Sports Editor)
Franklin Field, Philadelphia, May 30.—The Trojans of Southern California answered Stanford's track and field challenge today with a sensational counter-barrage of record performances and won the intercollegiate AAAA championships for the second straight year in a dazzlingly close battle for points.

Six record feats were achieved, five of them by Southern California stars, as the Trojans barely beat their Pacific coast rivals in as brilliant a succession of performances as the classic 55-year-old college meet has ever witnessed.

Southern California finished with the victorious total of 46 6-7 points while Stanford, giving battle every step and inch of the route, amassed 44 22-35 points. The scramble of fractions and places was so close that the outcome was undecided until Bill Graber, Trojan pole vaulter, outdid himself to leap to a new meet record of 14 feet, 3/4 inch in the fifteenth and final event of the day.

The total point scores was: Southern California 46 6-7; Stanford 44 22-35; Pennsylvania 21; Cornell 19 2-5; Harvard 15 2-7; Yale 13 22-35; Michigan 9; California 8 1-5; Brown and Georgetown 6 each; Fordham and Columbia 5 each; Dartmouth 4 3-7; Penn State and Bowdoin 4 each; Williams & Mary 3; Princeton 2 3-7; CCNY, Michigan State and Boston college 2 each; Syracuse, Colgate and Williams 1 each.

Williams Equals Record

Vic Williams, slim Trojan racer, struck the most sensational blow for his team's benefit when he turnd the tables on the brilliant Stanford sophomore, Ben Eastman to win the 440-yard run and equal Ted Meredith's 15 year-old world record of 47.4 seconds.

From there on Southern California stars conducted a wholesale assault on records. Frank Wykoff whipped Eddie Tolan by inches in the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds to equal his own meet record; Dick Barber leaped to a new I. C. A. A. A. board jump mark of 25 feet, 3/4 inches; and Ernie Payne in the 220-yard low hurdles, raced to victory in 23.6 seconds, equalling the meet record first set in 1898 by the late A. C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania.

Stanford Handicapped

All told the athlete coached by Dean Cromwell romped off with six first places and scored points in ten of the fifteen events. It was not only the Trojan's second straight victory in the team championship but their fourth in seven years. They won previously in 1925, 1926 and 1930.

Stanford, handicapped severely by the loss of two brilliant performers in Hec-Dever in the sprints and Captain Prodge Smith in the hurdles, nevertheless gave Southern California a sensational battle in a meet that again saw the coast outclassed for the tenth time in eleven years.

PHILS TAKE DOUBLE BILL FROM BRAVES

Philadelphia, May 30. (AP)—Magnificent hurling by Ray Benge in the morning game and by Clise Dudley in the afternoon game gave the Phillies a double triumph over the Boston Braves today. The scores were 10-0 and 12-0.

Chuck Klein led the Philly assault with his 10th and 11th home runs of the year, one in each game.

Berger also hit a home run, a drive which cleared the left field wall. It was the first time the trick has been turned since Cliff Lee accomplished it in 1922.

Benge allowed only four hits in the morning encounter while Dudley limited the Braves to three in the night cap.

ESKYMOS TAKE TENNIS MEET

Cop Every Match in U. P. Tourney; Final Matches Today

For the fourth consecutive year the Escanaba high school net squad copped the upper peninsula regional net meet in a walk-away, taking every match, clinching both the singles and doubles titles and making it an all-Escanaba final.

In quarter-final play yesterday Frank Burke eliminated his team mate, Frank Lindsay, in a tight match after dropping the initial set, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2. Tomorrow he will meet Robert Bartella who won from Lovell of Naganee by default. Robert McEwen put by default. Robert McEwen also of Naganee in a lazy affair, the Scot grabbing eleven consecutive games before dropping the only one that Helonen managed; the score, 6-0, 6-1. ### 60,000 Fans Watch Cubs Conquer Twice

New York, May 30. (AP)—Before 60,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a National League double header, the Brooklyn Robins won two games from the Giants today. The Robins took the first 5 to 2 in ten innings, then hammered out an 13 to 8 decision in the second.

In the opener, Carl Hubbell's pitching had the Robins almost stopped up to the ninth inning. Then Bressler's pinch single with two out tied it up and Bissonette clouted a homer with two on base to win. Bissonette also hit a homer in the second game but it was just one of Brooklyn's 22 hits. Slade went him one better by clouting a four-bagger with the bases full in the fourth to give the Robins a commanding lead. Wally Gilbert hit six times in seven trips to the plate in the night cap.

ESCANABA PAYS ANNUAL TRIBUTE

Program Saturday Proves Outstanding; Legion Corps Makes Hit

While an army plane purring overhead dipped low to scatter flowers on the waters of Bay de Noc, Escanaba residents stood at attention Saturday morning to pay tribute to those who have given their lives in the services of the U. S. Navy, and then proceeded to Lakeview cemetery where similar memorial rites were said for the soldier dead of the community.

Sponsored by Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, with T. J. Lynott as chairman of the committee in charge, the program on Memorial Day was an outstanding one. Records of many years were broken in the number taking part in the parade and the crowd attending the services at the city park and cemetery.

The event also marked the first appearance of the Escanaba Legion drum and bugle corps, and won for them a permanent place in all of Escanaba's parades and celebrations. The Escanaba Municipal band, Escanaba high school band, the bright uniforms of the drum corps and the uniformed school students gave color to the parade throughout the long line of march.

Impressive Services Held At Bark River

Bark River, May 30 (Special)—Residents of this community had a very successful Memorial Day program. The services started at 3 p. m. with the singing of "America," followed by an invocation by August Quist, and an address by the Hon. Helmer Bruce of Bark River, member of the state legislature.

The ensemble singing the opening song was composed of the following: Merl Lagerquist, Marguerite Lagerquist, Cecile Kileman, Evelyn Olson, Eileen Gasman, and Marie Konkle.

The firing squad, buglers, color party, and members of the drum and bugle corps from the Escanaba Legion post, took charge of the military memorial services. Other numbers on the program were: Recitation, "Memorial Day"—Russell Honeywell. Recitation, "In Flanders Field"—Philip Norman. Recitation—Russell Honeywell. Salute—Philip Norman. ### 25 Children Are Members of This Escanaba Family

Mr. and Mrs. George Chalkline

BY ADRIENNE TOUSIGNANT

Probably the last man in the world to be credited with having lived a life of romance is the man who plays the bass fiddle in an orchestra or the man who tolls the church bells at a funeral, and yet, George Chalkline, and his wife, 316 South Seventh street, Escanaba, have the distinction of having had the largest family in this section of the peninsula, and probably in the entire state. Mrs. Chalkline is the mother of 25 children, and her second husband, George Chalkline, is the father of 22 of them. They are also first cousins.

Miss Emma Chalkline, daughter of the late William Chalkline, an Englishman, whose parents came from England many years ago, and Julia Montigny, a French Canadian, was born April 12, 1875, at Morgan Heights, near Negaunee, Mich., and at the age of five years was brought to Fayette, on Bay de Noc, by her parents. Her father was employed as fireman of the charcoal kilns, an industry which was discontinued many years ago.

Married at 15
It was in Fayette that she met the late William Cronmiller whom she married on November 9, 1890, when she was 15 years of age. To this union three children were born. The family moved to Ishpeming where on September 27, 1894, Mr. Cronmiller was drowned, leaving her a widow at 19, with three small children. Her parents, who had moved to Ford River Mills, near Escanaba, in the meantime, where Mr. Chalkline was employed as caretaker of a large farm owned by the Ford River Lumber company, went to Ishpeming to attend the funeral and took their daughter and her children home with them. A few months later her little son, George, Jr., died.

In Ford River she met her cousin, George Chalkline, son of Thomas Chalkline and Olive Bossley, both of English descent. George Chalkline was born in New York in 1870 and came to Ford River at the age of 18. He was employed as a barber by William Peterson, and the two young people soon grew very fond of each other. They were married at St. Anne's church in Escanaba by the late Rev. Father P. C. Meenard on August 20, 1896. Mr. Chalkline at the time was 26 years old and Mrs. Chalkline was 21. Of this union 25 children were born, 17 of whom have passed away.

The living children are: Mrs. Arsene Beauchamp of Escanaba and Mrs. Walter Peltier of Gladstone, children of Mrs. Chalkline by the first marriage, and Roy Chalkline, Mrs. Myrtle Wallin, and Rueben Leonard and Gladys Chalkline, all of this city. There are also a number of grand children.

The couple have planned to celebrate the thirty-fourth anniversary of their marriage in August of this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalkline are members of St. Anne's church where Mr. Chalkline is employed as janitor.

Window Peepers

Iron Mountain—Residents of the east side, particularly in the district including East A and H streets, are breathing easier today as the result of the arrest of Dewey Tallier, 17, and Gerald Goodchild, 18, both young men residents of the same district, as window peepers.

Goodchild was nabbed by police at about 10:30 o'clock last night as he stood on a saw-horse peering into a window at the home of Mrs. Joseph Dapato, 718 East B street. Tallier, whom witnesses say occupied a point of vantage on the roof of a shed at the rear of the house, was caught at his home after a chase which led for several blocks.
