

HART, DEMO, WINS IN EIGHTH DISTRICT

FITZROY AGAIN WILL PRESIDE IN PARLIAMENT

SPEAKER SEES NEW FACES IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

BY DE WITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) London, Nov. 3 (AP)—The strangest parliamentary scene of which any speaker of the house of commons ever has looked during the five and a half centuries of that office, today greeted Captain Edward Algernon Fitzroy when, chosen for the third time, he took his seat as presiding officer.

After he had been conducted by force to his great canopied oaken chair in accordance with the tradition which has come down from the colorful days of the Stuarts when speakers hesitated to take office because of the dread of losing their heads, he paused to glance about him and take stock of the unique assembly.

Many New Faces. And he saw 473 Conservatives—the largest representation any party ever has had. Scores of the faces were new and most of those with which he was familiar were among the members supporting Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his national government.

The majority filled their own side of the house and overflowed into the tiny remnant of the erstwhile Labor representation. Virtually all the great leader of the Labor party were missing in the place of their distinguished leader, "Uncle Arthur" Henderson, sat the gray-haired septuagenarian, George Lansbury, whose main business in the recent day of a life spent for others has been to create parks for poor children.

On the government bench sat the prime minister amidst the members of his late national cabinet, all of whom had been loudly cheered as they entered the house. On the side of Mr. MacDonald was Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and former prime minister. On his other side was his lifelong friend and worker in the cause of labor, J. H. Thomas.

A little further along were the two famous Chamberlain brothers, Sir Austen and Neville. Scattered about the house were other familiar personalities—famous for the independence of his views and his biting tongue, and Nancy Lady Astor, looking lovely and pert in a black and white suit.

But one missed many faces without which the house did not seem complete. Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George, the fighting Welshman who has been one of the most picturesque characters England has known, was away, trying to regain his health that he may take again the seat which he was re-elected.

The government bench no longer saw Philip Snowden, the little man in checkered trousers, the dominant figure despite his white drawn face and crippled body. The proceedings were brief and formal, but a few moments of humor were interspersed. Lady Astor was one of the first to impress her presence on the new members. She walked up to Mr.

Demo Control of Next House Foreshadowed

(By The Associated Press) Democratic organization of the next house is foreshadowed by their surprisingly decisive seizure of the Republican stronghold in the eighth Michigan district in yesterday's elections. Although beaten in the first Ohio district where they campaigned relentlessly, the Democrats interpreted the Michigan overthrow as an index to the 1932 presidential campaign. The Republicans countered by relying on retaining the first Ohio and pointing to it as a good sign for next year.

Voters in district eight of Michigan gave 25,744 to Michael J. Hart, Democrat, as against 20,633 to Foss O. Eldred, Republican.

The Republican nominee in the first Ohio, John B. Hollister, ran into a lead of well in the thousands when 203 of the 341 precincts had been counted. The standing was 30,104 for him, against 19,192 for David Lorbach, Democratic nominee.

Holding their own seats in the seventh New York and the twentieth district, the Democrats also expect a good margin to win the New Jersey governorship.

The Republicans took the second Pennsylvania as forecast, along with the first Ohio, but the results left them trailing the Democrats in house standing by two.

JURY TO VISIT MURDER SCENE

Massacre Trial to Shift To Apartment Where Slayings Occurred

Detroit, Nov. 3 (AP)—Prosecution and defense attorneys set the stage today for the visit tomorrow of 14 jurors to the Collingwood Manor apartment where three hoodlums were shot down on Sept. 16—and a fourth spared to testify against the accused slayers.

Inspection of the scene of the crime will be the highlight in tomorrow's session of the trial of Raymond Bernstein, Harry Keywell and Irving Milberg for the murder of Joseph (Izzie) Sutker, who, with Joseph Lebovitz and Herman (Hymie) Paul, was slain. The bullet-riddled bodies of the three victims were found in the apartment late in the afternoon of Sept. 16. A few hours later, Solomon (Solly) Levine, partner of Sutker in a handbook, was arrested. After hours of questioning, he admitted arranging with Bernstein the conference which ended in the massacre of the three men he took to the apartment.

In yesterday's session of the trial, he testified that the defendants and Harry Fleisher, who is still at liberty, comprised the gangland execution squad, denied any intention of setting a trap of the victims and said he did not know why he was spared.

The state has some two score other witnesses. The defense has not revealed its plans. The jurors were taken in a bus today to their polling places, to vote in the municipal election while the trial was in a one-day recess.

MURPHY WINS DECISIVELY IN DETROIT RACE

LEADS EMMONS BY NEARLY 70,000 MAJORITY

Detroit, Nov. 3 (AP)—Mayor Frank Murphy was re-elected today by one of the greatest majorities ever given a majority candidate in Detroit.

With only 47 of the city's 895 precincts unreported, he had a majority of nearly 70,000 over Harold H. Emmons, former police commissioner. The vote was: Murphy 155,098; Emmons 85,593.

In the council race, it appeared certain that Frank Couzens, son of U. S. Senator James Couzens, and former Mayor John W. Smith and John C. Lodge would be elected and that the new council would include only three of the nine present members.

Unemployment Relief. Campaigning for his first full term—he was elected last fall to succeed the recalled Mayor Charles Boles—Mayor Murphy made adequate care for the unemployed a paramount issue. Emmons, whose discharge by Mayor Boles from the police commissioner's office precipitated the recall movement in 1930, attacked the administration's expenditure of $20,000,000 in doles during the last fiscal year.

The city council last summer limited the welfare department to $7,000,000 during the ensuing fiscal year and the mayor has since been active in solicitation of private subscriptions to augment available tax funds. On the eve of the election, he issued an appeal to every family financially able, to undertake the care of a needy family this winter.

The mayor also made independent government an issue and refused to accept campaign contributions from city employees or individuals and organized unions whom he suspected of anti-trust activities in return.

With 338 of the 895 precincts reported, Couzens had increased his plurality to 16,000 in the race for council seats, and Smith was second. The others within the first nine ranked in this order: Richard Lindsay, former city clerk; John S. Hall, incumbent; former Mayor Lodge; Fred W. Castator, incumbent; Edward J. Jeffries, Jr., son of the recorder's judge; Eugene I. Van Antwerp and William P. Bradley, incumbent.

Of the other three incumbents who survived the primary, Philip A. Callahan was tenth, 2,000 votes behind Bradley; George A. Walters was 3,000 votes out of ninth place and Arthur E. Dingleman was 10,000 votes behind and apparently hopelessly out of the race.

Robert Williams, Movie Actor, Dies

Los Angeles, Nov. 3 (AP)—Robert Williams, noted young actor and motion picture star, died in the Hollywood hospital tonight from peritonitis which set in after an appendicitis operation last week. Physicians said delay in seeking an operation aggravated his condition.

Williams, who came to Hollywood to play his original stage role in the screen version of "Rebound," was rehearsing for a picture with Constance Bennett when stricken.

Board to Investigate Naval Charges Halted By Absence of Member

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—The brightly lighted stage of naval controversy was seized by congressional advocates of a strong fleet today to present a demand that the navy be built up to parity with the British at once.

This development came as the Hoover five-man board found itself stalled in its preparations for receiving evidence intended to disprove the charges of William Howard Gardiner that President Hoover was seeking to starve the navy.

John Hay Hammond, one of the members, was missing. Efforts to locate him failed. Others of the committee were sure, however, he would be found by Thursday, and set that day tentatively as the time of meeting.

TAX INCREASE SEEMS LIKELY

Deficit Is Nearly Four Times Greater Than Preceding Year

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—The tremendous federal deficit led today to a flat prediction congress will raise taxes.

Just as storekeepers have been balancing their books for the past day or so, Secretary Mellon's experts had to find out how the treasury stood at October's end. Their answer was $661,000,000 in the hole.

This is almost four times as much as the bad balance shown for the first four months of the last fiscal year, which ended June 30 with the treasury $93,000,000 behind. No sooner did the fact become known than talk of new and higher taxes was revived.

Senator Reed, whose opinions go a long way in administration policy on money matters, said at the capitol he expects congress to adopt some sort of restricted sales tax to get more income. It may be on luxury articles only, but he is convinced the base should and would be broadened.

Whatever is decided, it seems certain much of this year's deficit at least will be cared for as it has last—by adding to the public debt.

The gross debt on October 31 was $17,291,000,000, an increase of more than $1,000,000,000 in a year, with indications pointing to a still greater increase in the coming twelve months.

President Hoover is being kept advised of the outlook from the treasury point of view as well as the congressional. Senator Watson, the Republican floor leader, opposes any tax increase. Senator Harrison, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, joins in that conviction.

The president's position may not become known until his message to congress.

Red Cross Tackles Jobless Problem

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—The unemployment problem of 75,000 disabled veterans, as shown by returns from a nation-wide questionnaire, was tackled today by the American Red Cross.

Chairman John Barton Payne instructed the 3,600 chapters of the Red Cross to get in touch with these veterans with a view to finding them work or providing relief.

He pronounced this group the Red Cross "special charge," during this period of unemployment, and urged utilizing all community machinery to meet relief needs. The card file of unemployed disabled men was compiled through a questionnaire sent out to all veterans' administration to all veterans receiving compensation.

LONG ARGUES HIS CLAIM TO GOVERNORSHIP

SEEKS TO NULLIFY SUIT STARTED BY CYR

Shreveport, La., Nov. 3 (AP)—Brushing aside his array of legal talent, Huey P. Long today argued his own claim to the governorship of Louisiana against the ouster suit of Dr. Paul N. Cyr, who, as lieutenant governor, set up the contention Long is a United States senator and is no longer governor.

Before a crowded court room, the governor argued for an hour and a half to nullify the suit. Frank J. Looney, chief counsel of Cyr, spoke next.

Governor Long argued he will not be a member of the senate until he had taken the oath of office and therefore has a constitutional right to finish his governor's term, ending next May.

Long Argues Case. Looney contended that LONG became a senator last March 4 despite the fact he had not taken the oath and that he ceased being governor when Cyr took the governor's oath last October 13.

Long contended that only the United States senate had authority to pass upon the qualification of a senator and that the district court hearing the suit was without jurisdiction. He further claimed the state legislature, alone, had the right to remove a governor from office and that the courts had no such authority.

He said Dr. Cyr presided over a special session of the state senate in 1931 as lieutenant governor and signed bills and patronage as the lieutenant governor.

"If the defendant in this case became a United States senator," Long said, "he became senator on March 4, 1931. If he was a member of the United States senate on March 4, it was taken over the power of Cyr to have taken over the functions of the office of governor. If the defendant was a member of the United States senate on March 4, he was a member April 4, May 4, June 4, July 4, August 4, and September 4.

On September 15 when he took over the senate as lieutenant governor, Cyr signed the bill to borrow money to pay his expenses. The answer to this, he contended, is that he had not taken the oath of office.

"Yet this same man is coming into this court and contending that I am a United States senator whether or not I have taken the oath of office."

"It is readily seen," said Mr. Looney, "that the law as cited by Mr. Long means that a man unquestionably governor cannot be removed except according to law. It does not mean that when a man voluntarily removes himself from that office, he can remain. He would be an intruder, an usurper. The inconsistency will be determined by the courts."

Plans for Federal Prison Approved

Detroit, Nov. 3 (AP)—Detroit architects designing the federal detention jail to be established near Milan, Mich., announced today their preliminary plans had been approved by federal authorities.

The plans, they said, call for a 400-foot square two-story building with a center court 320 feet square to be used as an exercise yard for the prisoners.

The prison is to be so designed that the inmates may be segregated according to their records. A 193 acre farm tract will surround the buildings, to be cultivated by the inmates.

CITY MANAGER PLAN DEFEATED

Cleveland Voters Turn Against Present Government

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3 (AP)—The city manager form of government appeared doomed tonight in Cleveland, the largest city in the United States to adopt it.

Returns from about a third of the city's precincts showed the amendment to the city charter running ahead comfortably by about a 2,000 majority, the ratio that has been maintained since the beginning of tabulation.

On this basis, the amendment, which provides for the mayor-council form of government, would carry by 10,000 votes. Supplanting the amendment fight, has been the campaign of personalities of former City Manager William R. Hopkins and Maurice Maschke, reputed councilmanic "boss" and opponent of the amendment.

Adopted in 1921 Hopkins tonight won an overwhelming victory in his race for council from his district on a platform opposing Maschke's dominance. The control of the Republican Party in the city, however, remained in doubt with incomplete returns.

The city manager plan was adopted in November, 1921, and it went into effect in January, 1924. This is the eighth time it has been attacked, the last four attacks seriously endangering it.

The change from the city manager form would take place Saturday, City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, being replaced by Burton, who would become mayor. A new council would be elected next year, the members elected tonight holding office until that time.

ELDRID LOSSES ELECTION FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

WINNER ADVOCATES MODIFICATION OF DRY LAWS

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 3 (AP)—Michael J. Hart, Democrat and advocate of prohibition modification, was elected to congress in a special election today in the traditionally Republican Eighth Michigan district which for years sent Joseph W. Fordney to the house of representatives.

Complete returns from the 196 precincts of the six-county district gave Hart a majority of 5,061 over Foss O. Eldred, Ionia lawyer, his Republican opponent, who had the support of dry organizations. The vote was: Hart, 25,744; Eldred, 20,633.

Eldred, in conceding his defeat and congratulating his opponent, attributed the Democratic victory to "dissatisfaction with economic conditions," although he also stated that "the prohibition issue had considerable to do" with the result.

Former Governor Fred W. Green, leaders among the Eldred supporters, attributed the result to economic conditions and unemployment.

In a statement issued tonight at his home here, Hart attributed the Democratic victory to a majority party which, securely entrenched with overwhelming majorities, believed itself secure in riding roughshod over the rights of the people.

Hart carried Saginaw county, an industrial center, and Montclair, an entirely rural county. He also was victorious in Ionia county, the home of his opponent, which is mostly rural. Eldred had small leads in the three other counties of the district, Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee, all rural.

Hart was the first Democrat to carry the district since 1896 when the late Ferdinand Brucker, father of the present Republican governor, was elected. Brucker was beaten by Joseph Fordney in 1898, and Fordney served until 1923 when he was succeeded by Bird J. Vincent, whose death made necessary the special election.

In 1930, Vincent defeated Hart by a vote of 53,891 to 18,835. Mr. Eldred said in conceding defeat: "The prohibition issue undoubtedly" (Continued On Page Three.)

21-Year-Old Boy Sentenced to Die In Electric Chair

Baltimore, Nov. 3 (AP)—Herman Webb Duker, 21-year-old son of a prominent Baltimore family, today was sentenced to hang for the murder of John W. Anderson last April 20.

Dale Lambert, Duker's 19-year-old companion in the attempted holdup, which led to the killing of Anderson, a milk company collector, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The sentences were passed by Judge Joseph N. Utman in criminal court. He found the two boys guilty of first degree murder July a week ago, following their pleas of guilty to the joint indictment charging them with the crime.

Duker received the sentence calmly, stooping from the effects of bullet wounds inflicted by a Los Angeles policeman who captured him several weeks after the killing of Anderson. He looked steadily at Judge Utman as he heard the death sentence, and then turned and was led limping from the court.

Discharged City Employee Turns Off Gas Supply In Hagerstown, Citizens Get Cold Breakfast; Now What to Do With Culprit?

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 3 (AP)—State's Attorney J. Lloyd Harshman of Washington county went clear back to Blackstone today to find a charge under which he could prosecute Benjamin F. Gift for shutting off Hagerstown's gas supply.

Gift, employed by the Hagerstown Gas and Light company for 22 years, was discharged recently. Late last night he entered the company's power plant and turned off the master valve controlling the gas supply of 7,000 homes and several industrial plants.

No gas, no fires, and Hagerstown had cold breakfasts while employees of the company canvassed the city, house to house, to warn all persons to close jets which were burning when the gas was cut off.

Officials would not turn on the supply until the task was completed, fearing fatalities if the flow was suddenly resumed. The canvass was completed at noon and the gas service restored. Gift was arrested, but officials could find no statute on Maryland books under which he could be prosecuted. So Harshman investigated Blackstone and set a hearing for tomorrow on two common law charges gleaned from the commentaries—criminal trespass and criminal nuisance.

Story of Edison

Edison Cared Little for Fame, Enjoying Work More Than Successes

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eleventh of 12 exclusive stories on Thomas A. Edison by Major Joseph Hammer, his scientific associate and lifelong friend, who reveals the human side of the great inventor.

By WILLIAM J. HAMMER, Lifelong Friend and Scientific Associate of Thomas A. Edison. As told to WILLIS J. BALLINGER. Thomas Alva Edison cared little about the perpetuation of his fame. He made no effort to prepare aid for the biographers to come. He was careless about what posterity might think of him as he was, for most of his life, about his personal appearance.

Fame with Edison was always a by-product of his work—never its objective. Edison would have enjoyed life as a failure quite as much as he did as a success. All he sought was an opportunity to be continually busy about his beloved science. Beyond that he never thought.

His assistants waged a long struggle with Edison to make him realize the priceless importance of his first model of the phonograph. It took a long while, but finally, grumbling, became sufficiently interested to keep that famous model in an American museum instead of a British.

Early in 1880 a card was brought to Edison in his laboratory. On it was the name of the chief of the British Patent Office Museum in London, Edison and this noted international authority on inventions discussed the great inventions of history. When the London official was taking his leave he said to Edison:

"Mr. Edison, haven't you one of your many inventions that I could take back to London with me and put in the British Patent Office Museum? We would appreciate it very much."

Edison turned to his assistant, "Go and get my first phonograph and wrap it up," he said.

His aide fairly shouted, "Why, you're not going to let that leave here!"

"That's all right," answered Edison. "You go and wrap it up. I'm not giving it to him. I'm only lending it to him. I can get it back whenever I want to. You think my inventions are far too important."

The model of the first phonograph remained in the British Patent Office Museum until 1889, when Major Hammer asked Edison for a letter to secure it for purposes of exhibition at the Paris Exposition.

Upon presenting the letter, Hammer explained the circumstances to the officials of the Patent Office Museum, stating that Edison had never given the model, but had only lent it. He was told that, while they had nothing to show the Edison had given them the phonograph, they had nothing to show that he had not. They considered it their personal property and relinquished it only on condition that it would be returned after the exposition.

One day Major Hammer went to Orange and told Edison the story of what had happened when the machine was originally loaned. He asked Edison if he had truthfully stated the facts. Edison said, "Yes."

"Well," said Hammer, "suppose I make an affidavit to that effect, and then you can make another backing me up, and then we can make a formal demand on the British government for the return of the machine."

At first Edison demurred, but finally agreed.

Hammer secured an appointment with Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador in Washington. At the conclusion of their conference Sir Esme said that he could understand English officials not being willing to let go of the remarkable machine. But, he added, in view of Edison's affidavit, he felt the machine should be returned to America. Sir Esme said also that he would like to bring the machine in person to Edison, whom he had never met, but whom he admired intensely.

Subsequently, the ambassador sent word to the Edison laboratory at Orange that he had the phonograph. Edison's secretary went at once to Washington. Sir Esme said that official business made it impossible for him to go

Night Coughing Quickly Stopped

Night coughing is almost always caused by an irritated, inflamed throat; so is almost all coughing. Ordinary cough syrups do not reach these conditions, but Thoxine, a prescription exclusively for throat troubles, does. It relieves the irritation and the cough stops within 15 minutes. And Thoxine goes still further—it eliminates the internal cause which many times develops into serious illness.

A swallow of Thoxine before retiring absolutely prevents night coughing, and insures a good night's sleep. It gives the same speedy relief for sore throat too. It contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and children like it. Relief is guaranteed within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. to Orange and suggested that the secretary take the machine with him.

The phonograph is now one of Mrs. Edison's prize possessions.

Mention has been made of two Edison laboratories—the one at Menlo Park and the other at Orange, N. J.

In fact, Edison had seven. The first was in his mother's cellar at Milan, Erie county, O. His second was in the baggage car of the train that ran between Detroit and Port Huron, when he was a lad of 12. He set up his third in Newark following his receipt of $40,000 for his stock ticker. His fourth and greatest was at Menlo Park; his fifth at West Orange. His sixth was in the shop of Bergman and Co., in New York and his last at Fort Myers, Fla.

In his latter days Edison's health necessitated that he go south for the winter. It finally became so imperative that he go south when the first attack of winter weather began, that Edison had to abandon his attendance at the dinner given annually to him by the Edison Pioneers' Society. This dinner was always tendered him on his birthday, Feb. 11. However, though confined in Florida in his last days for the winter, he always sent the Edison Pioneers the heartiest greetings. The first president of this commemorative organization was Francis R. Upton, whom it has been stated was Edison's ablest scientific assistant.

The Edison laboratory at West Orange was undoubtedly the best equipped of all his laboratories. Up to his very last days Edison rarely missed a day of work. He hardly ever took a vacation. In these last days the impairment of his health caused him to take automobile rides. He is said to have remarked on one of these rides that, while the scenery was beautiful, he had "so much to do."

Here was paradox, indeed. A very old man with his once strong body falling rapidly to pieces—already the master inventor of all times—feeling uncomfortable about this slight truce from his work and so unconscious of his pitiful physical condition that he was looking ahead for new worlds to conquer.

Every day when Edison reported for work in his West Orange laboratory he punched the clock, like any mechanic. In place of the old cot that reposed behind the organ at Menlo Park, there was a better one at West Orange. But it was never more favored by Edison's weary body. The inventor retained all his life his capacity to take naps and arise fresh as ever.

Edison probably slept less in his life than any other person alive. He unquestionably holds the world's sleeplessness record and will continue to hold it for all time. If the enormous number of hours that Edison labored while the rest of mankind was sleeping were properly estimated, Edison would not be dead in his eighty-fourth year. He would be somewhere around 200 years old. Life is really our waking hours. And there is no doubt that Edison lived four or five ordinary lives, with his remarkable powers to resist sleep.

His talent for sleeplessness made "the old man" the favorite name by which he was known to his associates—a taxing master, Edison and trade union principles would never have gotten

Elk Missing—Officials of the Escanaba B. P. O. E. lodge have been asked to aid in the search for Robert A. Weller, 47, missing from his home at Harvey, Ill., since Oct. 14. Mr. Weller had considerable money on his person when he disappeared and foul

Roadway Included in Trespass Laws

Lansing—The Horton trespass law applies to a roadway just as much as it does to adjoining lands and hunting on the roadway constitutes trespass unless permission had been given by the adjoining property owner.

This is the answer being given by the department of conservation to numerous inquiries relative to hunting on highway rights-of-way. A year ago the department received an opinion from the office of the attorney general relative to his question. The opinion said that "no person has a right to shoot from the highway any more than he would have a right to go on the land, as the only rights the public have is an easement to pass over."

If the land adjoining the roadway "comes under the Horton law, that is where land is occupied as a farm or a portion of it has been set aside as a game preserve," it is an offense to hunt on the roadway without permission. Otherwise, the action against the hunter would be for trespass, the opinion said.

Shooting from the highway gives the hunter no more right than going on the land and shooting.

NAN TESTIFIES IN LIBEL CASE

Damage Suit Expected to Go to Jury Today in Toledo, Ohio

Toledo, O., Nov. 3 (AP)—Behind the locked doors of the federal court room here, Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," today testified before the jury which is to decide her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion, Ohio, hotel operator.

Miss Britton claimed in her book that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her child. She is suing Klunk on the ground that he circulated another volume, entitled, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she claims damaged her reputation.

The testimony of Miss Britton was kept a secret by order of Federal Judge John M. Killits, but the fact that she was on the stand only about a half hour was evidence that her story was brief.

After Miss Britton had testified, her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, of Chicago, was called. She remained in the courtroom only a few minutes.

MORE HIGHWAY JOBS APPROVED

The elections a year ago gave the Republicans 218 seats against 216 for the Democrats.

Should the Democrats suffer no losses by death, they will be more able to present a united front than the Republicans when the actual battle for house control gets underway.

Practically the entire Democratic membership has pledged support for their leader, Representative John N. Gardner of Texas, for speaker. Their only controversy is over the selection of a floor leader.

On the other hand, the Republicans are torn into factions by a bitter contest over a speakership nominee. Independents in that party are making demands for more recognition.

Which party may organize the house also may be decided on how many members are sick when the roll is called for the vote for speaker.

Civil Courts of Spain Will Decide Marriage, Divorce

Madrid, Nov. 3 (AP)—A cabinet decree granting to civil courts the sole right to judge marital, divorce and nullification questions, hitherto regulated by ecclesiastical law, was presented today to the assembly.

Several Catholic deputies are expected to protest against the decree, but few obstacles are seen in the way of final approval.

In presenting the measure, Provisional President Manuel Azana said it was designed to elevate civil law above canon law in keeping with the trend of the times.

Government ministers said the decree would prepare the nation for the enactment of a specific divorce article in the constitution.

Detroit Students Cast Their Votes

Detroit, Nov. 3 (AP)—Ninety thousand school children voted today in the annual mock election of the Detroit public schools, casting ballots similar to those used in the regular city election.

School children from the sixth through the twelfth grades voted at their respective schools for candidates for the offices of mayor, council, city clerk, city treasurer and two of the special issues before the voters in today's election.

The balloting is a part of the public school system's plan for educating school children in citizenship.

MacDonald to Rest at Scotland Home

London, Nov. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald, looking tired, left with his daughter Isabel tonight for Largsmouth, Scotland, to spend a few days in resting before the formal convocation of parliament next Tuesday.

Asked whether he attached any significance to the fall of the pound sterling during the last few days, he said: "No, I think it was quite normal and was to be expected." He said he did not think it was due to dumping in anticipation of the enactment of a protective tariff.

Accident Wrecks U. S. Navy Blimp

Cape May, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP)—The Navy blimp K-1, largest non-rigid dirigible in the world, was wrecked here tonight as a ground crew maneuvered it into its hangar.

The 220-foot dirigible was just back from a cruise to Lakehurst and had been brought to the ground when darkness had fallen as the ground crew was working the blimp into its hangar when a gust of wind caught it and hurled it against the hangar door.

The nose of the craft was torn and with a roar of escaping helium, the ship collapsed. Lurching in the wind, the gas bag was caught in a barbed wire enclosure and the fabric ripped to ribbons.

The ship's crew of five, commanded by Lieutenant F. Bailey, had left the gondola before the berthing was started.

CREW SAVED AS CRAFT IS SUNK

Charge Boat Deliberately Rammed by Coast Guard Ship

Boston, Nov. 3 (AP)—The crew of nine men from a Canadian power boat was landed in Boston by the coast guard today, their craft the 80-foot Sophie E. at the bottom of the Atlantic.

James A. Brannen, British vice consul in Boston, revealed that the master of the power boat had told him she was deliberately rammed and sunk last night by the American coast guard patrol boat Harriet Lane. Boatwain Maurice D. Jester commander of the Harriet Lane, reported according to coast guard officials, that the Canadian vessel, running without lights, had been sunk in a collision 20 miles off Gloucester.

Brannen said Captain James Bellman of the Canadian boat told him his vessel was lying 19 miles off the Massachusetts coast with a cargo of liquor and that its signals to contact craft on shore attracted the coast guard boat which bore down upon it and sank it. He pointed out, the vice consul said, that he felt within his rights inasmuch as he was seven miles beyond the 12-mile limit.

A coast guard board of inquiry was immediately appointed but it adjourned until tomorrow morning at the request of Matthew F. McGrath, counsel for Bellman. Aside from a statement that the Sophie E. was lying to, with her engines disabled, and an assertion that the coast guard boat was running without lights, Captain Bellman made no statement to newspapermen. His attorney counseled Bellman not to discuss the case until it came before the board of inquiry.

Roosevelt's Plan For Reforestation Is Given Support

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt apparently had won his argument with former Governor Alfred E. Smith over the advisability of New York spending $19,000,000 to plant trees on abandoned farm lands.

Incomplete returns from virtually every section of the state tonight indicated that the voters had rallied to the governor's support, affirming by a substantial margin the constitutional amendment for reforestation.

State Chairman James A. Farley's persistent effort to give Mr. Roosevelt a Democratic assembly in the next legislature failed although the party overturned incumbents in three districts but itself was turned out in two.

Railway Executives To Consider Parley

Chicago, Nov. 3 (AP)—The American association of railway executives announced today it has passed along to the "proper officials" the proposal of the railway labor executives association for a conference on employment stabilization and wages.

R. H. Alshon, chairman of the executives association, said in a telegram to the labor officials, made public here, that "immediate consideration will be given to your suggestion."

"To bring about immediate consideration," the telegram said, "I have transmitted by wire to L. F. Loree, chairman of the eastern presidents' conference; W. R. Cole, chairman of the southwestern presidents' conference; and J. W. Higgins, chairman of the western executives association, the text of your proposal."

Tammany Scores In New York Election

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—Tammany hall swept minor municipal offices into its own corner and returned its usual quota of assemblymen to the legislature today's off-year election in New York.

Samuel Levy, Democrat, retained his post as Manhattan borough president against the onslaughts of Norman Thomas, Socialist, and Col. Edward C. Carrington, Republican.

Despite the heavy vote and the Tammanyward trend, though, the Democratic organization failed where it made its hardest fight—in the district of Assemblyman Abbott Low Moffat, member of the Hotzstadter legislative committee which is investigating the New York City government.

Ralph Capone Again Loses Legal Point

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—It's just one legal reverse after another nowadays for the Capone family of Chicago.

Attorneys today asked the supreme court to delay in notifying a court of appeals that it had refused to review Ralph's conviction for violating income tax laws.

The lawyers explained they intended to ask the supreme court for a rehearing.

"Too late," Charles Elmore Crowley, clerk of the court, told them. "The court of appeals has already been notified."

Only a little while afterwards two judges of the seventh circuit court of appeals denied Capone a stay on the order which will send him to prison soon.

His attorneys again said they intended to ask the supreme court for a rehearing but the judges answered they saw no reason for a further delay.

ELDRER LOSES ELECTION FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

Edly had considerable to do with the Democratic victory, but dissatisfaction with economic conditions took precedent. The fact that dry agricultural counties gave Mr. Hart so heavy a vote indicated the dry farmers are more concerned with unemployment, low farm produce prices and the general economic situation than with prohibition.

"I congratulate Mr. Hart on being the victor in a clean campaign. We agreed there should be no mudslinging and there was none."

Blaimes Depression Governor Wilbur M. Brucker said:

"I have no doubt that inasmuch as we are in the midst of a depression and accompanying unemployment and unrest those factors took first place in the minds of the voters. The vote appeared to be largely one of protest against existing unsatisfactory conditions."

Hart made the following statement:

"I am deeply grateful for the magnificent vote cast for the Democratic ticket. I am not so presumptuous as to construe this vote as any personal compliment to me. It is rather the expression of an aroused electorate, as a protest against the false leadership of a majority party which, securely entrenched with overwhelming majorities, belied itself secure in riding roughshod over the rights of the people."

"I am deeply grateful to the thousands of Republicans who deserted their party today to cast a vote for good government. Without their support this result would not have been possible. I wish to especially thank those patriotic men and women who worked untiringly without compensation to bring about this magnificent result. I can never repay them except in a concentrated public service."

"Combined with my joy over a Democratic victory is the feeling of deep responsibility that I may faithfully represent all the people of this great district regardless of their political affiliations or geographical location. I sincerely trust that when I shall return to you next year to give an account of my stewardship you shall have no cause to regret your action at the polls today."

Perronville Man Is Held for Robbery

Denna Brunette, 28, yesterday admitted to Menominee county officials that he robbed the Perronville postoffice and store owned by Alfred Seing coils and stamps morning, taking the store owned by Alfred Seing coils and stamps morning, shotguns, shells, cigars, cigarettes, candy flashlight batteries and pipes from the store.

Brunette was arrested with the three other suspects by Deputy Sheriff Peter Houle, Menominee county officials and state police after an investigation into the robbery was held. The other suspects were released from custody after Brunette had confessed to the robbery and said he had done the job alone.

Akron Takes Flight With 207 Persons

Lakehurst, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP)—The U. S. S. Akron, largest airship in the world, was aloft today with 207 persons aboard, the largest number ever to fly together.

The navy's newest scout cruiser achieved its record with ease as it soared into the skies over the pine woods with nearly twice the human load it carried on its first long inspection of the eastern seaboard yesterday.

The Akron took off from the field at 8:54 a. m., laden with marines and sailors, regularly stationed at the navy's reservation.

There were 107 aboard on the flight yesterday. Today's training and test cruise, without definite itinerary, necessitated a greater load than even the 100 extra persons would cause. Much more food and water and fuel were stored away for the trip.

PASSION PLAY HERE NOV. 16-18

Famous German Company Booked by Escanaba Legion Post

Through the efforts of Cloverland Post, No. 82, American Legion, Escanaba will be privileged to view the original Freiburg Passion Play featuring the world's most famous "Christus" portrayal, Adolf Fassnacht, supported by the original German cast from Freiburg, Baden, Germany. The play will be presented at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium of Escanaba on November 16, 17 and 18, with matinees on November 17 and 18.

According to Charles W. Kenyon, advance representative of the Passion Play company, who is in the city aiding the American Legion in arrangements necessary for presentation of the mammoth spectacle, the new Junior high school auditorium affords an ideal stage for the play, unusually large for a high school building.

A local chorus of 50 voices is being recruited from Escanaba vocal talent to sing at each performance. The advance training of this group will be in the hands of Miss Ruth Sundwick.

The American Legion post feels justified in asking the undivided support of the people of Escanaba and surrounding territory in an undertaking of this nature. The heavy expense necessary for the promotion and staging of the Passion Play must be borne by the Legion and its members have therefore decided upon an active ticket selling campaign which will be handled by them. Tickets will be for sale in the hands of Legionnaires today.

The Freiburg Passion Play is on its last trip of a three-year tour of the United States and Canada which has taken it into every state and into most of the larger cities. In Canada only six of the larger cities have been played. The company is now in Winnipeg, Manitoba, completing a two weeks' engagement. In December the Freiburgers sail for Germany to prepare for the next Freiburg presentation which starts in June of 1932.

The true magnitude of the Freiburg Passion Play is evidenced by the fact that thousands of Americans travel to Germany to view the presentation in Freiburg where it is given at intervals of ten years.

School Carnival Is Financial Success

Following a final checkup of receipts and expenditures, it was revealed at Escanaba high school that the net proceeds of the Halloween Carnival held Saturday night were $192.49. The receipts amounted to $237.49 and expenses incurred totaled $45. The money realized from the carnival will be used partly for paying costs of football equipment and partly for a payment on the new printing press in the school print shop.

In the voting for the best home room show at the carnival, home room 211's minstrel show received first place with the movies by room 104, and troubles of an editor by room 112 second and third, respectively. The margins by which the shows were selected were in each case small.

Democratic Wet, Dry Issue Gives Robinson Chance

own with about any one in the senate.

In 1930 President Hoover named him as one of the two delegates from the senate to attend the naval arms conference at London. He played a prominent part in having the naval treaty ratified by the United States senate.

His fights seem to leave little bitterness in his path. Almost everybody likes him, calls him "Joe" and respects his ability.

He smokes cigars and bites them sharply as he talks.

The next convention may find Robinson leader of the democrats who oppose an expression on prohibition in the platform.

In a recent speech before the democratic national committee he denounced an effort by Chairman John J. Raskob to have the committee declare for a plank dealing with prohibition.

It is Robinson's contention that the economic depression and not prohibition is the big issue in 1932.

Born in Lonoke, Arkansas, 59 years ago, Robinson was first a rural school teacher and then a lawyer before entering politics.

Lloyd George Will Resign As Leader Of Liberal Party

London, Nov. 3 (AP)—David Lloyd George, war time prime minister of Great Britain, is expected to withdraw tomorrow from the leadership of the British Liberal party which has passed from under his control.

It was accepted as a virtual certainty in political circles tonight that the famous Welshman, who saw his party swing off to other leaders in the recent election, would inform its parliamentary conference that he does not intend to seek reappointment as chairman, a post he has held since 1924.

Sir Herbert Samuel, one of those who broke away from the Lloyd George ranks in the election, is expected to be chosen in his place at the conference of the historic party tomorrow.

The new group of National Liberals who discarded the Lloyd George free trade banner today elected Sir John Simon to head their faction.

Ninety per cent of church members in ten southern states are protestants.

CARNIVAL IS HUGE SUCCESS

Thousand Merry-Makers Throng H. S. For Hallowe'en

With a larger crowd in attendance than at any of its eight predecessors, the ninth annual Hallowe'en Carnival came to a close at about 11 p. m. last night at Escanaba high school. About a thousand people, school students and adults, made up the throng of merry-makers, most of them in costumes that flowed through the corridors of the school.

Obviously having a great time they visited the showbooth, milled about the gymnasium midway and ended the evening by witnessing one of the best ten o'clock shows that ever wound up a carnival. Owing to the fact that Irene Lammi, a member of the cast, was called to Rochester by the serious illness of her mother, the one-act playlet could not be presented. The Gleisner twins won laughs and applause in a new specialty number, as did Spark Plug, the trained horse. The Esky Krauts made music and the announcements of winners in various contests were made. Prizes for the funniest costumes went to Gilbert Leadman, dressed as an old woman, and George Malmstrom, a fanner. The prize for the original costumes were won by Dorothy Fredrickson and Jack Roush, and the most beautiful costumes were worn by Donny Foster and Beatrice Norton.

Billy Jerov won the Orange and Black treasure hunt; Morise Pirlot, the jelly-bean guessing contest; Marion Murray and Evelyn Wurth won the admission prizes. The Yo-Yo contest resulted in a tie between George Papineau and Kenneth Carlson. Robert Lemire, senior class president; Marion Mickelson, president of Esky Mortarboard; Roald Schou, president of the Orange and Black H. Y., and Lois Papineau made the announcements of the winners. The winner of the best show contest will not be decided until later in the week. Receipts of the carnival amounted to $153.70.

Soo Esau Winners In U. P. X-Country

Iron Mountain, Oct. 31. (Special)—A team of blue clad runners from Sault Ste. Marie on the eastern tip of the upper peninsula today captured, with ease, the Upper Peninsula Cross-Country championship in the annual run held between halves of the Iron Mountain-Escanaba high school football game. The teams finished in the following order: Soo 26, Escanaba 46, Iron Mountain 48.

Escanaba and Iron Mountain runners were bunched in the lead at the start of the race and set a stiff pace until the summit of the hill back of the stadium was reached. From that point on it was a walk-way for the Soo. Ralph Ross, of Escanaba, who finished third was the only man not from the Soo to cross the finish line in the first group of runners. The order in which the runners finished is as follows: 1. Lockhead Soo; 2. Campbell Soo; 3. Ralph Ross, Escanaba; 4. Nash, Soo; 5. Nelson Soo; 6. E. Tompkins, Iron Mountain; 7. L. Toussaint, Iron Mountain; 8. Ottensman, Escanaba; 9. Hellman, Escanaba; 10. Merrill, Iron Mountain; 11. Soren, Soo; 12. Soren, Soo; 13. Kleib, Iron Mountain; 14. Moran, Soo; 15. Meech, Escanaba; 16. Clevo, Iron Mountain; 17. Smiley, Soo; 18. Graham, Soo.

Roosevelt's Plan Attacked by Smith

New York, Oct. 31. (AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith tonight assailed the legislative plan of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in making what he termed a "last call" upon Democratic voters to defeat his successor's proposal of a $19,000,000 reforestation undertaking in up-state New York.

The former executive called upon voters to defeat amendment No. 3 to the constitution, a referendum on which is included in next Tuesday's election. He denounced the amendment as an attempt to obtain the "cutting down of trees in the Adirondack forest preserve."

"That is all there is to it," Mr. Smith told a capacity audience in the Carnegie hall where a few minutes before he had been hailed by "hallervites" with "cheers for the next president," and introduced as "the most beloved son of the Empire State."

Lieutenant Lord Retired from Navy

Boston, Oct. 31. (AP)—Lieutenant John A. Lord, the United States navy's last wooden-ship constructor, the man who rebuilt the famous Frigate Constitution, went into retirement today after 30 years' service. A few months ago John Lord shyly and silently weathered a storm of praise as Old Ironsides was recommissioned. Naval architects marvelled that the task had been possible, that the old warship had not fallen apart when taken into drydock.

But John Lord handed the ancient ship tenderly and there was no mishap. He lavished skill and knowledge acquired by a lifetime of wooden ship building on the work and when the Constitution rejoined her modern steel, smoke-belching sisterhood she was as sound and brave a "war ship" as when she speared her piece to the Bay of Tunis in her early historic past.

In Air Romance

It took an airplane smash-up to reveal the romance of Joseph W. Brooks, former All-American football star, and Alicia Patterson, daughter of a New York publisher, who are seen here at Roosevelt Field, Long Island. When Brooks crashed in Miss Patterson's plane at South Bend, Ind., recently, and was slightly injured, the news of their engagement came to light.

wings and ambled to the Tiger nine yard line. Then with scarcely any effort he turned the opposite way for the remainder of the distance to the goal line. Although his famed passing attack was fairly well balled up by Princeton, Harry Newman, Michigan quarterback, booted two of the points after touchdown with placement kicks, and Petokey, an end, counted the other the same way.

Tigers Held Gainless

So weak was the Princeton offense that the Tigers failed to make a first down all afternoon and wound up with an inglorious loss of four yards for their total efforts to gain from scrimmage. Michigan piled up 11 first downs and gained 223 yards rushing the scrimmage line. Princeton completed one forward pass in 14 for a gain of seven yards while the Wolverines tossed 16 and made four of them good for 35 yards.

The prize of just simple victory was not the only goal of Michigan today. In 1831 a Wolverine eleven made one of the first inter-sectional trips in the history of the game to try conclusions with Harvard. Yale and the Tigers, then the dominating powers of the football world, Michigan lost to all three but managed to score on Princeton.

Such have been the changes in the game since that time that the record books list Princeton's victory as by a margin of 11 goal, 2 touchdowns. 1 safety for Princeton, to 3 safeties for Michigan.

Marriage Law Hits Friday Superstition

Minneapolis. (AP)—Beside a preventing lastly marriages, Minnesota's five-day marriage law is claimed by its proponents to have eliminated an old superstition—Friday marriages.

The law, similar to those on the statute books of several other states, requires five days' notice before the issuance of a marriage license.

Sunday is five days before Friday and notices are not acceptable on the Sabbath, and so nearly all weddings are planned for other days in the week.

Occasionally couples contemptuous of superstition post their notice on Saturday and deliberately arrange for their ceremony on the following Friday.

FRANCE AWAITS LAVAL'S RETURN

Action in Field of International Credit Is Expected

Paris, Oct. 31. (AP)—The return of Premier Pierre Laval Monday from his talks with President Hoover is expected to start action in the field of international credit and reparations.

The premier will find two big jobs waiting for him. He must give an account of his Washington conversations to the country, and he must decide what course France will pursue in dealing with domestic and foreign financial problems.

Disembarking at Havre Monday, M. Laval will arrive in Paris in mid-afternoon. Early Tuesday he will report to President Doumer and to the cabinet on his American trip. Later his explanation will be repeated in parliament, which probably will demand information about November 12.

Great interest is being manifested in the return from Berlin of Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador, who is spending the week-end getting instructions from Chancellor Bruening. Newspapers anticipate that Germany may take the initiative in achieving action on credit and reparations and that the ambassador may be the agent of this initiative.

In line with this belief, Le Temps says Dr. Bruening has learned that the logical conclusion of M. Laval's visit to America is the necessity of treating directly with Paris—that the only solution is a Franco-German understanding.

The press declares the premier won two great victories in America—assurances that the United States would treat kindly the traditional French claim that security must precede disarmament, and recognition for the French financial cautionness in treating with Germany. But these victories, L'information points out, bring heavy responsibilities.

M. Laval is certain to encounter opposition in parliament. The socialists declared his trip to Washington was useless, and the extreme right aver that he left French gold in America while taking on ungrateful tasks. The strength of this opposition has not yet been determined.

EDISON'S SON EXPLAINS SUIT

Says He Objects Only to One Clause in Will of His Father

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 31. (AP)—William L. Edison, of Wilmington, one of the sons of the late Thomas A. Edison, who yesterday declared his father's will was drawn under "undue influence" and was "unfair," will not contest the entire document.

In a statement today, Edison known to some of his friends as "Billy" and will to members of his family, said he objected only to that provision which refers to the handling and distribution of the amount left to him.

He refused to go into details of his objections, declined to give the name of the attorney who would start proceedings for him and also would not say when he would begin definite action.

Edison is one of three children by the first marriage. In a formal statement given to the press yesterday he said that undue influence was brought to bear on his famous father by his step mother and by his half brother, Charles. The will leaves the greater part of the Edison estate to Charles and another half brother, Theodore, with a stipulation that they may distribute it among the other children in such a way and at such time as they deem justified.

They expect to keep the twentieth Ohio and seventh New York, normally Democratic.

The Republicans count upon retaining the second Pennsylvania and both the Ohio and Michigan districts to give them control of the house.

To Ask Johnson
Whatever may come from the attack upon President Hoover's foreign policy by Senator Johnson, there has been no reaction to it from the White House.

But there are definite signs that Senator Johnson will be asked to enter the presidential arena upon his return here late in November from California.

Meanwhile, there is talk of reviving the anti-League of Nations movement through organized meetings in the principal cities of the nation.

Consideration by the senate of the world court next session also offers a platform for continuation of the foreign affairs discussion.

In his request for senate ratification of the court protocol Mr. Hoover will be opposed by both Borah and Johnson.

No presidential primary will be held until March. The California primary is among the first scheduled and if there is to be a Hoover-Johnson battle, it is agreed that this offers the testing ground—their home state.

U. S. NEUTRAL IN SINO-JAP CASE

Castle Denies America Is Favoring Tokyo Government

Washington, Oct. 31. (AP)—America is not taking sides in China's dispute with Japan. Undersecretary Castle of the state department said today a policy of strict and undeviating neutrality was being pursued. He says no justification for a reported feeling at Geneva that the United States was favoring the Tokyo government.

This rumor had its origin in an interpretation placed upon the demand of the League of Nations that Japan evacuate its troops from Manchuria by Nov. 16, as a preliminary to arbitration of the disagreement.

The Washington government has not been asked for an expression of its views on the league's action and regards it as a league question upon which this government, as a non-member, should make no public comment.

While emphasizing America's desire for a strict neutrality, Castle said in response to a question that the government would feel obligated under treaties guaranteeing China's integrity to disapprove permanent Japanese occupation of Manchurian territory.

Thus far, it was pointed out, the Japanese have denied any intention of permanent occupation, asserting their troops will be withdrawn as soon as China can give assurance Japanese lives and property will be protected.

While Undersecretary Castle did not comment further, officials indicated that definite steps in settling a specific time for withdrawal might have complicated the problem of pacification by arousing Japanese resentment.

They pointed out that America's previous efforts for peace have been interpreted in Japan, particularly among the military element, an undue interference and meddling.

Distinguished Ancestry
Governor Ritchie, of distinguished ancestry, is a native of Virginia, but his home since childhood has been in Maryland.

He appears somewhat aloof to the public generally, more, his friends say, through shyness than anything else. To a considerable circle of intimates he is far from that.

Play has a small part in his daily life. He is not a golfer, gives little time to any form of recreation and shows partiality to night work.

He has a cabinet to his liking, both politically and socially. It is with the members of that group that most of his recreation is taken.

Ritchie's political career began when he was made an assistant city collector in Baltimore in 1903, five years after he was graduated from the University of Maryland law school. In 1910 his kinsman, William Cabell Bruce, later United States senator, appointed him assistant general counsel of the state public service commission, and in 1914 he was elected attorney general of the state.

Ritchie was elected governor in 1919 by a majority of 165, but his margin for reelection in 1923 was 40,000. Three years later it was 60,000 and last fall it was 66,000.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL IDEA GROWS

A NEW motor bus, with a carrying capacity of 60 children, has been delivered to the Masonville township school board, and will be put into service Monday to transport pupils of several surrounding communities to and from the central school at Rapid River.

One room of the Masonville school and the Whitefish school were closed a few years ago, and since that time the children have been taken to the Rapid River school in privately owned automobiles. Recently enacted state laws, however, require that students be transported in heated vehicles, operated by bonded, licensed chauffeurs, so that the children will be better safeguarded, and as a result the new bus was acquired.

Children of the communities, including Rapid River, are getting more than a fine new bus in which to ride, however. They are receiving the increased advantages of education, afforded because of a better-trained personnel and better equipment at the central school, benefits which are not possible in the one-room schoolhouses.

Two additional classrooms will be provided in the Rapid River central school in the near future. When the one-room schools at Masonville and the Fabrumann will be closed permanently, making new additions to the odd 1200 small schools in Michigan that have been merged into larger units, since the consolidation movement was started in the rural districts of the state thirty years ago.

Much progress has been made in this district in the elimination of the one-room schoolhouses in favor of the modern, efficient consolidated schools. In addition to Masonville township, Maple Ridge and Baldwin districts have improved their educational facilities by adoption of the consolidation idea. There still are several communities in this county that would do well to follow their example, however.

personal self-confidence and self-respect. We are going through a heavy storm; but let it be with heads up.

JUST A FUNERAL
LAST Saturday, at the little city of Menomonee, Wisconsin, over 5,000 people, says an Associated Press dispatch, attended a funeral.

Some personage of state, someone who had sat with the might of No. just a high school boy of nineteen, therefore unknown and unheralded.

Near the coffin sat the woman who bore this boy, cared for him, tended him, thrilled at his boyish successes, grieved at his boyish errors.

There too sat the distraught father who had so many times daydreamed concerning that son's future, who worked hard to raise him a clean-limbed, white-souled and honest-voiced.

The five thousand filed past the white coffin, slowly, silently, but angrily.

Most of them attended that funeral as a protest, one of those quiet but everlastingly deep, human protests, voiceless and yet articulate.

It was a protest against the horror of a government that submerges the lives, to say nothing of the safety or comfort of its citizens, to a political policy that children would be ashamed to advance.

They knew why that boy had been butchered.

They understood fully enough that it was through a lack of capacity or understanding upon the part of a former governor who dictatorially imposed upon the ruling party in this state his belief that a state constabulary or a state-wide system of cooperation formed to prevent banditry was in fact a lurking and devilish menace aimed at workers and farmers, although neither the national guard, the sheriff's office nor the police force has ever been classified as such.

It is too bad that human life must be sacrificed on this pagan altar to demonstrate the folly of the course pursued.

It is too bad that it takes years, sometimes many years, to open the eyes of the people to a lack of talent in some of the officials they choose to high public places.

We know full well that all the state organizations that can be undertaken will not wholly eliminate crime. But that does not excuse nor in any manner justify the ox-like course of doing nothing, or of making political propaganda out of a pressing public need.—Green Bay Press-Gazette.

HIT HARD, AND HIDING
HIT hard by unemployment, many men have crawled into holes. Hurt, humiliated and bewildered by the swift blows of adversity, their pride has sent them cringing into retreat. They are ashamed to be out of work. They dread having their world know of the defeat that has overtaken them.

This is understandable. Proud spirits do not find it easy to expose their troubles. All the sensitive tentacles of their souls are drawn inward in the presence of misfortune.

Nevertheless, this attitude is wrong. The first thing that the man whom the depression has forced out of work needs to realize is the impersonal nature of the disaster.

It is not a man's fault that he is unemployed nowadays. There is no reflection upon his personality or efficiency in this blow that has befallen him.

Consider the sort of men who share his fate. Among the six million unemployed in the United States at the present time are highly-paid executives, veteran and distinguished newspaper men, proficient teachers, master mechanics, once-indispensable secretaries, domestic workers who had been regarded as invaluable, and so on through a tragically long list.

It is a common fate that has befallen the man out of work. So he should hold up his head in continued self-respect; indeed, he must do so if he is to win through.

No shame attaches to unemployment today. Society has failed the worker; and the fault is society's, not the worker's.

This point must be recognized by everybody if the unemployed man's moral is to be saved. The man who has a job today is merely more fortunate than the one who has lost his. Nobody knows whose turn will be next.

One greater calamity than the depression would be for the nation to lose its historic spirit of

I WOULD NOT SAY
I would not say that we are rich,
Too many seams she has in stitch,
Too many loads I have to bear,
To talk of riches anywhere.

Too many tasks she has to do
Around the house the whole day through,
Too many times I walk the ditch,
To say that we are really rich.

I would not say that we are so
Because—because I do not know,
Too many things we go without
That people always dream about,
Too many things we never see
That bear the name of luxury,
So many times so hard the way
That we are rich I would not say.

I would not say that we possess
The riches that the others bless,
But, oh, the blessings we have known
Perhaps the rich may never own!
Our little house is full of love
I cannot count the value of,
We are not rich, of that I'm sure—
I would not say that we are poor.

was taken off his troubles he seemed vigorous, stalwart, every inch the forceful man of business. Whenever he thought of his dead wife or his absent son, he seemed to shrivel, with age. His very voice became weak and querulous, and he had the look of a dying man.

Mary thought "I wonder if I ought to talk to Dr. Jordan about him before I go away." Responsibility tugged at the wings of her happiness. She must go—she had given Dirk her word. Some one could be found to take her place and keep him amused until Bruce came. That was another strange thing. What on earth could be keeping Bruce? She considered sending him a cablegram herself, stressing his father's ill health. But if his mother's death did not bring him, could anything else be expected? Once more she dismissed the matter as something that did not concern her, and turned her thoughts to her own affairs.

She ought to go about her shopping at once, if she expected to finish today. She had a few hundred dollars in the bank—it would be enough. Time was the important thing, Mr. Jupiter was still staring at the tablecloth, fidgeting it absently, nursing some inner hurt that made his face too terrible and stern to bear.

"What would you like to do this morning?" Mary heard herself asking faintly, and could have boxed her own ears. There might be fittings—heaven's she couldn't nearly accomplish all she must if she waited until this afternoon—

"Oh! the old man came out of the brown study that enveloped him. 'Oh, I'm going down with Miller to look over 'The Gypsy.' Jordan thinks sea air—may take a cruise if I can get the right crew."

He was as cranky about the caliber of the men he allowed to set foot on his beloved yacht as about those who drove his automobiles.

Mary drew a deep breath of relief.

"Want to go along?"

"Oh, no, thanks. I've something to do. A little shopping." She brushed a tell-tale red.

The telephone that lurked behind the gayly painted wooden parrot in a corner of the breakfast room trilled suddenly. It was Dirk.

"I just called up to tell you, Mrs. Ruyther, that you have a checking account, you know. Why don't you run up a few bills, and see what kind of a husband I'm going to make?"

"Oh, Dirk, you mustn't—not yet. That's one of the rules. Don't you know your Emily Post?"

"Go ahead, woman. Do you know how I treat my wives when they don't obey me?" There was more of the conversation, but it seemed to make very little sense.

Smiling knowingly, the old man heaved himself out of his chair and tiptoed out of the room with clumsy, schoolboy gallantry.

ALMOST instantly, it seemed, a starched and statuesque maid appeared with an envelope, which she handed to Mary on a tray. (Bruce had been instructed to purchase the sort of historic career for which she seemed to think herself fitted.)

Mary fumbled it open with one

GEMS OF PERIL

(By NEA Service) By Hazel Ross Halley

CHAPTER XVI

DIRK drove the car out beyond the limit of the rutty cliff road into the small meadow which crowned the Point and turned off the engine. With a second turn of the wrist he turned off the lights.

Then he turned and drew her to him, swiftly, surely, and with an air of complete possession. Surprise mingled with the ardor with which she returned his long kisses.

Presently she asked curiously, "What did you want to talk about?"

"This," he said, and she heard him chuckle.

"What?"

"And something else. Listen. How soon can you get ready to be married?"

"This was surprise.
"Why, I haven't bought anything yet," she stammered, "but there's lots of time, isn't there?"

"A month, surely. It was 66 days the last time I counted, but later I haven't kept track."

Dirk smoothed her hands gently with his big one.

"I mean, how long would it take you to pack?"

"Dirk!"

"You could pack a toothbrush, couldn't you? And we could buy things here and there as we went along? There are lots of nice little shops for women's gawgaws in Bermuda—or would you rather go to Europe? We could make it—if we didn't stay too long."

"But what's the hurry?"

Mary's heart was hammering happily before the look in his eyes.

"Let's get married tomorrow. I don't know why we've waited this long, if it comes to that."

"Well, aren't you the impetuous lover?" Mary quavered, trying to keep a light tone. "Why this, all of a sudden?"

Dirk moved impatiently.

"Oh, people have hacked at us long enough!" he growled. "If they keep at it much longer, they'll spoil things for us. Look at tonight!"

Reviewing the miserable evening she had just spent, Mary thought there might be something in what he said.

He seized her hands and gripped them tightly. "If we've got to quarrel, let it come after. I don't want it to spoil the beginning for us. Do you?"

"No, oh, no."

"Well, that's that, then. How's Saturday? That give you time to shop?"

Mary nodded. "It was a long time before they felt the need of words."

"That's what I've been wanting to tell you, all evening," Mary whispered, presently. "That we needn't quarrel any more. I won't see that newspaperman again, if you don't want me to."

Dirk felt manxanimous, too, apparently, for he laughed indulgently and kissed her.

"I guess Mrs. Dirk Ruyther can be trusted to do the right thing," he said.

"It was nearly two when Mary's latchkey turned in the lock and she let herself into the great house and went happily upstairs. Strange, she wasn't tired now! Instead, she seemed to bounce, feather-light, up the long staircase; she felt far too happy to sleep."

There was a dim light burning in her room, and a note left for her by the thoughtful Della. More thoughtful than literature, for the note was difficult to decipher.

"I stayed up to tell you Mr. Jupiter wants to see you in the morning he is sorry for something, and wants to apologize. I do know what for."

The world had been all wrong, and now it was right again in every way. For pure happiness, Mary whirled around the room in an impromptu dance before tumbling into bed.

As she drifted off to sleep the letters of the word "Saturday" seemed to burn upon the walls of her mind like a gigantic electric sign.

THEY both felt better after Mr. Jupiter had "apologized" next morning.

"I was sorry for that minute I'd said it, Mary," he scolded. "You hadn't ought to take what an old man like me says to heart so."

"I guess—that one thing—is a

Peninsula Paragraphs

By Marjorie Hantoon Morrill

Life and I, we talked one day; Life said to me in her chatty way: "This world is built on Sell and Pay."

Again did Life converse with me; "The 'inverse is You and She—None else there is or ever'll be."

Life sighed and shook her solemn head; "You'll understand me when I'm dead!"

She raised her hands and they were red.

Life winked and whispered in my ear: "What's yours is yours, just grab 'it, dear!"

"For, Might is Right, and Good is Fear!"

Life smiled; "Come dance with me and sing— 'The days all morn, the year's all spring!' "

"Come join our hands in merry ring!"

Anon Life spoke in Joy or Sorrow. Confirmed today, denied tomorrow.

Nor from her wisdom could I borrow.

It is no wonder that we become befooled when we attempt to learn something in this world. There is so much of it, you see. So many things we believe erase so many things we know, and the things we want to believe come before us with sad faces telling us how foolish we are.

It is only by taking the world and the life on it by-and-large that we can gain a little wisdom from it. This season of the year, with the trees skyly dropping their summer garments, can give us a resurgence of wisdom needful for a healthy life. It is by uncovering that we learn.

Wisdom can remain hidden between the covers of books, behind locked doors, buried in the ground. A brown seed pod, a dry and seemingly witless thing, is full of knowledge. Every child knows all this—There is nothing common or uninteresting to a child. They must touch, taste and pound everything their hands can reach.

Our beloved peninsula grants us, unusual chances for the "beginnings of wisdom." Part of it is composed of the original crust of the earth and the ice-ivers have from time to time presented us with samples of nearly all of the following ages. Hidden some of them, others scattered about for the keen eye to discover, the ground-work for most human knowledge is ours for the seeking.

But most of us tire easily in the pursuit of knowledge. We say: Never can we learn it all—what's the use? We say: I guess I know as much as most folks! So we snuggle down in our conceit never realizing that the moment we stop being humble we start to flatten out. There are so many flat folks on the earth—people with one dimension only.

We cannot borrow wisdom from Life. We must each earn it by the practice of humor and humility.

Privilege is as becoming and unworthy in a society of nations as it is in a well-ordered society of individuals.

—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE MICHIGAN
Faure Breen was a girl with everything, except the one thing all girls want. That is, she had everything that money could buy. But money cannot buy everything. What Faure Breen lacked was love. In the natural course of human events, millions would be hers. She was nineteen years old, she had an infinite capacity for enjoying things, she was beautiful, could dance, knew how to wear clothes, could entertain, and she had a certain facility in writing. And still, you wouldn't marry her. If you think you would, go to see "Mother's Millions," which is playing at the Michigan Theatre. It is a story of the little daughters and sons of the rich and the safeguards which a very wise woman erected to protect her son and daughter from fortune hunters, black mailers, social climbers, yemen and worse women.

AT THE DELFT
Audience demands for something different in film fare are answered in a convincing manner with "The Big Gamble," current attraction at the Delft Theatre, starring Bill Boyd.

Telling an amazing, but entirely plausible story, this picture has dramatic suspense to a large degree. It is Boyd's first in his new group of RKO Pathe pictures and the likable star can take several big bows for his work in "The Big Gamble."

The picture starts with a man selling his life to a sinister individual, to whom he owes a debt, with an insurance policy to provide the payoff. To make collection sure, he is married to a girl victim of the man who is to profit from the deal. From that point on, things happen fast.

MONDAY'S PROGRAM
"This Modern Age," with Joan Crawford in the starring role and a cast which includes Pauline Frederick, Neil Hamilton, Monroe Owsley and Robert Bosworth, will be the feature attraction at the DelM Theatre starting Monday.

The picture was adapted from the Mildred Cram novel, "Girls Together," and was directed by Nicholas Grinde.

Hanrahan Bros.

Celebrate Founding of Grocery Business Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Today marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Hanrahan Brothers company, one of the leading grocery concerns in Escanaba.

On Nov. 1, 1906, William J. and James E. Hanrahan took over the grocery store at 609 Ludington street, which had been conducted for some years previously by Erickson & Bissell.

William J. Hanrahan, the senior member of the firm, came from Green Bay to Escanaba in 1902, obtaining employment with the late Henry Wilke, one of Escanaba's pioneer business men who achieved considerable success in the grocery trade. In 1904, Mr. Hanrahan took over the management of the grocery department of Rathfon's department store, remaining in that position for two years, until he "went on the road" for the National Biscuit company.

He resigned the traveling salesman job with the biscuit company to go into the grocery business for himself, and induced his brother, James, to come from his home in Green Bay to join him in the venture.

Hard work, strict attention to business and close adherence to a policy to handle only merchandise of the highest quality won for Hanrahan Brothers a unique reputation in the grocery field, and as a result the business grew steadily. In 1918, the partners expanded their field of activity by acquiring the branch store, located at 430 South Tenth street, from Raymond Todd.

"The grocery business has undergone a tremendous change in the last quarter of a century," William J. Hanrahan remarked yesterday, while in a reminiscent mood. "One of the important developments, of course, is the change from the bulk to package method of marketing products. Competition is keener, too, now, and a grocery man must be continually studying his business in all its phases in order to survive."

Mr. Hanrahan recalled that he went through two previous depressions, the first in 1907 when they

Both "Bill" and "Jim" Hanrahan have been always prominently identified with community affairs, being members of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations. The former was a member of the Escanaba city council and also served as mayor.

Suggestions Aid in Problems of Cooking for Two

Brides and also homemakers of long standing who have been struggling with the endless problem of planning meals for two will find some answers to their repeated query, "What shall we have for supper?" in the following suggestions by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

All perishable food should be purchased with definite plans in mind for using it, the bureau's experts say. Eggs need not always appear in the usual breakfast forms, but may be served at any meal. Their adaptability for small families makes them almost invaluable. Baked with cheese or tomatoes, carried, or served as Eggs Benedict they are as appetizing as they are nutritious. Eggs are a good source of efficient protein, and also supply some of the minerals and vitamins so necessary for building the body and keeping it healthy. The bureau points out that success in cooking eggs depends on cooking them slowly at moderate, even heat.

Families of two are well acquainted with ground beef and stewing meat but there are other cuts of beef which can be used to equal advantage. A pot roast can be served hot to begin with, then sliced cold, and finally made into croquettes which also utilize left over mashed potatoes. A beef heart is another wise and economical choice and kidney and liver offer possibilities for variety for two persons or ten.

The breast and shoulder of lamb are small and are less expensive than the leg. When stuffed with a savory dressing, either will form the basis for an excellent company meal. Both these roasts slice well when cold and every bit of meat left over can be utilized cold, creamed, or in curries.

Fresh and cured pork, sausages and scrapple are desirable for the small family. The shoulders belong in the low cost group and they are as adaptable to meal planning for two as the lamb shoulders. The bureau suggests pork chop suey to those who like Oriental food as a novel way of utilizing left over pork. Roast stuffed spareribs is another dish seldom served but offering a decidedly different flavor.

As for cured pork, its uses are legion. Families of two can serve a small shoulder hot in a variety of ways and need not dread having to eat it cold for days and days. It can be creamed, cooked with noodles, combined with potatoes, and made into different kinds of potato cakes or introduced into salads—all dishes as appetizing as they are low in cost.

Smoked shoulder butts, known by various names in different sections of the country, are available in all markets. They are small, boneless, and when baked make a choice piece for the whole family. Cheese is one of the most valuable and inexpensive foods for the small family. A comparatively small quantity can change the entire character of left-overs into a pleasing dish for lunch or dinner. Some easy-to-prepare combinations can be made by baking cheese with fish, vegetables, or spaghetti. Since cheese becomes rubbery in texture and is digested with less comfort when exposed to high temperatures, the bureau's method of using moderate oven heat and always having the top layer of bread crumbs is a wise one to follow. Many kinds of fresh, canned, and salt fish are available in quantities small enough for two persons. Though all fish contain important minerals and ample protein, seat food also has iodine to recommend it to the diet.

RECIPES
Ham with Noodles
(Serves 2 persons)
1 tablespoon butter or other fat.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 cup milk.
1 cup cooked noodles.
1 cup ground cooked ham.
Salt.
Pepper.

Curried Lamb
(Serves 2 persons)
1 cup chopped cooked lean lamb.
1/2 cup chopped celery and tops.
1/2 medium-sized onion, chopped.
1/2 cup brown gravy or broth.
1 tablespoon butter or other fat.
Dash of curry.
Dash of tabasco.
Salt.

Codfish, Spaghetti, and Tomatoes
(Serves 2 persons)
1 cup spaghetti, broken in small pieces.
1 pint canned tomatoes.
1 bay leaf.
1/2 onion, sliced.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
1 tablespoon olive oil or other fat.
Chopped olives.

Baked Eggs and Cheese
Break the desired number of eggs in a shallow, greased baking dish, add a few tablespoons of top milk and salt enough to season, and sprinkle with a mixture of grated cheese and fine dry bread crumbs. Set this dish in a pan containing hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the eggs are set and the crumbs are brown. Just before serving add a few dashes of paprika.

Roast Stuffed Spareribs
(Serves 5 persons)
2 sections of spareribs.
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs.
1/2 cup diced salt pork.
1/2 cup chopped celery.
1/2 cup chopped onion.
1/2 cup chopped parsley.
5 tart apples, diced.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Select well-fleshed rib sections that match. Have the breastbone cracked so that it will be easy to carve between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Prepare the stuffing as follows: Fry the salt pork until crisp and remove the pieces from the skillet. Cook the celery, onion, and parsley in the fat for a few minutes and remove them. Put the apples into the skillet, sprinkle with the sugar, cover, and cook until tender, then remove the lid and continue to cook until the juice evaporates and the pieces of apple are candied. Mix with the apples the bread crumbs, crisp salt pork, cooked vegetables, salt, and pepper, and spread with the hot stuffing. Cover with the other section and sew the two together. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in an open roasting pan and sear in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until the meat is lightly browned. Reduce the oven temperature rapidly to very moderate heat (300 to 325 degrees) and continue to cook for about an hour longer, or until the meat is tender. Remove the strings before serving the stuffed spareribs on a hot platter.

"Sea Serpents" Usually Merely Big Sturgeons

Lansing, "Sea Serpents" reported as seen in practically every one of the Great Lakes adjoining Michigan every year are probably only large fresh water sturgeon in the opinion of the fish division of the conservation department. There are large sturgeon in all of the Great Lakes, the unexpected sight of which would probably be enough to frighten anyone, the division said.

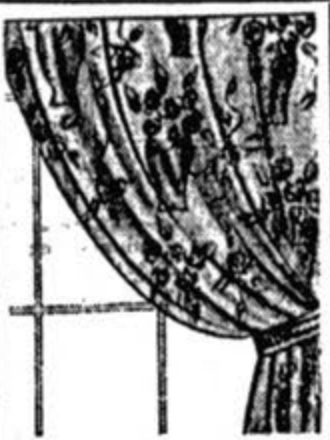

The larger of the lake sturgeon will weigh 200 pounds or more and are from six to eight feet long. They appear gigantic when they are seen just below the surface of the water. For two years now the sturgeon has been completely protected in Michigan waters.

Good morning, folks, it's our 25th Anniversary

THE other day a little tot came into our downtown store and in a manner that brooked no denial, demanded a big bag of candy for her penny. A juvenile command not uncommon, but in this particular instance it served to remind of the swift passage of time—for it seemed only yesterday that this service was requested in identical manner by the little lady's mother.

Twenty five years have rolled by since the day when a couple of young fellows, smitten with ambition, decided to go on their "own". Although, first years were replete with hardships and discouragements attendant upon limited capital and limited experience, folks must have liked us right from the start. We sincerely tried to anticipate customer wants and give them a food service better with each successive month. Shortly business outgrew the capacity of the original establishment and it became necessary to branch out—Hanrahan Bros. on 10th St. S., being the result.

And now on the 25th Anniversary of Hanrahan Bros. it gives us great pleasure to greet the many friends we have made in the Escanaba area; to thank the thousands whose patronage we have enjoyed; to thank employees, present and past, for their loyalty; to thank wholesalers, manufacturers and others whose cooperation helped to make possible a quarter of a century of successful business.

FAIR OFFICE TO SELL LICENSES

Two State Agencies Are Combined as Economy Measure

New automobile license plates will be placed on sale on November 14 at the Upper Peninsula State Fair office, 110 South Ninth street, instead of the State Savings Bank.

George E. Harvey was notified yesterday by Frank Fitzgerald, secretary of state, that he had been appointed agent for the sale of automobile license plates in this territory.

The appointment is in line with the state administration's economy program. Commissions from the license sales will be applied to meet the overhead expense of the U. P. State Fair office.

The fair office was moved from the fairgrounds to the central downtown location, in the rear of the Hill Drug store, last week.

Duck Hunters Kept Well Within Laws

Maybe it was because ducks were scarce, and there weren't so many hunters as in the past, but conservation officers found the wildfowl shooters unusually law-abiding during the one-month season which closed at sunset yesterday.

Few reports of duck law violations were received this season at the Lansing office of the department, and reports received were for minor offenses, such as shooting too early in the morning or too early in the evening.

Violations of the pheasant and game bird laws have also been lacking. Few convictions have been reported for taking too many birds, for hunting them out of season or without a license or for killing hen pheasants.

The most severe penalties inflicted during the pheasant season were imposed on Roy Scott and Ralph Sise, both of Haslett Ingham county. The two men were sentenced to serve jail terms of 60 days each for shooting a pheasant from their automobile.

Doctor in Jail
Sault Ste. Marie—Facing the possibility of three charges and with one 90-day sentence already hanging over his head to take effect in a week if he does not pay $150 fine and make restitution, Dr. W. L. Arnis of Grand Rapids was held in the county jail today.

County Prosecutor Herbert L. Parilla said that charges of obtaining money under false pretenses based on alleged illegal checks cashed at Pickford and at DeTour may be filed. However, the prosecutor said that the most likely charge is that of obtaining property under false pretenses. The charge would be based upon the purchase of a car from the James Smith Garage, payment being made with a check dated ahead.

Killed By Auto
Menominee—Edward Sedergreen, 31, was killed instantly last night while walking on County Road 352 near his home by an auto driven by John Holla, 53, of Cedar River.

London is in the county jail, charged with murder.

Unavoidable Death
Iron Mountain—A coroner's jury last evening exonerated John Santini, 26, 421 Vulcan street, of all blame in connection with the death of August Sundin, 71, who was fatally injured when struck by a car driven by Santini on Monday evening at the intersection of Stephenson avenue and Fourth street.

Sundin died little more than an hour after the accident at General hospital from a basal skull fracture.

GARDEN NEWS

Garden, Mich., Oct. 31—Finley McCashum of Puffy Creek reports that he has pulled two hundred bushels of mangolds from three-quarters of an acre. Ten of these roots tipped the scales at one hundred pounds.

A neighbor reports that one of his roots weighed thirteen pounds. Mr. McCashum believes that mangolds are much more profitable as a stock food than the rutabagas. They give a better yield and are sweeter and softer for the stock to chew.

Mr. and Mrs. William Foster returned to their home at Ishpeming after visiting their daughter, Mrs. William Winter, Jr., and family. Howard Caron has returned from Iron River where he spent several days, called there by an accident to a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Olmsted returned to their home in Chicago Thursday after visiting relatives in Fayette and Escanaba. Their visit was occasioned by the serious sickness and subsequent death of Mrs. Pizzala.

3,116 Children Innoculated During Week

A total of 3,116 children, 2,550 of school age and 566 of pre-school age, received toxin-antitoxin inoculation during the past week in the clinics in the county, arranged by Miss Annette Fox, R. N., of the Michigan State Department of Health.

The clinics are an important part of the state's campaign to protect children from diphtheria.

The total includes township clinics which occupied Miss Fox's time during the week, and Gladstone and the Escanaba clinics which are already organized and are being held weekly, for the four treatments.

The total number of inoculations, at the various clinics, during the week are listed as follows:

- Monday
Brampton township—School age, 22; pre-school age, 25.
  - Tuesday
Wells township, Delta county—School age, 48; pre-school age, 95.
  - Wednesday
Wells township, Marquette county—School age, 93; pre-school age, 28.
  - Thursday
Nahma township—School age, 73; pre-school age, 23.
  - Friday
Ensign township—School age, 63; pre-school age, 34.
  - Saturday
Garden village—School age, 62; pre-school age, 22.
  - Sunday
Fairbanks township—School age, 20; pre-school age, 26.
- The total number of children to receive the treatment in the township schools was 1,590 school children and 433 children of pre-school age. In Gladstone the second clinic took care of 465 school children and 320 children of pre-school age, while in Escanaba 785 school children were inoculated and 107 children of pre-school age, a total of 2,550 school children and 566 pre-school children in the entire county, or 3,116 children in all.
- Five other townships have made appropriations for the toxin-antitoxin clinics which will be arranged for as soon as the full schedule now in operation is completed. These are Escanaba, Bark River, Bay de Noc, Cornell, and Ford River, and their arrangements give the county a one hundred percent rating with every township conducting the clinics. Expense involved in being taken care of either by the school board, the township board or by both.

Maude Adams Is Rehearsing for Return to Stage

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer
New York, Oct. 31. (AP)—Defying Broadway tradition, a frail silver-haired actress is preparing behind locked doors for what may be the greatest comeback in the history of the theater.

She is Maude Adams, who made her stage debut 53 years ago as a baby in arms, who was the toast of Broadway 23 years ago when she was playing "Peter Pan" and who vowed, after her director lost his life on the Lusitania 16 years ago, that she never would cross the boards again.

But the locked doors behind which she is rehearsing now are a symbol of a big "IF" which, after years of false reports and ill-founded hopes, may keep "Maude Adams in person" from ever glittering in letters of light again.

Never Interviewed.

The proverbial taciturnity of the famous actress made her the J. P. Morgan of the stage long ago.

"I have never been interviewed," she boasted, after the financial genius broke for the second time his rule never to talk for publication.

Yet theater folk were certain the publicity would flow in conventional Broadway manner as soon as rehearsals began.

Nothing of the sort happened and Miss Adams quickly became the despair of press agents, the nemesis of reporters and the mystery of Broadway.

After the casting had been completed for "The Merchant of Venice," Miss Adams' comeback vehicle, everyone was given the same warning:

Business managers, actors, actresses, stage managers, directors and even her co-star, Otis Skitter, who usually relies on publicity, were told by Miss Adams the show never would open if anyone breathed a word to anyone about what was going on.

"We can't say" and "we don't know" have become the stock answers to all questions.

"Who's directing you?" members of the cast are asked.

"We can't say," they reply.

"Where are they rehearsing?" a reporter asked one of Miss Adams' personal representatives.

"We don't know," he blandly replied.

Conventions may be flaunted even more boldly by the famous Peter Pan star after the show opens.

The dream of those who plan comebacks is to play again on Broadway, but there are indications that after opening in Cleveland, Miss Adams will tour the country and shun Broadway entirely, thus showing again how little she cares for the traditions of that street of glittering lights.

Choir Harvest Festival Will Be Held Tonight

The choir of the Bethany Lutheran church will sponsor a Harvest Festival this evening.

A varied and interesting musical program has been prepared for the occasion. The following well-known musicians in the city will assist the choir: Frank Karas, cornet soloist; Roy Pearson, organist; Mrs. F. M. Fernstrom, violinist; Miss Pearl Olson, pianist; Noble Swenson of Gladstone, tenor soloist; Miss Ruth Sundwick, contralto; also the High School String Quartet.

Aside from enjoyment and edification received from this service in song and music, the purpose of this event is the ingathering of food stuffs for the benefit of needy families in the community. A kindly request is therefore made that all in attendance to bring some quantity of food, such as preserves, canned goods, vegetables, fruits, or groceries in general. However, nothing perishable should be contributed, as it may require a few days before distribution of food received can be made.

Food stuffs received this evening in this way will be turned over to the poor department of the city.

Here is an opportunity for all "charitable minded people in the community, who are looking for some channel through which they may be of service to the many who in times like these are in want of daily bread, to give whatever quantity or kind of food they may be able to contribute.

Considerable interest has already manifested itself in the Harvest Festival and it is expected that the Bethany Lutheran church will be filled to capacity this evening.

This service will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Colored Singers Will Appear In Concert Here

The Browne's Famous Colored Singers are to appear in a grand concert entertainment in Bethany Lutheran church of this city, on Nov. 18. This announcement will be of great interest, not only to all real music lovers of the city and surrounding towns, because of the reputation of the company, but to others as well, whose interest is attracted by the pure tone Negro melodies offered by this company. It is a great program offering of wide appeal.

These singers are not semi-professional, as are those who appear on the small lyceum and chautauqua circuit, neither are they students sent out from a Negro school to advertise and collect funds, but they are an established company of professionally trained musicians who entertain with their art in correct interpretation of pure Negro melodies.

Many of the large cities and educational centers have eagerly engaged these artists and still find interest because of the native ability, high personal rating, technical training, personality and experience of the individual members of the company. It is, therefore, one of the great harmonizing companies of the race.

Mrs. Leighton Will Address Women's Club

An address by Mrs. Fred Leighton on "Brightened Hungary" and a program of Hungarian music by the Escanaba Senior High School quartet, will be given at the regular meeting of the Escanaba Woman's club Wednesday afternoon, at the First Presbyterian church social rooms.

Her talk Wednesday will tell of Hungary, dealing with the country and with its people.

The music program will be under the direction of Mr. Frank Karas.

Mrs. Charles Semer is chairman of the meeting. Hostesses are Mrs. George Beath, Mrs. J. B. Wilkinson and Mrs. John Frechette.

Mrs. Leighton will also address the Iron Mountain Women's club on this topic, speaking here on Friday of this week.

Velvet Finery
Brings Spirit of Elegant Eighties

Paris (AP)—Velvets, satins and cloth of gold, silky furs and shimmering jewels are the stuffs of which the social butterflies' evening cocoons are spun.

The day when Madame slipped a simple crepe frock over her head for the evening's dance is done. Ball gowns are ball gowns again and the woman who dances at night this winter will find herself deep in a mode of romance and roses, powder and pearls.

The old-fashioned fancies of 1860 and 1880 have laid a heavier mark on evening fashions than on any other part of the winter mode. Frocks with wide swirling skirts, form fitting gowns with tight skirts and sweeping trains, bustle backs and hoop skirts are all presented in a picture as varied as a kaleidoscope.

Decolletes, too, reflect an old-fashioned note, for they are higher in front than they have been in several seasons, while fans, handkerchiefs and gloves all bespeak the spirit of the "Elegant Eighties."

Pupils Write of Hallowe'en Party

Two interesting accounts of the Hallowe'en party given by the pupils of the opportunity room of the Junior high school building, with Mrs. Josephine Campbell, their teacher, in charge, were written by the pupils themselves.

Catherine Koboski's story of the party follows:

"Our Hallowe'en Party"
We had a Hallowe'en party in the Opportunity room Friday. We made Hallowe'en caps and trimmed them with orange and black. We had cut cats and big orange pumpkins on the windows. We had a program of stories, games and songs for the party. A boy played the harmonica. We had a peanut hunt. For lunch we had orange juice, cakes, cookies and candy. We had several visitors.

Herbert Johnson's account of the party was:

"Our Hallowe'en Party"
We had a Hallowe'en party in the Opportunity room Friday. We made baskets and favors. We made caps and masks out of orange and black paper. The Bronies entertained us by telling a story. Some boys and girls read stories for us. There was one boy who played the harmonica for us. There were four Jack-o-Lanterns that gave us light. For lunch we had orange juice with cream and cake and cookies served with it."

Volstead's 'Pan' Mail Rivals His 'Fan' Mail, But At 72 He's Dry Law's Staunch Defender

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON

NO REPEAL, HE SAYS

ANDREW J. VOLSTEAD

St. Paul, (AP)—For 11 years the morning mail has told Andrew J. Volstead a story of public opinion aroused by controversies over the national law that bears his name. His volume of "fan" mail is rivaled only by his "pan" mail. But, just turning 72, this man long ago chosen as the personification of prohibition thinks dry laws are a big success. He defends the Volstead act just as staunchly today as when he helped write it as chairman of the judiciary committee in the house of representatives. He still regards that act as the biggest thing that ever happened in the way of social reform. His mail has dropped considerably since the nation first felt the effects of prohibition. But every time public interest in the dry question is aroused anew the mailman brings Volstead a cross-section of the reaction. Despite his years his tall, slender figure remains unstooped, his energy apparently undiminished and retirement seemingly is far from his thoughts. His blue-gray eyes still flash fire on occasion when he talks of his favorite subject, but his bushy eyebrows, abundant hair and luxuriant mustache, once so black, are graying fast. Daily he works in his office in the old federal building here, busy giving legal advice in connection with the act he gave a resultant controversies have been distasteful to him. He believes the dry law never will be repealed. "Modification," he has frequently said, "is just another name for repeal and the old law."

He refuses to answer the question, "Have you had a drink since prohibition?" Friends say he hasn't, and that he never did use liquor to any extent.

He wants peace, quiet and no publicity. He dislikes interviews, not so much because he fears reporters will garble his statements as that headline writers on anti-dry newspapers will misconstrue his ideas.

Although some of his "pan" letters have threatened bodily harm and called him unpleasant names, Volstead says little about them. He has refused steadfastly to capitalize on his name, which some enthusiastic promoters have said could have been converted into a million-dollar asset.

He insists on his "amateur" stand and has spurned offers to lecture or make vaudeville appearances. A widower, he lives alone in an apartment hotel. He is cool and aloof, his associations limited to a few close friends. Usually he dines alone, goes to bed early and rises early. He guards carefully against becoming ill again—for he likes work, too well.

Knocks or boosts—they're all the same to Andrew J. Volstead, just turning 72. His faith in prohibition is unshaken. He is on the government payroll as legal adviser of northwest prohibition enforcement headquarters. He has never weakened in defense of prohibition, although its

DI-JO Will Relieve Your STOMACH ILLS

There isn't any use in suffering with stomach trouble a minute longer. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of Di-Jo and take it according to directions. Then lay off the rich heavy food you've been stuffing yourself with. If you get plenty of exercise all the better. Eat light meals and if you aren't getting exercise take a moderate amount, increasing it a little each day. If when you lie down the gas presses your heart and seems to "fill you up," take an extra dose of Di-Jo with warm water. The purpose of Di-Jo is first to neutralize the acid condition of the stomach and to lend assistance to the gastric juices of the stomach in digesting food. That is where the name came from. Within a short time you'll find that not only does your stomach feel better but you'll find also that your food is giving strength to the body. You'll grow stronger and you'll feel better if you'll only follow directions. Caution:—The average person recovering from illness or distress is apt to stop the treatment. Don't fool yourself that you can get rid of illness so easily. Continue to eat moderately and continue using Di-Jo long after you think it necessary until your stomach and your system are in a condition to withstand regular meals. Too often people "feel all right again" and start on the same old track again. First thing they know their systems commence to weaken and then they have to go through the same tortures again. If your bowels are lazy it is absolutely necessary that the poison be eliminated from them. The stomach cannot function properly with a congested intestinal tract. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of Di-Vac and take it for a few days. You'll not need to take it very long because if you eat the right food and take Di-Jo it will not be long before the system can take care of itself without a laxative or a purge.

What Capone Gave His Friends

The belt buckle shown above was offered as evidence in the trial of Al Capone, Chicago gang lord, for income tax fraud after a Chicago jeweler had testified that Capone had bought 30 of the diamond-studded buckles at $275 each. Al is said to have bought the buckles for distribution among his friends.

Budapest's Beautiful Belle

Budapest's best-built belle beat Belgian beach babes beseeching beauty bounty . . . For fair Finny Ferrynessy's fascinating form found first favor . . . Here's happy Hungarian honey.

"Human Icicle" Lives Frozen in Ice

By controlling his breathing, Moro, a magician, demonstrated that he could live 15 minutes in a solid block of ice. The above act was staged before the Troupers' Club at Hollywood, Calif., with Frank Fewins, right, president of the Los Angeles Society of Magicians, in charge to see that there was no trickery.

PURR-R-R-FECTLY STUNNING!

When an organization has nearly 5000 feminine members and a pretty president, there are bound to be some catty remarks. But in the case of the Baroness Von Lorino, pictured above, they're all in the regular order of business, because she heads the Austrian Cat Club. When this recent portrait was taken she denied trying to look kittenish.

Soldiers of Science at War on Cancer

Life and death grimly battle inside tiny glass tubes—while men of science look on. It's a phase of man's long, determined fight against the ravages of cancer that's pictured here, with black robed and hooded technicians of the Habernann Hospital, at Philadelphia, watching through microscopes the growth of cancer upon once healthy cells. Some of the cells "die" quickly; others, though "sick," have their lives prolonged by treatment.

GREETINGS, MATE!

There's a whole hangar full of lighter-than-air ships at the Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Air Station now. And in this picture you see how the giant dirigible Akron, greatest of the world's flying crafts, looks in its berth beside the smaller, veteran Los Angeles. The Akron, seen here at the end of its first long flight from its factory at Akron, Ohio, fills one side of the hangar to within fifteen feet of the end. The new mobile mooring mast, shown in the foreground, was reported to have functioned perfectly in landing the air Goliath.

"TAKEN FOR A RIDE"

Life is just one jolt after another at Purdue University these days, and here you see M. F. White, graduate student, being "taken for a ride" on the Indiana school's new "shake table." Professor H. M. Jacklin, professor of automotive engineering, who designed the table to test the relative effects of different kinds of upholstery on the comfort of auto passengers, is shown at the left checking the recording instruments. Hands stretched across the knees and thighs of the riders record the extent to which comfortable posture is lost.

Here's a New Type of Airship

This weird device is a cross between an airplane and a helicopter and is called a "mobliopter." Harry Cordy of El Monte, Calif., seen at its side, is its designer. The wings fold in and flatten out as the ship rises and descends. Those air screw discs on the top pull it upward, and the propeller pulls it forward. Cordy expects to test it soon.

You Try It!

If you are searching for a thrill, try this stunt which J. D. Pate, Los Angeles air daredevil, is exhibiting. Pate fastens a piece of plate glass to the top wing of an airplane, and with a pair of shoes equipped with suction rubbers on the soles, he stands on the glass. The action of the suction rubber holds him to the glass. When the plane has reached sufficient altitude, the pilot turns it upside down and Pate hangs suspended by his shoes from the upper wing.

Cutting Capers With Louisiana's Governor

Here are some informal poses of Louisiana's colorful governor, Huey P. Long, who is again in the limelight as the result of attempts of Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr, to assume the governorship. The many-sided governor is shown "dunking" corn bread, just an old southern custom; attired in his pajamas as he signs a bill proclaiming a "cotton holiday" among planters in the state, a move designed to boost prices; wearing a baseball uniform at a training camp, and acting as cheer leader at a football game. Long is to take office as U. S. senator within a short time and his foes claim that since he has already been elected to the senate he is disqualified as governor.

NOON-DAY DOLLY

Ready to Explore "Half World"

It's a motor boat journey into the "half world"—little known parts of the dense Amazon jungle—that lies ahead of these two youthful explorers. Desmond Holdridge, left, 24-year-old leader of the Brooklyn Museum's Brazil Expedition, and Emerson Smith, right, cameraman, are shown here in the cabin cruiser which will take them into the Amazon delta in quest of the tanager pottery of a vanished, unnamed civilization. They also will make a scientific study of the present Indian inhabitants of the region. They sailed from New York for Paris by steamship.

Marathon Champs

It was a May-December dance team that won the August-October marathon shuffle contest recently concluded at Atlantic City, and here you see the 56-year-old grandfather and his 22-year-old partner after their long, long walk. Frank Miller, of Washington, D. C., and Ruth Smith, of Lafayette, Ind., danced more than 61 days for a total of 1473 hours, won a couple of cups and cash prizes which rewarded their efforts at the rate 34 cents an hour.

Russia's Dean of Letters Seeks Local Color

It's in the role of a reporter that Maxim Gorky, famous Russian author, is shown in this unusually human photograph. Gathering material for a history of the Russian revolution of 1918, he is seen here getting first-hand information from three women who took active parts in the Bolshevik uprising.

WORK OF AIR CREW IS DONE

Finish Survey of Three Counties; to Leave City Tuesday

The U. S. Army Air Corps crew, Capt. Willis R. Taylor, Sergeant J. McCullough and Photographer Clayton Wells, who have made their base here this summer while making an aerial survey of a portion of the upper peninsula, plan to leave Tuesday for their home port at Scott Field, Ill.

The plane was taken to Sault Ste. Marie last week-end, pontoons removed and wheel landing gear replaced and was returned here to the county airport on Thursday.

During the six months spent here this year, Capt. Taylor and his crew have mapped a total area of 3,700 square miles, including 1,000 in Delta, 1,100 in Dickinson and 1,600 in Marquette counties. Both Delta and Dickinson have been completely mapped, and only a small portion, 450 square miles, of Marquette remains to be done.

The work has been a continuation of work begun a year ago when they began mapping of the peninsula at the eastern end. Bases were made previously at Sault Ste. Marie and Indian Lake near Manistique.

Many Obstacles—Numerous obstacles were encountered by the crew in their work in this section of the country. Only 4 1/2 days sufficiently clear for mapping purposes are found each month due to cloudiness caused by great variance of temperatures between Lake Superior and Lake Michigan. Lack of known landmarks in the wild territory is also another handicap, necessitating a certain amount of reconnaissance before actual mapping of the area can be begun. Magnetic ore bodies have also caused compass variations making true course flying difficult.

It is estimated that the work done here this summer would Escanaba, and Capt. K. Olson and Lieut. Gust Sundin of this city. A varied program of songs and instrumental music has been prepared. All are welcome.

Auction Sale—The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Baptist church will sponsor an auction sale at the church parlors on Friday evening. Fancy work and other needlework will be displayed.

THEATRES

RIALTO Lovers of romance and adventure will find a treat awaiting them at the Rialto Theatre. In "The Cisco Kid," which opens tonight, is presented a stirring tale of the Old Southwest, cleverly plotted, gorgeously executed and revealing some of the finest work that its leading players, Warner Baxter, Edmond Lowe, Conchita Montenegro and Nora Lane have yet contributed to the screen.

Lowe, a cavalry sergeant, departs from Fort Huachuca in search of his old enemy, the Cisco Kid. The trail leads to the little frontier town of Carrizo, where the Kid's current flame Carmencita, is dancing in a saloon. The sergeant wings the fleeing Kid in the shoulder and then endeavors to get Carmencita to help him trap the bandit, but she scornfully turns him down.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Today, Prev. Day, Month Ago, Year Ago, High 1931, Low 1931, High 1929, Low 1929.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, Oct. 31. (AP)—The financial markets were willing to side with the optimists today. Shares gained modestly, but had a distinctly firm undertone and the same was true of bonds. The boom in wheat continued.

CHICAGO PRICES

Chicago, Oct. 31. (AP)—Signs that Russia had overreached herself underselling wheat competitors throughout the world and was now in a tight corner, gave breadstuffs an exciting advance today. Wheat and rye both outstripped the season's top quotations, with foreigners buying food deliveries here on a large scale, and with general speculation demand unusually broad.

In a tumultuous general dash to the buying side as soon as the wheat pit was open, word spread around that Russia had sold more wheat than she could deliver, and was paying dearly to cancel contracts. Liverpool reported that wheat offerings there were scanty, and that the Russian government's grain collections up to Oct. 29 had totaled only 30 per cent of the month's plan. There were also advices that the Soviets were unable to fulfill large export contracts made months ago before their 1931 crop was harvested with yields curtailed much below expectations.

Enormous buying power that sprang into evidence forced the Chicago wheat market higher and higher despite waves of profit taking, and continued to do so with little abatement until the final gong was sounded on the exchange floor. Sharp as was the advance here, European price bulges were greater, the way being led by 5 1/4 to 6 1/2 cents a bushel rise in Rotterdam, where much of Russia's wheat has been stored awaiting distribution to other countries.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Lard 8.65. CHICAGO BUTTER. Chicago, Oct. 31.—Butter prices declined 1/4 to 1/2 cent today under pressure of heavy receipts with demand slack. Trade was slow.

Story of Edison

Edison, Too Old for Fighting, Volunteers His Genius for War Service.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of 12 exclusive stories on Thomas A. Edison by Major William Joseph Hammer, his scientific associate and lifelong friend, who reveals the human side of the great inventor.

BY WILLIAM J. HAMMER Edison was selected the honorary head of the Naval Advisory Board. His contributions during the World War were numerous and remarkable. Our collision with Germany had cut our industries off from many chemicals.

There arose the great war problem of rubber. How were we going to shoe our ambulances? How were we going to find a substitute for a substance that has ramifications throughout our industrial life and which is also, a war necessity?

The world generally regards Edison's incandescent lamp as his greatest accomplishment. His favorite invention was undoubtedly the phonograph.

The "Jumbo" dynamo certainly baffled him more than any of his successful inventions. Up to the time of the "Jumbo," a dynamo could be lifted about by several men. Edison, which a six-ton armature, 250 revolutions a minute, by means of a direct connected steam engine.

The most efficient dynamo in the world at the time was the "Gramme," which had only an efficiency of 41 per cent, whereas the Edison dynamo translated 90 per cent of the steam power into electricity. The "Jumbo" dynamo solved the problem.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES. New York, Oct. 31.—Closing prices: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain demand, 3.82 3/4; cables, 3.82; 60 day bills, 3.87; cables, 3.82.

With his finger still feeling the prick of the needle on that diaphragm, Edison sat down and quickly sketched in a model of the device that was to catch the sound waves. He drew a cylinder about which was to be wrapped tin foil, to which was attached a diaphragm with a mouthpiece to talk into and a needle protruding in the back and touching the cylinder, which was turned by a crank. One of his assistants, James MacKenzie, the man who had taught Edison how to telegraph in his boyhood days and who was now a pensioned employ in his laboratory, looked at Edison's sketch and asked what it was for.

Edison took his first failure much to heart. He resolved that hence forth he would confine himself to making inventions for which there was a demand. Edison at one time became interested in extracting electricity from coal. But his investigations were all failures.

Edison's discovery of the principle of the phonograph was once described to Hammer by the inventor. "On day," Edison said, "I was talking into a phonic diaphragm at the back of which was attached a needle. I was feeling the power of the sound waves on the needle when, all of a sudden, I raised my voice to a shout, and the needle stuck so hard that it drew blood from my finger."

In her new study to Play Players Suzanne Lenglen will study the effect of movement as mannequins play tennis on a court in the building where she has her shop in Paris. She declares that while many dress models are beautiful and graceful so long as the wearers move slowly as mannequins do, the charm of the dress is gone when she moves abruptly. Movement will be the master idea of her creation, she says.

Artist Called From Palette To Head Capital Police Force

"Happy" Glassford... His knowledge of police work was limited... to the fact that he had been arrested... But he hopes to bring order and discipline to the Capital's police problem...

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer
Washington—"Happy" Glassford is perhaps the most unusual chief of police any large city ever had.

As Brigadier-General Pelham D. Glassford he was the youngest American general of the line during the war.

As a talented artist, he retired from the army last July at the age of 47 to enjoy the rest of his life painting pictures.

But they wanted a man to reorganize and revitalize the decentralized police force of the capital, so they picked on this man whose lifelong smile and consistent friendliness have caused him to be tagged as "Happy" ever since his days at West Point.

Well—He's Been Arrested.
Glassford didn't like that idea much when his old friend and superior, Major General Herbert B. Crosby, who is the District of Columbia commissioner in charge of police affairs, put it up to him. But he consented finally on the theory that the job promised plenty of "fun and action."

Action, energy and never-failing good humor are his weapons; he takes over this really tough job. Of police experience he has had none whatever.

"What do you know about police forces?" he was asked.

"Well," he pondered, and then suddenly brightening, "I've been arrested. Once I drove through a stop sign and another time I was arrested for speeding on my motorcycle."

He thinks he can rely importantly on "common sense" to carry him through. He expects to see to it that both the police and the people here get a square deal from each other. He believes you can put morale and efficiency into a police force as easily as you can install it into an army.

Faces Tough Task.
It's a tough job. The capital city's police prestige is near the bottom, thanks to their degree scandals, framup scandals, and many other assorted scandals. Crosby wanted a chief who would "sell the force to the public" and appease the Congressmen whose favorite sport is to "expose" the Washington police.

"Happy" is six feet and three inches tall, wavy, blonde and youthful.

He was born in New Mexico and his home is in Arizona, where he was recently offered the post of state adjutant-general and where he has a ranch. His father was an army officer and he was an art student here in his youth.

At the age of 17 he entered West Point and was the youngest member of the graduating class of 1904. He has always served in the Field Artillery—in the United States, the Philippines, Hawaii, the Mexican border and France. He has been an instructor and an assistant professor at West Point.

He was commandant of the Saumur artillery school in France, served in the Chateau-Thierry campaign and was made a brigadier-general when placed in command of the 51st Field Artillery brigade and sent to the front lines. There he won a distinguished service medal for "high military attainments and unceasing energy" and "rendering invaluable service to the A. E. F." He was wounded and received a silver star citation in 28th Division orders for gallantry in action.

"My idea of discipline is not the kind obtained by oppression or coercion," says Glassford.

"Discipline to me means getting subordinates into a frame of mind where they are not only willing, but eager, to carry out instructions. Discipline resulting from fear of punishment is the worst kind of discipline, although every commanding officer must insist that his orders be carried out."

Experience has taught that the police department is fundamentally honest. It is a fair cross-section of society and is composed largely of honest, intelligent men.

—Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director, Chicago Crime Commission.

Service Charges on Checking Accounts Changed by Banks

A revised schedule of service has been adopted by the local banks, and instead of the flat monthly charge which has heretofore been made against checking accounts which dropped below a certain sum at any time during the month, the new schedule will be based on the average balance carried and the number of checks drawn during the month.

The small checking account which draws a great many checks will be charged a reasonable sum to partly cover the actual expense of the account, and charges will also be made for collecting out-of-town checks and coupons, which service has heretofore been given free by the banks at considerable expense to themselves.

The charges under the new schedule are considerably less than city banks charge for the same services.

The universal habit of paying by check has developed a large number of bank customers who use the banks simply for their convenience in paying bills and the work involved has grown to such proportions that the banks are now requiring that the customer carry enough balance for the account to pay its way, or else pay a reasonable service charge to cover the expense of handling the account.

WOMEN TO HEAR NOTED WRITER

Miss Miriam Monger To Be Guest Speaker At Woman's Club Tues.

The next meeting of the Manistique Women's club will be held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at the Elks' temple with Miss Miriam Monger, pianist, vocalist, and novelist as the guest speaker. The meeting originally scheduled for Tuesday will be held over until Tuesday, December 1.

"Books and Authorship" will be the subject of Miss Monger's address. Miriam Monger's career is both varied and colorful. Born in a little Iowa town, she began to write very early, forgot her literary ambitions for music, trained for the opera and became a concert singer.

While touring she again began to write and has published two novels, "Diary of the North Country" and "A Midland Saga." Critics of note have compared the former with the works of Charles Dickens, the Bronte sisters, and George Elliot.

An eastern reviewer has this to say of her second book—"A Midland Saga might have come from the pen of Thomas Hardy, for Miss Monger writes with the same vivid portraiture, clear characterization and dramatic intensity that characterizes Hardy's novels."

Miss Monger is a member of the Society of Midland Authors, the only club of its kind in America with the exception of the Algonquin club of New York City. In their clubroom at the Sherman hotel, authors of national and international fame are entertained as guests.

In her talk she will refer to many of these celebrities and among other interesting comments on critics and writers, will quote Prof. Harry Brewster's delightful summing up of Sinclair Lewis. Her address, however, deals chiefly with her personal experiences as a writer. She asserts that her own admissions are as self-revealing as the Memoirs of Anatole France.

The musical program will consist of piano solos by Mrs. W. H. Sumner, a sister of Miss Monger. Refreshments and a social hour will take place after the program.

Ed. Haagquist Wins 4th Class Prize in Local Contest

Ed. Haagquist, 315 Houghton avenue, was declared winner in class number 4 of the Better Homes and Garden contest conducted under the supervision of the Clean-Up and Paint-Up committee of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce. Anthony Bush was a close second, judges for the fourth class turning in a score card of 98 per cent for Haagquist and 95 per cent for Bush. The decision was based upon the condition of the curbing, shrubbery, flowers, driveway, garage, architecture, and the painting, general appearance and condition of the residence. The fourth class included property with an assessed valuation from $1501 to $2,000 and had 19 entrants.

Thus far winners in the first, second, and fourth classes have been decided. Judges in the third class did not complete their work on schedule time, but their selections will be finished sometime this week.

Rangers Play Ishpeming in Charity Game Today

TEAMS EAGER FOR BIG SCRAP

Escanabans Want Revenge From Hematite Grid Squadron

A capacity crowd of enthusiastic football fans are expected to be on hand at 2:30 this afternoon when the rejuvenated Rangers of Escanaba meet the Ishpeming City football team in a return battle at the Escanaba athletic field. Last week the two teams battled to a 7 to 7 tie at the Marquette county city and Ranger players and followers seek revenge victory today. The Escanaba team was favored to cop the first meeting between the teams but the Ishpeming team put up a strong defense and the Rangers were forced to be satisfied with a tie game.

Proceeds from today's game will be used for charitable work this winter by the American Legion of this city who are sponsoring this charity game. The fans not only will be treated to a good football attraction but they will be able to do their bit towards relieving the miseries of unemployment. The more paid admissions that are received means the more empty stomachs that will be filled this winter and the more cold bodies that will be clothed.

Rangers Are Eager

However, the football game probably will be enticement enough for most football fans in Delta county and surrounding territories. Both teams are in the peninsula league with the Rangers in third place and the Hematites in fourth.

That the Rangers are exceptionally eager for victory was noticeable in practice sessions this week. Full squads reported every night and the workouts were run off with a zip that promises great things for today. The Escanabans are not making any secret of the fact that they believe they can defeat the Hematites. Rangers insist that only bad breaks kept them from licking Ishpeming last Sunday.

Although Coach Thompson did not indicate his probable starting lineup for today's game, it is believed that most of the old regulars with the exception of Sutter is out of the lineup with a 16-lb shoulder and his place will be filled by Johnny Garver, stalwart former Michigan State tackle.

Escanaba fans will see in action today another old favorite who has not been with the Rangers very long. He is Johnny Andrews who played quarterback with the Red Birds last year. Andrews has been in Seattle, Washington, the past half year and just recently returned to this city. He did not play at Ishpeming because of the fact that he had not been with the squad long enough to learn the backfield signals. Besides being a good ball carrier and passer, Andrews will bolster the lineup because of his expert blocking.

The American Legion drum and bugle corps will be on hand to treat the fans with a parade and musical accompaniment at the game.

The game will be described via the loud speaker. The broadcast will consist of explanation of plays and identification of players.

Cornell College Whips Columbia

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—Cornell whipped Columbia, 13 to 0, today in the race for eastern football championship honors. Due chiefly to the shining all-around brilliance of two fiery youngsters, Johnny Ferraro of Buffalo, N. Y., sophomore halfback, and Jose Martinez-Zorrilla of Jalisco, Mexico, spectacular end rush.

These two gridiron dynamos combined to furnish driving force to Cornell's attack as well as to fortify its defense in two of the finest individual performances witnessed in many years on historic Schoellkopf Field. They accounted for both Cornell touchdowns and the young-to-be member of the famous Martinez-Zorrilla clan made life miserable all afternoon for Columbia's renowned captain, Ralph Hewitt.

Walker Wins Fight For Large Budget

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Overcoming the city comptroller's spirited opposition, Mayor Walker won the approval tonight of the board of estimates and approved a 1932 municipal budget of $431,268,297.97—the largest in history.

Comptroller Charles W. Berry, who first annexed the mayor by a statement that a reduction of $14,000,000 was possible, carried his fight into a series of meetings in which none of his recommendations for budget slashes was accepted.

On motion of the mayor the board endorsed the budget over a negative vote by Berry and directed it sent to the board of aldermen for final adoption. The latter board must pass on it next month.

SYRACUSE WINS FROM SPARTANS

15 to 10 Victory Keeps Their Record for Year Unmarred

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Syracuse University passed and plunged its way to a 15 to 10 victory over Michigan State College today to retain its place among the nation's undefeated football teams.

The game was played on a rain-soaked gridiron before a crowd of 13,000 persons. Costly fumbles and an inability to cope with the powerful Syracuse aerial attack caused Michigan State's defeat after Bob Monnett, its high-scoring halfback, had led a successful offensive which gave the Spartans a 10 to 6 lead at the half.

State scored early in the first period when Monnett kicked a placement from the Syracuse 20-yard line. Syracuse opened its aerial offensive in the second period, Stoneberg receiving a 25-yard pass from Fishel and running another 25 yards for the first Syracuse touchdown. Fighting the easterners with their own weapons, State gained 41 yards in two passes and Monnett broke off left tackle for a touchdown. His goal was good.

43-Yard Pass

Syracuse came out after the half to recover Ellowitz's fumble and complete a 43-yard pass from Fishel to Cramer. Fishel after taking the ball over for a touchdown. Following an exchange of punts, State took the ball and Monnett and Ellowitz hit the Syracuse line for more than 40 yards, bringing the play to the Syracuse 10-yard line as the third period ended.

Getting the ball on downs, Syracuse cut loose with a series of end runs which brought them within one foot of the Michigan State goal where the Spartan line held. The ball went over and on the first play Ellowitz fumbled a high pass from center 10 yards behind the goal, giving Syracuse a safety. The clock minutes of the game saw State pushing a desperate offensive into Syracuse territory which ended on the Syracuse 20-yard line when the gun sounded.

Detroit Turns Back Loyola Squad, 21-0

Detroit, Oct. 31 (AP)—Consistent ripping holes in the weak forward wall of their opponents, the University of Detroit today defeated Loyola university of New Orleans, 21 to 0 in its second inter-sectional game of the season.

Detroit scored its first touchdown early in the initial period when Metras recovered a fumble behind the Loyola goal. Parsac's pass to O'Neill accounted for the second touchdown in the third period. In the final period the Titans pushed through Loyola for successive large gains placing the ball on the visitors' two-yard line from where Tooker went off left tackle for the last touchdown.

Detroit gained 332 yards from scrimmage, making 20 first downs while Loyola gained 167 yards and made nine first downs.

Alma's Grid Hopes Crushed by Albion

Albion, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Alma's M. I. A. A. grid title hopes were shattered here this afternoon when Albion college, three times defeated in the association this season, did the unexpected and rolled up a 13-2 victory over the encounter leaves Hillsdale as the only undefeated eleven in the conference, the Baptists having tied with Alma last week.

Outplaying Alma in every department of the game, Albion made a line yard gain of 220 to the visitors' 85 yards. The home team made 12 first downs to Alma's four. Watts, methodist hall from Northville, was the individual star of the game, netting his team both touchdowns and being responsible for several sensational long runs.

Notre Dame Humbles Carnegie Tech, 19 to 0

BY GAVILE TALBOT, (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 31 (AP)—Notre Dame's powerful football array, led by the irrepressible Marchmont Schwartz, swept down the field for three touchdowns in the first half to humble a hard-fighting Carnegie Tech eleven, 19 to 0, before 52,000 spectators at Pitt Stadium today.

The Tartans, who have been poison to the Ramblers in recent years, came back to hold their famous adversaries scoreless in the last two periods, three times halted them within their 10-yard line, but it didn't alter the result. The damage already had been done and the Fighting Irish had chalked up another one for "The Rock."

The dazzling array from South Bend went into the game steaming to the limit, determined to keep its record of twenty-three starts without a defeat intact. With Schwartz breaking away for one brilliant dash after another, Notre Dame's great backfield tore the Tartans' big red line to shreds. Within three minutes of the start, it was evident the engineers were not to repeat their sensational victories of 1926 and 1928 over the South Bend crew.

GOPHERS LICK BADGERS, 14-0

Minnesota Staves Off a Last Minute Attack to Take Victory

BY ROY F. HENDRICKSON

Minneapolis, Oct. 31 (AP)—Minnesota staved off a thrilling last period aerial assault to top off homecoming activities today with a 14 to 0 victory over its oldest rival, Wisconsin. The game was witnessed by 51,000 spectators.

To keep their Big Ten slate clean and climb alongside Northwestern, whom they meet next Saturday at Evanston, in the unbeaten eleven class of the western conference, the Gophers brought out a great defensive which halted the Badgers twice in the last quarter after passes advanced the ball within the ten-yard zone.

Both Minnesota touchdowns came in the first half. A 55-yard run by Jack Manders, which started as a line plunge, brought the first. A Wisconsin fumble in mid-field opened the opportunity when Gay, Gopher tackle, recovered on his own 36-yard line.

In the next period, Ken McDougall, flashy Minnesota quarterback, began a series of runs which directed the entire Wisconsin defense toward him. Then he passed to Robinson, an end, who in turn, tossed laterally to Captain Clarence Muun, giant guard. Muun ran for the touchdown.

Four Wisconsin challenges in the second half brought the invaders within the shadow of Minnesota's goal but the Gopher linesmen fought their heavier opponents to bring the assaults to naught. One march found Wisconsin four yards from the goal line lacking only inches for a first down, and another five yards from a score. Near the close of the contest, Wisconsin called upon Strain, a substitute back, for a barrage of passes, but although the Badgers gained during the game 145 yards by aerial assault, Minnesota's defense held under its goals.

Wisconsin made 208 yards from scrimmage to 201 for the victors, 63 yards coming from rushes. Each team had eight first downs while Minnesota's punting was slightly superior averaging 36 yards to 35 for the Badgers.

Oregon Surprises New York, Gallons Off With Victory

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—An underrated team in yellow and green from the University of Oregon plunged its way across Yankee stadium today to upset predictions and odds and deliver a stinging 14 to 6 defeat to New York university. New York U. had been considered one of the strongest teams in the east.

A crowd estimated at 20,000 came to its feet in surprise in the first few minutes of the game when Oregon plunged its way down the field for steady gains, a touchdown and goal.

Mirk Temple, Oregon left halfback from Pendleton, carried the pigskin across and continued thereafter to distinguish himself with long plunges. In the fourth quarter he shot a forward pass to Leighton Gee, the other halfback, who then slid across New York's goal line like a small boy going down a slide.

Kansas Aggies Win From Mountaineers

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Kansas Aggies avenged the last defeat they suffered on the gridiron by defeating West Virginia university's mountaineers here today 19 to 0 in a chilling rain.

Not since the Mountaineers vanquished them in November of last season have "Bo" McMillan's charges tasted of defeat. Today they held West Virginia well away from their goal line. Excepting in the final quarter while Captain Henry Cronkitt's toe was accounting for two field goals and two touchdowns, were pushed over.

Kalamazoo Bows to Olivet by 13 to 0

Olivet, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Coach Joe Truskowski's Crimson Olivet squad won from a stubborn Kalamazoo College eleven by a 13 to 0 score here at Ried Field today. The Olivet squad outplayed the Orange and Black Kalamazoo eleven, ripping the line wide open time and again for substantial gains. Sullo ran through the line for six yards in the second period for the first touchdown. Jodway pushed the ball over the line for Olivet again in the fourth quarter.

PURDUE SCARED BY STAGG TEAM

Chicago Team Defeated By Boilermakers by 14 to 6 Score

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Stagg Field, Chicago, Oct. 31 (AP)—"Old Man" Stagg's crippled and struggling Maroons threw a big scare into the stronger and superior Purdue machine today, but in the end were ground under a 14 to 6 defeat.

The scare came in the first half which ended with the Maroons leading 6 to 0. But Purdue came pounding back to register two touchdowns in the third and Chicago went tumbling down to defeat for the third time in "Big Ten" competition this season.

The result was a surprise to the crowd of 5,000, smallest attendance at a major game at Stagg field since the early days. Purdue had been counted upon to run all over Chicago. Chicago fought valiantly in the first two periods, registering a touchdown, then tired in the third with no replacements to check Purdue's driving attack.

Chicago Scores

The Maroon line stopped Purdue's vaunted running attack in the first half and at the same time the Maroon offense showed unlooked for power. Stagg's players, with Temple, Wallace and Sahlin carrying the ball, swept to Purdue's ten-yard line as the first period ended and at the start of the second, Sahlin, Maroon left half back, crashed over the goal line for a touchdown.

Chicago made a determined stand when Purdue made a first down on the three yard line in the third period but the line crumbled under the drives of Hornstrump, replacement for Yunevitch at fullback, and Hecker, with the latter going over. Pardonner kicked goal, giving Purdue a point margin.

Another score came a few minutes later after Chicago kicked off and the Boilermakers rushed the ball to their own 47 yard line. Purvis, Purdue right half back, broke away on a 53-yard run and galloped across Chicago goal, with Pardonner again kicking goal.

WILDCATS CLAW ILLINOIS, 32-6

Northwestern Rings Up Four Touchdowns in First Period

Ithaca Stadium, Evanston, Ill., Oct. 31 (AP)—Northwestern's Wildcats ripped out four touchdowns in the first period today, then sheathed their claws and coasted to a 32 to 6 triumph over Illinois.

About 40,000 spectators huddled in the stands under a grey, chilly sky and watched Northwestern do everything but chase the green but game Illinois sophomores out of the stadium in the first period, but the Illini, out-classed in everything except courage, braced with the count 25 to 0 against them, and managed to become the first Big Ten team to score on the victors this season.

Where fumbles hampered Northwestern efforts in previous games, it was penalties that slowed the Wildcats today. Eleven penalties for holding and offside took a toll of 95 yards.

Army Squad Takes Easy 27-0 Victory

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—The golden helmets of West Point prevailed today against little Colorado college, which battled to the last but went home on the short end of a 27 to 0 score.

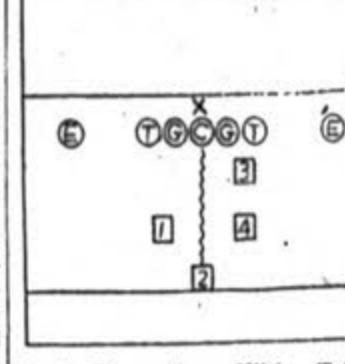

Taking the intersectional breather in stride, the Cadets used a liberal mixture of substitutes, especially in the second half, after Ray Stecker, "stare mule" halfback, had led in rolling up 20 points in the first two periods.

Spartan Rooters Defend Goal Posts

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 31 (AP)—Jubilant over their victory against Michigan State college, a small group of Syracuse supporters rushed into the field immediately after the game ended today in an effort to uproot State's south goal posts. They were met by a crowd of Michigan State rooters who successfully defended the goal posts and later threw one of the Syracuse students into the nearby Red Cedar river.

PUNT FORMATION

Punt Formation With Triple-Threat Star in Key Position is One of Most Deceptive Plays.

If you care to reminisce a little, think of the great triple-threat stars you have seen parade up and down the gridiron. There was Thorpe, of course. And there were Gipp and Mahan and Nevers and Devine and some more. All were star kickers, passers and ball carriers.

The one play suited for such performers was the punt formation. It afforded them the chance to kick, run with the ball or pass it. The opposition was never quite sure what they would do until the play was well under way. Because of this deception, the formation has remained popular.

The accompanying diagram shows the punt formation for a right-footed kicker. In this case the No. 2 back, Nos. 3 and 4 are lined up to block on his kicking side; No. 1 to ward off the enemy on his left. The ends are playing wide, prepared to cover the kick or to get into the open for a forward pass.

The formation is not particu-

VOLLEY BALL LOOP PLANNED

Business and Professional Men Plan Winter's Program

Plans are being made to organize a Business and Professional Men's Volley Ball League, which will play a regular schedule of evening games at the high school gymnasium.

The men teachers of the senior and junior high schools have signified their intention of entering two teams into the league, and it is expected that the Presbyterian Men's club will also join. Considerable interest in the plans is being displayed by other groups of business and professional men.

The school gymnasiums are made available to the volley ball players at a small charge to cover the expense of electric lighting and janitor service.

Groups desiring to enter the league are asked to send their lineups to the sports department of the Escanaba Daily Press. Entries close Nov. 10.

Illinois ran rough-shod over Pennsylvania a few years ago, using this formation for every play. Red Grange was at a right-footed kicker. In this case the No. 2 back, Nos. 3 and 4 are lined up to block on his kicking side; No. 1 to ward off the enemy on his left. The ends are playing wide, prepared to cover the kick or to get into the open for a forward pass.

FIGHTING CREW ON TOP OF 14-12

98-Yard Run After Intercepting Pass Is One of Features

Iron Mountain, Oct. 31 (Special)—A fighting band of Eskymos invaded the fair of the Eskymos Mountaineers this afternoon and after the smoke of four periods of sensational football had cleared away, the Escanaba touchdown manufacturers held the heavy end of a 14 to 12 score. The Escanaba victory was regarded as the biggest football upset that has shocked peninsula gridiron affairs in recent years.

Escanaba has produced numerous fighting machines in some 40 years of football but never has an Escanaba squad given a better exemplification of what grit and a determined spirit will do for a football team than Coach Nordberg's warriors did today.

From the first play in the first quarter to the final play in the fourth quarter the Eskymos rose up and flaunted their banners with a spectacular display of "pure guts."

Escanaba Scores
Iron Mountain expected to toy with the Eskymos but before three minutes of the game had been played, the Mountaineers found themselves with their backs to the wall, unable to halt a determined Escanaba attack.

Escanaba kicked off in the first period to Iron Mountain. The Mountaineers with the aid of a 5-yard penalty counted a first down but they were unable to travel any farther and Larson punted to Escanaba's 40-yard stripe. The Eskymo attack functioned smoothly and with Ballargeon and Finman doing most of the ball totting, Escanaba advanced on a steady march to Iron Mountain's 5-yard line. A short pass, Abel to Finman, netted a touchdown and Finman made the extra point on a line smash.

Temporarily stunned by the sudden reversal of the situation, Iron Mountain was unable to stop another sustained Eskymo drive and the ever fighting Nordberg warriors marched right to the Mountaineer's 4-yard line before they were finally forced to yield the offensive by missing a first down by only two yards.

Then the big guns of the Mountaineers, silent for more than a period and a half, with a viciousness that caught the

By rallying in the final period, the Escanaba Reserves eked out a 7 to 6 decision over the Iron Mountain Reserves as a preliminary to the Escanaba-Iron Mountain varsity scrap at Iron Mountain. The Eskymo Reserves counted their touchdowns and extra point on passes. The Mountaineers scored in the first period.

Mountaineers because of Escanaba interference. The plays gave Iron Mountain the ball on the 15-yard line and the Mountaineers rushed it over from there. Larson stepped off the final three yards. Again the attempt to score the extra point by rushing was stopped cold by the Eskymos. The game ended soon after with the final score: Escanaba 14; Iron Mountain 12.

Escanaba had the better of the yardage table for the first half by gaining 127 yards on running plays while Iron Mountain made 64 yards. Escanaba made six first downs in this half against five for the Mountaineers. In the second half, however, Iron Mountain made eight first downs against only two for the Eskymos and the Mountaineers made 56 yards against only 16. Both teams actually gained more yardage but totals were kept down because of losses.

In addition to his 52-yard return of an intercepted pass, Ballargeon reeled off two 17-yard runs and a 24 yard sprint. Corsi, Johnson and Larson sprinkled their achievements with several of nine, 11, 10 and 19 yards.

Dartmouth, Yale Play Sensational Tie Game at New Haven, 33-33

BY POSTER HAILEY (Ass'd Press Sports Writer)
New Haven, Conn., Oct. 31 (AP)—Down from the Hills of Hanover today came a courageous band of Dartmouth football players to fall in a quest for a victory over Yale, but gain glory enough in coming back from almost certain defeat to tie the Blue 33 to 33.

Since 1884 the Green clad warriors from New Hampshire have sought in vain for victory over Yale. Today they had it within their grasp for a fleeting moment while 35 thousand persons stared down from the big gray bowl in breathless attention.

Grand Rapids Bill McCall, stocky Dartmouth back, had just intercepted a forward pass intended for Captain Albie Booth, of Yale, and run 60 yards for the touchdown which made the score 30-33. This Dartmouth team had come on the field to start the second half trailing the Blue 10 to 26 and in a headlong dash which brooked no opposition had come within striking distance.

Kicks Place Kick
Bill Morton, who played brilliantly all the game at quarterback for Dartmouth, tossed two passes, one to W. C. Bristler, his left half and another to McCall to carry the ball to Yale's 15-yard line.

He made a futile plunge himself at a thin Blue line which threw him back without a gain. He called a reverse, faked a pass to another back and then gave the ball to McCall. Blue clad, white helmeted figures came charging through. McCall tried to outrun them to his right, saw an eligible receiver over the goal and faded back, but as he pulled back his arm to let the pass go he was smothered under a blanket of Yale tacklers. There was another down to go. What to do? The Dartmouth team stayed long in a huddle. Then the decision was made. Morton dropped back to his own 18-yard line and

KERNZ OFFERS NEEDED PUNCH

Upbays Held Scoreless in First Half of Grid Battle

Gladstone, Oct. 31—After being held scoreless in the first half, Gladstone high school's Scarlet and White clad football juggernaut got under way in the second half to another light but scrappy Vulcan eleven by a score of 26 to 0.

However, after their vaunted running and line attack had been stopped by the fighting Miners, it was necessary to insert Kernz, ace of the Upbay ball carriers, who was being kept on the sidelines because of injuries, into the fracas and he was the boy who ignited the fireworks and turned the tide in favor of the Kellmen. Four plays after he entered the battle he had kicked the Vulcan goal for the first score of the game. A few minutes later, in a drive in which Kernz figured prominently, Gladstone scored again and Kernz was then withdrawn.

Kellmen Superior
The Kellmen outplayed the Miners, rolling up 11 first downs while the Upbays forwarded the Miner backs to two. In aerial play, which Gladstone used for the first time this season, the Upbays tossed three, completing two for a total gain of 25 yards, while Vulcan tossed six, completing three, for a total gain of 14 yards.

In the first half both teams resorted often to punting, taking advantage of a strong wind blowing. Neither team threatened, the closest Gladstone came to the Vulcan goal being the 26-yard line, while Vulcan once reached Gladstone's 30-yard marker.

A break early in the second half aided Gladstone, and they proceeded to take full advantage of it. With a bad pass from center, lost 15 yards, placing it on the 10-yard marker. A punt went to the 40-yard line and Cannon returned it 10 yards to the 30-yard stripe. Potvin garnered seven in three tries and Cannon made it first down on the 20-yard mark.

SOO WALLOPS 'STIQUE, 25-0

Long Runs Are Features of Last Tilt of Year in County Seat

Manistique, Oct. 31 (Special)—A fighting Manistique eleven met defeat today before the powerful Soo team and were humbled by a score of 25-0. Before a large crowd of fans, 200 of them from the Soo.

Two long runs in the first quarter, one 70 yard jaunt around left end by McLean and a 55 yard sprint around the same end by Phil Jacobs. Both for touchdowns took the heat out of the Cook men. Manistique got a break at the start of the game when the Cook men recovered their own kickoff on the Soo's 18 yard line, but after a series of running plays were repulsed two yards from a first down. On only one other occasion during the game were the Cook men able to penetrate within the Soo's 25 yard line. That was late in the fourth quarter when a drive from their own 20 yard line was broken up when the Cranemen intercepted a pass on their 20 yard line.

McLean got away on the first play after Ekdhall had punted to the Soo 30 yard line. The husky Soo boy led by good interference got away and then warded off three more tacklers with a pretty stiff arm. A few plays later Jacobs also scored on the first play after a punt on a 58 yard run after the identical formation. Both tries for extra points failed. Jacobs got away with another long run in the second quarter when he intercepted a pass in midfield and was forced out of bounds on the 10 yard line. The green and white forwards held and Manistique got the ball on its two yard line. Ekdhall got off a poor punt after being hurried. The ball going out of bounds on his own 10 yard line. A pass, Jacobs to Gleb was good for another touchdown, after three line plays had failed.

Manistique completely outplayed the Soo in the last half, six first downs to two, but didn't have the punch in scoring territory.

The Cranemen took advantage of a break at the outset when Geib, Soo right end, fell on the kick-off behind Manistique's goal line after the ball had been touched by a Manistique player. The point after, touchdown was good. Making the score 25-0. In the preliminary game the Manistique reserves defeated the St. Joseph reserves 13-0. Two runs by Jack McIntosh accounted for both touchdowns. The 45-piece Soo band and Manistique high school band marched on the streets before the game and between halves.

BUCKEYES WIN FROM HOOSIERS

Ohio State Takes 13 to 6 Victory at Indiana in Big Ten Game

BY T. E. APPLIGATE (Associated Press Sports Writer)
Memorial Stadium, Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 31 (AP)—The brilliance of Carl Cramer's forward passes and twisting dashes around the ends carried Ohio State's powerful football team to a 13 to 6 victory over Indiana University in a Big Ten game here today.

A cold rain drizzled down on players and crowd, but not even the elements could compete with the speedy Ohio quarterback, who capped his efforts with a 70-yard touchdown dash through a broken field in the fourth quarter after intercepting a Hoosier pass.

Hoosiers Score First
The game was played before an Indiana homecoming crowd of 12,000 under umbrellas.

Indiana offered a stubborn defense that held the big Ohio forward wall to nearly even terms, but whenever Cramer had half a chance, he went places.

The Buckeyes eleven looked bad in the first quarter, when the Hoosiers dug their cleats in the soggy turf and outcharged the visitors to score a touchdown in the first five minutes.

Vikings, Flivvers Battle to 7-7 Tie

Norway, Mich., Oct. 31 (Special)—Kingsford high school held the strong Viking eleven to a 7 to 7 tie here this afternoon. The Flivvers registered the first touchdown in the second quarter when Chrisman intercepted a Norway pass, thrown by Gray, and ran 85 yards for a touchdown. Kingsford made the extra point on a plunge through the line.

Norway started its celebrated aerial offensive in the third quarter, working the ball from midfield without interruption. A 15-yard pass, Gray to Zadra, was the final play of the march for a touchdown. The same combination worked a pass for the extra point.

The Vikings made a desperate attempt to break the tie in the last quarter, resorting to an aerial game again. Although much yardage was made on the passes, they lacked the necessary punch to put the ball over the goal line.

ST. JOE BEATS HOUGHTON BOYS
Brunelle Team Maintains Unbeaten Record by 27-7 Triumph

Completely outclassing the Houghton prep football outfit in every department of the game a powerful St. Joseph aggregation led by Phil Brazeau scored its fifth victory of the season yesterday, defeating the Houghtontites by a 27-7 score.

St. Joe scored early in the second quarter when Trettheway, Houghton safety, fumbled the St. Joe kick which was recovered past the goal line by McGovern. Brazeau's kick was wide. A second touchdown was scored a few minutes later by Brazeau when he broke away on an off tackle play after the Saints had worked the ball to the thirty-five yard line on aerial plays. Brazeau kicked for the extra point.

University of Iowa Wins Football Game

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 31 (AP)—The University of Iowa turned its first touchdown of the season into its initial victory today, defeating the Colonials of George Washington University, 7 to 0, by a marker in the second period.

Although Iowa outplayed its eastern rivals in every department except passing, the Old Gold's only scoring came after Captain Sanson had crashed through to the 19-yard line and added nine yards on the next play. Hickman, left halfback, then punched the Colonial line for the nine yards in two drives. Sanson added the extra point with a place kick.

floor, formerly the site of a skating rink, is now a tennis court. It was surfaced and fenced this summer, and was used extensively by tennis players from the north side of the city.

Will Discuss Orient—"The Present Japanese Problem in China" will be the subject of a talk to be given at the Monday noon meeting of the Escanaba Kiwanis club in the Ludington hotel. Perch Fingerlings Best for Planting

Lansing—With the hatching of perch in Michigan's state fish hatcheries suspended this year, all of the perch planted will be from the Boardman River at Traverse City and other places in the state where large runs of fingerlings are experienced.

Until 1931 at all hatcheries where facilities were available, perch were hatched by the millions and planted as fry in lakes about the state. The fish division of the department of conservation now believes that but a small percentage of these fish live to maturity and that the planting of much smaller numbers of fingerlings from two to three inches long will have better results in repopulating the lakes with this species.

Only Four States Have Free Camps

Lansing—Michigan has one of the few state park systems in the country in which no charges are made of any kind to the public, according to the Parks Division of the Conservation Department after a survey of the other state's recreational systems.

The only charge made in any of the Michigan parks is for special services such as the rental of bathing suits and boats and sales made at supervised concessions.

In some states, according to the Parks Division, charges are made for camping space. In other parks visitors are charged for parking their automobiles. In one state a fee of 10c is charged all adults entering the parks.

One large park system leases cottage sites on a more or less permanent basis and occupying some of the choicest park land.

Timberland Owners Meet at University

Ann Arbor—At the invitation of the University the principal owners and managers of timberlands in Michigan will meet at the School of Forestry and Conservation Nov. 5th to 7th for a discussion of timberland taxation, the possibility of sustained yield management of Michigan's privately owned forests, and other problems of forest land management. This will be the fifth annual meeting of the timberland owners, all of which have been held in Ann Arbor.

Very largely as an outgrowth of the conference a year ago, the funds—by appropriations from the state legislature.

Pearson Act was revised by last winter's legislature. This Act has for its purpose the encouragement of private land forestry, and the amendments adopted were advantageous both to the public and the landowner desiring to grow timber, through making the Act more practicable in application.

The first session of the Ann Arbor conference will be held at the Michigan Union, Thursday afternoon, November 5th. During the conference discussions will be lead by spokesmen for the timber industry of the State and the Department of Conservation, and by Dean S. T. Dana, Professor D. M. Matthews, and Professor W. F. Ramsdell of the forest school faculty. The entire group will attend the Michigan-Indiana football game as guests of the University.

What Are They Doing Now?

Little Items of Interest About Former Residents.

Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Snyder of Baraboo, Wis., former Escanabans who left here in 1929 and who visit here occasionally, are "always thrilled anew with this city's progressive movement, more beautiful each year," quoting Mrs. Snyder's statement received from her some time ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Snyder are well known to practically every one in Delta county, and during their residence in this city have formed many and real friendships that are lasting pleasant memories.

Dr. A. F. Snyder was born October 24, 1855, in Janesville, Wis., where he attended the public schools, later studying medicine at Rush Medical College in Chicago. On May 6, 1885 he married Miss Laura Booth at Elroy, Wis., a graduate of Milton College, Milton, Wis.

Dr. Snyder's first visit into the Upper Peninsula was in 1892. At that time, Mrs. Snyder's father, the late Dr. C. E. Booth, was a practicing physician here and later on in 1893, Dr. Booth finally persuaded his son-in-law to practice surgery and medicine in this city.

In December, 1929, Dr. Snyder's health "was not up to par" as he calls it, and the years rolling on rapidly he gave up his practice here and returned to Baraboo where they had formerly lived, and where they had many old time friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Snyder have two daughters, Mrs. James A. MacKilloan, and Mrs. F. H. Bathke, both born in Wisconsin.

Mounds Excavated in Muskegon County

Ann Arbor—Dr. Carl E. Guthe, director of the University of Michigan museum of anthropology, has announced the finding of evidence of Hopewell Indian culture in Muskegon county.

A Hopewell mound was found on the farm of Milton McNeal in Egelston township. It contained the skull of a child, a bear's tooth ornament, a copper axe and a pottery vase. The decorative design on the vase linked the grave with the Hopewell culture, definitely, Dr. Guthe said.

Dr. Guthe said the grave was more than 500 but less than 10,000 years old. Similar graves have been found in Kent and Newaygo counties.

The Hopewell Indians receive their name from the owner of a farm in Ohio where their mounds first were excavated. Weapons, implements and pottery taken from Hopewell mounds show they developed a complex civilization many years before Columbus crossed the Atlantic, Dr. Guthe says.

Wells in Woods Give Fire Water

When forest fire fighters cannot find a nearby stream or lake to furnish them with water they dig a well.

During the past forest fire season, Michigan forest fire fighters have developed a system of obtaining water for fighting ground fires by drilling shallow wells. It has been found possible on many occasions to sink a well from three to eight feet in the ground in a short time and obtain sufficient water to keep a ground fire or a muck fire under control.

Whether this system may be used depends upon the height of the water table. When it is low the pump system cannot be used but in ordinary seasons it has been found that a well point sunk a few feet into the ground will furnish enough water to fill portable tanks and pail. The system is used generally on "muck" fires and in "cleaning up" after a fire. An ordinary "pitcher" pump or a gasoline pump is used to lift the water to the surface.
