GEMS OF PERIL

(By NEA Service) By Hazel Ross Miller

CHAPTER XXXVII

MARY laid a light velvet wrap about her shoulders and stepped into the hall as soon as she heard Bates' door close. He stood resplendent in evening dress, clanking at his collar, an improved but still a brightly sunburnt young man.

"All set?" "Lord," he groaned, "I thought this job was a cinch when I took it. Yachts, parties—but phoney!" He lifted his chin as far as possible out of his unrelenting collar, settled it back again and said resignedly, "Well, let's go."

"For being a good egg," she said. "How did you come out with your puzzle?" "Oh, that," he seemed relieved to change the subject. "I didn't get much done on that. Took all my time getting into this balled shirt. Maybe I ought to stay down and work on that."

"You come along. Let the picture puzzle go for the present. More than likely it's just some political candidate he took a dislike to. Even criminals have their politics, I suppose."

DESTINATION Riding on a railroad train, Through the sunshine, through the rain Over rivers, over hollows, So the winding road it follows. Yet we do not doubt or fear, Somewhere we are drawing near. There's a gate, a house behind it, And we know that we shall find it.

"Out with 'em!" the old man snapped. "No hemming and hawing. We're in a hurry." He looked at his watch. "It's seven o'clock now."

"I'll be brief," Bruce sneered. "It's this: I think all this pursuit of De Loma is simply a fake on Miss Harkness' part. He is the first man who came to hand."

"So far I've submitted with fairly good grace to all this hocus-focus, but I ask you—isn't it odd that the pursuit of this—phantom, let us say—should take on the general lines of a pleasure jaunt of the first order?"

There was a long minute or two of ghastly silence, broken by Bates' heartfelt exclamation. "Well, I'll be damned!" He laughed then—positively roared.

"That bracelet," Jupiter spoke gently, as if to a child. "was your mother's, son. It was part of what the robber got when he—when he shot your mamma, and got away. I'd know the bracelet anywhere."

"Well, it has. You look next time. If Louise got it from De Loma, then that proves all we've been trying to prove. Sure as sin he's the man killed your mamma."

"Gee, pop... HE'S SUCH A NICE DOG! WHY DON'T YOU LET ME KEEP HIM? HOW WOULD YOU FEEL IF NOBODY WANTED YOU AN' TURNED YOU OUT IN THE COLD WORLD, WITH NO PLACE TO GO? AW, POP, YOU WOULDN'T REALLY DO IT, WOULD YOU?"

lection at too early an age. Mr. Jupiter spoke to him then more gently than Mary had ever heard him.

"Bruce, my son," he said, "we need you. Will you help us?" Bruce drew himself up, refusing to meet his father's eyes. He was not yet ready to give in.

"Let him do just this, if he will," she soothed. "Ask him to keep Louise away from the hotel for this evening to avoid any further scenes. Keep her where she won't see or speak to De Loma."

"You imagine correctly. Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to offer you our regrets."

"I'm eat those words some day!" "But look here," he turned seriously suddenly, "you oughtn't to take a chance wearing that necklace up there, Mary! It—it worries me."

"Just let him see it!" Mary pleaded. "Then I'll take it off—Bates or you can take it away and lock it up again, if you like. He thinks I've got it out of the safe, but he isn't sure."

"That so?" Jupiter seemed surprised. "Now I kinda counted on your going on a little fishing trip soon as this is over—kinds made up my mind I'd like to try for some baracuda down around Dry Tortugas—"

They all went out to the elevator together. There was the sound of a telephone ringing, and after listening a minute they decided that it came from Mary's room.

America Gives Thanks on this day of gratitude

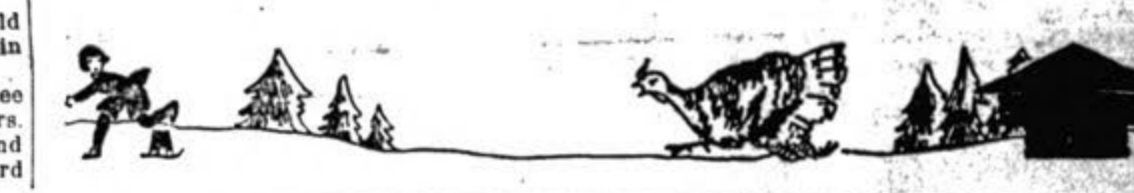

Ever since that first memorable Thanksgiving in 1621, when a brave handful of Pilgrims gathered to praise God for their first harvest, Thanksgiving Day has been a motivating spirit to all Americans.

That hardy band had passed through a perilous Winter. Many obstacles threatened to end their hopes and lives. Supplies were depleted . . . strength was exhausted. A harvest meant life or death. But the new land produced bountifully, success was assured, and because they were God-fearing men of character they humbled themselves in gratitude.

For more than three centuries Americans have continued to go forward, accomplishing deeds far beyond the dreams of the Mayflower voyagers. It is a tribute to all Americans that we have not forgotten Thanksgiving Day—that in our great material achievements we have not forgotten the spiritual.

Let us figuratively bow our heads in reverence for the many blessings which flow daily from this great free land. And in return let us unite in silent consent to make each day of our lives, in business and in the home, a message of Thanksgiving.

Nation's Thanksgiving Hails Eventful Epochs

BY OSCAR LEIDING

Washington, (AP)—Thanksgiving day—the only religious festival celebrated in the United States by authority of its government—has had its ups and downs. Sometimes it has been a day of fasting—at other times a day of feasting. Sometimes it occurred in the spring, when the earth was fresh for planting. Or perhaps it followed the golden harvests of autumn.

Mostly it has been a day filled with religious meaning—but the "first" Thanksgiving was three days of food and frolic.

Commonly, its beginnings in America are traced to Plymouth in 1621 when a handful of sturdy Pilgrims "entertained and feasted" for nearly a week.

More correctly, however, Thanksgiving as it is known today stretches less than a century back to that rail-splitter from the midwest, Abraham Lincoln.

Pilgrims 'Rejoice Together'

One chronicler of the Pilgrim festival makes no mention of religious significance. He wrote: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling, that so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours; they four in one day killed as much fowle, as with a little help beside, served the company almost a weeke."

Marked Burgoyne's Defeat America's first national Thanksgiving, however, was not a harvest festival but marked the surrender of Burgoyne. Called by the continental congress, it was held on Thursday, December 18, 1777.

To President George Washington fell the honor of proclaiming the first Thanksgiving after the national government was established. Again a Thursday was chosen—November 26, 1789.

Congress asked that the day be proclaimed for giving thanks for the constitution—but passed the measure only after a political battle because there were objectors to the constitution.

The next Thanksgiving day was again Thursday—February 19, 1795, a fast day called by President Washington. From that time, the occasion followed an erratic course, jumping three years to a Thanksgiving day proclaimed by President John Adams for a Wednesday, May 9.

Various Dates Chosen. President Madison was a consistent Thursday man in proclaiming a Thanksgiving day for each of the four years he was in office—but selecting a different month for each.

State interest carried the tradition along. Then, in 1862, after "signal victories to the land and naval forces," President Lincoln

GARDEN NEWS

Garden, Mich., Nov. 23 (Special)—John Watchorn of Fayette, finds that there is a very poor market for his potatoes this fall but he is assured of a plentiful supply for his family use. His tubers turned out better than for some years past, many of them weighing between two and three pounds. He placed one on the scale. He was surprised to find that it was three and a half pounds. It did not appear to be so heavy, which gives the impression that it is quite solid. Other large tubers used for the family table have been entirely free from hollow centers. They are early Michigan, the seed being purchased from the William Hartman farm last spring and are of excellent table qualities.

There has been an abundance of pastureage throughout the peninsula during the past fall. Cattle are still on pasture at this writing, but dairymen state that there has not been a corresponding abundance of milk and cream. So much wet weather has greatly curtailed production.

Albert Beardsley of Kates Bay has lost one of his good holstein dairy cows. It is believed that she ate too much rutabaga tops. He had been wondering provisionally how he was going to provide barn space for so many head of cattle but that problem is now solved.

PSORIASIS

This is a serious skin disease usually of a stubborn nature and causes no end of trouble to folks who are unfortunate enough to contract it. The antiseptic Emerald Oil treatment takes right hold with the first application and good results continue daily. If powerful antiseptic Emerald Oil doesn't conquer your trouble the Ellsworth Drug Co., and Peoples Drug Store or any live druggist anywhere will return the purchase price. A Philadelphia man spent thousands of dollars trying to get rid of Psoriasis. Nothing helped until he got Emerald Oil—soon he was well—again free from this stubborn disease. Men's Emerald Oil costs but 25 cents a bottle and it's so wonderfully helpful for other ailments such as Eczema, Acne, Itching Skin, Old Sores, Broken Varicose Veins, Itching Toes and Athletes Foot—it's a great home remedy.

RALPH NEWS

Hunters Ball

Ralph, Mich., Nov. 24—The Hunters Ball given at the Ralph Town hall Saturday night proved to be one of the most delightful events of the hunting season. The hall was filled to its capacity and every one enjoyed themselves immensely. Red seemed to be the predominating color in almost everyone's attire. The absence of a barber in Ralph was certainly in evidence as you gazed at some of the faces among the crowd. Between the dance numbers, which consisted of almost every kind of dance imaginable, and during the intermissions people were overwhelmed with mirth at the antics and songs of "The Shy Young School Girl," "Uncle Abner," "Silas" and the funny clown who in real life were Dr. Mercer, Charles Cline, Beatty Youm and Herman Melling of Battle Creek. Their costumes and make-up were a laugh within themselves. When Silas and Abner sang the song entitled, "May I Sleep in Your Barn Tonight, Mister," Silas' voice was almost too sad to be described and the cruel Uncle Abner, who wouldn't let him sleep there, could not be moved by the mournful appeal. Rob Przal of Escanaba, also entertained the audience with three numbers in his ever funny Swedish dialect. Almost everyone present made the comment that they would like to see "The Hunters Ball" become an annual event in Ralph and if they all would be as successful as this one, it would certainly be one of the attractions of Ralph as a hunting center.

VETERANS SEEK LAW REVISIONS

Prohibition Resolution Will Be Submitted to Congress

Indianapolis, Ind. — Adequate pensions for widows and orphans of all deceased World war veterans; amendments to the World War Veterans' Act, which includes out-patient treatment; certain hospital construction; national defense; a reduction of interest rates on adjusted compensation loans; the creation of a Senate committee to handle veterans' legislation, and the presentation of the Detroit convention resolution on the referendum constitute the major legislative program of the American Legion at the coming session of Congress.

This list of major objectives was selected by the national executive committee at its closing session at national headquarters.

National Defense

The national defense part of the national executive committee's action reads:

"That the national defense program adopted by the American Legion at Detroit be urged before the coming session of Congress; that the national legislative committee oppose any reduction in appropriations for the Army, National Guard, R. O. T. C., C. M. T. C., and the Organized Reserves; and that the committee urge upon Congress the completion of the Navy building program, in accordance with the maximum requirements permitted under the London Treaty."

Prohibition

That part of the action relating to prohibition reads:

"That the national legislative committee present to the proper committees of Congress for their consideration the resolution adopted at the Detroit convention, favoring the submission of the question of the repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment to the voters of the several states."

Garden Woman Hits Deer With Auto

Garden, Mich., Nov. 23 (Special)—One of the most interesting deer stories ever to be related in this district has been told many times here during the past week.

On Sunday, Harry Baker took his automobile and gun to spend the day hunting. The latter part of the day was characterized by rain and dismal weather and about four o'clock he arrived home, tired and disappointed. His wife had been hoping for his success and an early return in order that she might take the car and visit her mother at Manistique. Mr. Baker consented to go conditionally that his wife drive the car in view of his weariness. That was agreeable, and with the children and Mrs. Josephine Baker, the party started out, passing through practically the same territory that the husband had traversed during the day. About two miles on this side of the Parker resort on US-2 a medium sized buck jumped into the road. Mrs. Baker was traveling about twenty-five miles an hour. She immediately applied all brakes but hit the animal, knocking him down. She states that at the time she hit him, she had slowed down to about five miles per hour. The animal had come to a dead stop just ahead of the car and it meant either hitting him or the ditch.

It cannot be explained just how he avoided tangling up his horns with the bottom of the car but as soon as the car became stationary, he lost no time in crawling out on his knees.

In the meantime, members of the family feared lest the car be turned over and made a rush for outside. Mr. Baker grabbed his gun which had been left there after the day's hunt and loaded it and shot just as the deer was extricating his hind quarters from under the bottom of the car.

It is believed that the deer was dazed, and tired after being chased, during a good part of the day but it is thought that he was not hurt sufficiently to prevent a quick get-away when once he had got entirely free from the auto. He weighed one hundred and thirty-five pounds.

The Baker family made room for the deer as a member of the party and continued their journey to the city, spending a pleasant evening at the homes of Mrs. Louise Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cooper.

Paper Mill Group Has Welfare Fund

Employees of the Escanaba Paper Co. have raised a fund to be used in supplying clothing for needy children and enable them to continue in school. The fund was raised by a voluntary subscription list, and will be continued through the school year, for a period of about six months.

It was found that in many cases families hit by the unemployment situation were forced to keep children out of school because suitable clothing could not be provided for them. The fund raised by the paper company workers is designed to take care of such cases, so that children will not be deprived of their schooling through financial straits of the family.

SNOW FALLS IN MUNISING
Snow fell yesterday and covered the ground to a depth of a couple of inches. This made good tracking for the hunters during the last week of the hunting season. It is seldom that snow falls at so late a date in this region, but this year was particularly mild, with much rain and fog. As a consequence the hunting was very poor. Ideal weather is now with snow and cold.

Isabella, Nov. 25, (Special)—Miss Mabel Morrison, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison was taken to St. Francis hospital, seriously sick, Saturday.
Evelyn Hall and brother Elmer, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall are having a hard time to get to school. No perfect attendance marks for them this fall on account of the terrible condition of the road between them and the school. The family car has been laid up for some time. Sometimes it is almost impossible to get through with an empty wagon. To walk is out of the question and there is scarcely enough water in the highway to use a canoe. Someone in the family suggested horseback. It seemed to be a good idea and worth trying. The two children mounted on the animal and arrived the very short distance to school in safety. The horse was headed toward home and given instructions not to loiter. Mr. Hall waited at the other end and it was not long before the horse appeared. The horseback idea seemed to be the ideal solution of the problem and was tried the second time. After the children had gone into school, the horse looked around and saw what appeared to be some tender grass in a different direction. She went that way and loitered around altogether too long until finally her owner had to go and get her. It was decided that some other method of getting the children to school must be devised.
The big pond boat owned by the Butler Fishing company here had been laid up for the winter when Friday's storm struck it and carried it about a mile down shore. When found it was not damaged, but during the storm, the water had raised so high that the boat was carried a quarter of a mile beyond the water mark. The water receded before the owners were able to get the boat back. The boat was not damaged but it was difficult work to get it afloat again. Fishermen here state that prior to the storm, the water mark was lower than for many years past.

Colder Weather and Snow Help Hunters

Newberry, Nov. 25 (Special)—A couple of inches of snow and weather at least cold enough so that the venison will not spoil has been granted the hunters in this locality. As a result the deer have been coming in from the northwoods since yesterday morning in larger numbers than since the first of the season.
A gale from the south for a day or so switched around to the west far enough to make cold weather during yesterday and snow started during the night giving good tracking for the hunters today at a temperature of 20 above zero added to the sportsman's joys this morning.

Superintendent Bernard Motiver of the Lake Superior state forest reports that due to the fact that the warm weather kept the deer out of the swamps more of the animals have been shot in that location than for several years.
The deer are fat and in a fine condition. Meat being cut up at the conservation office to be given to the needy shows plenty of nice thick fat and the furs are thick and healthy.

Mrs. M. B. Purdy has her buck, a fine six point, brought down near the Skinner camp on the Tahquamoon. Mrs. Purdy is a crack shot. She waited on a stump from eleven o'clock until after one, watched two does pass her, saw this buck, waited until he lifted his head against the sky so that she could make out the antlers and then shot him. The shot struck just back of the left shoulder and he went only a few yards.

An eagle was caught in a trap near Grand Marais on Tuesday and the local conservation headquarters notified that he was being brought to town today. Dick Peach is awaiting word as to what shall be done with him as eagles are a federal bird. The Jackson city zoo wants him. This is the second eagle to be brought in here, the other being found near Senev with a wounded wing when someone took him for a hawk.

15-YEAR JOB.
London—Agnes Guest is a stickler. For 15 years she has been sitting twice a week on a ladder in the Flemish room of the National Gallery copying Mabuse's painting masterpiece, "The Adoration of the Kings." She expects it will take her three or four years longer to finish. She says that her copy is faithful to the original even to the tiniest flick of the brush, and hopes to receive $190,000 for it when it is done.

Drawn Shades Won't Sell Goods

YOU say you don't draw the shades in your show windows. Well, DO you draw the shades in the biggest window of them all, in the window that everyone sees, in the window that sells thousands of dollars worth of merchandise overnight? That window is the advertising pages of The Daily Press.

A window which doesn't wait for prospective buyers to pass by, but goes right into their homes and demands attention. Give your merchandise the sort of display it deserves. The public won't buy what it doesn't know about, no matter how strong the inducements, or how big the bargain. The Daily Press show window should be YOUR show window.

LIGHT SELLING AFFECTS MART

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Index, % Chg, High, Low, and Close.

BY JOHN I. COOY 'E' (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, Nov. 25. (AP)—Security and commodity markets gave ground easily today under light selling, and on the eve of Thanksgiving Day a number of primary markets found themselves near the October bottoms.

Selling was stimulated in the stock market by disappointment over indications of a protracted railroad labor wage controversy. The Associated Press Standard Statistics average showed new low points for railroad stocks.

Losses in Rails Heaviest losses in the rail group were recorded by Santa Fe, New Haven and Union Pacific which were down 2 to 3 1/2 as much as 4 points.

Trade news was in the main not favorable, although it was by no means surprising. Estimates of capacity of the nation's steel mills at 29 per cent was a third less than generally expected.

Railroad Bonds Are Handed New Setback

BOND MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Index, % Chg, High, Low, and Close.

New York, Nov. 25. (AP)—The bond market today greeted the holiday eve with a long list of falls at new lows, and utilities and industrials following on the downward trail.

Utilities were somewhat mystified by the weakness displayed in various loans, as no especially disturbing news appeared during the day.

Total bond sales were $8,279,000 or about $2,000,000 less than yesterday's, which indicated to some traders that much of the weakly held securities had been liquidated.

Curt Mart Suffers Day of Dull Action

New York, Nov. 25. (AP)—Light selling was sufficient to give a feeble aspect to the curb market today.

Pre-holiday liquidation, in sympathy with selling in other markets, brought only a slight acceleration in the pace of trading.

Utilities were rather actively sold in spots. Electric Bond and Share dropped 1 1/2 points to 16, or within 1/4 points of its bottom.

SENATOR BACKS COPPER PROBES

Hope to Save American Industry Seen by Vandenberg

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, preparing to leave Friday for Washington for the reopening of congress, said today he was hopeful that an investigation of the American copper producing situation would open the way for an embargo on African copper imports that would save the American copper industry.

A report of an investigation by the United States tariff commission, requested in a resolution last March, is to be made on Dec. 2.

Senator Vandenberg said: "The resolution, which was sponsored by the Michigan senator and Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, requests special attention be paid to the labor aspect of African copper mining, to reveal whether indentured, convict or contract labor were used."

In the event any of these three classes of labor were revealed in the investigation, Senator Vandenberg said, "the way would be opened for the declaration of an embargo, which would save the American copper industry. It has been demonstrated that mines in the United States cannot compete with those of Africa, where the pay scale is incomparably cheap—laborers receiving in the neighborhood of $10 per month for longer working days than can be tolerated in this country."

Senator Vandenberg said there was little prospect that copper could be taken off the free import list at this session of congress.

Menominee—More than 20 men living at the hobo "jungle" on Sugar Island were evicted Saturday by Sheriff Edward Reindl and his officers.

Sheriff Reindl said it was almost impossible to keep vagrants from stopping off at the local "jungle," but that the bold forays for food made through the city by the gang which had lived on the island for several months would not be tolerated.

A Thanksgiving program was given in the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon with Rev. Fred Hicks, of St. Alban's Mission delivering the principal address.

Jane Schatzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Schatzman, gave a fine exhibition of tap dancing, as a specialty number. Musical selections were furnished by the high school glee club. The program was sponsored by the junior class.

Let's Make It A Real Christmas

By H. I. PHILLIPS

I believe in the United States of America.

I believe in the American ability to beat any beatable set of circumstances and come up smiling.

I believe in the ability of the American citizen to swim upstream, hit fast ball pitching, break out of a half-nelson and have a pretty good time in the bargain.

I believe that in the long run fair weather overbalances the bad, that all "breaks" are subject to the law of averages, that the expression "Good old days" is relative and that everything comes out all right in the wash.

I believe a little optimism never hurt anybody and can be taken straight.

I believe in the capacity of the American industrial leader and in the common sense of the American workman.

I believe that Uncle Sam is still at the old stand with a brave heart and a clear head and I do not believe that he is in any danger of losing his pants, coat, vest or shirt.

I believe in the total inability of Russia to change the course of the stars, to rearrange the general appearance of the heavens, to eliminate the constellations, to discontinue the daily rising of the sun, to subject the rainbow to a five-year plan or to make the American of normal backbone jump into a hole and pull it in after him.

I believe American railroads are worth considerably more than a dime a dozen.

I believe the United States Steel Corporation, the American Teel

phone and Telegraph Company, the General Electric Corporation and other big industrial institutions will stay in business, and that none of them is in any danger of having to take on a side line of lead pencils or apples.

I do not believe there is any danger of seeing John Pierpont Morgan, Owen D. Young, General Atterbury, Charlie Schwab or James A. Farrell throwing their jobs overboard and deciding to make a living as ferryboat musicians.

I believe that what the country needs more than anything else is a restoration of the ducking stool for professional pessimists, squawkers, calamity howlers and confirmed grouches.

I believe in the ability, instinct, capacity and power of the average American to fight his way out of any difficulty, to scale any reasonable heights, to make the final payments on the automobile, to put something in the bank and to look adversity in the face and tell it to go to hell.

I believe the American people will continue to own and operate automobiles and that there is not a Chinaman's chance that conditions will arise which will make them decide it is a good idea to go back to the bicycle and the buggy.

I believe the American housewife will continue to have an electric icebox and will never again be satisfied to spend a half-day mopping up the kitchen after the visit of the old-fashioned iceman.

I believe the old-fashioned washtub has gone for good and that anybody who thinks the American wife is going back to the old days of drudgery and inconveniences is two-thirds cuckoo and one-third army mule.

I believe three square meals a day will always be the American standard, but that even if we miss one or two it won't hurt us.

I believe in common sense and natural vision as opposed to the "fidgets" and the use of smoked glasses when anything goes wrong.

I believe in the silver lining, the rainbow after the storm, the plunge through center, the infallibility of the slogan "Never lead with your chin," and the potency of the cries "Block that kick!" and "Hold 'em Yale!"

I believe that much of the world depression is "done by mirrors."

I believe the worst is over and that it never was as bad as it was advertised.

I believe that every good American citizen will observe Christmas in the real old fashioned way.

Auburn has 198 students enrolled in aeronautical engineering.

Every Tennessee town of 500 or more population will paint markers to guide airmen.

What Are They Doing Now?

Little Items of Interest About Former Residents.

Born in this city and reared on a farm in Beaver, Mich., it is quite natural that Miss Alice Robbins of Wells, Minn., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robbins of Beaver, has a soft spot in her heart for Delta county.

Alice Robbins will be remembered by the majority of our readers as the young woman who was seriously injured in a wreck at the West Gladstone Crossing June 30, 1923 when the car in which she was riding collided with train Number 216. Miss Robbins was taken to St. Francis hospital here and after lying in bed for more than three months returned to her home in Beaver where she remained until January, 1924, when she came to this city to enter Cloverland Commercial College to study typing, shorthand and general office work.

The fatal wreck in which Miss Robbins figured took three lives, Wm. Boissonault, his little daughter, aged three and Anthony Robbins, nine year old brother of Alice. Mrs. Loretta Boissonault and Miss Robbins recovered from their injuries.

It was feared that Miss Robbins would remain a cripple, but the fractured bones knitted and although she was unable to walk for some time she is now enjoying the best of health.

Alice Robbins received her education in the rural schools at Perkins, later at the Franklin school in Escanaba and at North Star State Teachers' College at Marquette and Cloverland Commercial College in this city.

She taught school for four years until she was injured and since her recovery has held a position with the J. C. Penney Company's store in this city, later she went Detroit where she was an auditor at Claytons for several months and was then offered a position as bookkeeper and cashier at the J. C. Penney Company's store in Wells, Minn., which position she has held for three years.

Miss Robbins is secretary of the Wells Business and Professional Women's Club and is chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters in that city.
