

BAYLES KILLED SEEKING SPEED MARK

FLIER DIES AS SHIP CRASHES AT 300 M. P. H.

WITNESSES BELIEVE WING FELL OFF AIRPLANE

Detroit, Dec. 5 (AP)—With the record he had persistently sought during the last month almost within his grasp, Lowell R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., flier, crashed to his death at the Wayne county airport this afternoon while traveling at an estimated speed of 300 miles an hour.

Bayles was only 75 feet above ground, streaking over the 1.8 mile course "like a yellow flash" as one observer described it, when the plane started to spin, dived in a short arc and struck the ground, landing on its back. The motor broke loose from the plane and rolled 500 feet across railway tracks to crash into a fence.

Three theories advanced. The plane burst into flames as it struck. Bayles' body wrapped in his overcoat, was found several feet from the wreckage, a column of smoke rising from his clothing. He apparently had been killed instantly. The wreckage of the plane strewn along the course, burned for some minutes, the flame and smoke rising from the main part of it giving it the appearance of an oil well fire. The propeller was found 200 feet away from the blazing debris.

Three theories of the possible cause of the tragedy were advanced. One was that Bayles may have been overcoasting by monoxide gas in the closed cockpit; one that the ship caught fire in the air and another that the three previous attempts Bayles had made, together with other unofficial tests may have weakened a wing. An air speed indicator tube which was attached to one of the wings, was found on the course 500 feet from the point where the plane fell. This gave rise to the theory a wing may have broken up.

Bayles was trying to better the world land plane mark of 278.4 miles an hour made by Warrant Officer Bonnet of France. To gain recognition of a new mark he had to register an average of 283.3 miles an hour four times over the measured course. He came close to the mark on December 1, when he averaged 281.9. At the time he said he was sure he could get his monoplane up to 290 miles or more. Unofficially he had been timed at more than 300 miles on one of his trial dashes.

Under the rules for timing international records, Bayles had to fly over the measured course at a height not more than 184 feet. To gain the maximum speed he started his flight today at a point five miles from the starting line and at an altitude of about 1,000 feet. A mile from the starting point he began the dive that was to bring him down to the required level at full speed. Bayles had tumbled off nicely and was nearing the end of the course on the first dash when the crash came. Charles Spies, a pilot at the airport, estimated Bayles' speed at the time at about 320 miles an hour. "It seemed to me," he said, "that Bayles saw the plane was going to roll and grabbed the control suddenly, throwing the plane off balance."

Bayles, 31, was a native of Mason, Illinois. He learned to fly in Chester, Ill., in 1923. He won

CHINESE WILL NOT EVACUATE CHINCHOW—SZE READY TO FIGHT FOR LAST HOLD ON MANCHURIA

(By The Associated Press) The Chinese will not evacuate Chinchow but will "fight and die there if necessary," Dr. Alfred Sze told the League of Nations council yesterday.

After making this statement Dr. Sze conferred with Ambassador Charles G. Dawes to learn what attitude the United States would take if Japanese troops occupied Chinchow.

Japan's league spokesman informed the council his government was unalterably opposed to intervention by a third party in the Manchurian conflict. He explained such intervention was unacceptable whether effected through a commission of inquiry or by neutral observers.

The resignations of Dr. Sze and Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese foreign minister, were submitted at Nanking.

Traffic Tied Up. Urged by President Chiang Kai-shek, Dr. Sze reconsidered and consented to stay. Dr. Koo was expected to stick by his decision.

Railway traffic at Peiping was tied up by demonstrations put on by 2,000 university students. Hundreds of the students, many of them girls, camped all night on the railroad tracks in the bitter cold. They demanded free transportation to Nanking that they might protest against the government's Manchurian policy.

A new drive against basidits in the vicinity of Hsinmintun was announced in Tokyo. Reports there were that negotiations between China and Japan for the establishment of a neutral zone had been broken off. A foreign office spokesman expressed fears the government might not be able to keep the army in check.

Colonel James G. McIlroy of the United States army left Mukden for Chinchow where, the Colonel Nelson E. Margetts, he will draw up a report for the Washington government.

Hoover Interested. As the Michigan Republican announced that an emergency existed requiring a coordinated program. It became known that President Hoover is withholding specific recommendations for railroad relief until after moves under way are completed. He has in mind parleys surrounding the interstate commerce commission's plan for aiding the roads and wage negotiations.

Mr. Hoover is keenly concerned over the railroad situation, however, and may make it the basis of a special message to congress later.

Citing negotiations for pending railroad wage reductions, Couzens said: "There is a movement now in progress to reduce the wages of all railway employees although it appears that approximately five hundred thousand normally necessary railway employees are now unemployed and many thousands of others have only part-time employment and that the present earnings of a large percentage of the employed railway workers are less than the amount necessary for a decent livelihood."

There are 20,000 men working exclusively on Chevrolet bodies in the Fisher factories.

LINDSAY, POET, PASSES AWAY

Literary Genius Dies in Springfield, Illinois, at Age of 52

BY AUBREY CHUBB
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP)—Death today quieted the lone roar and stopped the virile pen of one of the unique modern poets of the English speaking world.

Vachel Lindsay is dead at the age of 52 years.

He died here, the city of his birth, at 1 o'clock this morning from a clogging of the coronary artery.

Tonight his body lay in the Lindsay home where he wrote the poetry that made him famous and where, in expressing his "Gospel of Beauty," he wrote of Springfield remade in "The Golden Book of Springfield."

Interests were varied. Minstrel, troubador, tramp, exponent of the art of the motion picture, art critic, journalist, Y. M. C. A. and anti-saloon lecturer, his interests were varied and contacts worldwide.

The loss literature sustained by his death was expressed by inpouring telegraphic tributes and regrets.

Time alone will determine the permanence of his place in literature but no book of modern poetry had neglected him. Ten years ago his poetry, particularly "General Booth Enters Heaven," precipitated a violent controversy, fanned later by his "Congo," "Santa Fe Trail" and "Red Bartender."

Generally critics assigned him the place of a chief innovator, a leader who introduced a decade of modern poetry that scoffed at limitations of the past.

Much of Lindsay's characteristic poetry depended upon his peculiar rendition and rich and powerful qualities of his voice. He regarded himself as a troubador, and read his poetry in a chant that he called singing. He opposed any attempt to put his verse to music, saying it was music in itself.

His efforts were often misunderstood and the reception English newspapers gave him when he went to London displeased him. He was greeted on board ship there with a request of reporters that he "say something funny."

English magazines called attention to the serious contribution that he had made to literature and the newspapers fell in line, after having neglected him at first.

Because so much of his important verse depended upon his reading, continuation of its popularity has been questioned and recently at Columbia University, where he lectured, put some 40 of his poems on phonograph records to perpetrate his vocal efforts.

Lindsay preached the "Gospel of Beauty." In the early days of the motion picture industry he called upon it to accept the challenge to hold the beautiful and the splendid as its goal. His idealism led him to espouse the cause of the white government in Russia after the war and he wrote a stirring verse opening "This My Song Is to Thee, Kereksky."

Negro Extradited From Michigan Is Sentenced to Die

Greenville, Ala., Dec. 5 (AP)—Dove Ballard, negro, whose flight caused extradition from Michigan against Governor Brucker of that state to send an investigator to Alabama to determine conditions regarding racial prejudice, was sentenced to death here today for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Charlie Simms.

When an extradition hearing was held in Michigan several weeks ago, the Society for the Advancement of Colored People told Governor Brucker that Ballard could not get a fair trial in Alabama and might be lynched if returned here.

The governor delayed extradition until the investigator returned from this state.

Asks Tri-Nations To End Tariff War

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 5 (AP)—Canada, Mexico and the United States were asked today by Dr. Henry W. Grady, trade advisor to the San Francisco chamber of commerce to end their economic warfare and to resume trade on old-time schedules.

Not satisfied with tariff restrictions, he told the western division of the United States chamber at its meeting here, these three nations apparently have sought to devise customs regulations to discourage trade relations.

As an example, he said, exports to Canada from the United States in 1928 were $315,000,000, but for the first half of 1931 they had fallen to $232,000,000 or at the rate of $464,000,000 per year. Somewhat the same was true with respect to Mexico, he asserted.

140 Gangsters In Chicago Arrested

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—More than 140 men had been seized tonight and one gun skirmish between the police and gangsters was fought as Judge Francis Borelli continued his drive to smash the notorious "42" gang of west side hoodlums.

Seven of these under arrest, all alleged members of the gang, confessed to 190 street robberies, the police said, and 97 were said to have been linked with the band whose affairs Judge Borelli personally investigated.

The gun battle was fought as a police squad cruising the west side for suspected members of the gang sighted an automobile with five occupants. The police called on them to halt but they answered with a shotgun volley. The car escaped in traffic.

Prosecution Of Lynchers Planned

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie tonight ordered Attorney General Lane to assist Wisconsin county authorities in a "vigorous prosecution" of the mob which last night invaded a Salisbury, Md., hospital to seize Matthew Williams, negro, and burn his body after lynching him.

Except for the house organization, and the receipt of a deluge of bills, Monday will see little accomplished. President Hoover's annual message will go to the capitol Tuesday by messenger, and be read from the rostrum of senate and house. On Wednesday will follow a special budget message, outlining plans to revamp the revenue-raising laws and government expenditures for the coming year in order to close the yawning treasury deficit.

It will be well toward the end of the week before the legislative wheels begin to turn. By that time several thousands of new bills will be in the hands of committees, and measures drafted during the recess by committees specially empowered, will be ready for house or senate debate.

Says U. S. Tariff Hindrance to Cuba

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Asserting Cuba is in "economic slavery" because of American tariffs, Count Nicholas Del Rivero, publisher of Diario De La Marina, Cuba's oldest newspaper, today urged readjustment of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act. He spoke to a group of American and foreign newspapermen whose guest he was at a newspaper club luncheon.

It was a sad commentary, he said, that Cuba, "linked to the United States by automobile, train, steamship and airplane," should continue in distress "when a fair readjustment of the tariff would overnight convert Cuba again into one of the best markets for American goods in the world."

Those who can will be directed to board lodging houses and inexpensive hotels.

a full slate of Democratic officials, agreed upon unanimously today at a cheering party caucus. Henry T. The senate, being a continuing body, can take its time about organizing. The dispute over Moses' reelection probably will be put off until Tuesday, and perhaps later. The senate membership stands at 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor. At least two Democrats will be absent. Investigation has revealed that Hazard may have died from poison probe on the theory that Miss Parker's death may have been due to a similar cause.

Questioned Today Miller was placed in a cell at the county jail and will be questioned by Prosecutor Paul M. Tedrow and Sheriff Struble Sunday.

Hazard died Nov. 8, 1930, in a local hospital apparently from a heart ailment.

Miss Parker, who was 81 years old, died Jan. 31, 1931, in Florida, apparently from the effects of a fall in which her leg was broken.

Simultaneous with the detention of Miller by authorities a petition was filed in circuit court here Saturday by Mrs. Graye Hazard Brown, daughter of Charles Hazard, asking an appeal to circuit court from a probate court order made March 17, admitting the Parker will to probate. Mrs. Brown declares she learned definitely Dec. 1 that Howard Miller was not the natural son of Charles M. Parker, and, therefore, not Miss Parker's nephew, as he claims to be.

PARKER HEIR UNDER ARREST

Howard Miller Held by Police Pending Poison Inquiry

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 5 (AP)—Howard Miller, 28, Battle Creek, sole heir in the $100,000 estate of the late Rachel Arvilla Parker of the city, and who represents himself to be a nephew of Miss Parker, was taken into custody at Battle Creek Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Charles W. Struble, following a four month investigation by the prosecuting attorney's office, the sheriff's department and the county coroner into the deaths of Miss Parker, and her nephew, the late Charles H. Hazard, local roofing contractor, spiritualist minister and co-heir with Miller.

Investigation has revealed that Hazard may have died from poison probe on the theory that Miss Parker's death may have been due to a similar cause.

Questioned Today Miller was placed in a cell at the county jail and will be questioned by Prosecutor Paul M. Tedrow and Sheriff Struble Sunday.

HOOVER WON'T MENTION HELP FOR RAILROADS

point where it can be incorporated in the coming message was not definitely known.

What was considered by some as a possible hint was dropped by Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, who was one of the few who talked today with the chief executive. Asked if the war finance corporation proposal, he made apparent reference to the coming message, expected to be completed by tomorrow.

"You will know all about it within 24 hours," he said.

The extent to which the tax problem will be discussed in the regular message was uncertain. Reports have indicated Mr. Hoover might choose other documents to be laid before congress in which to make known his ideas on the best methods of meeting a deficit, now approaching the $1,000,000,000 mark.

"How about taxes?" Mills was asked as he left the White House.

"They're all settled," he replied, but would answer only with a smile all questions as to just how they had been settled.

Announcement already had been made that the president will deal with the moratorium in a special message to be delivered next Thursday, after the annual and budget measures have been disposed of.

No matter what else is decided, however, it remained a practical certainty that Mr. Hoover will make the first message a vehicle for discussion of the economic situation, both world and national; that he will speak of unemployment, of agriculture and of legislation to accelerate home building.

It was considered more than a possibility that the world court, the Manchurian situation, Muscle Shoals and the St. Lawrence waterway projects also would come in for a mention or more.

WHITE SLAVE RING REVEALED

Raid of Beauty Parlor in Chicago Brings 13 Arrests

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—Federal and local authorities tonight raided a beauty parlor in the shadow of the Lexington hotel, "Scarface" Al Capone's former headquarters, arrested a dozen women and one man, and uncovered what they described as a nationwide ring of white slavers.

Charles White, seized in the beauty parlor, was shot in the leg when he attempted to flee. Authorities said they believed he was the head of the ring which allegedly operated in over 30 states, luring girls to Chicago on promises of legitimate employment, introducing them to a life of commercialized vice, then transferring them to resorts here and elsewhere.

Tonight's raid followed the arrest several days ago of Miss Josephine Wade, 16, daughter of a Detroit lumber salesman. The girl told authorities she had been lured to Chicago by Mrs. Victoria Beeson, whom she met in a Detroit hotel lobby. From her story, police arrested several men and women here and caused the arrest in Detroit of Mrs. Beeson, William Lewis, and his wife, Mary, they said. Miss Wade's father, Frederick Wade, came here tonight. He told police his daughter had inherited considerable money from a grandparent and had left home several times.

Through the letters and telephone calls received and traced by the raiders while in the beauty parlor, authorities said they hoped to procure evidence to support Mann act or other serious charges.

Police said that the scores of cities from which women had been lured included Kansas City and Hannibal, Mo., and Gary, Ind.

SENATE LOSES COURT BATTLE

Following reconsideration on the next legal day of the senate meetings.

The next legal day was the first day after the holidays and upon Walsh's motion the senate asked President Hoover to send back the nominations.

During the recess, President Hoover had issued Smith's commission. He refused to return it to those of the other members under fire.

The senate reconsidered the nominations anyway and reconfirmed all but Smith's.

The senate then employed John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee, as counsel and instituted suit to oust Smith from office.

Justice Gordon said it would be logical to construe the senate's message to the president informing him it approved Smith's nomination "merely as a message of encouragement."

Hitler Does Not Seek Presidency

Berlin, Dec. 5 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's Fascists, declared today that under no circumstance would he become a candidate for the presidency—but he refused to say whether that meant the Fascists would keep President Paul Von Hindenburg at the head of the state if they succeeded in gaining power.

"I don't enter the picture at all," Herr Hitler said, "even when we take over the power I don't intend to stand as a candidate for president."

Pressed for information about what his party would do in the matter of the presidential candidate, the leader of the national Socialists chuckled and said: "That eventually already is provided for."

Great surprise was expressed in official circles today over the interview granted by Herr Hitler to almost the entire Anglo-American press yesterday.

Little Items of Interest About Former Residents.

Beginning as a waitress at local hotels, later as head dining room girl, then chef, and at the present time sole owner of a place of business known as the Derwyn Tea Shop, Miss Freda Derwyn, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Boda, South Second street, has fulfilled a dream of her early girlhood.

Born in Escanaba and reared here she attended the public and St. Joseph's schools. At an early age, Miss Derwyn began her career of work, long hours and strict attention to the duties assigned her, she studied the hotel and restaurant business from the start, always with a desire to own a place all her own some day.

Before entering into the business field Miss Derwyn made a study of the business, marketing, buying in large quantities, selection of fresh foods, choice cuts of meat, etc. While all this seemed like wasted energy among her fellow employes, Miss Derwyn was gaining a knowledge of some of the most essential things in conducting a place where the public can be served good food.

After many years of hard work, Miss Derwyn has seen her dream come true and the Derwyn Tea Room in Cheboygan, Wis., is a credit to her untiring energy.

Miss Derwyn is a member of the Gustavus Wintermeyer Relief Corps, of Cheboygan, Auxiliary to Sons of Union Veterans, and a member of the Little Flower Court, Catholic Daughters of America.

Miss Derwyn is very interested in the progress of her home city, Escanaba, and although she has been in Cheboygan for the past seven years, three and one-half years of that period at the Forrester Hotel and later as manager of Eagles' Grill at Eagles' Club House, her thoughts are often with the home folks. She is eager to return to this city to spend a few weeks renewing friendships and to visit the places which always will be dear to her.

MILK AND APPLES MAKE THEM HEALTHIEST IN U. S.

Gertrude Helkes, 16, and William Sanders, 18, healthiest boy and girl in the United States, are shown above with their "health food."

By NEA Service
Chicago—Drink plenty of milk, eat apples and cabbage and you will never be bothered with doctor's bills.

That's the answer of Gertrude Helkes and William Sanders, judged the healthiest boy and girl in the United States at the 4-H club congress here, to questions as to how they won their prizes.

Both live on farms, so to bed early, get plenty of outdoor exercise, sleep with windows wide open, even in the coldest weather, and eat three square meals a day, which include lots of milk, apples, cabbage and other vegetables.

Both made the highest scores ever registered in a national health contest, Miss Helkes scoring 99.9 per cent, and young Sanders, 99.1. Miss Helkes lives in Dakota county, Neb., while Sanders' home is in Johnson county, Ind.

WHY CHILDREN ARE GOOD

Joke makers would have us think that the children are very good just now so that they may get more and finer presents. A keener observer would not that they are good because they are busy planning and making the little gifts they will give to others. —Collier's Weekly.

WINTER SPORTS AT PIONEER PARK?

AN Escanaba citizen, who is an ardent winter sports enthusiast, came into the Daily Press office yesterday and expressed the opinion that Pioneer Trail Park would make a wonderful recreation spot during this season.

This gentleman is also a great booster for Pioneer Trail Park. Last summer, he used to take his wife and children on the average of a couple evenings a week to have supper out in the open. Thousands of others also have taken advantage of Pioneer Trail Park every summer, and many of them, no doubt, would like to enjoy it the year round.

There are several good points to the suggestion that Pioneer Trail Park be made into a winter sports resort. It is centrally located in the county, and lies halfway between the two larger centers of population, Escanaba and Gladstone. The large clearing would be an ideal spot for a skating rink, and there are a number of hills nearby that could be used for coasting and tobogganing. And there could be no better place for enjoyment of cross-country skiing and snowshoeing, for Pioneer Trail Park in the winter must certainly equal the scenic treat it affords in the other seasons.

It is probable, of course, that the Delta county road commission cannot act on such a suggestion this year. It is admitted there are many other things to do. But this north country is gradually coming to a realization of its possibilities, and eventually the public will come to demand more of these winter recreational facilities. It's a good idea to start thinking about such things now, anyhow.

U. P. MAY PRODUCE PEAT AS FUEL

WILL the upper peninsula, with its large areas of peat swamps, sometime provide a new field for the production of a fuel material in commercial quantities? Experiments are being made and considerable thinking is being done on this subject.

A civil engineer at Menominee recently read a paper, outlining the estimated possibilities of peat bogs in the vicinity. And now comes an announcement that Noel Turner, proprietor of a brickyard at Vulcan, will excavate 4,000 tons of peat this winter and will give it the necessary treatment for its use as fuel.

Peat is an accumulation of more or less spongy, decaying vegetable matter, generally occurring over large areas in the temperate regions of the globe. The formation of peat bogs is almost impossible in the tropical regions, on account of the more rapid decomposition of dead vegetable substances there. Peat is intermediate in character and properties between recent vegetable material and coal, and when dried is extensively used as fuel, especially in Ireland. Already in Europe and the United States the manufacture of peat briquettes as a substitute for coal has become a considerably important industry.

The peat bogs are generally formed on the sites of old lakes, which have become filled up, or of old marshes. Recently, the uses of peat have been greatly extended. It is now manufactured into blankets, carpets, wadding, paper, cardboard, and an insulating material.

According to the Norway Current, the peat being excavated by Mr. Turner has a calorific value of about 9000 B. T. U. per pound when bone dry. However, it is not practical nor economical to dry it much below a moisture content of 25 per cent, where its fuel value would be 6750 B. T. U. per pound. Compared with ordinary soft coal, which has a calorific value of about 11,500 B. T. U. at a moisture content of 10 per cent, it will require nearly two tons of 25 per cent moisture content peat to equal one ton of soft coal in fuel value. Whereas two tons of peat, it is estimated, would cost only $2.50, the upper peninsula's peat bogs might someday be of considerable value as a fuel supply.

FARM BOY VS. CITY BOY

ALBERT H. WIGGIN, chairman of the Chase National Bank of New York, declared in an interview published by World's Work magazine recently that country boys, for some reason, seem to make better bankers than city boys.

Of the men in control of New York's 15 leading banks, he points out, not one was born on Manhattan Island. Most of them came from small towns. Moreover, nearly half of them lacked a college education.

Here, surely, is material for plenty of speculation. It all lines up with one of the oldest of American traditions—that the country boy is apt to be a little sharper, a little more ambitious, a little more capable, than the boy from the city—but we never knew exactly why we thought so, and it is hard to see just why it should hold good for New York's bankers.

It used to be supposed that there were more self-denial and more discipline in the country than in the city. Certainly the average farm is a fine training school for any youngster. But self-denial and discipline are surely abundant enough in the family of a city factory hand, where half a dozen human beings have to be clothed, fed and housed on a wage of $35 or $40 a week. The poorer quarters of a big city can be training grounds quite as stringent as the farmer's acres.

Perhaps part of the secret is due to the fact that the lad who grows up in the country is assailed by fewer distractions. He has more time to figure things out for himself, more time to pick out the channel he wants to follow, more time to get his young life oriented before he plunges into the workaday world.

City life hits a terrifically fast pace. It can confuse even a grown man—and does, probably, in nine cases out of ten; isn't it bound to be something of a handicap for a growing youngster? It may be that we shall discover, sooner or later, that any large city is an unhealthy place to grow up in. The small town and the open country offer a way of life that is more wholesome. Will we, eventually, take our biggest cities apart and get over the notion that we have to huddle together in vast groups in order to make a go of things?

BRAINS AND SEX THOSE who believe that brain power is something that does not vary greatly with sex differences will be glad to learn that University of California scientists have furnished at least a partial corroboration for their belief.

Those scientists recently used motion pictures to test the learning capacities and memories of some 400 adults. All in all, they found that there was very little appreciable difference between the sexes. In other words, women can learn things just about as readily as men and can remember what they learned just about as well.

Every once in a while you will hear some man remark of an unusually intelligent woman, "She has a man's brain." Most psychologists will agree that such a man is generally talking complete nonsense. The test mentioned here indicates that a "man's brain" is about like that of a woman.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch (Copyright 1931 by Douglas Malloch) STRANGERS When mortals we are meeting, I often wonder why We give the stranger greeting, And pass the neighbor by? Yes, when we meet our brothers, We pull the curtains down— We have a smile for others, But for a friend, a frown. A neighbor has his sorrow, A neighbor has his care, But when he comes to borrow, The cupboard's always bare. We say the tale he tells us, Is fanciful, absurd, But when the stranger sells us, We never doubt his word. We live so close together, Yet live so far apart, I often wonder whether The fault is head or heart. We have our common dangers To share, as God intends, And yet are friends to strangers And strangers to our friends.

GEMS OF PERIL

CHAPTER XLVI MARY came back to consciousness to find the cold rain dashing on her face. She had slumped down in the doorway, and now someone was helping her to her feet. She knew by the smell of tobacco in the rough tweed shoulder that it was supporting her that it must be Henry Bates. "Leave me alone, I'm all right," she gasped, scrambling to her feet and feeling ashamed of her temporary weakness. But the other, with an exclamation of alarm, had already discovered the still form of Bruce lying out on the deck. So deathly white and still his face looked in the unreal light of the occasional lightning flashes, that even Bates was rattled. "By George!" he kept repeating. "By George! This is bad business! What's happened here?" Louise, wrapped in a heavy ulster, rushed out. "Where is he? Oh, mon Dieu, they have killed him!" she sobbed, throwing herself upon the deck beside Bruce, almost knocking Bates over in her anxiety to reach the injured man. When she saw who it was, however, she drew back sharply. "Bruce! But where is Enrique?" "That's what we'd like to know," Bates growled, looking about sharply. Mr. Jupiter's door stood open, but he had not appeared. Leaving Bruce lying where he was—the soaking he was getting would bring him to life if anything would—Bates rushed into the old man's room, calling his name sharply. A curious smell pervaded the air.

There was no reply. The two women outside heard sounds of stumbling, of chairs being overturned as Bates fumbled for the light switch. Suddenly the lights came on blindingly. There on the bed lay Mr. Jupiter, over his face a folded pocket-handkerchief. Bates snatched it away. "Chloroform!" He whirled and faced Captain Hendricks, just coming in the door. "Get your men out and search the ship, quick, captain! De Loma's done this! My God, I wonder if he— He turned quickly to the safe, which stood as usual, apparently untouched. It had been opened, the job had been done by someone who knew the combination. Bates picked up the old man's clothes, usually laid neatly across the back of a chair, but now tumbled in a heap just inside the door. He rummaged through the pockets quickly. "It's gone—if that's where it was!" The shots and the storm had roused the ship, apparently, for the deck space outside the old man's door, from which yellow light streamed into the pitch darkness outside, was jammed now with excited members of the crew.

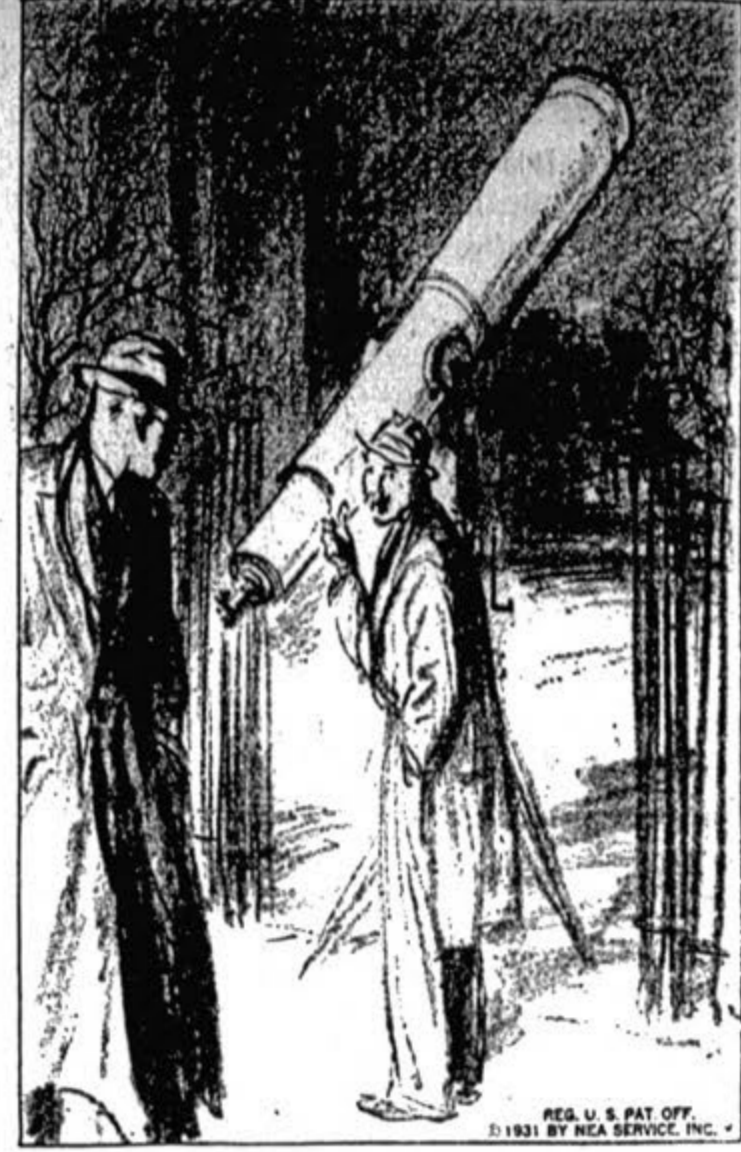

STRONG arms carried the recumbent form of Bruce to his bunk and left him with Captain Hendricks, then rushed off to join the search. Mary stayed with Mr. Jupiter, who roused almost immediately. Evidently the chloroform-soaked rag had not been in place long. He was as confused about what had taken place as the rest. He had laid down to rest with his clothes on, weary from the unaccustomed amount of exercise he was getting in his daily bouts with the kingfish. He had roused at the first crash of the storm, taken up his clothes and hung them up, almost without waking, and fallen asleep again immediately. The necktie? Had he locked it up before going to bed? No, he didn't think he had. No, he hadn't. It was there, in his coat pocket. Well, if it wasn't, then The Fly had taken it. "Let him have it!" Jupiter growled. "He won't get far with it in this weather." "But why did you carry it about so carelessly?" Mary could not help asking. "See what's come of it—Bruce shot!" "Oh! The old man sat bolt upright. "Eh? Where is he?" There was a depth of terror in his voice such as she had never heard there. He snatched up a robe and slipped his feet into slippers. Before she could restrain him, he had jerked the door open and rushed out into the storm, stagger-

De Loma. Looks like he devilled him too far." Wrapped in oilskins hastily borrowed, they took a telescope and went around to the port bow. The first crashing thunder and sky-splitting electrical flashes had given place to a light, steady rain that flattened the water. Prolonged bursts of rosy lightning played over the scene, making it light as day for two or three seconds at a time. With the glass they searched the surface of the water in the direction of Fort Jefferson without catching a glimpse of the dinghy. They had almost decided De Loma must have landed, if he had not drowned, when off to the right Mary caught sight of a flash of white. He had stripped to his shirt and apparently was rowing toward Bird Key. The glass showed this was what he was trying to do—at least he looked over his shoulder frequently in that direction. There is a little house on Bird Key, for what purpose Mary did not know. De Loma's idea evidently was to tie up there and seek shelter until the storm passed. before setting out for Key West. It was a daring scheme, and one which only a truly desperate man would have attempted. The rain had gradually subsided and they could see him more clearly now; the dinghy was not making much headway against the high waves, which were being lashed ever higher by a furious wind. Sometimes for minutes they lost sight of De Loma and believed him drowned. Then the white speck rose triumphantly again out of the trough of the wave.

There was neither direction nor headway in his aimless rowing now. It was impossible to keep to a course. The sea seemed to be throwing him nearer and nearer to Fort Jefferson, and no doubt he was too confused by the roughness of the water and the difficulty of holding to his oars to know where he was heading. It seemed like hours that the couple on the deck watched and it began to appear that the man was winning—at any rate, if he had survived thus far, it was likely he could hold out until the heavy seas subsided and set his course again. Then they lost him. He seemed to have vanished from the face of the sea, though they played the telescope carefully over the very spot where he had last been seen. Minutes went by. Bates at last put the glass down and gave it up. "Well, he's gone," he said. And as one speaks of the dead he added, grudgingly, "It was a game fight he put up—the louse!" Mary pointed suddenly and cried, "Look, what's that?" "Where?" Exalted Bates threw the glass up to his eye. "Over there. By the prison, just at the point where the land and water meet." It was merely a moving white speck to her eye, but Bates exclaimed. "By George, he made it! He's tying up at the old pier! What do you know about that?" "But where has he been? Why didn't we see him?" "I don't know—unless he—oh—

I see. His back was toward us. We see his white shirt only when he's facing us—the wind blows his coat open. From the back he looked all dark, the color of the water." To Captain Hendricks they took their news. He received it absent-mindedly, his whole mind on the dots and dashes he was sending over the repaired radio set—listening for a reply that did not come. "It's all right," the captain told them. "He'll stay there till we get ready to go after him. Nothing there but the skeleton walls of the prison, abandoned long ago. Not a very cheerful port to put into, but," he grinned and added one of his stale bits of humor, "any old port in a storm!" The "Gypsy" had stopped her insane jiggling now. The wind had died down, and Mary made her way down to the deck without difficulty. She stopped at Bruce's door long enough to see a tableau that sent a gasp of happy tears to her eyes—old J. J. Jupiter, gaunt and pathetic in his striped bathrobe, seated by his son's bunk, holding his hand as if he had been a child. Bruce's eyes were closed; he was sleeping peacefully. She turned back to her own room, cold, weary and feeling more than a little forlorn. Her door was open and in it stood a strange figure—a ghostly, wild-eyed figure in white pajamas. "Mary!" Dirk cried, at sight of her, and reached for her with a long arm that drew her to him and held her there like a vise. "Mary, my love, I've been such a fool! I heard shots and I thought you were killed! I had to find you—I couldn't stand it!" (To Be Continued)

SIDE GLANCES

"Only five cents to look at the moon, mister—and I'll throw Ju piter in for nothing."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT Robert Williams, who plays the sparkling masculine lead in "Platinum Blonde," the scintillating love romance, produced by Columbia Pictures and showing today at the Delft Theatre, has something in common with Al Jolson. Both are nervous before a motion picture camera. Williams admitted to an interviewer recently that he was "frightened stiff" before the camera. "Audiences, actors, directors or off-stage noises never detract my attention from my work," said Williams, "but when I know the cold glass eyes of the camera are recording every move I make... I just get all hot and bothered." It is said that Williams' work in "Platinum Blonde" gives little evidence that he is afflicted with camera fright. He appears with Loretta Young and Jean Harlow. Supporting parts are handled by Louise Clouser Hale, Walter Catlett and Donald Dillaway. It is a Frank Capra production.

AT THE MICHIGAN

To enjoy a football game as no stadium-sitter, even the most football-wise stadium-sitter, could enjoy it is the privilege offered to audiences by the Michigan Theatre in the presentation there today, of "Touchdown." For this picture, devised and played by the most impressive assemblage of gridiron and film authorities ever to be called into a "handful" on a pigskin-screen production, takes the beholder right into the hearts of those excited heroes and near-heroes who prepare and serve up the great American Saturday-afternoon thrill-drama. "Touchdown" is a football story which (at last) does NOT attain its effects through a last-minute, heroic dash across the opponents' grimly defended goalposts. The glory and exaltation rather, is wholly moral; and unattended by the customary wringing of the crucial game. In fact, in "Touchdown" the home team actually LOSSES the final game. By employing the talents of men who know their football and who know their human nature, Paramount here presents, in effectively touching realism, the inside goings-on, the fears and joys, the pain and glory of an hero's national pastime. Richard Arlen, himself a college footballer before joining the aviation forces in the World War is the central figure in the story—a coach who builds up a great team and loses his final game because of a moral precept.

Peninsula Paragraphs

By Marjorie Huntoon Morrill SONG OF THE TRAIL Once you get the habit Of strolling down a trail, Speaking with a rabbit, Conversing with a quail, Spending quiet moments By the golden river's brink, You've gained the gift of silence That is more than food or drink. Roads are built for many. Trails are made for a single pair of feet. Roads are built for swift journeyings. Trails for slow and contemplative walks during which a man can think in silence, stimulated by the quiet all about him. There is a long, long trail winding along the ridge of hills above the "Spreads" of the Tali-quamenon. A slender thread of a trail climbs the bluff east of Manistique. And another one, bitten deep into the earth, runs over a hill alongside the highway on the road to Seul Croix. Somewhere across the land from the East Branch of the Fox to the upper waters of the Tali-quamenon is a portage trail once used by Indians. There is an old foot-path only discoverable to the initiated, connecting Round and Manistique Lakes. If you want a hobby, you husky men and women, hunt up old trails and gain thereby. There is something in the quiet Of a frost-stripped tree That makes the heart a riot Of tempered ecstasy; There is something in the stillness Of a long-aim trail That cures a spirit-illness. When other cures fail. Culture of the finest kind can be found in this great silence and in the contemplation of wide-views and long distances. Education may have nothing at all to do with culture. Education may be information only and have little to do with the art of living in peace and cooperation with your world and the creatures in it. But...

Men of 72nd Congress

By Rodney Dutcher

WILLIAM EDGAR BORAH Of Idaho

Always the most internationally famous member of Congress... Dimpled and Leontine, an oratorical giant, independent as a tomcat, still known as a "one-man political party" at the age of 66... Becomes the outstanding leader of any cause he champions. Has a larger popular following than any other senator. His words probably carry farther than those of anyone in Washington except the president, thanks partly to his chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee... League of Nations opposition was his greatest fight; still opposes World Court entry and demands revision of Versailles treaty, as in interview with French newspapermen during Premier Laval's visit... Senate galleries are jammed when Borah is billed for a speech. He likes an audience... Hobbies: Reading horseback and street car riding, Russian recognition, disarmament, debt reparations, reduction of economy, the Constitution and suppression of lawlessness... Refused to accept his salary raise when Congress voted itself one, contending he had been elected to a $7500, not a $10,000 job. Takes the $10,000 since reelection... Often inconsistent... Became Hoover's oratorical Big Bertha in 1923 campaign. Now plays off and on with the administration, mostly off. Seems to regard White House occupants with sympathetic contempt. Sees no immediate hope for progressives in a third party, preferring to work independently from within. Hence roars demands for reform at Republicans every pre-convention season and when ignored, subsides... Always lived on his salary. Of simple taste, he abhors formal dinners. Childless, he and Mrs. Borah have lived for many years in an apartment. NEXT: Norris, the insurgent.

PASS WAR DECLARATION On Dec. 7, 1917, the resolution calling for a declaration of war on Austria-Hungary was passed by Congress and signed by President Wilson. Measures to prosecute the war against Austria-Hungary were started at once. The Austrians took Monte Saeol, but failed to break through the Italian line south of Gallio. BUILDER DIES AT MENOMINEE

Funeral Held Saturday for W. M. Brown, Contractor

Funeral services were held in Menominee Saturday afternoon for William M. Brown, premier house builder of that city for several decades. Mr. Brown died at his home Thursday afternoon following a paralytic stroke.

He is survived by his widow, Emily, a son, Stanley, of New York, a sister, Mrs. Lurie Lippman, of Wellsville, N. Y., four brothers, Fred of Philadelphia, Louis of Wellsville, A. E. Brown of Oak Park, Ill., and Lemuel of Oakland, Calif.

Mr. Brown built the flooring mills, kilns, stables, offices and other buildings owned by the J. W. Wells Lumber company, in 1909. They were destroyed in the great fire at the Wells lumber yard on April 13 of this year. Mr. Brown, being in feeble health, leaned from the window of his home that fearful morning and saw the huge billows of flame consume his work. He built the majority of beautiful homes in Menominee and was known throughout the county.

Baltimore, Md.—Many are the queer fish tales told by designing fishermen, but the one told by John Hamilton is a prize. He tells of how, after having caught a fish near here, he started to clean it. In the stomach of the fish he found a perfect pearl. He displays the jewel to back up his story.

Philadelphia—No Indian is going to get tough with him, John Birch vows. He assured a judge before whom he was hailed that the Indian, a wooden one at that, attempted to hit him with a bunch of wooden cigars as he passed a cigar store. IT'S HALF AND HALF!

Here is an architect's drawing of Texarkana's unique federal building and postoffice. The map shows the location of Texarkana and indicates how the building is divided, half in Texas and half in Arkansas.

By NEA Service
Texarkana, Ark., Tex.—The most unusual federal building and postoffice in the United States, if not in the world, is under construction here.

The building is half in one state and half in another, and the federal officials in one state will have nothing whatever to do with the officials in the other state.

The postoffice and federal courts in Arkansas are separated from those in Texas by a solid wall, which rests squarely on the Arkansas-Texas state line. The building faces south, its western half being located in Texas and its eastern half in Arkansas.

Construction of the new federal building and postoffice solves a problem which has long baffled federal authorities.

Both the Arkansas and Texas citizens demanded a postoffice in their state and the government could see little sense in building two federal buildings in the same town. Of course, the courts must be held in the separate states. Finally, the present plan was worked out, and after the two cities had purchased the necessary property, the project was begun.

Total cost will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, with the building itself costing $790,000.

Michael Mahoney Of Gourley Dies

Michael Mahoney, 24, died at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Wauters, at Gourley, Mich., Saturday morning at 12:30 o'clock, following an illness of three years due to heart trouble. Mr. Mahoney was born in Gourley, Jan. 16, 1905, and had lived there all his life.

The survivors are his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Augustine, of Gourley; one sister, Mrs. Frank Potter, of Iron Mountain; a half-brother, Edward Augustine, of Milwaukee; three half-sisters, Mrs. Ida Fox, Mrs. Ella Wauters and Miss Minnie Augustine, all of Gourley.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Bruno's church, Nadeau, with Rev. Fr. F. Sperline officiating. Interment will be in the Nadeau cemetery.

COP IN TAXI SUSPENDED

Youngstown, O.—Dan Popovich and Edwin A. Jones, policeman, were assigned to drive the police radio cruiser about town. Popovich remembered that he was supposed to attend a lodge meeting. Arranging a meeting place with Jones, Popovich took a taxi to the lodge meeting. Jones, weary, decided to nap before going to the meeting place. Popovich failed to find Jones at the agreed-upon point and, frantic, drove around town in the taxi in search of Jones. Police Captain Dominic Thompson saw him. Now Popovich and Jones are under suspension, and the former, being a cadet on a year's trial, may be suspended from the force.

Crime Declines; Fewer Vigilantes

Ionia, (AP)—The personnel of the Ionia County vigilante organization has been reduced from 43 to 23 by Sheriff William French, in view of the sheriff's report of declining crime in this section of the state.

The reduction, Sheriff French said, will mean little in the matter of financial economy, as the vigilantes form a voluntary organization, and members are paid only when pressed into service. The organization was founded several years ago on the suggestion of the Michigan Bankers' Association as a weapon against bank holdups.

Astoria, Ore.—A true mother's love has Mrs. Boise Moore. She recently gave up 81 square inches of her skin in order that her son, Gale, 7, might live and escape a terrible chest deformity. The youth was burned on the chest and side when a tiny gasoline stove exploded.

Michigan Democrats Consider Escanaba Man; Have Full Slate

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
Lansing, Dec. 5. (AP)—Instead of continuing their customary procedure of devoting their entire attention to the gubernatorial candidate, Michigan Democrats have expressed intentions of putting candidates in the field for all elective state offices, following up this action by organizing the greatest speaking force they have mustered in years.

Flushed with their success in the Eighth Michigan district, Democratic aspirants are seeking places in all elective offices, differing greatly from the past, when they frequently was difficult in filling the ticket with able candidates.

Careful Selection
The party chiefs expect to not only put a full state ticket in the field, but also to reach out into the Congressional districts. A tentative slate, far more ambitious than anything attempted by the party in many years, already is being discussed. It proposes a careful selection in which all sections of the state will be represented.

The gubernatorial prospects most widely talked of in Democratic circles are Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit and John V. Miner of Jackson. Miner is one of the few Democrats holding an important state position under a Republican administration. He is chairman of the state prison commission. It is understood Murphy is being urged by Detroit Democrats to consider becoming a candidate, although he has not made any statement on the matter. Both Murphy and Miner have expressed anti-prohibition sentiment.

The name of Frank A. Picard, of Saginaw, has been mentioned in connection with both the lieutenant-governorship and the attorney-generalship. Edmund C. Shields, of Lansing, one of the leaders in the organization of the late Woodbridge N. Ferris, has been proposed as a candidate for attorney general, as well as for governor. Walter I. McKenzie, of Detroit, has been considered as a candidate for attorney-general if an outstanding resident is nominated for governor.

Stack on List
Leaders have indicated William H. Loutitt, of Grand Haven, who, like Miner, holds an important post in the Republican administration, as executive chairman of the state conservation commission, will be urged to take a place on the ticket, possibly for secretary of state. Frank W. Merrick, of Bad Axe, is under discussion among the party leaders for state treasurer. John K. Stack, Jr., may again be offered as the Democratic candidate for auditor general. Like the Republican incumbent, O. B. Fuller, Stack resides in the Upper Peninsula.

William A. Comstock and Edward Frensdorff, among the most prominent of the Democratic leaders, are being mentioned for either important appointive post or as Congressional timber. Frensdorff once served as warden of the Michigan State prison at Jackson. Comstock has run for governor many times.

Democrats mentioned as likely Congressional candidates include Mayor Peter Gray, of Lansing, in the Sixth District; Harry Musselwhite, Manistee, a member of the state hospital commission, in the Ninth district; State Senator George Sadowski, in one of the Wayne districts; Michael J. Hart for re-election in the eighth; John C. Nagel, in one of the Wayne districts; Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace, in the Eleventh; Patrick H. Kane, of Port Huron, in the Seventh; John E. Kinnane, in the Tenth; Frank C. Jarvis, Grand Rapids, in the Fifth; Gordon Stewart, Kalamazoo, or Frank Moses, Marshall, in the Third, and Joseph M. Donnelly, Ontonagon, in the Twelfth.

Special Service At St. Anne's

Special services will be held at St. Anne's church Tuesday, Dec. 8, on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. The day also is the fifteenth hundredth anniversary of the Council of Ephesus and services in commemoration of this event will be held at the church in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques will give an English sermon. His topic will be "The Mother of God," and is based on the trial of Nestorius in the year 431 before the Council of Ephesus.

The event depicts a historical epoch in the Catholic church and will be of vital interest to all who attend the services. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow the evening devotions. The masses on Tuesday will be at 5:30, 7 and 8:30 o'clock.

TEETH COME HIGH
Vancouver, B. C.—A farmer in Peace River district, according to a story told by C. Webber, recently visited his dentist to obtain a set of false teeth. He offered the dentist oats in exchange for the molars. He nearly fainted when the dentist asked 1500 bushels of oats for the set. The low market price of oats accounted for the "high" price of the teeth.

FIVE PENINSULA GROWERS HIGH

Two Manistique Potato Men on 300-Bushel Club for 1931

East Lansing, Mich., Dec. 5 (AP)—Twenty-eight Michigan potato growers this year joined the select class of producers known as the "300-Bushel Club." It was the largest enrollment in the "organization" since 1928, and the fourth largest since its inception nine years ago.

For the first time since the club was established, membership was based on the average production for five acres. Heretofore, farmers have gained an entree into this select group by yields based on two or more acres.

Most farmers qualifying for membership this year live in the five northern counties of the Lower Peninsula. Five are from the Upper Peninsula, while three live in Central Michigan. The Upper Peninsula growers led in average yields with an average output of 468 bushels an acre, compared with 342 bushels for the Lower Peninsula farmers. The average for the 28 growers qualifying for membership was 356 bushels.

John Delongchamp, of Champion, produced 538 bushels of potatoes on an acre to take a wide lead in the competition. This Upper Peninsula grower is apparently well in advance of others in the premier potato growers' contest, a competition which will be decided during Farmers' Week at Michigan State college.

August Semmerling, Jr., of Bessemer, with 431 bushels an acre, and J. D. Robinson, of Pellston, with 416 bushels, were the only other farmers with yields above 400 bushels.

Yields of other farmers qualifying for membership follow in order: Russell Tennant, Manistique, 378 bushels; Alphonse Verschure, Manistique, 384; Pearl Bonter, Pellston, 377; Wayne Townsend, Gaylord, 373; David Inglis, Van, 367; K. Klooster, East Jordan, 367; H. A. Shaff, Gaylord, 364; D. H. Campbell, Iron River, 351; George McLachlan, Evart, 350; H. R. Clausen, Trufant, 350; Dale Nichols, Pellston, 350; Ed Rambadt, Hawks, 349; R. Riske, Petoskey, 343; Ray Eppler, Petoskey, 342; Harry Behling, Boyne City, 341; Charles Cetas, Good Hart, 340; Harry Reiley, Balaire, 332; Frank Guy, Pellston, 325; Casper Schuler, Bellaire, 320; E. Engstrom, LeRoy, 317; H. C. Stephens, Boyne City, 315; Guy Eppler, Petoskey, 307; Reiner Brothers and Hoppe, Hawks, 305; O. H. Cook, Van, 304; Ellis and Frank Schmalzried, Levering, 302. The premier grower contest is decided upon a basis of yield, quality and showmanship. Winners of the five potato shows this fall will compete during Farmers' Week in February for the state championship. The four others who will contest with Delongchamp for the honor are: Top O'Michigan show winner at Gaylord, Pearl Bonter, Pellston; West Michigan show winner, George McLachlan, Evart; Mayville show in the Thumb area, Lee Fowler, Mayville, 276; and Southwestern Michigan Potato Show winner, John Woodman, Paw Paw, 261 bushels an acre.

Use Extra Care
Cultural practices followed by the new members of the 300-bushel club show they planted twice as much seed per acre as the average Michigan grower, have spaced their potatoes less than half as far apart in the row, have dragged or disked their fields nearly twice as many times, and have cultivated less than half as much as other farmers after the plants started growing.

Specifically, the club members on an average planted 22 bushels of seed on an acre which was certified, or from certified stock, spaced the plants 13.5 inches apart in the row, with the rows averaging 35 inches apart, dragged or disked their fields nine times, and averaged three cultivations in the row after the plants were up.

The records are no mere accident. Alphonse Verschure, of Manistique, and Harry Reiley, of Bellaire, have been members of the club for six out of the nine years of its existence. Nine have been members two or more years.

Measure the Ice Before You Skate

Chicago, Dec. 5. (Special)—Parents who have difficulty in keeping their youngsters off the ice until it is perfectly safe for skating are given this rule by the National Safety Council:

Ice one inch thick is not safe. Two inches of ice will hold one person. Three inches will hold small groups. Four inches will hold large groups.

This rule should be made iron-clad in regions where ice-skating on streams and lakes is the chief winter sport. Most of the drownings reported occur during the first weeks of winter when the ice looks safe but is not sufficiently thick in all places to sustain the skaters' weight.

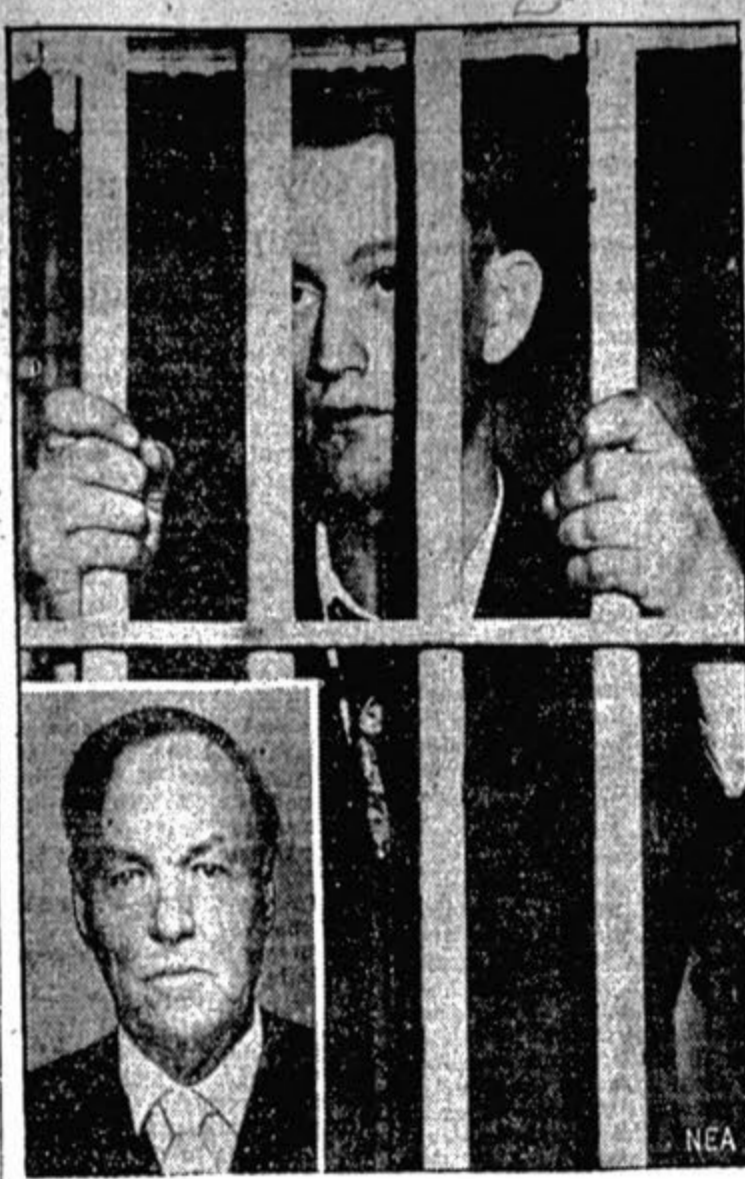

Bark River Church Work Progressing

Remarkable progress is being made on the church which is being built at Bark River by St. George's parish members. The walls have been erected and the roof placed over the entire building. Plumbers are at work installing the heating plant and with field furnished the men, the work will progress more quickly.

The brick walls which were built recently already give one a vivid idea of the size of the edifice. An interesting feature of the new building is the tower that connects the church with the parsonage. The new edifice is attracting the attention of all people traveling either by rail or motor. It is being erected on the site of the church that burned to the ground a few months ago. In the meantime services will continue to be held in the vacant store building.

Seattle, Wash.—Police had Davey Jones in a locker, but it wasn't the Davey Jones and locker of nautical fame. Jones was a companion of three holdup men, and not the fictitious character who's supposed to wait at the bottom of the sea to receive drowning sailors.

Darrow Plea Fails to Save Doomed Boy, 17

Clarence Darrow's fervent appeal for clemency having failed to sway Governor Emerson of Illinois, Russell McWilliams, above, 17-year-old Rockford, Ill. youth, faces death in the electric chair at Joliet penitentiary on Dec. 11 for the killing of a street car conductor during a holdup. The boy threw himself on the mercy of the court, blaming liquor for his crime. Darrow is shown in the inset.

Old-Time Convicts Hail "New Day" as Pigskin's Thud is Heard in Sing Sing

It wasn't a lock-step, but a triumphal march onto the gridiron for Sing Sing convicts who played their first football game against an outside team within the penitentiary walls. At the head of the parade pictured here are the members of the United States Naval Militia team, who later were defeated 23 to 0, and in the rear are the convict players. The mascot, a pony painted with black and white stripes, was ridden by Joan Maria Lawes, 10-year-old daughter of Warden Lewis Lawes.

"Be sure to put in your paper how this is due to the Warden," was the prisoners' tribute to Warden Lewis Lawes (above) who may have opened a new era with football in Sing Sing penitentiary.

This isn't a scene at a college football stadium, but a picture taken after the kick-off on the gridiron at Sing Sing penitentiary. The Sing Sing team won its first game played against an outside team when it defeated the U. S. Naval Militia eleven, 33 to 0. In the foreground are convict-spectators; in the background are stands which held the 500 visitors who paid to attend the game. Behind the walls at the left, machine guns were trained on the players and fans in this strangest of gridiron contests.

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

Ossining, N. Y.—The teams paraded, the band played and the referee whistled for the kickoff. More than 2200 denim-clad football fans howled encouragement to the Sing Sing penitentiary eleven, lined up for its first game with "outsiders." A white-haired, pale-eyed little "lifer" spoke:

"I never thought I'd live to see anything like this.

"There's youngsters here who maybe don't understand what prison meant to the old-timers. But I been here a long, long time, and I know. The days before the Warden (Lewis E. Lawes) come here, every day was like the last. Nothing to think about. Exercise periods didn't mean much. The men didn't know what to do with themselves. They had to keep moving, so they'd just walk and talk. And the things they talked about wasn't good for them, or for the prison either.

"Football—I don't know anything about the game, but most of them do. But it's the idea—see—playin' a fine game that the whole country talks about, and that young men like.

"The other day Shorty out there come to me and says, 'Here, Pop, here's a football. I bet you never saw one before.'

"I hadn't either. It was sort of a—sort of a symbol. You know what I mean.

That was "Pop," a trusty who has no other name, and who was allowed on the visitors' side of the field. Five hundred persons from "outside," men and women, were jammed into the covered bleachers, and 200 more had been turned away. Along the top of the south wall, from which hidden machine guns covered the crowd of apparently unguarded prisoners, news photographers and moving picture men recorded the scene and the exciting action on Lawes Field.

Never Played Before
Another trusty ("Just call me Pete") aided in the identification of the Sing Sing players. Pete knows football, and as a hospital attache he has appointed himself "a sort of trainer for the boys."

"You wouldn't think, from the way we're lickin' that, militia team that seven of our men out there never played before. Alabama Pitts, him that just made that last touchdown, played only a little in the Navy before he came here.

"Barrett, that left end, played with a Philadelphia high school team once, and Nelson, the right half, was on a state university team. Marano, the fullback, is our Carideo. Looks like him, too. Meschini, there, played on the Federal team at Atlanta once. Shorty Martone, the little run, that's been catching all those passes, has a bad shoulder and we didn't want him to play today. But they'd all play 'til they dropped in their tracks.

"Look at that pass! Forty-five yards—I mean yards—if it's an inch. That's Jumbo. Never mind his name—just Jumbo. There's the ball."

Alabama Pitts, captain, quarterback, star and prison hero: "We're beatin' 'em pretty bad because their team is too light. Besides we got a lot of good plays they didn't figure out. The New York Giants professional team has been coming up here and coaching us.

"But we've got some plays of our own, too. All the men here seem to be interested, and they come around to me with ideas about how to work new plays. They do that instead of figuring ways to go over the wall. They follow football in the newspapers and we see games in the movies here."

The Coach Speaks

Red-headed George Hope, the Sing Sing coach, was willing to talk. Hope used to play on a Navy team, too, and looks more like a lithe athlete than a man doing 59 years for kidnaping two Broadway gangsters.

"I keep the boys in shape, all right," he said. "I make 'em train, and they like it. Naturally I don't have any trouble makin' 'em keep regular hours.

"It's a great thing for all the inmates here. Of course, not all can play—only about 70 now—but it's their own fault. We had eight teams inside here not long ago, picked from the different shops. But they played so hard that half of 'em were in hospital most of the time. So now we only got two teams.

"They played four games so far. Each team won once, and two games were tied. The series will be played off pretty soon, and it's all the men talk about. They've bet their shirts—on that game. You see they don't allow cash inside here, so the men bet cigars and tobacco and magazines—everything they value.

All Go to Games

"Be sure to put in your paper about how all this is due to the Warden. That was his little daughter—Cherie, we call her—who rode the pony painted with stripes in the parade before the game.

"The Warden has all the men come to these games, except the ones in the death house of course. I guess there's nearly 2300 men here watching now. And for the men who can't leave their cells, and the ones in hospital, there's an announcer over there on the roof of the stands talking on the prison radio.

"I bet you never heard of anything like this in any other pen—playing teams from outside and all. Part of the admission money goes for the unemployment relief fund in Ossining, and part to our welfare league here.

"And don't forget to put in your paper about the Warden..."

Famous Paintings Come to Michigan

Grand Rapids (AP)—Alexander Hamilton, former Grand Rapids department store manager, has fallen into possession of a portrait of his famous ancestor, Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the United States treasury, believed to have been painted by Gilbert Stuart.

Mr. Hamilton is a direct lineal descendant—a great great grandson—of the first Alexander Hamilton, who was secretary of the treasury under George Washington.

The painting was bequeathed to Hamilton in the will of his grandfather, Edgar A. Hamilton, who died in New Jersey a number of months ago. The picture now is on display in Detroit, where critics have termed it one of Stuart's works.

Hamilton also has a miniature of one of the first Alexander Hamilton's sons, William Stevens Hamilton, the work of Melbourne the famous artist. Hamilton believes the portrait was painted about 1820.

There's One SURE WAY of getting Her ATTENTION...

Busy she is. Not wishing to be disturbed. This purchasing agent for thousands of families, Mrs. American Housewife. Yet surely, inevitably, every day of the year, her door opens to let in the Daily Press. And with the Press there enter a certain number of salesmen, salesmen who would otherwise have been turned away: in short, salesmen who gain entrance through the Press' advertising columns.

Is your salesman among them? Or do you keep him in the shop, waiting for a chance visit from Mrs. Housewife? Remember. Mrs. Housewife is buying. She is spending hundreds and hundreds of dollars a day. And unless you are reaching into the private homes of the Press readers, you are not receiving a rightful proportion of those dollars.

Your merchandise may be the choicest, your values may be the best, but unless you are sending the news to Mrs. Housewife through the medium of the Press, you cannot expect to find anything but "Busy. Do Not Disturb," on her door.

Traditions Crash As Persian Women Become Actresses. Teheran, (P)—Casting aside all in which they have shrouded themselves for countless centuries, Persian women have now become professional actresses...

Previously groups of wandering players, both Persian and foreign, have given such performances in various halls. But now a group of enthusiastic actors has decided that a permanent theater would be more profitable and at the same time would allow more scope to show acting abilities.

Hence, in the main street of Teheran, the Lalezar Avenue, they have rented a hall, and now give nightly shows, comic, tragic dramas and "straight" plays.

The Persian public, especially the womenfolk, get very excited in watching either a film or a play.

THEATRES

RIALTO

When the Fox dramatic production, "Over The Hill," opens at the Rialto Theatre today local moviegoers will see a photograph that has a history of its own and that serves in its present version as a sort of Hollywood. It brings together the past and the present, the stars of today and a star of yesterday.

Fresh from their triumph in "Bad Girl," James Dunn and Sally Eilers appear in the romantic "Over The Hill," which is the story of a man who goes all the way back to "The Birth of A Nation." She is Mae Marsh, who at the persuasion of Mr. Winfield Sheehan, Fox Vice President and General Manager in charge of production, undertook the assignment of shepherding off a flock of cinema children after years spent in raising her own small brood.

The exploits of Dunn and Miss Eilers are too fresh in the minds of the picture public to require much explanation and repetition. Suffice to say, both sprang out of the void as true stars should, taking the world by surprise by their vivid performances in "Bad Girl."

And the name of Miss Marsh, while not so fresh as her co-stars, is still revered in the minds of true movie fans.

Miss Marsh has never been absent from the thoughts of Hollywood studio crowds. Time and again she has been solicited to come and play roles that cried for her incomparable touch. But it was not until she read the script of "Over The Hill" that she again felt the urge of the screen.

Downtown Taking On Holiday Note: Trees Are Erected

The local business district will present a decidedly attractive Yuletide appearance when decorative plans inaugurated by the retail committee of the City Club are put into effect sometime during the coming week.

When carried out, both sides of the business section on Delta and Central avenues will be lined with electrically lighted Christmas trees, one or more of the evergreens in front of each business house.

Sixty-five different merchants and business men agreed to place a tree (in some cases more than one), and equip it with electric lights. The last of the trees, fifteen in number, were delivered yesterday morning. The trees were furnished free of charge, the only condition being that the person receiving them would agree to care for the placing and lighting.

Cost of the evergreens was financed through the Christmas decoration fund of the City Club, and the purchase of the trees at a flat rate of 50 cents each provides some work for several unemployed men.

Cooperation of every merchant and business man solicited is necessary for the success of the plan. It was pointed out yesterday by R. J. Riley, chairman of the retail committee, and a request is being made that the trees be set up and equipped with lights as early in the week as possible.

Wormy Fish Are Safe for Eating

Lansing.—"Wormy" or "grubby" fish are entirely safe to eat, according to Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, director of the Institute for Fisheries Research of the University of Michigan.

None of the parasite, infesting fish are capable of injuring man, and all the parasites are killed by ordinary cooking processes. The intestinal worms are cleaned out, and the flesh "grubs" will have no ill effect even on the taste of the fish, unless they are thick enough to soften the flesh or render it otherwise undesirable. Dr. Hubbs said. Many people refuse to eat fish believing that the worms or grubs are injurious.

Tulane Wins, 28-14; Accepts Bid for Rose Bowl

COUGARS SCARE SOUTHERN TEAM

Green Wave Makes Three of Four Touchdowns Via Aerial Route

BULLETIN. New Orleans, Dec. 5. (AP)—Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, athletic director of Tulane university, said tonight he had accepted an invitation for Tulane to play Southern California in the Rose Bowl tournament New Year's Day.

Dr. Smith called the Associated Press by telephone at 7:28 tonight and said: "I have just accepted the invitation of Southern California for Tulane to play in the Rose Bowl tournament of roses."

That's all," he said.

BY RALPH WHEATLEY. Tulane Stadium, New Orleans, Dec. 5 (AP)—Tulane's Green Wave jerked its football banner to the top of the mast and stepped on national championship soil today by defeating the Washington State Cougars, 28 to 14. The result left Tulane the only unbeaten and undefeated team in the country.

The crowd of 25,000 Tulane rooters got the fright of their lives when the visitors drove over a touchdown in three minutes after the starter's whistle and showed form of winning caliber.

Green Wave Scores. The score was squared soon, however. Captain Jerry Dalrymple left the side lines bench and took his post at right end. He rallied his team and five minutes later Tulane went over the goal line, making the score 7-7.

In the second quarter, the Green Wave hit its stride and rang up two more touchdowns. But in the third quarter Washington State scored again, making the score 21 to 14.

In the last quarter, Captain Dalrymple made his team safe by catching Zimmerman's pass from the 25-yard line as he stood behind Washington State's goal line, giving his team a lead of two touchdowns which it held to the end.

The game represented the last appearance in New Orleans of Bernie Bierman as head coach for Tulane, official announcement being made during the game that he would leave for his alma mater University of Minnesota, to become head football mentor and that he would be succeeded here by Ted Fox, Tulane's line coach.

It also meant the last regular season game to be played by Captain Dalrymple, who will be graduated along with Haynes, Glover, Dawson, McCormick, Decoligny and Halk. The crowd knew it and surged on the field at the end of the game to bid them farewell.

Teams Tackle Hard. Each team attacked through the air. Tulane scoring three of its four touchdowns on forward passes. But Washington State was not afraid of Tulane's powerful line and hit it time and again for gains with Tulane retreating against the stout Cougar forwards. Each team tackled hard and Sander and Schroeder shone for Washington, along with Tulane's Zimmerman and Glover.

Washington State scored the first touchdown off Payne's fumble which was recovered by "Turk" Edwards. Washington's massive tackle, in a series of plunges Schroeder, halfback, brought it to the two-yard line, where on a double backfield pass, Quarterback Dahlen skirted left end for a touchdown and then turned around and kicked goal.

The game ended with Tulane in scoring position on Washington State's 12-yard line.

Grand Rapids Team Battles Cardinals To 7-7 Deadlock

Grand Rapids, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Grand Rapids Maroons fought the Chicago Cardinals of the National league to a 7 to 7 tie here today in an exhibition game. Chicago scored late in the third quarter when Shaw raced 65 yards, dodging through a swarm of Grand Rapids players on a pass from Nevers. Nevers added the extra point from placement. The Grand Rapids touchdown came midway of the last period when Unseld, a lineman, recovered the fumble of his team mate, Wheeler, across the Cardinal goal line. Rocky Parsaca, former University of Detroit star who played his last college game a week ago, made the extra point on a drop kick.

Parsaca, making his post graduate debut, played a hard game at full back and had the edge on Nevers in punting. Parsaca's teammates, Joe Weis and Al Schimmer, ex-Detroit linemen, bolstered the Grand Rapids forward line. Schimmer broke through several times to smear Cardinal plays behind the line of scrimmage.

Maple Leafs Win From Maroons, 4-0

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 5 (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs won a ruggedly played National hockey league game here tonight from the Montreal Maroons, 4 to 0, and obtained a measure of revenge for the 8 to 2 defeat they met in Montreal on Thursday last at the hands of the Maroons.

The game was rough in spots, but nothing untoward happened except the major penalty awarded Nels Stewart for cutting down a Clancy with his stick. Toronto stepped into a two-goal lead in the first period. Levinsky carried the puck down, was crowded into the corner then Cotton grabbed it and passed to Blair who beat Norm Smith with a backhanded shot. Jackson added another with a nice solo dash, splitting the defence cleanly and drawing the goalie. McVicar was off at the time.

Darragh added another in the second period. The only goal of the middle session on a pass from Horner to make the count three to nothing. Primeau completed the rout in the third period with a brilliant play after taking a pass from Jackson.

Rapid River Wins From Cooks, 25-24

Rapid River, Dec. 5 (Special)—Rapid River high school basketball players journeyed to Cooks Friday evening where they met the Cooks team on their own floor. In a fast, thrilling game that went into an overtime period, the Delta county squad emerged the winners by the score of 25 to 24.

During the first three periods Cooks led the locals all the way. When the fourth period was about half gone the score was 21 to 14 in favor of Cooks, and it looked as though the game was tucked away safely for the Cooks boys. Suddenly in a burst of speed that swept the Cooks guards off their feet, Rapid piled up nine points, to two for the Cooks team. With about a half minute to go, the Rapid team was trailing by two points, when Rushford tossed a field basket from the free throw line which tied the score, 23 to 23.

Over the overtime period, Griffin was fouled by a Rapid River guard, but could get but one of the free throw chances, which again seemed to be enough to win the game, but Boyer succeeded in sinking a field basket in the last few seconds to Cooks was without the services of its lanky center, Lakosky, who lost two fingers in a hunting accident last week.

In the preliminary, Cooks Freshmen defeated the Rapid River Freshmen by a score of 9 to 8.

NAVY DEFEATS PENN BY 6 TO 0

Midshipmen Bring Joy and Hope Week Before Army Scrap

BY GAYLE TALBOT. (Associated Press Sports Writer) Philadelphia, Penn., Dec. 5 (AP)—Navy's surprising midshipmen, after enduring rough treatment the greater part of the season, rose up in new-found power before 65,000 spectators here today to administer a 6 to 0 beating to, vastly favored University of Pennsylvania eleven.

The Middles, who have a very important engagement with Army next Saturday at New York, brought joy and hope to their adherents by fighting back the Quakers' best efforts for three quarters of today's tussle and then, with only six minutes remaining to play, striking once and decisively through the air to score their first victory of the year over a major opponent.

Kirn Big Noise
It was none other than "Bullet Lou" Kirn, himself, the Tar firey little halfback, who fired the shot that sank the Ired and Blue Penn machine.

For most of three periods he had thrown himself against and through the stout Quaker line, scoring six first downs with his darting, weaving runs and doing about all the damage for his side. Then, apparently realizing his efforts along that line were useless, he decided to throw the ball, instead.

His chance came when Perina, big Penn fullback, punted out from behind his own goal line to the Middles' 45-yard stripe. The audience, having watched a rather dull punting duel for upward of two hours, had about reconciled itself to a scoreless tie. In another moment they were on their feet, electrified, and several thousand midshipmen were in the throes of hysteria. Kirn, faking an end run, turned instead and faded far back. When he did face about, it was to cut loose with the longest pass he had in his system, Tachirig, fleet Middle halfback, and two Penn defenders took out after it. For a thrilling moment it looked like a dead heat, but at the last possible instant Tachirig leaped and snared the ball on his finger tips.

The two Penn men obligingly bumped into one another at the right moment, and the Navy back easily sprinted the last 30 yards for a touchdown. Elliott missed the try for point, but it didn't matter.

With minutes left to go, Penn took to the air in a wild effort to match the Middles' score, but Coach Rip Miller's boys batted them down easily and just before the final gun intercepted at midfield.

With the exception of that climatic Navy broadside, the two elevens battled on more or less even terms all the way. The first downs were Navy 8, Pennsylvania 7. Real scoring threats were few and far between.

"Volley Ball"

St. Mary's Upsets Southern Methodists
Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, Dec. 5. (AP)—The Mustangs of Southern Methodist university went down to their first defeat of the season before a powerful St. Mary's college comeback in the second half, here today, 7 to 2.

The Gaels, bewildered by a passing attack in the first half, came back to win through the air when Toscani scored early in the fourth period. Fletcher converted. The Mustangs scored two points a few minutes later when Brovelli's kick was blocked and rolled out of bounds behind the goal.

Colorado Aggies Lose to Nebraska
Denver, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP)—Scoring three touchdowns in a last period drive, the University of Nebraska, Big Six champion, defeated the Colorado Aggies, 20 to 7, in a charity game here today.

The Aggies scored in the first period after completing two long passes. The Huskers tallied early in the fourth quarter on a 27-yard drive after Sauer had placed a punt out of bounds on the Aggies one-yard line. The second Nebraska touchdown came after recovery of a fumble on the Aggie 26-yard mark. Brown ended the scoring with an 82-yard return of a punt in the closing minutes of the game.

Rock Spartans Have Cage Team

Rock, Mich., Dec. 5. (Special)—The Rock Spartans, one of the strongest amateur cage outfits in Delta county last year, have organized again and are ready to meet all comers.

This year's roster is practically the same as the outfit that topped third place in the Upper Peninsula tournament at Escanaba last year. The squad, thus far, numbers: Capt. Rayfield Carlson, Jay Huff, Kauko Kaukula, Aelred Trombly, Einar Jokela, Matt Vitilla, Leslie and Charles Larson. One or two more are expected to join the squad in a day or two.

The Spartan management is anxious to schedule games with other such teams in the upper peninsula. They are confident they can put up a good brand of basketball against any U. P. team. Any manager wishing to schedule games with the locals are asked to please write to Leslie Larson or Jay Huff at Rock, and a game will be arranged at your convenience.

VIOLETS LOSE TO TENNESSEE

New York Humbled, 13-0, in Charity Grid Spectacle

BY ALAN GOULD. (Associated Press Sports Editor) New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Striking twice with dazzling swiftness in much the same spot, Tennessee's Volunteers came up from Disle today to sweep New York university's TUGG of football forces out of their feet and romp away with a 13-0 triumph in the first big game of the post-season metropolitan charity program.

Favored by a clear, crisp afternoon, the game attracted 40,884 spectators who contributed $70,597 in gate receipts, the bulk of which, after expenses are deducted, will go to the benefit of the unemployed of New York City and Knoxville, home town of the Volunteers.

The crowd, filling about half of the big American League ball park, was rewarded for its turnout by watching one of the finest inter-sectional engagements of the year. Tennessee's victory kept the team's unbeaten record intact for 1931 and marked the conclusion of the career of Gene McEveer, famous back, with the distinction of never having tasted defeat in a varsity game. At the same time it was New York's third setback at the hands of an inter-sectional rival and most decisive suffered by the Violets this season.

While the Violet-clad players were busily engaged watching and waiting for the celebrated McEveer to start going places with the ball, two of his teammates, Beauty Feathers and Herbert Brackett, put on an exhibition of broken-field running that put the New Yorkers to rout in the second period and sewed up the game tighter than a bale of cotton.

Tennessee touchdowns came within five minutes of each other, and brought the big crowd to its feet in thrilling acclaim. Feathers scored the first after shaking off from his tacklers to get into the clear. Shortly afterward, Brackett, substitute quarterback, plucked one of Jim Tanguay's big spirals out of the air on his own 26-yard mark, slowly picked his way to one side of the field, zig-zagged toward the other side and completed a 74-yard scoring dash with the aid of superb blocking assistance.

McEveer bucked the line for the first extra point, but failed in an attempt to kick the next one. Otherwise the veteran ace of the Tennessee backfield devoted his afternoon to blocking, tackling, passing and to serving as the decoy. McEveer's longest gain from scrimmage was about 18 yards, as he yielded the spotlight of all-around backfield performance to Feathers, whose brilliant kicking and running played a big part in the victory.

The Violet forwards, in the pinches, were thoroughly outplayed by the southerners, led by the redoubtable Herman Hickman, 208-pound right guard.

Teitenburg Loses Match to Miller

Manistique, Dec. 5 (Special)—Ray Miller, state heavyweight wrestling champion, tumbled the tables on Herb Teitenburg here Friday evening when the latter conceded the match after Miller had wrenched Teitenburg's leg in applying a toe hold to gain the second fall. Teitenburg won the first fall.

Miller, in winning Friday, made amends for his defeat here three weeks ago when he lost two of three falls to the local grappler. A large crowd witnessed the match which was held at Vail's hall, a few miles outside the city limits.

Swede Fredericksen, of Escanaba, failed to appear for his match with Pat Shello, of Sault Ste. Marie, and as no suitable opponent could be found, the match was cancelled.

McEachern, of Cooks, took two straight falls from Joe Blazo, of this city, in the preliminary to the main match.

BIERMAN WILL COACH GOPHERS

Tulane Mentor Agrees to Take Job at Minnesota

Minneapolis, Dec. 5 (AP)—Minnesota's future campaigns for Western Conference football championship were placed under the guardianship of B. W. "Bernie" Bierman today.

Bierman, returning to the institution whose last Big Ten title team he captained in 1915, has been head coach of Tulane University's strong squads since 1927.

His appointment here, with faculty ranking of professor, is effective Jan. 1. He said at New Orleans today he would remain in the south after that date if his team is invited to play in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day.

As head coach here he succeeds H. O. "Fritz" Crisler, who has handled football and the athletic directorship as well. Crisler will continue as athletic director.

From 1913 to 1915 Bierman had a brilliant football career as Minnesota halfback and participated in basketball, baseball and track also.

Annual Champions He coached at Montana before becoming assistant coach at Tulane in 1923. In 1925 he took charge of football at Mississippi A. & M. and two years later went back to Tulane as head coach. His Tulane eleven have not lost a Southern Conference game since 1925 and this year annexed another championship.

Crisler came to Minnesota nearly two years ago from the University of Chicago as head coach when Dr. C. W. Spears resigned to go to Oregon. A short time later Athletic Director F. W. Leehring resigned and Crisler stepped into the dual role.

He said a year ago he would cease coaching whenever he believed it best, and at a time "conditions were such that it would not be unfair for a football coach to have every chance to succeed."

Bierman, in the opinion of coaches, will find better playing material at his first spring practice than has been available in the last few years.

Ted Cox, announced as Bierman's successor at Tulane, played tackle at Minnesota in 1922-24, and captained the team in his senior year.

Trojans Wallop Washington, 44-7

Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Dec. 5 (AP)—The irresistible Trojans of the University of Southern California took unto themselves their first undisputed Pacific coast conference football championship here today, by crushing the huskies of Washington 44 to 7.

The touchdown parade of Troy's strong men opened with the first quarter still in its infancy and continued on through the final period when shadows started creeping into the huge concrete bowl and the estimated crowd of 67,000 persons, satisfied with Coach Howard Jones' team's superiority, started fling out.

Gains Shaver and Orville Mohler, alternating quarterbacks for the Trojans, shared scoring honors, with three touchdowns apiece.

BIG TEN GRID CARDS RATIFIED

Many Teams to Play in Inter-sectional Games Next Season

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY. (Associated Press Sports Writer) Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP)—Big Ten football teams will go scouting for plenty of opposition outside of their own conference back yards next fall.

The 1932 lineup, ratified today by the Big Ten chiefs, listed eleven inter-sectional and non-conference games against powerhouse eleven from Stanford in the far west to Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania and New York university in the east.

Northwestern and Purdue appeared in for the real "suicide schedules" of the Big Ten group. The two teams, which tied with Michigan for the 1932 championship, scheduled eight straight games without a rest offered on the card. The Wildcats had Missouri for an opener at Evanston with Stanford its second foe at Palo Alto, followed by hard conference duels and one with Notre Dame at South Bend. Purdue had inter-sectional games scheduled with the Kansas Aggies and New York university.

The high spots of the inter-sectional and non conference card are: Northwestern—Missouri, Stanford and Notre Dame.

Purdue—Kansas Aggies and New York university.

Chicago—Yale at New Haven in a return date.

Ohio State—Pennsylvania.

Michigan—Princeton at Ann Arbor in a return date.

Iowa—George Washington at Washington, D. C., in a return date.

Minnesota—Nebraska and Mississippi.

YALE CAPTURES ROUND ROBIN

Wins Judge's Decision Over Brown After Scoreless Tie

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New Haven, Conn., Dec. 5 (AP)—Yale won a judge's decision over Brown, something unique in the history of eastern football, to win the final game and chief honors today in the round robin football festival for the benefit of the unemployed.

Held scoreless by the Bruins after defeating Holy Cross 6 to 0 in the first of two qualifying matches to determine the tourney finalists, a committee of judges decided Yale had outplayed Brown just enough to win the second decision ever awarded in this manner after a football game in the east.

A crowd estimated at 30,000 braved a bitterly cold afternoon to watch the four varsity eleven compete.

Yale struck hard and fast against Holy Cross in the opener, scoring the lone touchdown of the day on a 43-yard drive in the first twelve-minute half. With the regular Yale varsity in action and only Albie Booth, the ailing captain, unavailable, Big Joe Crowley and the sophomore sensation, Bob Lassiter, teamed to slash Holy Cross' tackles for bursts of five and ten yards until Crowley finally dove over the Crusader's goal from the three yard line.

It was Holy Cross' first meeting with Yale in eighteen years. Capt. Phil O'Connell, brilliant Holy Cross quarterback, passed at every opportunity but numbed fingers could not hold his long heaves and the Eli pass defense batted the remainder down.

Misses Field Goal
The Yale running attack that functioned so well against Holy Cross failed until the last minutes of play against Brown in the final game. Brown had several scoring opportunities. Its most serious threat was Bob Chase's attempt at a field goal from placement from Yale's 30-yard line in the first period of the final. The boot was short and wide, however, and the Brown backs were able to gain successively only on passes around midfield thereafter.

The Brown Dartmouth preliminary, that might have brought together in the final the Yale and Dartmouth eleven that battled so sensationally to a 33-33 tie during the regular season was close and hard fought and with few scoring opportunities. Brown effectively stopped the famed passing combination of Bill Norton and Bob McCall and with it went most of the Hanover Indians' offense.

Greenleaf, Rudolph Tie In Cue Tourney
Philadelphia, Dec. 5 (AP)—Ralph Greenleaf of New York climbed into a tie for the leadership in standings with Erwin Rudolph today by defeating Al Miller of Racine, Wis., 125 to 42 in 14 innings in the world's pocket billiard championship play. George Kelly of Philadelphia, had previously defeated Bennie Allen, Kansas City, 125 to 116.

Canadiens Win from Detroit Falcons
Montreal, Dec. 5 (AP)—The champion Montreal Canadiens shut out the Detroit Falcons 4 to 0 tonight in a fast National hockey league game. Despite the one sided score, the Falcons put up a good battle and only the alertness of George Hainsworth, Canadian goalie, kept them from scoring.

The flying Frenchmen scored three goals in the first period, two of them when the Falcons were a man shy on penalties. Howie Morenz scored the other on a fast individual play and sank the final counter in the third period on a pass from George Mantha.

Aurel Jolia made the first counter on a double assist play, Morenz to Gagnon to Jolia. Wasnie made the other on Leduc's pass.

Hainsworth did his best work in the second and third periods when Detroit's fast attacks several times split his defense wide open.

international reputation when he captured the Thompson air trophy race at Cleveland last September, beating some of the world's best known pilots. Combining great skill with great nerve he was one of the most modest of aviation heroes.

Ray Cooper, chief observer in charge of the speed test, said the crash came too fast to determine accurately what happened. Cooper was timing the race from one end of the course which Bayles was approaching at the time.

"It looked as if something came off the plane," Cooper said. "Bayles dropped suddenly, whirled around and something seemed to fly from the plane. Ten feet above the ground the plane burst into flames."

Don Hanchett, a flagman, stationed at the start of the course, said he thought one wing gave way as Bayles passed over his head. Hanchett later found the air speed indicator tube. Official observers probably will claim for Bayles an American record of 281.9 miles an hour which he averaged during his attempt last Tuesday. Immediately after the flight Ray Cooper asked Bayles whether he wanted to claim the American record. Bayles declined, saying he was sure he could travel faster. The mark of 281.9 miles an hour was 15.4 miles an hour faster than the American record held by Lieut. Al Williams.
