GARNER PLANS TO COMPLETE ORGANIZATION

FULL VOTE OF HIS PARTY EXTENDED TO TEXAN

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—It is Speaker Garner now.

The white-haired, 62-year-old Texan will preside over a Democratic house in the last two years of the Hoover administration.

The Democrats won control today after twelve years of Republican domination. They elected Garner on the first ballot.

The Republicans cast 207 votes for Representative Snell of New York their candidate.

William Tyler Page, dignified veteran house clerk who called the house to order, asked for the nominations.

Representative Arnold of Illinois, chairman of the Democratic caucus, nominated the Texan, and Snell was nominated by Representative Hawley of Oregon.

Japanese Report Fresh Activity Of Manchurian Bandits

Fresh activity by Manchurian bandits was reported by the Japanese yesterday.

A colliery official and his family at Niyushinai were captured by raiders and held as hostages.

In Paris some progress was reported in the League of Nations council's attempt to arrive at a settlement, but many barriers remained.

Guards Are Posted At Palmer's Home

Detroit, Dec. 7 (AP)—Guards were posted today at the Gross Pointe village, home of Harold Palmer, wealthy real estate operator, to protect Palmer's five children while police investigated threats against the children.

The guards were stationed at the home as a result of the firing of shots at the Palmer automobile Saturday just after the children had left the car and receipt of threatening letters.

White Slave Ring Is Investigated

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The records of an alleged white slave ring showing the movements of at least 1,300 girls between 40 middle-western cities during the last six years were studied today as the federal government prepared for further raids and ultimate prosecution.

Three persons arrested in Saturday night raids on vice resorts were fined $200 and costs for disorderly conduct.

In the headquarters of the alleged ring on South Michigan boulevard the police and department of justice agents found records, which indicated about 75 "unfilled orders" for girls wanted in other cities.

A dozen young women believed to have been lured by newspaper advertisements offering "respectable work" were to be questioned.

5,000 BILLS IN HOUSE ALREADY

Senate Will Not Be Set for Measures Until Today at Least

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Five thousand prospective laws were dumped today into the legislative mill of the house.

Despite these restrictions, however, some members talked of their proposals. A few of those on outstanding subjects in both branches were:

Prohibition: nearly 100 suggested changes, including the legalizing of beer, a, e, stout and light wines, and referenda on the eighteenth amendment; repeal of the eighteenth amendment; tightening up of enforcement.

Farm board: Its abolishment with the transfer of its activities to the agriculture department; a further investigation.

Banks: To broaden the eligibility of acceptable paper; extend for two years loans made by federal land banks.

Veterans: Pay World War veterans compensation certificates in full; increase disability benefits; construct new hospitals; allow pensions to widows, orphans and dependents of World War veterans.

Public lands: One to authorize the secretary of the interior to collect fees for grazing on public lands in that state by Leavitt of Montana.

Cotton: To compel the postoffice department to use cotton instead of jute twine; provide that the government use cotton wherever possible; place the New York cotton exchange under the jurisdiction of the agricultural department.

Legislation: To establish a federal bank with $100,000,000 capital to function in times of depression; give insurance to unemployed.

Bills on taxes were few, both Democrats and Republicans waiting to see what President Hoover would recommend in his annual budget messages.

In the senate a proposal is pending for a full investigation of the railroad financial situation and in both branches the familiar Norris resolution calling for new meetings of congress and abolition of the "lame duck" sessions of old congresses will be revived.

Lenz and Jacoby won the first two rubbers and the Culbertsons the third. The three rubbers involved 23 hands.

Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, U. S. Army, the chief referee, said the play was very slow, due perhaps to the bustle and bustle caused by the throng at a novel tournament.

Lenz commented: "The greens were very slow. He is a golfer as well as a bridge expert. At one stage I even forgot what trump was."

Said Culbertson: "Except for the fact that Lenz and Jacoby held a series of 4s and 5s it was a great pleasure to play against such

WAS RESIDENT OF DELTA CO. FOR 60 YEARS

OPERATED CHARCOAL KILNS AT KATE'S BAY IN 80'S

John P. McColl, 80, widely known Escanaba resident and one of the pioneers of the county, died at his home, 404 South Seventh street, at 9:30 a. m. Monday, following an illness of ten days.

A severe cold forced him to give up his duties in the office of the Delta Title, Land and Loan Co., and his condition at a daily grew worse.

Although he suffered in late life, his mind was clear until death came. Angina pectoris was given as the cause of death.

John Paisley McColl's life story is rich with tales of the struggles of early settlers in the peninsula.

He was born in Chatham, Ont., the son of Duncan and Mary McColl. At the age of 19 he went to Mackinac Island to assist his uncle, who at that time was proprietor of the Island hotel.

Remaining only a short time, he came to Fayette in 1872, and at that place was employed as a bookkeeper in the offices of the Jackson Iron Furnace Co.

Later Mr. McColl went into business for himself as contractor for producing charcoal at which time he had several charcoal kilns at Kate's Bay. When the furnace closed down he went to Lawrence, Va., and stayed only a short time returning to Delta county.

In 1886 he was elected to the office of County Clerk for Delta county and took the office on January 1, 1887. At that time the office of county clerk and registrar of deeds were combined and

"Public Enemy" of Chicago Arrested

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Frank McErlane, "public enemy" and gunman sought since Oct. 7, when his wife and her two pet dogs were found shot to death in his automobile, was arrested today at Madison, Wis., police said tonight.

He was rushed to Chicago by police squads under the command of Pat Roche, state's attorney's investigator.

McErlane, called by police Chicago's "toughest gangster," was captured in a farmhouse near Madison, where he had been hiding several weeks, police were informed.

McErlane disappeared coincident with the slaying of his wife, formerly Marion Miller of St. Louis, who was found shot to death in his car, abandoned on a South Side prairie.

valiant adversaries." The play was marked by a light nervousness on the part of all.

Mrs. Culbertson did not comment. From one point of view Lenz and his partner won all three rubbers. In the last rubber the Culbertsons got the bonus for rubber, but actually lost points because of sets.

Strictly speaking under bridge laws the winner of the most points is the winner of a rubber.

At the end of the first rubber by eight hands Lenz and partner were 220 ahead. They increased this to 210 in the second rubber. Sets imposed on the Culbertsons in the third rubber raised their opponents' total to 1715 when play of the first session ended.

First night individual summary: Lenz: Successful contracts 5; set 3; overtrick hands 3. Jacoby: Successful contracts 3; set 4; overtrick hands 2. Mrs. Culbertson: Successful contracts 3; set 3; overtrick hands 1. Culbertson: Successful contracts 1; set 1; overtrick hands 1.

Demonstrators Parade About Washington But Don't Present Program

BY SAM BLEDSOE
Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—A band of 1,500 demonstrators paraded peacefully about Washington today but failed in its announced purpose of presenting demands for unemployment relief to President Hoover and on the senate floor.

In fact, as nightfall found their steps slow and their band silent, they had not officially made their program known either at the White House or to congress.

At both places, their leaders refused to send in their demands after police blocked their entrance.

RAILROADS GET RATE INCREASE

ICC Withdraws Surcharge Plan, Urges Aid for Weaker Lines

Washington, Nov. 7 (AP)—Relief for hard-pressed railroads was granted today by the interstate commerce commission in the form of increased rates on freight and farm products, the proceeds to be used to aid weaker lines.

The increases obtained through application of surcharges, will be effective as soon as the carriers file permission for the changes.

In taking the action, the commission withdrew its previous decision that revenues from the increase be pooled and distributed among roads whose bonds have been endangered by curtailed income.

The commission, by a 7 to 4 vote, said, however, it would expect the carriers to assist the weaker lines through an organization of their own.

"We believe it to be pretty clearly indicated by matters called to our attention in oral argument and otherwise that an agreement to adopt and put in force the pooling plan provided for by us cannot be obtained in the absence of such an agreement which we have no authority to require such pooling."

The railroads had sought a straight 15 per cent increase in freight rates. This the commission denied, proposing instead the surcharge pooling plan. The roads opposed this.

WORK ON PROBLEMS
Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Railway unions worked today on a permanent program for shorter hours before tackling the emergency problem of reduced wages.

First separately and then together, the four big brotherhoods—engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen—and the union of switchmen took up the problem of permanent stabilization of employment and the spreading of work through shorter hours per man.

One of the principal proposals was the six hour day and although the report of the committee of 35, organized last year, was carefully guarded, many of the leading union executives openly favored the plan.

T. C. Cashen of the switchmen's union declared the six hour day to be the "only practical solution of the present economic conditions which are strangling the railroads."

Mrs. Caraway Set To Carry On Work Of Late Husband

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—A small, sad-eyed woman in black who prefers to be called "Susan" rather than "Senator" came up to Capitol Hill today to carry on the work of her late husband.

The first woman ever to take up actively the duties of a senator—Mrs. Hattie Caraway—visited her offices with her three sons and a sister and observed with housewifely eye that the windows were in need of washing.

Then, standing erect behind her husband's old desk, she went through the ordeal of her first press conference, parrying many of the questions with a wit as keen if not as caustic as that of her late husband, Senator Hattie Caraway, to whom she referred as "dad."

BLUEBEARD OF WEST VIRGINIA GOES ON TRIAL

LITTLE INTEREST IN CASE SHOWN BY POWERS

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN
Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Chewing gum and grinning Harry F. Powers went on trial for his life today.

With his back to the 1,200 men, women and children, who filled every seat in the town opera house, he sat on the stage of the improvised court room and watched eagerly while a jury was being selected.

When he was accused of murdering two women and three children for profit and he showed no trace of emotion when a demand was made he be hanged for one of the killings, that of Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, of Northboro, Mass.

During the testimony of three witnesses heard before court adjourned for the day, the bland defendant sat immobile. When Police Chief Clarence A. Duckworth stepped down from the stand and pulled bloodstained garments worn by Mrs. Lemke from a cotton bag, Powers glanced at them and turned his interest toward a stage electrician on a platform in the wings.

Crowd Jams Room.
Coroner Leroy C. Goff and Dr. Herbert H. Hayes told how Mrs. Lemke, Mrs. Asta Bulck Elieher of Parkridge, Ill., and two of the latter's children had all been strangled to death, while Harry Elcher, 12, had been gagged and struck on the head with a hammer, but the doctors seemed to be playing parts in a drama that little concerned the defendant.

Thousands of townspeople who once had filled the streets around the jail shouting his name and who more recently had torn down parts of the garage in which the killings were committed, milled around in front of the opera house, unable to gain entrance.

A queue formed at dawn. Late in the afternoon scores still were standing there, hoping for an opportunity to hear details of the bizarre murder.

Up and down the sidewalks paraded "sandwichmen" advertising signs, phonograph records and books about the man West Virginia.

The seventy-second congress convened and prepared to receive tomorrow President Hoover's annual message.

Representative Garner of Texas was elected Democratic speaker of the house.

The interstate commerce commission modified its previous order and permitted railroads to handle on their own basis increased rates provided to aid weaker carriers.

Unemployed demonstrators failed in efforts to present demands personally to President Hoover and to the senate and house.

Montreal, Dec. 7 (AP)—The International Paper company today announced a reduction in the price of newsprint for 1932 to $53 a ton in New York and Chicago. The new price is $4 below the previous level in the northern zone.

influence of constitutions of the most modern republics of Europe and America. This was especially true of the German and the Mexican constitutions.

The Mexican influence seems to have been a rebirth of the old traditions of Spanish liberties, and as an example of it we see in the new constitution the importance given to the presidency and the supreme court.

Stamp of Originality
North American influence also is noticeable in the supremacy of the constitution, the possible federal organization of the several provinces of Spain, and the restrictive system of reforms to the fundamental law.

A stamp of originality also is noted in the constitution, especially in the full freedom given by the assembly from the beginning to the heterogeneous government, so that the government might solve various existing problems.

Pioneer Manufacturer of Detroit Succumbs to Hemorrhage

Detroit, Dec. 7 (AP)—Robert C. Hupp, a pioneer in the Detroit automobile manufacturing field, died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage today in the Detroit Athletic club.

Born 55 years ago in Grand Rapids, Mich., Mr. Hupp engaged in several other businesses until he entered the Olds Motor Works, working at a mechanic's bench, to learn the rudiments of automobile manufacturing. For a time he was with the Ford Motor company, resigning in 1908 to build machines himself.

His "Hupmobile 22" was an adaptation to American road conditions of European cycle cars. Later he brought out the Hupp-Yeats electric. Then he left the Hupmobile company and built what afterwards was known as the R. C. H. larger than the Hupmobile and built along foreign lines. The plant later was taken over by the Liberty Motor company.

Active in Development
Mr. Hupp next built the Monarch, a light six-cylinder car which was abandoned about 1916, after being on the market for two years.

After quitting the automobile manufacturing business, Mr. Hupp was active in various phases of automotive development. He was credited with valuable contributions to popularizing and perfecting hydraulic brakes and was an early advocate of eight-cylinder motors.

He had complained recently of what he believed was intestinal influenza and was advised today not to engage in his regular squash game. As he turned to squash game, he was overcome. He sat down for a moment, then fell forward. He died 15 minutes later.

Mr. Hupp lived in Birmingham. Surviving are his widow and two children: Marion and Robert C. Hupp, Jr.

Zamora Tells How Spain Expects To Operate Her New Government

Note: Spain, last of the Bourbon monarchies, will vote on her new republican constitution this week. An Alcala Zamora, who is expected to be the first president, tells in this specially written article just what sort of government Spanish statesmen have fashioned. He tells of the compromises effected to separate church from state, to gain votes for long-sheltered Spanish women, and to guard against too great power by president or parliament. He declares both private property and labor's rights have been protected.

Thus were formed compromises on views held by the parties represented in the assembly, which are so essentially different. This was noted in the discussion on electoral rights, in which the moderates proposed a minimum age of 23 years for male voters against the extreme left's idea on the subject. The latter advanced the feminine suffrage as a compromise with the right of the matter of age.

The spirit of compromise has been noteworthy throughout the debates on the constitution. On regional autonomies we have arrived at a special type of federalism. Those provinces desiring it may have it, and those who do not request it may continue as heretofore.

This was the result of the famous pact of San Sebastian—preliminary to the revolution—and

GARNER TAKES GAVEL; SENATE GOES TO GOP'S

HOOVER TO SUBMIT HIS MESSAGE TODAY

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The nation's new congress convened today in calm, quiet manner that belied under-surface tension and the strife-filled issues awaiting its consideration.

The house went into the hands of the Democrats. Joyful "rebel" yells greeted the smiling veteran of the party, Garner, of Texas, as he ascended the speaker's rostrum, last held by a Democrat 12 years ago.

Republicans clung to their finger-hold in the senate. It went through the brief routine of swearing in new members in a formal 35 minute session. Its organization problem was deferred. A dispute is impending on the reelection of George Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro-tem.

Faces Economic Issues
To this divided and politically hostile congress, President Hoover tomorrow will submit his legislative recommendations and a report on the state of the Union.

This seventy-second congress, which faces dominant economic issues, met with an unemployment demonstration on the capitol plaza. Representatives of the organized marchers were halted by the police at the doors of the senate chambers.

Assuming congressional authority for the first time in a dozen years, Democratic leaders are moving cautiously but unyieldingly. There will be no coalition. There will be politics, for it is the dawn of a presidential year. But on the vital steps for national business recovery there is promise of prompt, non-partisan action.

In keeping with the spirit of this congress elected a year ago in the depths of economic adversity, the membership went about its business today in informal attire, for the most part, and in sombre attitude.

Spectators thronged the galleries with women predominating. It was the house which "stole the show," and the roll call giving the Democrats the speaker-ship and the control there was greeted with applause and cheering.

As Garner took over the speaker's gavel last wielded by his close friend but political foe, the late Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, he wore a business suit of brown. He left his new formal, cutaway coat at home.

He was handed the gavel by the defeated Republican candidate, Snell of New York, with the latter's praise and prediction of a most successful reign. Then the house proceeded to install new Democratic officers up and down the line.

Things were more formal in the senate where Vice President Curtis, dressed in morning clothes, banged the opening gavel in his customary vigorous way. Only four members—all Democrats—were absent.

Swearing in of new members was interrupted momentarily by the tall, deliberate Shorridge, of California, who, as chairman of the elections committee, notified the senate of contests against Bankhead, of Alabama, and Bankhead.

FARM GROUPS HOLD MEETING

"Big" Three Plans Substitute for Board's Stabilization Work

BY R. H. HIPPELHEUSER Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The "Big Three" of organized agriculture, the American farm bureau, croppers and national farmers union, neared an agreement to-night on a plan to supplement stabilization operations on the federal farm board with the equalization fee and export debenture principles of grain surplus.

L. J. Taber, master of the grange, said under the present plan legislation to realize such a program would be offered in this session of congress.

Taber and John Simpson, of the farmers union, were guests of the farm bureau and conferred during the day with Edward A. O'Neal, its president.

The debenture plan has long been the protege of the grange; the farm bureau, in turn, has been the advocate of the equalization fee, while the farmers union has conquered in the fee plan with a proviso that the price of domestically consumed products meet the cost of production.

Always divergent in times past, this is the first time these farm organizations have been so near an accord on a surplus control measure.

The secretary of agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, messaged they would not be able to attend the farm bureau meeting. The farm board was represented, however, by Sam H. Thompson, grain member and president for many years of the farm bureau federation.

Taber said the "harmony program" of the "big three" would allow optional use by the farm board of either the fee or debenture plan and would eliminate future invoking of the emergency stabilization clause of the marketing act.

Under the fee plan, the cost of surplus control would rest upon the grower and this, President O'Neal of the farm bureau said, would "definitely take the government out of business."

GARNER TAKES GAVEL; SENATE GOES TO GOP'S

Moses Just Smiles The familiar figure of the white-vested "Tom" Hefir, who is contesting his defeat by Bankhead, was there, sitting again with his colleagues.

If there is any bitterness in the fight of the western Republican Independents against reelection as president pro tem of the man who called them the "sons of the wild jackass"—George Moses—it wasn't evident on the floor.

Smiling and genial, Moses greeted friend and foe alike. He would say nothing except that "like Will Rogers, all I know is what I read in the newspapers."

This Republican schism in the senate appeared in the house, too, where five members voted for Schneider, of Wisconsin, for speaker.

In contrast, Democrats are starting with united ranks. They established a record when every one of the 219 members of the house voted today on the opening roll call. Garner received the full 218 votes of his party for speaker. He voted present.

The appearance in the senate of its first woman member serving a regular term—Mrs. Caraway, of Arkansas—was delayed at the last minute. She preferred to await the formal recognition taken by the senate of the death of her senator husband, Thaddeus Caraway, before taking her place. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey appointed to succeed the late Senator Morrow, pursued a similar course. He was present but did not take the oath of office. Both Mrs. Caraway and Barbour will take office tomorrow.

Niles Attorney Faces Trial Today

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP)—His silence unbroken, Torney Bertram Dooling, young Niles attorney, will go on trial in circuit court here tomorrow, charged with slaying his 68-year-old uncle, Anthony J. Cannata, Niles apprentice.

Dooling has been held in the Berrien county jail since Cannata's death Nov. 5. Immediately after the fatal shooting Dooling gave himself up but has refused to discuss the matter other than to admit he fired the three shots which struck his uncle in the back.

At his arraignment on a charge of first degree murder Dooling pleaded not guilty. A subsequent one-man grand jury investigation was reported to have elicited testimony from Dooling's sister, Adolphine, that Dooling had shot Cannata because he resented the older man's advances to her.

Bucharest Court Rules Nicholas' Marriage Is Void

Vienna, Austria, Dec. 7 (AP)—The third session of the Bucharest supreme court formally declared to-night that the marriage of Prince Nicholas to Mme. Deletj was "non-existent," and therefore not recognizable, it was learned here.

The court's decision was interpreted as sidestepping the necessity of annulling the ceremony and as leaving a loophole by which King Carol can refrain from drastically punishing his brother without losing face.

Had the court recognized the existence of the marriage and then annulled it under paragraph 13 of the royal family statute, which decrees that no member may marry without the king's consent, Carol would have been forced to pronounce Nicholas' expulsion from the family.

This entails the loss of royal prerogatives and military and civil offices, denies the principal the right to live in the country or in any royal palace or castle, and forces him to assume a new name approved by the king.

Salesman Killed In Auto Accident

Wautoma, Wis., Dec. 7 (AP)—After escaping injury when his own automobile skidded near here yesterday, Martin J. Kik, salesman from Grand Rapids, Mich., was killed as a second car left the road on the same stretch of ice.

Kik's car, in which H. O. Uhlman of Detroit was riding as a passenger, hit a telephone pole, which broke into two pieces. The car's front end on Kik's car, while the upper—about 6 feet in length—was suspended from the wires.

Kik and Uhlman crawled out of the wreckage unhurt just as an automobile driven by Bernard Martin, who lives near here, came by. Martin's car skidded into a guy wire, and the top part of the broken pole fell on Kik's head, killing him instantly.

Father Who Stole Coal Not Jailed

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—A destitute father who had stolen 400 pounds of coal to "keep his family warm" was arraigned today before a judge who refused to pass sentence on him.

After the man, Rosario Velliri, explained why he had taken the coal, Judge Harry Joelson said: "My conscience will not permit me to convict this man."

"I think that a father who steals coal to keep his family warm is far better than a father who permits his family to go cold."

"I shall refer the case to the first district criminal court. If the higher court wishes to convict him, that is its business."

Mayor Walker On Way to New York

Los Angeles, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker left for New York this afternoon after spending two weeks in California, first pleading for a pardon for Tom Mooney, and then convalescing from a severe cold.

He was in better health as he left than when he came but Los Angeles physicians told him he should remain in a warm climate for at least ten days.

Frank P. Walsh and John A. Hastings, other counsel for Mooney, accompanied the mayor.

BLUEBEARD OF WEST VIRGINIA GOES ON TRIAL

ginnia calls its "bluebeard." Inside, Judge John C. Southern sat on a raised platform in the middle of the stage with the jury to one side of him, counsel tables slightly downstage and witnesses on the other side.

The glare of 200 "border" lights over head, lines of paper mache trees on each side of the stage, and a "backdrop" showing a typical small town street, with a church at the judge's back, supplied the setting for the living drama of life or death, and love.

Powers, a pudgy little man of 45 with horn-rimmed spectacles, was no longer the dashing Don Juan of the mountains that he pictured himself in letters he sent to scores of women in his nationwide "matrimonial correspondence" campaign.

Shows Little Interest. As he was led in by a detachment of state troopers, with handcuffs locking his wrists together, and sat for a few moments looking down into the sea of faces that peered up at him, he seemed like a mild-mannered store clerk at a theater performance which held little interest for him.

As soon as the formalities of opening the trial were over, Powers was allowed to sit, without handcuffs, beside Defense Attorney J. Ed Law. He sat for the rest of the day with his back to the audience.

The only time he exhibited any great interest in the proceedings was when the 25 defendants were being examined. He looked intently into the faces of each prospective juror, but when 12 farmers and small town business men had been selected to decide his fate, his interest seemed to lag.

Not even when his lawyers talked of "an attempt to mob the jail and lynch him" and of "some people saying hanging's too good for him" did Powers flinch.

Attorney Law made a motion for a change of venue on the ground the veniremen had indicated a strong feeling in the community against the defendant. That motion was denied, as well as another by Law to have jurors taken out of the custody of the sheriff, "because of the shameful way he and his deputies treated Powers."

Prosecutor Will E. Morris reviewed the case for 15 minutes.

Deputy Treasurer Will Take Office

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP)—Probability that a deputy county treasurer will be placed in the office of city treasurer to collect Lansing's share of county and state taxes was indicated today when Prosecutor John Wendell Bird handed down an opinion that the procedure would be legal.

Miss Nellie Tallmadge, city treasurer, has refused to collect the taxes following the refusal of the city to provide her with a bond as provided by law. Certain council members are unwilling to pay the $2,000 premium required for the bond.

Paternity of Young Heir Being Sought

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP)—An investigation of the paternity of Howard Miller, young grocery clerk, was under way here today as the body of Miss Rachel Arvilla Parker, whose death left him heir to $100,000, was exhumed.

Miller, who claimed to be a nephew of the 81-year-old woman, was arrested Saturday after four months investigation of her death in St. Petersburg, Fla., in January, 1931, and of the death two months previous of her nephew, Charles Hazard, named as co-heir with Miller in her will.

Prosecutor Paul Tedrow said that examination of the exhumed body of Hazard, whose death left Miller sole heir, had shown evidence of poison. The vital organs of Miss Parker were sent to Ann Arbor today for a similar examination.

HIGH FASCIST OFFICER QUILTS

Giovanni Giurati Resigns As Secretary as Sacrifice to Vatican

Rome, Dec. 7 (AP)—Offered up as a sacrifice on the altar of church and state amity, Giovanni Giurati resigned today as secretary of the Fascist party.

He will transfer his authority as the second most powerful figure in the blackshirt movement to Achille Starace, vice secretary of the party, in a brief ceremony at the Venezia palace tomorrow noon.

An official announcement praised S'gnor Giurati for his labors in "purifying" the party and stated he was permitted to resign only after great insistence on his part.

The head of the government, while regretting Giurati's resignation, accepts it. "The communique said.

Yet, it was recalled that when Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius XI reached an accord in September on the Catholic Action controversy each demanded and agreed to the sacrifice of the most active disputant on each side.

Father Enrico Rosa was removed as head of the Catholic's Publishing House and the resignation of S'gnor Giurati was predicted.

The Fascist secretary had caused an open breach between the government and the Vatican by an address in which he accused Catholic Action of trespassing in political fields. The pope sharply criticized his remarks and also held him responsible for the sacking of Catholic clubs in Rome.

The resignation would have been given out earlier, it was believed, but was postponed in order that it might not appear to be a definite surrender to the papal request and also to see how the September agreement would work out.

Made First Abstract Mr. McColl held that office from 1887 until 1892. In the meantime he had made a set of abstracts and on September 24, 1889, organized the Delta Abstract company. On January 24, 1912, the Delta Title, Laid and Loan company was formed and he transferred his abstract business to the new company. The firm dissolved in September, 1929, when he again went into abstract business under the name of Delta Abstract company with offices at 701 Ludington street, which he conducted until the time of his death.

When this city had the alderman form of government Mr. McColl was alderman for the second ward.

He was married to Miss Edith Wilson at Fayette on April 10, 1878. They reared a family of five daughters.

Mr. McColl is survived by his widow, four daughters, Mrs. P. S. Clark, of Wells, the Misses Mary Grace and Maude McColl at home, two grand daughters, Betty Babcock, who makes her home with the family, daughter of the late Jean McColl Babcock who passed away two years ago, and Mary Louise Clark of Wells.

Two nephews and one niece Dr. A. S. Kitchen and Dr. C. J. B. Kitchen and Miss Elsie Kitchen of this city also survive.

The body will be removed from the Allo Funeral Home to the family residence some time today. The services will probably be held Thursday afternoon. Delicious arrangements will be announced later.

Banking Experts Meeting at Basel

Basel, Dec. 7 (AP)—The world bank committee to study the reparations problem raised by the German economic crisis met and organized today with one eye on the opening of the United States congress.

The banking experts who make up the committee were greatly interested in what congress will do in regard to the Hoover moratorium.

They expected the one-year debt holiday to be ratified, but they recognized that a defeat for the moratorium in congress would change their entire proceedings.

After Walter W. Stewart, American member of the committee, refused to serve as chairman, Alberto Beneduce, of Italy, was elected to the post. Mr. Stewart's refusal was interpreted as an indication that Washington wishes to remain aloof.

Ritchie Slogan Stirs Trade Board

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—A voice rising from the floor of the Chicago board of trade today may have given the United States the latest thing in presidential campaign slogans.

"Get rich with Ritchie" rang out in the midst of an unusual ovation being accorded Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland when he and his party of notables were introduced from the gallery.

Almost complete suspension of trading for three or four minutes, in itself rare, marked the governor's visit, and the uproar that followed utterance of the spontaneous slogan was notable.

ZAMORA TELLS OF NEW GOV'T BEING PLANNED

of friendly discussions that J. as head of the government, held with the regionalists. The subject is left for the approval of all the parties.

On the religious problem, while full accord was impossible, I am glad to say that the idea of a closed mind did not prevail. The separation of church and state was hardly objected to in the assembly. Neither was there objection to the provision for a concordat.

The elimination of salaries to the clergy was agreed after a compromise which leaves the church two years for its reorganization so that it may provide emoluments of the priests.

The clause of prohibiting religious orders to engage in teaching or industries may be able to survive, perhaps with just one exception, although it may cause the imposition of severe precautions. Another compromise was the permission to celebrate religious activities outside the churches.

It was impossible to come to a compromise on the matter of whether there should be a bicameral or unicameral government. The majority of delegates rejected the bicameral ideas, but as the parties insisted upon two houses, an attempt was made to bring to life the old senate under a new name—the council. The attempt, however, was unsuccessful, the measure being defeated by nine votes.

The problem now awaits some experimentation. The lack of an upper house offers an opportunity for serious thought and it brings a new problem—that of combining the powers of the government. The new regime has been approved so that it may be neither typically "presidentialist" nor parliamentarian, and medium formulas will be part of our experiment.

With the deputies in parliament will gather an equal number of delegates of the people to elect the second and subsequent presidents of the republic, since the first is to be designated by the constitutional cortes.

Among the most interesting powers of the president are those of veto and dissolution which may be exercised only twice. These prerogatives the president may exercise in disputes with the cortes, but the cortes on the other hand is empowered to impeach the president and even to throw him out of office with due process by a consenting quorum.

The level-headedness and vision of the Spanish people already have been proved. In the revolution the people gave the whole world an example of their love for peace. This has been shown again and again in our long history of compromises, and in the peaceful solution of our problems.

The people have reached a degree of culture that permits them to put into practice the most Democratic of constitutions.

The social phases of the constitution should not inspire any fear, as it is respectful towards private property and it opens an ample horizon of pacific evolution for the morrow with its resolute protection to labor and with its return of crown properties to the state.

Good will should produce its fruit for the welfare of the country which weighed so heavily on the history of civilization of the world and which now, in its rebirth, has increased in its constitution principles of the most generous international fraternity.

10 ARE KILLED IN PERU RIOTING

10 Wounded as Citizens and Police Engage in Warfare

Lima, Peru, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Trujillo dispatch to El Comercio said 10 persons were killed and 13 wounded today in fighting between citizens and police at Paljan on the eve of President-elect Lu's M. Sanchez Cerro's inauguration.

Most of the dead and wounded, the dispatch said, were members of the Aprista party, which supported Victor Haya De La Torre in the presidential campaign. A strike which began on nearby sugar estates had spread to Trujillo, stronghold of the Aprista faction, it was added.

Colonel Sanchez Cerro will be inaugurated as constitutional president of Peru at noon tomorrow, when he takes the oath of office and is decorated by the presiding officer of the assembly with the red and white sash which is the presidential insignia.

It will be a triumphant return to power, for he resigned under pressure nine months ago as head of the junta that overthrew former President Leguia in 1930 and for a time was in exile.

Hailed as the man that overthrew the "dozen years dictatorship" of President Leguia, he was accused of trying to elect himself president and forced out as provisional president by the navy and a revolt of several military garrisons.

His new regime will come into power with the leftist parties determined to oppose his administration in congress.

His cabinet, which was announced tonight, will be headed by Dr. German Arenas as president of the council and minister of public works, railways and health.

quite home, sent to Garner by west Texas friends, and said: "It is indeed a pleasure to have this opportunity to present to you the new elected speaker of the 72nd congress. The gentleman from Texas, by native ability, by outstanding personality, by long service and complete understanding of the duties and responsibilities of speaker, is except on all well qualified to fill that position and I predict he will make one of the greatest speakers of the present generation. I congratulate him on having reached the goal of his ambition and wish him every success in his work."

Upon receiving the gavel from Snell, Garner said: "I am deeply grateful and sincerely appreciate the confidence that you have expressed in me."

"I am not unmindful of the responsibilities and with the cooperation of those who have expressed confidence in me—and I expect and hope also of the entire membership of the house—I hope to perform the duties of the office acceptably to all."

Representative Pou of North Carolina, dean of the Democrats with more than 32 years in the house, administered the oath of office to Garner. The speaker then administered the oath to the membership.

Meanwhile, the controversy over the Republican leadership was settled.

MARCHERS AT WASHINGTON DO NOT SEE HOOVER

lance were parked prominently in the broad plaza in front of the capitol.

Responding readily to the commands of the leaders, the marchers swung into a semi-circle at the east end of the plaza. They chanted, they cheered; they sang and the band played incessantly but the demonstrators kept in line as their spokesmen negotiated with uniformed men guarding the entrances to the capitol.

Benjamin renewed his request that he be allowed to present his demands on the senate floor. A committee was behind him and after the firm refusal of the police a bit of jostling began.

The police jostled back lustily and order was quickly restored. Benjamin dashed back and selected a committee of three, including one negro, Isaac Hawkins, a Pennsylvania coal miner, to try to get through again.

March to Capitol They had no better luck and after a lusty lunged leader had shouted the news of failure through a megaphone preparations began for the march to the White House. Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, criticized the display of force by the police and Senator King, Democrat, Utah, offered to take their petitions to present to the senate.

He was rebuffed, one marcher inquiring, "who in the hell are you?" and the trek down Capitol Hill started.

The band led the way again and placards calling for relief were displayed. The police went slow and double rows of spectators watched from the curb.

The parley at the White House was brief and to the point. Richard L. Jervis, chief of the White House secret service, told Benjamin and other leaders they could not present their petitions to Mr. Hoover. He offered, however, to take the petition for presentation to the president.

Benjamin conferred with his lieutenants as the band played the "Internationale" once more. Then he announced he would not give Jervis the petition.

WISCONSIN PREPARED

SALESMEN and other motorists, undoubtedly, will have less cause for complaint concerning the condition of Wisconsin's highways following snowstorms this winter.

For several winters past, Wisconsin and northern Michigan's roads have been objects of marked contrast. It was quite difficult for the traveling man to figure why the Badger state should have snow-choked roads, while to the northward in the upper peninsula, where one would naturally expect a greater snowfall, the highways have been kept open for traffic all winter.

The reason was the difference in road maintenance systems of the two states, Wisconsin being on the county system, while in the northern peninsula the responsibility of snow removal rests with the state highway department.

As the Milwaukee Journal explains, the cost of snow removal in Wisconsin will come out of funds contributed by those who use the highways, paid in the form of gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees, instead of having to be supplied by counties out of general property taxes.

This change, it is pointed out, should be a decided improvement over the old system, under which some counties appropriated money and provided machinery and others did not. The result was that an important road would be opened in one county but would be left snowbound in the next.

The upper peninsula should benefit from Wisconsin's new winter maintenance system, since it will remove the snow barrier, to the south of us, which oftentimes has slowed up communications and hindered business activity. Motorists may now start out on a trip between Chicago and the upper peninsula with more assurance that they will arrive at their destination without difficulty.

THE VALUE OF U. P. HISTORY

CITING the fact that thousands of Americans go to Europe annually to visit its relics and places of historical interest, George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, points out in an article, appearing in the current issue of the Bureau News, that the upper peninsula also has a splendid opportunity to capitalize on its past events.

"Only a few sections in America can trace their history farther back than Michigan's, and especially northern Michigan's," Mr. Bishop writes. "The great Northwest had its beginnings here. Everywhere on goes there are reminders of Indian occupancy, Indian fights, Indian treaties. On all sides are the evidences of early French trappers, traders and missionaries, and the subsequent British domination—all linked with many events of historical importance that have taken place largely on Great Lakes and river shores in both peninsulas."

Mr. Bishop praises the efforts of the Daughters of American Revolution, chambers of commerce, historical societies and other civic organizations in the marking of historic places, and points out that there still remains much work of this kind to do. He believes that the upper peninsula could adopt a unified program of this kind with profit. It will serve to attract more tourists for such a program will supplement in a very effective way the appeal of the development bureau and local organization literature.

In another part of the Bureau's publication appears a list of historical monuments that have been erected in the various counties of the upper peninsula.

Delta county is credited with only two memorials. One is a red granite monument in Ludington park, dedicated in May, 1924, under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps to the memory of veterans of the various wars. The other is the marker placed last summer in Pioneer Trail Park by the Lewis Cass chapter of the D. A. R. to mark the old missionary trail.

Surely, Delta county has many other places of historical interest. The good work that has been started by these two women's organizations should be encouraged.

EDWARD HINES

MANY local people recall Edward Hines, leading lumberman of the United States, who passed away at his home in Chicago this week. At one time he had large operations in this locality and for years purchased the cut of the mills of the late United States Senator Stephenson. He frequently visited Marinette during that period. His rise to preminence in the lumber business of the nation was according to the best American traditions.

He began his career as a grocer's clerk. He then became office boy for the S. K. Martin Lumber Co. and at 21 was made its secretary and treasurer. At 22, he became head of the Edward Hines Lumber Co. which acquired timber and lumber interests in many parts of the country and became one of the largest corporations of its kind. It was the genius of Mr. Hines that was responsible for its remarkable growth. He was a wealthy man with a heart and his benefactions were numerous and generous. The most notable was the $3,000,000 Edward Hines Veterans hospital near Chicago, built in honor of his son, who died overseas.

Also Mr. Hines contributed $500,000 for the erection of St. Mary's of the Lake Chapel at Mundelein, Ill. He gave to the School of Forestry at Yale University, the new Medical School of the University of Chicago, and donations to numerous other charitable and welfare organizations.

He had a dynamic personality, was a great worker and the results he achieved made him a notable figure in lumber and financial circles. A humble beginning, lack of education and capital and anything but robust health only served to stimulate his ambition. Instead of handicaps they spurred him on and his indomitable spirit triumphed over them all. His success had all the elements that should be an inspiration to young America. No boy can view the career of Mr. Hines and say to himself that because he has no advantages that it is impossible to succeed. Without anything but his brains and determination to succeed, Mr. Hines became one of the big business men of America.—Marinette Eagle-Star.

JERUSALEM CAPTURED On Dec. 5, 1917 Jerusalem surrendered to General Allenby and the British forces.

Jerusalem's capture was the seventh fall of the Holy City before besiegers since its stormy history began more than 3000 years ago.

Welsh and home country troops advanced from the direction of Bethlehem, drove back the enemy and, passing Jerusalem on the east, established themselves on the Jerusalem-Jericho road. At the same time London infantry and dismounted yeomanry attacked the strong enemy positions west and northwest of Jerusalem and placed themselves in the Jerusalem-Shechem road.

Isolated, the Holy City surrendered to General Allenby, British, French and Mohammedans safeguarded the holy places. General Allenby had begun his offensive in Palestine with the capture of Jerusalem as his objective with the taking of the city of Beersheba on Oct. 31, 1917.

GEMS OF PERIL

(By NEA Service) By Hazel Ross Hatter

CHAPTER XLVII THEY were sitting on the edge of Mary's bed, arms about each other, grinning foolishly but happily at each other. Not all the dampness that glistened on their cheeks was caused by the rain. Mary found that sometimes it was harder to bear happiness than its absence.

She plucked an infinitesimal handkerchief out of her pajama pocket and blew her nose vigorously. "Snappy?" Dirk asked gently. "Terribly happy!" "It's been a long time!" It was their old joke, but instead of laughing they were suddenly more serious than they had ever been with each other. Quietly, breathlessly, they kissed and clung as if they would never let go.

"Oh, why were you so cruel!" Mary asked when she could manage to speak. "It was awful—I thought I couldn't live, and bear it, for you to think those things of me!" Dirk put his hand over his mouth. "Don't," he begged, "I was just a jealous fool, that's all! I never dreamed you could be right about that other terrible thing—a little sweet red-head like you." He nuzzled her hair gently with his big hand. "You were right, though! I want you to know it. I'm eating humble pie, honey, and liking it!"

"No, you mustn't!" They both laughed at this feminine inconsistency, and then began to consider getting the invalid downstairs again. When this had been accomplished, with one of Dirk's arms about Mary's shoulder and the other about Bates, they still found themselves loath to part.

"I've got to be the papa here and look after you two brats," Bates declared. "Mary, get along to your room or I'll use the old slipper!" "But I couldn't sleep!" "Lie there and count sheep then. You don't want to be asleep tomorrow when we bring back The Fly, do you?" "You're going over?"

"At sun-up." "But—he may shoot you!" "Well take the chance. If he comes along peacefully. That's a horrible hole he's taken refuge in. I doubt if there's a drop of fresh water. If the sun comes up hot again tomorrow he'll know what hell is."

"Where did he get the gun—the chloroform?" "The gun was his own. I got it back from the Ambassador's house detective who took it from him, and have been keeping it in my room till lately. But I've got my own, and yesterday I persuaded Mr. Jupiter he ought to keep one handy. He had it lying on his table, but some time yesterday it disappeared. The door was locked. Either De Loma had a skeleton key—or he snatched it through the open porthole. It could be done easy enough, with a bent wire.

"Anyway, Bruce has got a .38 slug in him, and the gun in question was a .38, so it's reasonable to suppose it's his own gun. De Loma stole." "But the chloroform? And where did Bruce get his gun? I didn't know he had one." "Neither did I. I must take a look at it. The chloroform came out of the captain's medicine chest." When the lovers had finally parted, Bates took Mary to her room. He confided that the radio had responded to Captain Hendricks' attentions, and that he had gotten through to Key West at last. A tug with a doctor aboard was speeding to their aid and should arrive before noon.

"I haven't seen Louise about. She couldn't have been very anxious about Bruce or she would have stayed with him, wouldn't she?" "She's standing over by the port rail, staring at the prison," Bates said. "She started crying, wanting to know if he was dead, and I told her no, he'd recover. I thought she meant Bruce. She said it was De Loma she meant."

At almost the same moment the quiet voice of the sailor on watch reported the smoke of the approaching tug on the western horizon. It must be the tug he was signalling, unaware that it was speeding to the aid of the "Gypsy." The plume of smoke grew rapidly.

It was like being the audience at a two-ring circus. The excited ones on board the yacht turned their glasses first on De Loma, then on the tug. Suddenly a cry went up from several throats at once—"He's gone! My God, he's fallen!"

Those who were watching at the precise moment of the accident were divided in their stories of what had happened. Bates stoutly maintained that the man's foot had slipped; he had clung a moment trying to save himself, and dropped, unable to cling to the slippery stone. He also maintained, somewhat loudly, that the man was certainly dead. Something that might be his body lay at the foot of the gray walls on the rocks, half in and half out of the sea.

Captain Hendricks advanced the idea that, hopeless of attracting the tug's attention, De Loma had deliberately jumped. "He knew what was ahead of him in the way of thirst—he's no stranger to this part of the country," the captain surmised.

Only one stood silent, tearless, offering no suggestion whatever, Louise. Slowly she put up her hands before her face, and stood with bent head. Mary, her hand fast in Dirk's as he sat beside her in a deck chair, looked away from the sight of the other woman's grief. It came to her how she would feel if he had been Dirk. Half an hour later the tug had come as close as possible to the stranded yacht and stopped just off the reef in the free channel. A small boat was lowered and a doctor sent over. While the medical man was with Bruce, Bates and a strong-armed sailor lad were dispatched in the tug's dory to bring back The Fly, alive or dead.

They rowed the half mile to Fort Jefferson and soon returned with the crumpled body of The Fly in the body of the boat. Mary shrank away from the sight, and the sound of Bates' cheerful voice sickened her, as he belloved up to his employer, grim and white-faced, leaning over the rail:

"Here she is, sir!" He held up the ruby necklace, gleaming like drops of heart's blood in the early morning sun. Mr. Jupiter nodded, but there was no triumph or even pleasure in his face. "Does he live?" he asked in a low voice as De Loma was carried up the deck and laid on the bed in his room.

Bates nodded. "Crazy in the head," he said softly. "Keeps talking about the sun getting in his eyes. What does he mean by that? The sun wasn't up till just a little while ago."

The doctor came out of Bruce's cabin, and greeted the assemblage with the false cheerfulness of those who are not directly concerned in a tragedy. "Your son will live," he told Mr. Jupiter, "but he must be gotten to a hospital immediately. This heat... something might happen to the wound."

Mr. Jupiter looked like a man reprieved from death. "Here, here," he said, "Here's another job for you," and led the surprised doctor to De Loma's stateroom. This time the medical man did not even pretend with them. "The man's all broken to pieces inside," he said. "He's got a bullet wound besides. My God, what happened to him? If he has any people, call them. He's likely to go at any minute."

But it was not Louise who was called first. Bates, unrolling a white-lipped Mary with pad and pencil in hand to take down the dying man's words, was given a little time alone with him first. Half an hour later they came out. Mary was white and shaking, and Dirk, seated just outside, drew her down to him and put a strong arm about her just in time to prevent her collapsing.

"He did it!" she sobbed. "He killed them both!" "He made Eddie telephone me and say he was coming over, then he put on Eddie's coat and came in his place. Eddie was locked in, with the other man guarding him, but he got away. That was when he called you, and he hid somewhere. They looked for him in the car, but didn't see him until just as he was crossing the street to meet me."

Dirk patted her shoulder reassuringly. Mr. Jupiter jerked about abruptly and walked to the rail, dropping his head in his hands. "When she was quieter, Mary lifted her head and asked bashfully: "Do you think Eddie knows that we know he didn't do it? I hope so! For, God forgive me, I've never been really sure until now!" She buried her head again for a moment and this time it was the dry, hard sob of shame that shook her. "I'm a liar and a cheat. It wasn't the world I was proving Eddie's innocence to—it was myself! All the time I was blaming you, I was as bad as you were!"

Dirk held her hands tightly and said, "Listen, you've forgiven me a lot of stupidity because you love me. Don't you think Eddie might do the same for you?" Presently she dropped her head and kissed him. Love and gratitude were both in her kiss. (To Be Continued)

'Looking Backward'

December 8, 1911

Ray B. Hill, the crack indoor pitcher, is expected to return to this city from Nahua on Monday and will join the city team to greatly strengthen the aggregation.

While walking on Ludington street yesterday, Pierce O'Meara, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Meara, was bitten by a savage dog. The boy was taken to the office of Dr. John O. Groos, where the wound was cauterized and no ill effects are expected to follow.

Among the farmers from Ford River Switch, who went to the grist mill at Bark River yesterday were Stephen Posenke, Chas. Dittrich, Peter Blake, and Fred Derouin.

Miss Josephine Loeffler entertained the members of the N. R. Club at her home last night.

Miss Emily Edwards has arrived from Fond Du Lac to make her home here.

H. O. Brotherton and C. R. Henderson have returned from a deer hunting trip on the Whitefish Branch of the C. & N. W. Railway.

Harold L. Mead, an Escanaba student at the dental department at the University of Michigan, has successfully passed the examination imposed by the state board of dental examiners and with a short time is to receive his diploma from the university.

KIWANIS HAS FINE PROGRAM

Vocational Guidance Is Theme of Talk and Playlet

Interesting entertainment and business programs were presented at the regular meeting of the Escanaba-Wells Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel yesterday noon.

Vocational guidance was the central theme of the entertainment program, with Clarence Zerbel, principal of the junior high school, delivering a talk and a group of students presenting a play, which depicted the value of vocational guidance.

Members of the cast in the play, which depicted the value of vocational guidance, were Robert Anderson, Allan Beck, Clayton Butler, Robert Hutte, Bertha Sautt and Helen Schram. It was directed by Miss Catherine Ryan of the junior high school faculty staff.

Vocational guidance work was adopted as a definite program in the junior high school this year, Mr. Zerbel explained. Committees are appointed among the students to make a survey of various occupations and professions to determine whether the field is crowded, what the opportunities are for advancement, the scale of compensation, educational preparation required, and the other characteristics of each career. The objective of the studies is to guide the student in the selection of a vocation, to which he is suited.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Suffered Bad Cramps
Agony every month! Splitting headache... bad backache... those terrible cramps. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieves this unnatural suffering.

The Kiwanis club decided at yesterday's meeting to carry its usual Christmas program, which consists of the distribution of clothing and toys to the poor children of the city. A committee, composed of Hubert Shepeck, chairman, R. W. Haddock and J. E. Bartella, was appointed to direct this project.

Plans were also made for staging the high school faculty play at the junior high school Jan. 15 and 16, proceeds of which will be used to help finance the feeding of indigent children in the schools. The following committees were named to have charge of the arrangements: tickets, William Warmington, E. G. Bennett and A. H. Cyr; publicity, W. J. Duchaine and George McEwen; and ushering, R. E. Cheney and Ernest Petersen.

Short Illness Fatal To Joseph Hutte, 56

Joseph Hutte, 56, formerly of Watermead, Mich., died Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of his stepfather, Henry Lequia, 309 South 19th street, following an illness of one week due to gall bladder trouble.

Mr. Hutte had lived in Watermead for 15 years until some time ago when he came to this city to remain at the family home. He is survived by his stepfather, Henry Lequia, Escanaba, one sister, Mrs. Nell Flaght of Bennett, Wis., four brothers, Mike, and Albert Hutte, of this city, George Hutte, of Kiva, Mich., and Israel Hutte of Montreal, Canada, one half-sister, Mrs. Charles Campbell of this city, formerly Miss Cecelia Lequia, and one half-brother, Philip Lequia of Montreal.

The body was prepared for burial at the Ailo funeral home and will be removed to the family home this afternoon at four o'clock where it will remain until Wednesday morning at nine o'clock when funeral services will be held at St. Anne's church with Rt. Rev. Mgr. Jacques as the celebrant at the requiem high mass. Interment will be in the family lot in St. Anne's cemetery where his mother, the late Mrs. Henry Lequia, was buried three years ago last May.

Men of 72nd Congress

By Rodney Dutcher

GEORGE WILLIAM NORRIS of Nebraska

Leader of the Senate insurgents. One of this session's most powerful figures. . . . Nominally independent and a thorn among hairs in Hoover's hair shirt. . . . Primary characteristics: Honesty, courage, persistence, oratorical ability, simplicity, witfulness. . . . Age 70. . . . Famous as foe of the "power trust" and savior of Muscle Shoals from Henry Ford and others. . . . Chairmanship of Judiciary Committee gives him chance to guide much legislation. . . . Led every major anti-administration fight in last Congress and probably will do so again. . . . Inhorred "Uncle Joe" Carnon in the House many years ago. Only remaining senator who opposed American entry into the World War of the bitter end. . . . Pet measures: Government operation of Muscle Shoals, Lane Duck amendment, anti-injunction bill, farm and employment relief. . . . Campaigner for a Democrat against Boss Vare in Pennsylvania's 1926 senatorial election, subsequently led successful movement to oust Vare from Senate, bolted Hoover for Al Smith in 1928. Tried to decline to run for re-election in 1924 but a secretary tore up the telegram. Re-elected in 1930 by thumping ma-

Majority despite secret plot engineered by Director Lucas of Republican National Committee to beat him. . . . Likes to compose funny, sarcastic parodies for recitation on the floor. . . . Hates the "social lobby," dresses unobtrusively, never "attends" anything and hasn't seen his dress suit for years. . . . Lives with Mrs. Ella Norris and his books in small apartment in a big apartment house.

NEXT: Smoot, "watchdog of the treasury."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT
Today is the date set by Manager Jacobs of the Delft Theatre for the opening of "Blonde Crazy," the Warner Bros. production featuring James Cagney and Joan Blondell.

These two snappy young folks were together in their last stage venture, and also in their first screen appearance, "Sinners' Holiday." "Blonde Crazy" is the first picture to co-feature them. . . . As bellhop and linen girl in a big city hotel the merry duo go into the business of humbugging hamburgers, with a speed and enthusiasm, which makes the film one of the most entertaining of the season.

Young Cagney's starward flight has been sure and swift. His work in "The Public Enemy"—which was written by Kubec Glasmon and John Bright, who also wrote "Blonde Crazy"—made him favorably known wherever pictures are shown. His part in the coming film is a marked departure from the gangster type—a wisecracking kid, out to get quick money from the folks whose business is making quick money.

Joan Blondell is delightfully roughneck in her role as partner to the high-stepping bellhop. Others in the cast are Louis Calhern, Noel Francis, Guy Kibbee, Raymond Milland, Polly Walters, Charles Levinson, William Burress, Peter Erkelenz, Maude Eburne, Walter Percival, Nat Pendleton and over one thousand extras. Roy Del Ruth directed.

PARK PROJECT NOT ADOPTED

Little Chance to Help Unemployed, City Officials Decide

Proposed improvement of Ludington park, including the enlarging of the playground area, construction of a yacht harbor and the bettering of conditions at the bathing beach, is not feasible as a project to relieve the unemployment situation in Escanaba this winter, it was decided at a joint meeting of the city council and park board yesterday afternoon.

Members of the two civic bodies, however, expressed themselves as convinced of the need of the park improvement project, eventually, and decided to obtain engineering advice as to the proper plan to adopt.

Little of this type of work can be done economically during the winter, City Manager T. F. Kessler explained. Most of the work, too, would have to be done with machinery, there being little opportunity offered for the employment of hand labor.

It is very probable, however, that as a result of yesterday's conference something definite will be started next spring or summer in the way of improving Ludington park. The large area on the western end of the park, formed by the recession of the water, could be filled in to make an attractive and spacious playground, the city officials believe. Some additional playground space has been made this year by filling in the vicinity of the lighthouse, at comparatively slight cost to the city. The need for improving conditions at the bathing beach is also recognized.

With street improvement work about completed, the city is faced with the serious problem of providing jobs for its unemployed. An earnest effort is being made by the city officials to launch projects, which will relieve unemployment and at the same time make needed public improvements.

GARDEN NEWS

Garden.—Two minor automobile accidents happened a little distance north of town Wednesday afternoon. An Escanaba man driving into town left the highway and into the ditch. Neither the driver nor the car was badly injured but the services of a wrecking car were required to pull the car onto the highway again. Just about the same time, almost to a minute, and within just a little distance of this accident, a Fayette man ran into a horse near the Louis Farley farm at Kate's Bay. It was injured so badly that it was found necessary to shoot it. This was done by Mr. Farley. The animal, which was a sound seven year old mare, was owned by Bob Gould of Kate's Bay, a young farmer who not long since moved onto the Healy farm. Mr. Gould had a nicely matched team upon which he has depended for doing his farm work and he keenly feels the loss of what to him, in his need, was a very valuable farm animal. It is not expected that he will get any compensation for his loss. The automobile which struck the horse was only slightly damaged.

The Women's Guild of the Garden Congregational church held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emma Johnson.

A number of Garden residents attended the funeral of the late Mabel Morrison, held at Isabella last Wednesday afternoon. Deceased's father, is widely known and respected throughout the Garden Peninsula.

Indications are that there will be very little demand for stove wood generally furnished by out of town farmers to residents in the village. Almost every household has felt the pinch during recent months. Money is scarce and almost every able bodied man prefers to go out into the nearby woods and cut his own supply and haul it into town.

An old horse which had done service for many years for Robert Watchorn of Fayette, fell into an abandoned well on the Jesse Greene farm Thursday. It was dead when found a little while afterward.

Garden Bay was frozen over Saturday morning for the first

Postal Sidelights Given Rotary Club

By George Geniesse

Postmaster George G. Geniesse delivered a most interesting address before members of the Escanaba Rotary club at the regular weekly meeting of that club in the Delta hotel Monday. Mr. Geniesse's address was based chiefly upon the services performed by the Escanaba postoffice for its patrons, and in the course of his talk he brought out a great fund of interesting information. The postmaster drew aside the curtain and allowed his audience to follow a day's routine of work at the postoffice, in which mail of every class was received and dispatched, and information was given his hearers as to the various classes of postage.

Every portion of the address was highly instructive and closely held the attention of the club members.

Lock Automobiles And Avoid Theft, Advice of Police

Because of the prevalent practice of "borrowing" automobiles and then abandoning them in some out-of-the-way place, the Escanaba police department is advising motorists to be sure their cars are locked when they leave them parked on the street for any length of time.

Three more automobiles were reported stolen over the last week-end. All were recovered by police within the city limits, but one of the machines was damaged, and all of the owners suffered inconvenience and worry as a result of the thefts. The risk of losing a car, even temporarily, will be removed if owners take the precaution of locking their doors when they leave the cars alone.

Owners who recently reported stolen automobiles which were later recovered were: Alvin Nygaard, 1013 North Sixteenth; A. F. Aley, 1012 Seventh avenue south, and F. O. Beck, 428 South Seventeenth street.

Patients who are improving include John Grason of Wells, J. E. Carlson, Hilding Nelson, Edward Peterson, Elias Larson, Albert Seifried, Algot Nelson, Mrs. Ales Madala, Mrs. Jack Dennis of Iron Mountain, Margaret Kandel of Manistique, Mrs. Charles Herrie of Enslin, Fred Vitke of Rapid River and Mrs. Richard Heric of Gladstone.

John Oliver, 330 South Fourteenth street, had his tonsils removed.

Mrs. Robert Strokes of Wells was admitted as a medical patient.

Patients who have been dismissed are Lorraine Norden, Mrs. Wilbur Nelson, Ewald Kahl, Harvey Parisian, Charles Brenstrom, Roger Archambault, Mrs. Perry Wilson and baby, Mrs. Henry Micheau, Mrs. Wm. LaCrosse, Leonard Chaukline, Gunnard Smith and Mrs. Henry Luncard.

Smart SHOPPING

"How good is it?"
That's it!

ABOUT anything and everything they buy, smart shoppers like to ask one question—"How good is it?"

Chesterfield welcomes smokers who buy their cigarettes that way.

OUR tobacco buyers are smart shoppers, too. They "shop" for the ripest, mildest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows. And they won't take anything else.

"How good" are Chesterfields? Well, consider their blending.

Blended and cross-blended... not merely mixed together. Blended first by crops and countries... then cross-blended again and again... to produce a flavor and aroma that are Chesterfield's alone.

That's how we get that better taste... that's why Chesterfields are milder. Even the paper they're rolled in is the whitest, cleanest and purest that money can buy.

And the package... clean, bright, fresh-looking... see how easily it opens, yet how tightly it's sealed.

OPEN a package. Note the aroma... delicious foretaste of pleasure ahead.

Now—pull out a Chesterfield... round, firm, well-filled.

"HOW good is it?" Light up... then you tell us!

Milder? Right! Taste better? You bet they do! They're pure, too—and they certainly do satisfy!

Good... they've got to be good! There's value here. We know, because we put it in... and you'll smoke it out with every one you light.

"Sure I shop for cigarettes—Chesterfields satisfy me"

Delegates Back From Students Press Meeting

Delegates of St. Joseph's high school to the National Student Press association convention, Alta Brotherton, Catherine Morin, Eleanor Bolger, Jane McDonnell, Wallace Wilson, Ray Roy and Robert Sullivan, and their leader, Sister Clementia, of the Notre Dame Sisters, members of the high school faculty, returned Monday morning from Chicago where they attended the sessions of the convention.

The meeting, attended by delegates from schools in all parts of the country, was unusually interesting. General assembly and round table meetings were held, an exhibition of student publications among which was the St. Joseph year book, sight-seeing trips about the city, and a dinner dance were included in the program.

The delegates stopped at Milwaukee and were guests of Mount Mary college, returning to Escanaba Monday morning.

Trailing Trains And Jewels Mark Formal Fashion

Paris, (AP)—The "Grande Dame" is back in fashion for formal affairs after 9 o'clock. Sleeved frocks and chic simplicity may be the order of the evening for theater and restaurant wear, but gleaming jewels and rich trailing gowns are the fashionable Parisian's choice for the opera and formal dinner.

Velvet and Brocade Trains trailing up the grand staircase of the Paris Opera these evening gowns of pearls, diamonds and emeralds gleam in the light of the crystal chandeliers and supple ermine and sables are draped over the backs of seats in the boxes.

Decolletes of these formal gowns are low, cut in a V or U which dips to the waistline in back, or fashioned in the drop shoulder effect favored by the Empress Eugenie.

Shoulder straps gleam with jeweled bands, while decolletes and armholes are often accented with ruffles of flowers or tightly curled ostrich feathers.

Women whose figures are their fortunes choose gowns molded to waist and hips, sweeping into long trains, while others favor the new bustle effect with soft bows, looped drapes or overlapping ruffles massed over the hips in back.

Black and white are favorite colors. Pearl pink, aquamarine blue and ruby red are next in popularity, while unusual combinations, such as garnet and turquoise, bottle green and forget-me-not blue, are making bids for favor.

Christmas Seal Means Saving of Lives Each Year

Lausleg, Dec. 7. (Special)—How a few pennies, spent for tuberculosis Christmas seals by thousands of Michigan folks, can bring new life and a change of fortune to whole Michigan families is told in a typical case record taken from the files of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Through the work of a single free chest clinic, financed by funds from a Christmas seal sale, six members of a Michigan family, known as the "M" family, were saved from death from tuberculosis, the record shows.

Two of the seven "M" children had died from tuberculosis before Mr. M came to a free chest clinic sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. As soon as it was shown by the tests that he was suffering with active tuberculosis, his five children were brought to the clinic and examined.

All five had contracted the disease from the father, as well as the two who had died. Through the clinic the father arranged for admission to the sanatorium where he recovered completely, while the children took successful treatment at home.

Although this case is unusual because of the number affected, story after story could be related of mothers and children saved by the quick work of the tuberculosis seal, according to the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Through clinics, home nursing work and child health service performed by the Association and its local branches, the seal sale funds enable hundreds of people to escape death from tuberculosis.

Favorite Recipe Betty Ann

A recipe for brown bread that is unusually good has been received by the Betty Ann department from Mrs. Audrey A. Thompson of Cornell, who writes that the recipe appearing daily in the Betty Ann department of the Press are so good that she never misses them.

Baked Brown Bread

One and one-half cups white sugar Two eggs, beaten well One and one-half cups white flour Two cups sour milk One teaspoon salt Two and one-half cups graham flour Two teaspoons soda. Bake one hour in slow oven in covered air tight tin. Fifteen minutes before taking out of oven take lids off so steam can escape.

Mrs. Thompson would like a recipe for marshmallows to replace one which she had lost. Will Betty Ann readers send in their recipes in answer to her request? Call the department, 693, or write out the recipe if you wish and send it to the Press office.

SWANSON HOME GUTTED BY FIRE

Firemen Fight Stubborn Blaze in Blizzard on South 2nd Street

Fire which is believed to have been started by an overheated chimney gutted the interior of the residence of Mrs. Charles Swanson, 136 South Second street at 3:45 o'clock yesterday morning causing considerable damage. The loss is covered by insurance.

A blizzard and cold weather handicapped the firemen in extinguishing the blaze which proved to be most stubborn. The alarm was turned in by neighbors who noticed flames shooting through the roof. Mrs. Swanson was at home at the time, but had not noticed the fire at the time the alarm was sent in.

The fire was confined to an upstairs bedroom and the attic, but the entire interior was damaged by water and smoke. Furniture was safely carried out of the building. No estimate has been placed on the damage.

Truck Burns—A truck heavily laden with Christmas trees was practically destroyed by fire Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock near the James Arrowood farm on U. S. 2 a few miles east of the city. The cause of the fire which destroyed everything but the cab, front tires and the motor is not known. About a third of the load of trees were consumed by the blaze which necessitated a call by the local fire department. The truck was the property of a Grand Rapids man.

A false alarm was answered early Saturday evening when someone believed a house was burning on North Fifth street. Boys had built a small bon fire on a small skating rink so as to keep warm.

SOUTHPAWS TIE FOR 2ND PLACE

Climb Into First Division From Cellar; Vic Remell Hits 266

Ben Hudson's Southpaws are found in the first division this week, after making a spectacular drive from cellar position. They cleaned up on their series with the Lions taking three straight, and placed themselves in a tie for second place with the Paper Makers.

The Tigers got a set-back during the week, losing two out of three to Dr. Tucker's Pirates, and their nearest rivals. The race is beginning to warm up and eight teams are found within a brace of a couple of games from each other.

Remell's outstanding game of 266 was the big event of the week, and Ben Hudson's average of 205 for three games easily came in for second honors.

Jack Quick with an average of 187 during the week had no difficulty in maintaining his average of 191 in the individual list. Jack has set a merry pace for the rest of the keglers, Hall, Remell, Christensen, and Mulrooney follow in the order named.

Captains are requested to watch their computations on hand-caps, as these errors often times throw the results of the games the wrong way. Members are also requested to pay their membership dues at their earliest convenience.

Games scheduled for the week are as follows:

Monday, Paper Makers vs. Browns.
Tuesday, Roxalls vs. Tigers.
Wednesday, Southpaws vs. Pirates.
Thursday, Yanks vs. Cubs.
Friday, Lions vs. Giants.

Team Standings

Tigers	13	5	.722
Paper Makers	10	8	.556
Southpaws	10	8	.556
Lions	9	9	.500
Pirates	9	9	.500
Yanks	9	9	.500
Cubs	7	8	.467
Browns	8	10	.444

BOWLING NOTES

OUT OUR WAY

R. H. Wilson Attends
M. E. A. Principal's
Meeting Last Week
One of the most successful meetings of Michigan high school principals was held Thursday and Friday at Lansing with approximately 300 representatives of state high schools in attendance. Principal R. H. Wilson, of the local high school, attended the two day session which was held at the Hotel Olds.

Out of state speakers who addressed the principals were Dr. Charles Scott Berry, director of bureau of special education, Ohio State university; Dr. Marsden, and Major Norman A. Imlie, Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind.ana.

The program theme of the meeting was the topic, "The Non-Adjusted Pupil," with various phases such as the mentally retarded, the delinquent, the psychopathic, the gifted, and the physically handicapped being discussed. Special sessions were held for senior and junior high school principals Thursday afternoon.

Road Men Gravel County Highways

Several road projects have been started by John E. McCarthy, county engineer during the past week. On M-94, two miles south of the Alger county line, the road has been surfaced with gravel and the grading is ready for two more miles of graveling. Gravel is also being placed on M-74 north of Germfask. Work on this project was started last Thursday. County road employees will start placing gravel on curves near Maribhead this week.

CITY TO HAVE WINTER SPORTS

Hill for Skiing Located; Ice Skating Rink Now Assured

Gladstone's outdoor sports fans will be able to indulge in skiing and tobogganing, as well as ice skating, it is now assured. The ice rink this year will be sponsored by the board of education, it has been decided, and will again be located on the local playground site.

Work of flooding the rink was begun yesterday so as to provide skating at the earliest possible date. Two attendants, alternating weekly, will tend to the rink this season, and Ray Manning and Albert Legault have been chosen for the positions.

Through the efforts of a Ski club, organized by Dr. Otto S. Hult, a hill suitable for skiing has been located and permission to use the property obtained from Victor Carlson, the owner. It is long and steep with plenty of room at the bottom for a slide after getting off the hill. It also has the advantage of having a natural step up about 55 feet where those experienced with skills may begin. A jump may also be built on the hill.

The hill is also admirably suited for tobogganing and it is believed that many will take part in this sport, enjoyed but little here in past years.

Electricity Will Cut Off for Hour At Noon Today

Electric current and power in Gladstone will be shut off today for one hour, noon to one o'clock, while work is being done at the local sub-station. It was stated yesterday afternoon by Sup't Al Raddant and persons within the city using electric power for cooking purposes are being requested to note the fact and prepare the noon meal earlier so that they will not be inconvenienced by the shutdown.

CLEANING UP SLUMS

London—England is fast cleaning up its slums as a result of two acts of Parliament which provide that the slums be cleared and the districts be rebuilt with modern dwellings. Since the war more than 1,670,000 new homes have been erected, many of them in the slum districts, and have succeeded in eliminating the congested squalid living conditions of England's poor sections.

FUND DRIVE AT HALF-WAY MARK

Over $700 Already Subscribed to Feed, Lodge Transients

Fine progress is being made in the drive for a chest fund which will aid floaters and transients and already almost half of the sum set as a goal has been raised, it was reported yesterday.

Officers of the Salvation Army, through which agency the aid will be given, assisted by members of an advisory board composed of local business and professional men, have in several afternoon's canvasses raised a total of $715.50, treasurer H. J. Skogquist stated. This was all raised in the business district, a small portion of which has not yet been covered. About half of the sum was in cash and the remainder pledged.

A house-to-house canvass of the residential sections of the town is also planned, and it is hoped that workers will be able to reach or exceed the $1,500 mark, the goal set for the drive.

All of the money will be used locally for aiding floaters and others by feeding them and providing overnight shelter. It will give these men a "lift" and put them on their way again, and centralized administration of this aid, it is believed, will put an end to the trouble occasioned merchants and housewives, who are continually bothered by men begging food or money.

Feeding of the men has been begun at the Salvation Army hall on Delta avenue and last week some 32 drifters took advantage of the plan. The men are registered at the fire hall and tickets issued good for two meals within two days of date of issuance.

The men who have already registered were from all parts of the peninsula, several from Milwaukee and Chicago; and one from New York state.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY (Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—A week crowded with events that will have a bearing on national and financial problems, both domestic and foreign, began today with stocks satisfied to follow a policy of watchful waiting.

Shares rallied spryly in the morning after an irregular start, but speculative circles were unwilling to venture too far on the side of optimism and a dull decline occurred during afternoon, making final prices irregularly lower.

The financial community is eagerly awaiting President Hoover's message to congress, but it will also follow closely the national legislature's session in the next few months.

Michigan Opens Cage Season With 33-27 Victory

TEACHERS LOSE IN HARD GAME

Wolverines Are Ragged on Passing and Marksmanship

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 7. (AP)—Michigan opened its basketball season tonight by defeating Western State Teacher's college, of Kalamazoo, 33 to 27, before a crowd of 3,500.

The Wolverine passing game was ragged, giving the Teachers numerous opportunities for shots from close in, but the Kalamazoo boys were off their shooting game. Welsa and Captain Norm Daniels led the Michigan offense, each accounting for nine points. Pete Hanna dropped in three field goals and two free throws to score eight points for Western State.

The lead alternated in the first half, with the Teachers having the edge on the tipoff and in floor work. The Wolverines led by 15 to 13 at half time. Hanna tied the score with a field goal shortly after the start of the second period and sank two free throws to draw up even at 17 all after Daniels connected from the floor, but the Wolverines then pulled-up to 24 points before the Teachers scored again. The lead was sustained for the rest of the game.

The summary:

Western State	FG	FT	PF
Althoff, f	2	4	1
Hanna, f	3	2	0
Parjo, c	0	2	2
Bowberd, k	3	1	2

Score at Half: Michigan 15, Western State Teachers 13. Referee Schommer, Chicago; umpire Travinecek, Armour.

Germany to Send 125 to Olympics

Los Angeles, Dec. 7. (AP)—Germany will bring 125 athletes and officials here for the 1932 Olympic games, which start July 30. Germany will concentrate in the track and field, aquatic and rowing events. Dr. Carl Dieckmann, general secretary of Germany's national Olympic committee announced through Hans Wolfram, assistant Olympic attaché here. The team will disembark at New York and come across continent on a special train.

Bierman Will Go To Minneapolis In January, He Says

Chicago, Dec. 7. (AP)—Bernie Bierman will take charge of Minnesota's football destinies as head coach some time in January, he said today after a conference with Athletic Director H. O. "Fritz" Crelter.

Crelter announced that Coach Bierman would be assisted by the same staff next year, including assistants Tad Wieman, Bert Baston, Sig Harris and Frank McCormick.

Leading Scorer of Taylor Trunks

Violet Krubeek pictured here is the leading scorer of the Taylor Trunks basketball team, national girls' champions, who will play the Escanaba Rangers at the Coliseum gymnasium next Monday evening, December 11. Miss Krubeek plays center and scored 147 out of 847 points scored by the Trunks in national competition last year. Reserved seats for the Taylor Trunk-Ranger game are now on sale. This is the first time that the famous Chicago girls' basketball team has ever played in the upper peninsula. Included in their conquests over men's teams last year was a victory over the nationally famous House of David cage team.

Football Scoring By Major Elevens Lowest In Years

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—The lowest football scoring record in the ten years during which such statistics have been kept by the Associated Press was made this year by 156 representative university and college teams. The 156 teams, providing a good cross section of the intercollegiate football world, played 1,374 contests and rolled up a total of 19,454 points. This produced a team average for the season of 124.7 points and an average per game of 14.16 points. Last year 152 teams averaged 137 points for the season and 16 per game for the highest mark since 1922.

Dart's and Elkins was this year's leader, but scored only 34 points. Alabama was second this year with 340 points gathered in 10 games. Utah compiled 301 points in nine games, and Tulane scored 338 points in 11 games. Iowa was at the bottom of the list with only seven points in eight games.

Tom Loughran Signs To Fight Levinsky

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia and King Levinsky of Chicago were matched today for a 12-round heavyweight bout in Madison Square Garden Dec. 18. It was announced today.

CHICK EXPLAINS GRID HAZARDS

Meehan Says De-emphasizing of Football Causes Injuries

BY EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—John F. (Chick) Meehan, president of the American Football Coaches Association, linked the de-emphasizing of football today to the total of 40 lives, taken on gridirons all over the country this fall.

Football, he believes, can get along just as well without the kickoffs that permit a receiving eleven to form the dangerous "wedge" formation ahead of the player returning the ball. He is in favor of the elevated tee or any other modification that might remove some of the hazards of the sport. But he would like, too, to bring out further facts.

Spring Practice Fun "Elimination of spring practice in some schools, late starting of others in fact all this de-emphasizing of football, have contributed largely to the accidents this fall," said Meehan. "The result is a situation terribly unfair to the boys themselves."

"After the season always comes over-emphasis from football. Elimination of spring practice is a favorite cure-all. Late starting of practice in the fall another. "Now spring practice is just a lot of fun. The coaches and the players fool around a great deal. They work only on fundamentals, tackling and blocking. There is no pressure. If a player is hurt he can rest. There is no rushing him to doctors, spraying him with lights and rays to get him ready for a big game on Saturday."

"The fact that most of the fatalities and serious injuries this fall happened in sand-lot games among amateurs only proves that the boys who play football in colleges need more, not less training and drilling in fundamentals. Rarely is a player hurt if he tackles and blocks properly. It is only when he is uneducated in these fundamentals or too impatient that he tackles out of position, blocks out of position, and lays himself open to violent injury."

"What happens to these same boys who have had no spring practice and who start late when the fall rolls around? They play the same hard schedules. They go to games as hysterical, just as desperate to win as if they had the long drills in fundamentals. They play just as hard but without the proper background of conditioning and teaching. "That is absolutely unfair to the boys. De-emphasis has been accomplished at the cost of lives and severe injuries. Football is hard, rugged game. There can be no such thing as too much care, too much attention, too much emphasis in preparing them for it."

Illinois Convicts Challenge "Cops" To Football Game

Evansville, Ill., Dec. 7. (AP)—Evansville will give odds on its coppers when and if they meet the convicts of Stateville next season on the gridiron of the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Word of a challenge from the prisoners reached Chief William O. Freeman of Evansville today and his answer was a chuckle as he looked over his roster:

"Bill Calderwood, halfback, Northwestern University. "Ed Cohen, halfback, Northwestern. "Herman (Duke) Cohen, guard, ditto."

"Then there's 'Pug' Rentner and 'Ollie Olson," said the chief. "If Coach Hanley will let them play with us. And we'll use the Freeman system, not the Rockne or Warner."

"Sure, they're coppers. They're earning their way through school as special policemen."

University of Michigan 33; Western Michigan State Teachers 27. Northwestern 33; Bradley 19.

Gas Distributors Will Get Credit

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 7. (AP)—The state will extend credit to scores of smaller gasoline distributors to prevent them from being forced out of business, Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, said today.

The last legislature passed a law requiring distributors to file financial reports when they apply for new licenses December 31. If the reports fail to show adequate responsibility the secretary of state is empowered to require a bond of not less than $3,000 nor more than $25,000 to guarantee monthly payments of the gasoline tax. Many smaller concerns will be unable to secure a $3,000 bond except at a prohibitive cost, Fitzgerald said. He has decided to demand financial reports, but to not demand bond when distributors can show financial responsibility equal to 25 per cent more than their average monthly tax payments, even though this responsibility be less than $3,000.

Gar Wood Pilots Boat at 100 M. P. H.

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 7. (AP)—Gar Wood piloted his America IX through the water at an unofficial speed of 100 miles an hour late today, but bent a propeller shaft while doing it. Further tests of the boat prior to an assault on the 110-mile-an-hour world's speed boat record now held by Kaye Don of England, will be delayed pending installation of a new shaft, Wood said.

The racer kept his own time as he made one test run south bound on the measured mile course of Indian creek. Vibration of the boat became so great during the last part of the run that Wood stopped for an inspection and found the bent shaft.

Titan Ball Toters Gained 1 1/2 Miles

Detroit, Dec. 7. (AP)—A recapitulation of the University of Detroit gridiron campaign revealed today that the Titans carried the ball more than a mile and a half, 2,771 yards to be exact, through opposing lines in ten games.

For each of the 16 touchdowns scored, the Titans lugged or passed the ball 173 yards. Of their gains, 2,388 yards were from scrimmage and 383 by passes.

Opponents gained 1,548 yards in all to score 11 touchdowns, 1,143 yards from scrimmage and 405 yards by passes.

The Titans scored 112 points to their opponents' 71.

Fordham Will Not Elect Grid Pilot

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—For the first time in its gridiron history Fordham university will not elect a football captain.

Cornelius Murphy, who died last week as a result of football injuries, was to have been elected captain and the innovation was decided upon out of respect to his memory.

Coach Frank Cavataugh will designate an acting captain before each game next fall.

BOXING

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—Jimmy McNamara, 139, New York, gained a close ten round decision over his Greenwich Village rival, Phil Rafferty, 145, at the St. Nicholas arena tonight.

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, 140, Memphis, Tenn., outpointed Billy McMahon, 146, New York, in a slow 10-round semi-final. Al White, 174, New York, knocked out Al Minnahan, 173 1/2, Ireland, in 1:57 of the second round after flooring him for a nine-count in the first session.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 7. (AP)—Pounding away with both gloves, Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, O., battered Lou Saunders, Pittsburgh, all over the ring for five rounds and knocked him out in the sixth tonight. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. Both boys weighed in at 130.

In the semi-final, Frank Fabino, 141, Dover, O., and Tony Datollo, 135, Wheeling, drew in six rounds.

Basketball League In City Is Planned

Pittsburgh, Dec. 7. (AP)—Working his rather amazing open-glove attack overtime, Battling Gizzy, Donora, Pa., windmill, smacked out a 10-round decision over Sammy Dorfman, New York, tonight. Gizzy weighed 134; Dorfman tipped at 134 1/2.

WRESTLING

New York, Dec. 7. (AP)—For the second time in two weeks, Jim London, claimant of the heavy-weight wrestling championship, defeated George Calza of Italy, in Madison Square Garden tonight. London finished Calza with a leg lock in 44:51 of a finish match before a crowd of 12,000. London weighed 200 pounds; Calza 217. The unempowered fund benefited from the show.

TULANE STAR END IS INJURED

Jerry Dalrymple May Be Out of Battle on New Year's Day

New Orleans, Dec. 7. (AP)—Physicians had Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane football captain and All-American end, under observation in a hospital today because of a kidney injury received in Saturday's game with Washington State. He was stricken suddenly Sunday while driving his automobile.

Physicians said that time only would tell the seriousness of his condition, but that similar cases had been known to clear up without ill effects.

Jerry laughed and joked about his illness and said he would be in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, playing right end against Southern California New Year's Day in as good condition as ever.

Dalrymple said he received the injury on the second kickoff of the Tulane-Washington State game when he attempted to block big "Turk" Edwards, Washington State's star and last year's All-American tackle.

The absence of Dalrymple in the lineup in the Rose Bowl game would be a serious loss to the Tulane Green Wave which counts on his brilliant end play and his rallying power over his team mates.

State Briefs

Detroit (AP)—Held up by two bandits as he left the rear door of the Orr hotel in East Willis avenue Monday, Robert Schomberger, part owner of the hotel, was robbed of $905 he was taking to the bank.

lonia (AP)—Lewis G. Weber, Lansing real estate dealer, and his brother-in-law, George Purford, were bound over to circuit court Monday under $5,000 bond each at the conclusion of their examination here on charges of plotting to burn two cottages at Electric Park, near Portland.

Coopersville (AP)—The Coopersville State bank, with deposits of between $700,000 and $800,000, failed to open its doors Monday. Millard Durham, president, said the closing was due to lack of funds, frozen assets and shrinkage in security values.

Detroit (AP)—The emergency relief committee Monday opened a campaign to obtain $2,225,000 to provide food and clothing for Detroit's unemployed.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 7. (AP)—Pounding away with both gloves, Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, O., battered Lou Saunders, Pittsburgh, all over the ring for five rounds and knocked him out in the sixth tonight. The bout was scheduled for 10 rounds. Both boys weighed in at 130.

MAJORS WANT RADIO FUNDS

Bench Warmers May Also Receive Axe at Chicago Meeting

BY PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) Chicago, Dec. 7. (AP)—Major league club owners broadcast threatening notes to radio stations and baseball's bench warmers tonight as they gathered in Chicago for their three-day business session.

From almost every club owner it was learned that two of the most important proposals before the meetings concerned the radio and the bench warmer—the radio through a move to ban broadcasting from all major league parks or to levy a heavy rental charge on them for the privilege and the extras through a plan to cut the player limit from 25 to 23 or even 21.

Second division clubs were strong for the plan to reduce the player limit because it would ultimately give them access to the many players they could use on the field themselves. Furthermore, they figured that if every club would reduce its squad from 25 to 22 men each league would save approximately $120,000 in salaries alone.

Cases Near Climax. The radio attack, brewing several years, was brought to a climax by the Western Union Telegraph company, which has paid a large sum each year for exclusive press wire privileges. The Western Union complained the radio stations had refused to reimburse it and that broadcasts seriously interfered with its business.

At the minor league meeting last week at West Baden, Ind., it was proposed that each major league club charge a sizeable sum for broadcasting rights and lump the proceeds into a fund to help minor league clubs in financial distress. That proposal, however, received but little interest among their big brothers of baseball today.

Another proposal before the club owners was a movement to reduce salaries although it was almost certain that no set maximum would be set.

Rumors of player deals floated about the hotel lobby thicker than ever tonight with the Cubs the pivotal point of National League rumors and the White Sox, Yankees and Cleveland the rumor centers in the American.

STATE DEPUTY ARRIVES TODAY

Custody of Neglected Escanaba Girl to Be Decided

Pending the final disposition of the case of Elaine Plucker, 5, by the state welfare department, Judge Yelland has been receiving offers for the adoption of the little girl whom he found has been neglected by her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Plucker, 627 South 15th. In addition to local offers, one request has been received from a childless couple in Chicago, one in Palmyra, Mich., and others.

The state will decide the custody of the child following an investigation by T. E. Thorsen, deputy commissioner of the state welfare department, who is due in Escanaba today. He will attempt to interview all persons interested in the case, and all those who have any material knowledge or information in the matter.

"The state authorities will have a free hand in the investigation and in the disposition of the child," Judge Yelland said. "They will not be handicapped or embarrassed by any recommendations from public officials, including the juvenile judge."

The state may award the girl for adoption to local parties, or may decide that it is better to remove her from the community and have her sent to the state public school at Coldwater in case offers for adoption in other communities are not accepted.

The personnel of the hospitality committee, which will serve at the 4-H leadership club dinner at the Delta hotel Thursday evening, was announced yesterday by H. F. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

The members are: F. C. James, chairman, H. H. Bathke, G. W. Brown, L. A. Erickson, Arthur Filion, George E. Harvey, Dr. F. J. Hira, H. H. Hughtitt and M. J. Lang.

Hospitality Group For Dinner Named

The members are: F. C. James, chairman, H. H. Bathke, G. W. Brown, L. A. Erickson, Arthur Filion, George E. Harvey, Dr. F. J. Hira, H. H. Hughtitt and M. J. Lang.

OBITUARY

MICHAEL MAHONEY
Rev. Fr. F. Sperline conducted the funeral services which were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Bruno's church, Nadeau, for Michael Mahoney, who passed away Saturday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Irvin Wauters, at Gouley. The pallbearers were William Goulder, William Motto, Victor Chasler, Richard Pavlot, Otto Ruttner and Peter Gutzkunst. Interment was in the Nadeau cemetery.

Tests by the U. S. Department of Agriculture have indicated that traps painted green attract more insects than when painted any other color.

PRESIDENT COMMENDS TUBERCULOSIS CHRISTMAS SEALS

With all his duties, President Hoover has not forgotten the annual call for funds to fight tuberculosis. His appeal for the tuberculosis Christmas seals appears above. Sale of the seals in Delta County by the committees cooperating with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, is now in progress to provide for preventive tuberculosis work during 1932.

::: Newberry News :::

Horner Plant Is Expected to Start In About A Week

Newberry, Dec. 7 (Special)—Work will be started at the Horner Flooring plant in about a week according to a message coming from the plant's office here. The exact date has not yet been set. A message coming from the central office of the Grand Rapids Trust company, receivers for the company, has been received here ordering them to get up steam and to otherwise prepare for operation. They hope to be operating by Dec. 14.

Only former employees of the company will be taken on, the office reports, and these have been already lined up. Normally the plant engages about 110 men and has a payroll of around $8,000 a month. Work that the regular crews will be able to return to work, even for part time, is regarded here as of major importance as the greater majority of the families now receiving help are former employees of the company.

No word has come regarding the reopening of the plants of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company. However all of their woods crews are engaged in getting out saw logs and cord wood although at greatly reduced pay. Jess Barrett expects to begin work on his cuttings near Curtis as soon as arrangements can be made with the Horner people to receive his logs and will start a string of trucks about the middle of the month. He plans to give contracts to several jobbers for the getting out of this timber.

These operations, while easing the load of relief for the community will not solve the problem of unemployment however. The charity funds, poor commission and United Service are all expecting problems never before met with in the locality. However word of the return to work of even 50 men means that more than two hundred persons will be materially helped, as work is promised until March.

BAD STORM
A snow storm started here on Sunday afternoon with a 30 mile gale and continued all night. This morning between four and five inches of snow had fallen but the weather was only moderately cold. S. C. Sleeper reports that he sent out no plows until daylight as the snow was light enough so that traffic was not stopped. Four plows were put on the highways and the village walks were cleared during the morning. Woodsmen report had drifting on the plains and the sand cuts on the woods roads drifted full. It is believed that the Deer Park is impassable for cars from the shore to the Second Dawson for the rest of the winter unless most of this snow leaves. Plowing will be done to that point, making about ten miles which will have to be traveled by team or on skis.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS
J. G. Wells, county agent leader for the upper peninsula with headquarters at Marquette drove down on Monday to confer with County Agent C. P. West regarding the work program for 1932. The report for the past year will be gone over and changes proposed for the new work threshed out. Mr. Wells will be the guest at the Lions club tonight.

The sacred concert given on Sunday night in the Methodist Episcopal church was much enjoyed by an audience which comfortably filled the building. Arthur Neu trained and directed the program. Mrs. Bystrom was at the piano.

Bert Cuthbert, living in a cabin in the northwest of town, suffered a stroke on Sunday and is partly paralyzed. His condition is not at this time serious.

Mrs. William Locke of McMillan was a Newberry visitor on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Toms and Miss Mona Burns drove to Marquette on Saturday returning on Sunday night.

FRATERNAL

Hibernian Meeting
The Ancient Order of Hibernians will hold a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in Knights of Columbus club rooms. Important business is to be transacted and it is requested that all members attend.

ENTERTAIN JURY
Seattle, Wash.—A jury sitting in at the manslaughter trial of R. M. Mooney may the judge has decreed attend any movie in town during the evenings which depict neither manslaughter nor auto accidents. They may not, however, attend football games. "That's nothing but manslaughter," the judge said.

LUCKY FOR JIMMY

Milwaukee—Jimmy Anderson's mother is keeping her eyes on Master James now. Recently the child, not old enough to walk, crawled out of the house and on to the street car tracks. He was peacefully meandering between the rails when a car swept around a curve and passed over him. The axles and motors, however, were high enough to miss him and he suffered nothing more than fright and a few tears.

Elks Memorial, Service Of Impressive Beauty

The reverence of a service of commemoration and the beauty of music and speech were combined in the Elks Memorial service conducted on Sunday afternoon in the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium, Escanaba Junior high school building, by Escanaba Lodge No. 354, R. P. O. E., in memory of its departed members.

The service, impressive in its every detail, its staging and lighting, was a splendid tribute to the absent members and a remembrance to be kept during the year by the five hundred or more persons of Escanaba, Gladstone and neighboring places who were present for it.

The grouping for the service, against a background of shading light which went from deep purple to mauve, was most effective. Officers of the lodge in their chairs of office and the memorial speaker were immediately in back and to one side of the altar, on which was the Elks emblem. The lighted candles were just back of the emblem, one for each departed member. Groups taking part in the service were seated at the other side. Baskets of flowers in which the rich purple tones predominated were attractively arranged with ferns.

"Angela," by John Martel, played by the Karas string ensemble, Frank Karas, director, Melvin Holm, Winifred Jackson of Gladstone, Pearl Olson, Clara Karas, Melba Anderson, Jean Royce, Ardith Shaw, Robert Cheney and June Crattianson, was followed by the opening of the service by R. W. Coolman, Exalter Ruler of the lodge, who presided, the emblem service by J. J. Bartella, and the prayer by Rev. Thomas Foster, acting in place of Rev. Father Thomas Dregac, chaplain, who was unable to be present.

Roll Call

The Elks quartet, Joseph Le-Croise, Dr. Gordon J. Gleich, Vaughn Belanger and Clayton Todd, sang, "Eleven O'clock," Jesse M. Wina, Miss Eva Cossette playing the accompaniment, and "Infantus," from "Stabat Mater," Rossini, a beautiful cornet solo, played by Frank J. Karas, with Miss Pearl Olson, accompanist, followed.

The ritualistic ceremony, the Roll Call, was deeply impressive. Secretary W. P. Belanger reading the names of the departed members, and Mr. Bartella, Esquire, answering "Abagail" as each name was called, and then extinguishing the light of the candle, symbolic of his presence.

"Crossing the Bar," sung by Miss Rose Bink, with Willard Clark her accompanist, and "Ave Verum," Silver, by the Elks quartet, were followed by the flower ceremonies conducted by Exalted Ruler R. W. Coolman, George E. Harvey, Esq., and Walter Wickert, Esq., and the Memorial oration, delivered by Attorney G. Raymond Empton of Gladstone, was a splendid discourse. Opening his oration, Mr. Empton spoke in high terms of the Elks lodge, and of its Memorial Sunday observance, describing it as an organization which "keeps alive in the hearts of the living the memory of those who have passed and gone on," and in tribute to the men who had departed, men who were true to the order and to its principles. "During my membership in this organization, I came to know a great number of these men," he said, "many of them intimately. I was glad to grasp their hand in friendship, proud to call them brother."

Faith in Immortality

Continuing he spoke of the significance of the eleven o'clock observance, and that, he followed with a beautiful declaration of faith in immortality, of the firm belief that "man is born, not to die, but to live." He spoke of his father's death, of his final words, and read an inspiring extract from a Memorial speech of an earlier day, which had been found treasured among his possessions, and he spoke of the great Edison's final words, "It is beautiful over there."

"Man is immortal and our brothers are not dead, but live," he declared. "Could they now come from that unknown in which they dwell and talk to us, I know they would urge us to keep faith in mankind that our lives might be really bigger—to cultivate among ourselves the art of true friendship, remembering that, there, there is no distinction of race, color or creed, and to so live that there may some day come upon earth as in heaven good will among all men and the universal brotherhood of man."

At the close of the oration, taps were sounded off stage and as the light of the auditorium stage was deepened and then softened, Miss Rose Bink sang Pasternack's "Taps," the taps again closing her song.

"Auld Lang Syne"

The closing ceremonies were conducted by Rev. Mr. Foster and "Auld Lang Syne" sung by the Elks quartet, brought the beautiful service to an end.

Memorial programs and tiny sprays of forget-me-nots were presented those attending the service as they entered the auditorium by the ushers, Emerson Harvey, Hubert Shepeck and Oscar Kraus.

The memorial service was arranged entirely under the direction of M. J. Lang, chairman of the memorial committee of the lodge, whose close attention to every detail of arrangement made it a ceremony of impressive beauty.
