FIRST RETURNS SHOW FINLAND SWINGING WET

90% VOTES COUNTED WANT REPEAL OF PROHIBITION

BY LOUIS F. LOCHNER (Asst. Press Staff Correspondent) Helsinki, Finland, Dec. 31 (Thursday) (AP)—First meagre returns today from Finland's consultative referendum on prohibition, including only 11 of Helsinki's 52 precincts, gave a 90 per cent vote for abolition of the country's dry law.

Nine per cent of the votes cast in the 11 precincts were for retention of prohibition. Only one per cent of the ballots were for legalization of light wines and beer.

The young Finnish republic completed its popular referendum, the first since its liberation from the Russian czarism, last night. Tabulation of votes did not start until midnight and the result probably will not be known for several days, possibly as many as nine.

The first results surprised political circles by the strength of the anti-prohibition vote.

All ballots must be sent sealed to Helsinki, and means of communication in outlying parts of the country are inadequate for quick returns.

More than 55 per cent of the voters of Helsinki cast ballots in the referendum, figures available at midnight indicated. This was about the same percentage as in presidential and parliamentary elections.

In the working class districts, women largely abstained from voting, while in the wealthier districts women cast a majority of the ballots.

Reports from about a dozen cities indicated that approximately 47 per cent of the voters went to the polls. Reports from farm districts were slow in coming in, but indicated an average vote of 40 per cent.

Three questions were put to the voters—retention of prohibition, legalization of light wines and beer, and abolition of the dry law.

When the polls were closed after two days of voting no one in authority was willing to forecast the result. It was accepted that the cities had generally voted wet and the country dry, but that was about all anybody would say.

Political circles believed that even should only 40 per cent of the nation vote wet, the government would argue that prohibition no longer was enforceable. As the referendum is consultative only, it will not finally decide the problem, but will serve only as a guide for the government.

Two Clerks Killed in Postal Blast

One-Man Crime Wave, Youth, 17, Sentenced To 25 Years in "Pen"

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP)—The end of the day which he started with a two-and-a-half-hour, one-man crime wave, tonight found Stanley Zabada, alias Krok, 17, in Michigan state prison at Jackson, beginning a sentence of 25 to 40 years.

The youth, between 12:30 and 3 a. m., progressed from Detroit to Ann Arbor, holding up two filling stations and a restaurant, stealing three automobiles and engaging in a pistol fight with policemen. He was captured while trying to hold up a filling station here.

Still in pain from a blow over the head administered by his captor, Eugene Tompkins, filling station attendant, he pleaded guilty late in the afternoon to robbery armed, second offense, before Judge George W. Sample, who imposed sentence and recommended a term of 25 years. He was taken to Jackson at once.

Youth Had Chance In sentencing Zabada, Judge Sample said he believed the reform the youth before sending him to prison.

"You have made the mistake," the judge said, "of believing you could gain a living without working. The Bible says that by the sweat of your brow shall ye live, and that ancient statement still holds true. Young people must be taught that only by honest labor can man exist."

"Your list of crimes is long. You began with petty infractions of the law and ended with robbery armed and attempted murder. The only thing which prevented you from committing murder today was your own lack of skill in the use of a gun when you fought with Detroit police."

"People like you are not brave. The only time you show any courage is when you have a gun and others have none. The brave man in the gasoline station who resisted and overcame you should have been armed with a pistol, as should other attendants in gasoline stations who robbed and in the restaurants you held up. In that case they would have killed you in self-defense."

"The law has given you every opportunity to reform, and the only remaining course is to remove you from society."

Zabada's career of banditry started in Detroit at 12:30 a. m., when he appeared at the filling station of Fred Ross. He held up Ross, four men and a woman who drove up for gasoline and forced all of them down into the greasing pit. He then escaped with $96 and an automobile belonging to one of the men.

POLITICAL POT BUBBLES AGAIN

Third Party Movement at Capitol Stirs Leaders to Action

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Third party talk on Capitol Hill provoked both Republican and Democratic outbursts today and the 1932 political pot really began to bubble.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, one of those about whom the contemplated movement is focusing, issued a warning to regular Republican leaders not to hear down on opponents of President Hoover within the ranks.

Replying to a slap, at the Republican independents made last night by Charles D. Hilles, New York Republican national committee man, Senator Norris said:

"If Hilles has his way and is able to drive out of the Republican party all Republicans dissatisfied with President Hoover and those disappointed with Hoover, he won't have enough left to make the necessary palbearers for the corpse."

Rocks Roosevelt, a Democrat from the northwest—Senator Dill, of Washington—issued a statement hailing the nomination of Governor Roosevelt, of New York, as the "best way to meet the threat and even the creation of a third party in 1932."

Another Democrat, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, added that if Governor Roosevelt "or some liberal" wasn't nominated the third party was inevitable.

Meanwhile, the senate Republican independents who are seriously considering the third party in the event President Hoover is re-nominated watched closely the reaction to the disclosure that the movement was in contemplation.

It is the intention of some of the anti-Hoover forces to seek to prevent his re-nomination. Senators Johnson, of California; Borah, of Idaho, and Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, are the likely candidates in this contest.

Senator Norris has declined to go into a convention fight but has indicated a willingness to support any of these "progressive" candidates.

The remark attributed to Hilles which drew Norris' fire was to the effect that Republican internal difficulties at Washington could be blamed upon "men posing as Republicans."

EXPLOSION OF HIDDEN BOMBS INJURES FIVE

ANTI-FASCIST PLOT SUSPECTED BY AUTHORITIES

Easton, Pa., Dec. 30 (AP)—Deadly bombs, concealed in seven packages, whose addresses suggested to authorities the possibility of an anti-Fascist plot, took the lives of two inquisitive postal clerks today and injured five other persons, one a dynamite expert.

Two of the packages, a pair of which were labeled for foreign consulates—the Italian in Pittsburgh and the Argentine in Baltimore—exploded while undergoing examination.

Intended for Publisher. Inaccuracies were apparent in spelling but investigators held to the belief that one package was intended for Generoso Pope, owner of an Italian newspaper and friend of Mayor Walker of New York City. Another for the editor of Pope's New York paper and possibly still another for Emanuele Grazi, Italian consul general, in New York City.

The dead: Edward W. Werkheiser, 29, of Easton. He died a short time after being admitted to the Betts hospital.

John B. House, 55, of Easton, who died in the Easton hospital late today.

Those injured: Charles V. Weaver, 50, of Easton, an explosives expert, badly mutilated late in the afternoon while investigating the remaining packages.

Arlington A. Albert, 26, of Easton, postal clerk. Clarence Keller, 32, of Easton, postal clerk. David W. Garis, 50, of Easton, postal clerk.

George J. Ryan, a county detective, injured at the same time Weaver was hurt.

The packages were mailed early in the day by two young men described as foreigners. Although they seemed to be in a hurry they argued with Werkheiser over the value of the packages but paid the necessary postage and hurried away.

Becoming suspicious as to their contents, Werkheiser decided to examine them. He had just opened one of the packages when it let go, causing a second one also to explode.

A large number of postal inspectors, assisted by county and state police, were at work on the case tonight, and they hoped to run down the senders of the bombs before many hours. Two suspects were held.

Badly Mutilated. Werkheiser had one of the packages on the scales as he was trying to open it. Near him stood House and Albert. Keller was about 20 feet away. All were hurled to the floor when the first package exploded.

Werkheiser was so badly hurt he lived only a short while after being taken to the hospital. Both of House's arms and a leg were torn off and one eye was blown out.

The others were not seriously hurt. The interior of the parcel room was wrecked.

Police took charge of the remaining five packages and Weaver, the explosives expert, was called in to examine them. He then removed the packages to a quarry on the outskirts of the city where he decided to explode them if there were any explosives in them.

Weaver had successfully fired one and was trying to explode another when it failed to go off. He approached the package to make an examination. It let go. One of his legs was badly mangled and a hole was torn in his abdomen.

County Detective George J. Ryan, who was near Weaver, suffered severe shock and possible internal injury.

Newsboy Pursuing Robber Is Injured Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—A 12-year-old newsboy pursuing a robber, ran into the fusillade from the run of the fugitive's victim tonight and was wounded.

The condition of the boy, Albert Polcyn, was said at Receiving hospital, not to be serious. The shots were fired by George Miller, whose drug store had just been robbed.

The robber escaped. Apparently he was not injured.

Jap Soldiers Move Nearer to Chinchow

BY GLENN RABB (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright 1931, By The Associated Press) Mukden, Manchuria, Dec. 30.—Japanese troops mowed down all opposition today on two fronts and tonight they were in position to celebrate New Year's Day, Japan's favorite holiday, by occupying Chinchow.

The two armies were within striking distance of Kowpangtz, important junction on the Peiping-Mukden railway, which Lieutenant General Jiro Tamon, who has been driving north from Yingtow during the last few days, expected to enter tomorrow.

Another column approaching Kowpangtz from Mukden after having seized Hsinmintun, occupied the railway junction of Tachushan. This group, commanded by General Kamura, made a rapid 43-mile advance.

Union of the two armies in Kowpangtz will put them in position to sweep down the Peiping-Mukden railway 40 miles to Chinchow, the last foothold of China in all of Manchuria.

Reports from Peiping and Tientsin declare that Marshal Crang Hsueh-Liang already has ordered General Yung Chen, Chinese commander at Chinchow, to evacuate south of the Great Wall, but Japanese military authorities here have received no confirmation of these reports and have been going ahead with their operations as planned.

None the less it was believed here that Chinchow would change masters with little bloodshed.

GOVERNOR SIGNS OLEO TAX BILL Wisconsin Farmers Win Battle After Colorful Fight

BY ALVIN J. STEINKOPF Madison, Wis., Dec. 30 (AP)—Governor Philip La Follette today signed the drastic oleomargarine tax measure, and the Wisconsin farmer scored a victory in his commercial war with the Filipino.

Superficially it was a commonplace argument over a butter substitute, but aroused farmers made it a colorful fight, and today they are as jubilant as the colonists who dumped the unwanted British tea into Boston harbor.

On every pound of oleomargarine sold retailers must pay a tax of six cents. Manufacturers must pay $1,000 annually, and wholesalers $500. Restaurants and boarding houses must pay special fees if they use oleo, and it is forbidden in prisons, asylums and other institutions of the state.

Cow vs. Coconut. Flushed with victory, farmers now plan to push their campaign to the capitol at Washington. It was revealed today a movement is under way to recruit farmers of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa for a journey to the capitol city for a journey to the capitol city to parade and to display the now famous "oleo goat" which figured in a demonstration before the Wisconsin legislature. Ex-Circuit Court Judge Passes Away Co'dwater, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP)—Clayton C. Johnson, 67, until last June judge of circuit court in Branch and St. Joseph counties, died at his home here today after an illness of more than a year's duration. Three times he was elected mayor of Co'dwater. He had practiced law since 1888.

Elected in 1920, Judge Johnson resigned from the bench last June. He was succeeded by Theodore T. Jacobs of Sturgis.

Young Girl Says She Was Kidnaped Flint, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP)—Stella Tomaszewski, 16, told police tonight she was kidnaped this afternoon and held for hours in a sparsely furnished home by two men who tortured her with razor blades and pins in an effort to make her tell where her father "hid his money."

The men captured her on a street in the outskirts of the city, she said, threw a blanket over her head and carried her away in an automobile. She fainted in the car, she said, but regained consciousness before they led her in to a farm house.

Although her captors cut her on the face and body with razor blades and pricked her with pins, she said, she maintained throughout that her father had no money. When they released her, she said, she walked four miles to her home.

Farrell Sees Better Times Around Corner, Stable Prices Needed

BY VICTOR EURANK (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Looking hale and hearty—and cheerful—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, today cast an experienced eye over the business horizon and declared he did not see anything about which to become panic-stricken.

Conditions have been critical, he admitted, and confidence has been shaken. But, he pointed out in an interview with the Associated Press, there have been other critical periods in the history of America and the world.

"In my life I have witnessed a number of major depressions," he said. "In each one the public believed we would never recover. But we did. And while I cannot venture to say when we will emerge from this one, there is no doubt that we will come out of it stronger and better than we were before."

"America has suffered with the rest of the world. In fact, there are economists who believe that our troubles have been largely due to the unsettlement abroad."

"The steel business has had its share of adversity. But that doesn't mean the steel industry cannot right itself."

Program Not Ready Mills said last night that the proposals for increased revenue outlined by Rainey were the Democratic tax program and termed them "wholly inadequate to meet the fiscal situation."

"Reports that I gave out the Democratic tax program are utterly erroneous," Rainey said today. "I simply discussed what might be possible."

"There has not been a Democratic program agreed on at all. Certain members of the ways and means committee have been saying what is on their minds as to how to meet the problem of balancing the budget."

"The tax program will not be completed until estimates have been received and experts have informed us as to what certain rates will yield. We also will gather information on new tax yields."

Rainey said that the Democrats would make a "serious effort to balance the budget, but to balance the budget in one year is impossible. It should be balanced in two or three years or come as near as possible."

COMISH HEARS LOUD ECHO OF HUNGER MARCH

LEADER OF PARADE MAKES THREATS AT HEARING

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—The march of unemployed demonstrators to Washington at the opening of congress culminated today in a threat before a senate committee to "make it damn uncomfortable for those who won't feed the unemployed."

The threat was shouted by Herbert Benjamin, leader of the demonstration, its participants called "the national hunger march," into the ears of senators who had earlier heard the American Federation of Labor throw its full strength behind requests for direct federal unemployment relief appropriations.

Meanwhile, Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, took

TO ASK RELIEF. Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—Mayor Frank Murphy announced today he would go to Washington January 7 to ask a senate subcommittee for federal relief for states and counties.

He was invited by Senator Robert M. La Follette to appear before the committee.

Recognition of the movement for federal appropriations with a statement expressing confidence local communities would be able to handle the relief problem.

Reads Long Statement. Benjamin obtained a hearing before the senate committee considering federal relief appropriations, after twice interrupting the proceedings to demand an audience.

He read a prepared statement several thousand words long, which included the legislative program the marchers wanted to present in the house and senate chamber when congress opened, and concluded with an oral statement in which he said:

"We intend to go forward in our struggle to organize the unemployed, to make it fight in the streets, and to make it damn uncomfortable for those who won't feed the unemployed."

His threat was received in silence by the committee members present. Senators La Follette, Costigan, Democrat, of Colorado, and Speaker for the Federation of Labor, Edward F. McGrady, its legislative representative, appealed to members of congress through the committee "not to shirk the responsibility" of preventing distress in this "national emergency."

The federation is represented on President Hoover's employment relief organization, which has been striving to avoid federal appropriations and William Green, federation president, has in the past frequently opposed the "dole."

Gifford's statement, given out in connection with the testimony before the committee, demanding federal appropriations, referred to his statement to President Hoover November 28 in which he reported "there is every indication that each state will take care of its own" this winter.

"I am still unable to find any grounds for questioning the effectiveness of the local county and state public and private agencies and the thousands of voluntary committees and organizations to meet the present emergency," he said.

Members of the committee are considering calling Gifford to testify, but Chairman La Follette

RAINNEY DOUBTS MILLS' REPORT

Demo Leader Says Treasury May Be Wrong in Estimates

BY CECIL B. DICKSON Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—The accuracy of the treasury's estimates of increased revenue requirements was questioned today by Representative Rainey, the Democratic house leader.

Answering the criticism directed by Undersecretary Mills of the treasury at his individual tax proposals, the majority leader said:

"I am not impressed with the accuracy of the estimates presented by the treasury. The treasury has made mistakes in its estimates as large as $500,000,000 to $600,000,000 in revenues in one year in the past."

"We will scrutinize the treasury's estimates and the administration tax program most carefully next week when hearings get under way before the ways and means committee. The treasury's estimates are expected to be the first presented."

Program Not Ready. Mills said last night that the proposals for increased revenue outlined by Rainey were the Democratic tax program and termed them "wholly inadequate to meet the fiscal situation."

CROP PRICES TUG AT 'BALLAST' OF 1931 YIELDS

Michigan Potatoes Hit Worst by The Drought

BY SAM B. MCCOOL
Lansing, Mich., Dec. 29, (AP)—Michigan agriculture, swept by one of the leanest years in history, looked hopefully today to the new year, anxious that the economic and political "tomorrow" bring alleviation to its ills.

The Michigan farmer of 1931 conquered the most extensive drought since the two-year devastation of 1893-95, only to find his achievement submerged in an avalanche of falling prices.

A final inventory showed farmers had reaped a bumper harvest but had suffered a decline in the valuation of 35 of their leading field, fruit and truck crops, or more than $47,000,000 since 1930. Prices had dipped about 35 percent below the levels of the previous year. Livestock returns had been reduced about 25 percent in the same period. Meanwhile taxes, interest, and cost of operation had not followed the same proportionate downward trend.

Wheat Sets Record.
The situation brought a warning from Verne H. Church, U. S. agricultural statistician for Michigan. "The farmer's plea for a reduction of these costs is a just one and until his plea is met—and as long as the level of farm prices continues below that of the other commodities, the return of normal economic conditions in the United States and Michigan may be little more than an idle dream," Mr. Church said.

With only three months of normal rainfall in the 18-month period from March, 1929 to August, 1931, the farmer nevertheless increased his productive efficiency this year. Yields for all field crops with the exception of oats and barley showed slight increases over each of the previous two years. Eight of the 17 leading truck crops recorded increased yields over 1930.

Wheat yields reached an average of 36.5 bushels an acre, the highest ever recorded in Michigan. Per-acre returns on rye have been exceeded in few other seasons. Corn, oats, and barley were only slightly below 10-year averages. The sugar-beet crop brought a harvest of about one ton an acre over the long-time average. Beans and potatoes felt the brunt of the drought siege, the former's yields declining about 20 percent below the 10-year average and potatoes declining 10 percent. Fruit farmers realized their greatest apple harvest since 1923, a crop that amounted to approximately two bushels per capita of population. Peaches returned the best harvest industry's economic ills be left to the producers and distributors. Minority reports recommended that the controversial base and surplus plan be eliminated and that the milk industry be placed under the regulation of the Michigan public utilities commission.

Oleo Law Held Up.
The tension of organized agriculture came into conflict at the annual meetings of the Michigan State Grange, the farm bureau, and the Michigan Milk Producers' association. After some splits in the conventions of the various organizations, the Grange and farm bureau found themselves in accord on major tax issues, each advocating an income levy at their annual sessions.

Taxes Cause Complaint.
The story of tame hay was outstanding. Production of this crop increased from 2,460,000 tons in 1930 to 2,544,000 tons last year but the valuation of the crop dropped from $40,998,000 to $21,875,000 in the same period. The corn output increased from 26,765,000 bushels to 40,941,000 bushels, but the value of the crop slipped from $20,611,000 to $16,378,000. A 9,000,000-bushel increase in the potato harvest meant little in the face of a $5,000,000 reduction in the value of the crop. The average yield of eight bushels an acre for beans was better than last year, but the value of the harvest was nearly $4,000,000 under that of 1930. Apple production almost doubled that of 1930, yet the value of the fruit declined more than $600,000. Onions and carrots were the only two truck crops to pay growers higher prices than those of last year.

Farmers continued to complain of burdensome taxes. More and more land was reverting to the state through delinquency. The total amount of delinquencies was more than $48,000,000, an increase of nearly $12,000,000 above 1929. Agricultural interest rates were high and the price of farm equipment had not yet scaled down to the reductions in the quotations of farm products. In virtually every section of the state, farmers found themselves the victims of conditions over which they had little control. Many of the 80 state and national bank failures in Michigan were in the rural areas.

Farms "In Red."
Statistics compiled by farm management experts of Michigan State College showed that 62.5 percent of 736 farmers of the state who had kept accounting records in 1930 had gone in "the red." That average earnings had declined from an income of $544 in 1929 to a deficit of $162 last year. Indications were that the losses might be even greater this year.

Restless in their search for economic relief, farmers became more than normally involved in the backwash of political developments. Michael J. Hart, Saginaw Democrat, was elected to Congress from the Eighth District, the first time since 1898 that the old district of "Uncle Joe" Foghney has been represented by a member of the minority party in Michigan.

Suffering under the economic effects of a depressed market, milk producers demanded an investigation of this industry. Governor Brucker appointed an investigating commission which recommended that a solution for the problem be found. The commission recommended that the milk industry be placed under the regulation of the Michigan public utilities commission.

No price negotiations have been carried on as yet, however. According to reports, the enrollment at St. Norbert's college is rapidly becoming larger than the present buildings can comfortably accommodate. Suggestion that the school be expanded by establishment of a branch is responsible for the consideration now being given to the Foster City proposal. The school accepts students regardless of their religious affiliations. One feature about the Foster City location that is said to be attractive to the fathers is its value as a summer residence center and also as a place of retirement for members of the order.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT
There is more action in "A House Divided," the Universal drama which opened an engagement yesterday at the Delft Theatre, than in half a dozen ordinary screen plays.

And "A House Divided" is not an ordinary picture in any sense. It is one which is filled with tense drama, with a high quality of acting contributed by a superlative cast and an engrossing story which sheds new light on the age-old problem of "the eternal triangle."

A most dramatic situation develops when a young man falls in love with his father's new mail-order bride, and the father discovers the condition which exists.

The three leading players in this fast-moving screen story are Walter Huston, Helen Chandler and Kent Douglas, and all deliver performances which are exceptional for their strength and realism. No picture of the current season has presented a trio whose work is more uniformly excellent. Others who do good work are Vivian Oakland, Frank Hagney and Lloyd Ingraham.

The locale of "A House Divided" is full of colorful interest, with the scenes laid in a fishing village on the Northwestern coast of the United States. Many of the incidental characters are the tough, elemental men of the wild timber country.

WARM WEATHER HURTS LOGGERS

Rains Ruin Ice Roads; Cars Are Ordered by the Month

Logging operations in this vicinity, greatly curtailed because of market conditions, got away to a bad start this month. Some operators started to make ice roads, and from six to nine miles were ready for use at some camps when the mild December weather and rain came along and ruined everything. Making ice roads is laborious work, especially so without snow, and loggers dependent on this type of road have been forced to hold off operations. There are a few men around some of the camps, but they are wondering how much longer they will stay if the weather doesn't change.

Holiday Passengers Boost Rail Travel

Special rates and holiday travel has boosted passenger traffic on the C. & N. W. railway. Train 102 last Sunday evening had 14 cars of four coaches and eight sleepers, with 243 passengers in the coaches and 204 in the sleepers, a total of 447 on the train.

Another increase is anticipated over the coming week-end of Saturday and Sunday, and railway officials are suggesting that advance reservations be filed so that adequate preparation may be made for the passengers. The reduced rate is effective until January 6.

NERVOUS FATIGUE

Nervous Fatigue Killed All His Chances
Compassionately young, able, likeable, he wanted to get ahead. But because he dragged himself through the day with lack-luster eyes and heavy head, his superior always handed the promotions to others. He was held back from advancement by nervous fatigue brought about by acidity.

He was held back from advancement by nervous fatigue, brought about by acidity. The business world is full of similar cases—bright young men and women who should always be forging toward the top, but are handicapped by hyperacidity, excess acids or an acid condition of the stomach or intestines. Our modern living is responsible. The digestive system must be properly alkaline, and nervous fatigue, heartburn, gas, indigestion, flatulency.

U. P. "GHOST TOWNS" RECLAIMED

IT HAS been disclosed that the Norbertine religious order, which conducts St. Norbert's college at DePere, Wis., is considering the purchase of the hotel and several dwellings at Foster City for use as a branch of that educational institution and a summer residence for its priests.

For several years, the possibilities for establishing an academy or college at the one-time lumbering town have been considered by various educators and religious groups. Some have seen in that particular site the opportunities for making it the "Dartmouth" of the upper peninsula, with its Sturgeon river, the old mill pond, the hills and delta offering natural facilities for the promotion of a varied program of summer and winter sports.

Foster City claims the distinction of providing the inspiration for Stewart Edward White's "The Blazed Trail." It has the unique history of lumbering towns—it lived when the timber was gone. A. L. Foster, for whom the community was named, started a sawmill there in 1884, operating under the firm name of the A. M. Harmon Lumber company. In 1897, the plant was taken over by the Morgan Lumber and Cedar company, which operated it until 1924, when the firm discontinued business and dismantled the mill. The townsite, including the hotel, about fifty vacant houses, general store and other buildings, was purchased a year later by Swan J. Peterson, well known Dickinson county citizen.

Climate and scenery have combined to start a movement toward the reclamation of several of upper peninsula's so-called "ghost towns." There is Blaney, scene of the Mueller Lumber company's and later the Wisconsin Land and Lumber company's operations, which has been converted into an unique summer and winter resort. On and around the site of Ford River, once a booming sawmill town of 2,000 inhabitants, many Escanaba citizens have built summer homes. And then there is Fayette, which also became deserted save for one or two families, when the Jackson Iron company's furnace, the community's only industry, abandoned operations in the late eighties. With its beautiful hidden harbor, limestone cliffs and other scenic splendors, Fayette attracts hundreds of visitors every summer. Its opportunities for further development along these lines, undoubtedly, will appear in due time.

OUR POLICE FORCE

ESCANABA has had few large robberies or crimes of major importance during the past year. It is true that there have been a few petty thefts committed by misguided youths and a small number of box car burglaries, but none has been of any serious consequence.

Although handicapped by a force, the Escanaba police department always has maintained a systematic patrol of the city at night. The officers go up and down the streets and alleys of the business district to see whether doors are locked, always keeping a sharp lookout for suspicious characters.

One man is always on duty nights at the desk in the station. If someone telephones with a request to send an officer, the desk sergeant presses a switch button to turn on the signal light, which hangs over the intersection of Ludington and Eleventh streets, and it is not long before a policeman calls. Close contact with the station is also kept by each policeman, who reports by telephone at regular hourly intervals.

Chief John J. Toian, who is a past president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, has had many years of experience in police work. This long experience has stood him in good stead in the handling of the many delicate problems that appear daily at the police station. Best of all, his kindly disposition and sense of the sturdy and fair-mindedness for him the undying members of his

THAT'S EFFICIENCY

AN Associated Press dispatch from Menominee states that the board of supervisors, in checking over the expenditures of that county, found it had been paying insurance on a building which was torn down eight years ago. Because of an error they also had been paying a premium 10 times too large for insurance on an old barn, it was also revealed.

All of which makes the casual reader think "there is something wrong in Denmark," or more specifically, in Menominee. But it is natural that such oversights would occur where there is a lack of centralized management such as exists in the present system of county government in the state. It is quite unfair to expect a group of supervisors, with the problems of their own business to think of, to be able to have a complete grasp of the county's business as a result of a half dozen meetings at the courthouse each year.

More and more, the administration of the public's business demands the services of trained experts. That there is a need for full-time concentration of study of governmental problems, the same as given by the management of private enterprise, is readily apparent. This theory shows its practical side in the success of the city manager form of government throughout the country. Time was when city government was such a small thing that anybody could be elected to office and run the job in his spare time. These days it requires the full-time of a man who has spent years in preparation for his particular work. There are, no doubt, opportunities for applying the successful methods of municipal administration in the county governments of this country.

THE GRAF'S RECORD

THE reliability of lighter-than-air craft when they are built and handled by experts was never better exemplified than by the record of the Graf Zeppelin, which was made public a few days ago when the big German airship went into winter quarters.

To date the Graf Zeppelin has passed 3558 hours in the air, and has traveled nearly 350,000 kilometers. She has made 232 trips since she first took to the air, and during 1931 made three flights to South America and one to the Arctic.

All of this almost sounds more like the record of a steamship than of a dirigible. It is fairly conclusive proof that the dirigible is ready to take a place in the world's transportation system.

THIRD RAID ON PADUA

On Dec. 31, 1917, enemy airplanes made their third raid in four days on Padua, Italy, destroying the facade of the Padua Cathedral and damaging the basilica of the Santo and the Municipal Museum.

Five persons were injured. None were killed. In the two previous raids 16 were killed and 63 were injured.

In the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk between the Central Powers and the Bolshevik government, a hitch occurred when the Germans refused to withdraw their troops from the occupied portions of Russia which sought independence.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

(By NEA Service) By Kay Cleaver Strahan

CHAPTER XIX

"WERE they engaged?" Cecily gave it a not-that-it-matters inflection.

"No, they weren't engaged," said Marta. "But, honestly, Cissy, when a man has been madly rushing a girl for months, if he's decent he'll force her to let him down, won't he? I don't expect a man to marry every girl he goes with. Like mamma says, they have to go together for quite a while to find out whether they want to marry. But I do say that when a man will do that twice in two years—just throw two dandy girls down flat, and for no reason at all—any girl who knows about it, if she has any sense, will leave him utterly alone."

"Well," said Cecily, essaying logic, "he did have a reason, of course, if it was only that he suddenly got tired of them. Maybe the girls didn't know the reason; but maybe they did and didn't like to tell."

"No, sir. I don't think so. Be a little more realistic. Of course, Bead did say that when she began to go with Barry he told her that he couldn't quarrel. That he had a complex or something about quarrels. I forget whether she said complex or repression—but you know what I mean. He said a quarrel blew him out like a candle, and he couldn't. But Bead said they hadn't actually quarreled. She did say that they had an argument, but that as far as she was concerned it was just foolishness, and she never dreamed that he was really angry. So then she came right in and didn't offer to kiss him good night—but she said she thought he would have, if she'd waited. A man can't get mad and quit every time a girl doesn't offer to kiss him good night, can he?"

"I should hope not. Just the same—that sounds like a quarrel to me."

"Well, what if it was? Lulu said she thought, maybe, Bead had been flirting a little, trying to get him to the point of talking marriage. But, anyway, Cissy, what can a girl do with a man who says he can't quarrel? It's swell for him, of course. But it simply means that he'd have to have his own way utterly about everything—you know. I told Lulu that if the girls had had their share of gray matter they'd have let him out for air when he first pulled that 'can't quarrel' line. What can you do with a man like that? Honestly? Just, 'Yes, dear' and 'No, dear' around him all the time. Sillyest thing I ever heard of!"

Cecily forced herself to stop thinking that it might be tolerable to "Yes, dear" and "No, dear" around Barry all the time and said, "Marta, promise me that you won't make a fuss at Gretchen's party. Gretchen has loads of friends, and I owe her ever so many parties, and—"

"Oh, yeah? Put that in the Fish-Hub department. The more I think of it the madder I get. I won't make a fuss. I'm not going. Herbert can't hear Gretchen anyway. He'll be glad to get out of it. Makes me sick when I think how I've stood up for her."

"When is it to be?"

"A week from tomorrow night. Gretchen didn't ask me until yesterday evening, but she said I finished the list. I'll bet I'm a fill-in. She said she'd tried to get me before, but I've been home except for the Allen's luncheon and the bridge club. Probably she didn't mean to ask me either. Jean's having sinus trouble again. Here's my street. I'll fix Gretchen Steigerwald sooner or later. Call me up, Cissy. Remember?" Marta took a step backward and stooped to murmur in Cecily's ear—"what I told you about that Barry McKeel. Remember."

She was swaying down the aisle, and everyone was staring at her tweeds, her trim little hat, and the gloves with their extravagant wrinkles.

CECILY remembered. All day long she remembered, variously. She remembered it as an unforgettable falsehood and an insupportable truth; she remembered it as egregious nonsense, as none of her affair, as a cardinal component of her life. She remembered all about it and sound happy when she telephoned to Ann, at noon, to tell her that she had given up the idea of a birthday party. Oh—different reasons. For one thing, Marta and Herbert had another engagement. She remembered that Barry was cruel and fleckle, and that he was kind and honorable, and that people slandered him.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch (Copyright 1931 by Douglas Malloch)

RICH I SHALL BE

Rich I shall be another year: Perhaps no richer shall appear To those poor fools who count as riches. A hoard of gold, not honest stitches. But I, with little left to spend, Shall earn a friend, not buy a friend. Yes, give him friendship that is stronger. And bring him nearer, keep him longer.

Rich I shall be, yes, richer far

Than many others richer are. For they are only rich in treasure; But I shall fill another measure. My heart with love, my mind with lore I shall be richer than before. But with the things that really matter.

Rich I shall be, for I shall find

How rich I am, my wealth the klad That does not fade and does not alter. Have I not love that does not falter, A little house that I call home, A little lamp that glows in gloam, And someone sweet who smiles and stitches? I have all these. Are these not riches?

Dr. Stafford Connelly who spent Christmas at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burns has left for his home in St. Joseph.

I haven't played with girls. I'm not saying that I haven't thought I had a bad case, once or twice and for a short time. I am saying that I've never before liked a girl thoroughly and unreservedly. Liking is much more important than love, you know."

"That's like saying that the alphabet is more important than poetry. One has to be learned before the other can be approached—that's all. People have to be friends before they can be lovers. Love is liking—intensified, perfected."

"Wrong as wrong!" he declared. "But I'm glad you think so. Oh, boy, but I'm glad you think so!" And with that, and nothing further except, "Shall we go?" he was up, and holding her coat, and in a great hurry to be out of the place.

1932 LICENSES GOING SLOWLY

Agency at Escanaba Has Issued 151 Sets of New Tags

Although the deadline for old 1931 automobile license plates has been extended to March 1, 1932, the secretary of state is urging all who are financially able to buy their plates as usual before Jan. 1 or as soon thereafter as possible.

The extension of time was granted purely as a relief measure to help those who, due to economic conditions, would be unable to secure 1932 licenses for their cars by Jan. 1. It is suggested that others should not take advantage of this extension, which was granted primarily as an aid to the less fortunate.

With one day left of the old year, the secretary of state branch in the U. P. state fair office at Escanaba reported 151 sets of 1932 license plates issued. This is considerably less than for the corresponding date of 1930, when 820 sets of automobile license plates had been issued by Dec. 30, 670 passenger and 150 commercial.

George E. Harvey, in charge of the branch agency here, has written to the secretary of state at Madison, Wis., to inquire whether or not Wisconsin has granted an extension of time for 1931 licenses, and if 1931 Michigan license plates will be honored in Wisconsin after Jan. 1. Some states, among them Ohio and Indiana, have announced that 1931 plates from other states will be considered illegal there after January 1.

Firebug Damages Young Man's Cabin

During the absence of the owner, someone set fire to the interior of a cabin near Schaffer owned by Roy Pecore, 24, and destroyed bedding, clothing and personal effects. Due to the fact that the cabin was built of green logs and the door had slammed shut after the fire was started, the blaze smothered before destroying the building, but the interior was badly scorched. The sheriff's department was called to investigate.

Pecore said he owned 40 acres of land, and he built the house about 20 by 20 feet, intending to live there during the winter and clear a small farm on the land. He was visiting in Escanaba when the fire occurred. A wallet containing papers valued by the owner was destroyed along with the bed, bedding and clothes.

What Are They Doing Now?

Little Items of Interest About Former Residents.

Former residents who left here in 1921, are Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDonald of Carlsberg, Mich., who visited her occasionally. While living in this city they occupied a house at the corner of First Avenue South and Lake Shore Drive on the site where the home of Attorney and Mrs. J. E. Frost now stands. The house was torn down several years when the property was sold.

Mrs. McDonald was born in Vermont and came to Michigan with her parents when a child of seven years. The family settled on a farm in Menominee county where she attended grammar school. She was married to Mr. McDonald on July 12, 1889 and a few years later the family came to this city to make their home. They have two sons Daniel and James who is a World War veteran, having served in France.

Mrs. McDonald states Escanaba will always be home to me. I always cherish memories of that city and of the many dear friends whom I always try to visit when in Escanaba. I like to hike and think nothing of a ten or twelve mile walk with only the birds for company. I like to study bird life, and wild animals always are interesting to me. I am interested in all outdoor sports and eagerly scan the newspapers for news, for reading is our great diversion out here in the woods on the homestead.

Mr. McDonald is kept busy about the farm and looking after the tourists who pitch their tents on the land adjoining their farm or inside their yard. Tourists and hunters stopping at the McDonald home are always well cared for while in that district and need never worry over meals while Mrs. McDonald is able to be about the home.

Road Work Starts On M-35 North of Cedar River Site

Two crews of 60 men are employed on alternate weeks in the construction of four miles of relocation on M-35 between Cedar River and Deer Creek, in Menominee county. The project is intended to help relieve employment conditions in the county; and to hasten the job the county road commission dropped their demand for a concrete pavement and accepted funds from the state for construction of a gravel road.

Seymour Justems, superintendent of the Menominee county road commission, says the state is bearing the full cost of construction, and the roadbed is being built to standards for concrete construction which is expected to come in the future. It is hoped to continue the work through the winter. The county is maintaining a road camp, and is transporting men to work Monday, returning them Saturday evening. Others hand together and drive cars. Other Menominee county road jobs now in progress are the relocation west of Hermansville on US-2, and grading on US-41 from Powers north. C. G. Bridges has the contract for the latter project.

Receives Appointment

Dr. Robert Baldwin

Among thirty-one medical students who recently passed civil service examinations for posts and who have been awarded certificates of appointment as internes in the Cook County hospital by President Emmet Wheelan, is Robert S. Baldwin of Chicago, formerly of this city. Dr. Baldwin is the son of Mrs. F. L. Baldwin, 605 Ludington street. A picture of the students, including Dr. Baldwin, also appeared on the Chicago Tribune newspaper, and The Tribune carried in the same edition a story of the appointments.

DEATH CLAIMS H. CLEEREMAN

Father of Escanaba Men Passes Away at Green Bay

Word was received here yesterday announcing the death of Henry Cleereman, Sr. of Green Bay, father of Anton W. and William H. Cleereman, of Escanaba. Mr. Cleereman had been in failing health for the past three months, suffering with diabetes. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in Green Bay, Dec. 26, and passed away early Wednesday morning.

Mr. Cleereman was born June 17, 1855, in Belgium, and was taken to this country by his parents when he was two years old. The family lived at Prebbe and later at Humboldt, Wis., and went to Green Bay to live there about 30 years ago. Mr. Cleereman was a pioneer lumberman of northern Wisconsin and Michigan and was a member of the Cleereman Land & Lumber company with extensive interests in this district, also a member of the firm of the Green Bay Barker & Machine company. He was widely known in Wisconsin and had spent considerable time in this section of the state looking after his timber holdings. The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cleereman was celebrated on Oct. 31, when all their family spent several days at the family home, 1110 Willow street, Green Bay.

Mr. Cleereman is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters: Henry, Jr., of Green Bay, Anton W. and William H., of this city. Mrs. D. P. Geyer and Mrs. Arthur Gernat, both of Green Bay. Eleven grandchildren also survive. The funeral services will probably be held Saturday at St. Peter and Paul's church in Green Bay, with Rev. Fr. Andrej as celebrant at the requiem high mass. Mr. and Mrs. Anton W. Cleereman and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cleereman of this city have been called to Green Bay. The two sons left here last evening while other members of the family will leave Friday. Interment will be in the family lot in Altoz cemetery.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church for Andrew Jackson who passed away Monday afternoon after an illness of several weeks.

Boarding Cars Are Boarded Up; Free Boarders Homeless

Because of the possibilities for fires and accidents, the Chicago and North Western railway has removed stores and locked up about thirty boarding cars, which have been used by homeless unemployed men as shelters for several weeks.

The boarding cars had been set out on a side-track, not distant from the treating plant, where millions of ties are piled in storage. The action taken by railway officials is along the lines of the policy carried out throughout the system.

As a result, about twenty-five men had to shift about to find other places to sleep. Most of them are now spending their nights in the cell quarters at the police station.

Youths Are Held in Trenary Theft

Three youths arrested by state police officers for breaking into a store at Trenary were held at the Delta county jail for state police from Newberry, who took the boys to their homes in Mackinac county Wednesday.

The trio included: Norman Hutchinson, 16, and Earl Hutchinson, 18, of Corning; Lloyd Peacock, 16, of Trenary, late of Rexton. The state officers said one of the boys had confessed that they broke off the lock on the store door and took a few articles of merchandise.

COUNTY URGED AS RURAL UNIT

Michigan Professor Says Reform Is Needed to Keep Taxes Down

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30. (P)—The county as the sole unit of local rural government was recommended today by Prof. P. A. Herbert, head of the Michigan State College Forestry Department, East Lansing, Mich., in an address before the Society of American Foresters convening here. The college expert predicted that the senate will continue to shoulder local responsibilities and that the additional burden will be absorbed by income taxes.

Declaring "It is hopeless to expect expenditure under present public organization from ever be reduced permanently," Professor Herbert suggested that land, economic and social inventories be made with a view toward reorganizing local government. "Such a study will show that the present-day counties are often too small or include areas that belong in some neighboring community," he said. "The adjusted county will be the only unit of rural government below the state. School districts, drainage districts, and so on will all be abolished as separate governmental units. The local people will still elect the county board and this board will vote the funds to be spent for all local purposes—true democracy and local control, but the expenditure of funds will be in the hands of an appointed trained executive, a county manager."

The Michigan State college professor contended that a study of local government will show that some public functions now performed by the county or other local units should be carried out by the state. The state, he said, eventually will finance virtually all the school systems, roads, and public welfare work. Foresters, Professor Herbert advised, should support legislation directed toward such reorganization rather than special forest tax laws. He charged that none of these laws had accomplished their purposes in the various states.

STATE MANAGERS TOO Vermillion, S. D., (P)—Prediction that the city manager form of government will be adopted by states within the lifetime of the present generation is made by Herman H. Teasdel, professor of government at the University of South Dakota.

Under the system, he foresees, says Professor Teasdel, a "state manager" would be chosen by a small commission of elected officers on a basis of business and executive ability. He would receive not less than $25,000 a year.

State Land Sold; Brings in $125,207

Lansing.—Within the past 18 months the state has received an income of $125,207 through lands sold by the Department of Conservation, it was announced by the Lands Division, which has charge of administering approximately 2,200,000 acres of public domain.

The income was received through the sale of 45,077 acres and 2,900 city lots.

In addition to selling the state owned lands, 97 homesteads were granted. They had an aggregate area of 8,900 acres.

The department spent $190,000 during the 18 months period from the Game Protection Fund for the purchase of 46,300 acres of land to be used for game refuge and public hunting lands purposes.

Monthly Reports Required On Crime

Starting the new year, all Delta county law enforcement officers, including the city police departments, sheriff's department, and village marshals, will be under the new uniform crime reporting system in Michigan.

Under this plan the officers will be required to fill out the consolidated monthly report blank, giving a list of all crimes, arrests, convictions and sentences for state records.

Menominee.—An estimated $17,000 in real and personal property with its annual yearly income of $600 will be distributed under the will of George T. Dumville, who with his son, Walter, was assassinated December 23rd, according to the petition to probate, the document filed by the firm of Eastman and Rose on behalf of the petitioner, Mrs. Ida Dumville Gram, of Menominee, a daughter.

The will, which was made in 1924, left the property to the three children of the testator—Ida Gram, Leslie of Chicago, and the deceased son, Walter, who leaves his widow as his only heir—but omits any bequest to an adopted son, Charles, whose address the petition states is unknown.

The property included in the petition is $10,000 in personal property and $7,000 in real estate.

A petition by his widow to probate the estate of Walter Dumville was filed at the same time.

Injuries Revealed

Menominee.—Dr. H. T. Sethney today reported that X-ray examinations of Ross Langill, chief engineer of the Prescott Company, who was run down by an auto Sunday night in front of his home, revealed incomplete fracture of the right collar bone and right shoulder blade.

Mr. Langill also suffered a jagged laceration on the right side of the head, scalp wounds and an injury to the left ankle.

X-ray examination was made at St. Joseph's hospital yesterday after which Mr. Langill returned to his home, 1007 Ogden avenue. John J. Fournier, 1404 Somerville avenue, was driver of the car which struck Mr. Langill as he was crossing the street.

Wounded Boy Dies

Iron Mountain.—Ivan Bartlett, eight-year-old son of Mrs. Ida Bartlett, residing on a farm a half mile from Sagola on what is known as the Lecman road, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning in the Iron Mountain General hospital as the result of a bullet wound received Saturday afternoon while he was walking along a road near Sagola with his brother, Gerald, age 11.

Death, according to Dr. D. R. Smith and Dr. G. M. Belhumeur, was the direct result of pneumonia, resulting as a complication from the bullet wound.

Although given a bare chance for recovery by physicians early yesterday the boy grew steadily worse last night and early this

Escanaba Fishermen Find Business Fair

With a price of around 11c a pound paid at the docks, Escanaba fishermen are finding a fair return in the fishing business these days. Several boats have been out setting nets this week, and the lifts have brought some fair catches. Most of the fish are sold locally, and individual shipping to outside markets has not been found profitable at present prices.

Fishermen are wondering whether they are going to have any ice for ice fishing this season. There is no ice on Bay de Noc now, but last year's ice is still holding out to fill the needs in chilling fish for shipment.

Laing Hospital

Mrs. E. H. Hunt, Rock, is convalescing after a three weeks' illness.

Chester Mroczkowski, Bark River, is improving after an operation for relief from appendicitis.

Mrs. Nell Fillmore, 1406 Montana avenue, Gladstone, submitted to a serious operation, and is getting on favorably.

Driver of Creamery Truck Badly Injured

An automobile driven by Joseph Douit of Escanaba struck a truck driven by William Asselin of Iron Mountain, and Asselin is in the General hospital at Iron Mountain with a broken pelvis bone and other injuries as a result of the accident.

The collision occurred at a street intersection in Iron Mountain, the truck overturning as it was struck broadside by the Douit car. Asselin will be confined for some time as a result of the mishap, his physician reports.

The oldest assembly in the world is thought to be the Welsh bardic congress, the Elsteddod.

DRUNK DRIVER GETS 90 DAYS

Adam Michaud, Given Maximum Penalty for Violation

A sentence of 90 days in the county jail was yesterday imposed upon Adam Michaud, city, who pleaded guilty, upon arraignment before Justice of the Peace A. T. Sohlberg, to driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The alternative of paying a fine of $100 and costs of $7.25 was given Michaud, but he chose the jail term and commitment was made. In addition, the defendant's operator's license was revoked for a period of one year. Michaud was arrested Tuesday night about 11:30 o'clock by local police while driving in a drunken condition down Central avenue. The penalty was the maximum that can be imposed, because of the fact that it was not Michaud's first appearance before a court.

THEATRES

RIALTO
How Joe E. Brown, he of the funny "pan" and wide mouth does it, nobody knows, but he always turns out to be a "great lover" on the screen. It will be seen in "Going Wild" at the Rialto theatre tonight, and, as usual, he "gets his girl."

Brown is one of the few comedians in whom any romantic interest centers. "Midnight Frolic" "Naughty Flirt" Alice White's latest First National starring vehicle is coming to the Rialto theatre as the first feature of the New Year's midnight frolic, tonight.

The second feature will be the latest Laurel and Hardy comedy "Bean Hunk" and I hope Sam would do well in studying the plot as it suggests an excellent idea for stimulating business in government recreation offices. In this picture the funsters essay the roles of legionnaires and a beautiful girl is responsible for enlistment of an entire regiment.

STOCKS ENJOY A LATE RALLY

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Today, Pre. Day, Month Ago, 3 Yrs. Ago, High 1931, Low 1931, Low 1929.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

(Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, Dec. 30. (AP)—Encouraged by a firmer tone in bonds, stocks allowed themselves a late rally today, although during most of the session trade was quite perfunctory and uneventful.

Stocks had a fair advance soon after the opening when traders appeared to be making the most of the wage cut accepted by some Southern Pacific employees. This improvement, however, failed to draw a following and gains dwindled away.

Another reversal of the trend, which showed that net advances in leading issues ruled from a fraction to a couple of points. Transfers totaled 2,119,931 shares.

U. S. Steel rose swiftly in the final quarter hour, getting 1 7/8 higher on transfers of 1,000 to 5,000 shares. It then went down just as fast and by the close only an eighth of the gain remained.

American Telephone, which had refused to follow the morning upsurge to finish a point to the good. Santa Fe was up 3/4, Bethlehem, Southern Pacific and American Can 1/2, and General Electric, Union Carbide, and General Motors, National Biscuit and Case less than a point.

National Steel, Consolidated Gas and Allied Chemical were 2 points higher. Call money went to 3 1/2 per cent late in the afternoon, thus setting a new high for this year of extremely low rates.

Other accommodations here unchanged. Toward the close of 1930 call funds advanced to 4 per cent and greater firmness would not have been surprising at this time.

Mid-week reports from the steel industry were probably better than had been expected. Profits on production might be under 20 per cent, were not borne out.

On the other hand, operations firmed a point to 22 per cent, according to "Iron Age." There should be a considerably better showing next week.

Price tendencies are still downward, but producers are said to be working toward halting the decline.

Moderate Rally Is Staged In Bonds

BOND MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Today, Pre. Day, Month Ago, 3 Yrs. Ago, High 1931, Low 1931, Low 1929.

New York, Dec. 30. (AP)—The bond market, with selling for income tax losses practically ended for the year, staged an irregularly moderate recovery today.

United States government issues, depressed for several days, turned right-about-face and led the upward movement.

Although the trend was considerably mixed during most of the session, the treasury loans displayed firmness after a slight dip at the opening.

Best quality domestic obligations followed in the wake of the government list. The average for 60 corporate issues closed with a gain for the first time in more than a week.

While the rally did not make any distinctive showing, there was apparently a more favorable sentiment for the better class carriers.

Trading On Curb Mart Is Lively, Many Stocks Rise

New York, Dec. 30. (AP)—Trading on the New York curb market was lively today and prices of many leading stocks advanced 1 to 2 points with a rally well sustained to the close.

Woolworth Ltd. was a feature, a single transaction of 35,000 shares appearing at 8 1/4 for a fractional gain.

Newmont Mining was well bought, closing at 11 7/8 for a net gain of 2 3/8 points. New Jersey Zinc was also up more than 2 points, closing at 23 1/2.

Other mining and metal stocks were steady to firm. Electric Bond & Share issues continued active, the common closing at 11 1/8 for a gain of 5/8 point and the preferred at 52 5/8, up 1 5/8 points.

Most utilities were in fairly brisk demand with American Gas & Electric gaining 2 1/8 points on the day.

4,000 Year Old Disease Cured; Scientists Urge Child Loyalty

(Associated Press Science Writer) New Orleans, Dec. 29. (AP)—The cure for one form of a disease 4,000 years old, devised by Harvard medical men working in Central American jungles, was announced tonight before the American association for the advancement of science.

A majority of representative educators believe children should be taught to place loyalty to mankind above loyalty to country. This was reported by a sociologist.

Another scientist told of finding that a family's wealth determines roughly the proportion of boy babies it will have.

The worms, called by scientists the "family filaridiasis," attack men, animals, birds, fish and snakes. They are referred to in the Bible, said Dr. Strong, as the "plague of fiery serpents" that attacked the Israelites on the shores of the Red Sea.

TOUGH REVEREND Calgary, Alberta.—A well known Calgary minister is taking the law into his own hands and is making this city a tough pasture for criminals. Two thieves recently made an attempt to steal some tools out of the minister's car. Spying them from a room in his home, the minister ran out of the house in his shirt sleeves and very undignified-like pursued the thieves. HIBERNIANS ASK REPEAL OF LAW

Prohibition Resolution Adopted by Group at Escanaba

At a recent meeting of the order, the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Escanaba adopted a resolution urging a repeal of the 18th Amendment as an economic measure declaring that such repeal would be for the "material and moral good of the country". Copies of the resolution have been forwarded to state and national legislators.

The resolution follows:

To the Officers and Members of Division No. 1, A. O. H.:

Whereas, it is the intent of the laws of our country that in assuming the obligations of citizenship that we give attention and assistance when possible, to the problems and conditions of the country and in maintaining integrity and glory; and

Whereas, at present we are confronted with the most serious condition of unemployment and general business depression ever experienced by our country; and

Whereas, we feel so deeply the effects of these conditions that our attention has been directed to a study of the causes leading to them and we are convinced that one of the leading causes for the distress present with us is the enactment known as "the Eighteenth Amendment" and its attending legislation; and

Whereas, all good citizens should declare themselves at this time that our representatives may know our convictions; therefore,

Be It Resolved, by Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians of Escanaba, Michigan, at a regular session held this, the fifth day of December, 1931, that we do hereby declare in favor of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of our country and its attending legislation, for the material and moral good of our country; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be mailed to each of our representatives in both the state and national governments and a copy made a part of

December Keeps Up With 1930 In Tax Collections

Tax collections for December in the city of Escanaba are about on a par with last year, judging from records at the office of A. J. Manley, city treasurer. With a total levy of over $325,000, it is expected that the close of business today will bring tax payments up to about 16 percent of the total. Last year on Dec. 31 about $55,000 in local taxes had been paid up.

The larger tax bills have not been received at yet, and when these start to come in the total collections will be boosted more rapidly. Last January's collections totalled around $205,000.

Ishpeming Police Claim Man Here

Detained by Escanaba officers as he stepped off a train in this city, Corbett Campbell, 26, was held by the local police department at the request of the chief of police at Ishpeming, where a warrant was held for his arrest. The Ishpeming officer came to get his man Wednesday. Campbell gave Virginia as his home state.

Department of State Revenue is $51,489,376 in 11 Months

Lansing, Mich. — Although few citizens realize that the department of state is one of Michigan's major revenue producing agencies, department records show that $51,489,376 were collected for the first eleven months of 1931.

Among the outstanding highlights of the past year is the fact that with 66 building and loan associations with assets of $165,269,540 operating in Michigan under the supervision of the department, not one of those associations closed its doors because of adverse economic conditions. Indications are that all will "come through" in fine shape.

The gasoline tax was the biggest revenue producer of the department, $22,010,367 being collected during the first eleven months of 1931. Motor vehicle weight taxes took second place with $20,182,885. From corporation privileged and franchise fees, the department turned $7,023,936 into the treasury. The new operators' and chauffeurs' license law yielded $772,553 while the old law, in effect but a few months last spring produced $22,051.

From the malt tax the state received $555,173, all of which by law must be used to pay the state's share of caring for tuberculars. The automobile title division collected $488,321; while licensing of private detectives yielded $2,000. Department investigators added $146,138 to the state's revenues through enforcement of laws regarding use of foreign license plates and compelling truck owners to pay proper fees on the correct weights of their vehicles, and $76,322 from malt tax enforcement.

Many of the larger tax bills have not been received at yet, and when these start to come in the total collections will be boosted more rapidly. Last January's collections totalled around $205,000.

ODD JOBS

Many Women Find Work To Support Families

BY ADRIENNE TOUSIGNANT
"Necessity is the mother of invention," so reads an old adage. And it is true that necessity has brought out many talents and other wise unknown ability which would have remained dormant for many years had not the people been forced to earn their living during the period of depression through which we are passing.

The depression has at least done one good turn to a large number of persons. It has taught them to be generous.

Just before the holidays children were seen on the streets of the city selling wreaths made from evergreens; there were more people selling Christmas trees this year than ever before and in many years previous; strong, healthy looking husbands were selling home-baked goods from house to house, while their wives were at home baking the food; men were employed doing housework and many women who never in their life had scrubbed a floor or did a family washing are now "doing their own."

Others made little fancy baskets from twigs, painted them and filled them with paper flowers. These, too, were on sale by the unemployed. There are many women weaving and braiding rugs made from old rags; some are raising dogs and canaries which they offer for sale at reasonably low prices; others are doing plain sewing and some women are piecing quilts.

It is true all this work helps to keep the wolf from the door, and on the other hand it keeps folks busy so they have less time to ponder over their misfortunes. There are many women who admire home-made quilts, afghans and rugs; they have not the time nor the ambition to make these articles which require many hours of their time; they are perhaps gainfully employed at some office or place of business and when night time comes, are too tired to stop and sew for a few hours. If they still want these quilts and rugs, why not look up some of the women who would be happy to earn the money right now when it is so badly needed in some homes.

Everyone can do their bit by helping out in this manner. Again, they may want to entertain and are too busy to make rolls and cakes; they could order these in advance and help a family who needs the cash.

A fine New Year's resolution would be to help everyone who is in need, not only by giving them the cash, but by helping them to earn a few cents daily if possible.

The hours spent in work are happy hours for those who have been seeking employment for many months; their cares are more easily forgotten, their hearts are filled with hope for a brighter future and while they are working their worries are lightened.

A thin coating of chromium plating is being applied to U. S. Army large and small calibre guns to keep them from rusting.
