

Kiwanians Hear Talk by Lemmer

The value of a good name was explained in an inspiring talk delivered by John A. Lemmer, principal of the Escanaba high school, at the meeting of the Escanaba-Wells Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel yesterday noon. Mr. Lemmer's subject was: "He Who Steals My Purses, Steals Trash."

In opening his talk, Mr. Lemmer reviewed briefly the origin of some names. He said that the use of the surname did not appear in England until about the twelfth century, and cited some of the odd names that are assumed by people in various countries.

A good name in business is known as good will, and always has real money value, Mr. Lemmer explained. He told of the importance of various trade names, stating that the Sun-Kist fruit growers value their name at 10 million dollars. Its worth is demonstrated by the fact that Sun-Kist fruits sold for 4 1/2 cents a box more than the products of other growers during one year. Other firms and persons who have capitalized on their good names were cited by the speaker.

"Your name is your most precious possession," Mr. Lemmer said. "You can get insurance on virtually everything, but not on your name. A good name is intangible and of inestimable value, and no insurance company will take the risk. You pay the premiums yourself; the dividends are high, too. And you collect them all."

It was announced at yesterday's meeting that Jack Cheving, backfield coach at Notre Dame university, would speak at a joint meeting of Kiwanians and Rotarians next Monday evening. Athletes of Escanaba high school will be guests of the service clubs on that occasion.

Several numbers were played by the Escanaba high school string quartet, directed by Frank Karas, and were well received by the Kiwanians. Members of the quartet were Melba Anderson, Jean Royce, Elsie Karas and Melvin Holm.

Munising News :-

Diligent inquiry concerning a questionable report that some one of our local politicians was interested in nominating three more supervisors in the city failed to disclose the identity of any one concerned in such a move. In fact the present campaign for local offices is one of the quietest ever witnessed in this city. There are, so far, but two candidates for city commissioner and but three candidates for supervisors. Of course there is always time, until ten days before the election, for candidates to file petitions but so far no others have evinced any desire to run for any of the offices mentioned.

DISADVANTAGES OF THE DOLE

We have been told plenty of times, during the past few months, that the dole is demoralizing. Nobody ever took the trouble to show just how and why it is demoralizing, though...

From reports of some 900 social workers and public health nurses, the Welfare Council was able to get a pretty clear picture of what happens in a hitherto self-supporting, self-reliant family when it is forced to live on charity.

"Most of them," says the survey, "really wanted work. When they got it without too long a wait, they were happy that they could get along without further assistance...

"When employment was long delayed, those who at first were uncomfortable at the necessity for seeking assistance, and grateful for whatever was given, became demanding and grasping..."

The survey explains, too, that many unemployed workers "became so mentally and physically fatigued by the constant discouragement of unsuccessful search for employment that they were as open to the mental infection of dependency, as they were to various physical infections."

This amply buttresses all the bad things that we have been hearing about the dole. Yet it is worth noticing that the people studied in this report were the recipients of local charity. Their money was coming from their immediate fellow-citizens and not from Uncle Sam.

One kind of dole, evidently, is just as bad as another kind. It is tragic that people have to ask for help; inevitable, when they do, that some of them will lose their self-reliance and their energy.

BRAINS AND SPORTS

THE oft-expressed opinion that the creation of high enthusiasm in athletics has a harmful effect on scholarship does not hold true in the Escanaba high school, according to some interesting figures compiled by Principal John A. Lemmer.

Mr. Lemmer reports that 74 per cent of the first string team on the Eskymo basketball team had honor grades of A's and B's during the season, while among the entire squad of 23 members the percentage was 68.

The principal states that he has noticed when the athletes are playing well on the football gridiron, basketball court or track, they are studying harder in the classrooms. Experience has shown, too, that the bright student is also the smart athlete.

Under the present system, school sports are not allowed to hinder the class-room work of the participants. Athletes must pass in every subject every week in order to be eligible for play.

Success in athletics also has a beneficial effect on the entire student body. When the high school team is winning games, all the students show more interest in their school work...

THE DIME-A-DANCE GIRL

(By NEA Service) BY JOAN CLAYTON

CHAPTER XII

A WEEK later Ellen called on Symes. He had telephoned to say he had received the license. The week following Steven's death had been a cruel test of the girl's courage...

She was a trifle pale that crisp fall day but her blue eyes were clear and steady and her sweet mouth could smile. Symes looked at the girl and saw that she was changed. There were courage and bravery in her face now...

"I wanted to go to the funeral," Ellen announced forlornly at Symes pulled up a chair for her. "That would have been the sheerest folly," he pointed out. "You've been so sensible about everything else I'm surprised to hear you say that."

Ellen forced a valiant, apologetic smile. He looked away with the consideration she had found so unexpected, then looked back again. She was composed now. Her hands were steady and her eyes were dry...

me, but I couldn't do that. There'd be too much gossip and speculation—and besides my brother-in-law works there. I wouldn't want to chance anything coming up that might hurt him."

"I'm sensible about that too—now," she said quietly. "I've wanted to tell you and here's my chance." Symes began in awkward haste. "If there's anything you need I'll be glad to be of assistance."

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

MOTHER GOOSE It seems as though I always knew My Mother Goose. I can't recall Just when it was I learned it all. My mother, as wise mothers do...

And so I learned to laugh, to sigh With sympathy, to love the good. To hate the wrong, and understood A little of the world that I Must live in—for it proved the same...

Then, too, I learned the love of time. That all must love to live life well. As from her lips the accents fell I learned the good will always chime And wrong make discord in our lives...

We labor lone some gift to leave To these, our children, when we go. Yet in our fathers' hearts we know The richest gift they shall receive: 'Twill be a tender memory Of childhood at a mother's knee...

ELLEN looked around the ordered desk, whipped a match from a holder, struck it and applied the glowing end to her marriage license. Symes made no move. She held the burning paper until the flame came too near her fingers. Then she walked to the half open window, released the paper and watched the tiny flame drift downward 20 stories toward the street.

"That's so I won't be tempted to use it," she said, turning around again. "If there was any nobility in my running away with you that morning, which I'm beginning to doubt," she explained slowly...

"What made you ask that?" "Nothing especially," he answered, troubled by the steadiness of her glance. "I just wondered because it happens that your presentiment concerning Fergus was correct. He's a rogue—or so I believe."

"Of course we'll never prove it. However, I've come to the conclusion that Fergus is dangerous." "What could he do?" the girl whispered. She looked again at the marriage license in her hands.

"In the unlikely event he is able to locate you, in the unlikely event he does turn up, just ignore anything he says or, better still, refer him to me. I'll settle him quick enough. Blackmail's actionable!" Symes continued to regard her.

WORK PLEDGES TOTAL $16,701

Nine of 84 Districts Covered in Escanaba Drive for Jobs

With nine districts completed, and 30 heard from, the total amount of work pledged up to Monday in Escanaba's "war against depression" stood at $16,701, representing some 230 separate jobs planned by local residents for spring and summer. Most of the teams in the 84 different districts of the city have been at work, but 54 of the teams have as yet turned in no report to headquarters.

Thomas Beaton, Jr., general chairman of the drive, in a report given at the American Legion meeting last night, urged Legion men working on the volunteer committee to wind up their solicitation as soon as possible, so as to complete the drive by March 31.

It is estimated that between $80,000 and $100,000 worth of work in improvement, repair, maintenance and modernization projects will have been listed for Escanaba when the drive is completed. Those solicited in the campaign for jobs are allowed their own preference in choosing the help or contractor to do their jobs, the sponsors of the drive being concerned merely with securing pledges for as much work as possible. Savings in materials and labor costs are emphasized as factors in favor of having work done immediately. Spring clean-up work, doorbells that refuse to ring, basements that need renovating, porches that need flooring, and a variety of other possibilities are sources of potential jobs in Escanaba.

CREEL CENSUS CARDS COUNTED

Fishermen Comment On Their Luck and Equipment

Twelve thousand creel census cards, filled out during the year 1931 and indicating "fishermen's luck," are now being compiled by the Institute for Fisheries Research of the Department of Conservation.

The institute will soon make a report of its findings and will show what luck anglers have had in taking various species of fish at various times of the year; and how the fish were taken. The report will also probably list the remarks and suggestions made on the cards by fishermen.

For several years the department has been distributing the creel census cards in an attempt to obtain some definite knowledge as to fishing conditions in all parts of the state. The cards have been sent directly to sportsmen and have been distributed by conservation officers and members of the Isaac Walton League. The information obtained by these cards is considered highly valuable by the Fish Division of the department, in that thousands of them are returned, fair evidence as to the actual fishing conditions in certain lakes and streams.

The cards ask that the name of the county, and the waters fished, be given definitely. If on a stream, the particular part of that stream. There is a place on the card for notation of the number of fish of various species taken, the average length of these fish and the number of undersized of each species hooked. The person filling out the card is also asked how many fish were caught with worms, live bait, spinner, plug, artificial fly, spear, dip nets, or any other means.

Other information listed indicates the numbers of lines used if a party is fishing together and the time spent fishing.

Persons filling out the cards are encouraged to list their comments as to fishing conditions and fishing regulations.

U. P. Briefs

Suits Are Settled
Iron Mountain—All of the damage suits pending against Reginald Quayle, of Norway, resulting from an automobile collision on U. S. highway 2 the night of July 13, 1931, have been settled out of court, J. P. Stewart, attorney for the plaintiff, stated today. Three cars figured in the crash, the one driven by Emanuel Pancheri and driven by his daughter and a third driven by Carl Hooper.

Following the crash, which cost the life of one girl, suits totalling more than $100,000 were filed against Quayle, as an individual, and also against he and the other car owners in the mishap, in the case of Inez Riley Burton, a passenger in Quayle's car who died later in the Penn hospital at Norway from her injuries. The latter suit, for $30,000, was filed by the administratrix of her estate. It also has been settled in connection with the settlements.

Takes Own Life
Menominee—Andrew C. Olsen, 69-year-old bachelor, took his own life in the home of his sister, Mrs. Sophia Anderson, 4119 North State street, at 7 a. m. today with a 30-US calibre rifle. Depression caused by financial reverses caused his act.

Mr. Olsen came to Menominee four years ago from his home in Biwabik, Minn., and had lived here with his sister since. Depreciated value of his holdings of Bethlehem Steel stock led Mr. Olsen to borrow money to purchase more stock to cover his loss and suffered further losses.

A Book A Day By Bruce Catton

Complete strategic victory is impossible in modern warfare. The enemy forces in the field cannot be crushed. The army can only win tactical advantages, which must be exploited skillfully by political genius behind the front if a warring nation is to get the kind of peace it wants.

This thesis is advanced and ably defended by Karl Tschuppik in "Ludendorff—the Tragedy of a Military Mind"—an interesting study of the World War.

Germany's rays the writer, lost the war because her leaders never grasped the fact. Political ability, he asserts, was utterly lacking. At the dawn of 1917 an advantageous negotiated peace might have been had; a year later, at Brest-Litovsk, after the Russian collapse, an even better one was possible.

But Germany, he says, had been sold on the old idea of Moltke and Schlieffen—the idea that the only peace treaty worth considering was one which could be dictated after the opposing armies had been completely crushed.

This idea, he continues, was chiefly exemplified in Ludendorff. Hence the desperate insanity of the submarine campaign; hence the ruinous offensives of March and April, 1918, which came so close to winning but which, the author insists, could not, from the very nature of modern war, ever really have won.

The way in which this idea is developed makes an interesting book. It is not aimed at a large audience. Much of it, to the ordinary reader not well versed in history, will seem dull. But it constitutes a novel and stimulating way of looking at the tragic events of the greatest of wars.

Many children hate to write thank-you letters for birthday gifts and so on for the simple reason that they have no equipment of their own. Every child should have a little box of stationery, a portfolio or a desk to write at, and a fountain pen.

Contract Inspires A Bit of Verse

Those of you who are playing and those of you who are learning will appreciate this bit of verse written by a versatile young woman, Miss Laura Palmquist, who is in charge of the Jefferson school's kindergarten:

"Contract" bridge — contract Every single day. Official rules of Cubertson— Which do you play? Don't forget you're vulnerable, Whatever that may mean. Be sure to bid the proper count And make your partner beam. Two and three are five and four are nine And that's the end. Never that 'No Trump' with that. Or you may lose a friend. Count the high tricks in your hand— Also count the low. Don't exclaim, or sigh or frown And don't be overlow. If you hold a 'bust-hand' Of course you'll have to pass. But if you hold a bid at all, Don't sit there like an ass. Dishes waiting in the sink And only one clean knife— We'll have to wash another one— Contract is the life!"

Favorite Recipe Betty Ann

Another excellent recipe for a dish Betty Ann readers are certain to like has been received from Mrs. Emma P. Murray of Gladstone, for Kol-Dolmar or Pigs in Blankets.

- Kol-Dolmar (Pigs in Blankets) One pound round steak One pound pork, lean Put through food chopper. One cup bread crumbs, soaked in water or milk. One egg. Salt and pepper.

Mix thoroughly.

Parboil one large head of cabbage. As outer leaves get tender, remove so inner leaves will get tender. Cut away the thickest part of the center veins of leaves. Take a tablespoon of meat and roll in each cabbage leaf. Fasten with toothpicks. Take remainder of head of cabbage and cut up coarsely and put in bottom of kettle. Then place your wrapped meat on top, adding a little water and a few bits of butter. Let cook slowly for one and one-half hours or until the cabbage is a golden brown. Serve hot.

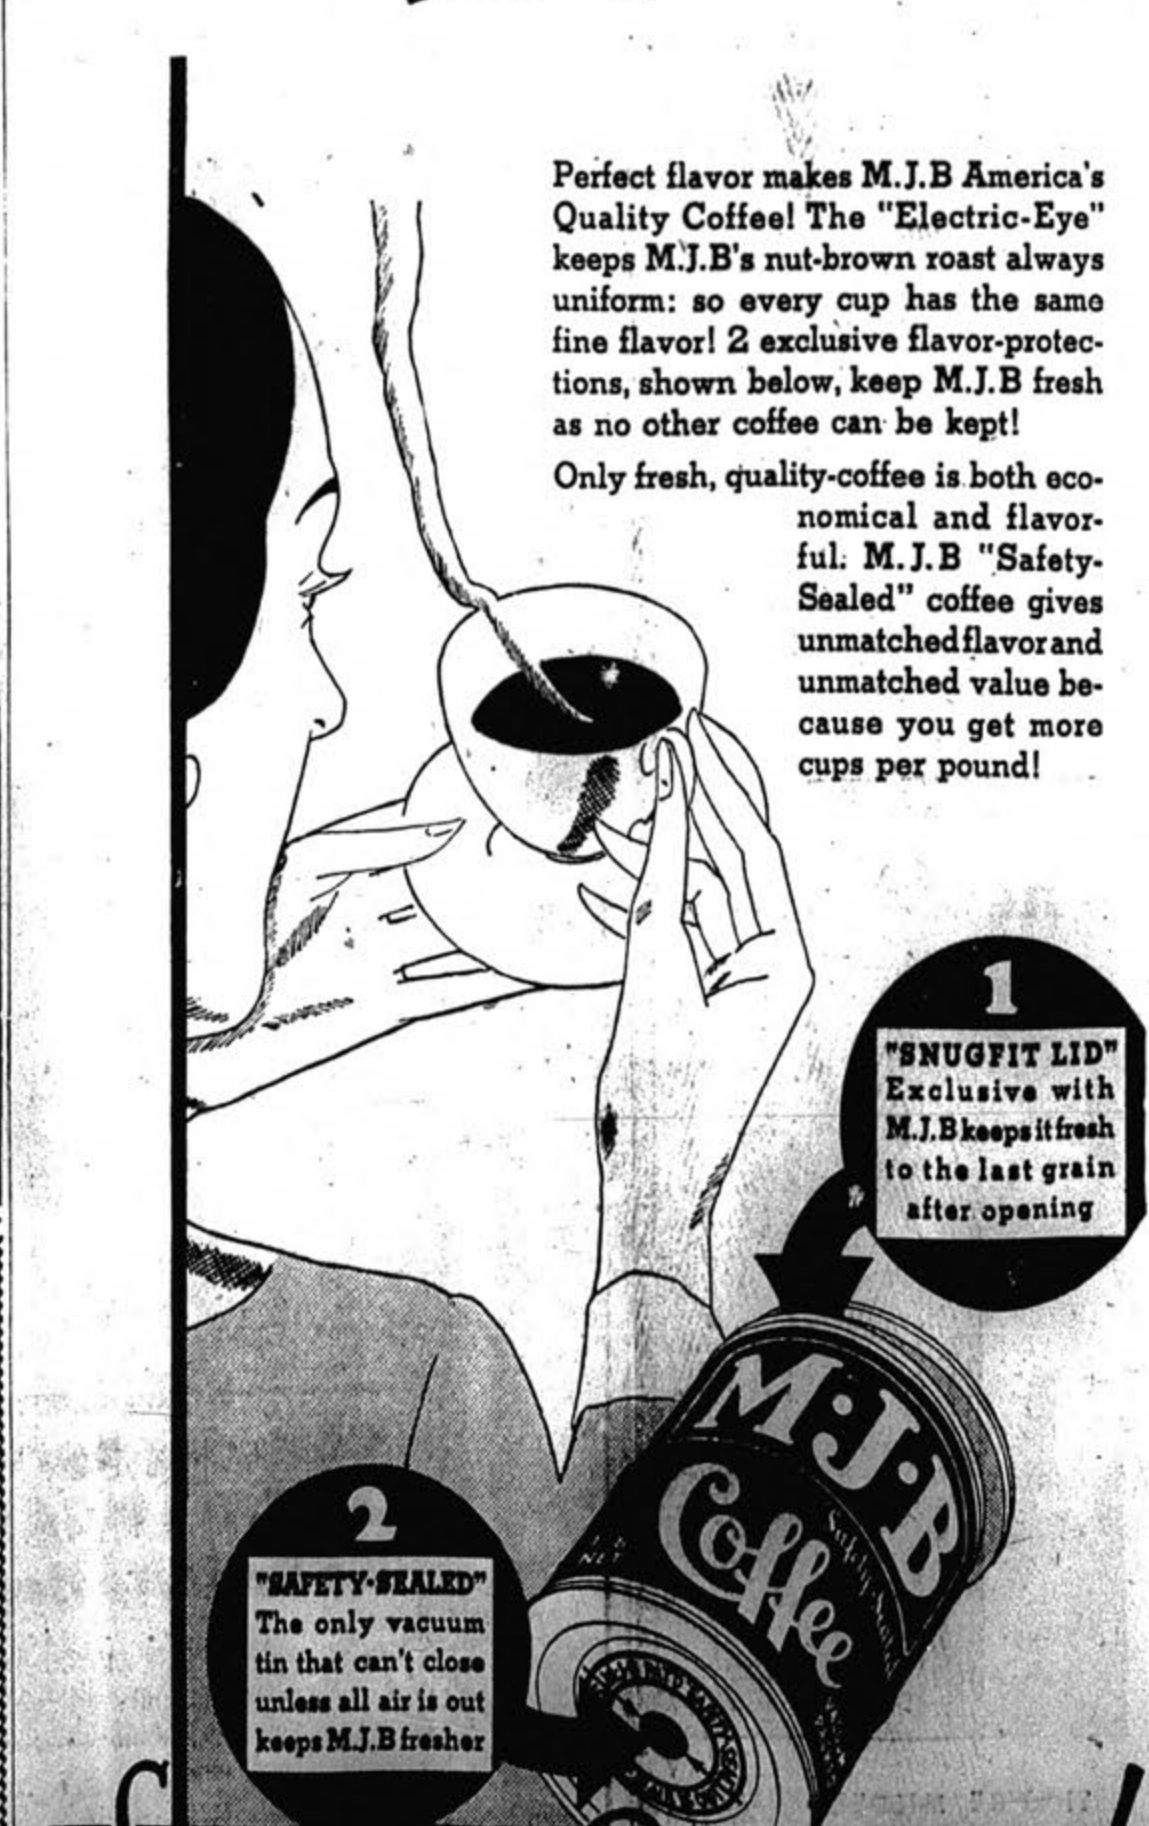

Mrs. Emma P. Murray, Gladstone.

The Town Turned Out in Glad Array; For It Was Broadway's Circus Day When Ziegfeld's Girls Were Glorified—And Most Almighty Cute, Beside

BY GILBERT SWAN NEA Service Writer

New York—For several years, Mons. Flo Ziegfeld has glorified the American sidewalk whenever he produced a new show.

The show that is staged just outside his expansive and expensive lobby is quite as fascinating as any to be found inside his ultra-modernistic theater.

In the instance of his latest, titled "Hot Cha," kiegls that would have shamed the Hollywood hills glared down on the follies of Sixth Avenue.

At such occasions, Broadway admits its weakness for publicity—or, if you prefer, notoriety! And the shrewd Mons. Ziegfeld, being a showman, gives all and sundry an opportunity to put on an act.

On the following morning the list of names "of those present" is as conglomerate a mixture of blue blood, red blood and anemia as the modern test tubes can produce.

But the same M. Ziegfeld has never been known to glorify the American libretto. Once, perhaps by accident, "Whoopie" happened to have as its parent a fair farce, and so the story held up.

Significant of changing times in the theater, the "one-dollar top" show has reappeared on Broadway. Outside of the movie palaces, no stage attraction has played to such slashed fees since the war.

Silhouette Will Balance Sleeves in Spring Mode

Paris, (P)—A long lean silhouette designed to balance the swollen swaggering sleeves has made its debut in the midseason fashions which herald spring styles.

As sleeves have increased in importance and accent Parisian designers have reduced the yardage in blouses and skirts in order to produce graceful proportions.

Lines Close-Fitting Formal frocks and coats have taken on a close-fitting line which makes the modish moderns appear taller and slimmer than in many seasons.

Lighter Colors Seen Lighter colors are likewise making their debuts with the mid-season beige, silver grey, greige (a cross between beige and grey), leaf green and coral red are being adopted for formal afternoon wear.

One of the smartest of these formal day frocks is a pale grey satin designed with a close-fitting bodice having a draped neckline, a slender skirt which swirls in godets at the knees and sleeves which are accented by large underarm puffs below the elbows.

WARMER DAYS ARE DUE SOON

Spring Arrives Sunday; Escanaba Kept Cool By Ice on Lake

Without making any undue fuss about its arrival, gentle Spring sneaked in and registered Sunday, as the northbound sun hopped over the equator, and thus ended officially another mid-winter. According to the weather bureau at Escanaba, it was just 2:06 p. m., local time, when Spring put in her appearance Sunday. Escanaba is a little off on Central Standard Time so it was 1:54 p. m., CST. Days are now over 12 hours long. The sunrise Monday was officially registered at 5:45 a. m. and the setting at 6:02 p. m. Northern summer days have more daylight than those in the South, due to the fact that there is a longer twilight period in the north. The northern summer is also about six days longer than the southern one, and the sun now will remain north of the equator until Sept. 23. The winter just past was one of the warmest on record, although not quite as mild as the winter of 1930-31. The temperature yesterday was about normal for March, registering 30 at noon, and there is less than the average amount of snow on the ground for this time of year. Ice on the lake and bay is keeping the breezes cool in this vicinity right now, but the weather bureau here sees warmer weather on the way shortly. There are more than 50,400 automobile dealers in the United States.

He states that thus far Marion Sundquist, Stanley and Ronald Peterson appear to have an edge on other pupils. Words which have proved "stickers" include survey, syndicate, strategy, quarantine, allegiance, miscellaneous, pneumonia and pneumatic. "Your contest," he states in closing, "has created an interest to become better spellers, especially among the wiser students." MOTHER KNEW "Who gave you those flowers, Florence?" How Nation's "Average Man" Is Meeting the Depression

BY ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer
Fort Madison, Iowa.—The average man is still making money in these days of depression, but not as much as he used to. He thinks business is improving—everything considered—and believes that we are merely going through a period of reconstruction which, in the end, will mean the return of prosperity, but on a different level. He doesn't think Hoover can be re-elected this year, because he sees the people in the mood for a change at Washington. He thinks the Democratic nominee—who will likely be our next president—will be some "dark horse" who has not yet been mentioned, preferably a man of the Theodore Roosevelt type. Such are the present views of Roy L. Gray, proprietor of a Fort Madison clothing and furnishing store, who four years ago became nationally famous when he was chosen by a leading magazine as the United States' most typical "average man." Out of all the 120,000,000 persons who make up this nation from New York to San Francisco, he was selected as that nearest human approach to that mythical figure to whom politicians look for their votes, whose business looks for customers and for whom editors plan their newspapers. Seeking the answer to the question of what the average man in this country is thinking about today, I came to Fort Madison to interview Mr. Gray. I found him behind the counter of his clothing store on the town's main business street, getting ready for the day's trade. "How's business?" I asked the average man. "My business is good, considering this so-called depression," Mr. Gray replied. "I have never figured this period exactly a depression—as I see it, we are going through a period of reconstruction, getting back to finding a level where we will stay. But I don't believe this bunk about prosperity being right around the corner; I think improvement will be gradual. But it is coming now, gradually." "What do you think of Hoover's chances for re-election?" I asked. "Well," he replied, "I'm registered as a Republican, but I believe this election will see a change in party. I'm not criticizing Mr. Hoover, but when times are bad people just naturally will want a change. I think Mr. Hoover has done as much as any man could do under similar conditions, but conditions are against him."

Former Marquette Resident Suicides

Marquette, Mich., March 21. (Special)—Earl S. Williams, 33, formerly of Marquette, was found dead Friday night in a medical laboratory at Laredo, Texas. The coroner decided the death was due to poison, self-administered. Earl S. Williams was graduated from the Marquette high school in 1918 and attended Northern State Teachers college for two years, being a member of the S. A. T. C. in the fall of 1918. He then went to the Philippine Islands, where he served in the chemical division of the United States army. He later went to Chicago where he was employed as an analytical chemist until 1929, when he opened his own laboratory there. About a year ago, following a two months' visit with relatives in Marquette, he went to Laredo, Texas. The body is expected to arrive here Tuesday morning and will be taken to the Swanson funeral home, where funeral services will be held Wednesday. Mr. Williams leaves his wife and one son, Donald, aged three, of Chicago, his mother, Mrs. Harriet Williams, of Treary; his father, John A. Williams, of Marquette; one sister, Mrs. M. E. Tidy, of Grand Rapids; and one brother, Roy H. Williams, of this city.

Catch— Them Before They Climb...

PRICES today are below "sea-level", if we may be permitted to use the phrase as a simile for par.

They're actually "sub" prices in the sense that many commodities, and principally the necessities of life, are being sold below cost of production, or at least below the cost at which merchants, manufacturers and wage-earners can continue to produce them and maintain normal standards of living.

What, then, is the inevitable result? Prices must come "up for air" . . . national and individual prosperity demands it and the upturn is immediately in the offing.

Today's prices are depression prices. They can only be compared with prices during other periods of depression of past years . . . they cannot remain in this country any more than depression can continue in a country so basically prosperous in resources, in enterprise, in wealth, in commercial and industrial leadership.

These are conditions which will, and are already, adjusting themselves . . . by inevitable laws of economics.

We've reached the low . . . and at the low is the time to buy. With Food, Clothing, Furniture and almost everything else at the lowest prices in 15 years; with the purchasing power of your dollar greater today by 40% to 100% than at any time since the war surely it's time to stock up . . . even to buy beyond your immediate needs because unless you buy now, or very soon, you're surely going to pay more . . . when prices come "up for air".

How to Escape FLU and Grippe

FLU and Grippe

- 1 Avoid so far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.
- 2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers, and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.
- 3 Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.
- 4 Try, particularly, to avoid catching cold. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin: remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. And if you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this relieves the soreness, and it usually reduces the inflammation.
- 5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

AMUSEMENTS

Law versus underworld police and the wiles of a woman used as a tool to wreck a city are the highlights on which was built the plot of "The Beast of the City," dramatic saga of the police, which will be shown today at the Delft Theatre. Essentially a dramatic romance, the picture reveals starting "inside" facts concerning the relationship between the underworld and corrupt politics. It attempts to show in detail the truth about police activities in the modern American city and its sensational episodes provide a sweeping expose of the entire structure of municipal life. Based on facts taken for the most part from police records and newspapers, the story casts a new light on current urban civilization. Police alarms sent out by radio broadcasts, a remarkable bank spec robbery and realistic underworld battles form exciting moments in the picture which is based on the attempt of a police chief to prevent his brother, a detective, from going over to "the other side." Walter Huston, remembered for his outstanding performance in "The Criminal Code," has the role of the police chief. Prominent roles are played by Jean Harlow, Wallace Ford and Jean Hersholt, and the supporting cast includes Dorothy Peterson, Tully Marshall, John Miljan, Emmett Corrigan, Warner Richmond, Sandy Roth and J. Carroll Nash. The picture was directed by Charles Brabin of "Sporting Blood" fame. The story was written by W. R. Burnett who scored with "Little Caesar." Potatoes kept in a well-closed bin with some ripe apples will not sprout. He owns his home, so he doesn't have to worry about asking the landlord to reduce his rent.

LEAGUE FACTS GIVEN ROTARY

Attorney Empson, Gladstone, Addresses Escanaba Club Monday

That the League of Nations is an actively functioning organization and in spite of public misconceptions of both its purpose and the methods employed in its operation, is accomplishing a great good for the cause of humanity in the world, was the claim established by Attorney G. R. Empson, of Gladstone, who presented one of the most informative addresses of the year before that organization.

In prefacing his discussion of the purposes and the machinery of the league, Mr. Empson showed that since the beginning of history, thinking men of every nation have sought a formula for the ending of wars between peoples and nations and the establishment of universal peace. He reviewed history and events leading up to the establishment of the present League of Nations and the part played in that history making effort by ex-President Woodrow Wilson, who, he said, history will recognize as one of the most profound thinkers of his day. He told of the development of a fear among the people of this nation that membership in the league would involve the United States in undesirable foreign entanglements and which national view prevented this country from actual participation in that international organization.

In the course of his address, Mr. Empson made it plain that neither an advocate for nor an opponent of United States participation in the League of Nations, but his study of this most important covenant has permitted him to bring together a most interesting mass of information and his presentation of these facts before the Rotary club yesterday made that program one of the most interesting of the year.

Victim Of Indian Kidnaping Mystery Believed Located

An inquiry in Saturday's issue of the Daily Press regarding the whereabouts of a man named Joseph Nedeau, who was reported having been stolen by Indians when a child was answered yesterday when Mrs. Edwin Freeze, 1122 Washington avenue, called The Press and stated that she knew a man who lives in the vicinity of Stonington or Bay de Noc township who is the son of the man for whom relatives are searching.

When Mrs. Freeze was a child she often heard the story of the white man who had been kidnaped by Indians and whose name was Nedeau.

Mr. Nedeau married an Indian woman, and their son, Joseph Nedeau, Jr., is still a resident of Delta counties. Knowing of relatives of Mr. Nedeau in this city, Mrs. Freeze communicated the views to them and they have sent a message to Joseph Nedeau, Jr., also the clipping from Saturday's paper.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

HEADACHE?

TAKE DI-JO

Practically all cases of headache come from the stomach. A sour stomach, or a stomach which can't properly digest food will invariably cause headache. The system becomes all clogged up with the poison from the stomach and the whole body cries out for relief. First take four Di-Jo tablets with a glass of hot water. If you don't get relief within half an hour, take four more with hot water. Then at night, take a Di-Vac tablet to regulate the bowels. If your druggist has neither Di-Jo or Di-Vac, write Drug Products, Marshall, Mich. 447.
