Justice Held On Charge Of Selling Liquor In Office

Battle Creek, Mar. 26 (AP)—Justice of the Peace Arthur Day, of Marshall, was in jail here tonight, charged by federal prohibition agents with having turned his combination office and courtroom into a speakeasy.

He and another man, said by the federal agents to have served as bartender, were arrested at Marshall today when officers raided the justice's office in a downtown business block. The officers said they confiscated a small quantity of liquor. Both men were charged with violating the national prohibition act. They will be arraigned Monday before U. S. Commissioner O. STUDENTS ASK FOR SUPPORT

Second Group Ordered To Leave Bell County, Kentucky

Knoxville, Tenn., March 26 (AP)—An appeal to faculty members and student bodies over the nation for support in their fight to get into the strike-torn Kentucky coal fields for "sociological research" was spread here today by leaders of two groups of college students who were ejected from the mine area last night and today.

At the same time the steering committees of the two groups, which merged here, prepared a telegraphic appeal to Governor Laffoon of Kentucky to grant them safe passage to Frankfort by some route other than through the coal fields, and to give them an appointment there.

Whether they go to Frankfort or not, said Bob F. Hall, Columbia student, who led the first group to Middleboro, Ky., and back here last night, the parties plan to go to Washington to ask a congressional investigation of "lynch law" in Bell and Harlan counties. They also intend to seek some action from the British embassy in the case of Gabriel Garritt, a Columbia scholarship student from Oxford and a British subject, who, they said, was struck by a Bell county deputy last night.

Municipal and county bonds ordinarily pay interest of 4 to 4.75 per cent. The depositor in the city bank would get 3 per cent. There would be margin enough to pay expenses of the bank, and perhaps for some little profits which ultimately might be applied to tax reduction, sponsors of the plan assert.

The bank's securities should do much to coax hoarded dollars from hiding, Goetz said, adding it would be as sound as the city hall cornerstone.

The step followed by two weeks an announcement by Charles H. Hammill, president of the orchestra association, that its funds were so depleted it would be unable to finance another season.

The discharge notices told the musicians their services would no longer be needed when the season ends four weeks hence.

The orchestra employs 105 musicians and has been organized for 41 years. A civic campaign recently was started to collect funds to enable the symphony organization to continue.

Los Angeles, Mar. 26 (AP)—Two initiative petitions, one providing an initiative for repeal of the penal provisions of the Volstead act, from California laws, were filed today with William M. Kerr, registrar of voters.

The other petition proposed a state constitutional amendment prohibiting saloons and authorizing state liquor traffic regulation in the event the state law is repealed and federal laws permit.

The petitions filed by E. H. Brown, secretary of the Citizens' Wright Act Repeal Association, bore about 89,000 signatures. He said additional petitions bearing sufficient signatures to bring the number to 150,000 were to be filed in Oakland and San Francisco.

POTATOES ARE VALUABLE CROP

Specialist Coming to Delta County Next Thursday

Tips on potato growing will be given to Delta county farmers next week by J. J. Bird, extension specialist, who will be in the county Thursday, March 31. Meeting places will be selected by county farm agent J. E. Turner, and will be announced later.

Questions regarding varieties suited to the peninsula, late and early, seed selection, treating, planting, tillage digging and storage, will be covered. Mr. Bird points out that the yield per acre is the greatest determining factor in potato growing profits. It costs 65c to grow the average bushel of potatoes in Michigan, but the cost is cut to 55c when the yield is 300 bushels or more per acre. Here is the status of the potato in Michigan, as reviewed by the agricultural extension department:

1. World's leading food crop in point of quantity production.
2. Michigan's leading cash crop in value, $23,000,000.
3. Area production in bushels.
 - (a) Upper peninsula 10%.
 - (b) Lower peninsula 90%.
4. Michigan acreage declining 2.5% per year for last 10 years.
5. Off seasons and poor production practices throughout the state have combined to cause the Michigan potato to lose some of its former prestige on many tablestock markets.
6. Michigan potatoes of adapted varieties grown under recommended production practices during normal seasons have proved equal to any on the market in appearance and cooking quality.

Helping Mother, Girl Burned, Dies
Eight-year-old Guinevere Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Boyd, Norway, died at the Penn hospital in Norway, as the result of burns received while "playing house" in the kitchen of her home, her clothes were ignited by a towel that came in contact with the stove.

Mrs. Boyd was busy in the kitchen with the weekly washing. Guinevere was with her. The day was fair, and Mrs. Boyd went into the yard to hang up the clothes.

A few moments later she heard a scream from within the house. She rushed inside and found Guinevere under the bed in a room adjoining the kitchen her clothes aflame. Mrs. Boyd herself was severely burned about the hands and arms in removing the child from under the bed and beating out the flames.

Later investigation showed that the child, helping her mother, as she thought, with the weekly wash, used a towel to remove a dishpan from the stove. The towel caught fire, the blaze reaching the child's dress. She then ran and took refuge under the bed.

Besides the parents, two sisters and five brothers survive. They are Mrs. H. Squires, Thompson, Mich., Miss Dorothy, at home, Edward, of Manistique, John, of Wilson and Stephen, Herbert and Morris, at home.

SEEN NOR HEARD

The window looks upon a lawn. And now the velvet grass is gone. And there is nothing now but snow.

Life has its moments, more than earth. When days of joy, when things of worth have vanished, as the summer flows.

Today some sudden wind may blow And turn your little world to snow. Some word unkind, some deed untrue.

THE DIME-A-DANCE GIRL

(By NEA Service) BY JOAN CLAYTON

CHAPTER XLVI

FOR an instant Ellen thought she must faint. A feeling of nausea swept over her and her arms dropped to her sides.

Larry was at her side, his arms around her. "Water! Bring water," he called frantically.

Fergus brought a tumbler and the distracted Larry bathed the girl's pale face. He held the water to her lips. Still bewildered, still in a world of half-consciousness, horribly frightened and sick, Ellen drank it.

Larry was at her side, his arms around her. "Water! Bring water," he called frantically. Fergus brought a tumbler and the distracted Larry bathed the girl's pale face.

Ellen looked up then and saw that Larry was kneeling on the floor beside her. Mrs. Harrowgate was there, too.

"What came over you?" the older woman inquired curiously. "It must have been the heat."

Larry said sharply. "It was all I could do to keep from passing out myself."

"I'm all right now," Ellen announced shakily, sitting up and smoothing her disordered hair. "I'm sorry to have been such a lot of trouble."

"No trouble at all," Mrs. Harrowgate assured her politely. "I can't tell you how sorry I am though that it had to happen."

Ellen felt confident that her concern was affected. She looked from Mrs. Harrowgate at Larry. There was nothing artistic in his anxiety.

Suddenly Ellen lay dead in a curtained bedroom of the lavish Long Island house. Ellen saw her self in that high sitting room.

Larry reached to take the gloves but Fergus, quicker, dropped them in Ellen's lap.

Ellen drew a long trembling breath. "You don't care much for Fergus, do you?" Larry observed. "I don't myself. He's so quiet he gives me the jimmies."

"He's a capable servant," Mrs. Harrowgate commented. "You feel all right now?" she continued, addressing Ellen.

The girl nodded. "I think I'd better go home now," she said. She and Larry departed.

Ellen was resting a little against Larry's arm. Her eyes were raised to his. She was exquisitely conscious of everything about her.

Larry was looking at her with growing panic and tried to read his face. There was nothing there to read except servile impersonality.

Larry reached to take the gloves but Fergus, quicker, dropped them in Ellen's lap, turned and left the room, his back stiff and inscrutable as his eyes had been.

AT THE DELFT

Gay and brilliant, "Lady With a Past," the new attraction at the Delft Theatre, is another Constance Bennett starring hit.

For the first time in a considerable period, Miss Bennett is not cast as a poor working girl or an erring sister who has fallen and been redeemed by love.

Based upon Harriet Henry's latest novel, "Lady With a Past," tells the very human story of a love-hungry girl who cannot attract men because she is shy and more serious than the other beauties in her social set.

A trick of circumstances puts her in Paris, and there, under the expert tutelage of a gay gigolo, she blossoms into a real charmer and through no fault of her own acquires a "past" which rivals that of the suspected husband-poisoner.

EASTER LILY No other flower can ever be Concerned with Immortality

Here is Heaven offered up Within this fragile petal cup; Forget the Winter of your Pain And quaff the Wine of Life again.

In the florist shops, the stores and markets of our beloved Peninsula the snowy Easter Lily has been sold this week.

They are purchased to tell some one we love them. They are sent to Mother, to Wife, to Sister, to Friend.

Easter, Hope, Spring, The eternal symbols of life forever. We went into a market and in exchange for some pieces of silver took a pot of beauty home with us.

"Cold cash." Through the wonder of some odd sort of magic it becomes something warm and lovely. And more than that; the person who sold it to us took from us something more than cash.

Many of us will sit down to a dinner table where the Easter Lily has the place of honor, at the board, presenting to us a feast for the eye and reminding us of the truest of beautiful things. If we have the proper spirit we will listen carefully we may be able to detect small notes coming from the slender trumpets of bloom.

If we have the nerve to mention this music,—well, we shall learn a few things about those who happen to be with us. It is easy enough to know how the children will take it. They understand, being close to beauty in their thought at all times. Some will bear with us,—patiently. Some will look a bit foolish as though they had come upon us when in a moment of weakness we were prinking bluishly before a mirror. And some will answer us in quiet understanding. Bless such as they!

Spring Brings Building Season to Escanaba

MIRACLE...?

..... Not At All

—1899—

—1932—

... Just an Idea and a Few Building Materials

There is nothing particularly unusual about the transformation of this drab, uninteresting, run-of-the-street house into a charming, liveable, and altogether attractive colonial cottage.

Just the desire for a little better . . . truer . . . architectural type, more modern conveniences, and greater comfort. These, plus a few thousand board feet of lumber, did this job.

If you are not entirely satisfied with your home . . . if you need more room, if the exterior appearance worries you . . . you'll be amazed at the ease with which it can be trimmed, added to or revised into the equivalent of a brand new home planned by yourself. You'll be surprised at the low cost, too.

Anyone of the lumber supply dealers advertising in this section can show you how a modernization as marked as the one pictured can be wrought in your home. No obligation for their suggestions. Cost estimates gladly furnished.

Number of Projects Already Under Way

HOME OWNER REAPS BENEFITS OF LOWER PRICES; RISE DUE LATER IN YEAR

Here and there around Escanaba, building projects are starting to get under way, evidence that local residents are taking advantage of the opportunities offered for savings in construction, made possible this year by lower prices in materials and labor.

Several of the older style homes in Escanaba are to be modernized, both by exterior and interior remodeling, and a number of projects have already started. Business places are also finding that "now's the time to build" and there are store fronts contracted for as well as interior improvements and installations of new equipment.

A prominent local builder says: "We in the building business have been asked whether the absolute bottom has been reached in building prices. While we must have been dubious for some time past now, we have no doubt as to what lies immediately ahead."

"Through close contact with the actual situation and markets we have observed indications which warn us that a turn in building costs is near."

Pre-War Prices
"The factors indicating this are that labor costs have been lower in most instances in the last year than in pre-war days. General contractors have disregarded profits in taking building work. Their only objective has been to keep their organizations together. Firms handling building materials have taken tremendous losses. Stocks on hand have been moved at any cost to liquidate current obligations to banks and others."

"When the present supplies in the hand of material men and manufacturers of such have been exhausted, building materials cannot be reproduced for the price at which they are now being sold to contractors."

"Under present conditions, general contractors have been passing along savings to those who were desirous of building."

but these conditions cannot keep on for long. Resumption of a fair demand for materials, supplies and labor which goes in a building is bound to have an effect, and the safe conclusion is that the prospective home builder will reap some very material benefits if he contracts for his work immediately."

SUN WILL SHINE ON EASTER DAY

Spring Finery Won't Be Ruined Today, Says Weather Man

Even the weather man is cooperating to give Escanaba a pleasant Easter Sunday, in contrast to the chilly and cloudy Easters of the past two years.

Clearing skies, some sunshine, and a temperature "just about right" are promised for today by H. H. Spindler, meteorologist at the Escanaba weather bureau.

"There will be no rain or snow," says Mr. Spindler, "and Escanaba folks can wear their best togs without fear of getting them spotted."

The ice on the bay, which has made breezes feel chilly during the last few days, is also showing a promise of spring. Measurements taken by the weather bureau Saturday listed an average thickness of about 12 inches, and the ice is getting water-soaked from rains and warm sunshine.

Tulsa Mixes Efficiency in Food; Thousands Live on 6 Cents Daily

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Believe it or not, you can feed a person a carefully balanced ration for a food cost of about six cents a day.

More than 10,000 people in Tulsa county have been fed at that rate since November, 1931, under a commissary plan developed by John H. Leavell—and fed a weekly ration one-third higher in nutritional value than is absolutely necessary for healthy life.

Food Rationed Weekly
The food is distributed to families in weekly amounts.

The young child in the family will receive in a week, for example, two pounds of whole wheat, one half pound of oatmeal, one pound of beans, two pounds of white potatoes, one and a quarter pounds of ground lean meat without bones, two-fifths of a pound each of sugar and a health compound, a pound of four fresh vegetables, a half pound of bacon, a half pound of turnips, more than a pound of powdered milk, a quarter pound of cocoa, and one or two teaspoons of cod-liver oil.

Cost 6.2 Cents Daily
All of this for 43.4 cents a week, or 6.2 cents a day.

Adolescents and adults receive virtually the same foods, though in greater amounts.

The young child gets 10.92 pounds of food in a week, containing at total of 14,916 calories.

The adolescent gets 12.42 pounds, or 17,585 calories; the adult, 13.95 pounds, or 19,158 calories. The adolescent's food costs 6.7 cents a day and the adult's 6.4 cents.

A family of four or five is thus fed at a food cost of about $2 a week.

The plan simply provides that all relief necessities be bought and dispensed by a central purchasing agency under requisitions from regular health agencies.

son of Ensign. Mrs. R. E. Olson and baby, 519 South Fifth street, and Otto Erdman.

Arthur Bryson, 606 First Avenue South, submitted to an operation for appendicitis.

The 6-cent figure does not include the costs of these relief agencies nor the commissary's small overhead, but Mr. Leavell is convinced the plan has directly saved 40 per cent of the amounts formerly spent, and indirectly saved much more through the prevention of sickness and low morale resulting from malnutrition.

Under the old system of providing charity, grocery orders were issued by four separate agencies and varied as much as 300 per cent in cost among the agencies for the same size family.

None of the orders represented a carefully balanced ration, and no differentiation was made between the kind of food supplied for the children and adults.

Supplies Purchased Centrally
To correct this unbalance, a central committee of five Tulsa business men was formed, which established a central purchasing agency, headed voluntarily by the owner of a large chain grocery store.

Commodities were purchased for cash in carload lots, and rations were made up in advance to suit the dietetic needs of children, 2 to 8 years, adolescents, 8 to 15 years, and adults.

These diets were approved each week by the Tulsa County Medical Society, and the commissary gave instructions for the preparation of the food. The minimums set up by the society have been generously exceeded in every case.

Unemployed Form Personnel
A revolving fund was borrowed from the community fund to start the commissary, and from it all goods are paid for within 24 hours. The paid personnel of the commissary is drawn from the registered unemployed. About 20 workers are needed.

Opposition to the plan has come from politicians, Mr. Leavell says, because of the unfavorable comparisons of the cost of feeding prisoners and other state-supported persons, and from untrained case workers who do not understand.

Complaints from those receiving rations have been less than 5 per cent. Mr. Leavell says no charitable or penal institution is justified in expending more than 10 cents a day for uncooked food per person to maintain vigorous health.

Menominee Farmers Are Keeping Books

Eighteen farmers in Menominee county are at the present time keeping a farm account book in cooperation with the Farm Management Department of Michigan State College.

These books are simple and easy to keep, and at the end of the year will tell you how much you have taken in and how much paid out, and in addition to that will show the increase or decrease in value of your farm, and personal property, and also will show just what parts of your farm are up to standard and what parts fall to come up to standard.

Following are the farmers now keeping books: John Kronsoble, Albert Kipter, Frank Erickson, Abel Kovach, Warren Hubbard, Alfred Hendrickson, Chas. G. Swanson, A. P. Kline, H. R. Palmer, Roy Gustafson, John Watt and James Gustafson of Stephenson; Ed Nordgren of Dargett; Clement Linder, Nadeau; Andrew Benson, Wickman Bros., Edw. Flaum, and John Schauer of Carney.

This service is available to any farmer in the county. One meeting is held to start the farmer with his book, one visit is made to the farm during the summer to find out if there has been any trouble in keeping the book and then the book is checked up and figured out at the end of the year by the Farm Management Department, and returned to the owner.

A new class of farm book keepers is being organized this year. Anyone wishing to join should write to the County Agricultural Agent, Menominee, Michigan.

Mrs. C. A. Preston Called By Death Saturday Morning

Death claimed Mrs. C. Arthur Preston Saturday morning at her home, 517 South Ninth street, after an illness of nearly three weeks due to influenza and cardiac asthma.

Mrs. Preston, the former Miss Mayme O'Conner, was born in Oconto, Wis., where she was reared and received her education, graduating from the Oconto high school. She taught school in Wilson and later taught for several years at Hylas, near Foster City. After she was married the family lived for some time in Foster City, later going to lower Michigan, then to Appleton, Wis. They came to Escanaba two and a half years ago.

The survivors are her husband, her mother, Mrs. Lucy O'Conner of Oconto; two brothers, Charles and William O'Conner of Oconto, and one sister, Mrs. Hartley Bagley of this city.

The body was prepared for burial at the Allo Funeral Home and will be taken to the family home this morning at 10 o'clock. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church when a requiem high mass will be celebrated by Rev. Fr. Walter Palement.

U. P. Briefs

Four Arrested—Investigation of the robbery, recently, of a Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway freight car near Wetmore has resulted in the arrest of four men and the uncovering of evidence which, police officers believe, will lead to the clearing up of several robberies said to have been committed by gangs in Luce county and, perhaps, in other districts.

A few days after the freight car robbery at Wetmore, Tom Summerville, a resident of that village, was arrested by Fred Ennis, state police detective, George Hager, South Shore railroad detective, and Frank Runsat, Alger county sheriff. Subsequently, as a result of statements made by Summerville, the officers picked up Carl Yokeum at Munising and later Detective Ennis arrested Lynn Yokeum, brother of Carl, at Gladstone. Summerville and the Yokeum brothers are being held in the Alger county jail in Munising.

"Doughnut" Tires Cheer Up Makers Of Carbon Black

Borger, Tex. (AP)—Carbon black manufacturers in the Panhandle gas fields are optimistic over the development of "doughnut" automobile tires.

The huge tires require an increased amount of black in their manufacture.

"Since the oversize models are an innovation and there are no warehouse stocks," said one official, "each tire sold means a new tire manufactured. The air-wheel tires are becoming popular and most big companies are producing them."
