TEARS PAPER RELATING RIFT WITH HUSBAND

CRIES VIOLENTLY AS SHE TESTIFIES OF ASSAULT

(Associated Press Staff Correspondent) Honolulu, April 20 (AP)—A document presumably containing evidence of a rift between her and her husband was destroyed by Mrs. Thalia Massie in a dramatic flash of anger in the witness stand today while she was testifying in behalf of the young naval officer and three others accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai.

Between showers of tears, Mrs. Massie had told of the attack upon her by five men, one of whom allegedly was Kahahawai, and how it left its mark upon Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie.

After Clarence Darrow, veteran defense attorney, motioned Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley to take up the cross questioning, Kelley swiftly obtained an admission that Mrs. Massie had taken a psychopathic examination at the University of Hawaii last summer.

Porcupines Blamed For Chewing State Telephone Lines

William Cromell, conservation officer who has charge of the fire towers in the eastern portion of Alger county, reports damage done to the state owned telephone lines between Melstrand and the Buck Hill tower, by porcupines, in a most peculiar and inexplicable manner. Mr. Cromell and his assistant John Connors, have been at work getting ready for the spring and summer campaign, and observed that the wires along the line from Melstrand to Buck Hill were partly down in many places. Investigation disclosed the fact that porcupines had gnawed off the brackets, supporting the glass insulators. Sixteen of the brackets were found gnawed square in two, close to the base of the insulators, almost as square as though sawed off. The brackets are made of oak and are about one and one-quarter of an inch in diameter at the base of the insulator. They are nailed to the cross piece of each pole. These brackets are dipped in a dark red paint solution to preserve them, and it is presumed that the solution is saline.

How the porcupines discovered this seems a mystery, and why they should gnaw the brackets close to the insulator, straight across, without touching the balance of the bracket is another mystery. From the manner in which the work is done it seems as if the porky was merely trying to detach and obtain the insulator. That it is the work of porcupines is without doubt. The marks of the teeth are plain and droppings and foot prints in the sand at the base of each telephone pole complete the evidence.

ROTARY MEETING

The Munising Rotary club celebrated its birthday anniversary at the Beach Inn Tuesday evening. The ladies were present as guests and after a delightful dinner an interesting program, consisting of music, and speeches, was given. The club had nearly 100 per cent attendance. Orchestra music, under the direction of Lyle K. Atkins, was dispensed during the dinner hour. To start the program an amusing skit was pulled off by F. J. Baldwin, George Kemp, Dr. T. W. Scholtes, John I. Penegar and H. A. Wood, the purpose being to bring out some of the teachings of Rotary. A group of children from the schools, dressed in colonial costumes, under the direction of Miss Madge Mayforth, presented a minuet, and also sang for the club and its guests the song written to commemorate the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth. Miss Alice Moline of the high school musical department presided at the piano. To start the singing by the club, George Kemp and O. E. Brown gave an example of the jealousy that sometimes exists between music leaders. For a moment it looked as though a physical encounter could not be prevented, but a word from the president calmed the troubled waters and the guests immediately realized that it was all a put up job. The fun and the music was followed by an address by George Elias, a native of Mesopotamia. He told the story of the shepherd of the east. He was given rapt attention, his talk being both interesting and educational. The party broke up about ten o'clock and everyone departed feeling that the birthday of Rotary was quite the equal, if not better than any preceding event of a similar nature.

As he seldom leaves the premises, and never at such an early hour, his absence was soon noticed by members of the family. It was thought something must have happened him and a search was begun. Any place that he was likely to have gone to was searched and the search was continued, with augmented interest until about ten o'clock, when someone discovered that he had retired to one of the unoccupied rooms in the hotel, there to rest in quiet.

SALARY ITEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Chairman Re-elected by Delta County Board Wednesday

Reductions in county expenses, including the per diem and mileage compensation of supervisors, were discussed at the organization meeting of the Delta county board Wednesday, but no action was taken at this time. However, the board unanimously adopted a resolution instructing the finance committee to make a survey in the matter of county salaries and expenses and report back with their recommendations at the June meeting of the board.

J. P. Cameron, Nahma, was re-elected chairman of the board, and C. E. Hawkins, Gladstone, was re-elected chairman pro tem. Matt J. Miller, Gladstone, was named superintendent of poor to succeed William Kauthen of Garden, whose death occurred recently. Mr. Miller's appointment will hold for the unexpired term of Mr. Kauthen, which extends to October.

Seek Safe Milk
A communication from W. H. Needham, tendering his resignation as chairman of the county unemployment committee, was read at the meeting, but the board refused to accept the resignation and voted unanimously that Mr. Needham be retained in the position. The fact that he was no longer a member of the board was given by Mr. Needham as the reason for tendering his resignation. The supervisors ruled that membership on the board was not a requisite, and believed that Mr. Needham's experience in the work best fitted him as head of the group on unemployment.

A letter from Otto Scheriff of S. A. Valentine camp, Spanish War Veterans, inviting county-wide participation and cooperation in the reunion to be held in Escanaba July 2, 3 and 4, was read to the supervisors.

Action which will give assurance of a safer milk supply and yearly tuberculin testing of cattle was taken in the appointment of Dr. L. J. Heiden as county veterinarian to make these tests. He will be required to inspect barns where raw milk is supplied for sale, to inspect raw milk, make recommendations where needed, and report at subsequent meetings of the board. Dr. Heiden's appointment begins with May 1, and extends until Jan. 1, 1933. His salary was fixed at $175 a month, with $75 a month traveling expenses, including supplies.

Deferred Until June

State Legislator Discloses Wages of State Employees

(By V. J. BROWN)

During the past several years there has been a growing demand on the part of the people of Michigan for a drastic reduction in the cost of state and local government. Campaigns have been waged upon the issue; sheaves of manuscript have been written with messages urging economy; taxpayer's associations have resolved against high governmental costs; miles of columns of newspaper space have been devoted to charges of extravagance and to figures showing the ever increasing payroll and other commission expense.

But nothing has been done—except to add new names to the payroll and devise new ways of spending money. Such feeble efforts as have been made to relieve the burden of the property owner have been devoted to the discovery of new sources of taxation but not to any reduction in public expense.

Governor Wilber M. Brucker in his inaugural message of 1931 pointed out the great need of economy. He said that during his administration he would insist upon "kitchen economy" in all state functions. He has been in office now exactly fifteen months. As governor he is chairman of the powerful state administrative board. At his command is a force of accountants and officials of which number approximately 100. Among this number is found a secretary drawing a salary of $7,500; a director of the budget is on the payroll for another $7,500; there is an efficiency engineer drawing $4,000 annually. There are scores of high priced auditors, accountants, traffic men and similar officials drawing annual salaries much above the average wage scale of industry and finance. This branch of government costs $200,000 annually. Yet the governor states in his message to the special session called at the end of his first 15 months in office that the best he can offer is a 15 per cent reduction in salaries.

He presents not one word of hope that the public may expect any material reorganization of state government. He evidently has found no way in which the services of a single one of the 12,339 state employees and officials on the February 1932 payrolls can be dispensed with. The fact that they drew a total of $1,421,301.04 for a single month must have attracted executive notice after more than a year in office but the task of digging into their doing had received no attention when his message was prepared. In fact his message to the legislature indicates his opinion that the task is too great for a special session to tackle. At the regular sessions the excuse is that there are too many other issues involved to permit an exhaustive investigation.

It is not to be wondered at that the governor in his busy life of traveling about the state to make speeches pleading for "kitchen economy" finds the task of pruning the state payrolls a heavy one. There are so many strange contrasts. For instance the cashier in the office of the state treasurer receives a salary of $2,600. He handles millions of state money every month and has for a number of years for he is a veteran employee. In contrast with this salary witness that paid the cashier in the securities commission where a few fees are received and whose accounts must later be checked and the money handled by the treasurer's cashier. The securities commission cashier, handling a few fees, receives $3,000 annually where the treasurer's cashier receives $2,600. Mere bookkeepers in the governor's administrative board are paid $2,800 annually.

But let us turn to more ordinary tasks and see what wages a generous state pays. The farmer at the Vocational school at Lansing draws down $2,300 annually with an assistant farmer at $1,425. At Marquette prison the institution farmer is paid $2,200; at Pontiac hospital, $1,500; at Wajamega, $1,500 with an assistant at $1,400. But down at Jackson prison it really pays to be a farmer. There the farm superintendent receives $3,000; an assistant, $2,000; a foreman, $1,600; and four farm hands are paid $1,500 each. And this is not all. At Jackson farms also is a herdsman who is paid $1,800 with an assistant at $1,400. Who says there is no money in farming?

There is a blacksmith employed at the state prison at $1,500 and a tractor repairman at $1,800. But perhaps the most flagrant abuse of state money found on the payrolls is at Coldwater where a barber is listed at $19,980. There are 426 inmates there, all young children, many are infants. Figured on the basis of 25 cent haircuts, this gives each child 13 haircuts a year.

There is another strange contrast, this to be found at the new Ypsilanti mental hospital. According to the last available report there are 872 inmates now confined at this asylum. But they must be cold-blooded for on the payroll of that institution for February there are listed eight engineers who draw down a total of $10,800 with three firemen to shovel the coal while the engineers watch the steam gauge. The firemen are paid less but it costs $2,000 a year to keep them on the job.

Of course it is just possible that the governor has not the time to get around to all these out-state institutions. So let us look at some capitol payrolls. The superintendent of the capitol building is on the list for $5,000 annually, the same salary the governor receives as well as as much as the state treasurer has for watching the state deficit grow. A carpenter draws $1,800 a year; a plumber, $1,900; janitors and elevator-men, $1,300. Telephone operators at the capitol receive as high as $1,500 a year, considerably more than the year-governor wages paid by the telephone company to chief operators in cities the size of Mason. The unfilled Hunkie who stands guard over the parking spaces reserved for high state officials gets $1,700 a year; A window washer draws $1,800 and an electrician, $2,500.

One of the most amusing references found on any state payroll is to be discovered on that of the state historical commission. Here two clerks are employed. One is styled "chief clerk" at $1,625.

The services of a $4,000 physician, a $1,325 dentist and four hospital nurses costing $4,185 each year are required to watch over the health of less than 659 boys at the Boys' Vocational school, a per capita health cost amounting to $15 for inmates. And this in spite of the fact that the director of physical education at that institution receives $2,100 which is more than most small city schools are able to pay for similar services. An instructor in radio engineering at this school receives $2,600. There are two instructors in printing at $1,900 each which is more money than most printers ever hope to see again. There is one employee to each five boys and one teacher to each 28 pupils were all in-only 45 and a man of that age in his prime. "It must be this wretched flu," he argued. There was something about Susan Carey that set her apart from the crowd. He hated her quite know what it was. Why had Ruth disliked her so, he wondered? Surely she was too unimportant to mean anything in Ruth's life.

Wonderful to be young like the girl who had just left, he reflected. How the color had come and gone in her cheeks when she spoke of the flowers! How her eyes had glowed. He tried to remember when, if ever, things had seemed as important to him as they seemed to this child. It was youth, he supposed, that enveloped everything with that incredibly rosy glamour. It never came again, you know. I lost it. Then he wondered if it were possible to recapture it in some other. That girl, for instance. For a moment, when she spoke of the garden, he had felt almost transfixed.

Perhaps if he and Ruth had had a child things would have been different. That was the way a man might live again—through his children. Another sigh escaped him. Health felt old, which was absurd because he was only 45 and a man of that age in his prime.

THIRD MYSTERY FIRE REPORTED

Closets Found Burning In Vacant Home at 331 N. 15th

Two more mysterious fires were reported Wednesday morning at the residence of Thomas Byrne home, 331 North 15th, which is unoccupied at the present time.

The Escanaba fire department received a call at 1:30 a. m. when a police officer on his beat noticed the blaze, and at that time the firemen found the fire located in an upstairs closet. At 4:20 a. m. another call came. Policemen on the way to the depot had noticed the glow in the house, and this time the firemen found the flames in a downstairs closet. Last Monday morning at 3:55 two different fires were found, one burning two chairs near a front window and another in a bed upstairs.

Members of the family have not been living in the house for some time, the firemen learned. The state fire marshal's office has been notified, and an investigation will be made.

Call values of 1,868 4-H club boys in 94 Iowa counties in 1931 increased a total of $23,500 during the year, according to Iowa State college reports.

The state of Iowa in 1931 had 320 people for every acre of state park land.

Appeal For Home Goods, Clothing

Now that the weather is getting warmer housewives are eager to start housecleaning and this is an opportune time to request all those who have any furniture, kitchen utensils, clothing, bedding or any household goods to discard to remember the Salvation Army.

The local branch of the Salvation Army has a long waiting list for anything that may be discarded in many homes. What may seem like an old mattress to the owner may be a source of some comfort to some one who has no bed at all.

Anyone having anything to donate to the Salvation Army is asked to telephone 165 and the articles will be called for and delivered to the deserving poor people in this city and vicinity.

"Help the unemployed," is the plea of the mayor and all welfare organizations. During the spring season there is always some kind of work to do around the home, cleaning yards, basements, washing windows, porches, painting, putting in gardens and various other jobs. Telephone the city hall 321 and ask for a man to do your work. Just because your job is not a big one do not hesitate to turn it in. It may be only a half hour's work but it will mean just that much bread and butter to some needy person.

Communication

Escanaba Daily Press: Chicken thieves have lot of nerve these days, when they will rob a poor man that has got had one day's work in the last four months. They visited my chicken coop Saturday night, took two of my six birds and left four. It must be that civilization has accomplished something in this world of ours after all, when even chicken thieves are willing to divide up. Whoever the thieves are I hope they enjoyed a good Sunday dinner on my account.

AMUSEMENTS

Carrying on a tradition for emotional dramatics which reached a new high in "An American Tragedy," Paramount presents a sincere, heart-touching talkie in "Broken Lullaby," which opened at the Delft Theatre yesterday, and which proved by flattering attendance figures that it is immensely popular here.

A perfect admixture of every element that makes sure-fire entertainment, "Broken Lullaby" never once gives evidence of an over abundance of any of them, the story is imaginative—but not too imaginative; the acting does not strain itself into a torture for the beholder; the tempo is swift, but not racy; the situations are not so starkly real as to be commonplace.

"Broken Lullaby" brings a number of messages, and any one of them can be chosen by any member of the audience to conform to his mood. To some it is an indictment of warfare as a barbarism that must be rooted out by mankind. To others it is a glamorous love story. To still others it is a shadow-projection of the inner workings of a remorseful man's soul. And there are many more facets, each of them fascinating, for the edification of those who behold this romantic-dramatic gem.

No Sunday Train Between Escanaba And Iron River

Sunday passenger service between Escanaba and Iron River has been eliminated by the Chicago and North Western railway, according to new time table which goes into effect Sunday, April 24.

Trains 10, 321 and 322 are eliminated, and Train No. 11, the run between Powers and Escanaba, is made daily except Sunday, instead of daily.

There will be no passenger service Sunday mornings between Escanaba and Chicago when the new time card goes into effect. To go to Chicago and intermediate points on Sunday, the traveler will have to wait until Train 102 in the evening.

The schedule of Train 210, which makes connections with Train 321, going west to Iron River, has been changed to leave Escanaba 7 a. m. instead of 6 a. m. It will arrive at Green Bay 10:40 a. m.
