ROOSEVELT ON FIRST BALLOT, BACKERS SAY

678 DELEGATES ARE CLAIMED FOR NEW YORK GOVERNOR

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN (Associated Press Staff Writer) New York, May 9 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign managers, still predicting his nomination on the first ballot, claimed today he will go into the Democratic national convention with close to 700 delegate-votes.

Not counting the 12 delegates being picked up in Arizona and Wyoming, who were expected to be at least friendly to the New York governor, the list totaled 678.

If the convention opens with Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith in control of the votes their associates claim will be theirs, and with the other candidates getting the votes which already seem assured for them, the lineup would be like this:

- Roosevelt 678
Smith 203
Garner 98
Lewis 52
White 52
Reed 36
Byrd 24
Murray 23
Ritchie 16
Not claimed 56

These figures total more than 1,154—the actual convention vote, because of overlapping claims.

Up until today's conventions in Arizona and Wyoming, 708 delegates had been selected. Of that number Roosevelt has 313 pledged, instructed or claimed.

Long for Roosevelt This figure was raised automatically to political circles to 333 by Senator Huey Long's statement pointing Louisiana's 20 votes toward the Roosevelt camp.

The Roosevelt forces also are counting on 105 of the 158 remaining in doubt—60 of Pennsylvania's 76 and 45 of the 92 New York votes in doubt.

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press) Senate finance committee reported billion dollar compromise tax bill.

President Hoover vetoed bill for hospitalization and soldiers' homes privileges for civilians aboard war transports in Spanish-American and other combats.

Senate manufacturers committee heard Edward F. McGrady of American Federation of Labor and other urge federal unemployment relief.

Senator Glass (D. Va.), in debating his banking reform bill, charged suppression of a former solicitor general's opinion holding bank affiliates illegal.

Rubber industry spokesmen opposed before senate finance committee 5 cents a pound levy on crude rubber imports.

LEBRUN LIKELY FRENCH LEADER

Thousands File Past Bier Of Assassinated Paul Doumer

Paris, May 9 (AP)—A new president for France will be elected tomorrow, and presumably he will be Albert LeBrun, now president of the senate.

Simultaneously Premier Andre Tardieu will present the resignation of his government with a request that it be accepted immediately.

Unless unforeseen political contingencies should arise, M. LeBrun will be formally placed in the Elysee palace to succeed the assassinated Paul Doumer. LeBrun's only opponent, Paul Painleve, former premier, withdrew his candidacy late tonight, leaving the field clear.

This was in line with the suggestions from the senate, where it was held that in view of the sadness of the occasion, it would be fitting that one candidate be named on a single ballot.

The president of France is elected at a meeting of the senators and deputies at Versailles. An absolute majority of the combined vote elects.

BODY IN STATE

Paris, May 9 (AP)—The gates of Elysee palace were opened this afternoon to permit thousands of men and women who had been waiting in the rain for hours to file reverently past the black-draped bier on which rested the body of the assassinated president, Paul Doumer.

Meanwhile a careful guard was kept over the casket of Dr. Paul Gorgulov, the man who killed him, in order that he might not commit suicide.

GLASS CLAIMS AFFILIATES OF BANKS ILLEGAL

RULING SUPPRESSED ONCE, HE TELLS SENATORS

Washington, May 9 (AP)—With pointing finger and pounding fist, Carter Glass of Virginia told the senate today that an opinion prepared by a solicitor general under President Taft holding bank affiliates illegal was "suppressed" because of the power and blandishments of inordinate wealth.

The result, he asserted, has been that "these institutions, declared by the solicitor general of the United States to be engaged in illicit practices, were perhaps the greatest contributors to this riot of credit and inflation, with the result that the country is now almost in an irreparable condition."

Refusing to be drawn into a "partisan" discussion with Senator Moses (R. N. H.), who promptly questioned him, Senator Glass said a later attorney general, who was a Democrat, "declined" to permit the opinion to be made public.

Vigorous Speech Glass described him as "another attorney general, some years afterward elevated to a place of even higher distinction."

George W. Wickersham was attorney general when Frederick W. Lehmann, who, Glass said, prepared the opinion, was solicitor general. Lehmann served from 1910 to 1912. He died several months ago.

Glass said "the attorney general at that time failed to act." The Virginia made his objections during a vigorous two hour speech which opened debate on his far reaching measure intended primarily to prevent use of federal reserve funds for speculative purposes.

Denouncing banking affiliates, which would be sharply restricted by the Glass bill, he said his committee has ascertained that they were "one of the greatest contributors to the unprecedented disaster which caused this almost incurable depression."

"They sent out their high pressure salesman," he shouted, "and literally filled the bank portfolios of this country with these investment securities."

"Right here I am tempted to say that a few days ago I came into possession of information that literally startled me," he went on. "I learned that one of the most distinguished lawyers at the American bar, at one time president of the American Bar association, solicitor general of the United States under President Taft, had given an exhaustive, searching opinion as to

Houghton To Isle Royale Steamship Route Is Planned

Lansing, Mich., May 9 (AP)—Possibility of a steamship transportation line from Michigan to Isle Royale was seen today, as the state public utilities commission authorized the issuance of $38,000 in stock for the Northern Lakes Boat and Transportation company of Houghton, Mich.

The company, officials said, proposes to operate a transportation line from a point in Michigan fitted out in Chicago, it was announced, and will be used for a daily round trip from Houghton to Isle Royale.

General Parson, Famous Builder, Taken By Death

New York, May 9 (AP)—General William Barclay Parsons, whose engineering skill helped build huge projects: the world over, died today from an illness that took him to the hospital before Easter. An operation for embolism of the lung had been performed in an effort to save the 73-year-old engineer.

General Parsons, builder of the first subway in New York City, was chief engineer of the Cape Cod canal, a member of the board of consulting engineers of the Panama canal and chief of engineers in the Spanish-American war. Chicago also enlisted his services on the board of consulting engineers when it laid down a $200,000,000 subway system in 1916. In China, he made a survey of railways in 1898 and 1899.

NO FUNDS FOR REPARATIONS

German Budget Presented to Reichstag Yesterday

Berlin, May 9 (AP)—A budget which makes no provision for further reparations payments was presented today before the Reichstag, when it reconvened after a recess of ten weeks.

In listing expenditures for the coming year, Finance Minister Herman Dietrich said 700,000,000 marks ($165,900,000) would be used for interest and amortization on funded floating debts and reparations loans—which meant that while interest charges on the Dawes and Young loans would continue, no funds have been earmarked for further reparations.

The Reichstag, exceptionally well behaved after its recess, was informed that the budget would balance with $200,000,000 marks ($1,697,100,000) income. Another outstanding development of the first day of the session was a communist demand for an investigation to determine whether any Germans were involved in scandals connected with the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrialist.

Because of the Whitenside holidays the session will last only four days. Before it is completed the government will have to struggle against the usual batch of votes of non-confidence.

Chancellor Heinrich Brüning expects to weather these attacks with a safe majority. Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich reported that the floating debt had been reduced in the last two years by 347,000,000 marks ($82,239,000), and the funded debt by 300,000,000 marks ($71,100,000). The total funded debt, he said, now is 208,000,000 marks (2,413,419,296,000).

He listed the expenditures: unemployment dole, 1,000,000,000 marks; war pensions, 1,200,000,000; social insurance, 477,000,000; debt payments, 420,000,000; interest and amortization on funded floating debts and reparations loans, 700,000,000; administrative expenses, 2,200,000,000; transfers to states and communes, 2,300,000,000.

No Clues Left By Youthful Slayer

Adrian, Mich., May 9 (AP)—Sheriff William J. Hanna said tonight he was without clues to the identity of the youth who shot and killed George Brown, 60-year-old gasoline station attendant of near Casper, Sunday night when Brown demanded payment for a five-cent soft drink.

A posse searched most of the night for the slayer and his companion who drove the automobile in which they fled.

In the commission report, he said he has grown steadily worse and early action to ameliorate them seems needed. "What I do insist upon is that we should now meet this question fairly and seek its constructive solution. It is no time for evading this or any other question with pious hopes or indefinite promises," he said.

Fall Freed After Serving Term For Accepting $100,000 Bribe

These contrasting pictures show how the events of the past 10 years have left their mark on Albert B. Fall, President Harding's secretary of interior, who was released on May 9 from the New Mexico state prison after serving slightly less than 10 months for accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, in 1921. The money, in cash, was delivered to Fall in the famous "little black bag" by Doheny's son and soon thereafter Doheny got exclusive drilling rights on the navy's vast Elk Hills oil reserve in California.

After years of fighting in the courts, Fall was finally adjudged guilty and on July 20, 1931, entered the New Mexico prison under a sentence of a year and a day, a term since shortened by the customary time off for "good behavior."

MASSIE PARTY ON WAY HOME

Prosecutor Says Assault Case Will Be Tried Anyway

Honolulu, May 9 (AP)—Although the complaining witness sailed yesterday for the mainland, Prosecutor John C. Kelley declared today the trial of four youths charged with assaulting Thalia Massie will start as scheduled May 25.

And if Mrs. Massie is not in Circuit Judge A. M. Cristofani's court by 9 a. m. that day, Kelley said, he will request a warrant for her arrest.

But since he cannot enforce such a warrant beyond the jurisdiction of the court—which does not extend to the mainland—Kelley went on to explain that the trial would proceed whether Mrs. Massie is here or not.

Kelley, who recently prosecuted Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two navy enlisted men, for second degree murder and won a verdict of manslaughter, said he understood a subpoena calling for Mrs. Massie's appearance in court against the alleged ravishers had been served on her before her ship sailed for San Francisco.

Lono McCallum, one of the policemen sent to the boat with the subpoena, was to report to Kelley on the service. Kelley said he had instructed McCallum not to use force.

"We want to avoid any further rows with the navy," he explained. This was interpreted as a reference to yesterday's scene aboard the liner Malolo, when Dewey Mookin, Hawaiian policeman, charged Capt. Ward K. Wortman, commander of the navy submarine base at Pearl Harbor, with "assaulting" him when he tried to serve Mrs. Massie the subpoena. Spectators said Captain Wortman pushed the policeman out of the way while Mrs. Massie ran past and made for her stateroom.

NON-PARTISAN DRIVE SWINGS IN FULL SPEED

REVENUE, ECONOMY BILLS WILL BE EXPEDITED

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON (Associated Press Staff Writer) Washington, May 9 (AP)—A non-partisan drive to speed the budget balancing program through the senate gathered force today behind the tax and economy measures.

The billion dollar revenue raising bill was submitted by the finance committee with overwhelming approval. The compromise tax schedules were retained intact. Debate will begin Thursday.

From a whirl of debate and meetings on economy came a proposal from Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, for appointment of a special economy committee. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the majority pilot, promptly accepted the suggestion.

President Hoover, who called in Republican leaders over the weekend to emphasize the tax-economy program, kept contact during the day with the senate situation. Secretary Mills called at the senate to offer full cooperation in the campaign.

Borah Seeks Action Senator Borah (R. Idaho) called for an end of controversy and recrimination over the economy issue in a statement of the floor.

"I do not care one whoop," he said, "who gets the honor, who gets the glory, whether the executive, the legislature, the Republicans or Democrats, or both, just so the country get economy. This controversy and recrimination is concealing the fact that no economy bill is going to be passed unless we change our attitude and discuss economy instead of one another."

The senate appropriations committee resumed its work on the supply measure today, determined to stick by the policy of ten percent reductions.

In debate today, Democrats chided Republicans about the president calling them in for consideration of a "non-partisan program."

Senator Odde (R. Nev.), who was at the White House last night and who is seeking elimination of the ten percent cuts, insisted that no agreements were made at the White House parleys and no particular discussion was had upon the ten percent cuts advocated by Senator McKellar (D. Tenn.).

"Content is certain on the senate floor over the tax bill but leaders are confident of its adoption in almost its present form."

Senators LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Couzens, of Michigan, both Republicans, who opposed the compromise tax plan, are planning to wage a fight for the high wartime income tax rates and elimination of some of the special excise levies.

The compromise tax measure raises the income tax and corporation rates above the house increases; retains the inheritance and gift rates voted by the house; eliminates a number of special excise levies voted by the house; retains four tariff items; and boosts the automobile and admissions taxes.

RAILWAY LABOR WANTS RELIEF

6-Hour Day Is Sought As Measure to Help Unemployed

Washington, May 9 (AP)—Describing increased unemployment in the ranks of their membership since the general wage cut in February, executives of the railroad labor unions today issued a call to the nation's industrial and political leaders to provide employment for the idle millions.

"There is nothing destructive or antagonistic to the institution of private property in the demand that human beings must be kept alive, protected from want and maintained in good health before properties can be made income producing," said the statement.

"The current quotations of stocks and bonds prove that property values can only be maintained when workers are generally employed."

The executives, representing the 21 railroad brotherhoods and unions, met here today to plan their campaign before the interstate commerce commission beginning Wednesday, for a six-hour day. The commission will investigate the question at length on orders of the congress that it study the possible effect on a six-hour day for railroad workers.

Col. Anderson Says Prohibition is Abuse Of Government Power

New York, May 9 (AP)—Prohibition in its present form was described tonight by Col. Henry Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the president's commission on law observance and enforcement, as "an abuse of power on the part of the government," which "in the end must prove ineffective."

His statement, made in an address before the Ohio Society in New York, came on the heels of one in which George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, announced himself as favoring submission of the prohibition question to the people.

NEARLY 5,000 IN TWO CHICAGO POLITICAL SHOWS

PARTY BATTLES FIND STAGE SET

Cross Section of Nation to Pick Republican and Democratic Nominees

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington (AP)—Some forty-six hundred men and women will comprise the casts of the two big political shows at the Chicago stadium in June. Two thousand three hundred and eight of them will be voting delegates, the others alternates.

Hailing from as widely separated and as socially divergent regions as Maine and the Philippines, Montana and the Virgin Islands, these people will transact the dramatic and important business of selecting presidential and vice presidential candidates and of adopting the platforms of two great parties.

At both the Republican national convention, starting June 14, and the Democratic, starting June 27, there will be exactly 1,254 qualified delegates.

Uncover Foundations Of Old French Fort

Detroit, May 9 (AP)—Excavations in the state park at Mackinaw City have uncovered the foundation of an old French fort, all traces of which had disappeared many years ago and the exact location of which was disputed among historians.

Word of the discovery came to Kenneth M. Stevens, who is secretary of the Mackinac Island board, a state body which has undertaken to reproduce the Mackinaw fort. Excavations which uncovered the ruins presented a start on that project.

The logs, driven into the ground, form a continuous wall, Le Chance wrote, and although they have been buried since 1714, retained their outline. They soon crumbled, however, upon exposure to air.

The fort was built while the French were at war with the Fox Indians, who lived along the Wolf river on the Wisconsin side of Lake Michigan. Situated practically at the meeting point of Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior, it was of the greatest strategic importance and was the western headquarters of Menard, Allouez, Marquette and others famous in missionary history. It was from that point Joliet set out on his tour of discovery south into the Mississippi valley.

The British occupied the fortification after the French surrendered Canada, but it was abandoned by the English in 1780 when they feared an American attack and withdrew to the island.

GLASS CLAIMS AFFILIATES OF BANK ILLEGAL

The legality of national bank affiliates.

"I venture to say that it's a legal classic, searching and sweeping and to the effect that national bank affiliates are absolutely illegal, that they contravene the national bank act, that the parent bank contravenes the national charter and that the affiliate in many instances contravenes the state statute and the charter of the state from which it derives its existence. Court opinion after court opinion of both inferior courts and supreme court of the United States are cited.

"No action was ever taken under this tremendously important opinion of the solicitor general. Not only was no action taken, but it within the confines of fact to say that the opinion was suppressed and few things have ever happened in this country that better illustrate the power and the blandishments of inordinate wealth, because the opinion dealt with institutions and individuals who had accumulated inordinate wealth. x x x

"Solicitor General Lehmann's opinion, in my mind shows the activities these affiliates are not only disastrous, as we now witness, but they are absolutely illegal."

Replying to questions from Moses, Glass said the present attorney general permitted him to have a photostatic copy of the Lehman opinion made.

SAYS JOBLESS MIGHT REVOLT

New Drive Launched for Federal Relief to Unemployed

Washington, May 9 (AP)—A warning of possible revolt unless the federal government moves to prevent unemployment distress came from organized labor today as a new drive was launched for federal jobless relief.

The possibility of revolt was voiced by Edward F. McGrady, spokesman for the American Federation of Labor, before the Senate manufacturers committee. Hearings were opened on the Costigan bill to provide $500,000,000 for advances to states and municipalities through a bond issue.

Previously social workers from New York, Chicago and Philadelphia had testified local relief efforts were failing and appealed for federal help.

Meanwhile the movement for federal aid was apparently gaining ground in the senate, particularly among the Democrats.

Need Bread and Butter
There was some discussion of calling a Democratic conference to consider the many proposals offered.

McGrady startled the committee with his frank warning. "If something is not done and starvation is going to continue and perhaps increase," he said, "the doors of revolution are going to be thrown wide open and leaders of the country ought to know it."

"The administration ought to know that more than balancing the budget is needed. Bread and butter are needed. We want to get it through work, but if we can't do that, we are going to get it anyway."

Many of the social workers who testified were among those who appeared in support of federal aid several months ago, but there was one new witness, C. Carstens, executive director of the Child Welfare League of America, who said he had been opposed to federal relief but now favors it.

Citizens Of State Giving Liquor to Students-Murray

Oklahoma City, May 9 (AP)—Governor W. H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murray charged today prominent citizens of the state have been furnishing liquor to their sons at the University of Oklahoma at Norman and participating in parties there.

Threatening to "call names and dates if they don't quit it," the governor said he would order the sons dismissed from school if the parties continue.

Dr. W. B. Blizell, president of the university, said that while occasionally "we run on to some of the alumni with liquor," he had not heard of parents bringing it to school.

Insurance Company Seeks Recovery Of Payment Of $1,950

Marquette, Mich., May 9 (AP)—The Manhattan Fire and Marine Insurance company has filed suit in circuit court here against Mrs. Bridget Harris, aged Marquette widow, to recover $1,950 paid to her on an insurance policy as the result of a fire, alleged to have been of incendiary origin, at an unoccupied dwelling of which she was the owner.

Mrs. Harris was sentenced at the last term of court to serve from one to twenty years in the Detroit house of correction after being convicted of arson, but the execution of sentence was stayed pending her appeal to the state supreme court. The high court is not expected to take up the case before the October term and in the meantime Mrs. Harris is out on $5,000 bail.

LANCASTER IS HELD FOR TRIAL

Flying Partner of Noted Aviatix Indicted for Death of Clarke

Miami, Fla., May 9 (AP)—The Dade county grand jury today held that Captain W. N. Lancaster, former British army flier, must stand trial for the murder of Haden Clarke, 26-year-old author and fiance of Lancaster's flying partner, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller.

The jurors returned a first degree murder indictment. Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson ordered the British aviator held without bail.

He probably will be tried during the term of court opening tomorrow. He has been in jail a week, since his arrest on a warrant sworn out by State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne.

The indictment was a new chapter in a killing, solution of which has defied authorities since Clarke was found fatally wounded early on the morning of April 21 in the bedroom he and Lancaster occupied at the home of Mrs. Keith-Miller.

Clarke and the Australian aviatix had been working on preparation of her life story for publication. She and Lancaster, in low finances due to a long string of aerial misadventures since they made a London to Australia flight in 1927, had seen sale of the life story as a means to procure funds.

The author and the aviatix decided to marry, but because of her close association with Lancaster they agreed to advise him before being married.

CRUCIAL POINT IN BABY SEARCH

Curtis Believed to Be On Secret Mission By Airplane

Norfolk, Va., May 9 (AP)—A pivot point in the Lindbergh negotiations, with a new course of procedure believed to be dependent on a supposed plane trip to re-establish contact with the kidnapers, had apparently been reached today in the efforts of three Norfolk intermediaries to recover the famous baby.

As the reported final day set for continuing the negotiations in their present form drew to a close, silence concealed the activities of John Hughes Critis, principal negotiator, who is believed to have left the naval base here sometime since Friday night by plane. Lieut. George L. Richard, naval officer assisting the Norfolk boat builder, is thought to have piloted Curtis, and possibly Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, on the trip.

Sea Trips Failed?
The shift in activities came after two weeks of almost daily cruises out to sea to make contacts with the kidnapers or their representatives. The results of these cruises have been kept secret by Mr. Curtis and his associates, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burgess, retired, and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock.

It is assumed that the repeated trips out to sea failed in part at least in forming satisfactory contacts and that the negotiators have resorted to another plane flight to re-establish an old contact. Such contacts, Mr. Curtis said, were made via go-between on previous trips by plane.

Several days ago it was reported a deadline had been set for today, unless new developments came in meanwhile. Whether such developments did come, was wrapped in the same close secrecy that conceals the entire work of the intermediaries.

In the meantime the discovery of a note referring to the Lindbergh baby started an intensive search of buildings on Broad street in Elizabeth City, N. C. Norfolk police reported the finding of the note today to officers of the North Carolina city. The note, found in a bottle washed ashore on North river, in eastern North Carolina, was printed with a pencil. It read: "We are afraid to return the Lindbergh baby. It is on Broad street, Elizabeth City, North Carolina."

Passage to Paris

Patou launches a color called Rose Opaline. Agnes creates a little string beret, and Vionnet startles Paris with her diaphanous evening gowns worn over incredibly brief maillots. Bruyere makes a coat with a scarf, and Schiaparelli sponsors dinner pajamas.

Those things happen within the closely guarded portals of the great French houses. Only one woman in a million will see them as the mannequins pass by. But two weeks later—three weeks at most—every American woman who reads a newspaper may know as much about the Paris Openings as the fortunate few.

Great department stores, tiny specialty shops, alert manufacturers, offer through their advertising what practically amounts to a restaging of these semi-annual presentations. Every successful model will be shown. Every significant trend will be recounted—and America will wear its Basque berets and its evening pajamas as nonchalantly as Cannes or Juan les Pins.

Two generations ago—or even one—this could not have been. And advertising has been a tremendous force in making it possible. Advertising has become the common carrier of fashion. There's a passage to Paris in the advertisements almost any day you look.

War Vets Reunion Plans Are Outlined

Oscar Brown and Otto Scheriff, members of the S. A. Valentine camp No. 21, which is making plans for the third annual reunion of the 34th Michigan Infantry of Spanish-American War Veterans in Escanaba July 2 to 4, were the principal speakers at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

Mr. Brown told of the Escanaba company's experiences in the Spanish-American war. The 34th Michigan, he explained, was composed of six companies from the upper peninsula and six more from the lower peninsula. Company L was made up of recruits from Escanaba, Marquette, Menominee, Negaunee, Champion and Republic, and the Escanaba contingent, of which only five survive, enlisted May 17, 1898.

Two weeks training was put in at Island Lake near Detroit, and then the regiment was transferred to Camp Alger, Va., where they received two more weeks of drills. They sailed aboard the Cruiser Yale from Newport News, arriving in Cuba June 27. Company L was discharged Nov. 25 of that year.

DOYLE SPEAKS TO LIONS CLUB

Tells of Opportunities in "Back to the Farm" Movement

Newberry, May 9.—With a declaration that "immediate steps must be taken to relieve the tax burden" under which the landowner is struggling and suggesting a definite plan of promotional activities for the entire Upper Peninsula whereby abandoned farms and cut over lands would be parceled out into small plots for projected summer colonies for the people from the crowded cities of the middle west, W. F. Doyle of Menominee, candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination, addressed the Lions Club here this evening.

Mr. Doyle painted a glowing word picture of the potential possibilities of the Upper Peninsula if the people will "only realize that we have a natural attractiveness equivalent to that enjoyed by the New England states with the advantage of a fine location among the central states."

He challenges the sincerity of "some of our state administrators" in their efforts to curtail expenses and lower taxes at the same time failing to eliminate some of the "needless commissions and bureaus which exist purely for political purposes and to be able to serve governmental patronage."

Starting from the days of exploration by Marquette and Joliet as missionaries and explorers in the upper peninsula, he traced the early development of the Northern Michigan and said that as Michigan became pre-eminent less than a hundred years ago with its wealth of forest land and mines it is again called on to testify to its own value today.

At no time did the speaker mention his own candidacy for the Michigan State Senate but advised his listeners that every county in the upper peninsula must take hold of itself "on this development matter" and insist that their representatives in Lansing launch these enterprises through legislation "just as the locks at the Soo were launched by Federal legislation and augmented through efforts of the state legislature."

GOLD STANDARD HISTORY TRACED

C. E. Kelso is Speaker At Escanaba Rotary Club Monday

Our Money and the Gold Standard, was the subject of a highly interesting address, delivered yesterday before the Escanaba Rotary club by Clarence E. Kelso, president of the Industrial Finance & Investment Corporation, of this city. In his address Mr. Kelso traced the history of the establishment of the gold standard among nations as a basis of trade and reviewed developments in recent months, during which several nations of the world have "gone off" the accepted standard for the settlement of their obligations.

Mr. Kelso called attention to the fact that in spite of the generally accepted belief that several nations have abandoned the gold standard, in fact no nation has yet definitely "gone off" that standard. What they have done, he said, was to temporarily suspend payments in gold, in order that their gold supplies might be conserved and replenished. Mr. Kelso quoted eminent economic authorities to prove that there is little likelihood of the United States being forced to abandon the gold standard, under any conditions that might develop, largely because this nation owes no foreign debts and recourse might be also taken, as a last resort, to a number of other actions.

Discover Remains Of Man In Woods

The remains of a man found in the Cusno swamp last week are believed to be those of an Austrian woodsman who disappeared about eleven years ago but there is nothing positive up on which to base the determination, except that a man disappeared from the vicinity of Shingleton about that time. Altogether there have been four men who disappeared in the swamp within the past dozen years. Nine years ago a man who worked in one of the camps in the vicinity procured a piece of rope, told his companions he intended to hang himself and disappeared into the swamp. It was believed that he executed his threat. Two others have been lost in that locality and never heard from since. The remains of the man found last week were merely the skull and bones of the body, the bones still being in the shoes he wore.

Seek School Supt. Iron River—Applications for the position of superintendent of schools in Iron River, made vacant when Carl A. Pfeiffer accepted a similar position in the Mastodon township schools, are beginning to come in.

The board will meet May 17 to discuss the subject of selecting Pfeiffer's successor. Because of current conditions it is expected to obtain a good man at a comparatively low salary. Pfeiffer's salary has been $4,500 a year for the last three years, although in February he, with the entire faculty, took a 10 per cent cut. It is said unofficially that the board will not pay the new appointee more than $3,500.

Lost Boy Found

Marquette—Robert Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow A. Clark, south Fourth street, was found at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in a marsh six miles north of the city and about a quarter of a mile west of Schweiter's clearing south of the L. S. & I. railway track on the Big Bay road after being lost about 11 hours in the swamp, during which time a steady drizzle of rain was falling.

Robert became separated from his mother and brother, Alden about 3:30 Saturday afternoon while picking arbutus. A searching party was organized at 6 o'clock and the number increased to about 50 volunteers. Travel in the woods became exceedingly difficult after dark, because of heavy mist and fog.

Cyclones, Indians Name This Family

Cadillac, Mich. (AP)—Originally, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Fleming, is what they wanted in selecting the names of their children.

When their first boy came, they christened him Texas Ranger Fleming. The next one was given the name of Montana Lou. The Lou was in deference to his grandfather. A girl was next, and she was given the name of Virginia Paquita Fleming. The senior Fleming had spent some time along the Mexican border, and he says the name sounds "musically Spanish" to him.

They hit upon the name Kansas for their fourth child, a boy, and the fact that cyclones sometimes visit that state supplied the rest of the name. He is Kansas Cyclone Fleming. Then came Pontiac, their fifth child, a boy. History told the Flemings that there was an Indian chief of that name, so the full name of Pontiac Chief Fleming was given to him.

Two months ago the Flemings had a disappointment. They had the name Georgia Peaches all picked out in advance for the latest addition to the family. A son was born, however, instead of the daughter they had expected. Georgia Peaches would not do as a name for a boy, because they are opposed to incongruities. The boy has been baptized Nevada Miner Fleming.

DUST

Makes Driving DANGEROUS

Driving blind in a dust cloud may have its thrills, yet hide tragedy around the curve.

Blinding dust is a major cause of motor mishaps. Meeting a one-lighter on a dusty road, in the dark, is a nightmare. Your lights cannot penetrate the dust. You cannot tell which side the light is on. You are forced to decide instantly between two great risks. Shall you cut close, stay on the road and risk a crash? Or shall you give the other car plenty of room and risk a dust-hidden culvert, bridge or curve?

You need not face these possible tragedies, for dust can be stopped in a few hours so that air is clean and lights show ahead plainly.

Just ask local officials to apply moisture-absorbing Dowflake. It puts moisture into the road surface, stops dust in a few hours and holds it for weeks. It is clean, odorless and does not track into homes. It is an economical saver of road surface material. Our book "How To Control Dust" tells how Dowflake works. Write for the booklet today.

VANISHING SAILS

EIGHTEEN big sailing ships are now driving up from Australia toward England, carrying wheat from the great Australian grain fields; but not one of the ships flies the English flag, and not one flies the American.

This incidental bit of news is hardly surprising, considering the decline that the square-rigger has undergone in the last decade and a half; yet it does seem to mark, pretty clearly, the end of an epoch.

The Man Hunters

CHAPTER XXXV

WHEN Jack Waring took Denise Ackroyd away from the Gledings party on New Year's eve he had formulated no exact plan. He was by nature a meddler and his quick, prying mind had seized on the little drama as something entertaining.

The pale, petulant face stared straight ahead. The childish, fretful voice answered sleepily. "Don't know. Never, probably, the way I feel now. That champagne Laura fed us must have been poison. I feel wretched."

"It was the champagne," Denise insisted solemnly. "That's my story and I'll stick to it." "You're a little mule, aren't you?" asked the man, laughing.

Denise drew her wrap around her regally. "We Ackroyds have wills of our own," she said so pompously that Waring could scarcely manage to maintain his gravity. More than ever now he was certain she had been reading Michael Arlen. "And do you always get what you want?" He was very grave. "Yes, we do." She eyed him suspiciously. "Why do you want to know?"

"Oh, I was just wondering." He steered the talk into other channels. It was a week later that he met Bob Dunbar in the drawing room of the Ackroyd's apartment in town. High above the outer drive it was, with great windows overlooking the lake. Denise was entertaining. The room was filled with beautifully dressed girls and bored looking young men.

"She looks lovely today, doesn't she?" Waring asked. "Who? Oh, yes, Denise." The boy roused himself from some abstraction to reply. Waring appraised him shrewdly. That he was not in love with this girl was plain to the duller onlooker.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

(Copyright 1932 by Douglas Malloch)

IN TIMES LIKE THESE

In times like these no state can help no man: These are the times the man must help the state. Think out his problems, set his own house straight. Plan for himself, not ask the state to plan. We must begin again where we began. Back where the individual was great. By his own effort fashioned his own fate. Before America American.

In times like these we learn that men make lands. Not lands make men, their fortunes must maintain. In easy times, his duty not so plain. The citizen forgets, misunderstands. But when prosperity on shifting sands Begins to tremble, then the thinking brain Must set the rock beneath the point of strain. Each his own corner, each with his own hands.

In times like these, when politicians please With promises the state the load will bear. We must recall our strength is never there. That walls make houses and that roots make trees. Think hard, work hard, find opportunities. Where there seems none, do each his equal share. The wall to strengthen and the corner square. And men and nations come through times like these.

served to himself. Skillfully he led the talk around to the office. The house at Half-Day was working out interestingly, wasn't it? He had some new plans sketched for the stables. He would like Bob to stop by the office some day and see them.

Keenly he watched the boy's eyes. "Some new emotion darkened them for the instant," he thought. "Yes, Bob said. He'd do that. Waring was shrewdly silent. "By the way," blurted Bob. "I don't suppose Miss Carey is still with you. She was married, wasn't she?"

Waring did not need to assume astonishment. "Married? No, of course not. What put that into your head?" "I was given to understand," Bob said slowly. "Wait a minute—let me think this out. I was certainly told she was going to be married to that orchestra fellow and go to California."

Waring shrugged. "I've heard nothing about it," he said, "and I don't believe there's a word of truth in it since she's not the sort of girl to leave without giving notice. Who told you?" he pursued again.

"Honestly, I don't know," Bob said, but involuntarily his gaze strayed to the little group of which Denise was the center. She was being very gay this afternoon. She was in her element. A party-faced youth who had earlier advertised some vague connection with the theater was telling a story and Denise's shrill laughter was the noisiest of all. "Let's clear out of this," Bob muttered. "We'll never be missed and I know a way we can slip out through the service entrance without being caught."

thing back." Waring said to himself. After he had given Susan's address to Dunbar he felt better. The boy would go to see her and everything would be made right.

"I've spiked that young lady's guns all right," he muttered, thinking of Denise. He looked with distaste at the girl who had come from the agency to fill Susan's place. She was tall and thin with a pink nose and pale blue eyes which looked as if she might have been crying. "I'll miss that kid," Waring told Pierson confidentially a few minutes later.

When Denise telephoned Bob told the Chinese boy to say he was too ill to speak. She must come over because the sore throat was highly contagious. Bob knew that would stop Denise; she hated any sort of illness. "We Ackroyds have marvelous health," she was fond of saying, throwing back her bright, little

"Do you mind if I stop in tomorrow morning to look at those things?" Bob asked him at parting. "About 11?" "Not at all. That will be splendid," Waring told him heartily. As he went back to the hotel where he lived he felt a glow of conscious righteousness. "I was a Boy Scout before," he reflected. "Now it looks as though I am going to be a blooming Cupid."

BUT Bob Dunbar did not come to the office the next day. He telephoned to say that the doctor had diagnosed his sore throat as quinsy, and he would not be allowed to go out for several days at least. Did Waring have Miss Carey's home address? Waring said that he did and supplied it. The young man seemed grateful. Waring did not mention the fact that Susan was no longer at the office. He had learned it himself only that morning. Health had explained rather stiffly that Miss Carey's aunt was ill and she would not return for some time if at all.

SCHOOL CENSUS STARTS MAY 11

Three Enumerators Named to Make Count in Escanaba

Beginning Wednesday, May 11, the annual school census will be taken in Escanaba and throughout Delta county in accordance with the state law which provides for an enumeration every year. The census will continue for the last 20 days of May.

R. E. Cheney, superintendent of the Escanaba schools, announced Monday that Miss Carrie Wallace would be in charge of the census in the city of Escanaba, and the enumerators will be Harold Tolan, Mrs. Mary Hayes and Mrs. George Casey.

All children between the ages of 5 and 20 are considered of school age, regardless of whether they are attending school or not, and the county's share of state school funds is based on the number of children between these ages, according to C. U. Woolpert, county commissioner of schools.

Questions asked by enumerators of each family will be the father's and mother's name and place of birth. The children will be listed as to month, day and year of birth and also as to birthplace. Families will also be asked whether they are home owners or tenants.

A greater effort than ever before will be made this spring to procure an accurate list of crippled children in the state of Michigan. As long as there is a de-formity the child is considered a cripple, whether he attends school or not. Special blanks are to be given out for crippled children this year. Blind and deaf children will also be listed.

It has been discovered that the census information regarding crippled children is often inaccurate. This is in part due to the enumerator's inability to recognize cases having slight orthopedic conditions, or, to the parents' unwillingness to submit the proper information. Many times parents are of the erroneous idea that it is a disgrace to have a crippled child, and consequently try to exclude the child or withhold necessary information.

About 100 Receive Seed Loans; Final Day Is Wednesday

Since announcement was made that the government would loan money to farmers for spring planting expenses, about 100 Delta county farmers have made application for federal assistance, and checks have already been received by several of the early applicants.

Some applications are still being received at the office of the county agricultural agent in Escanaba, but Wednesday will be the last day for receiving them, due to the fact that the papers must be received at the regional office in St. Paul by Saturday. The time limit was originally set for April 30, but was extended two weeks in Michigan and a few other states.

The limit which may be borrowed from the government for purchases of seed or fertilizer is $400, but only one or two Delta county farmers have requested the full amount. The loans are due and payable Nov. 30, 1932, or sooner if the crops covered by the mortgage are sold prior to that date, and bear interest at the rate of 5 1/2 percent. Full instructions as to the method of payment will be sent to each borrower before the maturity date of the loan.

PLENTY OF FISH BEING HATCHED

Pike-Perch Popular; Thompson Hatchery Receives Eggs

What is expected to be perhaps the largest distribution of pike-perch or "yellow pickerel" in Michigan's lakes in years will be made by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation within the next three weeks.

Spawning conditions in Saginaw Bay where all of the eggs were obtained, were ideal it was said, and unusually large quantities of eggs were gathered by commercial fishermen and turned over to the state.

Spawning delayed. Spawns taking began immediately with the reopening of the pike-perch commercial fishing season April 11. Spawning had been somewhat delayed because of the fact that the freeze-up in Saginaw Bay did not come until late during the past winter. Then began a gradual rise in temperature facilitating spawning.

The Bay City hatchery is working at full capacity with all hatching jars filled. During the past year additional jars were brought from the now closed Bayport Hatchery and some jars were transferred from the Hastings station. About 1,000 jars are operating, each containing nearly half a million pike-perch eggs. Some eggs were also sent to the Thompson Hatchery in Schoolcraft county where experiments are being made with pike-perch propagation. The Lydell Hatchery also received an allotment. Some eggs were furnished the federal hatchery at Alpena.

Hatched at Chicago. Because of the fact that an extraordinary quantity of eggs were obtained by commercial fishermen this year—taxing the Department of Conservation's ability to take care of all of them, several hundred quarts were given to Indiana and Chicago. Some of the eggs hatched at Chicago will be planted in Lake Michigan.

Pike-perch are planted immediately after hatching because of their cannibalistic tendencies.

Escanaba Motorists Parking Violators; Police Check Cars

Checking up Saturday afternoon on how well Escanaba motorists observe the new one-hour parking regulation, police officers found 23 automobiles overstay their limit on Ludington street between Seventh and Twelfth street. The survey was made between 3 and 4 p. m., and 14 of the cars parked over the limit were local machines.

In a half-hour check-up Saturday evening, Traffic Officer Philip Bruce reported four violations of the "no U turn" ruling which applies between Sixth and Fourteenth streets, and found three cars operating with but one headlight. A similar survey on the previous Saturday showed up 27 "one-eyed" automobiles.

Police are planning their annual campaign against defective brakes, lights and safety equipment, and will conduct their brake inspection drive again this year, probably next month. The police department has found that this annual check-up of brakes, lights, horns and drivers' licenses brings results, and they regard it as a big factor in keeping accidents reduced to a minimum.

About 4,000 women are enrolled in the Iowa Homemakers' Corn club, which grew out of "corn talks" from Iowa State university's radio station.

Predatory Animals In Upper Peninsula Well Under Control

Wolves, coyotes and other predatory animals in the upper peninsula are now well under control, according to H. P. Williams, federal trapper in charge of the extermination program, who has his offices in the Escanaba postoffice building.

This is the busy season of the year for the trappers as they are now engaged in routing out the wolves and coyotes from their dens. Because of the reduced appropriation of the state conservation department, the force of state trappers has been cut in half. Fourteen trappers are now employed in the upper peninsula and one in lower Michigan, Mr. Williams stated.

Mr. Williams took charge of the predatory animal control activities in Michigan two years ago. Wolves have been the most numerous in the Tahquamenon river region in Luce and Chippewa counties and in the Cisco Lake country in the western end of the peninsula, and have caused much destruction of deer and other animal life. Their depredations have been checked considerably however.

The damage that a wolf does can be readily realized, according to Mr. Williams, who estimates that a den of these predators will need a deer daily for their sustenance. A wolf breeds once yearly, and the litter numbers from five to eleven pups. Seven pups are about the average litter, Mr. Williams estimates. Many wolves and coyotes come into the upper peninsula from Wisconsin and Canada, which emphasizes the need for their control. If wolves and coyotes were allowed free rein, the deer population of the upper peninsula would be exterminated within a few years, he predicts.

During the fiscal year June 30, 1930 to June 30, 1931, the following number of various predatory animals have been killed by the trappers: wolves, 71; coyotes, 666; bobcats, 161; predatory bears, 44; fox, 104; and miscellaneous, including, woodchucks, weasels, raccoons, wild dogs, minks, 3,813. In the half year, ending Jan. 1, 1932, the kill has been as follows: wolves, 51; coyotes, 377; bobcats, 56; bears, 38; miscellaneous, 2,463.

City Plants Trees Along Shore Drive

Trees were planted this week along the bay as a part of the city's landscaping program on the parkway drive at the east end of Ludington street.

The drive is constructed largely of filled-in land, and was extended last year from the end of Ludington street at Second street to follow the bay shore and join Lake Shore Drive at the intersection with First-avenue south. The new park has been seeded to grass, and will be beautified with trees and shrubs.

St. Francis Hospital

Eleanor Richer of Gladstone was admitted for an operation for relief from appendicitis.

DRUNK, ALL NIGHT. Evansville, Ind.—A charge of "drunken driving" was filed against Earl Baumgartner after he had driven his car into the house of Jacob Kramer. Hospital doctors came to his aid, however, and explained to police that Baumgartner was drunk, but his intoxication was from ether taken in a dentist's office, and not from alcohol.

George in a Jam Three Act Comedy Is Hilarious Fun What would you do if you were a happy-go-lucky young man accustomed to plenty of money, and your guardian suddenly announced that he was sailing for Europe and was leaving you without a cent, without even the five hundred dollars you needed so urgently, although you might continue to live in his beautiful home with plenty to eat and a fine place to sleep?

That is the problem facing George Forbes in "George in a Jam," the hilariously funny comedy which is being presented here Thursday evening in William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium by St. Stephen's Guild. That is, it is a problem until the wind blows a "Rooms for Rent" sign from next door to his steps, and he and his chum, Jack, are inspired to take in roomers.

From then on the three-act play is one lively, mythical situation after another, for the two young men, and their roomers, find nothing of the rest of the household.

The play, which is under the direction of Mrs. G. W. Moll, will begin Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets for it are now on sale and indications are that it will be enjoyed by a capacity audience.

Bicycling Fad Hits Society At Chicago Suburb

Chicago (AP)—Chic young society matrons of suburban Lake Forest are making their social calls on bicycles these days. The fad started at parties where guests were taken bicycling and roller-skating, but now the cycling fever has broken right out into daylight.

Glamor Is Rule Of Frocks For Cocktail Hour

Paris (AP)—"Glamor and glitter" are the style standard for the formal cocktail hour. Gloom has no part in the 5 to 7 frolic, which has become one of the most important social seasons of the day for which smart women don glamorous frocks.

Lines are seductive and flattering, although pruned of unnecessary details; colors are soft and sophisticated, and necklaces, otherwise banished from the style picture, are often part of the ensemble.

Many a teatime frock is fashioned around the shimmering necklace with which it is worn. The design of the cocktail frock is, often a cross between the dinner gown and the silk daytime dress.

Its soft full skirt is worn about eight inches from the ground, and its sleeves may be long or short, while its fabric is generally a lustreless silk crepe.

Another of pearl grey flannel, designed with long sleeves puffed at the shoulder, a close-fitting hip-line and a full lower skirt, is worn with a necklace made of seven ovals of ivory ropes, while a third of puffy blue crepe fashioned with elbow puffed sleeves is accented by a necklace and front beltline of small crimson carnations.

A Book A Day By Bruce Catton

Most of the scientific "outline" books are pretty dismal affairs. Either they leave the obtrusive propositions which they set out to explain about as dark as they found them, or they over-simplify them and fill the trusting reader with a lot of information that isn't so.

It's refreshing, therefore, to come across a book which does the job up neatly as it is done in "Rambling Through Science," by A. L. DeLeuw. This book, which summarizes and explains the accomplishments and the theories of modern science, is just about as good a book of its kind as I have yet seen.

Mr. DeLeuw possesses the rare merit of being able to simplify a highly complicated subject without sacrificing any of the essentials.

Using homely illustrations that the lay reader is sure to be familiar with, he discusses such things as relativity, the measurement of the speed of light, the make-up of atoms, the way radium behaves, the theory of the ether, and so on, and makes those things about as clear as they can ever be to a highly complicated subject without sacrificing any of the essentials.

Record Attendance Expected in State Parks This Season

Although a reduced budget may make it necessary for the Parks Division of the Department of Conservation to close some of Michigan's state parks during the coming season, the aggregate attendance for the coming summer is expected to break all previous records.

Last year the total number of visitors at the parks were in excess of nine millions. The comparatively small expense involved in a visit to a state park or in the use of one for camping purposes is the reason given by the Parks Division for the expected increase in visitors and campers.

Because of present economic conditions, many people who formerly traveled to other states to spend their vacations will probably remain in Michigan this year and will camp at Michigan's own parks rather than in widely advertised spots in other places.

Use Surplus Labor—In some of the larger and more popular parks added, facilities have been provided during the past winter months to take care of larger crowds of visitors by improving the bathing beaches, camping grounds and the erection of shelters and bath houses.

Several of the parks have already reported campers who have started arriving much earlier than in past years. The last few Sundays have also seen large crowds in several of the parks.

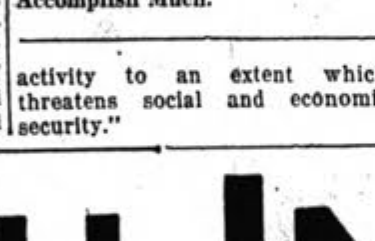

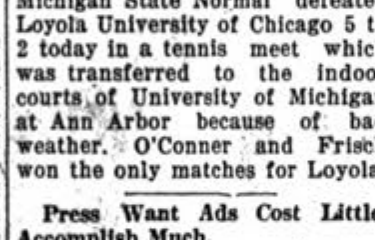

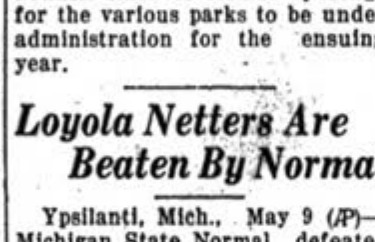

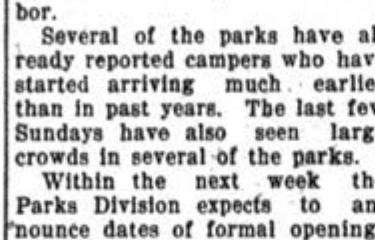

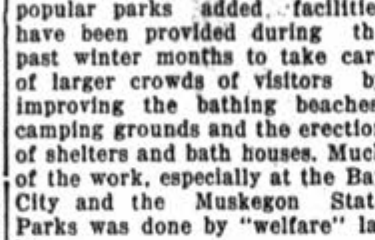

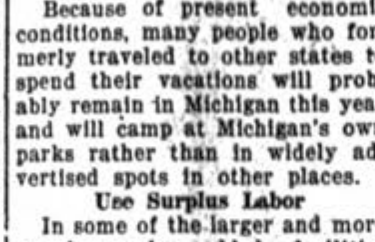

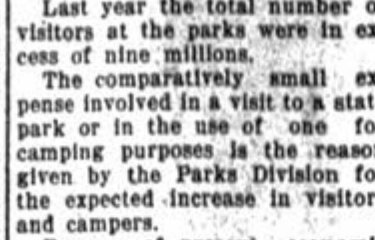

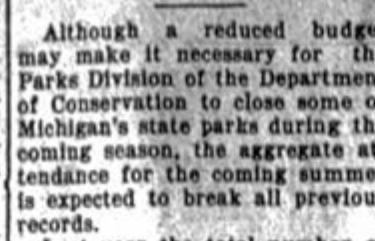

Within the next week the Parks Division expects to announce dates of formal openings for the various parks to be under administration for the ensuing year.

COL. ANDERSON DETAILS VIEWS ON PROHIBITION

Law in all sections of the country and the failure of enforcement have created serious conditions, he continued. "We are in grave danger of losing what has been gained by the abolition of the liquor traffic and the saloon as formerly conducted—solely for private profit. The fruitless efforts at enforcement are causing increased irritation and disrespect for the law generally."

The enormous revenues from this traffic, placed in the hands of the lawless and criminal element, are enabling them to carry on this business in defiance of government and to organize and develop other lines of criminal

Average Fisherman Catches 53 Trout; Schools Aid Tally

Lansing—The average small game hunter takes ten rabbits in a season and the average trout fisherman in Michigan lands 53 trout from May to September, figures now being obtained by the department of conservation indicate.

Recently the educational division of the department began a game tally through the cooperation of the biology classes of the various high schools. More than 100 schools have reported and preliminary tabulations are indicating yields of game higher than had been expected.

School students were asked to report the number of adults in their respective families; the number of small game, deer, and trout licenses purchased by these adults last year, and the amount of game taken.

582 Deer Hunters—The 115 schools reported, show 2,195 small game, 572 deer and 638 trout licenses purchased. These hunters took an average of 10 rabbits each, 1 plus pheasants and two squirrels. The 2,195 small game hunters killed 335 raccoons, 1,722 ducks, 221 opossums, 1,428 partridges and 158 woodcocks. The 638 trout fishermen took 33,914 trout. The 572 deer hunters bagged 282 deer and five bears.

It is expected that most of the 600 high schools of the state will make returns and the consequent compilations are expected by the department to give an excellent cross-section of the amount of game taken in Michigan during an average hunting and fishing season.

SWAMPED BY CATS—London—When Sidney Jay sent out a call for a black cat to take part in a movie, he had no idea he'd get so much attention. Cats sidled into his office from all parts of the city and after the final count had been taken, more than 2000 had been paraded before him to show their film appeal.

RESCUED AFTER 8 DAYS IN OPEN BOAT—By NEA Service Miami, Fla.—A pitiful tale of hunger, thirst and horror was told when Frank Oxenfelt and George Marxy were landed here after being rescued from an open boat in which they were at the mercy of a storm at sea for eight days.

The two men went fishing and their motor broke down. A storm came up and blew them out of the regular steamer lane. Two cans of tomatoes, two cans of pork and beans and a gallon of water were all the rations on board at the time.

After the second day of drifting, two sharks came to keep them constant company, following the boat constantly in wait for the ocean to toss them a meal. On the eighth day they sighted a steamer at night. Oxenfelt saturated a bunch of rags with gasoline, ignited them with sparks made by short circuiting the boat's battery, and succeeded in attracting the steamer.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!
