TANKER TAKES AVIATOR FROM PLANE ADRIFT

GIVEN UP AS DEAD; RESCUED AFTER EIGHT DAYS

Rescued at Sea

Stanislaus Hausner, believed lost at sea after being missing for eight days on an attempted trans-oceanic flight, yesterday was rescued from his drifting monoplaner by a British tanker, Hauser, which was picked up about 500 miles due west of Portugal.

New York, June 11 (AP)—An aviator, believed to be Stanislaus Felix Hausner, was picked up alive from the derelict monoplane in which Hausner attempted a non-stop flight to Europe, the Radio Marine Corporation learned tonight in a message intercepted from the steamship Circle Shell by the liner Lovethan.

The message, intercepted by the corporation's Chatham, Mass., station, said: "Airman rescued from derelict Bellanca monoplane 7085. Monoplane left tail up in 42:41:18 north, 26:04 west drifting southwest about one knot.

500 Miles From Coast "Airman asks any passing vessel endeavor salvage airplane, apparently in good condition."

The number of Hausner's monoplane, a Bellanca, was 7085. It was a flaming red machine. The position given in the message, which was intercepted by the Lovethan is about 500 miles west of Oporto, Portugal. The Circle Shell, a British tanker, is on its way to Curacao, Dutch West Indies, having sailed recently from Hamburg, shipping records here showed.

Hausner, a 31-year-old amateur pilot of ten years' experience, left Floyd Bennett field here at 8:48 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) on June 3.

He skillfully lifted the plane, the reconditioned "Santa Maria Rosa," from the 3,500 foot concrete runway and headed toward sea with the announced intention of reaching Warsaw, Poland, on a goodwill flight. He carried enough gasoline for about 52 hours of flight but said, if necessary, he would land in London or in Paris.

He was believed to have been sighted about eight hours after the takeoff at Sydney, Nova Scotia, but from then on no word had come of him and he was believed to have been lost.

Wife Prayed For Him A small crowd at the field marveled at the skill with which Hausner took the heavily loaded plane—into the air. His wife, Martha, and a Catholic priest, Father Paul Knappack of Newark, N. J., were on an escort plane to Land's End and then returned to Newark and for two days prayed intensively for his safety.

The Bellanca ship was of the same type flown across the ocean by Clarence Chamberlain five years ago. It had been bought by a Chicago syndicate for a trans-oceanic flight which never materialized. Hausner purchased it for $15,000 and had it rebuilt. It carried no radio.

The June 3 hop of Hausner's was his second within a week. He took off late in the afternoon of May 28 in the face of adverse advice from more experienced pilots and weather forecasters. Within a couple of hours, he ran into heavy fog, the instruments of his plane failed, and he was forced to turn back.

Hausner was born in Poland. He came to the United States as a child and was naturalized. He is a resident of Newark, N. J., and he has worked there as a motion picture operator.

He was little known, he had never made any outstanding flight before and he held only a limited pilot's license, which is the lowest class flying permit issued by the department of commerce.

He has been reticent about himself and about the flight, never revealing whether it was backed by others and giving no purpose for it other than "good will."

He said simply that he planned to fly non-stop to Warsaw, traveling slightly south of the great

FIND DYNAMITE IN VET'S CAMP

Ex-Soldiers Will Seek Bonus-Payment Plank At Conventions

BY C. P. WILLIAMSON

(Associated Press Staff Writer) Washington, June 11 (AP)—The veterans army of more than 12,000 bonus seekers joined with those who are not yet organized to hold scattered arms or explosives in the scattered encampments.

Discovery of dynamite charges complete with caps and fuses in the Anacostia Flats receiving station at Annapolis, Md., last night, the veterans' own secret intelligence unit carefully combed the camp for other possible explosives and radicals.

Meanwhile, a committee of the veterans left for Chicago to urge inclusion of a bonus-payment plan in the Republican and Democratic platforms. Other groups started for surrounding cities to recruit additional veterans in an effort to swell the total to 50,000.

Vote on Monday A vote on whether to give formal consideration to the Patman resolution for immediate cash payment of the bonus will be taken in the house Monday.

If that is acted on favorably, a roll call on the legislation itself will be taken. House leaders predicted today that branch would approve the bonus payment but its fate in the senate was doubtful.

President Hoover has promised a veto. A two-thirds vote by both the house and senate would be necessary to make it law over presidential disapproval.

In the senate, an unsuccessful attempt was made by Senator Blaine (R. Wis.), to appropriate $100,000 to aid the bonus marchers.

The explosives discovered consisted of two and one-half sticks of dynamite, hidden under bedding in an area vacated a few hours before by members of the Workers Ex-Servicemen's League, a communist organization.

The veteran leaders proved tonight to be better prognosticators than police, for they were registering about 100 new arrivals an hour at the receiving station.

Health conditions at the camps again became the subject of uncomplimentary remarks by health officers.

His defense was that what he passed over the bar wasn't a soft drink. The licensing ordinance does not cover such beverages, the jury held.

Perkins Youth Drowns In Bay at Gladstone

Paul Casimir, 22, of Perkins was drowned yesterday at noon at the Gladstone bathing beach. He apparently was the victim of cramps and sank in five feet of water. The body was recovered 30 minutes later but all efforts at resuscitation failed. Two hours after the body was taken from the water he was pronounced dead by coroner Dr. George Bjorkman.

When the tragedy occurred, Casimir was alone in the water. With his brother, Joseph, he had gone to the beach for a swim after completing an errand to Gladstone. Joseph decided not to go into the water and sat on the shore watching his brother swim to a raft which had just been completed by the city. The raft was about 400 feet from shore in six feet of water.

After a moment, Paul left the raft and swam eastward parallel to the beach. He had gone but a short distance when he called for help. Brother Attempts Rescue Joseph stripped off his clothes and started to the aid of his brother. He was not a strong swimmer and a brisk breeze was blowing. Almost exhausted he kept fighting against the waves, but his strength was gone as he reached a point not more than 10 feet from where his brother had gone down. He could not reach him.

In the meantime the alarm had been sounded and police, firemen, and fishermen rushed to the scene. Boats were launched and within a comparatively short time the body was located by A. F. Raddant, fire chief. The water here was but five feet deep.

The victim was given first aid and for nearly two hours a squad from the fire department and volunteers worked incessantly in a vain effort to revive him. He never showed any signs of life after being taken from the water.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Casimir, Sr., had been notified and reached the beach just as the coroner pronounced him dead.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral Home here to be prepared for burial. It will be returned to the home today at 3 o'clock. Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the Catholic church at Perkins. Rev. Father Colgan officiating. Interment will be in the Perkins cemetery.

Besides his parents, who live three miles north of Perkins, he was survived by five brothers and five sisters. One brother, Raymond, lives at Spalding, a sister, Marie, at Munising, and the others live at home. The brothers at home are: Joseph, Edwin, Emil and Constantine, and the sisters, Annie, Julia, Leone and Frances.

Task Is Difficult In addition to Director Roper of the budget the conferees were Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee and Senators Smoot of Utah and Hale of Maine, the two next ranking Republicans on the committee, together with Representative Wood, a member of the house appropriations committee.

The four leaders from Capitol Hill are the Republican conferees on the economy bill, who will meet Monday with Senators Broussard and Bratton, and Representatives McDuffie and Douglas, the Democratic conferees, in an effort to settle differences between the house and senate on the economy bill.

Chairman Jones, shaking his head as he left the executive mansion, estimated that as much as $200,000,000 in savings would be needed to balance the budget.

"I don't see where we are going to get the money," Representative Wood, placing the savings needed at around $200,000,000.

DISPUTE OVER AID MEASURES SEEMS LIKELY

CONGRESS HOPES TO ADJOURN BY END OF THIS WEEK

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Despite the outbreak of a threatening dispute between house and senate over unemployment relief legislation, congress pushed ahead today toward adjournment with promise of consideration for farm aid and Philippine independence bills.

A cool reception was accorded in the house to the $300,000,000 Democratic relief bill approved yesterday by the senate and there were threats of blocking action in it until the senate considers the $2,300,000,000 Garner measure.

Leaders were confident, however, of a compromise agreement on unemployment legislation and laid their plans for an adjournment at the end of next week, if possible.

Supply Bills Advance Meanwhile, the house debated the administration-sponsored proposal for creation of a system of home loan banks. Leaders hoped for a vote before adjournment.

Progress was made in both houses on the all important governmental supply bills which must be enacted before adjournment and the controversial national economy measure.

The senate passed the District of Columbia appropriation bill and made the McNary farm relief bill the unfinished business, giving it preferred legislative status.

It also agreed to consider the Philippine independence legislation Monday night, though leaders expressed doubt that a vote could be reached in the 3 1/2 hours allowed for debate.

A dispute over relief broke out when the $300,000,000 bill passed by the senate yesterday for loans to states reached the house.

Even before it was presented, leaders on that side of the capitol displayed some ire that the senate had ignored the Garner bill which the house had previously approved.

Democratic leader Rainey, expressing fear there would be no "real relief legislation," said "when congress adjourns we will have enacted nothing but doles."

Rainey said he hoped the bill would be referred to the banking committee and that it would attach the Garner bill to the senate measure, so that both could go to conference between the two houses.

Garner Ill at Hotel Leaders of the non-partisan group in the house met and agreed to make every effort to block action on the senate bill and "stop the adjournment of congress until some comprehensive relief bill is passed."

Senate debate on the McNary farm relief bill was postponed until Monday.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, expressed hope for early adjournment, but said the senate should pass on the Philippine question and also consider the Democratic $2,000,000,000 unemployment relief bill.

He suggested that this measure, which includes the controversial $500,000,000 public works bond proposal, should be substituted for the Garner bill.

During the day both houses approved the $20,000,000 legislative appropriation bill and the house appointed new conferees on the economy measure which is incorporated in it.

The house also accepted a partial conference report on the $175,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill.

ALFRED SLOAN BACKS REPEAL

Public Opinion Against Prohibition, Says Manufacturer

New York, June 11. (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, tonight announced himself "definitely convinced the road toward greater temperance" is through repeal of the 18th amendment.

"My own personal opinion is that no law can be made effective unless it has the support of public opinion," he said, adding that looking "the facts squarely in the face as they exist today, there can be only one answer—abolishment of the 18th amendment as promptly and expeditiously as possible."

He advocated strict government control of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Sloan issued his statement in reply to inquiries as to his views on the position recently taken by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., long a staunch supporter of the Anti-Saloon League, who this week came out for repeal.

"I admire Mr. Rockefeller's courage," said Sloan. "Many high minded men in this country have undergone a change in attitude toward this question in the last few years. Too many have remained silent. My own views have been reversed by the results of our experiment in prohibition."

"I am now definitely convinced that the road toward greater temperance with a resulting better standard of ethics in our country is through repeal."

Copper Tariff Is Heralded As Great Event In Calumet

Calumet, Mich., June 11 (AP)—The Michigan copper country staged one of the greatest celebrations in its history tonight to mark the passage last Monday of the federal revenue bill containing a four cent import levy on copper.

More than 25,000 residents of the Keweenaw peninsula gathered here for the parade and fireworks. The latter literally set the sky ablaze in the vicinity. All organizations of the copper country participated to make the event a success.

The legislation, the copper country believes, is destined to restore copper to its former place of importance in American industry.

PEACE REIGNS OVER STATE'S 41 DELEGATES

RUSHTON MAY URGE REPEAL OF PROHIBITION LAW

BY DAVID J. WILKIE (Associated Press Staff Writer) Chicago, June 11 (AP)—When the Republican national convention is called to order at 11 a. m. next Tuesday, Michigan's 41 delegates will be found prepared to follow the wishes of the Hoover administration forces on every subject that is brought to a ballot.

The delegation represents conflicting personal political interests, but its leaders, apparently realizing that internal discord would afford great comfort and joy to their Democratic rivals, have been busily engaged pouring oil on the waters of potential controversy. Most of the Wolverine delegation remember the warning of Secretary of War Hurley before the Michigan state convention that the greatest danger facing the Republican party was a lack of harmony; they remembered, too, that last year, for the first time in more than three decades a Democrat was elected to congress from the eighth district.

Submerge Differences Indications tonight were that the leaders of the various factions of the Michigan delegation had, "in the interest of harmony" definitely agreed to submerge their personal desires and that they had succeeded in smothering most, if not all, possible sources of contention at the delegation caucuses which will begin Monday evening at Michigan headquarters in the Congress hotel.

The Brucker-Green-Barnard triangle will be present at the national convention just as it has been at many of the more recent state conclaves. So far as can be foreseen now, however, it promises little in the way of fireworks.

One of the rumors circulating tonight was that Governor Wilbur M. Brucker and former Governor Fred W. Green had reached an accord, good for the duration of the national convention, by the terms of which Green would become Michigan's member of the committee on resolutions, following Governor Brucker's selection as chairman of the Michigan delegation.

The appointment to the resolutions committee is regarded as one of the prizes in the delegation. There apparently is little probability that Charles Beecher Warren, former ambassador to Japan and Mexico, would accept the post again if it were offered him because of the condition of his health.

Warren said some weeks ago that his health would force him to decline the appointment should it be offered.

Peace-making efforts of the delegation's leaders probably will extend also to the matter of who shall be the woman member for Michigan on the Republican national committee next year. James E. Davidson, of Bay City, will be re-elected on the first ballot, but Mrs. Bina West Miller's re-election has been threatened by Mrs. Jacob Steketee, of Grand Rapids, long prominent in political work among Michigan women.

In view of the harmony efforts being exerted by the delegation leaders it appeared unlikely that both would be placed in nomination for the post.

Michigan's position on the prohibition question was defined by the party's state convention at Grand Rapids which voted for re-submission of the issue. State Senator Herbert J. Rushton, of Escanaba.

J. E. Moran Heads Group Of Chicago Harvard Graduates

J. E. Moran, of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moran of this city, was elected as president of the Chicago alumni association of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, at the annual meeting of that organization, held last week, when many notable men were present. Mr. Moran presided as toastmaster at the annual banquet when addresses were given by Phil Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, Sewell Avery, head of the Montgomery Ward company and chairman of the Chicago committee of bankers and businessmen, working with Secretary Mills, of the U. S. Treasury; Eugene Meyer and Dean Wallace B. Donham, of the Harvard School of Business.

Dean Donham addressed the meeting on the causes of the present economic emergency and said in part:

"Company planning is possible ordinarily, but under present conditions it is gambling—in national planning the variables are too numerous and foresight is almost impossible."

Commenting further on the economic situation, the dean stated that man cannot forecast beyond three variables because the processes of democracy are too slow. "We cannot get the facts quick enough, and foresight is thus impossible," he said.

"No two depressions are alike—and we cannot say with assurance what the causes are. But we must not forget causes and meet the consequences. If you knew the causes of this depression it would be unimportant compared with the damage of its continuance. The important thing today is to find out how to put men to work—how to stop the recurrence of the consequences which we now see."

Gogebic Lake Park Has New Highway

With a state highway now being completed through the Gogebic Lake State Park, the park will be officially opened for the 1932 season, June 15, the Parks Division of the Department of Conservation announced today.

The road, which has been completed the nine miles from U. S. 2 to the park along the west side of Gogebic Lake is being run through the park and will eventually be extended to Highway M-28 north of the park.

Until this year there has been no highway into the park and as a result the attendance has been small.

While the Gogebic Lake State Park was acquired three years ago, the 1932 season will mark its first year as a full-fledged park. Last fall a bath house was erected, which will be used for the first time when the park opens June 15.

The Gogebic Lake State Park has an area now of close to 400 acres. It is considered one of the most beautiful scenic spots in Michigan, having a good bathing beach, and excellent camping grounds among virgin hardwood timber.

LAW REQUIRES SAFETY GLASS

Vehicles for Hire Are First Affected by New Regulation

Compulsory use of shatter-proof glass on certain types of passenger-carrying vehicles manufactured after July 1 will become effective in Michigan on that date, and on all Michigan motor vehicles after July 1, 1934, is provided in the terms of a new law, copies of which have been received here.

Convinced that ordinary glass contributed to the injury of countless persons in traffic accidents, the 1931 legislature adopted a bill which eventually will make it illegal for the use of anything but shatter-proof glass in all automobile windows and windshields.

The bill falls into two phases. It provides, first, that: "It shall be unlawful on and after July 1, 1932, to operate any passenger-carrying vehicle, manufactured after that date, for hire upon a public highway, unless such vehicle is equipped with shatter-proof or laminated glass or any glass manufactured or fabricated of sufficient consistency to provide against shattering."

Applies to New Cars In other words, after the first of next month, the only taxicabs or public buses that may operate without shatter-proof glass will be those built before that date. Since the law applies only on new vehicles, it will be a matter of years before the use of ordinary glass on vehicles operated for hire is entirely halted.

The second phrase of the act is much more comprehensive: "It shall be unlawful on and after July 1, 1934, to operate any motor vehicle, manufactured after that date, upon a public highway unless such vehicle is equipped with shatter-proof or laminated glass or any glass manufactured or fabricated of sufficient consistency to provide against shattering."

Expect Easy Enforcement While the terms of the statute are ambiguous, it is the general opinion here that when the legislature said the vehicles should be

WELLS CLASS OF 1932

In a little village on a hill not east or west, stands a big ivory building young folks know the best. In the year '31 and '32 through winter's chilling blasts, with students 31 composed our school class. Cass is our teacher, both loyal and good, her home in Escanaba 'tis understood, Edward and Robert are ever at the spot, when looking for a girl both shy and Robert are ever on the spot, Irene they meet, Lawrence, too, belongs to our merry class, he comes from Electric Ave. Even though Belle is a quiet young lass, everyone known when she's in class. Howard from Wells, so bashful and shy, he really blushes when girls go by. Marvel and Mildred from below do come. They're around to make things hum. Bobby and Elmer were with us two long years. Each are planning a high school career. Now comes Marie so graceful and small. What would we do without her? We wouldn't, that's all. Ellen has been with us but one year. We all hope she's enjoyed herself while here. Along down our line is Mary you see. She thinks after all it's nice to be free. And here is Lester, who laughs and sings. He runs as if gifted with wings. Olive and Priscilla so charming and clever, could we forget them? No, never. Fern, the lass with the charming smile, she and Emma completes the style. A fellow named Jack comes in our class. It's surprising how much he does know. And last in our line comes Cora so shy, along with the rest bids a sad goodbye. So dear teachers, friends and schoolmates, we are leaving as Wells School Graduates.

Bugle Corps Will Play in Flag Day Services Tuesday

Taking part in the Elks Flag Day program Tuesday evening, the Escanaba Legion drum and bugle corps will make their last public appearance here before leaving for the upper peninsula convention which opens June 24 at Sault Ste. Marie.

For the Flag Day observance, the drum and bugle corps will meet at the city hall at 6:45 Tuesday evening, June 14. Instead of their familiar uniforms of red and blue, the corps will substitute white trousers for the red breeches, combining their uniform coats of light blue with the white slacks to get a new color effect in marching. Helmets will be worn with the outfit.

Twice-a-week rehearsals are being held at the Escanaba high school athletic field as the Legion men prepare to take part in the convention program at the Sault.

DOUBTFUL ECONOMIES

ALTHOUGH the business world breathed a sigh of relief when congress passed the tax bill, there still remains some dissatisfaction in the public mind over the disposition shown by the lawmakers to effect economies in federal government.

The finding of new taxes for the raising of money to balance the budget was necessary, of course, but that offers little consolation to the taxpayer.

Both the senate and house have refused to cut so much as a dollar off the billion-dollar a year sum the veterans' bureau pays out, despite the fact that dollar will buy more than it has for twenty years.

THE STATE POLICE

AFTER an investigation which lasted several months and took an investigator of the state police force to all parts of the state, sufficient evidence has been uncovered to secure the indictments of those who aided in the smuggling of arms to the convicts, who attempted to escape from Marquette prison some time ago and murdered the prison physician and a trusty.

State police officers are trained every day in the science of crime detection. It is a profession with them, and they make it their life's work.

Along with the cry for economy in state government of late has come the demand for the abolition of the state police system.

UNWISE AND USELESS

MARQUETTE business men adopted a resolution, requesting that the executives of the state police system ask the teachers to contribute their money in Marquette in view of the fact that the state police are doing nothing to protect the schools.

tributors to the city tax roll. Since the faculty members of Northern State Teachers college are paid by the state, the business men also have suggested that they spend their wages in Michigan stores.

Whether the business men of Marquette will benefit from such an action and its attendant publicity is doubtful. There might be a few dollars of the teachers' money going to outside mail-order houses, but the chances are that these public employees recognize their duty to buy where they earn their livelihood, and are spending most of their salaries right in Marquette.

To demand that they spend their money at home naturally will go against their grain, and the merchants will lose their good will. How such a rpling could be enforced is problematical. After all, it seems that such action loses more than it gains.

UPON reading reports of the daring holdup of the Hermansville bank and the exchange of gunfire between the bandits and officers, the reader naturally would be led to believe that they were hardened criminals, probably members of some gangland mob.

Upon looking at pictures of the handcuffed bandits, however, appearing in the newspapers this week, one would undoubtedly exclaim in surprise, "Why, they're just a bunch of kids."

True, they are mere youths, 18, 19 and 20 years of age. The fourth member of the robber band, not in the picture because he is still at liberty, is the oldest, but still only 23.

They wore wide bottom trousers, topcoats, and hats, with brim turned in, the latest fashion. They are of the young sleek type. Probably at heart they are not really bad, although they acted like "tough eggs."

Who is to be blamed for these boys' going wrong? After all, boys in their teens have a hard time getting the true perspective of life, unless they have had the benefit of thoughtful parents, the good influence of friends, church and school.

Education can accomplish much in the curbing of crime if it teaches the youth of the land that money is not everything. Too much emphasis on dollar chasing has made American youth feel the acquiring of money, whatever the means, is the paramount objective of life.

At last we've found out why cadets at West Point and Annapolis feel so superior to ordinary college students. They get a job along with their diplomas.

An Ohio politician is advocating that horse racing be placed under state control. What is the man thinking about? He must want to destroy the last vestige of confidence in the honesty of the tracks.

The idea that money makes money brought on speculation and the depression, an economist says. And the idea that nothing will make money keeps the depression here.

An editor says Congress would be all right if it had some convictions and some courage. Maybe if we could get a few convictions, the others wouldn't need so much courage.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch (Copyright 1932 by Douglas Malloch)

AS GROWS A TREE

I want my boy to grow as grows a tree— To rise each purple dawn above the sod— To rise above it all as grows a tree.

I want my boy to stand as stands a tree, Calm, unafraid and in majesty— As stands the forest pine, what blizzard blows, Attired in garb divine amid the snows— A sign upon the hill of constancy, As pure, unchanging still, as stands a tree.

I want my boy to live as lives a tree; I want my boy to give of charity— To shield, as maples do that shade the plain, And tenderly renew the weak again— A guard, a shelter, when the cowards flee, To live for other men, as lives a tree.

I want my boy to grow as grows a tree— To learn life's lessons slow and patiently, To rise each purple dawn above the sod— A little farther on and nearer God— To seek the heavens above, in life to be The emblem of Thy love, as grows a tree.

CHAPTER XVI

DAN'S eyes met the girl's. They were smoldering and resentful. "It's what you think," he went on. "Bates is sore as the devil about that Toscalli business. Did you see the Sentinel?"

"But, Dan, you're not?" "Fired? Well, not quite. Oh, he said plenty more besides! Reminded me that I fell down on the line Mallory story. Reminded me of everything else that's gone wrong in the last six months. And here I was counting on a raise!"

"Yeah? Try and tell that to Hiram J. Bates! If you haven't seen the Sentinel you don't know the worst. They carried a story that Toscalli was here last night. With the Chief waiting to arrest him at the station Tony is supposed to have breezed in in a high-powered roadster, had dinner at a restaurant, called on a couple of friends and then beat it. Or so the Sentinel says. It's one of those vague stories. No one quoted directly and nothing you can pin down to facts, but it's the Chief's story! And is Bates burning up!"

Cherry's face had gone white. She said, "It wasn't your fault, Dan. You know that. It's because of what I told Garth Hendricks—" "There's no use saying that and there's no use even thinking it. You've no proof Hendricks spilled the tip. Anyhow the thing's done and that's all there is to it."

"I could tell Mr. Bates it was my fault." Phillips looked his horror. "For Lord sake, no!" he exclaimed. "Then I would be out of a job! I've told you, Cherry, the only thing to do is forget the whole matter. I'll have to watch my step for a while. Of course it isn't very pleasant to take a bawling out like the one I just got—especially after working half the night."

"It's not right, Dan. It isn't fair." Dan laughed ruefully. "Neither are a lot of other things that happen but there's nothing anybody can do about them. Well—what say we eat?"

They walked down the street in silence. The crowds of office workers hurrying to board cars and buses had thinned. It was a spring evening as fresh and invigorating as any of the season but for Dan and Cherry the magic was lost. Both were preoccupied.

PRESENTLY Dan remembered something. "Dixie Shannon tried to call you this morning," he said. "Told me that if you haven't found a place to live she knows of an apartment we could get. It's in the building where Dixie lives. People leaving town want to sub-lease. Dixie said she'd go out with you to look at it if you want her to."

"Oh, I would like that! I've had such a time all day. Everything I've seen is ugly and dark and they charge so much! Where is the apartment?" "Somewhere around Kesington Circle I think," Dixie says she likes the place.

"When can she go with me?" "You might call her tonight and find out. Her name's in the phone book. Tell you what let's do, kid. After dinner suppose we go on a regular spree and see a movie. Would you like that?"

Cherry would like anything at all that suited Dan. She was feeling repentant. She told him nothing would please her so much that evening as to see a movie. At 12 o'clock next day Cherry met Dixie Shannon at a Twelfth street drug store. They had sandwiches and malted milks, sitting on high stools before the marble-topped counter. Dixie was wearing a green hat again—not the one she had worn the night of the wedding but a tiny green straw with a short scarlet feather tucked into the crown. The hat was tipped at an outrageous angle. It was too bright and yet somehow it suited Dixie.

as he unlocked the door. "Those clarks have got it fixed up fine. The room they entered was large. Cherry's first impression was of creamy walls, dark floors and abundant cheerful colors. There were two windows on the east through which the mid-day sun shone.

"Why, it is nice!" she said eagerly, stepping forward. "What pretty curtains—and a window seat. I like that!"

It was a comfortable looking room. A low couch piled with pillows stood against one wall. There were three large easy chairs, plainly showing their age. Several small tables and an upholstered footstool. The gate-leg table near the window had the leaves lowered and was covered with a piece of Chinese embroidery. In the center of the north wall a colorful square of woven woolen stuff had been pinned. Several black and white drawings and two smaller ones in oil decorated the other walls.

Clarice and Johnny hunted around auctions and second-hand places for most of this furniture," Dixie explained. "Some of the things Johnny made. That couch there and the book shelves. He made those. The kitchen's over here—"

THE kitchen, such as it was, was behind a door Dixie pulled open. Originally it had been nothing more than a large chest stove with an oven, an ice chest and miniature sink, two rows of shelves bordered with scalloped oil cloth and piled with dishes and cooking utensils. There was no window and no light except that from an electric drop lamp.

There had been designed for some other purpose. Its old-fashioned white tub was nothing like the shining rose and silver bath of the dressing room that had been Cherry's in her father's home. Checked blue linoleum covered the floor instead of handsome black and gray tile.

"Where's the bedroom?" Cherry asked. "Oh, there isn't any. You see the couch folds open. With that chest of drawers and this closet you have plenty of room for clothes. None of the apartments in this house have bedrooms."

It would be a new way of living but the big room with the window seat and home-like furnishings had won Cherry's heart. "This is the nicest place I've seen," she said. "If Dan likes it and it's not too expensive I'd like to live here."

"That's grand!" Dixie declared. "I'm on the next floor. It's cooler in summer but you'll be glad you have only one flight of stairs to climb. Want to come up and see my place?"

They left Mr. Bergman to lock up the apartment and Cherry followed Dixie to inspect her tiny third floor quarters. From there Cherry telephoned phone which is very natural for a woman to say the least and you talk about the Weaker sex but you never saw a man hang onto a telephone as long as a woman can.

And speaking of getting shot from all reports there will be a lot of Republican and Democrat shot at Chicago and a lot of new Barz are opening up special for the convention and I hear Joe Colozzino is going to retire after the convention and the Beer buzness turn out as good as he expects and the Republican wet their plank and with such Co-operation from the Barz we can expect some real oratory at Chicago especially in the hotel rooms and Zpeakeazilly.

to Clarice Clark. It developed that the apartment rented for $50 a month. However, as Dixie had predicted, the Clarks did not want to ipy storage on their furniture. They were anxious to get away at once. Clarice Clark said that if Cherry and Dan would take the place immediately they could have it furnished for $50 a month.

"I'll talk to my husband and let you know this afternoon," Cherry promised. She decided to go with Dixie to the News office and there consult Dan. The two girls boarded a car and rode down town. They were walking toward the newspaper office when the other girl put her hand on Cherry's arm.

"Here's somebody you should know," she said. The next moment she was saying to a young man who had stepped out of a building just ahead of them, "Oh, Max! Have you met Cherry Phillips? She's Dan's wife, you know. Cherry, this is Max Pearson."

Cherry put out her hand. She raised her eyes to meet the young man's. They were dark eyes, very handsome. Something seemed to tighten about Cherry's heart. It was uncanny but for an instant she felt a certain premonition of danger. The dark eyes held hers. (To Be Continued)

AT THE DELFT Stephen Roberts, recently signed Paramount director who worked as an advisory director with Norman Taurog on "Sooky," just recently completed his first full directorial assignment in the production of "Sky Bride," which comes to the Delft theatre today and tomorrow.

"Sky Bride" is a modern story of aviation motivated by a gripping theme of love and adventure, in which Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce, Jack Oakie, Charles Starrett and Robert Coogan play the leading roles.

The story of "Sky Bride" has a rich melodramatic flavor. Arlen, as a stunt flyer for an air circus, goes stale after a crack-up that killed his partner. He is taunted by another flyer as being "yellow." This stings him into a desperate effort in which he saves the life of Robert Coogan and also wins the admiration and love of his sweetheart, Virginia Bruce.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"What this outfit needs, boss, is publicity. Why don't you get a divorce, or something?"

Peninsula Paragraphs

By Marjorie Huntoon Morrill

A MESSAGE TO THE GULLS Fly high, Gulls! Fly over the lake— The blue lake, the lake of a thousand bays. A little smoke will show on the shore. A little white smoke— Fly high, gulls!

There is a cold current Of air in the sky; There are clouds, tattered and broken. The wind is riding the moon; Fly high, Gulls!

There are no words to your song. No words. But the beat of your wings is a song. And the light on your wings is golden under the sun.

Slant your wings to the wind. Breathe the wind, Gulls! Push against a strong gale. And then come back to me. Fly high!

I will have something to tell you; A secret between us. But you will not understand it Unless you fly high. Fly high!

They were making designs over the bay at Manistique, followed on the earth by their swift shadows. All along the shore at Bay de Noc they slanted their long wings along the air currents. And at Epoufette they hung like lit-ships above the two lone points, adding the last touch of unrealness to the hazy lake scene. Unless it be the heron and crane family no birds so add to the beauty of a picture as do the gulls. The first mentioned birds, no matter where found, make one think of a Japanese painting, but gulls are universal. They belong to all the world and especially to our Peninsula, seeing that they grace all but our western boundary.

We had an odd experience with them lately. It was on the beach east of Grand Marais. Hundreds of them were arranged in orderly ranks on a grassed meadow, all facing out to lake. In front were three or four important members of the band, watching them. It looked much like some sort of convocation where important items of gull-society were being decided.

As the car paused they arose and hovered above us, letting their shadows drift slowly across and across. Looking up through their wings against the sun, each bird was floating on wings of gold. For some reason we felt especially blessed as though some sort of odd honor was being paid.

And, afterwards, when we thought about it, we understood—a little.

Four years ago I was a candidate for Probate Judge of Delta County in the Republican Primaries. I carried the City of Escanaba by almost nine hundred votes. I was defeated in the entire county however, by a margin of 177 votes out of a total of 6975. The fact that almost fifty per cent of the voters at that time wanted the change in this office leads me to believe as many and possibly more voters now still desire to make such a change. Accordingly I have decided to be a candidate again. I shall seek the non partisan support of all voters in the county. The purpose of Primaries in September is merely to provide party tickets in a November election. County officers as in the case of township and city officials should be elected on their merits and for their ability regardless of party lines. They must protect the rights and safeguard the interest of citizens and taxpayers, regardless of national or state party lines.

Therefore, I feel free to invite and call upon all voters to come into the Republican Primary, September 13th next, and support me for nomination to this office.

In view of the world wide financial distress and unemployment situation, all must expect that sane and sensible economy must be brought about in all public offices. The cost of government administration must be cut. Waste, useless expense and extravagance in public spending must be eliminated.

I pledge myself to cooperate with the Board of Supervisors and other county officers to do everything possible to reduce the cost of maintaining the Probate Court, consistent with proper and necessary public service.

Further, I pledge myself if nominated and elected, to perform the duties of the office fully, promptly, carefully and honestly. I shall be very happy if the voters of the county permit me to serve them in the capacity of Probate Judge. I am certain that I can be of real service to the people in this office.

Safety Measures Asked At Airport

Public cooperation to eliminate parking hazards at the Escanaba airport during the air circus today is asked by local officials and those in charge of the show. Parking on the highway is barred, and certain United States air commerce regulations must be observed in keeping crowds and cars away from danger zones.

A big crowd of cars lined the boundaries of the airport Saturday, and more are expected today. Officers will be on hand to take care of the parking problem, and motorists and spectators are asked to observe all safety regulations.

Teacher, Age 8, Sets July 18 as Date When Hard Times End

NOTE:—Joanna Xenos, eight year old daughter of immigrant, uneducated parents, living in a tenement, took time out today from teaching her fellow pupils at the Morris Elementary School of Chicago to write about herself for the Associated Press. Joanna, whose father is Greek and her mother Polish, learned to write in a few days, and has made eight grades in two years, the last six this year, but she is barred from high school by age.

The training of this child is under personal supervision of A. W. Schroeder, principal, and is part of an experiment fostered by assistant superintendent James Mc Dade in which exceptionally gifted children are permitted to advance as rapidly as they are able, and to help others.

BY JOANNA XENOS
Chicago, June 11 (AP)—I am sure that I'm not a prodigy at all but a lucky girl who was given unusual opportunities under sympathetic teachers, a wise principal, and most of all the chance of working under the new ideas of teaching which superintendent James Mc Dade advises. I have heard Mr. Mc Dade speak and hope his fight for modern methods will give all boys and girls the chance I have had.

Mrs. Lazerna Wirth taught me to write soon after I went into 1B; this has helped me more than anything else. My favorite reading is history and biography. When I go to college I hope to specialize in these branches; I like French history best. Some day I hope to teach history or mathematics.

Shuna Fairy Tales
I read a lot, especially newspapers, but I do not like fairy stories or fiction that does not seem like real life. I do not like romantic movies. I do not get to go to the movies often, but when I do I want to see comedies. I have not played with dolls in some time. I cannot cook, but I know I would like it.

I know I am studying Spanish, arithmetic algebra, history, Latin and English. We have talked over plans for next September and have decided that since I have skipped so much and have left out many necessary drills it will be better to go through all the grades from 5B up all over again.

It has been very interesting to be allowed to try to teach other primary children, too. I've had about forty little first and second graders who get an hour's drill in reading, writing and languages every day. Some of them have advanced far beyond their grade. I have had fifth grade children help me as pupil teachers. There is no regular teacher for this group. I never think of discipline problems because I never have any trouble. The children in this group are there because they want extra help.

Hoover, Not Garner
From reading the newspapers I draw these conclusions: The Republican party, which meets next week, will nominate Mr. Hoover for president; and the Democratic party will nominate anyone except Mr. Garner. I believe he cannot be elected since this country is not ready for a Southern president.

As to the depression, I think it is all over—On July 18 the afternoon papers will say the period of hard times is over. This is how I figure it. We are past the worst. The big United States Federal loan is going over. We need one more extra push. The big crop will do it. Harvest begins July 1, the peak is over July 15 and on Monday, the 18th, so I feel it on Monday, the 18th, so I will declare the depression over.

IDA LEMIEUX

Memorize—There was a solemn requiem high mass Saturday morning in St. Ann's church for Miss Ida Lemieux, prominent Menominee young woman, who died Wednesday in St. Joseph's hospital following a five month illness. The cortege formed at 8:30 at the family home on Sheridan road and proceeded to the church where the mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Francis Geynet, assisted by Rev. Father Dennis Cleary as deacon, and Rev. Father F. J. Theriault of Marinette as sub-deacon.

Attending the final rites from away were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Newhouse and daughter, Gertrude, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Mrs. F. Styczynski, Green Bay; Mrs. F. Delaruelle, Escanaba; Mrs. P. Vachon and son Jeffery, Bark River; Marvey Vachon and Mrs. Mary Lane, Chicago; Mrs. John Monroe, Iron Mountain and Mrs. N. J. Raiche of Iron Mountain.

30-Year-Old Auto Touring Continent

BY H. HEAFIELD
Garden, Mich., June 11—"Three decades young," a Cadillac automobile built in 1902 was enroute this week to Detroit, her place of birth, after an arduous trip from coast to coast, from Canada to the Gulf. The machine was driven by Frank Wright of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and N. D. Tebo of Tacoma, Wash., who in the last twelve months have toured the roads of twenty-two states.

The ancient motor car has had a checkered and glorious career. In 1902 it was shipped by train to its original owner in Tennessee and used in the sunny southland as a vehicle of state. Eight years later it was bought by a Mr. Wright, father of the present owner, who kept it as a family car until 1922. Then the family became tired of its old buggy. Streamlined autos were appearing everywhere, vying for speed and beauty. The old Cadillac was consigned to the waters of Cripple Creek near Murfreesboro.

Eight years later, in 1930, young Wright, needing some spare parts, dug up the old machine from its bed in the creek. He worked six months, soaking the various parts in oil and cleaning them but found they would not fit the later model that he had in mind. To his great joy he found that all the parts of the old car were intact and coordinated perfectly with each other so that the ancient machine would actually "run". For almost two years now, the renovated machine has been on tour, including a stop-over at Hollywood, Calif., where it featured in a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Speed of the Gay Nineties." It has attracted much attention wherever it has been.

Flyers to Perform Here Again Today

Wallie Arntzen, piloting a Great Lakes plane, averaged 111 miles per hour to win yesterday's feature race in the Escanaba air circus. Bob O'Dell of Lansing, in a Gypsy Moth, was second, and Ellsworth Ranguette of Nahma was third with a Fleet ship.

Sensational events are listed on today's program at the air circus. In the interest of safety, the managers of the circus request that spectators do not park on the highway between the pylons while the flying exhibitions are in progress.

This afternoon's program will open with a parade of planes, followed by stunting by Wallie Arntzen, and other flyers. A drill of the American Legion drum and bugle corps will be held at 3 o'clock. The feature race of the day will be held at 7 p. m.

Team Work Group Holds Luncheon

Members of the Team Work committee of the United Commercial Travelers held their regular luncheon meeting at the Delta hotel yesterday noon.

Pleasant Surroundings Important For Homes

Nothing is more pathetic than a home which has that "rundown" appearance. Not because it is a sign of financial stress. But because it is a sign of indifference, of lost self-respect. Keeping the home fresh and attractive is hardly a matter of finances, for in this direction one may spend as much or as little as one chooses.

Good taste and thoughtful planning can easily overcome budget limitations. The services of a reliable painter and decorator may be obtained at slight expense. Materials are lower-priced than ever before. In fact, the householder is presented with an exceptional opportunity to have his home cleaned and decorated for almost whatever he wishes to pay. Consider what pleasant surroundings mean; their addition to the daily happiness of every member of the family.

Consider the impression your home makes upon your friends. Can you afford to put off cleaning, painting, decorating? The wise home-owner will not wait. He will take advantage of the prevailing low prices. He will invest, however small the amount, in "pleasant surroundings" for himself and his family.

General Freshening-Up

If your home has reached the in-between stage that demands attention, yet not complete redecorating, it is suggested that you have your decorator estimate on a "freshening-up" job. This will be reasonable, and very satisfactory. Your walls and woodwork can be washed, your wallpaper cleaned, and your ceiling calcimined.

Dark woodwork may be either shellaced and waxed, or varnished. This should be done when needed. Floors should receive similar attention. If your floors are badly worn, they should be refinished. In the case of light floors, they can be finished dark, which is more fashionable.

Lighting System Often Neglected

Many home-owners do not realize what a false economy inadequate lighting is. Eye-strain, whether in children or adults, is a high price to pay. Wherever a lighting fixture or lamp is needed, it should be installed without delay. Not only as a health measure, but to increase the safety and comfort and pleasantness of the home. For instance: in dark clothes or linen closets; over the kitchen basin; above the bathroom mirror; on the back porch.

At intervals, a general inspection of your electrical system and apparatus should be made. The cords of electrical appliances may need to be renewed. All exposed wires should be examined for poor insulation. Extra fuses for the fuse box should be kept on hand.

Many New Ideas In Wall Finishes

This season has produced a host of new and beautiful wall-coverings; patterns and colors to suit every taste; modernistic, conventional; washable. And all wall papers are distinctly lower in price. Walls may be treated in a variety of manners. Painted plaster, rough plaster finishes, painted canvas, natural wood panelings, applied moldings. Each is in vogue, and each has its decorative advantages.

The uses of paint in the interior and on the exterior of the home are too numerous to mention. It should be added, however, that a bit of paint, skillfully applied, costs less and does more for the home than any other single factor. Let your painter and decorator help you.

Years of Service Actually Improve a J-M Tile Floor

On a Johns-Manville Tile Floor, the constant buffing of footsteps results, after a while, in a surface gloss which is most attractive. Mud, dirt, cigarette butts, spilled ink—and even ordinary acids—brush off or wash off without a trace.

This ability to stand up makes Johns-Manville Tile Flooring ideal for use in offices, entrance halls, lobbies, bathrooms, laboratories, playrooms, corridors, sun porches, etc. In addition, it is comfortable a slip-safe underfoot.

Many colors and sizes. Low in price. Let us estimate on your flooring requirements without obligation to you.

Now Is the Time To Install Furnace

If the old furnace has been troubling you during the recent winters, it either needs expert service or junking. In either case the time will soon be here to have the work done. Don't wait until fall when every home owner will also be thinking about his heating equipment. No matter how luxurious a home may be furnished it is not a real, comfortable home without efficient heating apparatus.

Fertilizer of some kind is like medicine. Given at regular intervals, according to prescription, it will bring results. An overdose may kill.

"TIN CAN ISLAND" is so called because of its unusual method of getting mail. Letters and papers, sealed in tin cans, are dropped aboard from passing steamers, and natives swim out after them. The southeast trade winds throw up large waves on the shores, and because of the steep banks and lack of indentations for bays, it is extremely difficult to reach the island by boat. It is of volcanic origin and is one of the Tonga group, located in the South Pacific ocean. Astronomers traveled from all over the world to observe the solar eclipse there in 1930, although it lasted but 92 seconds.

Mickey Learns That Gladstone "System" Is Hard to Beat

The Gladstone jail received a thorough cleaning yesterday morning. Mickey Gleason, whose knowledge embraces a smattering of religion, poetry, politics and finance, and who was at one time a telegrapher of more than average ability, played the part of charwoman.

Mickey hails from Negaunee, at least that was his home once. He travels from town to town through the Upper Peninsula living by his wits. He's a clever talker and is adept at the pan-handling art.

On many occasions he has been in Gladstone and has brushed acquaintance with a large number of people here. Friday he renewed these acquaintances and sought to make a few "touches."

He had not learned of the Gladstone "system" and when he was told to go to the police department and register his name, he thought it a joke. When he became persistent, a police officer was called and Mickey was locked up. After spending the night in jail, he was ordered to clean the place and then escorted out of town.

"Miss Vincent was in the finals in 1931 and won over Virginia Hill, of Auburn. This year, to advance to the last round, Miss Hupy downed Mildred Angel, Hastings, who previously had won the college honor three years in a row."

Final Evangelist Meetings Today At Baptist Church

Evangelist David E. Anderson will close a series of services at the First Baptist church of Gladstone today. The closing services will include three meetings, one at 9:50, the second at 11:00 in the morning and the third at 7:30 in the evening.

At 9:50 Rev. Anderson will speak to the Sunday School classes, his subject being, "The Heart of a Child." At eleven o'clock he will deliver a sermon in Swedish, entitled, "The Backslider." "Mad Men" will be the evening topic.

In his closing message "Mad Men" the evangelist will deal with the truth of moral insanity, especially in respect to men rejecting, or at ignoring God's moral right to rule in the heart of the individual, the home, the community, and in the national life. This is a most timely as well as needed subject for age and time.

Thursday night two large delegations were present at the meeting. There were 30 from the Calvary Baptist church of Escanaba, and 23 from the Manistiquish Swedish Baptist church.

Tonight as the closing service a large crowd from the Calvary Baptist church of Escanaba is expected. They have cancelled their evening meeting in order to be here. Both the choir from that church as well as the choir of the local church will render several song numbers.

The evangelist's meetings have been a spiritual crusade for Christ and the pastor Rev. Werner Nelson and the congregation believe much good has been accomplished.

The public is most cordially invited to attend the closing services.

Miss Dorothy McQuown left Friday for Stambaugh where she will spend the summer vacation.

Tramp Statue at Hovey Cottage Represents Ex-Mayor of Battle Creek

The unkempt figure of a tramp, clothed in ragged trousers, tattered coat, plug hat, shorn of shoes, and carrying a cane, stands back in the yard of the Charles S. Hovey cottage at Indian lake. Passers-by wonder why a poor forlorn figure such as this one, had been modeled into a statue, and, if interrogated, Mr. Hovey will relate the following story of its most interesting origin, history and significance.

Revenge was the motive for its origin. Adam C. Arnold, of Battle Creek, Mich., then commonly known as "Pump" Arnold because he was the owner of a pump factory, was operating a hotel with a bar in connection. At that time the state had strict regulations in regard to the sale of spirituous liquors and "Pump"

Arnold was known to be a constant violator, but could never be caught "red handed." Liquor could only be sold at certain specified hours and could not be trafficked on Sundays or holidays.

Determined to "get" Arnold, Mayor Gage, formerly of the Gage Publishing Co., grew an unkempt beard, disguised himself as a tramp, and one Sunday apparently hopped off a Grand Trunk Line freight train in front of Arnold's place.

Mayor Gage entered Arnold's saloon and asked for a drink of whiskey. Arnold feeling sorry for the poor ragged beggar, thought a drink would do him no harm and took him into the barroom and gave him a glass of whiskey for which the tramp shelled out a dime. After conversing with Arnold for a few minutes, the tramp asked for another drink and offered the same dime which Arnold had refused in the first instance. "Pump" again declined the money.

In the meantime conversation on various sundry topics began to flow freely and Arnold noted that the tramp possessed a keen and intelligent mind. Finally the tramp asked for a third drink and pushed out the same dime. Arnold gave him the drink, and thinking what he might as well avail himself of the money as someone else, took the time and turned to put it into a drawer which served as a till. As he turned, Mayor Gage removed the plug hat and then arrested Arnold for selling liquor illegally. "Pump" was fined $100 and costs, which so irked him that, in a spirit of revenge, he sent for a sculptor to make a likeness of Gage as he appeared in disguise—to uphold him to scorn and ridicule for posterity.

Securing a slab of soft Bedford rock three feet square and seven and one-half feet in height, the sculptor set to work carving out the tramp marked by his appearance as furnished by Arnold, a photograph of Gage as he passed him on the street.

Arnold placed the statue in front of his hotel and labeled it with Gage's name. Gage sued him for libel. Then Arnold began shipping the statue to all parts of the country where any activities were going on at the time. Arnold built a special car for the statue, and set out "rollers" to facilitate its handling.

Among the places where Los Angeles, San Francisco and other points on the west coast, and New Orleans for the Mardi Gras, and finally was sent to the world's fair at Chicago in 1893.

Statue Disappears
Mr. Hovey, the present owner of the statue, knew Arnold quite well through business dealings in livestock. Arnold having had a banking for fast race horses, and after the world's fair, Arnold presented the figure to him. Mr. Hovey set it up on his famous Cedar Park Stock farm near Centerville, St. Joseph county, Mich., where it remained until 1905 and then disappeared.

It was finally traced and located two years later west of Three Rivers at the place of a former acquaintance, Clinton Shafer. Mr. Hovey told Shafer he could retain possession of the statue providing he keep it in good condition. Last October Mr. Hovey had the statue trucked to the upper peninsula to his Indian lake summer resort where it still stands as mute testimony to the scorn of "Pump" Arnold for Mayor Gage.

The figure has withstood remarkably the forces of erosion, and but for a broken toe and a small piece out of the nose, caused by schoolboys throwing stones at it while in the possession of Shafer, it is just as the casual observer it appears as though it has been molded of concrete.

Games This Week
Monday—Nortons vs. Fords, westside; Lauerms vs. Schusters, eastside.
Tuesday—Central Markets vs. Manistique Cleaners, westside; Inlands vs. Sinclair, Oils, eastside.
Wednesday—Nortons vs. Schusters, eastside; Lauerms vs. Fords, westside.
Thursday—Central Markets vs. Sinclair Oils, eastside; Inlands vs. Cleaners, westside.

Schuster's, Grocers and the Norton Specials, both of whom were tied for the league lead at the completion of games a week ago Friday, were set back into a triple tie for second place with the Creighton Fords at the close of last Thursday's games. By winning both of their games last week, the Central Markets went into first place.

Postponed games played Friday night between the Norton Specials and Lauerms and the Schuster Grocers and Sinclair Oils, are not figured in the above standings.

Outstanding games played last week were the Norton-Lauerms and Ford-Schuster contests, Lauerms taking an unexpected victory from the loop leaders and Fords upsetting the duke bucket by trimming Schusters.

The Fords, behind the sterling pitching of Nels Halsey, and the Central Markets fared best for the week, both teams winning two games. Nortons, Schusters, Sinclair Oils, and Lauerms split even, while the two cellar champions the Cleaners and Inland Lime & Stone company teams succeeded in dropping both of their games.

Defensively the Fords led the league for the week's play, Nels Halsey, cashing in on whitewash victories over the Inlands and Schusters. Thus far the race is a battle royal, with all teams in the circuit except the Inlands and Cleaners, having a fine chance to cop the flag.

The week's schedule will bring together a number of strong teams with at least one good battle scheduled for local diamond ball fans every evening. The game of the century will be played next Thursday evening on the westside grounds when the Inlands play the Cleaners for the cellar championship. In the last meeting between the two teams the Cleaners eked out a victory. The Inlands have not scored a victory to date.

Propeller Blade Found in Harbor Off of Old Boat

A new version as to the origin of the propeller blade which was found at the bottom of the local harbor here a week ago Friday by the crew of the government dredge Kenosha, and the most likely one advanced thus far, is that it is either from the Ann Arbor No. 1 or 2, both wooden boats, one of which ran aground. The statement was made by John Girvin of the Coffey Fishing company, a pioneer fisherman of this city.

When the propeller was first found, it was stated that it was from the Cartery Manistique. A day or so later, some of the old timers declared that it must have been from the Ann Arbor No. 5, but subsequent inquiry has proved that the Ann Arbor No. 4 and not the No. 5 was the boat which overturned in the harbor in June 1909. An article appearing in the Gladstone section of this paper on Friday stated that a Gladstone man, A. L. Foster, had pictures of the overturned craft clearly showing the name of the No. 4. Further verification that the overturned craft was the ill-fated No. 4 is had by newspaper clippings from both the Manistique Courier Record and the Manistique Pioneer Tribune, both of which published photos.

Mr. Girvin states that the propeller which has caused considerable damage to the bottoms of many boats in the local harbor was torn off prior to 1909. The cartery "Manistique" sunk in the harbor in 1908 after it had struck an obstruction which presumably was the propeller blade recently unearthed.

Last year the propeller blade caused $33,000 damage to the Alpea and damaged the Steamer Charles West to the extent of $9,600.

The account of the overturning of the Ann Arbor No. 4 as published by the Manistique Pioneer Tribune is as follows:
"The Ann Arbor car ferry No. 4, while being loaded at this port Saturday night turned turtle and went to the bottom of the slip, port side downward. It contained 24 cars, loaded with iron ore, in all about 1200 tons.

The ferry, which is constructed of steel, is 270 feet over all and 52 feet beam, is in command of Capt. Fred Robertson, and Thos. Hawkins is chief engineer. The crew numbered twenty-four men and Mrs. Wilson, cabin maid, and her daughter, Miss Wilson, waitresses.

The accident happened while the ferry was being loaded, the two center tracks being filled with loaded cars, and cars being placed on the port tracks. There were eight cars in the string, two of which were to be set out on the port track. When the cars left the apron the ferry began to list, dragging the remaining cars onto the boat, the locomotive being unable to hold them, so states Engineer Carmichael of the yard engine. It is believed that had not the cars broken away from the locomotive it would have been dragged from the track.

It is estimated that fully ten minutes elapsed between the time the ferry began listing before it turned over completely. When it had turned partly over the cars on the center tracks toppled over tearing away the stanchions and smokestack and crashing into the cars on the port track sending the boat to the bottom. In turning over one of the boilers was torn from its position.

The hull of the boat is quite badly damaged, especially at the stern the twin propellers, rudder and shoe being broken. The damage to the port side of the boat cannot be ascertained until it is righted.

When the condition of the boat was noted the crew was ordered ashore and all reached the dock without injury. Nothing was taken from the boat, the crew not even securing their wearing apparel other than worn. Those having their quarters on the starboard side of the craft succeeded in taking out their belongings Sunday. The port quarters, occupied by the mates and engineers, are below the water line.

SHORT POSITION PROVES COSTLY

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages, including indices for Dow Jones, Standard & Poor's, and others.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY (Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 11 (AP)—Having demonstrated that a short position in dynamic shares can sometimes be made very uncomfortable and costly, the stock market closed the week with a flurry of profit-taking today.

Technical influences seemed to have governed the movement, for the day's contributions to information on the state of trade conveyed nothing of particular interest.

The reactions in shares brought net losses of a couple of points each for Cass and American Tobacco "B" which had made extreme gains of similar size.

Youngstown district steel operations start next week a point higher at 23 percent of capacity, but it seemed likely that the industry as a whole might show a further tapering off.

Sentiment toward the bond market remains hopeful, for senior securities have held up reasonably well since their sharp rebound of a week ago in response to news of banking support.

IRON MOUNTAIN FINISHES THIRD

Chrisman and Olson Put Up Enough Points to Win Top Honors

Menominee, June 11 (Special)—Kingsford's miniature but mighty track squad performed even smoother than the most rabid supporters of the Flivver think had hoped for today to cop the Upper Peninsula Invitation track and field championships here by scoring 46 points with Escanaba a poor second with 23 1/2 points and Iron Mountain third with 23 points. Menominee scored 16 1/2, Wakefield 16, and St. Joseph 6. Manistique failed to score.

Olson and Chrisman again led the Kingsford athletes and their combined scores totaling 23 1/2 were sufficient to beat back the challenge of the opposition schools. LaSalle and Jacobson, however, also grabbed off first places to swell the Flivver total.

Chrisman was high point man for the afternoon, snagging three first places and running on the second place Kingsford relay team for a total of 15 1/2 points. Olson was a close second with two first places and a tie for first to annex 14 more points.

Anderson Beaten

Jacobson beat out Monson of Escanaba in a thrilling quarter-mile duel in the time of 52.3 seconds, just eight-tenths of a second slower than the 440-yard record time set by Miehle of Escanaba in 1921.

In another close race, LaSalle bested Rose of Escanaba by about a yard after coming from behind in the final spurt.

Escanaba's distance runners garnered 14 of the 23 1/2 points, placing one-two in the mile and Monson slipping in for a second in the quarter and Rose for second in the half mile.

Anderson of Escanaba who last week vaulted 11 feet, 10 1/2 inches in the U. P. Relays at Escanaba, was off form today and fell out of the pole vault event after clearing the bar at 11 feet. His teammate, Hebert, beat him by vaulting 11 feet, 3 inches but Olson of Kingsford took top honors in the event with 11 feet, 6 inches.

Chrisman bettered the U. P. broad jump record with a jump of 20 feet, 9 inches. The former record was held by McCorry of Ontonagon and was 20 feet, 6 1/2 inches.

Trophies were won as follows: first in track events, Kingsford; first in field events, Kingsford; first in meet, Kingsford; B. relay, Iron Mountain; Class C relay, St. Joseph (uncontested); highest individual point winner, Chrisman, Kingsford; second highest individual point winner, Olson, Kingsford.

Ruth's Homer Not Sufficient, Yanks Bow to Cleveland

Cleveland, June 11 (AP)—Babe Ruth's eighteenth home run of the season, coming with Combs on base in the first inning, proved only a temporary annoyance to Wesley Ferrell today and the big right hander went on to pitch a six-hit game while the Indians rallied to defeat the New York Yankees 6 to 3.

SPEEDY NEGRO DOUBLE WINNER

Shatters World Records As Indiana Captures Team Title

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)
Chicago, June 11 (AP)—Uncle Sam, an ebony phantom of the cinder path, is a clinch to be a member of your Olympic team.

He is Ralph Metcalfe, 22 year old negro youth from Marquette university who today, in two amazing races, eclipsed three world records and tied another, as Indiana won the national Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championship with 56 points.

Metcalfe, in one of the most sensational individual performances in track history, shattered the world marks for the 220 yard dash, the 100 meters, the 200 meters, and tied the 100 and 200 in one afternoon back in 1921.

Metcalfe was the outstanding performer, although not much ahead of George Saling of the University of Iowa, and Jack Keller of Ohio State, each of whom set new world records.

After 372 athletes from 88 colleges and universities, from Pennsylvania to Arizona, finished their performances, five world records had been eclipsed, one had been tied, and six records for the meet had gone glimmering. The winners of today's events and those who trailed them in second and third place, will be chosen to compete in the final trials for America's Olympic team July 15-16 at Palo Alto, Calif.

Metcalfe, a powerfully built youngster weighing 180 pounds, and standing 5 feet 11 inches, started his amazing achievement by winning the 100 yard dash in 9.5 seconds, breaking the tape two yards in front of Don Bennett of Ohio State. This equaled the world record made by Eddie Tolan, another negro star, from the University of Michigan.

Metcalfe's most sparkling race was the 220 yard dash in which he slashed a tenth of a second from the world mark, to beat another negro, James Johnson, of Illinois State Normal, by six yards, 20.5 seconds.

In both races Metcalfe also pinned at metric distances for Olympic competition. The watches showed him knocking off 200 meters in 20.2 seconds, three tenths of a second better than the existing world mark held by Roland Locke of Nebraska. He was timed at 100 meters at 10.2 seconds, two tenths of a second faster than the record established by Charlie Paddock.

Brooksmith loses
The battle for team championship honors involved midwestern rivals with Ohio State finishing second to the Hoosiers with 49 1/2 points. Minnesota was third with 39 1/2, and Marquette, because of Metcalfe's achievements, was fourth with 23 1/2.

Saling, the flashy Hawkeye, gave the world something to shoot at in the 120 yard high hurdles when he skimmed over the barriers in 14.1 seconds to knock three tenths of a second from the accepted world mark made by Earl Thomson of Dartmouth in 1920 and later tied by E. Wennstrom of Sweden. Keller also knocked a hurdle record into discard when he galloped over the 220 yard low hurdles in 32.7 seconds. The old accepted mark is 23 seconds flat.

Henry Brocksmith, the bespectacled Hoosier from Indiana university, met heart-breaking defeats in the mile and two mile races. Glen Cunningham of the University of Kansas, started an explosion under Brocksmith when he conquered him by three yards in the mile in 4:11.1 to chop more than six seconds off the national collegiate record.

In the two mile, Charles Shugert of Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, triumphed over Brocksmith in a sensational stretch finish to beat Brocksmith, Shugert broke the national collegiate record, covering the distance in 9:16.7.

Hugh Rhea, all-America football star from Nebraska, contributed a new national collegiate record for the shot put by tossing the ball 52 feet 5 1/2 inches. It was more than a foot better than the old mark of 51 feet, 1 1/2 inches made by Harlow Rothert of Stanford, 1930.

Lott Captures Clay Court Championship

Memphis, Tenn., June 11 (AP)—In a spectacular exhibition of tennis, George Lott, Chicago star, won the national clay courts championship here today over Bryan Grant of Atlanta, who threatened the tournament favorite at every turn of the match.

The score was 3-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.
Grant's dazzling backhand shots and lobbing repeatedly caught Lott, second ranking national tennis star, off his guard in the early part of the match, but he came back in the fourth and final sets to grasp victory.

Brooklyn Climbers In First Division

Brooklyn, June 11 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers clambered into the first division of the National league by the slim margin of one percentage point as they clouted the St. Louis Cardinals into submission by a 12 to 3 count to open their series.

Score by innings: St. Louis—100 000 110—3 5 0 Brooklyn—340 040 10x—12 12 1 Derringer, Lindsey, Sherdel, Stout and Wilson; Heimach and Lopez, Pincich.

ATHLETICS LICK DETROIT BY 7-3

Wild First Inning Sends Tigers Into Second Division

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—A wild first inning in which Tommy Bridges issued four passes, unleashed a wild pitch and then grooved one for Eric McNair to hoist out of the lot for a home run, caused Detroit's defeat, 7 to 3 today in the series opener with Philadelphia. Despite his first-inning wildness Tommy went on pitching until the eighth when he was replaced by Izzy Goldstein.

He issued a few more passes, but in the fourth he fanned Cramer, Cochrane and Foxx.

Five of the Athletics' runs came in the first inning on the four passes, an error by Gehring, Bridges' wild heave and McNair's homer. The Tigers made one in the second on Lawrence's double, a force out and another two-bagger by Hayworth. They combined two hits with a base on balls, and an error for another run in the fourth.

Nice Squeeze Play

In the seventh, Haas singled, stole second and scored. The Athletics' sixth run when McNair hit for two bases. With one out in the Tigers' half of the eighth, Stone doubled and scored on Walker's single.

The Athletics' final run came in the ninth inning. McNair singled and went to third when Goldstein trying to catch him off the bag threw the ball into the pavilion. Dykes walked and then McNair and Dykes executed a neat squeeze play that put Dykes on second while McNair held third. McNair was caught at the plate when he attempted to score on Freitas' drive to Davis. Dykes scored on Bishop's single.

With two out in the ninth Alexander went in to bat for Goldstein but flew out to Haas in Center.

The defeat, coupled with Cleveland's victory over New York, forced the Tigers into fifth place.

Guiding factors in the grooved swing that you see in the experts are the left arm and side. Use of the straight left arm is the only way a grooved swing can be attained.

By keeping the left arm straight in the backswing, the shoulders turn on an axis practically down the center of the body. The left shoulder always follows a definite path, as does the left hand at the end of the straight left arm.

Heavyweight Match Still Is Mystery To Faithful Fans

New York, June 11 (AP)—Unheralded and unused, Max Schmeling's heavyweight title defense against Jack Sharkey in Madison Square Garden's big bowl on Long Island June 21 came down to the final week of preparation today still a mystery to the faithful; the promoters, and perhaps the fighters themselves.

Almost completely without benefit of ballyhoos, Sharkey has boxed himself down to a mere 205 pounds in his training camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., while the champion, at Kingston, N. Y., has paced himself along at the same even physical trim, 189 pounds, that he has maintained since he defeated Sharkey for the title on a foul in four rounds two years ago.

Allison and Van Ryn Lick Brazil Netters

New York, June 11 (AP)—A two-months campaign destined to carry Uncle Sam's Davis cup team into the inter-zone finals at Paris closed today as Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn completed the rout of Brazil's best at Forest Hills.

Closing the three-day series, which saw the United States victorious in all five matches, Allison defeated Ricardo Pernambuco 6-1, 6-2, 6-0, and Van Ryn subdued Ivo Simonet, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0. For a pair who specialize in playing doubles, the Americans did an exceedingly fine job at singles today.

The sweeping conquest of Brazil gave the American squad a record of twenty straight victories over Canada, Mexico, Australia and Brazil in qualifying for the trip to Europe.

MURDER WILL OUT

Fort Worth, Tex.—Two badly beaten men were arrested in different parts of the city, and refused to tell police the names of their opponents. The problem was solved after both men were placed in the same cell. They continued the battle they had been waging before being arrested. One was taken to the hospital with a deep scalp wound.

DOYLE SPEAKS AT HOUGHTON

Urges Development of Upper Peninsula's Resources

Houghton, Mich.—In what was interpreted as the launching of his campaign for the Republican nomination for State Senator from the Thirtieth Michigan District, W. F. Doyle here, that, in his opinion, the outstanding legislative necessity of the day was an intensive campaign toward complete development of the natural resources of the Upper Peninsula as a means of establishing new small businesses and bringing about an increase in revenue to be divided between the home owners, farmers and business houses of the various counties.

"Especially the farmer of the peninsula," Mr. Doyle said, "should be interested in aiding in the development of this great industry of the north because today the farmer is paying or trying to pay the same taxes he was assessed during the war when prices were high and they could find a ready market for their products."

"Something must be done to cut the cost of government for the landowners and small taxpayers as well as large manufacturers who are staggering under the ever increasing load," he said, adding "that by properly developing this peninsula, converting some of the abandoned farms into summer colonies, building roads so that the outsider will be happy to spend his vacation days up here and removing from state government many of the needless boards, commissions and political appointees whose biggest jobs are to travel through the different counties at state expense for the sole purpose of being political informers for those in authority."

Mr. Doyle condemned the recent action of the Michigan legislature in passing the Horton bill which he declares unjustly and unfairly diverts highway funds from the counties of the upper peninsula and makes it available for the cities of the lower part of the state "who needlessly and recklessly spent money while the farmer of the north and small town dweller waited patiently for his share of the good roads program."

Tennesseans paid $25,233 to cross the state's toll bridges during April.

Nelligan Visits Charles Farrells

Hollywood, Calif., June 11 (Special)—Among the visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrell, famous movie stars, was John Emmett Nelligan, pioneer lumberman of upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin, who is spending the winter in California.

NELLAGAN was a neighbor of Mrs. Farrell, known to screen fans as Virginia Hall, when she lived in Marinette, Wis.

Mr. Nelligan is the father of Mrs. A. J. Geartis, 117 South Second street.

He was born in New Brunswick, March 31, 1852, and for more than a half century logged timber in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Michigan. He was a member of the famous partnership of Nelligan and Flannigan, whose operations in the Metropolitan region will be recalled by many old-timers here.

Mr. Neault has had many years of experience in the automobile business and has had notable success in it. GIVEN PATENT ON INVENTION

Escanaba Man Devises Improved Hoisting Apparatus

A patent has been issued by the U. S. patent office to Albert L. Kositsky, 343 Stephenson avenue, for an automatically releasing hoisting device.

The apparatus is both a safety and labor saving device, and has possibilities for wide use in the loading of open cars in lumber, post and pole yards. It has been employed in the handling of ties at the Chicago & North Western railway's tie treating plant here for the last six months. Mr. Kositsky is a foreman at the tie plant. It has been customary to hoist a load by passing two chains under the load and attaching the ends of the chains to two hooks which are held in spaced relation by a spreader member, which in turn is supported from the hoisting cable of a crane. When the hoisting cable is raised the load is lifted by the chains, and when the load is lowered to rest it is necessary that the ends of the chains be unhooked by a workman in order to disconnect the load.

This method of reloading the load carried by the hoisting device is hazardous, particularly if the material transferred is in the form of ties, logs or timbers, because there is great danger of the toppling over and falling upon the person who unhooks the chains.

With Kositsky's new device, however, the chains are released automatically as the load is laid in place through the medium of hooks, ingeniously devised.

Mr. Kositsky has received several offers from concerns for the invention, but has made no deal.
