

BACHELOR CONFESSES SLAYING GIRL

BODY IS FOUND IN CELLAR OF OLD DWELLING

EVELYN SANFORD OF FREESOI VICTIM OF ATTACKER

Traverse City, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP)—Francis (Rusty) Nash, 31-year-old bachelor recluse of Freesoil, confessed in the jail here tonight, officials said, that he killed Evelyn Sanford last Saturday night at the edge of Freesoil and buried her in the cellar of an old dwelling.

The detailed statement which officials said he signed checked in essential details with the reconstruction investigators had made of how the pretty 17-year-old farm girl whose body was found today in Freesoil lost her life.

The confession, as given out by officials, said he saw the girl walk into Freesoil from her home, half a mile out, about 8 p. m. He wandered about town during the early night, he said, went home and started to retire, then dressed again and walked out along the road Evelyn would follow going home.

He met her about 10 p. m., he said, and attempted to put his arm around her. She slapped him.

Tied Rope On Neck Angered, he said he struck her a heavy blow with his fist and she fell unconscious in the road. He became frightened, pushed her body down an embankment, went to his home, less than half a mile away, and along the same road, and returned with some rope and a gunnysack.

The confessed slayer expected the girl would wake up, but she did not and believed her dead. To make certain, however, he tied a piece of rope tightly around her neck.

Then he went to a neighbor's home and stole a two-wheeled cart. After trussing up the girl's body in the gunnysack and with the rest of the rope, he said, he lifted it into the cart and wheeled it to the vacant dwelling at the rear of the house he occupied and buried it in the basement.

He said he did not assault the girl. Nash was brought here from Manistee when threats of a mob forming in Freesoil to storm the jail were heard.

Ludington, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP)—Jammed head down into a narrow grave in the cellar of an unoccupied house not far from her home in Freesoil the body of pretty 17-year-old Evelyn Sanford was discovered today, ending a four day search for the girl who disappeared last Saturday night.

The girl's arms and legs were trussed up behind her body and tied with rope. The finding of a coroner's inquest that death had been due to strangulation was supported by the finding of a rope tightly bound around the neck, although a large discoloration beside the right eye indicated she had been struck a heavy blow.

Bachelor Arrested Although three physicians who performed an autopsy at Scottville concurred in the preliminary announcement of Coroner Rupert Stevens that the girl had been strangled they declined to say positively that she had been criminally attacked.

Discovery of the body came while police were holding as a suspect, a 31 year old bachelor, Francis (Rusty) Nash, who lived across a side street from the house where the body was found. Nash was arrested yesterday when

QUITS CABINET

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont yesterday resigned his cabinet post to re-enter private business. He was succeeded by Roy D. Chapin, former president of the Hudson Motor Co., and present chairman of the board of that organization.

LAMONT QUILTS AS SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

DETROIT MAN WILL SUCCEED HIM ON CABINET

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Shifting his cabinet line-up for the fourth time in four years, President Hoover today accepted the resignation of Robert P. Lamont as secretary of commerce and immediately named Roy Dikeman Chapin, of Detroit to fill the post.

Lamont's resignation was handed in, the president said, because of the necessity of his immediately re-entering private business. The Chicago engineer-financier was absent from the capital today and it was not known to what particular business he would devote his major time.

Chapin, now chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car company, received word of his appointment during a conference with the president this morning, and was already enroute back to Detroit when his name was publicly announced.

Chapin Optimistic

The 52-year-old automobile manufacturer will assume his new duties next week in an apparently optimistic frame of mind as to the nation's economic outlook. In fact, he told newspapermen before his departure he believed the "change in public psychology for which everybody has been praying" already had taken place.

A dark-haired, energetic, man of stocky build, Chapin said he told the president he believed "business prospects now seem better than at any time since the depression began."

Lamont, for years one of the chief executive's closest advisers, left no word in the capital as to his immediate plans. When he accepted his cabinet post in March, 1929, he was an officer or director of half a score of the nation's biggest corporations, one of which—the American Foundries company—he served as president since 1912.

"Mr. Lamont has remained in his position at great sacrifice for several months," Mr. Hoover said in announcing the change. "I regret extremely his loss from the cabinet as his abilities and service have commanded the respect and confidence of the entire country."

Rumors had been heard in the capital for weeks that the secretary of commerce desired to leave his post, but until today all questions as to his intentions were officially parried.

His resignation is generally expected in Washington to conclude the cabinet changes of President Hoover's present four-year term. Other changes occurred when James W. Good died on November 15, 1929, while serving as secretary of war and Secretary Hurley succeeded to his place less than a month later.

Secretary Doak of the labor department officially assumed his place on November 28, 1930, although through a mix-up James J. Dav's did not officially vacate the post until several days later.

Sees Upward Turn Andrew W. Mellon's resignation as secretary of the treasury and his appointment as ambassador to Great Britain was announced on February 3 of this year and the appointment of Secretary Mills made the next day.

Chapin today gave no hint of his new appointment when he talked with newspapermen in the White House lobby for nearly 15 minutes after seeing the president. He did, however, express a very bright outlook upon the business.

Member Of B. E. F., Brother Of Harris Woman, Is Claimed

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (AP)—William Gunn, 40, a member of the bonus expeditionary force driven by federal troops from Washington last week, died in the Marine hospital here today.

In seeking treatment on his arrival in Baltimore, Saturday, he told physicians at the Mercy hospital, where he first went, he had been injured and gassed in the fighting at Washington.

He was found to be suffering from tuberculosis, Dr. Richard H. Creel, medical officer in charge of the Marine hospital, said today he had been unable to verify Gunn's statement that his ribs were fractured when struck by a brick.

Dr. Creel expressed the opinion Gunn died from natural causes. He said Gunn contracted pneumonia. A sister of Gunn's, Mary Habitt, of Harris, Mich., was notified of his

Hurley Says Soldiers Showed Kindness While Expelling Bonus Army

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—Replying to what he termed the "apparently deliberate propaganda and misrepresentations that are being circulated," Secretary Hurley today reviewed the incidents leading to the expulsion of the bonus army from Washington by federal troops and said the action was performed with "unparalleled humanity and kindness."

The war department head said the bonus forces remained in the capital after congress adjourned only "to carry out orders of propagandists and radicals."

600 Receiving Aid He denied that women and children were evacuated by the cavalry and infantry called out by President Hoover, saying on the contrary buildings occupied by women and children were protected and no one was permitted to molest them. Hurley asserted that more than 600 of the veterans who remained in Washington after congress quit were receiving compensation through the veterans administration and that those who were not, "through panhandling, forced tribute from the citizens in the vicinity of their camps."

Meanwhile, investigation into bonus army riots gained momentum when District of Columbia officials placed in the hands of attorney General Mitchell a mass of data intended for scrutiny by the grand jury.

The grand jury spent part of one day this week inquiring into the riots which last Thursday cost the lives of two veterans. It may resume its inquiry tomorrow. The last of fifteen men arrested as radicals in the general roundup which followed the eviction of the bonus army was released today. In another court room nearby eight former members of the B. E. F. went on trial for participation in street fighting which followed an abortive attempt by radicals to picket the White House. They were under charges ranging from disorderly conduct to climbing trees.

Close associates of W. W. Waters, who was commander of the bonus-seekers, said today that despite reports to the contrary the bonus army leader had no plans for veterans encamped at Johnstown, Pa., except for them to return home.

Meanwhile, he and his associates were busy sending messages to officials of the various states asking permission to establish bonus camps for veterans living within their boundaries.

Waters said he was receiving assurances of support from the governors of a number of states. Hurley said the men, aggregating about 12,000, came to Washington stating their purpose was "to intimidate, coerce and compel the congress to make appropriations for them."

He added that as long as the marchers were orderly they were unmolested. While congress refused to appropriate for full payment of the bonus, he said it authorized before adjournment transportation and subsistence loans for veterans who wished to go home.

Perpetual Peace Not Possible, Says Il Duce

Rome, Aug. 3 (AP)—War is exalted by Premier Mussolini as giving "the seal of nobility to peoples" in his concluding exposition of fascism for the Enciclopedia Italiana which was published today in his old newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia. Perpetual peace, the premier says, is impossible.

His dictum on democracy is this: It is a failure more tyrannical than tyranny. "Fascism, as it generally regards the future and the development of mankind and apart from consideration of present policies, does not believe in the possibility of perpetual peace," the premier writes.

"If therefore rejects pacifism, which implies renunciation of struggle and cravenness in the face of sacrifice. Only war carries all human energies to the height of tension and gives the

VETERANS ARE LEAVING CAMP AT JOHNSTOWN

UNITS TO CONVERGE AT HOME-STATE CAPITALS

BY LEO W. SHERIDAN

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP)—As a bedraggled bonus army evacuated its suburban camp tonight, word went out that various contingents will converge on their home-state capitals.

Leaders of units from Pennsylvania and Illinois notified field headquarters that their forces will reassemble at Harrisburg and Springfield, respectively.

Other state commanders were working among their men and word of the new convergences spread rapidly in the ranks of the hungry and downhearted veterans.

Passenger coaches tonight were being shunted onto a siding near squallid Camp McCloskey. California and Illinois contingents left on a special Baltimore & Ohio train. The evacuation of west coast units is expected to be completed by noon tomorrow.

Sulking and Grumbling

The Associated Press learned from an unimpeachable source that the transportation was provided by the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

Mayor Eddie McCloskey announced to the bewildered veterans that transportation had been arranged for all as he and field staff officers emerged from a conference with a representative of Bethlehem Steel.

Much sulking and grumbling accompanied the evacuation. Captain Doak Carter, chief of staff who resigned today after a split with Commander Walter W. Waters, announced he is organizing a group of veterans and that he will lead them to a camp at Huntington, W. Va.

After conferring with groups of veterans for several hours tonight, Carter left for Huntington to make preliminary arrangements for the arrival of his men.

The "blow" of being told to leave the camp after a day of tense excitement at the field staff's office.

Dispatches from Annapolis and Washington last night said Waters had abandoned his plan to set up a colony for homeless members of the B. E. F. near Laurel, Md. He made his statement after an interview with Governor Ritchie.

"We won't believe that Waters has ordered us home until we hear it from his own lips," one veteran told Carter when the chief of staff visited the field to deny he had received any word from Waters.

Today the break between the Carter and Waters factions came to a head. Carter came to field headquarters for the first time in two days and was met by McCloskey, who demanded a showdown on "these wild reports." Carter explained he had talked with Waters and that the commander urged disbanding and then changed his mind.

Eddie Atwell, a representative of Waters, arrived with orders from the commander to disband the expedition and bearing a message from him thanking McCloskey for his hospitality and announcing that evacuation would begin at once.

Carter then announced he would take the veterans out of the city as soon as possible and that they probably would select some other Pennsylvania city for a camp.

Carter wrote and read his resignation to the assembled throng. He said he quit because his views clashed with those of Waters.

Sister Of Mrs. Ford To Wed August 18

Adrian, Mich., Aug. 3 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Raymond, of Adrian, today issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Violet, to Francis Audi, of Paris, France. The marriage will be solemnized August 18 in Christ Episcopal church here by the Rev. Clarence Parker.

Mrs. Raymond is a sister of Mrs. Henry Ford. Miss Raymond has studied art in New York and Paris since her graduation from Adrian high school in 1927.

Retired Michigan Teacher Kills Self

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP)—Miss Elizabeth B. Orr, 68, owner of an apartment building here and a retired Michigan school teacher, ended her life today by jumping into Lake Michigan. Worry over loss of money and ill health were given as reasons by the coroner's jury which returned a suicide verdict.

Born in Gorham, N. Y., Miss Orr went to Coldwater, Mich., where she taught school for 30 years until she came to Chicago.

Bits of Cheer in Business

(By The Associated Press) Stocks, bonds, and commodities rose in price on the nation's markets Wednesday, and reports of improved business in several sections of the country kept apace. Favorable developments included:

New York—Stocks made the most decisive advance of the year, many leaders bouncing up from two to seven points. Bonds were strong and cotton higher. Copper for foreign shipment advanced 15 to 25 points.

Chicago—Wheat closed more than one and one-half cents above the previous day; corn, cattle and hogs were firm to higher.

New York—A profit of $104,636, compared with a loss of $45,288 in the same period of 1931, was reported by the United Carbon company for the first half of this year.

Washington—The department of commerce reported "business is looking up." Listed as optimistic indications were improved bond prices, increases in prices of a number of important commodities, halting of gold withdrawals, and a stop in stock market liquidations.

Glassport, Pa.—The Copperweld Steel company announced it will operate full time for a year to fill a government contract for 10,000,000 pounds of reventment fabric for use in flood control on the Mississippi river.

New York—Production of electric power in the United States showed a slight gain for last week, the National Electric Light association reported.

Chicago—An indication of better wheat prices was seen in reports of drought damage to the crop in western Canada. The dominion bureau of statistics said drought damage was severe in the central wheat area.

Chicago—The Illinois joint emergency relief committee made public a plan to provide jobs, either full or part time, to 50,000 persons. They would be paid from $2,000,000 in federal funds which the state will receive soon.

Chicago—Rand McNally, and company reported the number of new responses for the week ended Wednesday was 41.3 percent above the 1932 weekly average to date.

SEABURY AGAIN HITS AT MAYOR

Walker Proved Himself Unworthy of Belief, Tells Roosevelt

(By The Associated Press) New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Caustic charges of contradiction, evasion and falsification were directed tonight at Mayor Walker's defense of his administration by Samuel Seabury, who told Governor Roosevelt the New York mayor had proved himself "unworthy of belief" about his official conduct.

The Hofstadter legislative committee counsel, who spent a year and a half investigating the New York City government, reviewed the whole Walker case in a 20,000-word document.

It was his rebuttal to the mayor's defense of charges on which his removal has been asked.

Says Mayor Guilty "The record now before you clearly proves the mayor is guilty of the acts set out in the specifications," Seabury wrote, referring to his previous analysis of the evidence produced in committee hearings.

Seabury dwelt at length on Walker's contention that the charges against him were not ground for removal because they concerned his previous term. Seabury said that United States foreign trade, exports only, have decreased one-third since 1929 and on the basis of the rate of decline would reach zero in September, 1933.

The next six months, he asserted, provide a "climax in our affairs which call for quick action to remove the basis of our troubles, the heritage of the war in the problems of reparations, debts and disarmaments."

Indigent Families Of Detroit Receive Meats, Vegetables

Detroit, Aug. 3 (AP)—Dependent families had their meat and vegetables from the welfare department today, but whether they will go back on bread and milk after this week depends on settlement of a renewed controversy between the grocers and the city.

The grocers, who relented last night after cutting off the city's credit Monday, saying a new ultimatum today, said that there will be no charge account after Saturday night unless the city promises that bills of more than $1,200,000 will be paid in full if the reconstruction finance corporation grants a loan of $1,800,000 which the city is seeking.

The issue is the same that caused the withdrawal of credit Monday, and in addition to the possibility that the city will refuse again to make the grocers preferred creditors, there is a ruling of the reconstruction finance corporation that loans must be used for "current expenses" which may complicate matters. There is a question as to whether the present obligations of the welfare department may be so designated.

BORAH CLAIMS WAR BURDENS TOO WEIGHTY

CANCELLING DEBTS MAY BE STEP TO PROSPERITY

Minneapolis, Aug. 3 (AP)—A world returned to prosperity if its fundamental problems are solved was pictured in an address tonight by Senator William E. Borah. He pleaded for the adjustment of every difficulty which owes its root to the World War at an international economic conference.

He said that any program aimed to restore normal business conditions in any major nation is destined to failure unless the "big three"—the problems of reparations, war debts and disarmaments, are concurrently disposed of through the efforts of the community of nations.

His address, made at the Minneapolis branch of the Foreign Policy association at the University of Minnesota, was directed particularly to the importance of settling world affairs to bring about improvement in the agricultural industry. Any plan to aid agriculture is doomed to failure unless markets are permanently improved to afford a steady outlet for the produce of the American farmer, he said.

Nations Must Disarm Senator Borah said an international economic conference which leaves out the questions of war debts and reparations would be as meaningless as a playing of Hamlet with the character of "Hamlet" left out. He asserted that the United States should step forward willingly as a leader because the stake it has involved in the way of its own national depression can only be saved through cooperative action on its part.

Cancellation of European debts owed the United States should not be considered unless there is definite assurance that European nations will disarm and that the problems of reparations involving Germany is permanently settled, Senator Borah said.

When European nations are ready to act to bring about these changes, particularly to remove the load of taxation from its citizens involving the cost of armament there, this country should be ready and glad to cancel the debt as an investment in permanent prosperity, he said.

"These debts are justly due, for money loaned," the senator said. "There is no reason to cancel them unless you can exchange them for property—for markets permanently improved, for reducing unemployment, and bringing us out of this depression together with the rest of the world."

"These debts are not a fetter. Some say if we cancel them we will be paying for the war. Right now we are paying for the war. We will continue to pay for it until the United States becomes bankrupt unless we settle these debts."

"Europe can not expect the help of the United States unless she ride herself of the crushing burden of armaments. Her citizens are saddled with a tremendous load of taxation to meet the cost of wars of the past and wars of the future."

"While I am not discussing politics tonight, only good common sense, I say that there is not a single iota of assurance of real help to the farmer in the platform of either political party as they were adopted at Chicago."

Senator Borah said that United States foreign trade, exports only, have decreased one-third since 1929 and on the basis of the rate of decline would reach zero in September, 1933.

The next six months, he asserted, provide a "climax in our affairs which call for quick action to remove the basis of our troubles, the heritage of the war in the problems of reparations, debts and disarmaments."

SEEK SLASH IN WORLD'S ARMS

U. S. Hopes Conference On Economics Will Pave Way

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—The administration hopes that the forthcoming international economic conference, in addition to opening the way for an improvement of business conditions, will prove to be one of the steps leading to a reduction of world armaments.

This is one of the points that is being considered at the state department and the White House where thought is being given to the qualifications of a group of men from which will be chosen the three American members of the separate committees that will plan the conference and survey the economic and financial phases of the problem.

Already there is agitation for the appointment of a silver expert. Senator Smoot of Utah, called at the White House today and after talking with the president said he had used the word "Ferry" of Salt Lake City, be named as one of the experts.

Debts Talk Barred While silver undoubtedly will figure in the discussions, they will be broad enough to cover virtually the whole economic field. Specific tariffs will be barred as will be international debts, the administration having taken the attitude that these matters are things for each nation to work out itself.

This view was transmitted to the various other nations in informal discussions that preceded the formal invitation for this country to take part.

Among those familiar with the attitude of the administration the position is taken that it is going into the conference with a hope that by smoothing out some of the difficulties that stand in the way of a free interchange of commerce among the nations a feeling of international good will may be brought about which will make disarmament possible.

The conference itself will be divided into two separate phases. The first will include monetary and credit policies, exchange rates, price levels and the movement of capital. The second will give particular attention to tariff policies, trade prohibitions, restrictions, quotas and other barriers.

Estimates have been made that if the world armaments were reduced by one third, as proposed by President Hoover, a minimum saving of $2,000,000,000 would come to the taxpayers of this country in ten years. For the whole world the minimum saving was estimated at $10,000,000,000.

Foreign Mart for Copper Improves

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—The foreign copper market again registered an improved outlook today with prices advancing from 19 to 20 points. At the same time domestic zinc buying was in better volume than last week and quotations for this metal, while practically unchanged from yesterday, held around 5 to 10 points above those of Monday.

Copper prices in London were reported at between 5.05 and 5.15 cents a pound, and around 5.10 cents in Germany. They compare with sales by large producers last week at 4.50 cents.

Copper Exporters, Inc., was asking 5.10 cents a pound for shipments abroad and the domestic price remained at 5 1/4 cents a pound, although it was said some sellers were quoting the metal at 5 1/2 cents.

Little American copper is being sold abroad at the present time, it is understood. At the same time no copper is being imported, due to the recent tariff, except under bond for reshipment to Europe.

WOMAN AND FRIEND HELD IN SHOOTING

SEABURY AGAIN HITS AT MAYOR

Sonnenberg Under Bond, Convicted Of Reckless Driving

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 3 (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, until recently a claimant to the world heavyweight wrestling title, was under $500 bond today pending an appeal from a fine of $100 and a sentence of three months in the house of correction for improperly driving an automobile. He was convicted yesterday in district court.

The fine was on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The sentence was on a charge of driving his car so as to endanger the lives of others. A manslaughter charge was dismissed.

The charges against Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football star who introduced the flying tackle into the wrestling game, resulted from an automobile collision in which Patrolman Richard L. Morrissey of the Lawrence police department suffered fatal injuries. The accident occurred two weeks ago in North Andover as Sonnenberg was driving to his Belmont home after a wrestling match in Haverhill. Sonnenberg required hospital treatment.

Judge Frederick N. Chandler fixed the fine and sentence.

Pat O'Brien Tells Roosevelt Michigan Is Not Doubtful State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Governor Roosevelt's campaign for the presidency largely will be in the hands of his personal friends who directed his campaign through the Democratic nomination. Through them the nominee, who will have a hand in all the details, will express himself.

The announcement today that Robert Jackson of Concord, N. H., would head the speakers bureau, filled the last vacancy in the important campaign positions. Jackson has been actively working for Roosevelt for more than a year.

To a large extent he was responsible for Mr. Roosevelt's name being entered in the New Hampshire primary last March 8.

At the head of the Roosevelt organization is James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee, who managed the governor's campaign for the nomination. Frank C. Walker, who was an active worker at Chicago and before, is the committee treasurer.

Accompanying Mr. Roosevelt on all his trips will be Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, and Marvin McIntyre, who were battling for the governor at Chicago.

Mr. Roosevelt spent all of today at the mansion. A rainy day kept down his queue of visitors. He had lunch with Patrick O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Michigan. O'Brien told the governor that Michigan "was not a doubtful state," and that "if all states are like Michigan you are the next president."

There is no provision in the constitution or elsewhere limiting the governor's power of removal of mayors, the committee counsel wrote, quoting eight pages of authorities.

A mayor, Seabury wrote, "is not entitled to any more 'conferences' to the benefit of any more doubts, to the privilege of any more improbable explanations than any other person, nor is he entitled to have his word taken in preference to that of numerous others simply because he is mayor."

In discussing the mayor's denial that Russell Sherwood, missing accountant, handled nearly $1,000,000 in financial transactions for him, Seabury wrote: "It will be readily observed that whenever expenditures were shown to have been made by Sherwood for the mayor's benefit, the mayor's explanation was always the same—cash from the safe."

The governor has once rejected this explanation somewhat differently expressed—will it now be accepted?

Seabury referred to the removal of Thomas Farley, Tammany leader, from the office of sheriff, after he had given a tin box in his home as the explanation of where large sums of money came from.

"The record and the documentary evidence clearly establish that Sherwood was the mayor's financial agent x x x continuously over a long period of time," Seabury said, after oral testimony to that effect was given by witnesses only Walker and Sherwood, who is still missing, could supply it.

"If all these transactions were not the mayor's," Seabury asked in outlining payments he said Sherwood made on the mayor's behalf, "why should Sherwood have fled?"

Seabury charged that Walker could have reached Sherwood in Mexico had he wished to.

Warring Factions In Terre Haute's Mines Reach Truce

Diocese to Celebrate

Marquette.—The Catholic diocese of Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette will celebrate its diamond jubilee, marking the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the diocese by pontiffal brief of Pope Pius IX, with impressive services Sunday and Monday in St. Peter's cathedral here. Other churches throughout the upper peninsula will join in commemoration of the event.

Sunday a pontifical mass and solemn Te Deum will be celebrated in the cathedral and on Monday a pontifical requiem mass will be given for deceased members of the diocese, sisters and dignitaries will be present for the ceremonies.

Wants Mine to Open Iron Mountain.—J. A. Payant, president of the Iron Mountain Chamber of Commerce, today issued a call for a public mass meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening at the city council chambers for the purpose of discussing a suggestion to appoint a committee that will approach the Oliver Iron Mining company with a request to reconsider its decision to permanently abandon operations at the Chapin mine.

Aged Woman Found Menominee.—Mrs. August Marts, 85, of Greenwoods, was found about 5 o'clock this morning on a highway between the Bay Shore and Wallace after she had wandered all night in the woods after having lost her way while picking blueberries.

She left her home about noon Monday. Sheriff Edward Reindl's bloodhounds, in charge of Deputy John Reindl were dispatched to the scene at the request of the family when Mrs. Marts failed to return home last evening. They followed the woman's trail, coming out on the highway this morning shortly after she had been found.

Communists Meet Iron Mountain.—Approximately 2,500 persons attended the Communist meeting held last evening at the City park to hear a series of speakers assail economic conditions, the capitalist system which they held responsible for the present business depression and the alleged desire, on the part of the imperialistic classes to throw the working masses into war as the easiest way out of the crisis.

MRS. BLUEBEARD IS RECAPTURED

BODY IS FOUND IN CELLAR OF OLD DWELLING

LAMONT QUILTS AS SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

Fifteen-month search for Lyda Southard, 40 (above), "woman bluebeard" who escaped May 5, 1931, from the Idaho state prison at Boise, Idaho, ended in the Topeka, Kan., postoffice where she surrendered to a detective who recognized her. Mrs. Southard was alleged to have poisoned four husbands and another male relative to collect insurance. She was sentenced from Twin Falls, Ida., in 1921 to a term of ten years to life.

State police, Mason county officers and volunteers conducted an extensive search of the swamp country, going over the territory several times. They were still so engaged when the body was found. No clue to which officers attached value after more than casual examination was developed until Nash was arrested.

His story of how his face was scratched was questioned by Dr. Ellery A. Oakes, Manistee physician who examined him, and police questioners pressed witnesses Nash had produced to back him up. Today, shortly before the body was found at 12:15 p. m., one of them, Calvin Edwards, 19, said he had supported Nash's story because the suspect had threatened him.

State police declined to say where they had hidden Nash. They said however, that they had enough troopers to preserve order.

Coroner Stevens said tonight at the conclusion of an autopsy that there could be no doubt that strangulation caused the girl's death, but that further examination which would not be completed until tomorrow would be necessary to determine if she was criminally assaulted.

He said he was convinced that assault was the motive for the attack.

He said a blow by some heavy instrument across the girl's face rendered her unconscious and that she was strangled to death before the body was placed in the cellar grave.

Death occurred, he estimated, shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night.

State police at Manistee said tonight they had no information of any mob action in process of development. They declined to say where Nash was imprisoned but said the questioning would be continued during the night.

At Freehold it was said there were no signs of mob spirit in evidence and that definite information as to where Nash was imprisoned was lacking. Citizens were assured the suspect had been spirited away from the Manistee jail.

Sheriff George Colyer of Mason county could not be found and those of his deputies who could be reached professed ignorance as to his whereabouts.

Volume Of Trading On Curb Is Nearly Double Of Tuesday

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Snapping out of reactionary tendencies around midday, the curb market swung into a resumption of its July-August advance, and pushed ahead in rather sensational fashion for the rest of the session today. Volume was about 240,000 shares, or nearly double that of yesterday.

The market turned on the action of the big bond, but it also enjoyed considerable leadership of its own. The Electric Bond & Share group and other established market favorites like Aluminum Co. of America, Gulf Oil and Humble Oil gave impetus to buying operations by the aggressive manner of their advance, involving gains ranging from 3 to 5 points.

Fractionally all the utilities participated in the advance, and some of the sharpest gainers aside from those noted above were American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond and Share common 3 1/2, Commonwealth Edison 2 1/2, and United Light & Power convertible preferred 3 1/2.

Newmont Mining lead the mining group to moderately higher levels. Specialties showed some notable advances, particularly Great Atlantic & Pacific issues, Babcock & Wilcox and Mead Johnson. Deere & Co. climbed about 2 points in sympathy with wheat and the strong market for farm equipment issues on the big board.

According to this theory, Evelyn probably was beaten into unconsciousness at the edge of the swamp, where signs of a struggle and a few strands of blond hair later were found by searchers, then carried, dead or unconscious, during the hours of darkness to the house where her body was found.

After the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sanford, reported the girl missing Sunday, a search of the swamp revealed nothing but the strands of hair and the marks of a struggle.

Mrs. Sanford collapsed yesterday. For hours this afternoon she was kept in ignorance of the discovery of her daughter's body. She has pleaded constantly that she be permitted to "go down to the swamp with my daughter."

Findings of the body fulfilled the sad foreboding of the parents, who have believed from the start of the search that Evelyn was dead.

State police, Mason county officers and volunteers conducted an extensive search of the swamp country, going over the territory several times. They were still so engaged when the body was found. No clue to which officers attached value after more than casual examination was developed until Nash was arrested.

"HOPPERS" ATE TONS OF BAIT

Delta County Used 23,000 Pounds of Arsenic in Fighting Pests

Over a million pounds of poison were scattered along the fields on Delta county farms this season to protect crops from ruin by grasshoppers. That the campaign was a success in averting heavy crop damage is evinced by the reports coming in from rural districts, where the defensive war on the pest is just drawing to a close. Some grasshoppers still remain, but not in quantities likely to cause damage. There are enough, however, so that they may return again next season, given favorable conditions. Through the office of the county farm agent, J. E. Turner, 23,000 pounds of arsenic were purchased to provide the hoppers with a tasty menu designed to obliterate their appetite for grain, gardens and other crops. The usual basis for distribution of the poison is about a pound to the acre, but it is estimated that the poison put out in Delta county protected between 40,000 and 50,000 acres of crops. "In order to mix up a bait to attract the hoppers, a base of bran or sawdust was used with the arsenic at the rate of about a bushel, or 50 pounds, to each pound of poison. In most cases, Delta county farmers used sawdust, and at the above proportion about 1-

150,000 pounds of mix were used along with the arsenic. Other ingredients included salt, molasses, and banana oil or orange or lemon peel to attract the pests. The grasshopper campaign included practically every farming center in Delta county. Additional appropriations were made by the board of supervisors when it was found that the sum set aside for poison last year would be inadequate. The poison bait is still being put out in small quantities in some sections.

ESCANABA VETS PARADE FRIDAY

Bum and Bungle Corps to Announce Picnic in Novel Manner

As a means of calling attention to the Delta county American Legion picnic scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 7, at Pine Grove, the Escanaba Legion drum and bugle corps, sponsors of the picnic, will stage a misfit parade on Ludington street Friday evening, and if the procession get under way on time it may be repeated in Gladstone.

The uniforms for the parade will be the most inappropriate possible, and selections will be left to individual members of the corps to secure greater variety. Various stages of full dress and undress are anticipated in this drum corps fun-fest. The corps will gather at the city hall at 7:30 Friday evening to start off the riot.

The picnic Sunday will be an all-day event for American Legion members, their friends and families, from Delta county and surrounding district. Invitations have been sent to various Legion posts from the Sault to Menominee. A ball game between the Politicians and the Legion will be one of the features of the program, which includes various sports and games. Stands of all kinds will be operated on the grounds by drum and bugle corps members, and coffee, along with other refreshments, will be available for those who bring their picnic baskets. Lunches will also be served.

The site of the picnic, Moss Lake, midway between Escanaba and Manistique on US-2, is expected to attract its largest crowd of the season for the veteran's celebration Sunday.

Private Mail Route Prohibited by Law

A number of inquiries have been received by the Escanaba Postmaster regarding the regulations governing the private arrangement for the conveyance of letters or packets. For the information of those interested the law is quoted which forbids this practice.

Section 1256 of the Postal Laws and Regulations: "Whoever shall establish any private express for the conveyance of letters or packets, or in any manner cause or provide for the conveyance of the same by regular trips or at stated periods over any post route which is or may be established by law, or from any city, town, or place, to any other city, town, or place, between which the mail is regularly carried, or whoever shall aid or assist therein shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than six months, or both."

"City letter carrier routes are post routes."

Services Monday For James Murphy

W. H. Murphy of this city, 1129 North Eighteenth street, and his daughter, Stella, have returned from Kewaunee, Wis., where they attended the funeral services for James Murphy, father of Mr. Murphy.

The services for Mr. Murphy who was known as "grand old man of Kewaunee," were attended by hundreds. Born in Limerick, Ireland, in February, 1842, he came to this country at the age of four, and spent the greater part of his life in Kewaunee county. He was for a number of years employed on log drives by the firm of Slauson and Grimmer, one of the lumber concerns in Kewaunee at that time. He attended Lawrence university, which is now Lawrence college at Appleton, and for several years clerked in the Mashek store at Kewaunee, later engaging in farming.

Funeral services for him were held Monday at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Norman, and burial was in Riverview cemetery, Kewaunee.

His wife and seven children, among them Mr. Murphy of this city and one sister, who lives in Green Bay, survive.

WELSH PLAN RAPPED

SINCE the Press sounded a warning that careful investigation of all angles of the proposition must be made before the city welfare department embarks on a plan to establish a city commissary for the distribution of staple foodstuffs to the unemployed and indigent, word comes from Grand Rapids that the experience with a city store there has not been altogether satisfactory.

The "committee of 100," composed of business and professional men, teachers and clergymen, has recommended the abolition of the city commissary in Grand Rapids, charging that the overhead costs were unduly high.

Viewing the Grand Rapids situation from afar, however, it is difficult to ascertain all the questions involved. Politics may lie underneath the whole affair, and also the reform faction in that city is probably expecting better results than are humanly possible.

The "Grand Rapids Plan," which received nation-wide publicity through the American Magazine and other publications, will not seem so impressive to the general public now in view of the fact that a large committee of representative citizens have repudiated it. The action of the committee will handicap to some extent the gubernatorial campaign of George W. Welsh, who while city manager was author of the unemployment relief plan. Undoubtedly, Welsh has planned to call attention to his Grand Rapids Plan as one of the accomplishments that qualify him as gubernatorial timber.

THE HOMECOMING OF THE BEAVERS

THERE will be a great time on Beaver Island when the Gallaghers, Maloneys and the Boyles, along with the many other "Beavers," scattered throughout the country, return to the "Emerald Isle of America" for the big homecoming celebration during the week of Aug. 14.

As was to be expected it has been announced that a Captain J. H. Gallagher of the Beaver Island Steamship company is general chairman of the committee in charge of the general arrangements for the reunion.

There would certainly be something amiss if the Gallaghers could not be represented for that large family is probably more closely identified with the romantic history of that island in Lake Michigan than any other clan. The story is told that one day a boat landed at St. James, and the captain shouted to the large group of spectators on the dock, "Is Gallagher here?" All but one replied in the affirmative, so the story goes.

Scenic Beaver Island has had an interesting history. The celebration is planned in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of a Catholic mission there by Father Baraga, a Jesuit missionary, back in 1832. The first settlers were mostly of Irish descent and were engaged in fishing and some farming. From that group of pioneers came the long line of sailing men, who have played no small part in the development of water transportation on the Great Lakes.

Beaver Island is widely known, too, for its period of occupation by the Mormons, under the leadership of King James Jesse Strang, some of whose descendants live in this county. King Strang was born in Scipio, New York, March 21, 1813. After being engaged as a school teacher, newspaper writer and temperance lecturer, and in 1843 we find him following the profession of law in Burlington, Wis. He became a convert to Mormonism the following year, and shortly afterward founded the town of Voreo on the White River near Burlington. For a short time, he assumed charge of the Mormon colony at Nauvoo, Ill., but in 1847 he decided to establish a new colony on Beaver Island, near the southern end of Lake Michigan.

There he ruled over his band like a monarch, but internal dissension finally broke out. On June 16, 1856, as King Strang was alighting from the revenue cutting after a conference with Captain McLane he was shot down by two disgruntled members, Alexander Wentworth and Thomas Bedford, who were hiding behind a pile of wood on the dock. The tabernacle erected by King Strang was burned, the printing office sacked, and other colony property destroyed by raiding forces, who were unfriendly to the Mormons. The colonists gathered what belongings they could and departed for other abodes. Thus ended the royal kingdom that was founded amidst a setting of democracy.

And since then the Gallaghers and other clans have enjoyed a happy reign over the land of the Beavers.

GOOD SUGGESTION

ABOUT two thousand more citizens of Escanaba need to be registered by the final date, Aug. 24, if they are to be qualified to vote in the primary elections on Sept. 13.

The Marquette Mining Journal offers a good suggestion in a recent editorial, stating that the candidates for offices might perform a valuable public service by inducing their friends to re-register. After all, it is to the interest of the candidates that they have their supporters eligible to vote for them, or else there may be much disappointment and embarrassment on the day the polls are open.

While the candidates are driving hither and yon in the distribution of campaign literature, they might do something constructive and of benefit to themselves by giving the unregistered voters a ride to the city hall and other places officially designated for this purpose.

THE DISMISSAL WAGE

G. F. SCHWENNING, associated Professor of Business Administration, University of North Carolina, writing in Forbes Magazine, states that the problem of how to gain the advantages of mechanization without suffering the evils of technological unemployment is one that seems to defy complete solution.

Yet the social effects of the displacement of men by machinery have become so menacing as to call for drastic action, he says, and certainly we can no longer follow with impunity the irrational policy of letting the displaced workmen adjust themselves as best they can.

"Recognizing the justice of compensating workers who must be laid off permanently for technological and other reasons beyond their control, an increasing number of employers in the United States and Europe is voluntarily paying dismissal allowances," Prof. Schwenning points out.

"The practice has grown rapidly in the last five years, during which more than half a hundred formal and an equal number of informal dismissal compensation plans have been adopted. Furthermore, most industrial nations have recently enacted discharge notice and indemnity laws which apply to unemployment of all sorts, a few of the statutes relating specifically to technological unemployment.

"Industry deserves all commendation for voluntarily inaugurating this progressive personnel policy. It is a tribute to industry's recognition of its social obligations. The growing interest in this practice evidenced by the increasing number of adoptions of dismissal wage plans during the present business depression seems to indicate that the policy has taken root and that it has gained sufficient momentum to foreshadow a considerable movement in the future. While such a labor policy cannot be looked upon as the solution of the unemployment problem, its effectiveness in stabilizing employment and in shifting the financial burden of inescapable unemployment from the worker to industry are factors in the solution of unemployment resulting from technological progress which must not be minimized. If this device for stabilizing employment and reducing the workers' economic insecurity is adopted widely throughout industry, it may contribute materially toward the

CHAPTER XIII

IT was, as Steve put it, "a man's sized supper," Steve had completed "a deal," he explained rather vaguely, and was in the height of good spirits. Barry had just returned from Twillards, the family estate, where he had attempted without much success to persuade his uncle to aid in financing the dredging machinery for the mine.

"Maybe we won't need your uncle's help," Steve announced. "Tomorrow we may be all set. Who can tell?"

This possibility did not seem to please Barry. "But what am I doing?" he complained. "Not a thing!"

Plainly he was disgusted until Steve pointed out that after all Barry had provided the business and that things were coming along as well as they could be expected.

By the time the two girls had arrived Barry's good nature was restored.

The apartment, charming and attractive, met with Lottie's rather tart approval. "Motion picture stuff!" was Steve's dismissal of the surroundings. The living room might almost have been planned for a skating rink. There was a fireplace, huge comfortable chairs, long tables, ash trays. The floor was covered with expensive rugs and in every corner there were attractive lamps, graceful bronzes, books. Lottie picked up the lovely mandarin coat from the grand piano, enfolding her sinuous body in its richly embroidered satin and padded the floor.

Mona noted with pride that in such surroundings Steve was perfectly at home. The young men displayed various treasures which they had brought from South America while Morgan laid the table before the fire. On the velvet divan, Mona smiled and meditated while Lottie conversed. Steve and Barry listened, now and then interjecting bursts of amused laughter.

Presently the table was whisked away and coffee served in front of the dancing flames. Barry and Steve lighted Turkish cigarettes brought from the American Virgin Islands. They spoke again of the Empress of Peru—that mammoth diamond found by Steve in the mine.

"It's one of the largest ever found in South America," Barry explained. "It's Steve's, of course, though he always speaks of it as 'ours.' He picked it up just as you might pick up a golf ball. It's worth a fortune. I'm solution of the most perplexing problems of contemporary industrial society. If it is not widely adopted voluntarily, it is quite possible that it may come forcibly through legislation."

still only a working man but your friend here has made his pile."

"Our pile," Steve said shortly. It was plain to be seen he was not enjoying this turn of the conversation.

"Yours," returned Barry evenly. It developed that the stone had been picked up on land deeded to Steve by Barry during their first year at the mine in lieu of cash payment of salary. That made the Empress Steve's.

"It must be wonderful to dig diamonds right out of the ground," Lottie said dreamily.

STEVE rose, carelessly thrust aside a tapestry, twisted the knob of a safe and drew out a thin string of glittering stones which he held for a moment against his palm.

It was a chain of diamonds. The girls gasped in delight. Steve fitted the chain about Mona's neck and she rose too, cupping her hands in front of her as though she expected the precious string to break.

Before the mirror she twisted and turned, murmuring excitedly, "This is the nearest I've ever been to a diamond necklace!"

"Old Steve collected those for you, Mona," Barry told her. "Every week or so he'd add another. Used to carry them around in a little chamolus bag and every so often he'd count them."

Mona looked at Steve who stood near her, silent. The necklace, catching the lights, shone no more brightly than Mona's eyes.

Steve nodded. "Yes, they're yours, Mona."

She flushed, started to speak and her eyes met Lottie's. Then she laughed suddenly. "Why, how silly for me to think—even for a moment—that I could catch them!" She unfastened the catch and let the necklace dribble into her hand, holding it out to Steve.

"They're perfectly beautiful. Thank you, Steve, for thinking of me but of course you know I can't."

Lottie looked on in bewilderment. A diamond necklace and Mona was passing it up like that? "Call it a birthday present," Steve entreated.

"It's past my birthday," How could Mona refuse Steve anything when he smiled that way, Lottie wondered.

"Past your birthday? Be smart then and have another!" But he took the necklace, slowly returned to the safe, and tossed the glittering handful into its allotted space. Then he closed the door and came back to the embarrassed group.

"You're a fool, Mona!" Lottie observed, shortly.

"You're a darling, Mona," Barry said quietly. But he too knew that Steve had been inexpressibly hurt by the refusal to accept his gift.

Throughout three tense, hard years of labor Steve had been spurred on by the thought of the gift that some day he could lay at Mona's feet. He had called her Min then and what a picture of the girl he had painted! Barry found himself wishing Mona could have accepted the jewels while at the same time he understood it was impossible.

"Show us The Empress, Steve," Mona said to hide her confusion. Steve's face lighted. He raised his eyes and for a moment looked thoughtful.

"I'd love to see a fortune rolled up in one stone the size of a peanut," Lottie sighed.

STEVE said nothing and Barry put in briskly. "There aren't many like this one! Steve keeps it right here in this apartment."

THE CAR'S ALL WRONG

They hire a famous engineer. At thirty thousand bucks a year. And other engineers a-plenty. And pay the others ten or twenty. And then they build a famous car. One of the many makes there are. And then that famous car they sell you— That's made all wrong, as these will tell you:

The barber in the barber shop. The agent at the station shop. The fellow working in the dairy. The digger at the cemetery. And other folks, will come along And tell you where the car's all wrong. Discuss the carmaker's movements, Suggesting numerous improvements.

It's plain that automobile men Must start all over once again. Change this do-bickey, that do-jigger. Make that one smaller, this one bigger. A car could just as well, alas, Get twice the speed on half the gas. Although the engineers may doubt it.

NEW WOOD LOT BEING PLANNED

City to Obtain Stumpage on Tract South of Danforth

Negotiations are now being completed for the purchase of stumpage on a 120-acre tract of land, south of Danforth, for use as a municipal woodlot, for the benefit of the unemployed. Mayor Carl J. Sawyer announced yesterday.

The land is owned by the I. Stephenson company, Cleveland Cliffs Iron company and several other individuals, and is located about three miles from the Escanaba city limits.

The city council plans to establish the wood-lot early this year so that the wood may be cut this summer and have sufficient time to dry before use next winter. Last year, it was found that the wood was not in the best of condition for burning because of late cutting.

White birch, soft and hard maple, beech, poplar and balsam of gilead trees are located on the proposed wood-lot. Mayor Sawyer anticipated that about two thousand cords would be required for the unemployed families of the city this coming winter. Last fall and winter, about five hundred cords were cut on the wood-lot, which was located along the old state road, west of the city.

Bark River Seeks Fire Protection

Means of securing additional fire fighting equipment for the protection of the property of citizens in Bark River township will be discussed at a meeting of taxpayers and others interested at Johnson's Garage next Monday night, Aug. 8.

Preliminary discussions on the subject were started at a meeting held recently.

Bark River has been visited by several disastrous fires in recent years, and the lack of suitable equipment has handicapped the volunteer firemen that have attempted to extinguish these blazes. Resident of the village of Bark River and Schaffer and the surrounding community are urged to attend next Monday's meeting.

Cincinnati's police radio station celebrating its first birthday summoned 50 police cruisers to city hall within 15 minutes.

Stephenson Farm Doesn't Have To Wait for Shower

Rain or no rain makes little difference to Abel Kowach of Stephenson, who has installed an irrigation system for his potato crop.

The system is simple and its first cost is small. It consists of a centrifugal pump, old Ford motor, discarded fire hose for conductor pipe, and canvas hose for distributing the water.

The cost of the entire system for irrigating five acres is about $75.00, and the operating expense amounts to about 50 cents an acre each time water is applied.

The irrigation system, which was developed by agricultural engineers at Michigan State college, increased the yield of potatoes last year from 150 bushels to the acre to 250 bushels, and the increase was all in No. 1 potatoes. Even with potato prices as low as last year irrigating showed a nice profit. Besides increasing the yield, it also will produce more uniform tubers because the supply of moisture is constant. It will also help to control scab, because this organism grows when the growth of the potatoes is at a standstill.

County Road Gives Work To 311 Men Last Half Of July

Employment on Delta county highway commission projects set a high record in July, with 311 carried on the payroll for the last half of the month.

A report made by Emmett Meehan, supervisor of the county employment bureau, shows 101 extra men and 16 trucks given work by the Delta county road commission for the week ending July 30. These were drawn from the townships as follows:

FIRST JERSEY SHOW SUNDAY

Delta County Breeders to Select Herd for State Fair

Sponsored by the Delta county Jersey Breeders' Association, the county's first Jersey cattle show will be held Sunday, Aug. 7, at the Johnson Bros. farm, Ogontz. Jersey breeders from all parts of the county are expected to exhibit, and the show is destined to become an annual event in promoting the breed.

The best animals of the breed to be found in Delta county will be shown Sunday, and out of this group it is planned to select individuals which will make up the county Jersey herd for exhibiting at the Upper Peninsula state fair August 22 to 27.

THEATRES

A very modern problem in a rural setting provides the theme for Charles "Chic" Sale's latest Warner Bros. picture, "Stranger in Town," which shows today at the Delft Theatre, with Ann Dvorak, David Manners, Noah Beery and Raymond Hatton.

As the proprietor of the only grocery store in the town of Bolleville, Nebraska, "Chic" is suddenly faced in his old age with the competition of a chain store branch. This situation, and the fact that his granddaughter falls in love with the young manager of the chain store, provides a starting point for a story which has all the elements of a real, down to earth human story presenting real folks.

The audience will be given an opportunity to see the real "Chic" Sale as he is off-screen, for the opening scenes of the picture show him in his youth at the time he starts the town which later serves as the setting for the bulk of the story. It is the first time in his screen career that Sale has appeared without his whiskers and white wig which have fooled many people into believing that he is really forty years older than his actual age.

In addition to the leading players, Maude Eburne, Lyle Talbot, John Larkin and Jessie Arnold are also seen to advantage. The story is an original, written by Carl Erickson. The very able direction of the production was in the hands of Erle C. Kenton.

Charge Of Forgery Awaiting Prisoner

Sentenced to the county jail Wednesday by Justice H. E. Ranganette on a charge of passing and cashing a bad check. Rollin McCrain, 27, will be held on another charge of forgery when he gets out, Escanaba police said yesterday. McCrain was given 30 days on the first charge.

Officers learned that one of the checks he wrote was used to purchase jewelry at a local store. Other business places were victimized for varying amounts.

Communication

THE BONUS ARMY

The Escanaba Daily Press: And so we observe the end of a dark chapter in the history of the Bonus Expeditionary Force.

Citizens, hungry, unclothed, unkept, unfortunates, pleading for assistance. Representatives of the misery of penury, whether they really were, or not, the "Flower of the Nation" that marched away in 1918, the undisputable facts remain that that miserable horde is in need of a different treatment, whether in Washington or in the homes they were constrained to leave, than was meted out to them by a President of the United States.

Maundered. Mr. Hoover knew the metal that was in those "carcasses." Recalling their part in the history of the World War, their tenacity, their determination to defend something that of right belonged to them, clinging desperately to the last inch of mire, putrid with the mold of their dead, it was nothing of an impossibility to them to re-live again in Washington the days and nights they spent in the service of their country. It is little wonder that Mr. Hoover sought the employment of the Army, the Navy and the Marines, to thrust them out. Their pleas unheeded, the last inches of mire and misery of anacostia was as clear to them as the mold and slime of Flanders.

Remorseless, without the slightest indication of compunction, a President, adamant, unsympathetic to their cause from the start, has had his will.

The "Red Cross," self styled dispensers of mercy, true to their known record, when they sold commodities, when they were donated by a grateful nation, for the use of the soldiers in the World War, quasi governmental organization with an opportunity to do a turn for a horde of miserable citizens, following in the wake of the President, refused at this time to administer the unlimited resources of a grateful nation. Regaining consciousness for the acts, "The Painters" the politicians, "Friends of Democracy," true to form, abhorring the political damage done and registered upon a suffering, watching, patient, nation, forthwith proceeded to paint "Red" with the actions of the entire horde for the first time since the Bonus March began, hoping it would be "Whitewash."

In the name of Decency, will you be good enough to accept this contribution to your columns in an effort to make a way for correction of the disgraceful, insulting manner in which this affair has been handled.

WRITE ABOUT FLY FISHING

Leaves Out of One Man's Past

Local Authors Featured By Magazine Devoted to Outdoor Life

Two Gladstone writers are featured in the latest edition of the Northern Sportsman, a magazine devoted to outdoor life in Michigan. One of the writers, Sid W. Gordon, has been appearing in print regularly, his articles being devoted to the art of trout fishing. Herbert Van Horn, also writing on the same subject, makes his initial bow in this issue. The article by Mr. Gordon deals with "Styles in Fishing" and he delves deep into the history of the art of fly fishing.

By A. THEODORE SOHLBERG
O. L. Sheffer now lives quietly on a farm near the village of Brampton in Delta County, Michigan. The stream of his life has passed over rapids and shallows, and now and then it has flowed into places where the water has been deep and quiet. During the most of his years he was just one of the thousands of the tenant farmers of the middle west who have grown and brought to market the food for millions, and to this purpose he has given the strength of his years. He has worked hard and paid his just debts. He has not moved "his neighbor's land mark," nor destroyed the witness tree.

But paralleling the story of his own life, the another story of contacts he has made with great movements, exciting episodes, and famous men of the past. Mr. Sheffer was born in 1850 near Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. The father was a tailor by trade, a United Brethren preacher by preference, and a wanderer who visited many places. When the subject of this sketch was about four years old, the family set out on one of its many migrations. The journey was westward. They traveled by wagon as far as Pittsburgh, then down the Ohio and thence by diverse ways to Chicago. From Chicago they came by canal boat to Lockport, and thence to Plainfield, Illinois, and here the family settled on a farm. The father worked as his trade week days and preached on Sundays, and the boys took care of the farm. Here young Sheffer grew up into his teens. He worked for neighborhood farmers, went to school a little between times, sold papers in Plainfield, and did odd jobs, thereby adding a little to the family income.

"Hen" and "Jim" Go To War
"Hen and Jim," older brothers of Mr. Sheffer, joined the colors and went south. They took part in the engagement in which Lyon was killed and went on with the regiment to Fort Fisher. The cashier, however, had managed to turn the combination of the safe before he died, and the bandits had failed to get the money. Henry and his companions rode swift race horses and managed to get out of town, but a cowboy posse was quickly formed to take the trail of the outlaws. The latter had missed their way and strayed into what was known as Cedar Canon where they were pocketed by the cowboys. With losses already about their necks, the outlaws were taken to Medicine Lodge and hanged without a trial.

Two Months on Journey West
In 1856 the family again moved west. For two months they lived on the trails in a "prairie schooner." On the journey they also a baby, born before Topeka, the new capital of Kansas. They remained here only a short time after which they moved to LeCompton, the proposed site for the capitol of Kansas during the pro-slavery regime—a strange place in which to settle for the pioneer preacher and his family. Men and boys went about heavily armed. Even the women carried revolvers. Here "Jim" Lane, who had tried to organize a free-state Democratic party in Kansas, was a familiar figure. He lived Sam Wood, one of those indicted for treason in the hectic days before the War. Young Sheffer had a job turning Wood's Washington Hand Press for a time. But LeCompton was very promising, and Wood decided to move his press to Topeka. Young Sheffer freighted it to its new home. Incidentally, Lucy Stone, the pioneer Suffragette leader, was a passenger on the trip.

Topeka was a busy place. The new capitol building was under construction. Some men were rounded up, and eight men were hanged without much ado. Vigilantes were organized to clean up the town. At one time a band of them visited a neighbor of Sheffer, called a man out and shot him dead. The next morning Sheffer's corn field was strewn with the masks cast off by those who had been in on the party. At another time a traveling circus had visited the town. On the morning of their departure some of the men complained of the coffee served to them at breakfast, and later in the day one after another of the men became sick, and along in the afternoon about thirty men were just raving maniacs. Two or three died. The rest were saved although it required almost the entire male population of the town to control them. On investigation it was found that the cook had made a mistake and used a package of Jimson seed instead of XXXX coffee for the morning brew.

But there were other experiences less exciting but interesting in the light of later days. Among Sheffer's personal friends was a group of bright young men who were in the habit of gathering at the Charley Haase law office to discuss politics, hard times, "Farmers' Alliance," and other absorbing topics. One man from out of town often came in to join them. He was a slim, handsome young fellow whose flashing dark eyes and black hair betrayed Indian heritage. His name was "Charley" Curtis, and he is now Vice President of the United States.

The Oklahoma Opening
The Oklahoma opening was another memorable episode of this period. A relative of Sheffer had gone down into the territory and picked out a piece of land for himself and one for Sheffer. Before the opening everybody was ordered off the reservation, and it is said that a hundred thousand people crowded up to the line in every available spot. Every type of vehicle imaginable was in the place. There were blooded Kentucky race horses, mustang ponies, mules, and lumbering work horses ready to start. Near where Sheffer and his companions were was a man on a race horse, which he endeavored to hold exactly on the line. An old man and woman lay in a sulky, the man holding a hickory switch and the woman holding the reins. As the moment arrived, a soldier in front of the line raised a revolver and fired into the air. The race horse, in the excitement, reared and refused to move ahead. The old man struck the mule with his switch and the animal leaped forward and his passengers rolled backward off the cart. Another group started off in an old spring buggy. All at once a wheel collapsed, but they kept going on three wheels.

Sheffer and his companion drove twenty-four miles in an hour and a half, but when they arrived there were eight persons quarreling about who should have the one farm, and three were found a spot to eat their dinner and then set off across the prairie. The whole area looked like a battle field. Pieces of farm machinery, utensils, and parts of wagons, were strewn all over the prairie. Mr. Sheffer was also interested in the Arapahoe and Rosebud openings. He was on the ground and looked over its opportunities but did not make the race. In the meantime, the Sheffer boys were coming into manhood. They continued to hire farms around for absentee owners for some years. Later they moved to Iowa but remained there only two or three years and then went back to Illinois. Here they operated big farms for eighteen years and began to invest their surplus earnings in Delta County lands. By 1914 they had acquired several hundred acres of land, mostly in the cut-over areas. They had also bought one farm partly improved, and they decided to move there. This property they have gradually developed and improved.

The Sheffers have weathered many a hard season and have proved their quality in "hard times" in the years that have passed. They are holding their own in the present depression. They have become acclimated to the North, but the homestead has about it an indefinable something of the prairies. The West has found a home in the North.

Three Favorites On Courts Today

Damitz, Skellenger and Rouman, the three who are most favored to win the local singles tourney, will exhibit their wares today in the second round of the tourney. Damitz will meet Mianie this morning at 9:00. Rouman plays Freeman at 2:00 and Skellenger will take on the winner of a match between Murphy and Murray at 4:00 o'clock. Should Damitz and Skellenger win their matches, they will meet in semi-finals and the victor will likely meet Rouman in the finals. Rouman is hoped to win his way through to the finals without difficulty. Results of games played yesterday were as follows: Ted Murray defeated Stanley Hawkins 7-5 and 6-1. Bob Skellenger defeated Floyd Giraldeau 6-2 and 7-5. Edw. Murphy defeated J. McGlyn 6-4 and 6-4. Carl Olson who had won one set and lost one to Jack Mingay was given the match when Mingay was advised by a physician to drop out of the contest.

Suggest Brown Trout For Escanaba River

In a letter to the Conservation Commission, accompanying a petition requesting that the Escanaba river be stocked with trout and closed until the fish had an opportunity to mature, Herbert Van Horn requested that the Commission investigate the feasibility of stocking with brown instead of brook trout as was requested in the petition. Mr. Van Horn pointed out that the temperature of the water would probably be more favorable to the brown species of trout. Most of those who signed the petition, Mr. Van Horn points out, were of the opinion that brown trout were the logical fish to be placed in the stream.

Dives Into Shallow Water; Breaks Arm

Robert Noel did not heed the time-worn advice to "look before you leap." He did learn, however, that the saying was more than a mere adage. Robert went swimming at the Ford river bridge south of Escanaba, Tuesday. Upon arriving he inquired the depth of the water. When told that the depth was twenty feet, he did not look—no leaped. He dived from the super-structure of the bridge, some 25 feet above the water line. The water was but 4 feet deep. Today he is nursing a broken left arm and bruises on his head. BOARD ADOPTS LOWER BUDGET

School Tax Bill Will Be Cut 21 Per Cent for Next Year

Last night the Gladstone Board of Education adopted a budget that will reduce the school tax bill in this city approximately 21 per cent below the figure for last year. The amount to be raised by taxes, budget figures show, will be $55,000.00 as compared with $70,000.00 raised last year. The rate per $1,000.00 of assessed valuation is reduced from $31.40 to $24.50.

A review of the budget figures discloses that economies were effected in practically every department of the system. Wage reductions were made, grades were consolidated, maintenance provisions were lessened, and provision of new equipment was practically eliminated.

The total budget for the coming year amounts to $104,676.63, while a year ago, the planned costs of the system were fixed at $126,144.00.

Reduction in salaries of teachers and instructional service costs will effect a saving of more than $3,000.00; interest payments will be reduced $3,250.00; bond payments will be cut to $8,000.00; and capital outlay will be reduced nearly $10,000.00, according to the budget as adopted.

In drafting the budget, the board has eliminated no department of the school system and has not curtailed the educational facilities that will be offered the children.

Provision is made to set aside $13,000.00 in the sinking fund, besides paying off $8,000.00 of bonds which come due during the year. This will reduce the net indebtedness of the schools to $7,000.00 by the end of the year.

School officials, in presenting the budget, state that the reduction for next year was made possible because of the plan of debt liquidation put in effect several years ago, which has brought the bonded debt to its present low figure.

Vandercook in U. P.
Ironwood—Residents of Ironwood and other Gogebic range communities may have the opportunity of attending a band concert directed by H. A. Vandercook of Chicago, famous bandmaster, either this week or next week.

Mr. Vandercook, who is a nationally known authority on band work, is coming to Ironwood for a visit and will be the guest of Orrville Collick, director of the Ironwood municipal band. He has consented to direct a concert at Longyear park while here.

Mr. Vandercook is now head of a school of music in Chicago. He will be remembered by older residents of the Gogebic range as director of the famous Calumet and Hecla band, as that organization appeared here under his leadership 30 years ago. While at Calumet he brought this band to a state of perfection, in a national band concert at Milwaukee this band, under his leadership, won first place.

Mrs. Fred Lueneberg of Fayette was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hynes Sunday.

Reduced Prices Spur to Business

Bargain prices for automobile license plates brought a spurt in business to the local agency at the Gladstone State Savings Bank on Monday and Tuesday, according to the license plate clerk. On Monday 25 sets of plates were issued and on Tuesday, seven auto owners applied for 1932 plates. None of these were for new cars. Compared with last year there has been a large decrease in the number of plates issued by the local agency. A year ago a total of 1616 passenger car plates had been issued as compared with 1371 on the same date this year. Truck licenses show a smaller percentage of decrease, but this year only 284 plates have been issued as against 325 last year. Comparison of trailer licenses issued cannot be made owing to the fact that last year the local agency did not handle them. So far this year 181 trailers have been licensed.

Blair-Pilon
On Tuesday morning at 7:30, Miss Isabelle Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Blair, North Tenth street, became the bride of Edward Pilon, Schaffer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. S. Maier at All Saints' Catholic church in Gladstone. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Francis Rabitoy, and the groomsmen were Arthur Pilon, brother of the groom.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of yellow satin with a net overdress and wore accessories to match. She carried an old-fashioned bride bouquet. The bridesmaid wore a dress of Nile green chiffon with accessories to match and carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, at which the bridal party and immediate members of the families were present. In the evening a wedding dinner was served and a reception held for the bride and groom at the Pilon home at Schaffer.

A color combination of blue and yellow was used for table decorations and a large wedding cake formed the table centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Pilon will make their home at Schaffer.

Employees at the Penny store held an outing last night at Pioneer Trail Park. A picnic supper was served after which outdoor diversions were enjoyed.

Look for Good Game Tonight

The Marble Arms and Lierman kitted ball teams will meet in a league match tonight at 7:00 o'clock. This will be the first game that has ever been played between these two teams this year. Kernz, hurling ace for the Marble team, has returned from Treary and will be on the mound. This is expected to be one of the best battles of the week.

85,000 See Tolan Capture Olympic 200-Meters

SIMPSON TAKES SECOND PLACE

Metcalf Finishes Third to Give Yankees Clean Sweep

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP)—The bespectacled little American negro, Eddie Tolan of Detroit, who had to rely on a friend's assistance to get to his country's final tryouts, today was crowned sprint champion of the world as he raced to decisive victory in the Olympic 200 meter final before 85,000 spectators.

Four years ago Tolan failed to make the American Olympic team, but today he came down the stretch with an unbeatable rush to lead his teammates, George Simpson, and Ralph Metcalfe, and lower the Olympic record to 21.2 seconds.

Olympic Marks Fall
Two days ago the dusky little thunderbolt beat the giant Metcalfe by only two inches in the 100 meter final, but today Tolan eliminated any question of the outcome by beating Simpson by two good yards, with Metcalfe a scant half-foot further behind.

The sweep of the American sprint trio was the climax of the fourth straight day of unprecedented track and field performances as well as the greatest day the United States has ever had in this international athletic competition.

The Americans, dominating the proceedings from the outset, won all four of the men's championships decided by breaking Olympic records in three of them. In addition to which the great Texas girl athlete, Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, maintained the feminine world record breaking pace with a new mark of 11.8 second for the 50 meter hurdles in her first trial race.

The Americans finished one-two-three in both the 200 meter dash and 110 meter hurdles final, won by George Salting of Iowa. They were 1-2 in the discus throwing, where six Olympic record breaking tosses were climaxed by the victorious hand of 162 feet, 4-7-8 inches by giant John Anderson, former Cornell star. They finished 1-3-4 in the pole vault as Mill Miller soared beyond the listed world record with a vault of 14 feet 1 7/8 inches, to win a spectacular duel from the surprising 22-year-old Japanese Shuhei Nishida, who placed second at exactly 14 feet.

Graber Disappointing
The day's results gave the United States seven of the twelve men's track and field championships decided in four days of unparalleled world competition, added 70 points to the American total, now at the overwhelming figure of 151, and assured this country's decisive mastery of the proceedings.

As it stands now, Olympic records have been broken or new ones created in 15 track and field events for men and women, with world records surpassed in 6 events and equalled in 3 others.

To most everybody's surprise, Graber, who lifted himself 14 feet, 1 3/8 inches at Palo Alto, directed from the competition today before the bar was notched at 14 feet. At that height Miller and Hishida still were tied and it was then decided to move the cross-piece up to 14 feet 3 inches.

Miller finally got over, after two misses, but on re-measurement the bar was found to have sagged a bit and the American was credited with 14 feet 1 7/8 inches, a shade better than L. E. Barnes' listed world mark of 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches. Miller then took a crack at 14 feet 5 inches, in an attempt to surpass Graber's best, but he just failed to negotiate it.

The new champion wiped out the former Olympic mark of 13 feet 3 1/2 inches, made four years ago by Sabin Carr, former Yale star.

The discus throw was just one succession of Olympic record throws. The champion, Anderson, got off no less than four heaves, each of which surpassed the former Olympic record of 155 feet 3 inches made in 1928 by Bud Houser.

Mean while his teammate, Henri La Borde, bettered the mark twice before landing second place with 157 feet, 11 7/8 inches. Anderson's four record throws ranged from 157 feet, 3-4 inch, to 162 feet, 4-7-8 inches. The American holder of the world record of 169 feet, 8-7-8 inches, Paul Jessup of Seattle, did not place and his best throw was only 148 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

Saling broke the tape first in the 110 meter high hurdles after his team mate, Percy Beard, tripped over next to the last barrier, while leading the six finalists. Beard was away to a great start and quickly opened up a gap but as he was partially thrown off stride, Saling came with a rush to win by four feet in 14.6 seconds. This equaled the old Olympic record but was behind the new standard for the games, 14.4 set by Salting in the semi-finals yesterday.

It was the fourth time in as many events that the feminine contingent demolished a world record when "Babe" Didrikson came romping over the 80 meter hurdles in the new low mark of 11.8 seconds.

Albie Booth Wed Secretly July Fourth

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 3 (AP)—Albert J. Booth, Yale's diminutive football and basketball captain and baseball star, was married secretly July 4 to Miss Marion G. Noble, records in the Branford town clerk's office revealed today.

A week later he left to join the cast of a football motion picture being filmed on the west coast. His bride remained in New Haven where she is employed as a secretary.

The couple, friends since high school days, became engaged during Booth's junior year.

They were married by the Rev. T. J. Murray, pastor of St. Mary's church in Branford.

Booth became a sensation his sophomore year. His first year in the varsity football squad with his flashy passing, kicking, and ball carrying in spite of his small size, his football career reached its peak last year when as captain, his goal won the Harvard game.

A few days later, with the annual Princeton game and a charity round-robin remaining on the Ell schedule, he was stricken with a lung ailment which forced his retirement to a sanitarium. The basketball team, of which he was captain, went through the season without his leadership, but his physical condition improved rapidly enough for him to play in the concluding games of the baseball season.

Shortly after the close of school in June, Booth, answering a friend's joking query, denied he intended to marry soon.

"SEZ ME" by Ken Gunderman

The dismissal of Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Chicago Cubs is received in various manners by Escanaba baseball fans. Escanaba is one place where the Cubs have a tremendous following of loyal supporters. Some Escanaba fans are Hornsby boosters. Others have long felt that the Rajah should not be the leader of the Bruins.

It is quite probable that the baseball fans of a decade or so are more loyal boosters for Hornsby than the fans who have taken an active interest in baseball in recent years. That can be accounted for because of Hornsby's playing ability back in the early 1920's. Hornsby undoubtedly was a great ball player, one of the best the game has ever produced. Naturally, he created a large following and to this day those fans stand ready to swear by him.

However, it has been proven that great ball players do not necessarily make great managers. The officials of the Chicago Cubs—and thousands of Cub fans—have felt that Hornsby was not getting everything out of his players that they possessed. It has been rumored time and again that many of the Bruin players personally disliked Hornsby, and thus could not play inspired ball for him.

The Cubs possess as good baseball material as there is in any National League club. That the Cubs can put their shoulders behind Charley Grimm, the newly appointed manager, and push the club to the top of the league standings this year is hardly to be expected unless the Pirates fail to snap out of the losing streak they started at Philadelphia. Chicago has only five more games scheduled with Pittsburgh this season.

The Rangers swimming meet sponsored by the Escanaba Athletic Association and the city park board probably will bring in more than a hundred entries in all of the events. Joel Olson who is director of the meet believes. The cost of the medals for the winners of the events is being shared by the Rangers and the Escanaba park board.

Last year the swimming meet was for boys and men only and the entry list included about 70 names. This year girls and women are included and there will be events for the mermaids, including diving. The swimming meet will be held Sunday, August 14 at the municipal beach. All Delta county swimmers are eligible.

While the Rangers are planning for the water events on the 14th, the word has gone around that there is a possibility that the ball team will not promote a football team this fall. It cost the Rangers something like $380 to put on each of their home games last year and their away from home games all resulted in deficits. The association didn't finish in the red on the 1931 season, because they did good turnovers in several of the big home games.

However, the prospects for anything like $380 gates at the home games this year are very sad, the association feels, and unless they can reduce their expenses down to about one half the former cost

AMERICAN SPRINTERS SWEEP OLYMPIC 100-METERS

This Associated Press Telephoto shows the thrilling finish of the 100-meter dash final in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles, in which the United States speedsters took first, second and fourth. Eddie Tolan (left) of Michigan won by two inches from Ralph Metcalfe (right) of Marquette in world record time of 16.3 seconds. Arthur Jonath (168) of Germany was third, less than a foot ahead of George Simpson (458) of Ohio.

Cubs Pledge Loyalty to Grimm, New Leader

Philadelphia, Aug. 3. (AP)—Loyalty to the new boss of the Cubs and best wishes for the departing manager as he prepared to leave for the west were expressed today by members of the Chicago National league team.

Rogers Hornsby, deposed yesterday by President William L. Veeck, said good bye to the players, told them he hoped they would win the pennant and the world series.

The Rajah said he had only the best of feeling and good wishes for his successor, Charley Grimm. "More power to him," he exclaimed in talking of the swift change in leadership of the Cubs. Grimm, still elated over his sudden elevation to the manager-

Detroit Uses Five Hits to Upset Washington in Hurlers' Duel

Detroit, Aug. 3 (AP)—Detroit made 11 seven victories out of twelve games against Washington by taking the Senators 2 to 1 in a series opener here today.

The game was a hurling duel between Alphonse Thomas and Vic Sorrell for the first eight innings. Thomas gave Detroit but five hits, one of them being a double by Rhlei that sent in the winning run in the sixth. Washington collected an even half dozen off Sorrell. Three of these were combined in the second inning to produce the only Senator run.

Marberry worked the last inning for Washington. Thomas having been taken out in favor of a pinch batsman. Washington was first to score, Kubel being driven home by Bluege, who made his first appearance in uniform in five days, having been out because of illness. After Kubel and West singled in the second inning, Bluege followed with a one-base rap.

Detroit's first run came in the fourth inning and was a gift from Thomas as he walked Gehrig. First man up. Big Charley went to second base after Stone fled, took third on an infield out and scored on Rhlei's single to right. Two were out when Walker singled in the sixth inning. Rhlei then bounced one off the left field fence and scored Walker.

Iron Mountain and Houghton Boxers Split Fight Card

Houghton, Aug. 3 (Special)—Iron Mountain boxers broke even in their invasion of the Copper Country here last night, winning two and losing two decisions before a vast crowd to pack itself around a Copper Country fight ring and in one of the most stirring cards ever offered in this district.

Bill Hagen and Wayne Hill took their fights, while Reno Tortelli and Pete Koloff were losers.

Every fight was a bang-up affair and the huge crowd was brought to its feet time and time again by sensational milt slinging dished up by the amateur boxers who were putting on the second inter-district sison pure exhibition ever offered in the upper peninsula.

CHICAGO BEATS YANKEES, 3 TO 2

Ted Lyons Bests Ruffing in Ten Inning Duel in Opener

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP)—With Ted Lyons out-pitching Charley Ruffing in a ten-inning hurlers' duel, the Chicago White Sox took the series opener from the New York Yankees, 3 to 2 today.

In addition to holding the Yankees to six hits, Lyons doubled in the eighth and eventually scored the tying run as the result of Funk's sacrifice and Hayes' long fly. The Sox scored their winning run in the same manner with Blue doubling, advancing to third on Grube's sacrifice and scoring on Pinch Hitter Fothergill's long fly to Chapman.

Only in the fourth inning did the Yankee threaten Lyons. Then Sewell singled, Ruth walked and both scored on Chapman's one base blow. The victory was the former Taylor university star's sixth triumph of the season.

Ruffing, trying for his 12th victory, held the Sox to eight hits but his mates were unable to hit Lyons. Ruth failed to get a hit in two official trips to the plate while the only extra base hit was a double by Gehrig.

Club Members in Delta County Prepare for Camp at Chatham

All 4-H club members in Delta county who are planning to attend Camp Shaw at Chatham Aug. 8 to 13 are requested to get in touch with county agricultural agent J. E. Turner at once, so that transportation may be arranged. The following are eligible to attend the camp at Chatham: 1. County champions in handicraft, clothing and home management. 2. County champion teams in handicraft, clothing and home management. 3. County champion judging teams in clothing. 4. County champion style revue club members. 5. County health champions. 6. Summer club members 12 years old whose records are up-to-date. 7. Demonstration and judging teams in summer projects. The honor of representing the Upper Peninsula at the state fair at Detroit in December will be one of the objectives of competition at Chatham. The following teams will be eligible to go to the State Fair providing their work is satisfactory. No inferior teams will be sent to Detroit this year. One health champion boy and one girl. One poultry judging team of two members. One poultry demonstration team of two members. One dairy judging team of three members. One crop demonstration team of two members. One handicraft team of two members. One canning judging team of two members. Three home economics demonstration teams of two members. One clothing judging team of two members. Two style show girls. The dairy demonstration teams will be scored on the state basis. Club members winning the trips listed above will be adequately chaperoned by members of the Michigan State College extension force and local leaders, and the State Fair pays the railroad transportation of club members and leaders.

Plan Camp Band A real 4-H band is planned at Camp Shaw next week, and club members attending are asked to bring their musical instruments along. The band director will be Coy Eklund, student director of the Munising high school band, and a former 4-H club member. Each club member is asked to pack up the following articles when preparing for the trip to Chatham: 1. One complete change of clothing. 2. One was cloth. 3. Two towels. 4. One bar soap. 5. One tooth brush and paste. 6. One comb and hair brush. 7. One small mirror. 8. At least three heavy blankets and outing flannel blanket. 9. One pair of rubbers. 10. One pair of old shoes. 11. Outside coat (mackinaw, overcoat or topcoat). 12. Boys bring old trousers or overalls. 13. Drinking cup.

Good Care Counts In Potato Yields

D. H. Campbell, who is farming the Wisconsin Land and Lumber company farm at Wilson, has 35 acres of certified Russet Burbank that are uniform and the vigor of the crop indicates a high yield. J. J. Bird, potato specialist from Michigan State College, reported the field to be as good as any he has seen this year, and hardly a diseased or weak plant could be found in the whole 35 acres.

Mr. Campbell started preparations for the year's crop last year. The field last year was a stiff quack grass sod, with some alfalfa. This was dragged 17 times last year with a field cultivator, which entirely eliminated the quack. This spring the land was plowed deep, and part of the field had been covered with manure. The potatoes were planted from the middle to the last of May with an application of a 4-16-8 fertilizer 500 pounds to the acre on the manured part of the field, and 700 pounds to the acre on the part that did not receive manure. The trench system of planting was used, whereby the trench is made with the planter to a depth of about 5 inches, and then the potatoes covered as little as possible. Immediately after planting Mr. Campbell did most of his cultivating using the drag and weeder, so that the field needed only one row cultivation to control the weeds. The field has been sprayed 4 times with bordeaux mixture and will be sprayed 3 or 4 times before the season is over, Mr. Campbell states.

"The Campbell potato field is an example that can be seen,"

WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY

John Eklund, Stonington, Claimed By Death Wednesday

John Alphonso Eklund, 45-year-old World War veteran of Stonington, passed away at his home in Stonington at 4:30 yesterday morning. Eklund was gassed while serving in the American army at France and has been ailing ever since. He was only confined to his bed for the past ten days, however. Eklund, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Eklund, of Stonington, was born March 15, 1887. Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Powell, of Stonington and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Holmquist, of Fergus Falls, Minnesota.

A full military funeral will be accorded Eklund on Friday. Services will be held at the home at two o'clock (E. S. T.) and at the Swedish Lutheran church of Stonington at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Ed Wickberg officiating. Pallbearers and firing squad will be selected from the American Legion of which Eklund was a member. Arrangements are in charge of Anderson funeral home.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROSA BRANDT Funeral services for Mrs. Rosa Brandt, 311 North 16th street, will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the home and at 2:30 from the Salem Evangelical Lutheran church with Rev. Wm. Lutz officiating. Burial will be in Lakewick. The 598 South Carolina farmers who entered the 1931 cotton contest made an average profit of $10.79 per acre.

Works at Airport Negaunee—Miss Ann Bohrer, of Salem, Ore., daughter of Joseph Bohrer, a former Negaunee resident, has gained honors as a first aid expert, having completed a Red Cross course. Miss Bohrer, a niece of Mrs. Al Bohrer, who is visiting with her parents, Captain and Mrs. James H. Rought, is an aviatrix and is hostess at the Salem municipal airport.

To Save Landmark Sault Ste. Marie—The city commission is in sympathy with any move to save the John Johnston home, cradle of Sault Ste. Marie, which stands on Great Lakes Towing Company's property on Water street and is threatened with destruction. Following an appeal by Stanley Newton of the historical markings committee of the Chamber of Commerce and by Judge Charles H. Chapman and V. R. Conway, the city commission last night adopted a resolution expressing its sympathy with any move to preserve the 100-year-old building and asked that the mayor, Andrew J. Short, be made a member of the C-C committee.

1000 Moonshiners Sault Ste. Marie—How many moonshiners are there in Sault Ste. Marie? James W. Troyer, 2231 Fourth avenue west, estimates there are 1,000. He told the city commission that last night while pleading that a section of Ashmun street between the Weber green house and the Emma Nason Children's Home be zoned for business houses. It is now zoned for residences only.

No Bonus Marchers Sault Ste. Marie—"The Bonus Expeditionary Force in Washington, does not include any men from upper Michigan," says Department Vice Commander Carl J. Widenhofer of the American Legion. "and the problem of these veterans has not been officially considered by any upper Michigan posts." The 900 Michigan people who are in Washington with the "bonus army" are men from Flint, Detroit and vicinity.
