

WALKER QUIZZED ON PRIVATE INCOME

EMPIRE TRADE PACTS TO BE KEPT SECRET

CANADA TO ACCEPT TARIFF ACCORD WITH ENGLAND

BY FRANK I. WELER (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 15 (AP)—In order that commerce may be protected from violent price fluctuations, details of tariff agreements between the United Kingdom and the dominions represented at the British imperial economic conference probably will be kept secret for some time, it developed today.

It was officially disclosed that Britain has not yet signed trade treaties of any kind with the dominions, but important differences standing in the way of an accord with Canada were understood to have been eliminated. The two nations have virtually arrived at an understanding which would include preference in Britain for Canadian farm products and reciprocal favors in Canada for British iron, steel and coal.

The probability is that details of tariff accords will be withheld until the various ministers of finance report to their parliaments. Consider Proposal

The sub-committee on grades and standards of agricultural products approved a recommendation that countries within the commonwealth set up cooperative agencies to disseminate information on commercial requirements with a view to ultimate uniformity.

Canadians generally were exercised over a suggestion by Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, that the production of staple commodities be geared to consumer demand as an effort to raise the general commodity price level.

These critics recalled the sad experience of the Canadian wheat pool in 1929 when the wheat crop was held in reserve in the hope that cheap grain might leave the world market. Argentina stepped in where Canada had been and exported wheat for months after statistics had shown her exportable surplus to be depleted.

The result was that Canada not only did not sell her wheat but British consumers, believing an attempt had been made to force up their bread prices, gave vent to their sentiments in a way that amounted to an embargo on Canadian grain and flour.

Mr. Chamberlain's idea was not new. It has been promoted in one form or another in the United States in respect to wheat and cotton ever since the creation of the federal farm board. It is understood that Stanley M. Bruce, leader of the Australian delegation, attacked it strongly.

Checker Players To Meet In Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 15 (AP)—Entries from many outstate cities are expected for the Michigan state checker tournament to be held Sept. 3, 4 and 5 at the Auto City Chess and Checker club. Louis T. De Beorn of Detroit, is defending champion.

He won the title last year in one of the most bitterly contested finishes ever seen in a Michigan tournament. At the conclusion of three days and nights of play, De Beorn and Elwyn Rees and Charles Hollow, both of Flint, still were in the running. De Beorn went to Flint a week later and eliminated his last two competitors in two days and two nights of almost uninterrupted play.

COUNTY SEEKS TAX REDUCTION

Reapportionment Plan Is Protested to State Board

Lansing, Aug. 15 (AP)—Supervisors and tax officers from many sections of the state told the state board of equalization today that depressed industrial and agricultural conditions have sharply reduced the values of taxable properties. They appeared to protest against the recent recommendation of the state tax commission that the state tax burden be reapportioned so Oakland, Wayne, Houghton and Kalamazoo counties would pay slightly lower percentages while other counties would pay slightly more.

John C. Beukema, representing Muskegon, and Wilber C. Huntington, of Kalamazoo, said industry is at so low an ebb that land values have dropped substantially and owners can't pay taxes. Beukema said property in Muskegon has dropped two-thirds since 1929. Representatives of Jackson county's farmers said they should not be required to pay a higher percentage of the state tax than Kalamazoo.

All Seek Reductions Marquette, Iron and other upper peninsula counties sought reductions in their valuations and percentages on the ground farming values have slumped, mines are not operating and timber resources have been diminished.

Loomis K. Preston of St. Joseph and Leon D. Case, of Waterbury, asked the board to cut approximately $7,000,000 from the valuation recommended by the commission for Berrien county. Preston cited bank difficulties and decreasing values as reasons for the reduction. He suggested the county valuation be put at $7,999,000 which was the equalized value fixed by the county board of supervisors, instead of $8,998,720 as proposed by the state commission.

G. W. Jackson of Gladstone, contended Delta county should be materially reduced. He said timber, industrial and farming values are down. The county would benefit more by taxing the railroad property directly than it does from the primary school fund, he said. Gogebic representatives asked a reduction of $484,000 in that county's value.

WAR GENERAL MAY BE NEXT GERMAN CHIEF

VON SCHLEICHER IS CONSIDERED TO HEAD GOV'T

Berlin, Aug. 15 (AP)—General Kurt von Schleicher, one of the old imperial military leaders who is recognized as the power behind the throne in the present cabinet, emerged today as a strong possibility for the chancellorship. The name of Dr. Franz Bracht, deputy federal commissioner in charge of the state of Prussia, was twined with the general's in the maneuvering that was going on in an effort to compose the cabinet crisis. Dr. Bracht was mentioned for the Prussian premiership.

This tentative slate set forth in party newspapers which suggested that Von Schleicher was properly neutral to head a cabinet in which Adolf Hitler's national socialists and the centrists would be represented in a ratio of two to one. Without issuing any explanation, Hitler suddenly cancelled a meeting of Nazi representatives from all over the country which had been scheduled for tomorrow. Members of the federal, state and local parliaments were to have attended this meeting.

Cabinet Holds Meeting It was assumed the national socialist leader wanted an opportunity to discuss with his closest advisers the situation created by President Paul von Hindenburg's refusal Saturday to turn the chancellorship over to him. The cabinet met today and there was some discussion of the internal political situation, but the date of convening the new Reichstag remained undecided.

Fears that the Reichstag might not be summoned into session here set at rest by a cabinet announcement that it would be convened within the time provided by the constitution and not later than August 30. Among the subjects discussed by the ministers was a program to relieve unemployment. The major points of this plan were approved and it was agreed they will be submitted to the Reichstag, but what they were was not disclosed.

The newspaper Der Montag reported that all Nazi storm troops had received an eight-day furlough. Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda chief, announced a new campaign against the government in today's edition of the newspaper Der Angriff. Without intimating this fight would have "illegal" aspects, Goebbels asserted that Chancellor Von Papen would face the "embittered resistance of all nationalistic Germany rallied under our banner."

Eusebio Ayala declared today at ceremonies marking his inauguration as president of the nation. The new president asserted that Paraguay is and always has been ready to submit the conflict over the Gran Chaco to any conciliatory tribunal.

For 25 years, he said, Bolivia has been advancing systematically in the western Chaco, which she now occupies by force of arms and all this time Paraguay has made repeated moves to submit the dispute to arbitration.

Iowa Farmers' Strike For Higher Prices May Move to Other States

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 15 (AP)—A farmers' strike, Iowa born a week ago in seemingly mild protest against low prices for farm products, tonight had effected an increasingly tightening blockade of the Sioux City terminal as its leaders considered its extension to other states. Picketing, boycott and threats were invoked by the farmers in northwest Iowa to advance the strike which would withhold produce from markets until assured that production costs plus a fair profit will be realized by the growers.

Stockyards in Sioux City, a major mart of the midwest, today received 3,500 animals as compared to 6,500 a week ago and 8,500 last year on the corresponding date. Roads Patrolled Produce dealers in Kingsley, a small town a few miles from Sioux City, were warned not to open for business today, a demand to which they bowed. Unemployed men near Waterloo, Iowa, patrolled suburban roads with signs bearing the slogan "Farmers Holiday—Sell No Products."

Meanwhile, in Des Moines a group of national farmers holiday association leaders from several states met to lay plans for spreading the movement, to report that in nearby states the holiday was being accorded increasing support and to decide what would be done with the stocks held back from market at the termination of the strike. The holiday was started under auspices of the Iowa holiday association and of Milo Reno, president of the organization, last Monday. During the week many produce dealers, elevator men, railroad officials, and others, declared the strike had no effect.

The strike in this state is scheduled to last at least 30 days. At Sioux City Sheriff John A. Davenport and County Attorney Ralph C. Pritchard considered deputizing 100 special officers to keep highways open as deliveries of livestock, milk and other products were stopped and turned back by farmers. Growers who wished to bring their produce to market besieged authorities with requests for safe conduct.

Though numerous threats have been reported no actual acts of violence have occurred. In Kingsley in the last few days milk and cream have been poured out of several trucks after drivers defied demands to stop handling produce. "Adding to the concern in northwest Iowa is a milk strike in Sioux City. This is not a part of the farmers holiday, but a distributors movement. Milk has been thrown into the roads and many gallons have been given free to poor people. In Harrison county, in the extreme west central part of Iowa, officials were on the alert to prevent carrying out of threats to dump cargoes of milk trucks bound for Omaha.

Williams, Chicago, chief counsel for the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply Co., plaintiff in two patent infringement suits against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. in federal court here.

Rep. Johnson Says He Can Prove Guns Were Found in Bonus Camp

Lacrosse, Wis., Aug. 15 (AP)—Representative Royal C. Johnson of South Dakota, said tonight that at the proper time he would offer proof that "dynamite and caps, with guns and ammunition, were found in the bonus camp" at Washington. Addressing an American Legion banquet, Johnson, a Republican, a veteran himself, and former chairman of the house veterans committee, blamed communists for instigating and carrying out the siege on the nation's capital that resulted in riot, bloodshed and death.

"Men don't bring in dynamite to start a Y. M. C. A. or Sunday school meeting, and they don't bring in pistols to start a pink tea," he said. Support Hoover "I can prove that there was dynamite and caps in the

GARNER LAUDS SMITH BEFORE DEMO LEADERS

DENIES HE DID NOT SUPPORT SMITH IN 1928 DRIVE

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN (Associated Press Staff Writer) New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—With tears in his eyes, Speaker Garner sought today to put an end to what had been called a "whispering campaign" against him. At a luncheon in Democratic national headquarters, he attacked religious bigotry, denied he had not supported "Al" Smith in 1928, and said on prohibition he was an "outright repealer."

His voice quavered frequently as he answered three pointed questions that were fired at him in rapid order by leaders of three New England states which supported Smith in the Chicago convention. "There is a whispering statement that you did not support Smith in 1928," said Joseph A. Maynard, state chairman in Massachusetts, as the vice presidential candidate paused in his talk to the state leaders. Supported Smith "I began voting very early, when I was 19," the Texan replied, with a smile playing on his ruddy face, "and I want to say that I never split a Democratic ticket. I said in 1928 in two speeches I delivered in behalf of Smith that I believed he was one of the greatest leaders America had ever produced."

The speaker paused, then added: "And I still believe that." The New Englanders applauded. "Is it not a fact that the present leaders of our party in the south, like yourself, repudiated religious bigotry?" asked Rhoads J. Howard-McGrath of Rhode Island. "That is true," Speaker Garner replied quickly. "And I would apologize for the great state of Texas. If a man had told me Texas would have gone Republican in 1928 I would have thought him crazy. x x x"

"I hear that I am considered a handicap to the ticket in the east. Of course I regret that. It reflects of the religious bigotry we had in 1928." The speaker, a Methodist by faith, hesitated a moment, then continued with quavering voice: "I have suffered from that bigotry more than you know, both politically and personally—communications—threats—suffered more than you gentlemen realize—attacks you people in New England know nothing about. That will answer your question."

There were tears welling in his eyes as he finished. A wave of applause swept around the luncheon table, at which more than 50 kingspins of the Democratic campaign were gathered. Outright Repealer "How do you stand on the question of the 18th amendment?" asked Chairman David Wilson of Connecticut. "That is a great subject for me," came the quick reply. Again his face was wreathed in the same smile he had worn earlier in the day as he stepped from a train that had borne him from Hyde Park and Albany, where he had conferred with his running mate, Governor Roosevelt.

"I am in favor of completely repealing the 18th amendment," he continued. "I never voted for it. I feel today as I did when it was introduced. I voted against it then on principle. Today I am against it for that same reason, with the additional reason that it is not workable in this country. My position is for outright repeal with no qualifications after it—just repeal."

The itinerary for his speaking tour was not announced, but he himself said he would come to New York about the middle of September, when Roosevelt starts on his campaign swing. "He'll go west and I'll travel through the east for a while," said Garner.

HERMANVILLE ROBBER CAUGHT

Seattle, Aug. 15 (AP)—Said by police to be wanted in Minnesota and Michigan on murder and robbery charges, John Jacobinsky, 22, was arrested today after he attempted to cash a postal money order in a bank here. He had been traced from Hermansville, Mich., by a trail of bank notes taken in a $5,000 bank holdup there, police said. Detective Captain Ernest Yorls said Jacobinsky admitted the bank robbery in detail, but denied murders with which he was charged in Lake Forest and Minneapolis, Minn. Yorls received a telegraphic warrant on the murder charges today.

Jacobinsky was said to be accused of killing a policeman in Lake Forest after holding up a gasoline service station there and of killing a man in Minneapolis after an argument over a motor car. He had been sought here for two days. Battle With Police Yorls said Jacobinsky, who also is known as John Jacobs and John Moore, readily told how he and a brother, Frank Jacobinsky, and two other brothers, Edward and Robert Kunasiewicz, held up the First National Bank of Hermansville several weeks ago. Jacobinsky said he had had a desperate battle with police at Sagola, Mich. Yorls quoted Jacobinsky as admitting that the two sets of brothers locked three bank attendants in a vault and escaping with $5,000 in a stolen motor car, which stalled a few miles away on a side road. The robbers split the loot, each taking $1,200 and John Jacobinsky and Edward Kunasiewicz separated from the other two. They planned to go to Amassa, Mich., Jacobinsky's home, but fled westward after learning from a store keeper in Randville, Mich., that the other two robbers of the Hermansville bank had been caught.

REINDL ON WAY Menominee, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP)—Sheriff Ed Reindl, of Menominee county, left here tonight for Seattle to return John Jacobinsky for trial for robbing the Hermansville National bank of $5,000 on May 31. John's brother, Frank, and Edward and John Kunasiewicz, brothers, are serving terms of 15 to 30 years in the Marquette branch prison for their part in the holdup.

She said she was unable to obtain aid from the welfare department.

INVESTIGATION PUSHED AHEAD BY ROOSEVELT

MAYOR'S RELATIONS WITH SHERWOOD QUESTIONED

BY WALTER T. BROWN (Associated Press Staff Writer) Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Retracting his declaration that public officials must account for their private incomes, Governor Roosevelt today pushed his investigation of Mayor James J. Walker's fitness to remain in office into the charges involving Russell T. Sherwood, missing accountant of the law firm of which Walker was a member, and the "unknown person."

John J. Curtin, Walker attorney, as the mayor took the stand, argued vehemently for the striking out of Walker's relations with Sherwood. He contended in a loud voice that they were private and had no connection with the mayor's official acts. The governor reminded Curtin that in removing Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, Tammany leader, he had held officials must show the source of private incomes. Herick Summoned "I don't regard that as an exposition of the law," Curtin shot back. MAYOR TO QUIT Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Philadelphia Record says it learned today from "responsible sources" that James J. Walker will resign as mayor of New York within the next few days—before Governor Roosevelt can announce his final decision.

DENIES REPORT Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—An emphatic "bunk!" was the only comment tonight of John J. Curtin, Mayor Walker's attorney, to a Philadelphia report that the mayor would resign before Governor Roosevelt could give his decision on removal demands.

back. "You will find nowhere any justification—legally now— for the waiving of any constitutional rights, or private by a public official. "Perhaps you would be right in not calling it a law," responded the governor, "but you would also be right in calling it my public policy in regard to this state." The governor introduced a surprise witness when he summoned Walter R. Herick, New York City park commissioner, to tell of a park transaction to which the mayor denied before a party. Herick testified before the Hofstadter committee he bought 300 shares of stock with the understanding they were for the mayor. "So your talk of delivering the stock to the mayor," demanded Curtin on cross examination, "is purely assumption, isn't it, and you don't pretend it is anything else?" Herick answered "yes."

Mr. Roosevelt read a portion of Herick's testimony in New York to the effect that there was no question in his mind that $39,000 to pay for stock came from the mayor. "I think that's wrong," Herick replied, "the money came I thought from Mr. Stanton," (Edward M. Stanton, former secretary to the mayor.) At one time Seabury, Walker and Curtin argued over the revelation of the name of a divorcee who had been Herick's law client. Seabury sought to show that to Herick by the mayor. Herick denied that, and when all except the witness agreed her name should go into the record Herick said: "I think that's wrong."

SHOOT TITLES WELL DIVIDED

Clyde Mitchell Gives Nifty Exhibition of Pigeon Busting

Featured by a nifty exhibition of target busting by Clyde Mitchell, Milwaukee, Wisconsin state professional champion, and winner of the world's open championship and high-overall at the 1931 Grand American at Vandalia, Ohio, some 50 gunners competed here Sunday in the second annual Upper Peninsula Trapshooting tournament sponsored by the Chicago & North Western Gun club.

A strong, gusty wind swept across the trap throughout the day and caused the little black discs to cut up plenty of antics, but in spite of this contestants were able to smash them consistently and turn in fairly high scores.

Trophies Awarded The winners were fairly well distributed among shooters of Sault Ste. Marie, the Sturgeon Falls Gun club of Norway and Vulcan, and Escanaba.

T. J. Davis of Sault Ste. Marie won first prize in the singles event with a score of 45, and P. Calcaterra of Vulcan was second, breaking one bird less than the winner.

- THE WINNERS Singles, T. J. Davis, Sault Ste. Marie, 45. Doubles, H. O. Brotherton, Escanaba, 40. Five-man team, L. M. Page, Soo, P. Pancheri, P. Calcaterra, S. Beni and H. J. Richards of Vulcan, 200 x 250. Club event, Paul Syverson, Escanaba, 43 x 75. Long run, H. O. Brotherton, Escanaba, 47. All-events, E. L. Brotherton, Escanaba, 135 x 150.

In the singles, J. T. Sharpsteen, Escanaba, smashed 48 out of the 50 for high score and was followed closely by two of his club members, H. O. Brotherton and E. L. Brotherton, who turned in 47. None, however, were eligible for the trophies, local gunners being barred from contesting for either the singles or team prizes. Sharpsteen also topped the pack on his 100 singles targets, breaking 22.

Veteran Doubles Winner First place and the trophy in the doubles went to the veteran H. O. Brotherton, who broke 40 out of the 25 pair tossed into the wind, and just one bird back of him came E. L. "Lester" Brotherton, his son, to take second.

In the five-man competition, a team, composed of one Soo runner and four from the Sturgeon Falls club, won first with a score of 200 x 250. On it were L. M. Page, Soo, who got 44 x 50; Pancheri, Vulcan, 43; P. Calcaterra, Vulcan, 38; H. J. Richards, Vulcan, 38, and S. Beni, Vulcan, 38. Members of the second place team were T. J. Davis and W. H. Bennett of the Soo, who broke 35 and 33, respectively; W. Marinelli, Vulcan, 34; A. Guzzanto, Norway, 36, and J. Zadra, Vulcan, 37.

Paul Syverson won the club event for shooters of 75 percent and less, in a shootoff with Albert Cloutier. Both had broken 42 at the end of their string of 50, and Syverson then went out to get a 21 while his opponent broke one bird less.

H. O. Brotherton took the trophy for long run, getting a string of 47 without a miss. High in the all-events went to E. L. Brotherton who scored 47 in the singles, 42 in the team event and 39 in the doubles for a total of 128. One bird back, with 127 was H. O. Brotherton, and third with 123 was J. T. Sharpsteen, all of Escanaba.

Fans Like Mitchell A local team, augmented by Clyde Mitchell, scored a total of 216 in the five-man event. The scores were as follows: Clyde Mitchell, 48; E. L. Brotherton, 42; H. O. Brotherton, 40; Lou Villeneuve, 42, and J. T. Sharpsteen, 44.

Clyde Mitchell, the famed professional trigger-puller, motored here Saturday evening from his Wisconsin summer home and treated devotees to an exhibition of pigeon busting as it should be done. The champion broke 47 in the singles, 48 in the team event and 43 in the doubles for a total of 138 out of 150, but he did it that brought applause from the spectators. On singles, Mitchell made inkpots out of them almost as soon as they made their appearance in front of the trap house, and in doubles he demonstrated why shooters of all classes always watch him in his specialty—it was just bang, bang—and there were two inkpots.

MURDER CASE NEARING JURY

Counsel in Lancaster's Trial Prepare Closing Arguments

Miami, Fla., Aug. 15 (AP)—With nearly two weeks of evidence finally at an end, arguments by counsel over the question whether Haden Clarke committed suicide or was murdered by Captain W. N. Lancaster as the culmination of a love triangle were begun here today. Both sides rested shortly before noon. Clarke, a young writer, was fatally shot April 21 in the home of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Lancaster's former flying partner, and who admitted she had loved and been loved by both men.

Henry M. Jones, assistant state's attorney, attacked the defense claim Clarke committed suicide and charged Mrs. Keith-Miller "with protecting the lover who is alive after the death of another lover."

Arguments were not to be limited as to time. Testimony throughout the trial centered largely on the lives and loves of the three principals, with experts taking the stand for the defense to testify Clarke, in their opinion, took his own life.

Lancaster's diary and personal letters between him and Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller, were introduced by the state as part of the contention Lancaster had planned Clarke's death for stealing the love of the diminutive aviatrix whom he said he learned to love on their flight from Australia to London.

As a climax to the sensational testimony, which drew capacity audiences throughout the trial, the bullet pierced skull of Clarke was brought to the court and experts traced the course of the bullet and explained technical features of the wound which caused the writer's death.

Americans Now In Russia Permitted Only Half Rations

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—Labor trouble has arisen in the great coal fields of the Don basin, it was revealed today, with the result that in the last two months between 20,000 and 25,000 miners have quit their jobs.

The unrest has been reflected in production, which has fallen considerably. In the first few days of August the daily output was 85,000 to 100,000 tons, compared with an average of 185,000 tons a day in March.

The newspaper for industrialization asserted the trouble resulted from low wages and a desire on the part of the workers for better living conditions. Unskilled workers are replacing trained men, the paper said, and they are receiving 75 to 100 rubles a month while their food costs a minimum of 70 to 120 rubles a month. A serious shortage of fuel for the winter was feared.

Shortage of food has resulted in reduction in the rations allotted to American and other foreign specialists employed by the Soviet government. These specialists are permitted to buy only one-half of the supplies they have been getting.

OLYMPIAD X COMES TO END

Entire Nation Praised For Making Games Successful

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer) Los Angeles, Aug. 15 (AP)—To the entire nation must go the credit for the success of the games of the tenth Olympiad William May Garland, president of the organizing committee, said today as he sat back to review the international fests.

"The Olympic games were of the United States," said Garland, "not just California or Los Angeles. It was our good fortune to stage them, but the honor for the success must go to the people of the entire country who got behind them and helped to put them across in such splendid shape."

"Without boasting and without fear of criticism, I feel that I can say that the games were the finest ever held. Anyone who witnessed the closing ceremony yesterday and saw one hundred thousand persons go away with tears in their eyes, will understand."

Garland read a letter from President Henri de Baillet-Latour, president of the international Olympic committee, commending the United States on the splendid staging of the games.

"The housing of the athletes at the village," he said, "can be considered as the wonder of wonders. x x x Returning home, we carry with us the memory of the tenth Olympiad which will long live in our hearts."

The national exodus of athletes was on today, although the Olympic village will not be entirely vacated until August 28, when the Argentine delegation sails.

REP. JOHNSON SAYS BONUSERS HAD DYNAMITE

(Continued from Page One) senators, congressmen and others who incited and encouraged it when, if they knew anything, they knew congress was not going to pass the full payment of the adjusted service certificates."

The South Dakotan said the movement was "clearly to force the debt system on the United States," that communists distributed handbills among federal troops to "influence them not to perform their duties," and men connected with the Ford factory riots in Detroit were shown by the labor department to have been connected with the bonus marchers.

"The fact that communists were back of this bonus march, with dynamite, arms and ammunition, in the hands of individuals in the bonus camps," he said, "must have eventually come to the attention of General Smedley Butler and Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown (Pa.) and even percolated the brains of Congressmen John E. Rankin (D., Miss.), and Wright Patman (D., Tex.), because the congressmen have stayed a long way from Washington since the riots broke, and General Butler and Mayor McCloskey have said they would have nothing further to do with the bonus marchers."

Cheaper Freight Rates Approved

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized western trunk line railroads to reduce freight rates next Saturday on printing and wrapping paper, box-board, paper boxes and kindred articles between points in Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, Minnesota and Ontario on the one hand and Chicago and intermediate points in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

The rates were filed as of March 20 to meet truck competition. Central territory carriers and paper mills in various parts of the country protested, claiming the rates were unduly preferential, especially against points in Wisconsin which ship to Chicago.

It was claimed that mills east of Chicago could not meet the competition.

U. S. One-Man Fort Being Dismantled

Aberdeen, Wash., Aug. 15 (AP)—Uncle Sam's one man fort at Northcove, Willapa Harbor, is being dismantled after 14 years of idleness. The fort, which has two six-inch rifles, never fired a shot.

The guns were placed during the World War and were first in charge of a detachment of 35 men.

Officer Of Trust Company Succumbs

Grand Rapids, Aug. 15 (AP)—Relatives here were advised of the death Monday in the Cleveland clinic of Peter D. Klink, 50, vice president of the Grand Rapids Trust company, from a heart ailment. Mr. Klink, who came to Grand Rapids in 1925, went to the clinic three weeks ago for an operation.

The bitterest argument of the third session of the hearing developed over Walker's denial that he authorized purchase by Sherwood of letters of credit for the "unknown person" whose identity has been concealed by Samuel Seabury, Hofstadter committee counsel.

"Do you know," the governor asked, "of any letters of credit purchased by Sherwood with your authorization?"

"Yes," Walker replied, and explained that in the winter and spring of 1930 Sherwood arranged credit letters for Mrs. Walker. "Do you know of any other letters of credit?" Mr. Roosevelt persisted.

"Yes," Walker replied. "Were any of them authorized by you?" was the governor's next question.

"They were not," the mayor answered emphatically. Seabury jumped up and called the governor's attention to the Hofstadter committee of a $7,500 check made out by Sherwood to the "unknown person" who also received letters of credit.

Walker cried "I'm testifying and he is not, but he's doing more testifying than I am."

As they shouted at each other, Walker accused Seabury of dressing up the evidence. "That's just about as true as the answers to many of the questions that have been made," Seabury shouted back.

Walker again denied authorizing the letters of credit, adding: "And may I add that person might have had charge accounts, might have bought clothes, might have bought real estate even—"

Roosevelt calmly interjected and ordered the remarks stricken from the record. Although Seabury contends Sherwood handled almost $1,000,000 for Walker, the mayor said the accountant's work for him was a courtesy of the law firm.

"Someone down there now performs the same services," Mr. Walker asserted. Shortly before the half day hearing session opened, Mrs. Walker, recuperating from an operation, collapsed at St. Mary's Catholic church while attending mass with her husband. She was quickly revived.

MINE STRIKERS AWAIT ORDERS

March on Taylorville Is Planned to Protest $5 Wage Scale

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP)—Like a city under martial law, this community of about 3,000 persons looked over far-flung barricades tonight and waited alert for the promised "march on Taylorville" of striking coal miners from Springfield and southern Illinois.

Sentinels of townspeople and farmers, armed with shotguns, pistols and farm implements, kept vigil on highways at Christian county borders. In every township vigilantes deputized by Sheriff Charles Wieneke, awaited call. Scouts toured roads outside the county.

Within the barricades of tractors, trucks and farm machinery, four big mines of the Peabody Coal company hoisted coal at capacity. More than 2,000 diggers were below today—2,000 whom the strikers seek to enlist in their movement against the new $5 wage contract.

Throughout the state opposition to the wage scale was quiet after yesterday's mass meeting at Bend. Ten thousand miners were reported to have attended and decided to remain idle until leaders determine future strategy. A policy committee was formed but its members kept their own counsel.

Twenty-two mines were reported operating today in a survey made by the Illinois Coal Operators' association and estimates placed the number of workers at 10,000 or more.

A mass meeting of strikers is scheduled at Springfield tomorrow. Leaders have announced they would decide then what would be done "about the Taylorville situation."

Nineteen states, the District of Columbia and four foreign countries are represented in the summer session enrollment at Marquette university, Milwaukee day show no signs of terminating. Mr. Curtin tonight said he would call 12 witnesses while James E. Finnegan, one of the complainants, has sent the names of 40 to the governor. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow at 10 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Jobless-Liberty Party Will Hold Meeting This Week

St. Louis, Aug. 15 (AP)—Prospects for a much smaller attendance at the Jobless-Liberty party's national convention than was predicted earlier by leaders of the group, tonight had caused state and county health officials to suspend, at least temporarily, their plans for injunction proceedings to prevent the gathering because of inadequate sanitary facilities.

Meanwhile, approximately 100 delegates had arrived for the convention, which is to open Wednesday at the Crave Coeur Lake speedway, fifteen miles west of St. Louis. About half of those who arrived wore blue shirts and overseas caps, which are the insignia of the jobless party headed by the Rev. James R. Cox, Catholic priest of St. Louis with approximately 500 of his followers.

Dr. James Stewart, state health commissioner, and Dr. L. C. Obrock, St. Louis county health commissioner, decided after a conference today with W. H. (Coin) Harvey, head of the Liberty party, that the attendance at the convention likely would not be large enough to cause a menace to public health.

Women Endurance Fliers Try Again

Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Two young matrons out to break the women's endurance flight record of 123 hours, were aloft in their "flying boudoir" tonight on the second day stretch of their test.

When they passed the 24-hour mark at 1 p. m. (EST), the fliers, Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden, dropped to 700 feet, circled the field several times and waved to the crowds. They then climbed again to cruising altitude of 1,500 feet.

Last night they dropped a note from the plane, but it was lost in the descent.

Their meals are lowered to them in a bucket from the refueling plane. It is done with increased caution now, since their first attempt ended when the bucket swung into a wing of the plane and ripped the fabric, forcing them to come down after 17 hours in the air.

The first radio contact was established late today when a microphone was lowered to the women from a plane piloted by Charles F. (Casey) Jones.

STORM DEATH TOLL NOW 30

Widespread Program of Relief Started in Texas Cities

Houston, Tex., Aug. 15 (AP)—The list of those who died in the hurricane over southern coastal Texas lengthened tonight to 30 as a widespread program of relief got well under way.

The injured numbered several hundreds; damage to two major crops, cotton and rice, exclusion of all the other destruction wrought in an area several hundred square miles in extent, was estimated authoritatively at $2,000,000.

An insulfleat' supply of food was reported at Angleton, which suffered the greatest damage. Houston relief workers promised more food immediately and arranged to send additional physicians and nurses to aid in caring for the injured.

Desolation Everywhere The local unit of the Red Cross asked for contributions of $10,000 for relief in Brazoria county. Property damage caused by the hurricane could not be estimated beyond the general knowledge that it ran into millions of dollars. Angleton, Freeport and West Columbia, all within 100 miles of Houston, suffered most but several surrounding towns also were hard hit.

Everywhere were stories of lost homes, lost investments, lost relatives. An Angleton, the relief center improvised in a community hall, one of the few buildings left undamaged, was so crowded physicians planned to send the more seriously injured to Houston. Freeport was in desperate straits and there, too, as in West Columbia, the list of the injured was long.

In Wharton and Brazoria counties, fields that were white with cotton before the storm lay beaten and devastated today. Rice that had been cut and stacked was strewn over the countryside, rained out and worthless.

Suspect Sabotage In Thresher Fire

Hillsdale, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP)—The second instance of suspected sabotage within a week in Hillsdale county occurred late today when fire destroyed the threshing outfit of John Older. A barn on the farm of George Arno, where the threshers were at work, also was destroyed.

Last week two charges of dynamite exploded during the night time wrecking another threshing outfit.

Farmers and harvester men profess to know of no reason why Hillsdale county should be involved in similar deprivations which have occurred in Monroe county, but all are on their guard.

Today's fire started near the center of a straw stack and is believed to have been caused by matches placed in the stacks of grain before they passed through the separator. Older and Orson Easterday, an employe, were painfully burned attempting to save the machinery.

Facts On Figures Given Rotarians

By Lee McGinley

Lee McGinley, of Marquette, chairman of the Michigan state board of accountancy, yesterday told members of the Escanaba Rotary club how to properly analyze a balance sheet and profit and loss statement, in an address that was filled with interesting facts. Yesterday's meeting of the Rotary club was held at Peterson's tea room, at Ford River and Mr. McGinley's address, following the serving of a most excellent luncheon, came as a climax to one of the club's most delightful sessions of the year.

Mr. McGinley reviewed the history of accountancy, showing it to be one of the oldest of the professions and ranking in importance with medicine and law. He reviewed a list of questions often asked of accountants and in this manner placed before his hearers a fund of interesting information. In instructing his audience on how to properly analyze a balance sheet, Mr. McGinley called attention to particular items that should be compared, to prove the truth and reliability of the statement, making his address both interesting and instructive.

THEATRES

Jean Harlow, of the famed platinum-blond tresses, offers a surprise to filmgoers in her latest screen role, as the heroine of "Red Headed Woman," opening today at the Delft theatre.

In order to play the title-role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the sensational Katharine Brush best-seller, Miss Harlow was required to change her hair to a flaming red, a change which is reported to make quite a difference in her appearance and personality.

"Red Headed Woman" presents a vivid character study of a woman who stops at nothing to gain her unscrupulous ends. Starting out as a stenographer, with her only weapons a generous supply of sex-appeal and an overwhelming ambition for wealth and social prestige, she ends up with her hands on a title and its accompanying millions. In her wake, however, she leaves a trail of broken hearts, disrupted homes and disillusioned men.

The story is said to give Miss Harlow the greatest acting opportunity of her career. That the film version also has its share of humor is guaranteed by the fact that the novel was adapted to the screen by Anita Loos, author of that side-splitting satire, "Cecilia Sorel." "Red Headed Woman" was directed by Jack Conway, responsible for many William Haines comedy hits, as well as the Barry

DOGS PROVIDE THRILLS

On the platform is seen the famous high jumping German police dog, "Old Trusty." "Old Trusty" made the top in one big leap and is watching for the outcome of his opponent's efforts. These dogs are a part of Prof. Perli Fink's Animal Circus at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, where they will perform afternoons and nights before the grandstand, August 22-27.

Fink's Animals is one of the standard acts of the show business having played at the leading state fairs of the country and on the "big time" vaudeville circuits for many years. Fink's act is especially arranged to afford the children a lot of clean fun and excitement, and there is always something of interest in the performances for the older folk.

LOW BID GETS FOOD CONTRACT

Escanaba Council Backs Community Canning, Buys Wood Lot

City food orders for the next four weeks ending Sept. 12 will be filled by Charles Gafner, who operates stores at 1130 Stephenson and 1127 Washington. His bid was the lowest of eight submitted to the Escanaba city council by local merchants, and the welfare department contract was awarded to him. At the end of the four week period, bids will again be asked.

The council on Monday approved the purchase of two forty-two acre woodlot about three miles from the city on the Danforth road. The timber is available to unemployed men on the welfare list who wish to cut their own supply of fuel for the winter, and the wood will be hauled out by the city. The price paid by the city for the woodlot was $65. Cutting is getting under way this week.

Support of the community canning project inaugurated by local sectarian and non-sectarian organizations was voted by the council yesterday. The city will provide gas and water used in the canning of surplus vegetables and fruit, and will take care of the trucking and transportation of materials.

In addition, the council authorized the purchase of additional fruits and vegetables as needed from the remaining stocks of farmers and growers from Delta county who come to the municipal market on Wednesday. This buying will be done on Wednesday only, as the Saturday market is too late in the week to permit canning immediately without spoilage. Apples will be one of the items which the city plans to buy from farmers, but all fruits and vegetables purchased must be Delta county grown.

Shawano Brewery Raided by Feds

Shawano, Wis. (AP)—The Farmers' brewery, which has been in operation here under government permit since the advent of prohibition, was raided and seized Friday night by Milwaukee prohibition agents, acting on instructions from W. Frank Cunningham, deputy prohibition administrator.

Conrad Vollant, president, and seven others were arrested, and were lodged in jail overnight and were arraigned Saturday.

Those arrested with Vollant are William Bohn, Charles Marohl, Robert Behnke, Louis Kroeske, Robert Habeck, and William Habeck, all brewery employes, and Walter Miller of Green Bay, a truck driver.

The raiding agents said a search of Miller's truck revealed 27 half barrels of "high powered beer."

Vollant was arrested while loading cartons of bottled beer into an automobile. The other men were working in a bottling room in the rear of the brewery.

The agents took possession of the brewery building and all stock. They estimated there were 335 barrels of beer in stock.

The seizure was the first in several years in Wisconsin involving a permit brewery.

WETS MAY BUNGL

NO matter how much the extremists wets might criticize it, President Hoover's proposal for the solution of the Prohibition problem appears as the one that has the best opportunity of being enacted into law.

The president, in his acceptance speech, expressed his belief that there should be a change, and declared that he favored leaving the matter of liquor control to the states. The president insists, however, that there should be federal protection, in those states where prohibition exists, against the invasion of the liquor traffic, and that he stands unalterably opposed to the reestablishment of the saloon anywhere in the United States.

The view of the extreme wets, on the other hand, is that the entire liquor problem should be left to the states. They would also leave it to the states to decide whether the saloon should return.

Admittedly, there is ground for objection against the continuance of the federal force of snipers after the repeal of the 18th amendment because of the heavy cost to the taxpayers. But there is a large percentage of the population in this country who is opposed to the saloon. They will want to see that the proper safeguards are set up against its return before they will vote for repeal of the 18th amendment.

As a matter of practical politics the wets should readily accept the Hoover plan as the easiest way toward a change of the Prohibition system. The wets should not become overcautious and greedy, for an "all or none" policy might delay the realization of their hopes for many years to come. They should not make the mistake of the dyes, who when they realized that the public was becoming more temperate and aroused by the abuses of the saloon proceeded to enact national prohibition. There is danger in trying to make things too perfect.

President Hoover's plan represents the view of the conservative wets, who are opposed to the saloon and the bootlegger. At this stage, it is the only one that has any chance of enactment. As Senator Ashurst told the wets in a Senate debate, it is very doubtful whether it would be possible to secure a two-thirds of either house to vote for bare flat repeal of the 18th amendment unless protection is offered the dry states. Even if Congress should vote for repeal, the refusal of only 13 states to ratify would block such change.

FAIR ALMOST HERE

THE Upper Peninsula State Fair, greatest outdoor entertainment attraction of this northern section of the state, will be in full swing next week.

If you have any friends or relatives who are planning to visit here, why not try to induce them to come during fair week? Your problem of entertaining them will be solved by merely taking them to the fair.

It is inexpensive entertainment, too. Admittance to the fairgrounds will be free on the opening day, offering the families of unemployed an opportunity to have a full day of enjoyment without cost.

Depression or not, the state fair in Escanaba will be just as good, if not better, than ever. Write your out-of-town folks to come and visit you next week. They will surely enjoy their visit.

MUST HELP SELVES

ADOPTION of regulations governing the use of the municipal woodlot, recently established in the Danforth community by the city of Escanaba, discloses that the members of the city council are strong believers in the ancient maxim that "God helps those who help themselves."

Work on the woodlot will start this week. The council is getting the project under way early this year so that the unemployed will have sufficient time to get their wood and have it dry before winter sets in. All the able-bodied unemployed have been urged to avail themselves of the woodlot privilege, and accompanying this notice is a warning that those who do not comply need not call upon the city welfare department for fuel next winter. And that is how it should be.

A SOUND PROPOSAL

MR. LANDERS, of Gogebic, candidate for nomination for the senate from the 31st district, gives his hearty endorsement to the proposal, made from time to time, that all inspection duties now carried on by agents of the several departments be placed with the state police. He believes that if this plan were made effective several hundred thousands of dollars would be saved by reduction in personnel that really has little to do except put in time and that has been created largely that the powers that be of the hour might have at hand a force of state paid agents to do their political chores for them.

We agree with Mr. Landers. The state police is the logical agency for all inspection work. Its duties carries it all over the state. It is a businesslike and well directed body. It keeps its hands off politics. It could do for dimes inspection work that now costs dollars, and do it better. The state would be ahead by all the money that the new plan would save. The only ones that would be out would be the politicians, who would henceforth have to do their own chores. And they would not be out as much as they would think they were. For the inspectors and minor officials who mill around the state have, as a matter of fact, little political influence, and in the long run probably lose as many votes for those who employ them as they gain.

Over a decade there has been an increase in the state payroll all out of proportion to the increase in the state's business. This is not an assumption. It is a fact borne out by the figures on employment. The payroll was given a great boost under Governor Green, a kindly man who hated to say no to anyone. It has not been materially reduced the past two years. It abounds in dead wood. Little of this deadwood was reached by the economy program approved in the special session. It should be subjected to a merciless cutting out.

The excess payroll is not only bad in itself, it is evidence of expenditure even greater than the amount of the payroll. For when bus inspectors, oil inspectors and inspectors of this and that are careening about the state they are wearing out automobiles bought by the state, burning up gasoline bought by the state, consuming beefsteaks and occupying hotel room ultimately paid for by the state.

If the taxpayer gets his due we are only at the beginning of reduction in state costs. If he gets his due the plan outlined by Mr. Landers will help appreciably to permit him to get it.—Iron Mountain News.

CANADIANS ATTACK

On Aug. 16, 1918, French and Canadian troops attacked German positions on an eight-mile front from a point west of Fransart to Lancourt. Their net advance for the day averaged more than two miles and more than 2000 prisoners were taken.

In the Lys salient, British forces advanced from one to two miles on a nine-mile front, meeting little opposition. Allied experts learned that Ludendorff had decided to retire to the Hindenburg line, some 20 miles to the rear.

General Pershing notified the state department that a complete squadron of 18 American-built and manned planes had completed their first trip over the German lines.

CHAPTER XXIII

THE Townsend limousine arrived at Lottie's apartment promptly at 10 o'clock. It remained there waiting until well after 11 because Mona and Lottie had set out at 9:30 to shop. On the list were shoes, hose, gloves, purse and even a rose-point handkerchief.

Lottie's suit, donned with much twirling and twisting before the mirror, had been pronounced exactly right for Mona. Both girls agreed that it was far better than a new one, hastily selected and not fitted properly.

Lottie selected a blouse to go with it. "You look simply adorable!" she told Mona as she tucked a stray lock carefully beneath the new blue hat. "That suit might have been made for you. It fits you exactly as well as it does me."

"It's sweet of you, Lottie, to take all this trouble—"

"No trouble at all, honey! I never dreamed I'd be lending my wardrobe to a bride for a swell wedding!"

"I can't exactly the way I'd thought of marrying Barry," Mona said wistfully. "His uncle sending the car and me dashing out at the last minute to buy a bridal outfit."

Lottie smiled. "I know what you're thinking about," she said. "White satin—church aisles—Kitty and Kathleen teasing rose petals and your Ma weeping fit to kill."

"Ma ought to be there, though," Lottie said slowly. "I just can't understand it, Lottie. I mean this rush and everything—"

"I know, dear," Lottie's voice was sober. "The main thing is"

you're going to marry Barry."

She surveyed Mona approvingly, then dropped to her knees and busied herself with the hem of the skirt. "You say they're opening accounts for you," she went on, rinsing and scowling at the refractory hem. "And you're not even going to live at Twilanda. Wonder why?"

"I'm to spend the year—or most of it except the hot months—at the town house," Mona repeated patiently.

"Learning to be a lady I suppose! Using the right fork. Which sauce to order with the fish. Learning to be a credit to the Townsend family—"

"Wait, I've a lot to learn," observed Mona. "And I do want to be a credit to them!"

"What I mean is this," the other girl interrupted. "When you get back right after the ceremony you're going to find time heavy on your hands. No job, no house work. Just time to kill. Well, suppose we step out and buy your clothes together. Maybe I dress like a vamp myself but I know what the well-dressed young 3rd street wife should wear. That will take up part of your time. Of course I'll be as busy as a bee myself but I can get off now and then."

"Busy as which bee?" asked Mona, wrinkling her nose, her disturbing thoughts for a moment forgotten.

LOTTIE was wringing into the sleeves of her coat. "The one that hangs around the hive and doesn't work, maybe," she answered. "Still, that's not fair, Min. I did work every day this week."

"And earned twice what they paid you," Mona said promptly. "Do you have everything?"

Lottie paused at the door to ask. "Take a last look at this place, Miss Moran. Maybe Mrs. Townsend won't be able to get here often."

"Don't be like that!" Mona's voice was distressed. "You know I'll always keep all my old friends."

Lottie slammed the door shut, tried to make sure of the lock and tossed the key into her purse.

It was a trim little bride whom Jackson, the chauffeur, saluted before he opened the door of the car with a low bow. Privately Jackson decided that the other young lady was decidedly attractive too. The chauffeur, thinking of his own happy but frowny little wife back in the country, sighed.

The car glided up Seventh avenue to the park. "I've got an idea!" Lottie announced suddenly. Staying protests with a smoothly gloved hand, she leaned forward.

"Jackson," she called through the window which she had opened, ignoring the speaking tube. "Has Mr. Saccarelli's yellow roadster been at Twilanda lately? He's a friend of mine. I thought maybe I'd see him today."

"The yellow roadster?" Jackson thought a moment. "Yes, miss. The yellow roadster was here yesterday. Not at the garage because Mr. Steve never bothers to drive to the garage. I saw the roadster last night parked by the hedge."

Lottie surveyed Mona triumphantly. "Was it there this morning, Jackson? Is Mr. Steve staying over for the wedding? You've heard about the wedding, I suppose?"

Who indeed in the Townsend employ had not heard about the wedding? But Jackson's reply was circumspet. "Begging your pardon, Miss, about the roadster I could not say. I left early to do some errands for Mr. Townsend."

"You didn't see it then beside the hedge this morning?"

Jackson smiled. "Mr. Steve used it last night. That's all I know. I saw him get into it when I drove the doctor to the station. That's the only time I saw it of course," apologetically. "Mr. Steve never parks it twice in the same place."

"And Twilanda is full of parking places, isn't it?" offered Lottie. She was jubilant. This meant, of course, that Steve would be there. He'd be best man, most likely and she maid of honor—or whatever you could call it when the wedding takes place in a sick room.

THEY rode now in silence. The sun was shining and spring was in the air. A tender haze of green GAL 2—LOVE OR MON filled the distant fields and finally the dim outlines of Twilanda raised above the sheltering branches across the valley.

Lottie craned her neck as the car entered the gate but failed to spy Steve's car.

"Listen, honey," she whispered

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

(Copyright 1932 by Douglas Malloch)

THE LIFE THAT LIVES
 I would not have my life forever laughter,
 I would not have the fields forever sun.
 A little rain will make them lovelier after,
 A little sadness life a sweeter one.
 I do not envy those who live so lightly
 Life is a fantasy, a futile smile.
 I know the sun tomorrow shines more brightly
 For those who know the shadows for awhile.

I would not have my life a brook forever,
 That bubbles by and never turns a wheel.
 We must be something more than merely clever.
 Yes, now and then the river's depth reveals.
 For there are burdens to be borne by waters,
 Logs to the mill, and cargoes to the sea,
 And there are burdens for God's sons and daughters—
 They have not lived who live not usefully.

No, I would have my life a little labor,
 A little laughter, and a little pain,
 Live not for self, but also serve my neighbor,
 And for the sake of roses know the rain.
 I would not run forever over shallows,
 Would know the depths, and comprehend the skies:
 The life that lives, the happiness that hallows,
 Must weep to smile, must even fall to rise.

Jimmy appeared at the door, his face beaming. "Mr. Garretson will be down directly, Miss," he told Mona. "I wish you much happiness, Miss, if I may be so bold." He turned to the stairway and, bowing, pointed the way into the drawing room.

The room was empty. From a drawer in a table the butler drew out a package. It was a long, flat jeweler's box. "Mr. Steve asked me to give you this, Miss," he said. "Privately, Miss. He said you would understand."

"Mr. Steve!" Lottie exclaimed. "He's here?"

Jimmy shook his head. "No, Miss. He's gone. But he asked me to deliver the package before the wedding, Miss."

Lottie turned in dismay to Mona who stood with the open jewel case in her hand. It was the necklace and Mona had promised to wear it on her wedding day.

Mechanically she slipped the thin chain of diamonds about her neck and fastened the clasp.

"Gone!" Lottie repeated. "You mean Steve didn't want to stay for the wedding, Jimmy?"

"Hardly, I think, Miss. You see—"

JOBLESS PARTY MOVES TO WEST

Father Cox Expects Million to Rally for Convention

BY ROBERT TALLEY
(NEA Service Writer)

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The man who hopes to become the leader of the nation's jobless millions and lead a political revolution at the polls in November, which he says is the only chance for the United States to escape overthrow by Communism next winter, told today of his aims and plans.

He is the Rev. Fr. James R. Cox, Pittsburgh's aggressive Roman Catholic priest and "Shepherd of the Jobless," who aspires to become the presidential candidate of his "National Liberty Party," which will hold its national convention at St. Louis on Aug. 17 and 18.

Father Cox, who led 20,000 unemployed men in an orderly march on Washington last winter to ask congress for relief legislation, de-

NEED LOTS OF FOOD FOR JOBLESS PARTY

St. Louis (NEA)—Not as optimistic as Father James R. Cox of Pittsburgh who predicts "a million men" will rally to the National Liberty Party's convention near here, N. G. Bayster of Pittsburgh estimates an attendance of 50,000.

Bayster, who came here to make advance arrangements, said the following would be needed for feeding the delegates:

One million loaves of bread, 20 tons of meat, 250,000 hot dogs, 1,500,000 cups of coffee, 7,500 quarts of milk and more than a million bottles of soda pop.

clears he expects one million men to attend his newly-organized political party's convention at St. Louis. They will come, he said, from every state in the Union.

"America has reached the end of an economic era," Father Cox said in explaining his movement. "The abuses of capitalism have made it necessary that we change the whole administration of business and politics in the United States. Under the Republican and Democratic parties, which are the same, business and politics have been one, with Wall Street as the dictator. The result is that millions now are jobless and hungry."

"Unless we find a way to control capitalism and end the appalling suffering among our people, we are headed straight for a Communist revolution of violent means. We can avoid this with a political revolution at the ballot box which will restore our government to the people."

"What principles will win in America: those of the Soviets and Communists, or the principles of our forefathers? Shall government control capitalism, or shall capitalism control government? That is the issue."

A less aggressive man than Pittsburgh's ruddy-faced Irish priest might be appalled by the difficulties of building a national political party from the ground up and getting elected, but Father Cox apparently is firm in his belief that he has a good chance of being chosen president.

He declares there are 17,000,000 unemployed in the United States today, and he looks to them for political support. He says that his "National Liberty Party," or "Blue Shirts" as the group is sometimes called, is now organized in every state in local units of 50 men each. On this basis he makes his estimate that "one million men" will attend the St. Louis convention.

Barred from meeting within the city limits of St. Louis by official objection, the convention will be held at Creve Coeur Lake Park, an auto speedway in St. Louis county. All sessions will be held in the open air.

Problems of water supply and sanitation are the chief worries of both state and county officials and there is a possibility of intervention by the state health commission if conditions are not satisfactory.

"We haven't got a dime for expense, we are not asking a penny from charity organizations and there'll be nothing free," Father Cox said in giving the plans for his unique convention.

"Thousands of groups of delegates will come by autos and trucks from all over the United States. Will charge them 50 cents a day for parking space, and raise the money for general expenses that way. Their own expenses, they will bear themselves."

"Concession stands will be erected to sell them food at reasonable prices and they can camp in the open. There will be no begging, not one dime will be asked for gasoline or anything else. Our organization has no money, and if anybody gets stranded that's just going to be his own hard luck.

"We plan no permanent camp there, such as in Washington or in Johnston. Our convention won't last more than two days and when it's over everybody will go home."

With complete confidence, Father Cox said he expected to lead a "delegation of 50,000" from Pittsburgh to the St. Louis meeting.

Most of this party, he said, would travel by auto and truck, spending the first night at Columbus, Ohio, and the second night at Elyria, Ill., in case they did not reach St. Louis on the second day.

Father Cox believes capitalism, as a system, has failed and that some party must save the United States from utter wreck. He contends that the Republican and Democratic parties are creatures of capitalism. He sees his "Liberty Party" of the jobless as the way out of the crisis.

Here, in brief, are highlights in his platform:

1. Government control of banks—"The government ought to control the banks, just as it controls the army and navy. Money is more powerful than the army and navy put together. Why should the government print money and then turn it over to private bankers to profit by?"
2. Immediate payment of the soldier bonus—"There is nothing in our history to compare with Hoover's eviction of the B. E. F. from Washington at the point of bayonets. It is terrible to think that our soldiers of today were turned against our heroes of yesterday."
3. Conservation of wealth—"In times of national emergency" like conscription of man-power in times of war. He points to the concentration of vast wealth into the hands of a few men, while count-
4. Federal old age pensions, federal unemployment insurance, abolition of labor injunctions.
5. Cancellation of war debts, but the extension of no more loans to Europe.
6. Abolition of all traffic restrictions, free trade in all commodities.
7. Public ownership of public utilities and other natural resources.
8. Prohibition—"Why all this smoke screen about liquor? We promise the people jobs, and jobs are more important right now than liquor."
9. "I know the moneyed class puts the tags of radicalism and Communism on me," Father Cox says, "but they do that with everyone who wants change and justice and equality for the masses."
10. "I don't care. I am going out in the St. Louis convention to make the fight. I am going to tell the truth and then if they want me as their candidate for president, I am willing to make the fight. If they prefer somebody else, that's all right with me."

Father Cox is not reticent in giving his views of Hoover or Roosevelt.

Of Hoover, he says: "He typifies the Old Guard in everything that is worst in business and in politics."

Of Roosevelt, he says: "He is a 'weak' leader. Also, his party is so much like the Republicans that we can't expect any relief from him."

Brothers Planning Summer Boat Trip On Lake Superior

The Corryell brothers, Edwin and Elliott, of Birmingham, Michigan, are used to making long trips by boats of various sorts and sizes, having been spending their vacation periods from the nursery business in this manner. This year they will do the same and will start out about August 21 on a 700 mile trip around the shores of Lake Superior.

They spent much of their summers at Deer Park coast guard station on the north shore of Luce county. Two years ago they purchased from the government a coast guard sloop of 26 foot beam. In this they have installed a 50 h. p. motor and a mast with jib and mainsail. They used this boat for the trip last summer, covering a part of the same route they have planned for this year.

Leaving Deer Park they plan to head across the lake for Caribou Island and then on to Michipicoten, then on a Nipigon Bay, stopping at St. Ignace Isle. They will then turn south again stopping at Isle Royale for a few days, then to Keewawan Point, Copper Harbor, Marquette, Munising and home again. They will have a better story to tell upon their return they say. Last year, on August 25, they weathered a bad storm in Michipicoten Harbor when several other boats, anchored there, were washed ashore and damaged. They also had engine trouble, the magneto cutting up in the worst possible places. This year they have added the sails, and believe that they will be a great help in holding the masts steady if the engine should misbehave again.

Every day in Christmas as far as surprise packages are concerned. The boys stow their canned goods below decks where they are washed with the bilge waters and the labels all come off. So when they boil a kettle of spuds they drop in a can or so to heat through and never know until it is opened just what they will have for the meal. It may be "gold fish" and it may be beans, but anything fills up and they are not particular about the menu.

A short trip of a few days was started on Sunday afternoon, taking three guests with them. They left for Whitefish Point and will visit Copper Mine Point and explore the rocky mouth of Montreal River.

The post voted to defray the transportation expenses of one delegate to the state convention in Kalamazoo next week, and at that convention to present an invitation for the state convention at Escanaba in 1934. A delegation from the Gladstone Legion post present at the meeting pledged support for this proposal, and for the candidacy of T. F. Kessler of Escanaba, who has been nominated for state vice commander, Charlevoix is bidding for the 1933 state convention.

At the close of the business session, the assembled veterans heard a talk by Joseph P. Murphy of Petoskey, well known Legion worker, who is a candidate for congress from the 11th District. Mr. Murphy called attention to the objectives for which the Legion exists and the service their community and fellow men. He stated his platform briefly, declaring openly for the repeal of the 18th amendment by resubmission and the immediate cash payment of the soldier's bonus. A vote previously taken on this matter at the meeting as a guide for delegates to the state Legion convention showed 51 in favor of payment and 7 opposed.

Marinette Resident Takes His Own Life

Marinette, Wis.—The body of the man found floating in the Menominee river near the log piles at the Park mill Friday afternoon was identified Friday night as that of Peter Ruberg, 59, of 307 Bird street, East Marinette, who had been missing since Monday. The identification was made first through a hat, then through a scar on his left leg, and finally through a missing big toe on his right foot.

Coroner Ed A. Anderson of Marinette pronounced the death as a suicide following the investigation by himself, Chief of Police Fred A. Schultz, and Sheriff Lester R. Lindsay. The body had been found floating with a wire around the neck and weighted with a stone.

According to the officers, Ruberg last Monday went down to the river to attempt suicide with a razor but either lost his nerve or failed to inflict a fatal wound. When he came home for lunch at noon, his little daughter noticed some blood on his shirt and then the cut on his neck and asked about it. Her father told her to "mind your own business." He refused to eat anything and left about 12:30 p. m. Monday when he was last seen alive by the family.

Mrs. Ruberg notified the sheriff's office when he failed to return, but Sheriff Lindsay was up in the county when the body was found Friday afternoon and it wasn't until his return that it was learned that Ruberg had disappeared and his connection with the case.

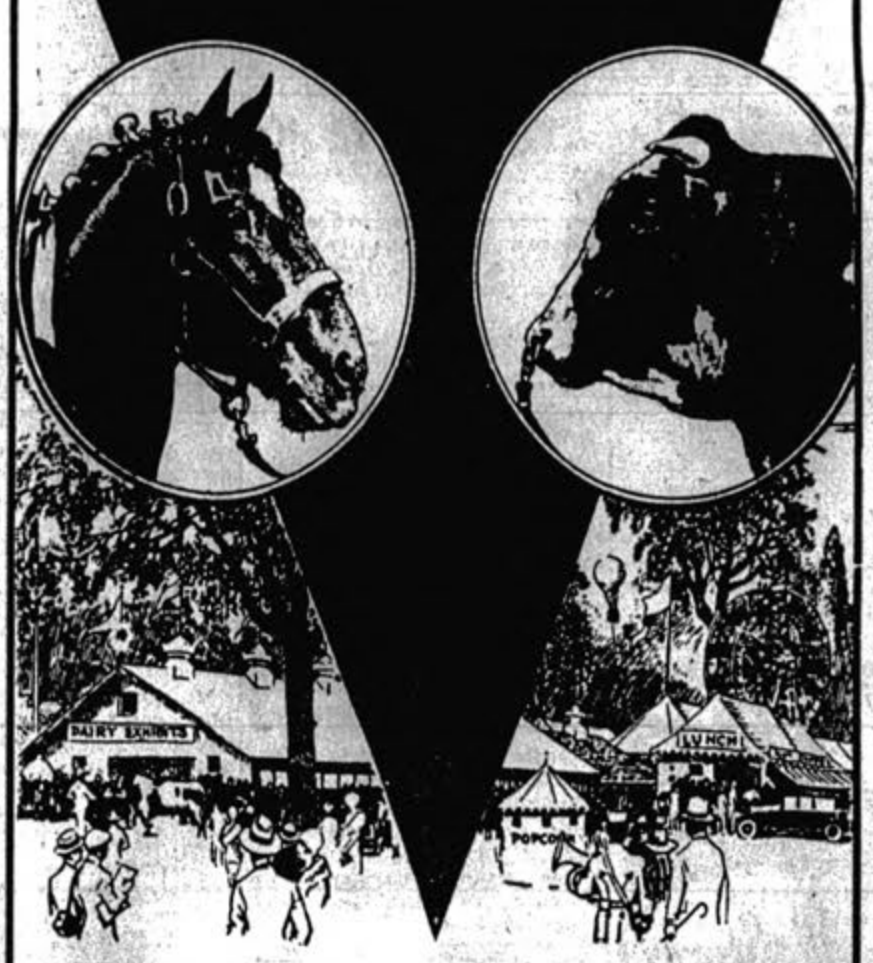

Hat, Jacket Found
Earlier last week a hat and over-all jacket had been found about two blocks up-river from where the body was found Friday. The hat had been traced through a clean-

Planned Garden
Yields Food for Winter Larders

BY W. R. BEATTIE
Senior Horticulturist, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

We get plenty of advice about how to can garden vegetables for winter use, but very little is said about growing special, high-grade products for home canning. Too often we are advised to use the surplus, while as a matter of fact we should can the best of the crop of tomatoes or corn and employ the surplus for immediate use while it is fresh.

This year many people are putting up a generous surplus over their own needs, planning to help the less fortunate. With that in mind it is a good idea for every gardener, except those in the extreme northern section, who contemplate the canning of any vegetables for winter use to make plantings of beans, sweet corn and tomatoes primarily for canning and then use the choicest of the crop for eating.

Corn for Canning

Sweet corn that is planted rather late in the season, and which matures only a short time before frost, often makes the best and sweetest corn for canning. The same is true of snap beans. However, early spring planted snap beans often produce crops of very tender and brittle pods that are suitable for canning. Tomatoes are at their best for canning right at the height of their season. This may be the peak of the early crop or it may be a late crop, but the late crop should be canned before the fruits begin to grow small or watery.

Peas for canning should be grown early in the season while the weather is cool and there is plenty of moisture in the soil. Occasionally fairly good crops of peas can be grown in the fall by sowing the seed about six weeks before the time for the first killing frost.

Spinach for first canning may also be planted six or eight weeks before frost, and if the weather is favorable the crop will be ready for canning in a couple of weeks after the early frost. Spinach is seldom injured by a frost that will kill tender plants like tomatoes and beans, but it should be in the cans before

Grow them in your own garden and then can them . . . vegetables put up for the winter have a taste all their own, and save the pocket-book.

Not So Good

Beets and carrots are not worth much as canned vegetables unless they are canned while they are young and tender. For that reason it is wise to can the early crop or make special plantings so as to have a supply of tender roots to can later. The trouble sometimes comes in getting a stand of beets or carrots during July or August. At that time the soil is hot and very often too dry for the seeds to germinate readily.

First prepare the ground and roll or drag it until the soil is fairly firm and compact. After sowing the seeds, firm the soil fairly well over them to form a moisture contact and prevent their drying out. Strips of burlap or old muslin laid over the rows and kept moistened will help to bring the seed up, but any covering must be removed before the seedlings break through. Boards laid over the rows will serve the same purpose, but like the cloth must be removed before the plants reach the surface. Frequent sprinkling with water will usually bring the plants through, but watering is likely to form a crust over the surface.

Mrs. L. Sanders of Gladstone: String Beans

Select tender string beans. String and cut into two inch lengths. Wash and drain. Then weigh: Use one-fourth pound of salt to each pound of beans. Blanch beans in boiling water for five minutes. Dip into cold water one minute. Have sterilized jars with rings and covers ready. Put a layer of beans in the bottom of the jar, then a layer of salt and so until the jar is filled, having a layer of salt for the top. Tamp each layer down as added with a wooden spoon or masher. Grease the rubber ring to prevent salt from coming through and then seal as when canning fruit.

If a crock is used, cover the top with one inch of melted paraffin as a seal. Cover with double cheese cloth if a wooden keg is used, proceed in the same manner as for the jars, but before covering with cheese cloth, add four gallons of boiled water with eight cups of salt dissolved in it and weigh beans down with a heavy plate or some such weight.

To use, wash in clear water and soak a while in cold water to remove surplus salt and use the same as fresh vegetables.

Corn is cut from cobs and preserved in the same manner. This process is also effective in preserving chard and spinach.

"Greeter" Gaw's White Car Gives Aviatrix A Scare
Chicago (AP)—"Greeter" Gaw may have to put some stripes on that all-white motorcar he uses in officially welcoming celebrities to Chicago.

Ruth Nichols, the aviatrix, confesses she had a few fearful moments on her last visit to the Windy city. Circling over the airport, she saw what appeared to be an ambulance, waiting for her. She feared ground observers had noticed a wheel missing from her plane, or something, and had the ambulance ready in case a ground-loop resulted.

But it was only Greeter Gaw's white motor car and the Greeter himself, decked out in white like a well-dressed interne.

The Hoovers had a hand in it. To Poland in 1919, Herbert Hoover sent Stanford professor Vernon Kellogg as food administrator. Mrs. Kellogg actually understands the Polish coridor.

There's a new Quaker church near the old Hoover home on S street, partial expression of the energetic devotion of fellow friend, Mrs. Wolcott, Smithsonian scientist, cataloguer and painter of wild flowers.

Another S street neighbor, tall, slender, entertaining, is Mrs. Miller, sharing Mrs. Hoover's interest in music.

START FINAL VOTER DRIVE

10 Percent of Gladstone Electors Not Yet Registered

A final drive for registrations for the primary election on Sept. 13, will start today. When Special Registration Clerk D. J. Calder will return to the first ward, to enroll the voters who are not yet listed on the records. For two days, today and Wednesday, Mr. Calder will be at the first ward school. Previously a week was spent in the first ward and at that time approximately 90 per cent of the voters were registered. It is for the other ten per cent that the special registration is now being held.

On Thursday morning Mr. Calder will go to the fourth ward to remain the rest of the week. The voting booth on 16th street, between Wisconsin and Michigan will be the place of registration. For the second and third wards, special registrations will be held during the week Aug. 29-Sept. 3.

The hours at which special registrations will be received have been set as follows: 9 to 12 each morning, 1 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8 to 5 each evening. Under the law the voters may appear at the city hall to register at any time between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. on August 24. Voters from all wards are privileged to register at the office of the city clerk on that date. Owing to congestion that may result from such general registration, the city advises voters to take advantage of the special arrangements.

According to Mr. Calder a total of 1600 voters are enrolled up to the present time. This is approximately 90 per cent of the anticipated registration. Under the new election laws it is mandatory that all voters in cities or townships with more than 5000 population shall be re-registered. Failure to comply with the provisions of the law will deprive a person from voting at the primaries on Sept. 13. Only those who have been absent from the city during the period of registration will be permitted to swear in their vote and register on election day.

A number of Gladstone residents, who have voted for years on the presumption that they were citizens, have been unable to find evidence of their citizenship and will be deprived of the privilege of voting.

Menominee Youths Admit Thefts Here

Joseph and Clarence Linsmeier, Menominee youths, who are serving a 30 day sentence in the county jail at Manistique for the stealing of a car, will probably make the acquaintance of the Delta county jail after they have finished their present term. Both Escanaba and Gladstone police have warrants for their arrest and will likely be waiting at the gate when the boys are released from the Schoolcraft jail.

The charges brought against the boys by the police of the Delta cities are similar to the charge under which they were sentenced in Manistique. In Escanaba, they are alleged to have taken a trailer and tires from a car, besides stealing gas from auto tanks.

In Gladstone the warrant is based on the theft of a tire from James Mackie and a purse and several items of cosmetics taken from the Dehlin drug store. The thefts were admitted and the stolen items have been returned.

It is believed by police that the Linsmeiers have knowledge of the theft and stripping of the Gabrielson car at Kipling, but no admission would be made by the youths when questioned.

STATE ECONOMY GARNEY PLEDGE

Democratic Candidate for Governor Speaks to 250 Last Night

Claude S. Garney, Kalamazoo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Michigan, declared for a reduction on expenditures for the state government through the "elimination of useless office holders and curtailment of governmental activities" in an appeal for the support of Delta county voters at a meeting in the Legion hall, Gladstone, last night. A crowd estimated at 250 was present at the meeting.

Mr. Garney, a declared republican, drew a comparison between the Democratic and Republican stand on prohibition and pointed to the declaration of President Hoover as no less a straddle than the plank in the Republican platform. "The Democratic position," he said, "leaves no one in doubt."

"Extravagance in state government," he said, "is responsible for the deficit of $12,000,000.00 now existing in the general fund, the extravagance of the federal government, under the direction of President Hoover, has built up a deficit of $4,000,000,000.00 in the federal treasury. These deficits can be wiped out by economy of administration. Roosevelt has pledged himself to economy in federal affairs and should I become governor I pledge me every effort to drastic curtailment within the state."

Mr. Garney is making a tour of the upper peninsula counties in the interest of his campaign. From Gladstone he will go to the Iron counties where he will spend the remainder of the week.

Pertinent Comment

With the election in the offing and the campaign just getting under way, alignments are being formed in which friends of long standing may be separated. This separation may not disrupt the friendship that has been formed, it should be borne in mind that taking politics too seriously is no better than entirely ignoring the responsibility of citizenship.

It is wisdom to avoid political argument, unless that argument can be kept on a friendly plane and carried on in jest. Nothing is gained by arguing and much may be lost. Friendships should not be jeopardized by engaging in a useless battle of wits, from which neither could emerge a victor.

Every man and every woman is entitled to his or her political opinion. It is their privilege to vote for whom they please and to think what they please of the candidates and their programs.

Insistence that any political party or party candidate is without fault is foolish. Each has faults and each has virtues.

To become so prejudiced in favor of or against candidates as to refuse to recognize that there are two sides to the question is disastrous to friendships, to business and to the peace of mind of the individual.

Will Not Hurt U. P.
Iron Mountain—The upper peninsula need have no fear that the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway will be injurious to the iron ore industry, according to a statement received today by The News from United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Grand Rapids.

The senator issued his statement to offset claims that construction of the waterway would enable the importation of iron ore at prices below that of Michigan iron ore. On the contrary, he said, if there is competition of this nature tariff protection will be given, while at the same time the general benefits of the waterway will be felt throughout the state.

"Michigan is calculated to be its chief beneficiary because Michigan has the longest water line of any state in the union and therefore the greatest potential seaway utility," the senator said.

CUP TOURNEY BEING PLAYED

Clayton Burrell, Bob Giffon Tie For Low Qualifying Score

A red hot battle is looked for in the Indian Lake Championship Cup tournament as the match play gets under way this week. Drawings for the tourney were made at the clubhouse Sunday afternoon by Miss Mary Robbins, of Ishpeming, following the last of the qualifying rounds. Clayton Burrell and Bob Giffon tied for low medal among the qualifiers. The pairings in the two flights are as follows:

Club Championship
Ben Gero, Jr., vs. S. O. Crowe; Bill Heitman vs. J. C. Wood; Clayton Burrell vs. Bob Giffon; A. F. Hall vs. Boyd Bolitho; Gus Ekstrom vs. J. J. Herbert; Guy Burrell vs. Benjamin Gero, Sr.; C. L. Smith vs. R. L. Price; and T. H. Mulrooney vs. Doc Hudson.

First Flight
George Brusie vs. R. G. Hentschell; T. H. Bolitho vs. J. J. Munger; W. S. Crowe vs. H. A. Cockram; Tony Busch vs. A. J. Cayia.

The regular club championship cup, now held by Ben Gero, Jr., will go to the winner in the club championship flight. Local merchants are donating valuable and attractive prizes for the runner-up in this division, winner and runner-up in the first flights, and also prizes for the winners and runners-up in the two consolation flights.

All matches in the first round of the two flights must be played by no later than Saturday of this week, and all further matches in the tourney must be completed the week following.

First round pairings in the championship flight will see many of the favorites eliminated as the drawings have resulted in matches in which a galaxy of local stars will be pitted against each other.

County Youth Wins Trip to State Fair

Maurice Hubbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hubbell of Manistique township, won the cattle judging contest at Camp Shaw for 4-H club leaders and with it a trip to the state fair at Detroit this fall. The high score attained by Maurice won for him a registered Holstein cow donated by the Marquette club.

Maurice has been particularly active in county 4-H club work and his awards are well-merited. He was the only Schoolcraft county boy to win an award this year at Camp Shaw.

McMILLAN NEWS

To Open Schools
McMillan, Mich (Special)—Local school will open this month, Monday, August 23. It was announced by school officials: As the McMillan high school is closing down this year, high school students from here will be taken to Newberry daily by bus where they will attend their classes. With school days only two weeks away the remodeling and redecoration of the Lincoln school are rapidly being pushed forward to completion. The janitor, Floyd House, will do an exceptionally good job of cleaning and all floors in the rooms and halls will have fresh surfaces, making the building interior look unusually inviting. Thomas Collins of Negaunee, Miss Ella Watt of Traverse City, Miss Ida Quinlan of Newberry and Miss Bessie Riskey of Sebawaing are the four teachers who have signed contracts to teach in the McMillan school this year.

4-H Club Work
William Spinech, winner of first place in the sixth year work of the handicraft 4-H club of the Lincoln school and county champion and Doyal Rushton, who has won similar honors in third year work, left Thursday to attend the annual round-up of the 4-H club members of all parts of the Upper Peninsula, held each year at Camp Shaw, Chatham, one week during the month of August. Floyd House, who has been leader of the local boys' handicraft work carried on in the Lincoln school during the past several years, accompanied Messrs. Spinech and Rushton to Chatham. William and Doyal presented their demonstration at ten o'clock Thursday morning. It consisted of constructing a milk stool composed of thirteen pieces and an accompanying talk was included in the demonstration. Winners at Camp Shaw will be given a free trip to the Michigan State Fair at Detroit and the honor of being Upper Peninsula state champions. This year competition will be much keener because of the fact that two boys were eligible for the title in previous years whereas only one will be selected this year. Mr. House, in expressing his opinion is confident that either William or Doyle stand a fair chance in winning. Miss Ardath Painter, winner of first place in the fifth year work of the garment 4-H club and champion of Luce County, also conducted a demonstration of her work this week at the round-up of the clubs at Chatham.

Miss Ardath is competing for the title of Upper Peninsula state champion. She was accompanied by Mrs. Jay Tanner, leader of the garment club work carried on during the past year in the Lincoln school.

Robert Fyrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tyrie was the only club worker from East Lakefield to attend the 4-H club meet at Chatham this week.

Personal News
Mrs. Bert Scott, Miss Mary McCarthy, Mrs. Leah Wigman and Charless Wigman, all of Detroit, who are vacationing in Grand Marais, visited with friends in town this week. Mrs. Scott is well known here and in Lakefield, having been employed as teacher of the Lakeland school for a number of years prior to her marriage.

RACKET PLUCKS SLOT MACHINES

Phoney Money Found on Quintet Arrested by Escanaba Police

A sure method of making slot machines pay was uncovered by Escanaba police Monday with the arrest of five Saginaw men, who had in their possession about $200 worth (negotiable value) of slugs, in nickels, dimes, quarters and halves. The party included: St. Clair Savage, Lawrence Martin, Raymond Savage, Emerson Savage and Edward Wittmus. They were arrested before they had an opportunity to try out their system in Escanaba, and are being held in the Delta county jail while police check up on their records. Disorderly charges were filed against all five.

The Saginaw quintet told officers they had purchased the "money" for $7. The slugs were made of rabbit, pewter or some alloy, and in weight and size were reproductions of real money. All were made with smooth sides. Going into places where slot machines were kept, officers said the men diverted suspicion by getting real money changed, and then used the phoney coins to play the slot machines until real money was won.
