MAYOR PLANS QUIZ OF STATE GOP LEADERS

WITNESSES CALLED TO ALBANY BY WALKER

BY LORENA A. HICKOK (Associated Press Staff Writer) New York, Aug. 20 (AP)— Mayor James J. Walker, who has described himself as the chief executive of the largest Democratic center in the United States, prepared himself today to ask some questions in Albany next week of eight of the most important Republican leaders in the state.

Before Supreme Court

Before W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman, and his associates appear in "the hall of governors," however, there will be argument in the supreme court in Albany on a legal move by Mayor Walker to put an end to the proceedings on the ground that the governor is acting outside his jurisdiction.

Walker's chief counsel, John J. Curtin, will appear at 9 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday before Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley, to argue for a writ to stop the hearing.

Justice Staley heard similar arguments Friday from Sidney Levin, counsel for George Donnelly, secretary of the Bronx chamber of commerce, and announced he would reserve his decision until after he had heard Mr. Curtin.

What action Governor Roosevelt may take, should Justice Staley order the proceedings stopped, has not been indicated. He has insisted from the start that he is acting within his jurisdiction, and that he is not bound by the courts.

As a "courtesy" to the courts, however, he agreed to withhold his decision with regard to the mayor until after Justice Staley has ruled. Meanwhile, he has ordered that the hearing proceed on Monday, beginning at 12:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

With 22 new witnesses, none of whom appeared before the Hofstadter committee and among whom are included the eight Republican leaders, Mayor Walker is expected to begin his defense on Monday.

All day Thursday and part of Friday his counsel argued on a motion to dismiss the charges and stop the hearing. The motion the governor denied.

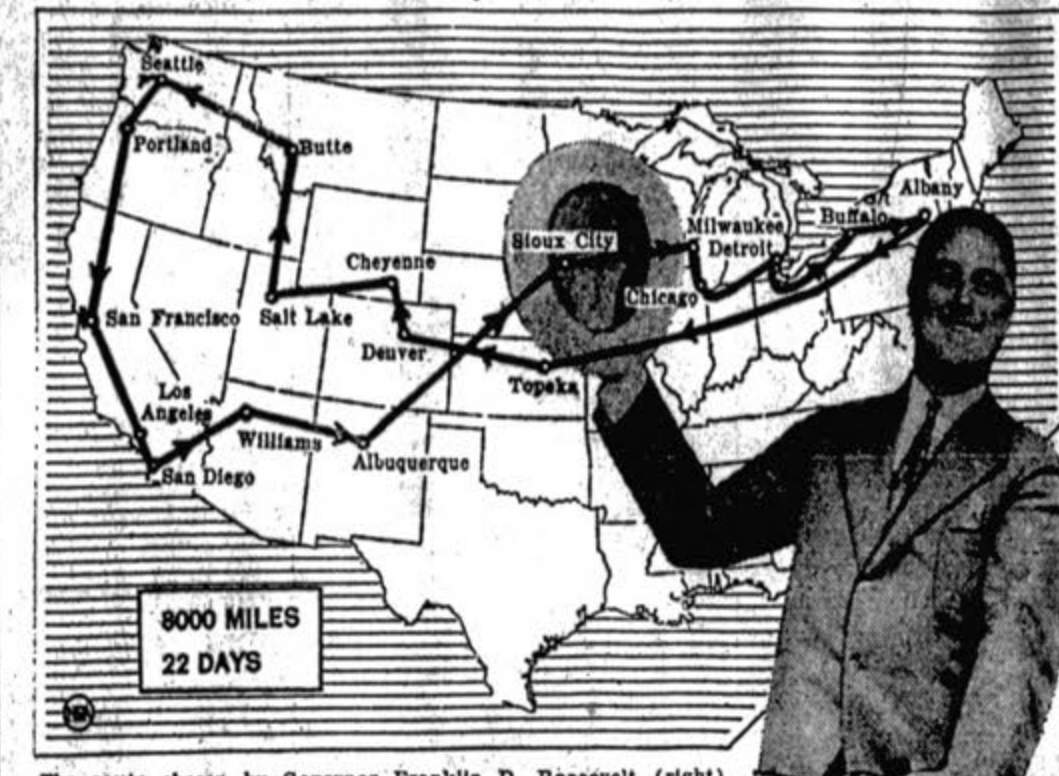

Although he was offered a huge stack of subpoenas, on his request that all of the several hundred witnesses who appeared against the mayor before the Hofstadter committee be called, Mr. Curtin refused to accept them. It was his contention the Hofstadter witnesses should be called by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee, or by the governor.

LEGIONNAIRES CONVENE TODAY

State Conclave Will Be Officially Opened at Kalamazoo

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 20 (AP)—Registrations for the 14th annual convention of the American Legion of Michigan and its Auxiliary had reached the 1,000 mark Saturday night, as veterans and their ladies from virtually every congressional district in the state assembled here for the opening session Sunday morning.

Among the major objectives which Leslie P. KeGen, state commander, will recommend to the 1932 convention of the Legion will be a war on Communism and racketeering, promotion of jobs for unemployed veterans, and the distribution of foodstuffs to benefit the needy. Rehabilitation, hospitalization, child welfare and veterans' compensation will be other subjects which will be discussed at the convention.

Governor Wilber M. Brucker, Legionnaire, will arrive for the convention Sunday, and will remain over Monday. He will address briefly a joint memorial service of the Legion and Auxiliary Sunday, and on Monday forenoon will review the annual convention parade.

Vandenberg to Speak Advice from the Kalamazoo convention committee Saturday night was to the effect that Senator James Couzens, Detroit, who with Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Grand Rapids, was scheduled to address the Legion in its assembly here, might find it impossible to attend.

Senator Vandenberg will arrive at the convention Monday, and probably will deliver his address at the annual banquet Monday evening. The grand military ball will be Monday night, at the armory.

War-day scenes were re-enacted and the spirit of 1917-18 was revived here Saturday afternoon as hundreds of men in uniform swarmed through the downtown streets. Several drum and bugle corps paraded the streets to "limber up" for the convention drum.

Robbery Suspect Is Caught After Chase

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—Arrested after a three mile chase Friday night, Wilfred Thomson Saturday was charged with robbery armed in a warrant recommended by the prosecutor's office. Thomson and his wife were arrested after a grocery holdup in which $3 was stolen. Investigators said they believed Mrs. Thomson waited outside the store in an automobile while the holdup was in progress.

AIMS ATTACK AT HOOVER IN ROAD ADDRESS

CLAIMS REPUBLICAN PLANKS "EMPTY OF HOPE"

Columbus, O., Aug. 20 (AP)—Nine "fundamental" economic remedies which he said were for the protection of the "great mass of average American men and women" were proposed today by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as he fired the opening gun in his road campaign for the presidency.

Charging that the president's acceptance speech and the Republican platform are "empty of hope," the Democratic standard bearer also aimed a four-barreled attack at the Hoover administration.

Thousands who had jammed the streets to cheer the New York governor as he arrived in the city earlier in the day, sat in a baseball stadium to hear his first away-from-home campaign speech. He was introduced by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio.

WOMEN FLIERS STILL IN OZONE

Mrs. Marsalis and Mrs. Thaden Will Spend Sunday in Air

Curtis Field, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—With new minutes added to their women's endurance flight record every time they wheeled over Curtis Field, Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden planned tonight to fly so long that "no other women could touch that record."

The women completed their sixth day in the air this afternoon and a few hours later had surpassed the previous women's record by a full 24 hours, but they kept their "Flying Boudoir" in lazy circles over Long Island airports.

When they first took off the pair said they hoped to "stay up a week." It seemed a long time then, but today, with everything going well and the end of the week in sight, they decided to delay their landing still further.

"We won't be down until Monday," they notified their ground crew, "maybe not until Wednesday."

Two refueling contacts were made today. Along with gasoline and food, the fliers received dozens of congratulatory messages.

The men's record, set by Forrest O'Brien and the late Dale Jackson, is almost 27 days and the women have "disclaimed any ambition to shoot at that mark."

Cox Lays Plan For Party's Campaign

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20 (AP)—Final plans for the jobs party's national campaign were laid today by the Rev. James R. Cox, militant pastor of old St. Patrick's Catholic church and presidential candidate of the party.

He will start a speaking campaign next week in Chicago while his motor journey will carry him as far west as Oklahoma where Dr. V. C. Tisdal, of Elk City, Okla., will be officially notified of his selection as vice presidential candidate. The ceremonies will be held during the state fair.

McLeod To Oppose Auto Excise Tax

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—Rep. Clarence J. McLeod, of Detroit, plans a fight in congress next session to effect the repeal of the automobile excise tax. In a statement announcing his intentions Saturday, Rep. McLeod attacked the tax as class legislation.

Candidate Promises To Abolish Office

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—Joseph P. Uvick, Republican candidate for county treasurer, has made the campaign promise to attempt to abolish the office if and when he gets it.

Proclamation

The fifth annual Upper Peninsula State Fair will open in this city Monday, Aug. 22, and since Escanaba was signally honored in being selected as the site of this great institution it behooves its citizens to give their whole-hearted support toward making this fifth annual fair a real success.

The fair management has designated Tuesday, Aug. 23, as Alger, Schoolcraft and Delta Day, and it is incumbent upon Escanaba to contribute its share in making possible a record attendance on this special day.

Therefore, as mayor of the city of Escanaba, I hereby proclaim Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 23, as a half-holiday in this city, and respectfully request all who can possibly do so to attend the fair on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Signed: Carl J. Sawyer, Mayor.

FOG DISRUPTS FLIER'S PLANS

Mollison Will Continue To New York Today, He Asserts

St. John, N. B., Aug. 20 (AP)—Fog, which caused Captain J. A. Mollison considerable trouble yesterday in the concluding hours of his westward solo flight across the Atlantic, disrupted his program again today. Refreshed by a good night's sleep, the young Scottish airman intended to fly his tiny Moth ship to St. John.

REGULAR ROUTE SOON

St. John, N. F., Aug. 20 (AP)—Regular trans-Atlantic air service will be in operation within two years, J. A. Mollison said today at a luncheon given him in celebration of his westward solo crossing of the Atlantic.

Harbor Grace, N. F., will be the first stopping place for planes coming in from the ocean, the flier predicted. He told his hearers that on his return flight within a few days he expects to pass over St. John—but on that occasion he will not stop.

The city presented him with an engraved cigarette case. from Pennfield Ridge, forty miles from here, where he landed yesterday, and then to speed on to Montreal to attend the aviation meet there.

But when he got down to Pennfield Ridge he found the atmosphere much too thick for flying and he came back here by motor to attend a luncheon given by the city of St. John and attended by Mayor J. M. Brittan, Premier C. D. Richards, members of the provincial and dominion parliaments and prominent residents of the city.

Plans Return Trip Soon After the luncheon he announced that he expected to take off tomorrow morning for New York, arriving there in the afternoon or early evening. The takeoff is set for about 10 a. m., eastern standard time, and he reckons that he can cover the 700 miles with complete ease in about six hours.

"I'll be in New York by 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon," the airman said. He sent a cablegram to his aeronautic wife, Amy Johnson, who is in London, telling her not to start in New York by vessel because he expected to be flying back over the Atlantic before she would have time to get across.

The little Scotsman was considerably disappointed about being unable to bring his plane to St. John today, and he still showed the effects of his more than thirty hours in the air—an experience that left him so worn out that it was impossible for him to continue on to New York and carry out his announced plan of making a round trip flight over the ocean within two and a half days.

The flight home will be his last essay at long distance flying, although he has no intention of giving up his aviation career, he said.

Lake Yields Body Of Chicago Woman

Prudenville, Mich., Aug. 20 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Reginald H. Bell, Jr., of Chicago, was recovered from Houghton lake Saturday. Bell and his wife drowned in the lake Friday when their rowboat was swamped by high waves. Search was continued for Bell's body.

Funeral Services Are Held For Edgar

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—Funeral services were held here Saturday for Brig. Gen. Clinton Goodloe Edgar, who died in Paris a fortnight ago. The services were held in St. John's Episcopal church with burial in Woodmore cemetery.

ALL BIG ACTS WILL BE SEEN ON FIRST DAY

GRANDSTAND SHOWS AND RACES START AT 2 P. M.

From one end of the big Upper Peninsula state fairgrounds to another, there is bustle and preparation today as the final touches are made in readiness for the fifth annual Upper Peninsula State Fair, and in the city of Escanaba, banners and bunting are flying as this city prepares to act as host again during the six days of the million dollar outdoor show.

The midway carnival was in place Saturday with its merry-go-rounds, wheels, rides and concessions. The companies of performers who are to appear in the grandstand shows will arrive today, and all exhibits will be in place Monday morning, giving a complete show on the opening day.

The afternoon program, which starts at 2 p. m. (EST), will consist of two horse races, with purses of $300 each, and eight sparkling acts of variety and vaudeville on the platform. Al Sweet, famous bandmaster, will direct the musical accompaniment.

Monday evening, the sensational "Winter Garden Revue" will make its debut on the huge local open air stage, accompanied by the eight feature acts, and a gorgeous display of fireworks will close the night show.

Directors of various departments were on the job yesterday, and things appeared to be taking shape more rapidly than ever before. The cattle department, which can always be depended upon to come through, was filling up the barns. The tented midway was practically complete yesterday, and eating tents were already doing business. Four local churches, the First Methodist, Swedish Methodist, Bethany Lutheran, and Norwegian Lutheran, have large dining tents near the main entrance, and eating facilities at the grounds were never better. This is true of all accommodations for the comfort of fair visitors.

FATAL WRECK AT GOULD CITY

Detroit Woman Killed, 5 Injured as Cars Collide Headon

Gould City, Aug. 20. (Special)—Mrs. E. P. Khalamp, 50, of Detroit, was almost instantly killed, and five others were injured, two seriously, in a head-on automobile crash here on US-2 near the Holt garage about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Khalamp died shortly after the accident without regaining consciousness.

The accident occurred when an auto driven by Mrs. Ed Hastings, prominent Manistique woman, who was returning from the Soo to her home, collided with the Detroit car driven by Mr. Khalamp just west of the Gould City turn-off. The Hastings car was traveling westward and according to Deputy George Holt, the driver apparently planned on going into Gould City, swerving to the left in front of the Khalamp auto. Khalamp started turning to the wrong side of the road to go around the car and the Hastings' car, it is reported, straightened out and the cars crashed head-on.

Mrs. Hastings and Mr. Khalamp were seriously injured, and Miss Betty Mann, Park Rapids, Minn., riding in the Detroit auto, and two Hastings children, Helen, 14, and Robert, 9, were cut and bruised. Another Hastings child, Val, aged 12, was uninjured.

All of the injured received first aid at the office of a local practitioner, and an ambulance was rushed from Manistique taking the Hastings to the Shaw hospital at Manistique, where examination revealed that Mrs. Hastings had sustained a broken arm and leg, possible internal injuries, bruises and contusions. She is also suffering from shock and X-raying to definitely determine the extent of her injuries was impossible tonight.

Both cars were demolished. The fight home will be his last essay at long distance flying, although he has no intention of giving up his aviation career, he said.

Chain Stores Must Pay Individual Tax

Lansing, Aug. 20 (AP)—The secretary of state ruled Saturday that the Kroger Grocery and Baking company must pay the state $25 for each store retailing malt or malt products in the state. The ruling was made to counsel for the Kroger company, which, with other chain organizations in the state, has sought to obtain a group license for the sale of malt. Counsel for the Kroger company indicated the matter would be taken into the

MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN PARK

Papers Identify Him as E. A. Sears; Had Return Trip Ticket

A well-dressed man, with papers in his pocket identifying him as Ewen A. Sears of Easton, Ill., was found dead sitting on a bench at Ludington park Saturday morning. He was about 70 years old.

The body was found by Frank Smith, caretaker at the park, as he was making his morning rounds. The condition of the body indicated that the man had been dead only a short time. A return ticket to Chicago, dated Aug. 19, was found in his pocket, indicating he had arrived Saturday morning on train 101. Other effects included a little black bag, $70.85 in cash, jackknife, pencil, memorandum book, and three government postcards, blank on the message side, addressed to Dora M. Sears, Easton, Ill.

Police officers and the coroner were notified, and the body was taken to the Anderson funeral home. An examination indicated that death was due to acute heart disease. A message was sent to the Easton address, notifying Dora Sears of the death.

The man was said by police to have been recognized as a previous visitor in Escanaba, coming here in the summer to get relief from hay fever. A son will arrive today to claim the body.

Farmhome At Cooks Destroyed By Fire

Cooks, Mich., Aug. 20 (Special)—Fire destroyed the farm residence owned and occupied by Rev. L. Jorgensen, located two miles west of the consolidated schools on US-2, about 2 a. m. Tuesday last. Mr. and Mrs. Jorgensen were away from their home for a few days at the time of the outbreak and could not be located. The attention of neighbors was attracted by the smell of the fire and they hurried to the scene but the roof of the building was already caving in when the first of the volunteer helpers arrived.

Although practically all of the nearby community was on the scene within twenty minutes of the time the first alarm, nothing could be done to save either the building or its contents. Other nearby buildings suffered a similar fate to the residence. It is believed that there was a limited amount of insurance on the place.

Neighbors stated that Mr. Jorgensen always kept a liberal supply of hand fire extinguishers on the premises but it happened that no one was present at the time of the outbreak to make use of these. The only reason given for the fire is a possibility that mice chewed on matches, although this is simply conjecture.

Rev. Jorgensen is a missionary connected with the Seventh Day Adventist church, spending much of his time on the foreign mission field, but making Cooks his headquarters while on the home field.

Willing Workers Society
Members of the Willing Workers society were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. T. King. Though the weather was quite stormy there was a good attendance. The place of the next meeting will be announced later.

WORM PERILS MAPLE TREES

Insects Denuding Hardwood Timber of Foliage in U. P.

A small green worm has appeared in the hardwood timber of northern Wisconsin and Michigan and is rapidly denuding many maple trees, leaving no foliage whatever, according to D. A. Brotherton, land agent of the L. Stephenson company. A few weeks ago, Carl J. Sawyer, of the Sawyer-Goodman company reported that a white grub was damaging balsam of gilead and poplar trees in this vicinity.

The small green worms appear especially on maples. Allen Smith, woods superintendent of the L. Stephenson company, reports that while he finds no large areas affected by these worms, there are many localities in which the maples are more or less damaged by them. The worms eat away the leaf between the small fibers, leaving a skeleton of fibers. They drop from leaf to leaf by means of "spider webs," with which they equipped, similarly to the so-called "measuring worm," prevalent in the balsams.

Mr. Smith spent some time with the forester at the U. S. experiment station on Highway M-28 in Marquette county and found that they had been studying this worm since the spring of 1931. Maple seedlings planted at the experiment station were stripped by the worms, although a large percentage have started leafing again, so that the exact amount of damage done them is uncertain at present.

The forester at the experimental

FAIR OPENS MONDAY

THE fifth annual Upper Peninsula State Fair opens its gates tomorrow, offering to farmers and other citizens of Michigan, particularly those of the 15 counties north of the Straits, an opportunity to exhibit the fruits of the year's efforts and to compete for the prizes offered. It also affords them the privilege of enjoying the upper peninsula's outstanding outdoor entertainment program at a cost that fades into insignificance when one considers the excellence of the attractions.

To the many unemployed persons of the cities and the farmers whose income has dwindled down to almost nothing, the fair will help them forget their troubles and discouragements for a while, for on Monday there will be no charge for admission to the grounds. On the remaining days of the fair the general admission will be half the price in effect last year, namely twenty-five cents, which the fair management believes is more in keeping with the times.

Entries of exhibits have been pouring in from all parts of the upper peninsula, indicating that the desire to gain a share of the prize money is more in evidence because of the depression. The state fair in Escanaba, an upper peninsula exposition in every sense of word for prize winnings in the past have been well distributed throughout the 15 counties.

The Upper Peninsula State Fair has been performing its proper function ever since its establishment. It provides that incentive to the farmers to strive for improvement in crops and livestock. Each year shows the remarkable changes that have been made, and the winning of a U. P. state fair ribbon is a much coveted honor with every exhibitor.

For some reason or other, there have been some who have forecast the passing out of the agricultural fair, but an institution so ancient and highly regarded can never pass out of existence as long as it continues to fulfill its essential ends.

America inherited the fair from the old world, where the famous Leipzig fair in Germany has established international fame. For 750 years neither war, nor plague, nor revolution has ever once postponed or prevented this Leipzig institution from displaying its wares. The spring fair at Leipzig, equally renowned, specializes in books, as dealers and collectors, all over the world are aware.

In character these European fairs hold more generally to the original meaning of the word, "a greater species of market recurring at more distant intervals." The accepted derivation of the name is from the Latin "feria" or festival, borrowed by the early church and applied to the saints' feasts.

ROOM FOR ALL

INDICATIONS are that the enrollment in the Escanaba public schools will be increased by about three hundred this fall. This will be caused by the fact that attendance at St. Joseph's school will be limited to boys and girls of the parish, with the exception of next year's graduating class, and the usual additions that come from the normal growth of the community.

There is a possibility that there may be a slight reduction because of another reason, however. The back-to-the-farm movement has been noticeable here in the past year, and it is estimated that no less than fifty families have migrated to tracts of land elsewhere in the county, where they have set themselves up in small houses and shacks so as to avoid the high living costs of the city. Undoubtedly, the exodus from the larger centers of population is creating problems for the rural schools, many of which have experienced marked increases in enrollment in the last couple years.

Fortunately, the Escanaba public schools are well equipped for taking care of the influx from the parochial schools. With the construction of the new junior high school building, there will be no danger of congestion. Had the building not been built, however, the high educational standards established in the Escanaba public schools would have been seriously menaced for a crowded condition would have been inevitable. This may have resulted in half-day sessions, during which school work would have been skipped over hurriedly, and the students getting their training only after a fashion.

SOFTBALL SPORT IS GROWING

LEADERS of the three diamond ball leagues will engage in the annual tournament today to determine the city championship and to determine what teams will compete in the upper peninsula tournament a week away. The climax of the season's enjoyable recreational activities will be the national tournament in Wausau, Wis., in which this section of the state will be also represented.

No outdoor pastime has caught the popular fancy in the upper peninsula in many a year like diamond ball, kitten ball or softball, as is known by different names. The game lends itself ideally to a group activity within a community. It is inexpensive, requiring the use of very little equipment and space. It is also less hazardous than baseball and other sports because of the soft ball and other conditions.

In putting the game on an organized basis, Escanaba really was the pioneer in the upper peninsula. It is natural, therefore, that the upper peninsula tournament would be held in this city. An effort will be made to secure the national tournament for Escanaba in 1933. This should be a great attraction, and should command more interest here than it usually does in a large city like Minneapolis, where the event has been held in preceding years. It should serve, too, to stimulate an even greater interest in the game throughout the upper peninsula in future years.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch (Copyright 1932 by Douglas Malloch) THE LITTLE LIGHT I stood upon a giant's height And saw a city besooned light Sweep all the air of all the air— And yet the wonder was not there: Ten thousand little besoons bright It was that made the city fair. The light above was very grand; But at my feet lay fairland, Each jewelled line some little street, Each little lamp a cottage neat, Perhaps a lantern in some hand To light the way for someone's feet. And I came back to earth again Content to walk the ways of men And give the little light I can To any woman, any man, To light some little corner then, Not only seek the skies to scan. The little kindnesses we do May help to bring a brother through. It is not given us to lead Some land, some party, or some creed, And yet they serve a little, too, Who only serve some little need.

20 Years Ago

Aug. 21, 1912 Supervisor Philip Labre of Bark River township will represent Delta county at the state tax conference to be conducted in Detroit Sept. 18 and 19. John Manning returned on Monday from an extended trip through the west. On his visit he met a number of former Escanaba men, including George Riley, now private secretary to the president of the Great Northern railway; Thomas Curry, who for several years conducted a saloon here. Mr. Manning also visited with his brother, Bert Manning, and Clarence Carey of Careywood, Idaho, where J. F. Carey, formerly of this city, has extensive land holdings. T. C. Hatton of Wilmington, Del., a sanitary engineer of experience, has been engaged by the city council to provide plans for the proposed sanitary trunk sewer and sewerage disposal plant, which will cost about $25,000.

Peninsula Paragraphs

New Forests for Old Nature is a wonderful lady. All she needs is a little careful letting alone and a modicum of protection and she does sensational comebacks. Of course there are people, especially among the older generation, who will read this with a tongue in the cheek, and one must admit that a long view is needed before one can establish this miracle on a viewable basis. More than half a century ago a certain lumberman and his sons cut a fine stand of white pine along the banks of the Tawas River. One of these sons was one of these cheek-tongued persons. "Pine plains will always be pine plains" he used to say and refused to even read about the reforestation projects of the state and nation. Then one day, a few years ago, he undertook to show a relative this old lumbering site and the banking grounds where he had helped start the run of several million feet of white pine. He drove to the general location but could not find the place. An old timer, aged, and spending his last days in the home of a grand son, told him, "This is the place all right. I worked on that last drive." The lumberman blinked and then gave up. There was a handsome stand of oak trees, some of them twelve to fifteen inches through, on that old site. The other day we drove out to the Connor's Homestead in the northern part of Luce county after not seeing it for six or seven years. There among a fine stand of packs a second forest of white pine is coming on. The little trees, just thick enough for healthy growth, are from knee high to fifteen feet and a beautiful sight. Just keep the fire out and we'll have a forest before we know it. It is exciting as the best of books to watch Nature coming back after a fire. The first year she cannot do much especially if the fire has burned deep into the soil. But the next year... Fire Weed Tall and beautifully swaying, And wearing its bloom like a banner, Fireweed comes after burning. Its flowers are the colors of flames. Suggesting drift-wood signals, And rabbits hide in its thickets. The next year mullen joins it, Then comes along golden-rod and

for LOVE or MONEY

CHAPTER XXVIII MONA looked across the table at her companion and reflected. Anything was better than that they should talk of themselves. With the feeling that they were approaching dangerous ground she had carefully led the conversation away from their affairs. Surprisingly enough, she was finding the experience of lunching with her husband not disagreeable. He was entertaining, she admitted. Handsome even, it did not seem possible, or if possible at least not at all likely, that this man should have stooped to punish his nephew by thwarting him in a marriage. Yet he had intimated at Tylands that when their marriage had been arranged young Barry's inclinations were not unknown to him. "I'll explain it if I may," Mr. Townsend said as though he read her thoughts. "After I returned from White Sulphur Barry told me he was in love with a girl he had met recently. I vetoed it immediately because I wanted him to marry Miss Dower. Her father and I have looked forward to such a marriage for years. I suppose the day for such arrangements by parents is over but we hadn't realized that Barry refused even to listen. As a matter of fact, though I did not realize it at the time, Genevieve—a fine girl, too—positively declined to marry Barry. She is in love, it seems, with a young man in my office, a penniless nobody—" "Like me," Mona offered. "Not at all like you. You should see him!" The next instant Mr. Townsend paused with concern. Mona had seen young Ashcroft. She had indeed been robbed by him! "At any rate, please believe me," he floundered. "I did not know when I asked—or had Garson ask—you to marry me that I was thwarting Barry. Please believe me!" "You knew you didn't want him to marry the girl of whom he'd spoken," Mona said. "You knew—well, that you threatened to change your will to effect his inheritance. I don't know just how but I've heard about it. You didn't want him," she went on bravely, "to marry the girl he wanted to marry. You do not wish him to make a success of the mine either. You don't want Barry to do anything except follow your plans and schemes and ideas. It isn't his fault—" The waiter, hovering over them, filled a glass with tinkling ice and poured in water. "You mean," Mr. Townsend began coolly, his eyes glinting, "that I am treating Barry badly because his father stole my fiancée. Well, since he did, perhaps that's my view."

I've been able to do things, give things to others." There was a break in her voice. Her eyes were shining. "But what are you doing to Barry?" Mona went on. "Everything that can hinder him in his success." Those two boys have made a success of that old worked-out mine. But that success has been Steve's, not Barry's! Everything can be traced to Steve! He found (she was going to say the Empress but checked herself) the larger diamonds they sold to buy machinery. Steve controls the men more easily than Barry could. He has had more experience, I suppose, and understands them. "I've never met Steve," Mr. Townsend commented idly. He sat very still. "Whatever you look at it this is Steve's enterprise, Barry doesn't care because of you. He came north to get money to finance the new dredging machinery—" "New" remarked Mr. Townsend disinterestedly. "Those mines have been worked for years without machinery. South American mining is shallow. Nothing like the South African mines." "You light Tylands with electricity, don't you?" asked Mona hotly. "You don't use candles simply because people did a few hundred years ago. Let Barry have his inheritance or the money you are keeping from him. Oh, I know what you've done is legal enough but legality and right don't necessarily go hand in hand." They rode for a moment in silence. Mona's breast was heaving. Her face was flushed and her hands came in quick, short gasps. Suddenly she opened her purse and began repairing the damage of the tears that had come into her eyes. "When a woman gets out a powder puff," observed Mr. Townsend coolly, "I realize she has had had her say. So I'll have mine. Don't you suppose I know the Empress came out of that mine? Don't you suppose I know precisely what you'll do with it the moment you have the chance?" "What?" asked Mona. "Sell it. No woman wants to wear that lump of ice. Even though she knows it cost a million. Well, sell it and give the money to Barry if you like. But it will not come from me! You see?" "Mona looked at him in amazement. "Sell it? When?" "The man waved a smoothly gloved hand and laid it over the other which was grasping his walking stick. "Any time. Now—today—to-morrow. O better still, when I am gone." (To Be Continued)

It must be remembered that the land of Ireland... was taken by force, stolen, one could truthfully say, from the rightful owners by English invaders. After a long struggle the English consented to let the Irish buy back their own lands at a high price. —Sean O'Kelly, vice president Irish Free State.

Summer wanderers, summer absentees were returning. The new season had begun. Vaguely Mona understood that something new had come about, too, in her relations with this man who was so strangely her husband. She did not—could not—hate him now. Yet through him Barry's life seemed ruined. Her own life was ruined, too. "Ask me now. Tell me what I can do to make you happier!" Mona aroused herself from the reverie to hear these words. Instantly she made up her mind. The car shot across the bridal path and she caught up a figure on horseback, reminding her somehow of that picture she had imagined of little Barry astride his pony at Tylands. Even then his uncle's animosity toward Barry had begun.

SHE laid an impulsive hand on the man's arm. "You can do this," she exclaimed. "Nothing for me but luxury and comfort. I wish or even dream of wishing for. For the first time in my life but they have to turn them down as it would look too much like a political convention if they let down the bars and let them all in there instead of travelling out in the country looking for them and if all the candidates attend the fair we sure going to have a record broken attendance this yr. And it is a good thing that this here fair came along as some of our Delta county candidates were planning out of places to visit and I hear some were thinking of going over into Menominee and Schoolcraft counties for to make a house to house canvass just to keep in practice. And with about 40 candidates running for 8 or 9 county jobs it looks like some candidates is got to be on the unemployed list on Sept. 14 and some thing should be done about it. And I hear a lot of the state candidates are asking for a chance to speak at the big fair on acct. they know everybody will be there

Greene Candidate For Justice Office

Leland J. Greene, 615 South Eighth street, has announced that he is a candidate for election to the office of Escanaba justice of the peace, and has filed petitions as a nominee to be voted upon at the special city election to be held Sept. 13 in conjunction with the primary election.

Mr. Greene is a native of Escanaba, and a graduate of Escanaba high school. During the World War, he spent 28 months in the service as a member of the United States Marine Corps. He is married, and has two children.

THEATRES

A newspaper atmosphere, different from any ever before reflected upon the motion picture screen, is revealed in "Is My Face Red?" the RKO-Radio film, now at the Delft Theatre.

The office shown is the inner sanctum of a tattler columnist, the clearing house for intimate gossip, heartaches and anticipated divorce suits.

Except for the autographed photographs of stage and screen beauties and Broadway celebrities the office occupied by Ricardo Cortez, who plays the role of the columnist, resembles that of a big business executive. About it is none of the hustle and bustle of the city news room. Shirt sleeves and eye shades, worried editors and hustling copy boys are conspicuously absent. Only a pretty secretary, played by Arline Judge, shares the place with Cortez. She answers the telephones, and takes in dictation the barbed darts that go out to create emotion in the hearts of thousands.

Playing the romantic lead with Cortez in this revaluation of a columnist's activities is Helen Twelvetrees. She is seen as a show girl who provides her lover with many of his "low down" tips. Others in the cast are Jill Esmond, Robert Armstrong, Sidney Toler and Fletcher Norton.

Busy Week for These Two

GEORGE HARVEY AUGUST LUNDGAARD

Two familiar faces around the busy fairgrounds office as preparations are made for the opening of the fifth annual Upper Peninsula State Fair Monday morning, are George E. Harvey, secretary, and August A. Lundgaard, chairman of the fair board of managers. They have been at the fairgrounds for several days, greeting directors as they arrive to start work, and ironing out the many details which go with the million dollar show.

Communication

PROHIBITION? Turin, Mich., Aug. 19th, 1932.

Editor, Daily Press: After reading Mr. Wolfe's communication on prohibition, in a recent issue of The Press, I was tempted to try a line on the same subject from a different viewpoint.

A large share of the United States is made up of country towns, too small to be patronized by officers of the law, but just right for anyone who may wish to make, sell or drink "moonshine," a commodity, which in its present stage, has completely out-flooded sunshine in millions of American homes.

Being a resident of a small town, I can vouch for the truth of the following, from personal observation:

Today the saloon is not on the street where it or a liquor store, as they have it in Canada, rightfully belongs—but it is in the home of private families. I don't remember what the saloon situation was like but if it was any worse to have a fat bartender deliver the drinks to his garrulous, cursing customers than little, ragged, innocent eyed children, who are forced to do so after their father, has drunk slightly too much of his own to say is that something besides an international economic depression has hit this country.

All small towns and many of the larger ones are run wide open in this manner. Where one saloon used to suffice for most villages, it now takes from eight to ten private saloons or homes to supply the demand. In each one of these homes there are at least five children becoming morally degraded whereas before prohibition such children were't allowed in saloons.

Would legalizing liquor create wealth? No, but it would create jobs and a market for much of our grain. Has Prohibition created wealth? Ask Al Capone!

It is also claimed that a saloon keeper believes in getting his customer "under the influence" and then extracting from him a month's wages. Again, does a man with a month's wages exist today? Ask Walter W. Waters or James R. Cox.

There is such a great publication of different opinions concerning the prohibition situation today, that the minds of the American people are completely befuddled.

One day we read of a great political aspirant in the western part of Kansas stating he is in favor of prohibition as it stands at present. He is applauded and another hero and door of great deeds is made. The next day we read of Mr. So-and-So in Eastern New York, who claims he favors repeal. More applause. Still a third day we glance at another article where a climber of political ladders believes re-submission is the best way out of the mess. Applause instead of "Apple Sauce" rings again.

And here we have it. Three men have gained their goal, that of free publicity, all on the same subject and not one of them has the courage to come out and say that the past ten or twelve years of prohibition have been the greatest failure the United States has ever witnessed. Prohibition is a group of words blanching on the constitution of the United States and we seem to lack courageous enough leadership in our government to have them erased, without all of this preliminary straddling and gum chewing harangue.

Bark River News

Bark River, Aug. 19 (Special)—The children of St. George's parish that have been attending the summer school for religious instruction conducted by the Franciscan Sisters entertained their parents and friends last Sunday evening at St. George's auditorium.

Every one present enjoyed the fine program presented. A great deal of credit is due the good sisters for the religious and social training given the children during the few weeks they have been under their supervision. A children's choir has been organized by the sisters and will continue to sing at one of the Sunday masses as they have been the past several weeks.

Last Wednesday the children were guests of the pastor and the sisters at a picnic at Bergman's grove. Over eighty children attended. Needless to say the children enjoyed the treat.

Sunday at the 8 o'clock mass a class of little ones will receive their First Holy Communion. The Franciscan sisters are leaving this week for Chicago where they will resume their work as instructors in the parochial schools.

When They Are Reminded of The Late Mrs. Brown Who Had No Use for Advertisements

You knew her well. She was always a little behind the times in everything she did. Her styles were those of half-a-year ago. Her conversation lacked the newness and sparkle of her friends. She hadn't heard of the interesting improvements in radios, automobiles, washing machines. Yet, somehow, things seemed to cost her more than they did other people. She didn't know quite what to buy, or what to pay.

It's more than a coincidence that she prided herself on "never reading the advertisements."

Advertisements are news! They affect you more vitally than anything else in this paper, for they tell of the clothes you wear and the food you eat, of the places you visit, and the things that have been invented to make your life pleasanter and your work easier. Reading the advertisements keeps you well informed. It helps you to buy wisely. It is today's best way of keeping abreast with today.

Up-to-date people read the advertisements regularly.

OFFICE SEEKERS GATHER AT FAIR

Candidates Will Come Here This Week to Meet Voters

Candidates for county and state offices will avail themselves of the opportunity to get acquainted with large numbers of voters who will attend the Upper Peninsula State Fair here this week.

Governor Wilber M. Brucker will pay his annual visit to the fair on Thursday, which has been designated as Governor's Day. The governor will deliver a brief address from the performer's platform.

William M. McKeighan of Flint, Republican candidate for governor, will return to Escanaba Monday to visit at the fair, and George Welsh of Grand Rapids will come on Tuesday. Orin Bailey, Shiawassee county farmer, who is the fourth candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is expected Friday or Saturday.

Other visitors during the week will be: Dr. Frank P. Bohn, Newberry, and Ray Gillespie, Sault Ste. Marie, candidates for congressman from the Eleventh district; William F. Doyle, Menominee, candidate for state senator from the Thirtieth district.

U. S. Senator Arthur E. Vandenberg stated several months ago that he would attend the fair, but nothing has been heard from him as to his plans of late. Former Governor Fred W. Green will come on Friday.

Miles Callahan of Reed City and his special committee of state senators and representatives, appointed the last legislature to investigate state fair expenses, will make their official study here Wednesday.

Gypsy Tribes Return, Following Prosperity

Fort Smith, Ark., Aug. 20.—If you are looking for prosperity, follow the gypsy tribes that roam the world.

For, guided by some instinct that seems almost uncanny, gypsies seem to know where money is being made and go there. It seldom has failed.

Shortly before the arrival of depression in the United States in the fall of 1929, lots of them seemed to sense that bad times were coming and departed for other lands. Now—which appears a hopeful sign—they are coming back.

Take all this from Mrs. W. H. Cole, who, with her husband, operates a drug store in Fort Smith. That drug store is at the crossroads of all the Romany trails in the world, for through it the wandering tribes communicate with each other.

For 15 years Mrs. Cole has been their unofficial "postmistress," forwarding letters and telegrams to and from all parts of the globe and maintaining communication with the scattered bands.

"They are coming back now," says Mrs. Cole. "I've been getting letters from South America, Australia, Europe and South Africa which indicate lots of them are planning an early return to the United States. It seems like a good omen for the return of prosperity; gypsies always seem to know where money is being made."

The case of Miller Costello is typical. Miller is the father of Steve Costello, king of the Spanish gypsy tribes in America. He left the United States in the summer of 1929—at a time when most Americans probably thought prosperity was here to stay.

When the crash came here, Miller Costello was in Brazil. He wrote Mrs. Cole that business there was "very good." This continued for several months. Then his letters told her that business had fallen off, that he had traveled for many days through a mountain range—with only one horse—in search of richer fields.

Recently, Miller Costello wrote another letter, quaintly addressed to "Mrs. Cole, care of Cole Drug Store, Putnam, Ark., Estador Unidos da America do Norte." It requested her to forward his mail to another city, more than a thousand miles away, and informed her that he was on the slow trail back to the United States.

From Johannesburg, South Africa, Mrs. Cole received a letter recently from the Yamas band of Russian gypsies. They are coming back, too. So are many other bands of these restless nomads.

How, you may ask, does it happen that a woman running a drug store in Fort Smith, Ark., is in touch with these wanderers of the Romany trail who communicate with each other through her?

Fifteen years ago, Steve Costello, feeling the need of a central point of communication between members of the tribe, asked Mrs. Cole if she would forward messages to other gypsies if sent to her. She agreed.

News of this arrangement spread throughout the tented camps from Maine to California, and soon other tribes were depending on her for communication.

The gypsies know Mrs. Cole and trust her with many important services. In 1923, for instance, she was appointed administratrix for the estate of Yonko Ulrich, aged king of the Russian gypsies. She handled Yonko's $80,000 estate, of which $40,000 was in cash. Every heir was satisfied.

HOT FIRE—COOL HEAD

Brooklyn.—Jacob Schiller's wife stayed behind to dress after fire had been discovered in their apartment. Her husband and son had already left the building, believing she was following immediately. When she was ready, smoke and flames cut off her escape. Undaunted, she pulled in her clothes, tied one end to a table, and slid down it to the ground and safety.

Famous Americans Laugh at Years As They Pass Seventy

Chicago, (AP)—The age of youth? Not by a flock of years! The idea that youth must be served and the allotted three score and 10 years was shoved in the background by a bevy of oldish youngsters who insist they're just getting a start in living at 70 or above.

There's Amos Alonzo Stagg—70 years old Aug. 16. He's hopping around a movie lot in California performing work and exercises that would put many a college youth to shame. The dean of football coaches, after completing work as a technical adviser on a gridiron thriller, soon will return to the University of Chicago campus to direct his 41st Maroon team. He looks 50, and acts younger.

Then there's Dr. David Kinley, former president of the University of Illinois, who scoffed at age recently on his 71st birthday with the remark: "I'm not old. I'm just getting a good start in this game of life."

Clarence Darrow, veteran lawyer, admits he's 75. "I've never been happier than now nor felt younger," he said. "Age is a matter of the brain, not of the arteries or muscles. I take life more philosophically than I did 40 years ago, but I plan for the future now as I did then. You're as young as your mind and 70 is as good a time as any to get a start in life."

LICENSE PLATES COSTS REDUCED

Making and Distribution Is 2 1/2 Percent of The Revenue

Lansing.—In recent weeks, representatives of an organization advocating taxation reforms have been giving out erroneous information regarding the cost of administering the motor vehicle weight tax law. In Muskegon county citizens have been told that the cost of administering this law is $9,000,000 a year. In Kent county, according to reports received by the department of state, agents of the organization claim that the law costs $14,000,000 a year. In other counties, still other claims have been made.

These claims are wildly extravagant. In 1931, the cost of plates, and all distribution costs including branch office fees, auditing costs and the cost of maintaining a quadruple file was about 50-cents per set. In 1932, the total cost of manufacturing and distributing a set of plates will be approximately 40-cents per set. In 1931 approximately 1,300,000 sets of license plates were sold at a cost of approximately $650,000, while this year the cost should not exceed $500,000.

Office Rental Cut

This reduction in cost came about by reducing fees allowed branch offices by reducing office rentals and by lowering auditing, filing and other administrative charges.

Included in these costs is the maintenance of the quadruple file which contains more than 5,000,000 separate cards which is required by law. The file contains four cards for each vehicle, under the classifications of owners' names, license numbers, title numbers and motor numbers. The law provides that these records be kept for three years. Through these files, in ordinary cases, a complete history of a motor vehicle can be given during a three-minute long distance telephone call. If the person asking information can give the owners' name, license number, title or motor number. The department averages more than 200 requests for information of this sort every day.

On a basis of collecting $20,000,000 in license fees at a cost of $500,000 it costs about two and one-half percent of the rev-

STONINGTON NEWS

Stonington, Mich.—Mrs. Sadie Weeks and children of Clinton, Iowa, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Weeks' brother, Wilmer Larson.

Miss Lillian Johnson, who has been employed in Detroit, has arrived to spend her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Johnson.

Miss Bernice Simensen has returned to her home, after attending the Bible camp at Lake Nobeau, Wisconsin.

The Sunday school children and their parents and friends of the Norwegian Lutheran church will celebrate their annual picnic at Lagoon Beach picnic grounds on Sunday, Aug. 28. Favorable weather is hoped for as the children especially look forward to this event.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leadman, Oluf Olsen and daughter Bertha have returned from a motor trip to Chicago. Miss Esther Olson who has been employed in Chicago, returned with them to spend a couple months at her home here.

Miss Anna Jacobson has been visiting relatives in Escanaba.

Miss Pearl Jacobson has gone to Escanaba to remain at the home of her sister, Mrs. O. W. Peterson, for an indefinite length of time.

For the past two weeks Lagoon Beach picnic grounds and pavilion have been almost deserted. Perhaps the coming fair week has been the cause, everybody saving their dimes and nickels to attend that annual event in Escanaba.

To those who have not visited this new recreation and amusement park, it would perhaps be of interest to know a little of its past history.

In 1891, Anton Nelson, the father of the present owner, and Andrew Swanson bought this property from John Horswood, who had been living here since in the early '50's. After buying the property, lots were drawn to decide who should get the north half where the buildings were, which consisted of a good sized house and barn and a small orchard. These buildings have been replaced by a bungalow and a new barn which has been remodeled and is used for a dance pavilion. These buildings are located on the highest hill overlooking the bay to the south and the west, and the view across the water is wonderful.

Eight 4-H garden clubs of the Escanaba public and parochial schools exhibited their products at the annual vegetable show at the junior high school building yesterday.

COMMUNICATIONS

Tax, Voters and Candidates:
Dear Editor:

It does not good to strike out blindly at election time. We have found that out too often. If we really want tax relief and not merely a change in the party labels worn by officeholders, we shall have to make our wishes known plainly and unmistakably so our officials will think and learn that the voters mean business.

Our taxes are out of reason because in the past we trusted too much to our representatives. We did not bother to ask them to spend our money prudently. We sat back while organized lobbies and special agents successfully demanded that public money be spent to suit them. Here is how our taxes have increased:

	1913	1930
Local	$1,800,000.000	$7,500,000.000
State	400,000.000	2,300,000.000
Federal	700,000.000	4,200,000.000

Mr. Taxpayer just look what happened in the last seventeen years in the United States. Speaking with a farmers' language, there is something wrong in our political stable and a cleaning should be done. Just for example our Delta County officers receive a nice salary and all fees which are often three times larger than his salary. Why not run county business the same as private? If a farmer hires a man to milk his cows he pays him for STOCK MARKET AVERAGES (By The Associated Press) Table with columns for Saturday, Friday, Week Ago, and Year Ago.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY (Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—The stock market was overshadowed today by the still briskly advancing bonds, but shares were at least able to throw off the reactionary tendencies of the previous session.

Shares sagged a point or two here and there in the first hour, but came back in the last hour to finish with a number of gains of fractions to more than a point in prominent issues.

C. & N. W. Advances Rail shares stiffened in its last hour, on appearance of the weekly report of the movement of revenue freight, showing a total of 512,431 cars in the week ended August 13.

Standard of Kansas rose to a point on news of sale of some of its properties to Standard of Indiana. Chrysler gained about a point in a fair turnover.

Outstanding among the day's developments was the conclusion of the Ottawa conference, with indications that American exports may be somewhat hampered, particularly of steel, textiles, and possibly wheat.

At Chicago, wheat futures lost nearly a cent a bushel. Cotton in New York, however, was firm, closing 11 to 12 points higher.

Food Orders Given Only Mornings; Names Split Alphabetically

Beginning this week, city of Escanaba food orders will be issued on four different days each week, but only during the morning, and the groups of names will be divided alphabetically to split up the work for the four mornings.

Those receiving food orders from the city are asked to observe the schedule, and it will greatly facilitate the work of the department. The first half day for issuing orders will be Tuesday morning, and at that time attention will be given to those whose last names begin with A, B, C, D, or E. For Wednesday morning, the next five letters will be taken, and so on down the list of recipients, so that the schedule for the four days will be as follows: Tuesday a. m.—ABCDE, Wednesday a. m.—FGHIJ, Thursday a. m.—KLMNO, Friday a. m.—PQRSTW.

Eyes of World on Little Town As Sun Hides Its Face Aug. 31

A rare sight like that pictured upper right, showing the eclipse at totality, will be viewed by scientists through instruments set up in the public square at Fryeburg, Me., seen below. At upper left is view of Fryeburg's main street, which soon will awaken to new activity.

BY ALFRED ELDEN

(Written for NEA Service)

Fryeburg, Me.—Astronomers from all parts of the world are arriving daily in Fryeburg and nearby points to get ready to observe the total eclipse of the sun August 31.

While the path of totality is a belt of darkness 100 miles wide across the northeast corner of Vermont, most of New Hampshire and southeastern Maine, here is the exact center of the eclipse. Moreover, all past weather records for more than 50 years indicate that Fryeburg and a section within 25 miles, including West Baldwin, Limington and Limerick, are most likely to have favorable weather.

Ballyhoing the Eclipse

The Fryeburg-Lovell Kiwanis club is planning to make the eclipse the grand finale of the vacation season. It has had printed for liberal distribution an elaborate folder entitled "See the Eclipse from the Fryeburg-Lovell Region."

Messrs. Sun, Moon and Earth commence their act, which will not be repeated in this section until 1963, at 2:20 p. m. The period of totality begins at 3:25 eastern standard time and lasts for 99 seconds. At 4:33 p. m. the curtain falls, so to speak, and the sun again floods the earth. At least that's the gamble. The Fryeburg region has had about 60 per cent clear afternoons the latter part of August for a good many years. So on that chance, astronomers from far and near are flocking to Fryeburg.

Rudy Valee's Cottage

Hotels, inns, boarding houses and summer camps are planning for capacity crowds. Kezar Pond, in Lovell, is close by, where there are capacious summer hotels, and incidentally, Rudy Valee's splendid summer cottage. The Fryeburg Fair Grounds will be opened to the public as an ideal point of vantage.

Cement bases for telescopes and other apparatus are being built in the large flat open field where stands the Peary memorial on Main street. Here Lieut. Com. Robert E. Peary, as a boy attending Fryeburg Academy in 1882, found time to lay out a system of rock markers, or meridian stones, which indicate the true north and enable surveyors to obtain the magnetic variation. Bases will also be placed at various adjacent spots along the high bare banks of the Saco River.

Historic Neighborhood

Fryeburg itself is a delightful old town, very level, with broad Main Street, fine homes and well kept lawns. It has a few small manufacturing and the largest forest nursery in Maine. The total population of Fryeburg is only about 1500.

Famous as a town of intellectual standing, its Fryeburg Academy in 1892 had completed a century of life, the Rev. William Fessenden founding it in 1792. Its second preceptor was Daniel Webster, who studied law and taught in 1802 and also served as a clerk in the old County Register's office. Page after page of original Webster penmanship may be seen on file in the modern county building today. The facilities of the academy will be open to the visiting scientists.

Literary Flavor

Not far outside the town proper at Lovell Pond is the scene of Lovewell's fight, when a Massachusetts company of 34 soldiers lost half its number when ambushed by the Indians in 1725. It was in Fryeburg exactly 100 years later that Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Portland's famous poet, heard his first published poem, "Lovewell's Fight," sung by a chorus of school children.

William Dean Howells wrote of Fryeburg in a novel while staying at a hotel here.

About 25 years ago Richard Harding Davis, then editor of Munsey's, discovered wonderful fishing in Lovell's Pond and he introduced it to Newton Newkirk, Boston humorist, Irvin Cobb and other notables who have visited it frequently.

Fryeburg has no motion picture theater nor pool room. Such are the surroundings amid which the great astronomers will gather. Fryeburg folk talk of little else these midsummer days.

Two scientists in Texas have been successful in killing bacteria by producing sound waves of extremely high pitch with a nickel tube made to vibrate almost 8800 times a second by electromagnet coils.

3 Stolen Bicycles Recovered By Police

Gladstone, Aug. 20 (Special)—A number of recent robberies in Gladstone and vicinity are believed to be cleared up as the result of the arrest tonight of Bob Smith living near Rose's store on M-35. Smith confessed to several robberies, including the theft of three bicycles and a car.
