STRIKERS ARE DRIVEN FROM ACTIVE MINES

INVASION TO LOWER ILLINOIS FOILED BY OFFICERS

BY R. S. KLECKNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Coulterville, Ill., Aug. 25 (AP)—Vanquished, with several automobiles battered and bullet-torn, the bedraggled remnants of a nine mile motorcade—the striking miners' big push into the operating southern Illinois mine fields—tonight filtered home with orders not to attempt a similar invasion.

The orders came from Chief Walter Moody of the state highway police who directed evacuation of Coulterville, where about 4,000 strikers gathered for a mass meeting today to determine a policy after the cavalcade was routed by clubs, pistol, machine gun and shot-gun fire by nearly 300 deputies near the Franklin county line last night.

About 100 strikers suffered clubbed heads. Only six were found badly enough hurt to warrant hospital treatment. Two had gun shot wounds of minor consequence, authorities said.

Hold Mass Meeting

After the melee near Mulkeytown in Franklin county, the invaders were turned back through Duquoin and headed north. A majority apparently trekked homeward last night.

Moody appeared here about 10:30 a. m. today with about 40 subordinates. Cars and trucks were massed near a park where speakers addressed the miners in a mass meeting. A policy committee had been appointed to determine if the strikers were to go back to Franklin county to attempt to persuade working miners to strike because of the $5 wage scale, supplanting a $6.10 agreement terminating last March.

Before the policy committee made its report Moody's men already started trucks and cars out of the town. A few state police led the caravan, Moody said, and had orders to see that the cars dispersed.

At the mass meeting, feeling ran high against Franklin and Perry county authorities. Speakers asserted Perry county officials in forcing the cavalcade of nearly 15,000 upstate persons into Franklin county were to blame for "planting a trap." The motorcade had planned to go south, into Dowell, near the Franklin county line. There an overnight stop was to be made and Franklin county was to be visited today.

It was a surprised and disappointed delegation that headed homeward. Jubilant after victory in a march on Taylorville where several mines were closed peacefully, the marchers expected a welcome in southern Illinois.

The trip down from Stanton and Gillespie, where the strikers massed yesterday, had a holiday aspect. Cars were searched, strike leaders said, for arms and weapons. None was found, they reported. It was to be a peaceful march in the history of the United States.

The carnival spirit was gone today as the cars trekked home.

Sheriff Browning Robinson at Benton, today dismissed between 400 and 500 special deputies.

Sheriff Robinson said: "We wanted them for days. They were told they would not be permitted to enter the county. Our men are at work. They want to work. We shall protect them and if invaders come back—"

The departing strikers said: "We will be back later. We will be back to meet the sheriff's men with the welcome they gave us."

HUSBAND HELD FOR SLAYING

Alex Wysocki Accused of Plotting Death of His Wife

Detroit, Aug. 25 (AP)—Alex Wysocki, whose wife was shot to death on the night of May 28 in what was believed to have been a holdup attempt, was under arrest tonight after police reported that he Sams had confessed Wysocki paid him $500 to kill his wife.

Wysocki, 32, police said, denied he knew Sams, but the officials reported that they had a complete confession of the slaying. Three others, two women and a man, were held as police witnesses.

Sams, the police said, was arrested Tuesday night, and confessed that he received $500 from Wysocki after the slaying. Police said he told them, however, that he did not intend to kill Mrs. Wysocki, but planned to "double cross" Wysocki by obtaining the money from him. He said he carried out the attempted holdup as Wysocki and his wife drove up in front of their home, and that when Mrs. Wysocki seized his revolver it was discharged, the bullet causing her death.

At the time of the slaying, Wysocki reported to police that two young men crowded his car to the curb near his home, and that when the bandits found Wysocki had no money, one of them shot and killed Mrs. Wysocki.

The police said Sams told them Wysocki laid the plans, and that several times an attempt failed once when Mrs. Wysocki jumped from the car as she sat at the curb in front of a blind pig.

Police also arrested Florence Marsh, formerly a bookkeeper at Wysocki's meat market; Elmer Emper, said by officials to be a blind pig operator, and Marie Lewis, friend of Emper. They said they found Miss Marsh at Wysocki's home when they arrived to arrest him. All are held as police witnesses.

The officials also said they have been shadowing Wysocki since the night of the holdup.

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—"Coal" discovered near Hart may be black shale which will burn, according to R. A. Smith, state geologist. No state undertaken until additional analysis of the material will be formed has been received, he said.

STATE TO BID FOR PRISONER

Jacobinski's Release at Minneapolis Sought in Court Action

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—Michigan will seek to bring about the release of John Jacobinski, from a Minneapolis jail, through habeas corpus proceedings, Emerson R. Boyles, deputy attorney general, announced today.

A Capizzi, assistant attorney general, was directed to proceed from Escanaba, where he was spending his vacation, to Minneapolis to start court action. Jacobinski, who was a prisoner in the custody of Sheriff Edward Reindl of Menominee county, being returned to this state to face bank robbery charges, was "taken away" from the sheriff by Minneapolis police officers who insisted upon holding him on a murder charge. Boyles was informed by telephone today that while the attorney general of Minnesota believed he should be released to the Michigan officer the Minneapolis police refused to let him out of jail.

Paul W. Voorhies, attorney general, said that if Jacobinski's release is effected and is returned to Michigan, the state of Minnesota, if it wishes him on the more serious charge, may start extradition proceeding in an "orderly way."

UP TO GOVERNORS

Minneapolis, Aug. 25 (AP)—A representative of the Michigan attorney general's office today started to regain for his state custody of John Jacobinski, murder and bank robbery suspect, who was seized from a Michigan sheriff by Minneapolis police Tuesday.

This information was given Peter Neilson, assistant county attorney, in a telephone conversation with Paul W. Voorhies, Michigan attorney general.

James E. Markham, deputy attorney general of Minnesota, in a letter to Voorhies said, in the holding of Jacobinski by Minneapolis police after they had taken him from Sheriff Edward J. Reindl of Menominee, Mich., was "unauthorized" but that his office had no authority to order the man's release.

Reindl said "it's up to the governor's office. Whatever they do, I'm satisfied." He plans to remain awaiting a decision.

HOOVER PLANS FOR CONCLAVE

Economic Parley to Be Opened Today at Washington

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP)—Organization of a central committee of business leaders to guide national activity to higher levels of employment was recommended today as the first point of the economic conference called by President Hoover.

The twelve chairmen of the business and industrial committees of the federal reserve system, meeting with government heads, also agreed upon a "definite program" for the stimulation of business to be submitted to the conference of 250 industrial and agricultural leaders assembling tomorrow.

Secretary Mills and Owen D. Young, of New York, fathered the program for putting more American dollars to work and giving more men jobs which came out of the all-day session of the executive committee. It was withheld, however, for submission to the general meeting tomorrow, where Mr. Mills said its approval would be asked.

President Hoover, who will open the economic parley tomorrow in the spacious auditorium of the new Commerce building, called the conference of business leaders tonight at the White House. Almost every captain of industry—Democrat and Republican—will be here for the meeting.

Although both the major radio chains had made arrangements to broadcast the speeches of President Hoover and others tomorrow morning, these were cancelled suddenly this afternoon by the conference executive committee. No explanation was given, although it was said unofficially that the broadcasting of the only administration leaders on the air might be interpreted as political propaganda.

Secretary Mills, in a statement tonight, explained the day's meeting as follows:

"As the conclusion of the session it was the sense of those present that they would recommend to the conference that is to meet tomorrow the setting up of a central committee of the banking and industrial committees regarding co-operation."

The plans were painted red and bore the inscriptions "Green Mountain Boy" and "Barre-Montpeller," the granite center of the world," as well as the identification number NR-7576.

The first leg of the flight was marred by a forced landing at Burgeo Beach where they remained overnight in the ship, coming here yesterday.

The same storm that forced Lee and Bochkon down at Burgeo was responsible for Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, who flew from New York Tuesday, also intent upon a flight to Oslo, remaining behind today at Darby's Harbour, Falmouth Bay.

The storm plans were wrecked when it plunged into the bay there Tuesday night. The ship was towed ashore by fishermen and will be dismantled.

LEE-BOCHKEN HOP OFF FROM HARBOR GRACE

FLIERS HEADED FOR OSLO, NORWAY ON OCEAN JAUNT

Harbor Grace, N. F., Aug. 25 (AP)—Far out on the hazardous west to east air trail of the north Atlantic tonight were Clyde A. Lee of Oshkosh, Wis., and John Bochkon, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in a projected non-stop flight from Harbor Grace to Oslo, Norway.

Lee and Bochkon took off in their plane, the "Green Mountain Boy," at 5:02 Eastern Standard Time this morning. Clear skies were overhead at the takeoff and a tail wind pushed them along toward their goal. Hours later no word of their progress had been received from ships at sea. Although the weather was favorable here, it was expected Lee and Bochkon would have to battle a rainstorm about 600 miles off Newfoundland. Otherwise, weather reports indicated they should have clear weather to Europe.

Lee is Commander

The 3,150 mile route laid out by the aviators would carry them over Dublin, Ireland, Boston, England, and Cuxhaven, Germany. They carried gasoline sufficient for 37 hours of flying, or seven hours longer than they estimated would be necessary for completion of the hop. The first leg of the flight was begun at the Barre Montpeller, Vt. airport Tuesday.

Lee, 24-year-old former barnstorming flier, was pilot-commander of the flight with Bochkon as co-pilot. It was his first venture in ocean flying, although he has had about nine years experience in aviation.

Bochkon, 32-year-old, is a former member of the Norwegian flying corps.

Only a small gathering of Harbor Grace residents was on hand when Lee and Bochkon said their adieu.

Although confident they will bring the Green Mountain Boy down safely in Norway, Lee and Bochkon were prepared for a sea landing. The plane's cabin doors were sealed to make room for emergency gasoline tanks and a hole was cut through the roof to permit entrance and exit. It was hoped that in the event of a sea landing the empty gasoline tanks would keep the craft afloat, at least until time permitted Lee and Bochkon to cut the motor away from the body. A hack saw was carried as a part of the equipment for use if such a step became necessary.

Food supplies for the flight consisted of sandwiches, 2 1/2 gallons of water, a quart of milk, a pint of coffee and a quantity of concentrated food tablets.

The plans were painted red and bore the inscriptions "Green Mountain Boy" and "Barre-Montpeller," the granite center of the world," as well as the identification number NR-7576.

The first leg of the flight was marred by a forced landing at Burgeo Beach where they remained overnight in the ship, coming here yesterday.

The same storm that forced Lee and Bochkon down at Burgeo was responsible for Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, who flew from New York Tuesday, also intent upon a flight to Oslo, remaining behind today at Darby's Harbour, Falmouth Bay.

The storm plans were wrecked when it plunged into the bay there Tuesday night. The ship was towed ashore by fishermen and will be dismantled.

Death Takes Leader Of Chicago Society

Mrs. Edith McCormick Succumbs to Cancer

Chicago, Aug. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, younger daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., died at 4:40 p. m. (CDT) today from the ravages of cancer.

The Chicago society leader who once was recognized as the richest woman in the world died peacefully after she had been in a coma for more than 13 hours. She would have been 69 years old on Aug. 31.

Death occurred in an apartment in the Drake hotel overlooking the Lake Shore Drive mansion, the gift of her father, which she deserted a few weeks ago when, apparently, she realized the seriousness of her illness.

Family at Bedside

With her when she died were her divorced husband, Harold F. McCormick; their daughters, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser and Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, their son, Fowler; Mrs. Hubbard's husband, Major Elihu D. Hubbard of Connecticut; Fowler's wife, a little more than a year, the former "Fifi" Stillman; and Edwin Krenn, the Swiss architect who long had been her social escort and business adviser.

Physicians who attended Mrs. McCormick said her last illness was the recurrence of a breast cancer for which she had been operated upon two years ago.

Soon after she moved into the hotel apartment, close members of her family, separated for several years by disagreements over domestic affairs, began to gather at her bedside and the seriousness of her condition became known publicly.

Mrs. Oser and her husband, Max, whose marriage had been opposed by Mrs. McCormick, leading to an estrangement of several years, hurried from their home in Switzerland, Oser remaining in the east. It was the first time that the family had been brought together in 11 years. Mrs. Hubbard's marriage to the former Mrs. Stillman had estranged them from their mother for many months.

Since Harold McCormick and Mrs. McCormick were divorced 10 years ago, he had married Mme. Gamma Wasska, Polish opera singer, but was later divorced from her. He paid his first wife occasional visits after his second divorce and in the last two weeks

NEW SHOW AT NIGHT; DERBY IN AFTERNOON

GOVERNOR BRUCKER DELIVERS TWO ADDRESSES

With a complete change of program for the night show, and harness races giving way to running races in the afternoon, visitors at the Upper Peninsula state fair today and tomorrow will be given a new entertainment menu. Interest in the fair is increasing steadily, as evinced by the crowds, and last night was the biggest show of them all, with about 9,500 people witnessing the huge outdoor stage show.

Today is the first time that running races have ever been featured at the Upper Peninsula fair, and they are attracting much comment. John F. Nicol of Sparta, Wis., will be the starter, and there are 18 running horses at the barn awaiting the dropping of the barrier at 3 p. m. this afternoon.

Brucker Speaks

Governor Wilbur M. Brucker addressed the fair crowd from the platform in front of the grandstand in the afternoon, and also witnessed the entire program of horse races and acts.

The governor placed his stamp of approval upon the agricultural fair idea as long as it justifies its existence in the development of farming in proportion to its cost to the taxpayer. He praised the Upper Peninsula State Fair, commenting particularly upon the wonderful exhibit of livestock and the department devoted to the interests of the 4-H boys and girls clubs.

"It means much to the agricultural interests of the state to secure the continuance of the fair," Governor Brucker declared. "It stimulates competition and interest in agricultural endeavor. Competition is the spice of life. It makes for better production and arouses the desire to improve."

"The boys and girls of the 4-H club are having the time of their lives because they are realizing that to strive and excel means the most in life."

Continuity Needed

The governor explained that when the matter of effecting governmental economies came up before him a year and a half ago, it was proposed that the fair be eliminated. He added, however, that he had advocated the retention of fairs, even though it may be necessary to trim down on expenditures here and there, because he felt there should be a continuity of this endeavor. To abandon it, he declared, would be to lose all the benefits that have been made in the development of agriculture thus far, and when prosperity returns the farming interests of the state would have to start all over again.

Governor Brucker also sounded a note of optimism in concluding his address, stating that the rise of commodity, bond and stock market prices gives him every reason to believe business and industry was on the upgrade. No political issues were discussed by the governor. Following the afternoon program, he visited the various departments of the fair, and in the evening he addressed the upper peninsula dairymen's meeting.

Illinois Banker Found At Chelsea

Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 25 (AP)—William A. Ernsing, 42, banker who had been missing from his home in Bensenville, Ill., since Saturday afternoon, was found late today. Apparently he had been a victim of amnesia and he said that he could recall none of his actions since Saturday afternoon.

"When I came to this afternoon, I was walking along a railroad track about two miles out of Chelsea," he told the Associated Press. "I couldn't remember anything since I was sitting on a bench in Washington Park, Chicago, last Saturday. I must have walked a long way, because my feet were sore and I was worn out. I guess I ate fairly regularly, because I was not terribly hungry. As nearly as I can calculate, I believe I was sitting on a bench about 20 miles west of Ann Arbor. It is on the Detroit-Chicago line of the Michigan Central railroad and on Highway U. B."

Vacation Period Longer This Year

Frank R. Johnson of Prudenville, Houghton lake, is calling the attention of the press and public to the fact that Labor Day comes on September 5 this year, and that the late date may be a good thing for the tourist and resort business.

Mr. Johnson is proprietor of the Rustic Tavern in the Houghton lake forest and is well known in the Upper Peninsula.

"This year people with children can extend their vacations through the last week in August, and during the first week or possibly the first two weeks in September, without placing their children at a disadvantage as far as school is concerned," said Mr. Johnson.

"Public grade and high schools will open for the fall term much later than usual. It should be easily possible to promote a longer resort season this year, and resort owners and operators should take advantage as far as possible of this unusual situation."

Amelia Completes Non-Stop Crossing Of United States

Newark, N. J., Aug. 25. (AP)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart, Putnam, a tired but cheerful aviator, landed at Newark airport today, completing the first non-stop spanning of the continent ever made by a woman flier.

Succeeding where she had failed once before, the tussle-haired young woman brought her crimson and gold high wing Lockheed Vega monoplane down in a perfect three-point landing at 10:31 a. m. (E. S. T.), exactly nineteen hours, four minutes, six seconds after her hop-off from Los Angeles.

Tucked in the cockpit with her, Mrs. Putnam carried two new aviation records: a transcontinental speed mark for women, and a new distance flight record for women. In making the new distance record, Mrs. Putnam surpassed the previous standard of Miss Ruth Nichols by several hundred miles. Miss Nichols set her mark of 2,000 miles on a non-stop jaunt from Oakland, Cal., to Louisville, Ky.

SANJURJO IS FOUND GUILTY

First Sentenced to Die, Then Later to Life Imprisonment

BY REX SMITH
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Madrid, Aug. 25. (AP)—General Jose Sanjurjo, an old war horse of the royalist regime, was convicted of rebellion against the young republic today and sentenced to death. His sentence was then commuted to life imprisonment.

The climax of a day and a half of deliberation by a mixed tribunal of the supreme court and the cabinet violently divided the populace according to its sympathies and gave rise to rumors of another monarchist uprising.

General Herrans, Sanjurjo's lifelong companion in arms, was sentenced to 30 years in prison—equivalent to a life term—Lieut. Colonel Infantes received a term of 12 years, and Captain Justo Sanjurjo, the general's son, was liberated. These sentences were not altered.

Sentence Commuted
The chief defendants were found guilty of conspiring to place Don Juan Carlos, third son of former King Alfonso, on the vacant throne in the short-lived revolt of two weeks ago, which led to the occupation of Seville for a few hours and bloodshed in the streets of Madrid.

The eight civil military judges after 20 hours of debate pronounced the verdicts without recommendations of mercy and submitted their findings to the cabinet for final review in accordance with Spanish law.

Premier Manuel Azana, emerging from a stormy session of the ministry, announced to a chamber of deputies that the government had decided to petition President Alcala Zamora to commute General Sanjurjo's penalty to life behind the bars. The president signed the commutation papers a short while later.

Immediately on his announcement pandemonium reigned in the chamber. Waves of applause rolled in from the rightist sections. Shouts of resentment came from radical groups. A number of impatient fistfights broke out among the deputies.

Manifestations against the clemency edict were held in several parts of the city. Troops surrounding the military prison in which the defendants were confined dispersed several groups of agitators. Another outbreak was put down in Puerto Del Sol, the Times Square of Madrid.

FARMERS IRKED OVER ARRESTS

55 Men Held for Picketing Highways Are Freed on Bond

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 25. (AP)—When a thousand angry farmers threatened to storm the jail, county officials tonight released on bonds 55 men who had picketed nearby highways in an effort to blockade the Omaha market.

Farmers from western Iowa communities invaded Council Bluffs late today and besieged the county jail, which was guarded by about 200 special deputy sheriffs and police armed with machine guns and shot-guns.

F. Raymond Snyder of Kingsley, Ia., a leader in the movement to increase farm prices by blockading markets, had warned Sheriff P. A. Lalson that if the picketers were not released tonight the farmers would raid the jail and free them.

Lalson conferred with other county officials and it was agreed to release the prisoners on $100 bonds each and bring them in later for trial.

Property bonds covering bail were presented for 43 men whose cases were to be heard Wednesday. Earlier 12 men, who had been sent to jail for 30 days for failure to pay $100 fines, were liberated.

Charged with unlawful assembly, the picketers were arrested last night while attempting to keep the livestock and produce trucks from reaching the important Omaha market. Only one road was being picketed today in Iowa.

As the imprisoned farmers left the jail, the crowd of several hundred spectators and farmers dispersed.

The day was not without its casualties, however. Claude Dall of Council Bluffs, a special deputy, was fatally wounded by an accidental discharge of a sawed-off shot gun while being shown how to operate it. Joe Ludwig, another new deputy, was slightly wounded.

In a statement issued late today at Des Moines, Governor Dan Turner declared that the farm strike situation does not in his judgement call for use of Iowa national guard troops.

The national guard is in annual encampment at Des Moines. The holiday sentiment was evidenced on yet another section today. Farmers of Pipestone county, Minn., plan to start a picket. Monday, John Steffen, leader of the movement there, announced. Pipestone county is near the Iowa and South Dakota lines.

H. M. Harden of St. Paul, a director of the Minnesota farmers holiday association, said use of force had not been sanctioned by the state unit and declared "we are firmly against the action taken in the vicinity of Sioux City and Omaha."

Southeastern Iowa farm holiday leaders announced today through Carl Stearnburg, Des Moines county chairman, that township chairmen of Des Moines, Louisa, Lee and Henry counties will meet in Burlington Monday to discuss activity in the strike.

Charges of unlawful assembly, which carried a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail, were brought against 88 pickets arrested by Sheriff John A. Davenport at Sioux City. He believed the arrests broke the strike in that vicinity.

Cessna Wins Leg Of Airplane Race

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 25. (AP)—Sixty-six of the approximately 100 airplanes competing in the transcontinental air derby had arrived at Parks airport early tonight with Eldon Cessna, of Wichita, Kan., winning the leg of the race from Jefferson City by only a fraction of a second.

The first plane of the eastern division to arrive was that of S. C. Huffman, of Cincinnati, O., and the second arrival in this flight was Doug Davis of Atlanta, Ga. Chappie Lenox, of New Haven, who landed fifth in the eastern division, continued to lead in points, with a total of 975.3.

MRS. McCORMICK TAKEN BY DEATH

was in constant attendance at Mrs. McCormick's bedside. Financial worries
Late last week, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the sick woman's brother whom she had not seen for several years, left his summer home in Maine, where he himself had been ill, and came here to visit his sister. He left for the east after a two day visit when Mrs. McCormick rallied. Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice, Mrs. McCormick's older sister, also came last week from her home in the east for a visit, returning after several days.

Financial worries, Krenn said, hastened her final breakdown. In 1923, she organized her vast Chicago and suburban real estate holdings into the $5,000,000 Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust and entrusted management of the properties to the firm of Krenn and Dato, headed by the former Swiss architect. With the decline in values since 1923, Mrs. McCormick sacrificed a considerable portion of her private fortune in Standard Oil and other stocks to aid many who had purchased her properties.

For the last two weeks, Mrs. McCormick amazed her physicians with her will power in recovering from relapses which they expected to prove fatal. All hope was abandoned only a few hours before the arrival of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., when she lapsed into a coma. She recovered sufficiently to embrace her brother and to confer the following day upon business matters. She likewise recovered from another sudden sinking spell on Tuesday night.

Wednesday night, the attending doctor reported Mrs. McCormick was holding her own, but she fell later into a sound sleep. At daybreak today a nurse noticed a change in the patient's condition and summoned a doctor. Restoratives and stimulants seemingly revived the dying woman for a time, but she soon slipped into the deep coma preceding death and never regained consciousness.

Born at Cleveland in 1872, she was the third child and youngest of the venerable Standard Oil magnate and financier who, at the age of 63, survives her. Her marriage in 1895 to Harold F. McCormick, son of Cyrus, inventor of the reaper, united two of the greatest fortunes in America.

Never Served Liquor
Her home in Chicago was a center of intellectual and artistic leadership. For several decades the acknowledged dictator of Chicago society, she earned also a high reputation as a philanthropist and occasioned widespread interest by her dip into the realm of spiritualism. For several years before divorce disrupted the McCormick ménage, she and her husband had supported the old Chicago Opera company.

She never served liquor at her parties and no social event could boast more brilliant rosters of guests. She was a staunch advocate of prohibition.

Guests at a dinner party at the time of the excavation of King Tutankhamen's tomb in Egypt several years ago were startled when Mrs. McCormick asserted that she had been the wife of the ancient monarch in a previous existence. She did not elaborate on this statement.

Astrology and poetry also deeply engrossed her and psychology, which she had studied under the famous Jung and Freud in Europe, intrigued her interests.

Mrs. McCormick's artistic pursuits led her to collect jewelry, rugs, a private library of first edition rarities hardly surpassed in this country, and other treasures. Among her treasures were gilded chairs once owned by Napoleon, the gold service Napoleon gave his sister, Princess Borghese, a collection of old lace which rivalled the Vatican, and matchless jewels, most famous of which were her emeralds.

Endowed Institute
Her first child, christened John Rockefeller, was born the year following her marriage but lived only five years, dying of scarlet fever. His death led his parents to one of their first philanthropic projects. They founded and endowed the John McCormick Institute of Infectious Diseases here and 20 years later Mrs. McCormick still was contributing $25,000 annually to it. Institute scientists isolated the scarlet fever germ and, in this manner, helped reduce the country's infant mortality rate.

A few minutes after Mrs. McCormick died, relatives revealed, a member of the family telephoned John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at his estate in Pocantico Hills, N. Y.

Friends said it was extremely unlikely that the elder Rockefeller would come to Chicago for the funeral, arrangements for which are to be announced later.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Petersburg, Ind.—Lloyd Russell, 14, has a fish story to tell. He was fishing from a boat in White River. He had a bite and started to reel in. But the tugging on the end of his line was too strong for his young arms. The fish began to gain on the boy. The boat began to move, and Lloyd was towed down the river for quite a distance before the fish tired and was landed. It was a 41-pound sturgeon.

WALKER CASE DRAGS ALONG

Discussion of Private Life of Mayor Is Averted

BY WALTER T. BROWN
Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25. (AP)—Witness' stalling memory averted the public exposition tonight of a discussion of Mayor Walker's private life which took place at a closed hearing of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr., former aid to Samuel Seabury, was asked by John J. Curtin, Walker's counsel, at a night session of the Walker ouster hearing:

"What was it that prompted the remark by Mr. Block (Paul Block, the publisher) 'Are you investigating Mr. Walker's public life or private life?'"

Schurman said he didn't "remember very well," and added, "In justice to Mayor Walker I would rather not say."

"Don't spare me," Walker, sitting at his counsel table, called the question. When Curtin pressed the question, Schurman said: "I don't remember."

Schurman, replying to Seabury's questions, said Block voluntarily gave information about the mayor's private affairs. The witness explained this was given while the official stenographer was out of the room.

Seabury had called Schurman to answer Mr. Block's testimony that he had seen a missing check for $7,500 which was made out to the "unknown person" in the case and which had been drawn on the Block-Walker stock market account. A facsimile of the check was printed in a New York paper.

While tonight's session was in progress, Mr. Roosevelt recessed it for 12 minutes while he made a radio appeal for funds for the Democratic presidential campaign. He is the nominee.

This afternoon Governor Roosevelt threatened to exclude the public from the Walker ouster hearing after a burst of applause following upon a pointed exchange of remarks between Samuel Seabury and Arthur J. W. Hilly, New York City corporation counsel.

Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter investigating committee, questioned Hilly about an inquiry into fee splitting charges to the mayor's brother, Dr. William Walker.

"How many years do you think your investigation will take?" Seabury asked.

"My investigation won't take one-tenth of the time a certain other investigation has taken," Hilly shot back, leaning forward out of his chair, "and I venture to say it won't cost the state anywhere nearly so much."

Roosevelt raised his head and looked at a group of women along the wall applauding.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I can't have any applause at this hearing. I shall have to exclude the public if there is any more."

A few seconds later, Mr. Roosevelt's face became white and he shook his finger at Hilly as he questioned him about fee splitting.

"Do you consider it to the interest of the city for doctors to split fees?" he inquired. "Answer 'yes' or 'no.'"

"I'd have to know the circumstances," Hilly replied.

NEW SHOW AT NIGHT; DERBY IN AFTERNOON

Peninsula horse pulling championship will also be run off today. Heavy draft teams will compete for the honor, starting at 10 a. m. The stock parade, with blue ribbon winners and the royalty of the livestock world passing on review, is scheduled for the opening of the afternoon program. The prize animals in all classes will be led around the track in front of the grandstand to make a parade over a half a mile long. Today is Iron, Goebick and Ontonagon day, and large crowds are expected from these counties.

The night show was scheduled to change programs Thursday night but due to the rain Wednesday evening, that program was repeated last night and the complete change will be presented tonight and Saturday night. New songs, new dances, new costumes, new scenery and an entirely new theme will be carried out by the company of over 60 who make up the "Winter Garden Revue" cast, feature of the evening performance.

Six headliner acts of vaudeville and hippodrome will be presented on the afternoon program and as an accompaniment to the 2 1/2 hour night show, which starts at 7:30 with a band concert.

Exhibits at the million dollar fair, and the panoramic midway are remaining through until closing time Saturday night.

Four special contests, the hog calling, cow calling, husband calling and rolling pin tossing, are on the program for Saturday morning.

Welsh Will Be On The Job, He Says

Howell, Mich., Aug. 25. (AP)—George W. Welsh, former city manager of Grand Rapids and now a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, said in an address here today that he elected he would have "no time for parading the highways, accompanied by state police, laying corner stones or crowning queens."

He said that, if elected, he would be "on the job seven days a week, starting immediately after the election."

Welsh attacked the state conservation department for furnishing its deputies with "$14 badges" and said the state tax burden could be reduced "at least one half."

He made three other addresses today, at Gregory, Pinckney and Fowlerville.

HELPS, NOT HURTS

WILLIAM MCKEIGHAN, in giving one of his gubernatorial campaign talks at Sault Ste. Marie, made the statement that Prohibition is robbing that city of its tourist trade, explaining that the visitors pass right through the Michigan city and go to the Canadian Sault where beer and other liquors are available.
Prohibition may be injuring the summer resorts in the Potosi and Traverse City regions, but Mr. McKeighan, we believe, has not given a careful analysis of the situation in Sault Ste. Marie. If anything, Prohibition has been a great tourist asset for the Michigan Sault.

Resort men in the northern part of Lower Michigan report that many of the tourists who used to stop there now pass by on their way to the two Saules. The American Sault has benefited from the flow of tourists to the Canadian side because it is natural that they will stop on this side of the river to eat, buy gasoline and other things. Many tourists also put up for the night in the Michigan Sault hotels and lodging rooms, from which they make excursions to the Canadian side.

Not overlooking the fact that the famous locks and other scenic beauties have attracted many visitors, Sault Ste. Marie citizens must realize that they are sharing in the benefits of the tourist flow to Canada, because of the existence of Prohibition in this country. There are still many American citizens who like to return to the familiar surroundings of the old-time bar, where they can drink without a troubled conscience. Undoubtedly, too, many conventions have been awarded to the Lock City because of the opportunities for entertainment that are provided across the river.

Sault Ste. Marie values its tourist trade highly, but Mr. McKeighan did not quite peg the situation correctly when he referred to Prohibition as injuring that community from that standpoint.

BRUCKER PROMISES TO IMPROVE SYSTEM

SPEAKING at Marquette Wednesday, Governor Wilbert M. Brucker made what can be considered a promise to revamp the state police organization by either enlarging upon its duties or curtailing whatever activities are unnecessary.

The governor stated that the state administration, through a special personnel commission, is making a study of the state police system, and that if it is found that the troopers can take over the duties of inspectors and other state office-holders, such reform will be carried out.

The newspapers of the state generally have been united in supporting Governor Brucker in his stand on the state police. Brucker appears to be standing alone in this attitude among the candidates for virtually all the other Republican and Democratic aspirants favor either elimination of state police or curtailment of their functions.

Friends of the state police believe that they form an essential protective organization in this modern day. There are times, they point out, when the troopers are not exceptionally busy, however, and during such periods they believe that they could carry on the inspection work that is now done by other political job-holders, who are riding about the state in automobiles, staying at the best hotels, and eating big juicy steaks, all at the taxpayers' expense.

NEW RACES TODAY

WHENEVER mention is made of horse racing in the upper peninsula it is natural that everyone thinks only of the harness events, such as have been staged at racetracks in this region during the last half century.

As a result, the public here does not attach any different significance when mention is made of running races. For the first time in history, the Upper Peninsula State Fair will offer a program of running races today. In such events, the jockey rides astride his horse, and the sulky is conspicuous because of its absence.

The running race is the original "sport of kings." This is the kind of horse racing that folks in 'ol Kentuck' go wild about. How it will be received by racing fans at the fair today will be matter of much interest.

Those who have read a lot about the Kentucky Derby and other racing classics naturally will want to see a sample of such racing. The Upper Peninsula State Fair management is to be congratulated for bringing such an attraction here.

IS THERE HOPE?
THE ballyhoo in behalf of the return of prosperity, so intense 10 days or so ago, has somewhat subsided. Evidently prosperity is not to be brought in over night and set up like a circus tent.

It may be in order, however, to inquire whether there is any reasonable basis for the expectation of better times. If, after inquiry, and without listening to ballyhoo and without any reference to Wall Street, it is found there is substantial basis of expectancy encouragement should rest in such findings.

The State Journal is in reasonable position with respect to the recent rise of prices in Wall Street. This paper reported them and joined in such interest as the showing manifested, but it was pointed out that the rise in stocks must be due to hope and expectation. It was due, too, in part to the desire to get in early on the bargain lying around.

But rising prices on stocks and bonds cannot make prosperity. When prosperity returns it will mean the resumption of the usual flow of business. The usual flow of business means employment. The movements that cause fundamental prosperity come from the bottom up and not from the top down. By that is meant that people in the homes of the land must begin to satisfy their customary wants. When the people are satisfying their wants trade moves.

There does appear to be substantial evidence that people are once more beginning to satisfy their needs as they have not been doing in some time. As yet that movement is barely more than discernible. One reason why such buying is reasonable to expect is because all through the depression there have been a great many more people employed than unemployed. It is estimated that there are at present 35,000,000 employed. For a considerable period, of sufficient length to indicate some consistency, prices of commodities have been tending slightly upward. Even slightly rising prices are likely to stimulate buying on the part of the 35,000,000 employed. There has been some slight evidence of such a tendency.

This depression is most frequently compared to that of 1896. Those who may be relied upon for information about that period say that the first faint stirrings of better times, after three years' stagnation, came faintly in August of that year. There was no bound upward at that time, but there was the faint beginning of a tendency. By mid-November of that year there was a rather steady, and appreciable trade movement. It increased gradually.—Lansing State Journal.

for LOVE or MONEY

(By NEA Service) BY E. W. COBLEY

CHAPTER XXXII
MR. GARRETTON spoke amiably. "As far as Barry is concerned there is nothing to be done. It isn't necessary. I don't think he would accept any of his uncle's money even if you could offer it. The mine, you say, is a going concern. Suppose this young Saccarelli does own more than half of it! Let Barry wait. At 30 he can buy back his share. Or he can return and enter the family business. There is always a place waiting for him."

"I'll see if lunch cannot be hurried," Mona said suddenly. "I understand. Mr. Garretson. Please! Let's talk of other things."

A servant answered her ring and intimated that luncheon would be served immediately. Mona and the lawyer sat facing each other across the shining mahogany table. The girl made a lovely picture in the high-backed chair against which her bronzed hair glowed. Black was becoming. Mr. Garretson noted with satisfaction that it was a well selected gown she was wearing.

He did not blame young Barry for anything except not marrying her immediately. The boy, forsaking the usual impetuosity of youth, had delayed. There had been cruel misunderstandings all around. Ah well, possibly youth in itself was recompense. Mr. Garretson sighed.

As he left the Townsend house and walked briskly toward Fifth avenue in the warm January sunshine, the lawyer said to himself, "She'll find some way to sid Barry!" He sighed for possibly the tenth time that day.

Left alone, Mona stood at the window and tapped the sill absently. She felt no keen loss as she would have had she and her husband seen more of one another on the way to her own did she realize that now she was mistress of this great house. It was hers alone.

IN her sitting room she paused at the little French telephone, called Pilgrim's and asked for Lottie.
"Dine with me tonight?"
It was agreed without delay. Lottie had come to the telephone only a few moments before she was expected on the floor. She assured Mona that the rose taffeta she was wearing was "a knock-out."

"You ought to buy it, Min," Lottie insisted.
"All right, I'll buy it for you." Smiling, Mona replaced the instrument. It was pleasant to think that any time she wished she could make such gifts. There were so many things she could do for those who had long been deprived, who had never known much happiness. Her own family, the neighbors over on Third avenue. Friends at the office. There were things she could do for everyone—except Barry!

Lottie arrived in a flurry of cold air, rosy cheeks and sweet-smelling tulle. Mona had sent the car for her and Lottie was not without a sense of importance at the flutter she had caused among her co-workers as she entered the limousine.
"They probably think the chauffeur is my boy friend," she admitted ruefully. "There's just no impressive women who don't want to be impressed."

"How much?" she repeated. She broke onto a smile. She had flung herself on the chaise longue and stretched her lithe young body out under the soft light restfully. "Oh, it's wonderful to have rich friends. How much am I getting? Oh, about half."

"Half what?" demanded Mona. "I'm getting $80 per. Not peradventure, either. Per week. 'You're worth $100,' Mona decided reflectively.
Lottie shrugged. "Henri says there is a depression."

Mona considered slowly. "How would you like to work for me?" she asked. "As my companion, I'll give you $100 and your wardrobe."
"Don't you think I'm companion enough now?" demanded Lottie.

"You can't just walk out on her, of course," Mona agreed. The days of trying to meet bills were not so far behind that she had forgotten ways and means. "Anyhow, I don't want to ask you to give up your flat. You like it too much. Keep it and I'll see to the expense. Stay there any time you like, but work for me."
"Why, Mona, I'd love to!"
Mona sat in the easiest chair and leaned against it. "Then that's settled," she said cheerfully.

"Now here is my plan." She rose and pressed the bell. "The order dinner sent up. It's cooler, listen. I want to close this house shortly. And you and I are going—"

She broke off as the maid appeared. Mona gave a brief order for the meal which she asked to have served before the fire.

"Twilands!" asked Lottie, a trifle dismayed.
Mona shook her head. "Twilands isn't mine. John left Twilands to Elizabeth and Barry."

"He did!" Lottie said scornfully. "So he did that much for Barry?"
"That, at any rate. And I'm going to do more." Briefly she outlined her conversation with Mr. Garretson earlier in the day.

"But what can you do for Barry," asked Lottie, puzzled. "If the money's all tied up this way?"
"That's why I'm engaging you to be my companion and secretary," Mona pointed out seriously. "You can think of a way!"
"Maybe," Lottie's tone was doubtful. "Listen, Mona, if my job depends on finding a way to lade out $10,000,000 to Barry Pilgrim's?" began Mona speculatively. Lottie guessed instantly that the question was not idle curiosity.

"How much?" she repeated. She broke onto a smile. She had flung herself on the chaise longue and stretched her lithe young body out under the soft light restfully. "Oh, it's wonderful to have rich friends. How much am I getting? Oh, about half."

"Half what?" demanded Mona. "I'm getting $80 per. Not peradventure, either. Per week. 'You're worth $100,' Mona decided reflectively.

"Maybe," Lottie's tone was eyes glistening, her hair ruffled from contact with the pillows.

"Mona Moran!" she cried. "I'm slipping! I've been your companion for 20 minutes and it's taken both of us all this while to think of that!"

OPINIONS
Could all the minds of men agree
The world would want one sort of tree,
And if we all could think together,
All men prefer one kind of weather,
And yet the beauty of the woods
Is in its thousand shades and moods,
The earth is good for many reasons,
And most of all its changing seasons.

Upon the stone the flint strikes fire,
And warring thoughts the great thoughts inspire,
Some men are cheered and some are hooded,
Yet wisest speak when most confuted,
The moving winds make blue the seas,
Disturb its dull placidity,
We meet our foes an overcome them,
And learn our great lessons from them.

I pity those who friends possess
Whose answer evermore is yes,
Be glad for winds that beat about you,
And thank the Lord for those who doubt you,
For truth, whatever is your trade,
Upon the anvil must be made,
It is not learned from mingling nations,
But in the clash of men's opinions.

EXPERTS TALK ON DAIRYING

Modern Methods Used in Industry Explained By Speakers
Problems of the dairy farmers were discussed from varied angles in highly interesting and instructive talks given by a distinguished group of speakers at the annual dairymen's banquet at the Swedish M. E. church tent at the Upper Peninsula State Fair last night.

Headlining the program was Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, who, although he did not delve into the technical features of dairy farming, he did outline some sound views upon the important place dairies should hold in the field of agricultural development.

Some ideas regarding modern trends in dairying science and the operation of agricultural fairs were expounded in an interesting manner by E. M. Harmon, dairy editor of Successful Farming, nationally known farming publication. He, too, lauded the accomplishments of upper peninsula dairymen as demonstrated by their exhibits at the state fair.

Regarding possible trends in the dairy industry and exhibitions, Mr. Harmon stated that some way must be found for more effectively correlating type and production in our shows. There are too many blanks taking first place," he stated, and added that these large fairs have established production requirements within the last two years.

Cordial Reception Given To Executive in Newberry

Wilbur M. Brucker, governor of Michigan and candidate for reelection, was given a whole-hearted greeting by a crowd of about 500 persons on Wednesday afternoon, an unusually large crowd for the time of day. Met at the Sault by Lawrence Redmond, chairman of the Luce county Brucker committee, the governor arrived in Newberry in time for a brief conference with Dr. E. H. Campbell, superintendent of the Newberry state hospital before he came on down town to meet the crowd. The McMillan township band was playing and dozens of cars had parked about the community building. Before the governor was started the governor walked about through the crowd shaking hands and greeting old and new friends. His reception was unusually cordial.

He said that was one reason why Sault voters should vote for a candidate that is in favor of the repeal of the 18th Amendment. "Too much Brucker," was given as the cause of the ills of the state of Michigan by McKeighan, five times mayor of Flint.

TWO INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENTS

Albin Rose and William Champley Victims of Crashes

Albin Rose, 411 South Fourteenth street, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries yesterday when he lost control of a car which he was driving and the car overturned three times and rolled 150 feet off the highway about a mile and a half out of the city on US-2. The accident occurred about one o'clock yesterday afternoon and Rose was taken to the St. Francis hospital. He regained consciousness later in the day although his condition is considered serious.

Rose was driving east with two passengers, Howard Sullivan, 215 North 19th street, and Henry Bouch, 227 North 18th street, whom he had picked up at Powers. The boys were uninjured and helped remove Rose from where he was pinned under the car. According to the sheriff's department investigation, Rose attempted to pass two cars on the highway and was traveling about 50 miles an hour when he lost control.

Sol Peppariant and Ed Kono-paske, passengers in one of the cars which Rose was attempting to pass, stopped and after aiding in extricating Rose from the wreck, proceeded to Escanaba and reported the accident to the sheriff's department.

In another automobile accident which occurred Wednesday evening, William Champley, 314 South Seventh street, was injured when he was struck by a car driven by Antone Kludliaki of Menominee.

Kludliaki was driving east on First avenue south and Champley was walking on the east side of Eighth street when Kludliaki's car struck him. Champley was taken to the hospital. He was bruised considerably but the extent of his injuries will not be known until X-ray pictures are developed.

Beets Easily Canned for Use During Winter

Beets are one of the few vegetables that do not lose their flavor and natural sweetness if more than an hour's time elapses between the gathering and use. They are less perishable than almost any summer vegetable, and for that reason the woman who buys her vegetables for canning runs less risk of spoilage after canning.

Although winter beets are available, many homemakers find them inconvenient and expensive to use on account of the long cooking required. The housekeeper who buys her fuel by feet or units discovers that several hours spent in cooking of a vegetable is quite an item.

The oven method of canning is particularly easy for beets. If you have a thermostat controlled oven, the regulator is set to 250 degrees F. and the oven heated while packing the vegetables. A portable oven thermometer can of course be used, but frequent checking is necessary to insure satisfactory results.

Since Larger Beets

Small beets known as "baby beets" (they're about the size of a walnut) require no dicing or slicing and are most attractive for serving. Larger ones should be cut in quarters, diced or sliced ready for serving.

Wash beets thoroughly, using a vegetable brush. Cut off tops, leaving about two inches of stem. Take care not to break the skin nor cut the long, straight "tap" root. Drop into a kettle of boiling water and boil fifteen or twenty minutes. Dip into cold water and slip off skins. Pack in hot sterilized jars, adding 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1 teaspoon lemon juice to each pint jar. Add enough boiling water to fill jars to within an inch of the top, half seal and place in reheated oven. Leave two hours, remove from oven and completely seal. Invert for a few minutes to be sure the seal is perfect, then place upright and let stand until cool.

As soon as a jar is filled, place it in the oven and keep jars about two inches apart to allow for circulation of heat around each jar. Two racks may be used, one above the other, if the oven is large enough.

Work fast and dip beets in cold water only long enough to slip skins, not long enough to chill them.

Success In Jelly Making Assured Even Amateurs

Now that jelly making has been reduced to a positive science, even the amateur can easily fill her preserve cupboard with a nearly perfect product if she follows the rules.

Perfect jelly is clear, bright colored, of tender texture and delicate flavor. Sticky, gummy, syrupy tough jelly bespeaks lack of knowledge in the essentials of jelly making.

There are four necessary ingredients for jelly and these must be used in correct proportions if the result is near perfection. Fruit juice, fruit acid, sugar and pectin—these are the ingredients. Pectin is recognized as the important jellying agent, but the presence of fruit acid is quite as essential. Some fruits contain both these substances in goodly amounts and make excellent jelly naturally. Other fruits are deficient in one or the other and the lack must be supplied from some other source, such as another fruit juice or extracted pectin.

Pectin Content Varies

Some fruits which are deficient in pectin when fully ripe will give naturally if used when slightly under-ripe.

Fruits rich in both pectin and fruit acid must be chosen for jelly making if extracted pectin is not used. Sour apples (including crab-apples), currants, gooseberries, sour blackberries, under-ripe grapes, and decidedly under-ripe raspberries make excellent jelly without the addition of either pectin or fruit acid.

While the acidity of a fruit is readily detected by the taste, the presence of pectin must be determined by test. Should a juice lack acid it can quickly be corrected by adding one tablespoon lemon juice to each pint of fruit juice.

There are two simple tests the home-maker can depend on to determine the amount of pectin in a fruit juice. One test is made by the use of Epsom salts and the other by denatured alcohol. As denatured alcohol is poisonous, care must be taken that the tested juice is not tasted.

To test for pectin with alcohol, measure one tablespoon of fruit juice into a dish and add one tablespoon alcohol. If a jelly-like mass or formation of flaky particles indicates the amount of sugar to use as in the alcohol test.

Hard fruits such as apples must be cut in quarters and cooked in enough water to make tender in order to extract the juice.

Soft, juicy fruits such as berries and currants are heated in just enough water to prevent burning until the juice flows freely.

When the fruit is tender and the juice flows turn into a jelly bag and allow the juice to drip through without squeezing. Test for pectin and measure. Cook this first extraction over a hot fire for five minutes, skimming if necessary. Slowly add required amount of sugar and continue to cook rapidly until jelly is done.

When Jelly is "Done"

Jelly is "done" when it "sheets" from a metal spoon or when a drop or two placed on a cold saucer jellifies. A thermometer may be used, but this old-time test is reliable and must be used with the thermometer. The varying density, acidity and pectin content of the same fruit juice in different seasons makes it impossible to give the absolute temperature for all time.

Four jelly into hot sterilized jelly glasses and cover with a thin layer of melted paraffin. When the jelly is cold cover with a second layer of paraffin. When this has hardened cover with tin covers that are supplied with the glasses. Store in a dark, dry, cool place.

A second extraction of juice always should be made. Return the pulp to the kettle with enough water to cover and heat slowly to the boiling point. Simmer about half an hour and proceed as before.

Even before the GOLD RUSH OF '49 Pabst were making the world's finest brew

We all know the story of those daring gold-seekers who braved every danger to push through to California in 1849.

A long, long time ago! Yet five years before that—in 1844—Pabst of Milwaukee were making the world's finest brew. That's why, today, their Puritan Malt is so good. It is made with the malting skill of three generations.

When you buy malt be sure to ask for Puritan. It will give you the quality that has made Pabst famous for 88 years. It's age-tested!

Land Conferences At Munising Oct. 7

A local land use conference, the first of its kind, is said, to be held in the United States, will meet at Munising Friday and Saturday, October 7 and 8, under the auspices of Michigan state college.

The conference will bring together land use experts of all kinds, who will give assistance and advice to the residents of Alger county and of other Upper Peninsula sections, helping them to outline plans for the future utilization and development of the region.

The public will be welcome, and if the affair is as successful as hoped for, it is believed that the conference will be followed by like gatherings in other counties, with the object of bringing about planned utilization there.

Fruit Drinks Are Delicious In Warm Weather

Whether it be on the porch, in the garden, at the bridge table or with a "dish of gossip" and an intimate friend, a cool drink served as if by magic, is an achievement for the summer hostess.

When preparing drinks for expected guests the fruit juices and syrup can be mixed hours before wanted and kept on ice. The tray and glasses and cookies or sandwiches can be arranged so that the last-minute effort causes little stir to disturb the visitors.

But when the chance guest drops in and a quick and apparently effortless bit of refreshment is wanted, the hostess who is totally without preparation is "out of luck."

To this end the foresighted homemaker keeps a few simple expedients in her refrigerator. A jar of sugar syrup, a bottle of chocolate syrup and one or two varieties of fruit juices make it possible to concoct delicious beverages with regular soda-fountain speed.

Another secret in making quick iced drinks is in using finely chopped ice. Less water is used when making the beverage because the fine ice melts and dilutes the drink as it chills it.

Sugar Syrup

To make sugar syrup put one cup of sugar and one-half cup water into a smooth sauce pan. Put over medium heat and bring to the boiling point. Cover and let boil five minutes. One to two tablespoons of this syrup to a glass will make the average drink sweet enough. Two tablespoons grated lemon rind can be cooked before bottling. This lemon syrup is especially good with iced tea or a fruit punch.

Lemon Syrup

A concentrated lemon syrup which can be diluted and used with iced tea for tea punch or charged water for lemon fizz is made as follows:

Three cups sugar, 3 cups water, 3 cups lemon juice, grated rind of lemons used for juice. Combine sugar, water and grated lemon rinds. Bring to the boiling point. Cover and boil fifteen minutes. Add lemon juice, cover and bring to the boiling point. Simmer five minutes. Strain into sterilized jars and seal.

Any fruit juice can be used. The juice may be obtained from small fruits by crushing and straining through cheese cloth.

Sunday Breakfast May Be Given An Important Air

There's a psychological something about the Sunday morning breakfast that has much influence upon family life. Other mornings breakfast must be eaten with one eye on the clock and the day's work uppermost in mind, but Sunday brings the luxury of "time."

The table should be immaculate as to linen and china and it should be precisely arranged. This in itself gives an air of festivity. Then, if the menu includes some special fish particularly liked by all members, the setting is complete for a happy breakfast.

Many homemakers do make much effort to serve something extra for Sunday morning breakfast, so I am suggesting some menus which may help to take breakfast out of its everyday rut.

Breakfast No. 1

Unhulled strawberries with mound of powdered sugar, ready-to-serve cereal with cream, scrambled eggs with mushrooms, reheated rolls with marmalade, milk, coffee.

Choose fine large berries and wash thoroughly. Spread on a platter to chill. Pack powdered sugar in a small cup or mold and turn out in the center of a small table. Surround with berries.

Scrambled Eggs With Mushrooms

Two cups mushrooms cut in pieces, 4 eggs, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons flour, 4 tablespoons milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter and mushrooms and saute five minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and sift over flour. Stir lightly with a fork until thoroughly blended. Stir in milk and cook until thick and smooth. Add eggs and stir them quickly into the mixture. Cook slowly, stirring and lifting constantly with a spatula until mixture is firm. Serve at once with a garnish of watercress.

Breakfast No. 2

Chilled pineapple juice with fresh lime juice, cereal cooked with dates, cream, eggs poached in milk, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

Toast must be hot and crisp. Mix 1 teaspoon cinnamon with 1 tablespoon sugar and sprinkle lightly over toast before serving.

Breakfast No. 3

Cantaloupe with minced mint, ready-to-serve cereal, cream, creamed dried beef, Scotch scones, milk, coffee.

Cook dried beef in butter until the edges curl. Stir in flour and when thoroughly blended, add milk, stirring until the sauce boils.

BRADLEY RAPS MICHIGAN PLAN

Menominee Representative Opposes Reap- portionment Scheme

Martin R. Bradley of Hermansville, representative from Menominee county in the state legislature, expresses his views on legislative apportionment in an open letter written to the editor of the Lansing State Journal.

Mr. Bradley's letter was as follows:

"I have read with interest your editorial under the caption 'Legislative Reapportionment' in the Aug. 22 issue of the State Journal.

"As the voters action on the proposed amendment will be largely determined by the way this matter is presented by the press of the state, I take issue with your statement that the plan advanced under the name 'Michigan Plan' is what has been advocated by upstate people who have given study to the matter of legislative reapportionment.

"The present constitutional provision for reapportioning the senate is on a basis of population and it is inconceivable that those who wish to give fair consideration to this subject should advocate that the senatorial districts be left as they are while the House is reapportioned on strictly population basis. Why should the senatorial districts already apportioned on a population basis be left as they are for all time to come? It is a case of the big cities holding what they have gained in the Senate through previous reapportionment and taking absolute control of the House through the proposed amendment.

"This question has vexed the state for the past twenty years. It should be settled by putting into effect a plan which will call for concessions to be made by both urban and rural Michigan but the proposed plan merely puts the House in control of four populous Michigan counties, whose combined area is only 40% greater than one single Upper Peninsula county.

"A look at the present set up of Senatorial districts, shows that twelve or thirteen of them contain cities of considerable population, cities which to a large extent dominate the district and select the senator. Any advantage rural Michigan may have in the state Senate is a narrow margin indeed.

"Let this agnomious Detroit plan parading under the misnomer 'Michigan Plan' be defeated by the people and let Michigan adopt a plan which will apportion the House on a strictly population basis and will divide the state into thirty-two senatorial districts which will give some consideration to area. Better yet, let each county have a member of the House and let the Senate be reapportioned strictly according to population. In any event let us have one branch of the legislature which will be near to the people and must respond to popular opinion. This is in accordance with the plan laid down by the founders of our government and as applied to Michigan will put one branch of the Legislature into the control of the populous counties but will leave the other in the hands of the people who maintain government in the less populous districts which have their particular problems and which furnish the great cities with food supplies, raw materials and markets.

"Any legislation which could pass one House controlled by the cities and one House controlled by the rural districts should be pretty good legislation and conducive to good state policy.

"The constitution provides that the Legislature shall reapportion the House and rearrange the Senatorial districts in the year 1913 and every tenth year thereafter. The next legislative session convening in January 1933 is under constitutional mandate to make this reapportionment, and when it fails to do so it will be time for the city of Detroit to rewrite Article V of the State Constitution."

Half Price Helps 28,000 Get Plates

Lansing, Mich.—Nearly 28,000 Michigan automobile owners thus far have been aided by the action of the department of state in starting the half-price sale of automobile license plates on Aug. 1 instead of Sept. 1.

In 1931, the half-price sale started Sept. 1 and records show that for the first two weeks of that month, a total of 19,122 sets of plates were sold bringing in $124,411.40 in revenue.

This year the half-price sale started on Aug. 1 and during the first two weeks of the month 27,930 sets of plates were sold for $199,624.02. These figures indicate that at least 8,808 additional automobile owners secured use of the cars than would have been the case had the half-price sale of plates started Sept. 1.

The change in the time of selling plates at half-price was made only after every member of the legislature had been consulted and after a majority of both senate and house of representatives indicated that they were in hearty accord with the plan.

Gas Tax Revenue Has Big Decline

Lansing, Mich.—From statistics compiled by the United States bureau of mines and the American Petroleum Institute, it is estimated that gasoline tax collections throughout the United States will show a decline of approximately seven per cent for the first six months of 1932, as compared with the same period in 1931.

Reports of the gasoline tax division of the Michigan department of state for the first six months of 1932 show the actual decline in collections in this state to be but 2.13 per cent.

One of the reasons for the exceptional showing made by Michigan is an improved method of reporting and collecting the gasoline tax.

Scientists, in their experiments with growth control of animals, have made bulldogs, salamanders and rats grow twice their ordinary size through injections of a fluid from pituitary glands of oxen and sheep.

"I'll try some Shredded Wheat today!" Good advice. Follow it and you'll find a happy source of energy. Natural energy—for Shredded Wheat is all wheat. Nothing is added, nothing taken away. All the bran, measured by Nature in just the right proportion. Children like Shredded Wheat... and it likes them! Builds them up, puts color in their cheeks... Good for grown-ups, too. And quite inexpensive... a package of twelve full-size biscuits for only a few pennies! Try two of these golden brown biscuits with peaches or other fresh fruit. Pour on plenty of milk or cream (just as the children love to do)... Now there's a treat for breakfast, lunch or any hungry time!

Catch Fifty Perch
With Cherry Bait

That chokecherries make excellent bait for perch fishing was discovered the other day by a party of Gladstone people. The group had been picking chokecherries during a recess in their fishing outing and when they ran out of the usual bait, one member of the party put a cherry on the hook, never thinking that a fish would bite. The surprise was great when a fish struck. The hook was again baited with the fruit and a second perch was caught. Soon the entire party was fishing with the chokecherries as bait and more than fifty perch were caught.

Richard, Rodney, Robert and Peter Peterson, who have been guests for a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, Dakota Avenue, returned last night to their home in Minneapolis.

Teachers Fill New Positions

Although the entire public school teaching staff will remain intact for this year, several changes have been made in teacher assignments. Miss Marie Hawkins' position as first grade teacher at Lincoln school will be taken over by Miss Alice Landvall. Miss Hawkins is to be married this fall. Miss Landvall is well qualified for her new position having had a number of years of successful experience in primary work at Grayling and Lansing.

Miss Leone Strong, who has supervised pennantship and drawing for a number of years, has been assigned to teach fifth grade at the Lincoln school, replacing Miss Myrtle Nelson, who this year will have charge of the third and fourth grade room at Lakeside. Pennantship in grades one to six inclusive, will be taught by the respective grade teachers.

Miss Florence Williams who last year taught third and fourth grades at Lakeside will teach sophomore and junior English in the high school, filling the vacancy caused by the retirement of Ida Stenstrom. Miss Williams received her A. B. degree from Keokuk college.

Lauritz Drevdahl will teach social science in the junior high school, assuming the duties of Miss Mary McLeslie who retired from active teaching last spring. Heavy enrollment in the high school and grades may require an additional instructor in the high school, and other additional teachers or half day sessions in the primary grades.
