SCD plans tire collection, boat wash events in July

MANISTIQUE - The Schoolcraft MANSTIQUE — The Schoolcraft Conservation District will hold its 2018' Scrap Tire Collection event July 14. Collection will take place from 9 a.m.-12 p.m., but the collection container is expected to fill carlier than noon.

Volunteer assistance during the event is welcomed. Though donations will be accepted, there is no cost to drop off tires. The collection is limited to Schoolcraft County residents and landowners only.

There is a limit of 10 tires per household, and all tires must clean and dry, and must be removed from wheels/rims. Maximum tire size accepted is 33-inch, overall diameter. For more information, call the SCD at 341-

The district is also seeking landowners who would like to install a deer habitat food plot on their property. A portion of the cost will be reimbursed, but only to locations within two miles of a deer wintering complex. The property should be available to public hunting, but there are exceptions. Interested residents should contact the SCD office, located in room 216 of the

Schoolcraft County Courthouse.
All food plot or habitat improvement work must be completed by Sept. 30.
Additionally, the SCD will hold boatwash events July 1. These events will be free (donations will be accepted), and will be held at the Westside Boat Launch from 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m., and at the Indian Lake

State Park boat launch from 3 p.m.-6 p.m. Educational materials will be available, and the district urges boaters and others to attend to learn how they can help stop the spread of invasive aquatic organisms.

The SCD office is typically open 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Monday-Thursday, but calling ahead is advised.

On Monday, June 13, voters will go to the polls with final decisions on the question of a 2.5 mill increase, and who among four candidates will serve on the Manistique Board of Education. As reported earlier, an increase of 2.5 mills would mean an additional $195,440, based on the district's expected State Equalized Value, for the school district. Each mill requested means an additional $180,000 in property tax revenues. In April Richard Bonifás, superintendent of Manistique Area Schools, appeared before the Board of Education with a request for a millage increase. While a 2.5 mill increase was not among the options presented by Bonifás, the board for a millage increase. According to a Michigan State Police press release, the Manistique Public Safety officer sought treatment for water inhalation after attempting to help reach the kayaker.

Following the attempts to reach the second kayaker, Evink contact-ed dispatchers to clearly mark the location of the body, using his por-table police radio's global positioning satellite signal. According to a press release from Manistique Public Safety Department Director Ken Golat, the kayaking incident on Lake Michigan is the second such incident in the area this past week. At approximately 5 p.m. on May 29, Manistique Public Safety, MSP, and DNR officers were dis-patched to the Manistique River at the Highway M-94 Siphon Bridge after receiving reports that sev-eral kayakers were stranded in the west flume section of the river near UP Paper, LLC

Upon arriving to the scene, offi-cers found that there were actually four kayaks in the flume with a to-tal of four individuals in distress. One kayak had been overturned The kavakers were able to get out of the flume by electing to jump off the flume wall into the main portion of the Manistique River.

State to see voting system updates

LANSING - As local clerks fi-nalize ballots for the statewide primary, Secretary of State Ruth Johnson recently detailed how Johnson recently detailed how new voting equipment, $11 mil-lion in new federal security grants and the extensive preparations her office has made will better protect Michigan's elections system for the 2018 election cycle.

"Most importantly, every voter across Michigan still will use a good, old-fashioned paper ballot to mark their choices," Johnson said three weeks before the August primary ballots will be sent out. "Then they'll feed the ballot into a new next-generation voting machine de signed with security in mind. But buying all new election equipment our election system."

The Aug. 7 primary will be the first statewide election in which every city and township will use all new voting equipment that includes optical-scan ballot tabulators, ac-cessible voting devices for voters with disabilities, and election-management and reporting software. New upgrades include:

-Next-generation voting equip-ment that offers added security features over the older systems, including stronger multi-factor ac-cess controls, advanced data en-cryption and better physical secu-rity of tabulator access points with locks and seals. Tabulators are not connected to the internet. The state paid for the equipment with $10 million that Johnson pushed the Legislature to approve and $30 mil-lion in federal money that Johnson and her predecessor saved for more than a decade. Cities and townships have had no upfront costs for the new equipment. Michigan was one of the only states that saved a substantial amount of federal funds to assist with the purchase of the nexteration voting systems, and one of the only states able to implement new voting systems statewide for use in the 2018 election cycle. -$11.2 million in election secu-rity grants that Michigan will receive this year to upgrade elections systems. Bureau of Elections staff is finalizing how the money will be spent, but the plan will include a strong focus on security assessment including comprehensive tests and other cybersecurity measures at and other cyclectury measures at the state, county and local level.

-An upgraded Qualifiec Voter File system used by the Bureau of Elections and local clerks to maintain the state's registered voter list and other election-related data.

Besides being an improved, modern system that will help clerks perform their work more efficiently and effectively, the new system features enhanced security built in from the ground up over its 20-year-old pre decessor.

-Strengthened relations with state and federal law-enforcement and homeland-security agencies. The Bureau of Elections can report any suspicious activity it detects eyber or otherwise — with the Michigan Intelligence Operations. Center, which shares threat information among local, state and federal agencies, including the FBI, Michigan State Police, Michigan National Guard and the U.S. Department of Hemeland Security. The Department of State has a staff person who participates with center.
Additionally, Homeland Security officials now regularly share pertinent information, tools and services with state elections officials to as sist them in thoroughly assessing and securing all aspects of their sys-tems. Secretary of State staff have also participated in briefings for election administrators from federal homeland security officials

-Expanded cybersecurity training for local election officials. Bureau of Elections staff are now also implementing a continuous multi-course training curriculum for clerks on cybersecurity best

-Post-election audits that now include ballot validation. Bureau of Elections and county clerks now include ballot validation in the post-election audit process. After this November's general election, ballot tabulation validation will be completed for the first time for a compreted for the first time for a statewide election, involving ev-ery county with some randomly selected precincts. This process will verify that the voting machines properly tabulated ballots. The previous process, in place since 2013, already verified the successful completion of appropriate pre-election programming and testing steps. Post-election audits, which were started by Johnson, verify local election workers are performing their duties correctly and help target training programs to better assist election workers.

In addition to the new equipment and initiatives. Michigan elections will continue to feature long-stand-ing accuracy and integrity practices

Well, here we are into the month of June, so this means the summer season is now in high gear. Our Yooper summer weather is what makes it so nice up here when you have cooler nights made for perfect sleeping and then nice warm days so you can enjoy all your activities. There is no doubt in my mind that if you want your kids or grandkids, if you want your kits or grandkus, if you are our age, to have some good memories make sure you take them on a few camping trips. Later in life when you get together you can almost count on them recalling the

of them was dragged off by it. You have to remember that wild animals have to remember that wild animals will always be wild animals no matter how docile they may seem. Always remember when out in the woods you are venturing into their world so respect them when you see

This and the fact when one of the This and the fact when one of the mountain bikers got dragged off by the cougar his buddy managed to reach someone on his cell phone. The only problem was when they asked him where he was he really great times they had.

Speaking of camping and summer activates I was down at our daughter's this week talking to our granddaughters when one of them (nine-years old) told me she ad went kayaking. Being an old game warden I asked her if she had asked him where he was he reary had no idea. You see if you are traveling through the woods in a strange area there are no mile markers and very few reference points telling you where you are. In our case up here, there are so many lakes that there are times so many lakes that there are times tourist type fishermen have no idea where they are or what lake they are out on. I have always taught students when going out in the woods somewhere make sure the woods somewhere make sure someone knows where you are and about what time to expect you back. There is an old saying, "You can never be too safe".

always have to be something like those above, it can be where you are traveling on your ATV or by other means and just experience a mechanical breakdown and end up having to hoof it out to the nearest road wherever that may be. In my travels while working more than once I have run across people late at once I have run across people late at night trying to get back to their cabin on foot without even a flashlight to use. There is another old proverb that says, "When having fun always expect the unexpected".

What a difference from where we live up here as close to a perfect world as you can get compared to down where two of our kids live. I cannot imagine going out on a lake with hundreds and hundreds of lake with hundreds and hundreds of boats on it on a nice weekend day during the summer. You know there are a lot of boats out on the water when the boat launch parking lot is full and so is the 40 acre field next to it with vehicles with boat trailers. You wonder at times where they on wonder at times where they can all find a safe place to operate. Of course a lot of them find a place on the water where they all tie up to each other and form an island of people and boats. This must be the city crowd that is used to living shoulder to shoulder with no room between each other. It almost makes me think they are at an amusement park with as crowded as it is.

I still say give me a lake up here I still say give me a lake up nere where when you see two-three other boats you wonder where all the people came from. Give me the wide open spaces where you can still hear the Loons, see an Eagle fly over the lake, and the most noise you hear is made by a kayak paddle. Give me those evenings where the loudest thing you hear is a marshmallow cooking over the fire pit. Man! That is my kind of living.

School or carnival?

The teachers, staff, and parents at Emerald Elementary teamed up recently to plan and execute the perfect school-wde carnival Truesday. The carnival replaced class field trips and was part of a week-long school wrap up. Today (Thursday) students will participate in a school-wide Field Day at the Manistique Middle and High School Track. Activities during the carnival included limbo (top left), face painting (top right), giant kerplunik (bottom left), catapult games (bottom right), and much more. Students were able to participate in activities from 12:30-2:30 p.m. Students from YETI helped during the event and Careers in Education students assisted in decorating the school. Donations were received for goodle bags, the local Kiwanis group allowed the use of some of their games, the Lion's Club provided cotton cancy, and the Green Frie their games, the Lion's Club provided cotton cancy, and the Green Fire Booster Club and Sandy Spettel provided popcorn. The MHS building trades class constructed several new games for the event, while art students aided in face painting. The event was completely free for students.
