Locker rooms renovations, student count predictions, and bussing policy

MANISTIQUE - A series of updates - on everything MARNETIQUE – A Series of updates – on everything from the next sinking fund project to preliminary student count – was provided during the most recent meeting of the Manistique Area Schools Board of Education. The meeting also revealed parent concern about the district's new bussing policy. According to MAS Superintendent Maryann Boddy, on the bench collocities the memory of Education Evend.

According to MAS Superintendent Maryann Body, on the heels of completing its most recent Sinking Fund proj-ect, the creation of a new concession stand at the middle high school, the building and grounds committee is al-ready considering other areas in need of improvement. "Hearing affirmation from the building and grounds committee, we are going to go out and prepare an RFP (re-quest for proposals) for an architectural engineering firm to come on board and start with the plans for the locker room renovations," she explained. "We want to make sure that we have the ball rolling early enough, because it's anticipated to be a pretty intensive project, that we have time to get that started and finished up over the course of the summer (of 2019)."

Under Michigan law, a school may collect taxes for a "sinking fund" that can be used for major repairs and renovations. The MAS district levice 1.5 mils on taxpay-ers, and these funds are used to make updates in schools within the district.

within the district. Boddy also addressed the preliminary numbers of stu-dents attending schools in the MAS District. "The third week into the school year, our numbers, I think, look really good," she said. "At the end of the year last year at Emerald, I think we were at about 323 (students) - we have 325 there right now. (At the) middle/high school we're at 488, plus the 23 at Jack Reque dering school we re at 456, plus the 2.5 at Jack Reque (Alternative High School). That's over 500 - 1 don't think I've ever seen that since I've been here." Boddy added. "I think hopefully a sign of good things happening and people are wanting to be Emeralds "

Boddy noted that the official student count day doesn't Board updates occur until October.

"Things can change, but just, as the doors open and we Timing can range, our just, as the doors open and we start getting settled, it looks like a positive trend that we are looking at, "she said. "That's pretty exciting." During the meeting, Rae Birr, board president, intro-duced new "comment cards" for those members of the au-dience who wish to make public comment during school board meetings. She explained that these cards may be submitted to the board for consideration or addressed by the participating audience member and then submitted to the board

In addition to the comment card implementation, Boddy noted the district has also created a "flow chart" to assist those with concerns.

"If you're concerned about transportation, you would come to me for that," she said. "If you're concerned about something that's going on in the library or media center, the flow chart will show you that, eventually, that gets to Mary Hook (MAS technology director).

There plan is three-fold. They hope to estab-lish ways and means to improve and maintain the harbor area, to discuss what needs to be done and to design how projects, large and small, will get done, and finally, to es-tablish people of responsibility in definite areas of con-trol to obtain results and progress. There may be skepti-cism as to the wisdom of spending $220,000 to improve our harbor for a few yachtsmen, but this skepticism is short sighted. If the harbor is improved, and clean and adequate facilities made available, there will be many yachtsmen involved, not just at ew. It should also be obyachtsmen involved, not just a few. It should also be obvious that a man who can afford to spend from $10,000 to $100,000 on a pleasure boat can and will spend substantial more y for service, repairs, supplies and other items if they visit our port. The city and the Yacht Club are to be commended for their interest and energy.

According to the Independent Bankers of America (ICBA), com-munity banks make nearly 50 per-cent of small business loans and 52 percent of semial business loans and 82 percent of agricultural loans.1 Because community banks, like mBank, are themselves small busi-nesses, they understand the needs of small-business owners. Helping hard working people meet their financial goals and fostering access nancial goals and lostering access to needed capital for economic growth in the Upper Peninsula is one of mBank's primary goals. In fact, the ICBA recognized mBank in its July 2018 reporting, as one of the top community banks nationally in commercial lending initia-tives for banks ranging around $1 billion in assets.

Even as the needs of the indi-vidual business owners change, mBank staff recognizes that their common goal of success does not, common goal of success does not, taking appropriate action to sup-port them every step of the way. ## UPPCO launches 'Smart Energy' meter readings

MARQUETTE-OpperPennisula Power Company is announcing the launch of UPPCO Smart Erergy<sup>TM</sup>, an advanced metering solution that improves reliability and delivers enhanced customer service.

UPPCO's advanced metering

UPPCO's advanced metering solution utilizes new infrastructure, state-of-the-art technology and smart meters to modernize the power grid. The primary benefit of this new system is the ability to read and control the customer's meter remotely. This allows for quick and accurate meter reads and the ability to start and stop service

MARQUETTE-Upper Peninsula meters on a bimonthly basis and estimates usage on the off-months," according to Brett French, UPPCO's vice president of Business Development and Communications. "By implementing the advanced metering solution, we will be able to read meters every month, greatly reducing our reliance on estimated values.

Smart meters also record critical information during a power outage and send a signal to UPPCO's System Operation Center in Ishpeming, whenever an outage is detected. This will allow for quicker detection and restoration of service Additional information is available

Many knew him as a preacher and called him Brother Charles. Others knew him as "Charlie" down at his upholstery shop on Highway 3 or the one out back of the house.

I knew him as grandpa. As my grandpa, he was the man who let me crawl up in the shelves at the shop and romp through and hide in between the bolts of uphol stery fabric. He and grandma faith-fully came to the U.P. for several years at the beginning of summer to visit and then take Ike and I back for a week at Youth Camp and then be Bible quizzer and teacher as well as camping in "old E-Z" during youth camp and even the U.P. He prayed the longest prayers when all I want-ed to do was dig into the food or the presents at great-grandma's Christmas gathering. He loved his water-melon and usually had one to share.
