Update on sinkhole provided to council

Council expresses appreciation to wastewater staff for diligence

MANISTIQUE – A recent sinkhole on U.S. Highway 2 may have caused inconvenience to travelers and local residents, but the amount of work completed and continuing behind the scenes earned those associated with the project a resolution of support from Manistique City Council Monday.

The resolution followed a presentation from Manistique Water/Wastewater Superintendent Corey Barr during the meeting. According to Barr, the sinkhole began to form approximately two weeks ago, on Sept. 23.

"(The sinkhole) happened at about 5 o'clock the following day, after we had petitioned MDOT (Michigan Department of Transportation) to close that lane – they elected to do a traffic shift," Barr explained. "It's their highway, so we follow what they say. I think everybody is fortunate that we were there and we saw this happen and we were able to block it off as quickly as we did without a car or a truck slamming into that seven-foot hole."

Barr added that he and his staff at the wastewater plant were aware, through the treatment process, that there was a "significant breach" in one of the system's sewer pipes.

"When it's this much sand coming in, it's usually a bigger pipe," he said. "We had been looking and looking and looking and we knew it was coming from the northwest side of town. We were narrowing it down when the sinkhole developed. Unfortunately, under U.S. 2."

Barr pointed out that prior to the actual formation of the sinkhole, he and his staff began preparing their action plan Sept. 23.

"We had had a failure of that same pipe in May and when we got down to that pipe to repair it, we quickly determined that we had a bigger issue, probably with that whole vintage of pipe, as the whole top of the pipe was eaten by sulfuric acid, which is a byproduct of sewage," he explained. "After 70-80 years of acid etching, the top of the pipe failed."

In order to bypass the failed pipe under U.S. 2, Barr said that the city needed to set up a bypass pumping system.

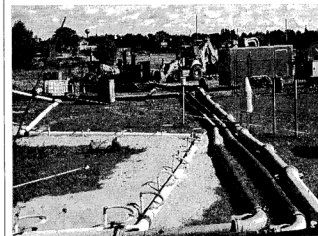

"We had to set up two bypasses for the sewage and we're currently on bypass mode," he explained. "We have three pumps set up on north side U.S. 2 – on the back side of the paper mill property – that is conveying the sewage north up to the U.S. 2 Bridge, under the U.S. 2 Bridge, and back out and then back to the plant."

Barr added the pipes are entering the plant through a doorway.

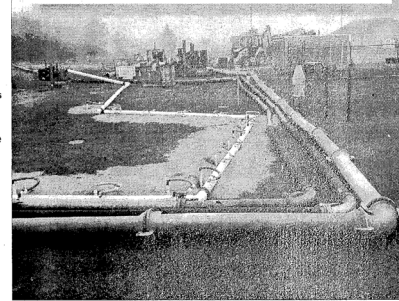

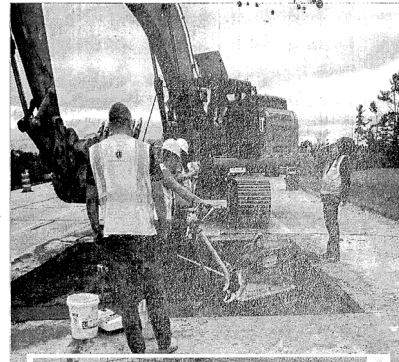

"(It's) a very tight fit with three sets of pipes," he said. "It's not really intended to do what we're doing with it, but it's working."

Additionally, Barr said there will be new manholes installed as part of the rerouting process. "Everything that we're working on is at 20-foot depth, so there's going to be a manhole placed at these sites," he explained. "We have three of these sites for de-watering where there's going to be

At top right, crews work at the site of the sinkhole. Since Sept. 18, the pipe failure that caused the sinkhole has prompted the removal of 665 cubic feet of sand and an amount equal to that from the wastewater treatment plant's primary settling tanks. In the middle, the bypass for the failed pipe is shown routed through the door of the wastewater treatment plant. At left and right, the extent of the necessary bypass is shown traveling through to the grounds of the wastewater treatment plant from U.S. Highway 2.

PFAS found in municipal landfill, lack of state limit means city must await guidance

Monitoring of closed landfill to continue, additional testing scheduled at wells

MANISTIQUE – Manistique's municipal landfill has tested positive for PFAS – and though no official limit on the presence of the chemical compound has been set by the state – city officials are anticipating the next steps to address the test results.

Ward Mitchell from Coleman Engineering – the city's retained engineering firm – provided the update on the landfill, which has been closed for a number of years and is located on Highway M-94 in Hiawatha Township. The company has been conducting monitoring on the landfill since 2012.

"We ran across some PFAS out there – I'm sure you've had discussions about that. So, we've been doing some testing," Mitchell said. "There is also some fluctuation in some of the contaminants out there, but it's more naturally occurring. We're status quo right now – there's nothing too crazy going on out there," he added.

PFAS (per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances), a group of man-made compounds that includes PFOA, PFOS, GenX, and many other chemicals, have been used in thousands of applications globally. According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency website, PFAS can be found in: food packaged in PFAS-containing materials, processed with equipment that used PFAS, or grown in PFAS-contaminated soil or water; commercial household products, including stain- and water-repellent fabrics, nonstick products, paints, cleaning products, and firefighting foams; the workplace, including production facilities or industries (e.g., chrome plating, electronics manufacturing or oil recovery) that use PFAS; drinking water; and more.

City Manager Sheila Aldrich noted that since monitoring of the landfill's sentinel wells began in 2012, the water table has risen by six feet. A sentinel well is a groundwater monitoring well located between a known area of groundwater contamination and drinking-water supply wells.

Mitchell noted this rise in the water table is causing some of the fluctuations in contaminants in the wells. He went on to say that Coleman Engineering is working with the Michigan Department of Environment, Great Lakes, and Energy to continue sample monitoring.

"They're worried about the PFAS ... we may have to take more tests," Mitchell explained. "The PFAS, we tested three wells ... it was below concentration levels. The thing about PFAS ... they're still ... trying to get the ... levels organized and the concentrations and constituents and all that stuff because it's pretty new."

Manistique's landfill isn't the only landfill that's been chosen (for testing)," he added. "It's been throughout the state."

MSU Extension's Master Gardener training class in full swing at Bay

ESCANABA — Fall is here and the gardening season may be wrapping up, but a number of Delta, Dickinson, Menominee, and Schoolcraft residents are still 'thinking' gardening by participating in the Michigan Extension Master Gardener class.

Learning about various gardening topics, experiencing local horticulture via fieldtrips, and engaging in hands-on workshops, these students from multiple generations are sharing their gardening passion and interests.

Held at Bay College's main campus, the class meets Tuesday evenings from 5-9:30 p.m. Optional fieldtrips meet prior to the class start.

Visited locations included guided tours of the MSU Biomass Research Center, Upper Peninsula's Research and Extension Center's North Farm, Bay College's biology greenhouse, the Escanaba Community Garden, Chénier's Greenhouse, and the Serenity Garden.

Thus far, participants have learned about soils, water quality, plant science, integrated pest management, lawns, woody ornamentals, and annuals and perennials as they relate to gardening. Taught by a Michigan State University

Johnson was treated and released.

Ground breaking ceremonies for the low-income family housing project on N. Maple St. will be held Sunday, Oct. 19, at 2 p.m. across from the new city hall. The public has been invited by the Manistique Housing Commission to attend. Successful bidders, all from Manistique, were Manistique Builders, general; Hoholik's Plumbing and Heating, Inc., plumbing and heating; Roemer

Electric, electrical. Contracts and other documentations are now in Chicago awaiting approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Manistique students scored above both the state and national averages in taking the American College Test (ACT) last April, counselor James Troyer has announced. In Manistique 54 juniors from MHS took the test, along with thousands of other college-bound juniors and seniors from throughout the nation. The test is designed to measure a student's academic readiness to do college-level work and tests in the areas of English, math, social studies and natural sciences. The ACT has a scoring range of from 1 to 36. The composite score of all academic areas tested for Manistique students was 19.0. This compares with a state-wide composite of 18.8 and a national composite of 18.5.

Sue Osterhout of Manistique has been nominated for Homecoming Queen of Northern Michigan University. Northern's Homecoming is a ten-day event which will conclude on Oct. 13. Osterhout is a sophomore majoring in computer science and minoring in math and business. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thérion Osterhout of Manistique. Fish biologists from the Department of Natural Resources will be in Manistique next week for another of their regular checks on fish contamination in the Manistique River. Bill Gruhn, district fisheries habitat biologist at Newberry, explained that this will be the third annual sampling of fish in the river. A study released by the state Public Health Department last week listed the Manistique River below the siphon bridge as containing carp and white suckers carrying PCBs—an industrial compound now banned for most uses.

It will be at least 30 days before a timetable can be set up to unscramble the Blaney Park bankruptcy situation, a federal court trustee reported Tuesday. Brad Williams of Grand Rapids was named as trustee for Blaney Properties, Inc. in a decision last Thursday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Grand Rapids. That decision also ruled that the Aug. 25 auction at the famed old resort was valid, and turned down an alternative offer of $1.6 million cash for the property.

Construction began last week on a 4,500 square foot addition to Ken's Fairway Foods of Manistique. According to the store's owner, Ken Rehn, the project should be completed early next year. Rehn stated the additional square footage would allow him to be more competitive, while making the facility more user-friendly. Plans are to carry a larger variety of groceries for the customer to choose from. The biggest improvements customers will notice will be in the produce section where plans are to double square footage and the frozen goods section. Expansion will also take place in the store's checkout area making it more convenient to check out. The store has been in the Rehn family for the past 66 years. Rehn purchased the store from his father in December of 1994.

Dear Editor,

Watching so many friends and families walk the streets of this year's Westside Flannel Fest was an incredible sight to see. The streets were packed with things to do and see while promoting westside businesses and area non-profits.

As the marketing director at Schoolcraft Tourism and Commerce, I want to personally thank the committee of volunteers that helped plan this festive event. The amount of time, dedication and heavy lifting (literally) that was needed to pull it off should not go unnoticed.

The committee consisted of Andy Larkin, Bonnie Garvin, Alycia Kaiser, Kelli Beauty, Margo and Loney Withey, Julie Barr, Alan Barr, and myself.

Our community relies heavily on volunteers not only for events like Flannel Fest, but for organizations that need help with day to day operations. If you were able to volunteer just four hours a month, would you?

If so, contact us at STC and we'll

FBI warning public in light of ransomware internet scams

DETROIT — In a ransomware scam, your computer screen freezes with a pop-up message — supposedly from the FBI or another federal agency — saying that because you violated sort of federal law your computer will remain locked until you pay a fine, or you get a pop-up message telling you your personal files have been encrypted and you have to pay to get the key needed to encrypt them?

Ransomware scams involve a type of malware that infects computers and restricts users' access to their files or threatens the permanent destruction of their information unless a ransom — anywhere from hundreds to thousands of dollars — is paid.

Ransomware has become a significant threat to US businesses, state and local government entities, public services, schools, and individuals. With over 100 different variants and tens of thousands of victims nationwide, ransomware has grown into one of the most costly and destructive cybercriminal threats to businesses and governments.

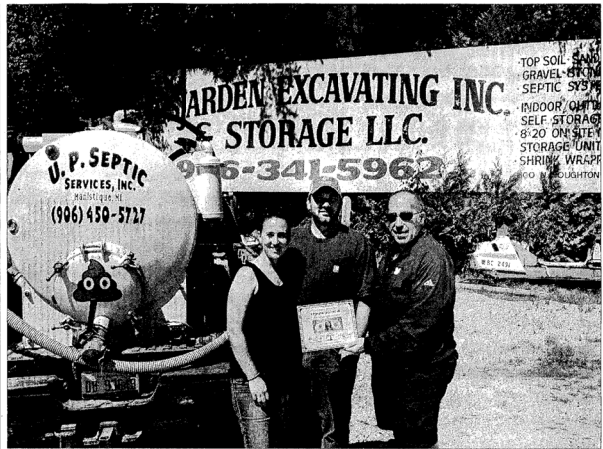

Locally, the FBI has found ransomware attacks are becoming more targeted, sophisticated, and costly, even as the overall frequency of attacks is holding steady or even declining. Since early 2018, the incidence of broad, indiscriminate ransomware attacks has sharply declined, but the losses from ransomware attacks has increased significantly.

This month, the FBI encourages you to protect your computer from ransomware:

- To prevent the loss of essential files due to a ransomware infection, it is recommended that individuals and businesses always conduct regular system back-ups and store the backup data off-line. A cloud-based backup is not considered "online." Ransomware

Last week, several staff members including myself, completed our SaintA Trauma Training. During the final day of training, we had a discussion talking about good stress and bad stress.

As we were discussing this, our conversation changed to what we are seeing in schools today. Now you may be asking yourself, what is good stress?

There is really no "good stress", but this is the stress we go through that helps us build resilience. With that in mind, I would like to share a story that demonstrates this concept.

"When I was seven years old, I stole a candy bar from a neighborhood store when I was with my mother. When I got home my mother saw that I had a candy bar and after some discussion, learned I had taken it."

"At that point, she brought me back up to the store and had me return it, pay for it, and I had to work on a Saturday morning for what I had done. Now during that time, I would not have considered this a positive experience, and I

By allowing students to do this, they are learning to handle stress and in doing so they are building resilience.

Local groups now collecting for Christmas Child

MANISTIQUE - Local families, churches, and groups are busy transforming empty shoeboxes into gifts filled with toys, school supplies, and hygiene items. The Samaritan's Purse project partners with local churches and organizations across the globe to deliver these tangible boxes to children affected by war, disease, disaster, poverty, and famine.

For many of these children, it will be the first gift they have ever received. Operation Christmas Child is the world's largest Christmas project of its kind. This year, Upper Peninsula residents hope to collect more than 10,000 gift boxes to contribute to the 2019 global goal of reaching 11 million children.

Since 1993, Operation Christmas Child has collected and delivered more than 168 million gift-filled shoeboxes to children in more than 168 countries.

"We have an opportunity to make a life-changing impact on children across the world," said Cools volunteer Ann Bradshaw, who has participated in Operation Christmas Child for years and is the drop-off team leader for Schoolcraft and East Delta counties. "These shoebox gifts remind children that ... they are not forgotten."

Simple items like a bar of soap, toothbrushes, pencils and paper, and a huggable toy are luxuries that will bring smiles of joy for children in remote or impoverished areas of the world.

For more information, contact Bradshaw at (906) 630-7844 or visit samaritanspurse.org/occ.

Participants may donate $9 per shoebox gift online through "Follow Your Box" and receive a tracking label to discover its destination.

Sinkhole update

three manholes - two across U.S. 2 and one close to the plant. Among the equipment needed on scene to remedy the situation, Barr said they are renting two 12-inch pumps, one 8-inch pump, five 6-inch pumps, and more than 4,000 feet of hose and pipe. "It was all set up in two and a half days - after they loaded up and drove," he said. "That's pretty remarkable service."

U.S. 2. We will come back later in the project and fill the rest of it up, but, right now, U.S. 2 is the priority to get it back open." Barr explained it took approximately 70 yards of flowable concrete to bond around the pipe. "It (the flowable concrete) popped back up in another manhole, so we know we got a good seal going across U.S. 2," he said. "This is exactly what we wanted. We're hopeful that Thursday (Oct. 10) or Friday, the bypass will be shut off and we'll be to normal or our 'new normal' underneath U.S. 2."

"My crew, I can't thank them enough," Barr said. "I've pushed them right to the edge - they've responded well." Aldrich noted that Barr and his departmental staff tackled the entire situation quickly and effectively. "It was quite the job just getting the bypass in place and getting everyone coordinated ... and get them here as quickly as they did, was unbelievable," she said. "And to keep the sewage going to the plant and not backed up - that's quite a feat."

Municipal landfill

Councilperson Kim Shiner asked whether residents who live in that area have the potential for PFAS contamination in their residential wells. "There is a potential for that," Mitchell answered. "We need to delineate to see how far it's spread. If we haven't been able to delineate it ... then we'll have to look at potentially test some drinking water (PFAS) levels out there. Hopefully that's not the case."

look at it as one tablespoon in 10,000 swimming pools, so pretty small. Then there are 25 different compounds within the PFAS and the landfill had five hits of the 25. Nothing really exceeding." Mitchell explained that the state hasn't established a maximum contaminant level for PFAS. "(They're) trying to figure out what the limits are going to be, so it's going to be up and coming in the future," he said. "They don't have a plan yet."

In closing, Trevillian also pointed out that the millage for the landfill will expire in three years. "All that work that was done out there long ago will be paid for, but that doesn't mean that you're through with your landfill, unfortunately," Trevillian said. "There's going to be continued monitoring."

Mitchell said that there is additional testing scheduled for the sentinel and downgradient wells (wells are placed at the downgradient boundary of a potential source to detect a release).

Since they really don't have MCLs yet, and they're still trying to figure it all out, we're kind of on the forefront of a lot of what's going on here," Mitchell continued. "PFAS ... are like the new PCBs (Polychlorinated biphenyls), basically. It's something that's in your clothes, it's in a lot of different things ... it's in your waterproof food liners for your fast food, you name it."

Kevin Trevillian, also from Coleman Engineering, noted that the PFAS detected at the landfill are below any of the "action levels" currently in place.

"It's a big question. We did some testing and it's pretty strict testing - no cross contamination in the way we proceeded - we did it right," Mitchell explained. "There's something there. It was a multi-use landfill, so who knows what's in the ground there, unfortunately, and with the fluctuating of water tables and Mother Nature, there is potential for something to have happened."

We have to really keep an eye on things," he continued. "PFAS are in the parts per trillion, so you

Homecoming victory for Emeralds

The Emeralds' defense was in a zone Friday night, holding the Munising Mustangs to only 167 offensive yards. Their efforts, along with those from the offense, earned the Emeralds a 29-7 Homecoming victory. MANISTIQUE - While it's the 60 minutes under the lights that most fans see, a lot goes into game planning for the Friday night contests. Not to undermine the effort and commitment by the coaches and players week after week, all coach Todd Kangas needs to do is find a way to get Schyler Andersen the ball.

Behind a four-score performance by Andersen, his second of the season, the Manistique Emeralds capped off a week of homecoming festivities with a 29-7 victory over the Munising Mustangs under the lights at AF Hall stadium Friday night.

Following a parade through downtown Manistique, the Emeralds got to work and put the first points on the board when Andersen scored from 11 yards out. The score was a culmination of the sustained drive that chewed up much of the clock in the second quarter.

The point-after attempt by Jude Way gave Manistique a 7-0 lead. Just when it looked like the game would be tied at seven points at the half, Andersen crossed the goal line for his second touchdown in the night. Following the missed extra-point attempt, the Emeralds led 13-7 at the break.

Coming off the break, Manistique kicked off and mounted an eight-minute drive capped off by a short run by Andersen, who then connected with Jordan St. John for the two-point conversion to give Manistique a 21-7 advantage in the third quarter.

The Emeralds' volleyball team hosted Westwood last Thursday. Their aggressive play captured the match 3-0. Above, Jeanni Charterier leaps to send the ball. Charterier finished the night with 10 kills. Additional game photos may be viewed at www.mstqioneertribune.smugmug.com.

Emeralds need win for MPC Championship

NEGAUNEE - A MPC Championship weighs in the balance for the Manistique Emeralds after their win of Negaunee on the road Tuesday night. Playing outstanding this year, the Emeralds topped the Miners 3-0 (25-17, 25-10, 25-11). The win guarantees the Emeralds a share in the championship title.

"This win guarantees us at least a share of the MPC Championship," stated head coach Amy Nixon. "We have one conference match left to play against Gladstone. If we lose to Gladstone, we will likely share first place. If we beat Gladstone, we will be undefeated in conference matches and have the title alone."

Aggressive serving has led to their success throughout the season and it showed over the last few games.

"We served aggressively, which took Negaunee out of system a lot," stated Nixon. "Our defense did a great job digging their attacks and tips, which, in turn, set up our hitters, who also had minimal errors. They did a great job all around." Delaney Zellar posted three serve receives, and three digs. Madison Zellar had eight aces and serve receives, and seven digs.

Erin LaBar had six digs and 20 assists. Jeanni Charterier had an ace and assist, three digs, and four kills.

Lenna Smith finished the night with 16 serve receives, six digs, eight kills, and a block.

Brooke Richey had an ace, three serve receives, eight digs, and a kill.

Kayla Muth posted a dig and kill, and five blocks. Emilee McDaniel had five aces, a serve receive, 12 kills, and three blocks.

Brooke Chase had a serve receive. Emma Swanson finished with three serve receives and two digs.

Raya Twardokus had a dig and assist. On Oct. 4, the Emeralds hosted the Westwood Patriots, sweeping

DNR tickets two Baraga brothers for poaching 2 trumpeter swans

BARAGA COUNTY — A complaint called in to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' Report All Poaching hotline resulted in two brothers being ticketed for illegally killing a pair of trumpeter swans on Sept. 28 — the opening day of waterfowl hunting season in the Upper Peninsula.

Trumpeter swans are state and federally protected waterfowl, meaning they are illegal to hunt.

Conservation Officer Cody Smith, who patrols Baraga County, was on waterfowl patrol when the tip was called in to the RAP hotline.

"I received a complaint that someone had shot multiple swans in the Sturgeon River sloughs," Smith said.

Smith contacted his partner, Conservation Officer Doug Hermanson, who patrols Houghton County, to assist. The two conservation officers met at the Sturgeon River Sloughs Wildlife Area, located south of Chassel along U.S. 41.

Several groups of waterfowl hunters were in the area. Smith and Hermanson surveyed the area and identified the suspects reported to the RAP dispatcher — two brothers in their late 20s, from Houghton.

Smith and Hermanson conducted a routine waterfowl check and found one of the hunters in possession of lead shot. Lead shot is toxic when ingested and is illegal to use for hunting waterfowl.

"We asked the hunters if they had seen any geese, which they said they had not," Smith said. "We spoke to them for a little bit and told them about the RAP complaint."

Upon asking the hunters where the swans were, the brothers confessed they killed two trumpeter swans and stashed the birds where they dropped. Smith and Hermanson retrieved the swans and issued the poachers tickets for killing two trumpeter swans and possession of lead shot while waterfowl hunting.

Taking illegal waterfowl is a misdemeanor offense and may be punishable with up to 90 days in jail and/or up to $500 for reimbursement, in addition to other court costs.

"I want to thank the tipster who reported these poachers to the RAP hotline," said Chief Gary Hagler, DNR Law Enforcement Division. "Conservation officers rely on support from the public to preserve natural resources for future genera-

The trumpeter swans poached in this incident are being retained by the DNR as evidence in the case. Afterward, they will be put to use in one of several ways, including research or public education.

New conservation officers attend a one-week waterfowl academy and receive ongoing waterfowl education throughout their career. If you or someone you know is interested in being a conservation officer, or to learn more about conservation officers, go to Michigan.gov/ConservationOfficers.

If you witness or suspect a natural resource violation, call or text the RAP hotline at 800-292-7800. Dispatchers are always available.

the DNR as evidence in the case. Afterward, they will be put to use in one of several ways, including research or public education.

Needless to say if you do not take time to read the hunting digest before you head out into the field the lessons you learn the hard way can be rather expensive. Also if you shot something only to hide it and be found out later you just may have an interesting time explaining that you didn't know they were illegal.

Also remember (and don't ask me why) there are at least a half dozen digest to cover everything you may want to do out there this year. You have hunting, waterfowl, trapping, turkey, bear, and the fishing digest that I can recall off the top of my head. And you wonder why I say life can be rather confusing at times.

So purchase your license, and pick up all of your digests, place your orange hat on your head and go out and enjoy the fall season up here in the great north woods.

Official state Christmas tree donated by Iron Mountain family

LANSING, Mich. — The official 2019 state Christmas tree, a 61 foot blue spruce selected by the Michigan Department of Technology, Management & Budget, will be harvested from Iron Mountain. The spruce, donated by Jordan and Sarah Wolfenberg and their family, will be transported to Lansing to adorn the Capitol grounds for the holiday season Oct. 26.

This marks the fourth state tree to hail from Dickinson County and the 23rd tree from the Upper Peninsula.

"Our family is greatly honored to have our tree selected to represent the holiday season this year in Lansing," said Sarah Wolfenberg. "Regardless of beliefs, it inspires the masses and brings a bipartisan joy to so many."

The tree will be harvested Thursday, Oct. 24, and delivered to the Capitol with the help from the Michigan Association of Timbermen and the Great Lakes Timber Professionals Association. The timberman will cut the tree and transport it to Lansing at no cost to the owners or state. At the Capitol, local Boy Scout troops will continue the tradition of untying the tree. The Hi-Ball Company of Lansing will provide a crane and crew to hoist the blue spruce into place at the intersection of Capitol and East Michigan avenues.

The Michigan Capitol Commission, along with the Lansing Board of Water and Light, will develop the lighting scheme and decorate the tree. The tree lighting ceremony will take place Friday, Nov. 22, at the 35th Annual Silver Bells in the City celebration. Dignitaries will flip the switch that turns on thousands of twinkling lights at approximately 7:45 p.m. As one of Michigan's premiere holiday events, Silver Bells includes an electric light parade with floats, marching bands, thousands of holiday lights, and a fireworks display over the Capitol dome (weather permitting). The festivities will wrap up with a concert with 80's Find the right person for the job right here!

Well, here we are a week into October and the wet weather is still here for the most part. I passed by some of the farm fields down in Wisconsin and there are a lot of them under water. It appears that the only way they are going to get some of the crops off is to float them off. The only other way I heard they could do it was wait until things freeze up and try and harvest your crops then. What a year it has been for farmers in some areas.

There are some real nice areas in some spots to see the fall colors but with all the rain and winds the color season could be short lived. I will say no matter how many falls you have lived through up here in the U.P. one never gets tired of enjoying all the fall colors. I have always said that in some years the fall colors are better than in other years but Wilce and I have enjoyed this year's colors.

I see where they have been working to control the beaver that have built a dam right off Thunder Lake Road and the snowmobile trail. The beaver had quite an area backed up from the snowmobile trail back. It finally flooded the trail itself so they had some people in there trying to let some of the water through. Having been there I can say that if there is the right food and conditions for setting up a house and enough water backed up it can be hard to get rid of the beaver. I wish them luck unless someone traps them out.

What happened over on the West end of the U.P. brought back memories of someone from here who had mistaken a swan for a snow goose way back when.

Bears fall to Eagles in four

COOKS – The Big Bay de Noc volleyball took on the Hannahville Soaring Eagles Friday night, posting a loss after four sets.

The Bears put it together in set one with the 25-16 win. Unfortunately, they dropped set two by a narrow 23-25 and could not redeem themselves in the ensuing third and fourth sets, dropping them 18-25 and 21-25, respectively.

"We came out strong," stated Head Coach Angie Paulson. "I tried a new lineup and they meshed really well. The girls came out with high energy, great communication and strong coverage which brought us the win in the first set."

In the following sets though, our errors were simple and we struggled to gain our momentum back," she continued. "We always have a hard time keeping the lead when we have it. It's definitely a mental game as well as a physical one. Overall, I'm really proud of the girls. They know they have the potential to win now and we just have to keep moving forward before our final tournament."

Ellie Nedea finished the night with three digs.

Piper Jones had two kills, 13 digs, five assists, and a block.

Megan Yonker had seven aces, three kills, 22 digs, and two assists.

Alix Bleu recorded four aces and seven digs. Katelyn DeKeyser had seven aces, a kill, and 18 digs.

Kaitlin Messingill had three aces, two kills and digs, as well as an assist and block. Larissa Jones finished the night with an ace and a kill, and six digs.

The Bears will travel to Mid-Peninsula tonight.

Sportsmanship Summit set

EAST LANSING – "Be the Example" is a driving philosophy during the Michigan High School Athletic Association's annual Sportsmanship Summit, and this fall's series – provided at four sites during the first two full weeks of November – will offer more opportunities for students to present their ideas to each other as a way of sharing best practices for sportsmanship on and off the field of play.

The MHSAA has conducted Sportsmanship Summits across Michigan for more than 20 years, and this year's series kicks off Nov. 4 in Marquette and finishes Nov. 14 in Kalamazoo.

MHSAA staff, with assistance from school administrators and the MHSAA Student Advisory Council, conduct Sportsmanship Summits. More than 1,000 students from more than 100 schools are expected to take part in the four workshops, where they will discuss the line that separates good from bad sportsmanship, both as athletes during competition and when it comes to cheering at athletic events. Instruction will be based in part on insights gained during the Student Advisory Council's Battle of the Fans competitions, which annually began recognizing the best student cheering section in Michigan during the 2011-12 winter season. Details for BOTF IX will be introduced during all four Summit stops.

This fall's Summits again will feature hands-on breakout sessions and opportunities for students to meet with and discuss sportsmanship with local game officials, who will explain sportsmanship from their points of view and how they may differ from what students experience as competitors or fans. Members of the Student Advisory Council have developed and will instruct during another breakout session and also play a role in the opening all-Summit presentation. To conclude the Summits, the delegation from each participating school will meet to develop a sportsmanship campaign to implement upon returning to school. Sessions will take place at the following:

- Marquette – Nov. 4 – NMU University Center – 9 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
- Warren – Nov. 6 – DeCarlo's Banquet Center – 9 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
- Lansing – Nov. 11 – Crowne Plaza Lansing West – 9 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
- Kalamazoo – Nov. 14 – Downtown Radisson – 9 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.

Registration at each site is limited to the first 250 students and administrators. Schools are welcome to bring as many as 10 total representatives, including two administrators. For additional registration information, contact Andy Frushour at the MHSAA office – afrushour@mhsaa.com or (517) 332-5046. Registration information also is available on the MHSAA Website at www.mhsaa.com on the "Students" page under the "Schools & Schedules" tab.

The final score of the game came early in the fourth quarter when Andersn (who accounted for all four scores) hit Tony Williams for a 13-yard touchdown pass. Jack and Lucas Gould connected for the conversion to push the Emeralds' lead to 29-7.

The Emerald defense dominated the Mustangs, who were held to just 167 yards on the night (156 rushing, 11 passing), including two interceptions – one by Rusty Schroeder and one by Sam Warren, who had returns of 32 and 30 yards, respectively.

The Emeralds put up 315 yards of offense in the win; 230 rushing and 85 passing. Carrying much of the load, Andersn rushed for 178 yards on 35 attempts. He was six-of-eight in the air for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Through six games, Andersn is just 63 yards short of the 1,000-yard mark.

Williams rushed for 27 yards, caught four passes for 50 yards and a touchdown, and had two kick returns for 25 yards.

Jack, who was also crowned homecoming king, was one-for-one for 15 yards in the air and had one for 10 yards.

With the win, the Emeralds improve to 2-4, the Mustangs fall to 0-6. Manistique travels to Bark River (4-2) Friday.

The Emerald junior varsity lost by the score of 39-0.
