We are authorized to announce the name of JOHN NEVIN as a candidate for Sheriff of Schoolcraft county, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention.

LOCAL NOTES.

How will your neighbor vote?
Fish business good this season.
Circulate republican literature.
No time for political illness now.
Tax receipts neatly printed at this office.
Work on the railroad is progressing in good shape.
The people here know nothing about sweltering days.
"Billy" Button seems to have a good trade now days.
General good health prevails throughout our borders.
Steam-charge Buell will probably reach here to-day.
Marshal Jackor is now engaged in collecting village taxes.
The Paxon was in last night, and left on time this morning.
Hurry up fall work and be ready for the chilly blasts of winter.
Another picnic party were out for a day of pleasure yesterday.
The party that visited Indian Lake yesterday report a grand time.
The school building is being put in good shape for use this winter.
Steamer Moore arrived in the night and left again early this morning.
The "Big Spring" is a great wonder to the summer guests that have visited it.
Next season—a daily line of steamboats between here and Escanaba will be a necessity.
Manistique meat markets enjoy a good trade. What meat they do sell is always good.
Street-walking late at night is a practice that is not commendable especially for young ladies.
The steamer Hunter was in on time Tuesday and left promptly on time yesterday morning.
The person that has musical talent and refuses to improve the same deserves the severest censure.
The Detroit "Journal" says Tim Nestor slapped another Democrat in the mouth in that city last week.
Bartley Breen is exploring the Democratic party; but his "finds" heretofore have always turned out pretty lean.
We say that the Cummings folks missed a good thing here this season by not extending their trips from Beaver Island to this place.
The Bowen-McKinney block is much improved in appearance since the taking off of that old style of roof and the putting on of the iron flat roof.
In politics many a man feels called upon to run for office that the public do not feel inclined to vote for, and the result is a personal disappointment.
Republicans will remember the meeting at Thompson to-morrow night. Let a goodly number go over from this place and help them in the grand work.
The carpenters are enlarging a building on Oak street for Mr. McKinney. He says it is to be used as a publication office for the "Sunday Sun". The location is a good one.
Better begin getting your houses in shape for winter and see that your wood contracts are all made. The changes of season oftentimes come before people are ready for them.
One of the most effective temperance societies at work here is the Scandinavian Blue Ribbon Club. Its officers are competent and enthusiastic and its members are true, as a rule, to every obligation. As now managed that society is a credit to the town.

THE PEOPLE.

Elder Bartlett was here the forepart of the week.
G. H. Davis, of Niles, favored us with a call Tuesday afternoon.
Rev. Mr. Bixby and party will return to Chicago on the Depeze Saturday.
Supt. Robinson and his son Charles, of Thompson, were here yesterday. Charley leaves Saturday to attend school in Illinois.
Mr. Townsend, who will lumber this winter at camp 31, sends up a gang of men to-day to begin operations. This early beginning indicates a big winter's work.
Capt. George Hammer, of Masonville, lost at sea last week by the sinking of the steamship Geiser, was well known by many of the people at this end of the lake.
Thanks for a very pleasant call from Mr. Noss, Sr., twice during his stay here; and we enjoyed his visit very much, especially as we could talk over old army events which both cognizant having been members of the same brigade.
Hans Juhl, who left this office a few weeks ago to try his fortune in the far west, has been heard from at Portland, Oregon. From the tone of his letters we are satisfied that he is not favorably impressed with that part of the country; and we still think that he will be back here in time to vote for Harrison and Morton.
Tramp peddlers occasionally prow around town selling their cheap and worthless goods to silly girls and maids. Every resident should make it a point to lock their doors against that class of vagrants.
There is a little talk now of a railroad from the main line to Fayette. Hope it may materialize. That accomplished and there is no more danger of the Jackson Iron Company moving their furnace plant.
Just now but few farmers find time to come to town; they finding plenty of work to do on the farm. It won't be many years before our people can boast of as handsome farms as can be found any where in Northern Michigan.
Mr. Howard, the artist, is now busy taking stereoscopic views of natural scenery hereabouts, having one of the finest machines made. Call there and purchase views of the "Big Spring," "Seven Year Spring" etc. As an artist he has no superior.
We hope arrangements will be made to hold the Senatorial and Representative campaigns at this place, as it is the most central point in either district; and then we want the representatives men of the several counties to come and see us. We mean this for all parties.
Esquire Hill is now busy taking an enumeration of the school children in this district. This is more of a job than one at first imagines. He takes the names of all over five and under twenty years of age. If the law required the number under five years; Anos would have a job all winter.
The steamer Stewart failed to arrive Tuesday night. She came as far as Nautinway, transferred her freight and passengers to the Hunter and returned to St. Ignace to take the place of the Algoumah for a short time. Whether she will come on this route again or not is a matter of speculation.
Prof. Gordon's singing class is just getting down to work. Other attractions have kept many away from those meetings that we hope will now decide to attend regularly. Certainly this is an opportunity that Manistique has not enjoyed before and should not be slighted now. The Professor is a thorough instructor and we confidently expected that ere this his scholars would have been numbered by the hundred. Many said to us before he came that they were anxious to attend, but so far only a few have been present. Why this neglect?

REPUBLICAN CLUB AT THOMPSON.

The Republicans of Thompson township will hold a meeting at the hall to-morrow (Friday) evening, August 24, for the purpose of organizing a campaign club. J. H. Clark, Esq., and others will address the meeting. They invite the Republicans of Manistique and Hinawatha to come over and assist them in starting the ball rolling in the right direction.
REPUBLICAN CLUB MEETING.—The regular meeting of the Michigan club will take place on Saturday evening, and it is very desirable that there should be a general attendance. There is business of great importance to transact. Be on hand precisely at eight o'clock.
FOR THOMPSON.—If the weather will permit a tug will leave here promptly at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening to convey members of the Michigan Club to Thompson, there to take part in the organization of a branch club. Let as many go as possible.
All the leading daily papers on sale at the westside drugstore, and orders for all periodicals taken and promptly attended to.
Burt's barrel is not going to catch many doubtful votes among the laboring men this year. His course on the tariff question is entirely too vacillating.
Mr. Cleveland did very well as a fisherman. He always spits on his bait. But when he attempts to catch a vote by spitting on the old soldiers he makes a mistake.—"Peoria Transcript."

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

Several of the Ypsilanti liquor dealers upon whom George Wanzler, the Sunday fighter squandered recently, have been arrested for keeping their places open on Sunday. Each has given $200 bail to show up in court when the time comes.
O'Donovan Rossa swore, before the committee of congress which is investigating the business, that the English criminals were sent to America, himself being one. He was sentenced six years on but let out after serving six years on condition that he come hither.
The Chicago "Journal" asks: "What are the political Prohibitionists going to do with Francis Murphy now that he has said boldly and plainly that he doesn't intend to help vote the republican ticket on Sunday? Why they will not help vote the republican ticket on Sunday? Why they will call him a candidate?"

MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN

It has been decided that no theater in Madrid will be allowed to open its doors next winter unless it shall be lighted by electricity.

A French gardener has produced a new and beautiful water lily. The flowers are six inches in diameter, and of a Maréchal Niel rose color.

It is an insolo made of horse hair on a felt foundation. The felt absorbs the moisture, while the horse-hair keeps the foot warm by constantly irritating it.

An extraordinary experiment was made at Bone, in Algeria, on May 29, after the execution of a native who had murdered his brother and the latter's wife and father-in-law. As the head fell from the guillotine a doctor took it up and spoke a few words. Various movements of the man's eyes and mouth seemed to show that the words had been heard and understood.

Berlin, it seems, has gradually become the headquarters of the carved wood industry, supplanting Switzerland. Six hundred artists in wood-carving, the same number of turners, and seven hundred carpenters are engaged in manufacturing such articles as cigar-cases, newspaper and picture-frames, napkin-rings, &c. The value of the annual export of these articles is given as 5,000,000 marks, and this is exclusive of the costly carved-wood furniture, the manufacture and exports of which are assuming large proportions.

A method of preserving the natural color of flowers, recommended by H. Hegler in the Deutsche Monatshefte Monatshefte, consists in dusting salicylic acid on the plants as they lie in the press, and removing it again with a brush when the flowers are dry. Red colors in particular are well preserved by this agent. Another method of applying the same preservative is to use a solution of one part of salicylic acid in fourteen of alcohol by means of blotting paper or cotton-wool soaked in it and placed above and below the flowers.

In some experiments with ozone as a curative agent an English lady, so far advanced in consumption that her case appeared hopeless, has been treated with inhalation of this gas, with results described as marvelous. After a month's treatment the appetite was regained, the sleep calm and refreshing, and there was a very good prospect of recovery. The ozone was prepared by passing a stream of oxygen through the current of an induction coil, and was administered with atmospheric air in the proportion of one in five. The experimenter has reached the conclusion that the ozone treatment is specially applicable to all germ diseases.

Very few people have any idea of the vast areas of Government land held by alien land-holders in the United States. The largest tract, 4,500,000 acres is held by the Holland Company, of New Mexico. An English syndicate holds 3,000,000 acres in Texas. Sir Edward Reid and a syndicate in Florida, own 2,000,000 acres, 1,500,000 acres belong to an English syndicate in Missouri, 1,700,000 to the Marquis of Tweeddale, 1,300,000 to the Phillips-Marshall Company, of London, and 1,600,000 acres to a German syndicate. These comprise the larger landholders. There are, however, a score or more of persons and syndicates owning less than 700,000 acres. The grant total foots up to 20,747,000 acres of Government land held by aliens in the United States.

The molecular theory is classed by Dr. Roscoe, President of the British Association, among the most notable of modern scientific landmarks, and recent investigation has accomplished, as regards the size of the atom, what was formerly regarded as impossible. Recent researches have extended the methods of atomic measurement, with the amazing conclusion that the distance between the centers of contiguous molecules is less than a five-millionth and greater than a billionth of a centimeter; that is, assuming that the best microscopes magnify 6,000 to 8,000 times, a microscope which would show the molecular structure of water—or, again, putting the statement in another or more absolute form, it is supposed that the minutest organisms which can now be seen were provided with equally powerful microscopes—to those just named, these beings would be able to see the atoms.

The Reverent Mood.

When thunders echo through the midnight sky And lightnings flash with jagged forks of fire, From black cloud-walls of storm, as if the fire.

Long pent by Fate descended from on high, While I observed in a mute expectancy, The palm trees tremble on the wild seashore, And monuments quivering in awful rest. My heart leaps onward with a reverent cry; For in this tropic wonder-world of night And elements passion rises idle. Deep meanings of the Power that is the guide And savior of destiny, whose might Swayeth the boundless universe aright, And yet doth point the hills in the distance. —TRACY ROBINSON.

A Curious But Valuable Gift.

The man is still living, who, seven years ago, walked into the rooms of the Bible Society in Boston and electrified the persons whom he found there, first by his appearance and second by the communication he had to make. His appearance betokened more than poverty, for his shabby clothes were tied together with strings. What in the world had brought such a man there was the question every one asked himself, and the wonder can be better imagined than described when the stranger remarked that he had property to the amount of $75,000, which he would like to turn over to the society if he had the guarantee of 10 per cent. annually upon it for the remainder of his life, his age then being 79. The officers suppressed their amazement as well as they could, took his name, verified his schedule of his possessions, and submitted his case to the directors. They looked the matter over in the light of actuaries' tables, etc., and finally, after much deliberation, decided that the risk was too great and so rejected the would-be donor. Not long after he came back and renewed his proposition to turn the property over to the society, and said that he would be content with 7 per cent. annually. That proposition was accepted, and for some years he appeared regularly at the expiration of the year and drew his interest, taking $200 in cash, and the company's note for the balance. The note matured for seven years or so he turned those notes back to the company, saying that he had no use for them. He is now, at the age of 96, blind, deaf, and crippled by a fall so that he cannot walk, and the Bible society pays the bills for his support.—Springfield, (Mass.) Union.

A Minister's Nerve.

Dr. D. J. Burrell, besides being a masterly pulpit orator, is a man of nerve and determination. Soon after he left Yale college, according to the Minneapolis Star, he was placed in charge of a very tough mission at Five Points, New York. The boys were bad and unmanageable. The new teacher bore with their tricks and meanness as long as possible. In desperation he went to his work one Sunday determined to have order or fight. The meeting was the singing lesson, and prayer was offered, and Mr. Burrell stood watching the ring-leader of the masses. He caught him in the act and stopped the devotions and said: "Dan, come and sit here on the rostrum."

Dan laughed in his face and said he would not do it. The reverend gentleman reached over, took his man by the coat collar and landed him in the desired spot very suddenly. The boy was one of the worst in the mission, and he planted his teeth in Mr. B's leg. Despite the pain, the latter was bound to his master of the situation, and took his pupil into the vestibule. Looking the door he said: "Now, Dan, either you have got to lick me or I'll lick you!" They went it and pounded away at a furious rate. The Yale man had been a member of the reserve crew at college and was in good athletic condition. He worsted the boisterous pupil, who gave up three times, and as many times the pupil went at him again. At last the cry was "enough." Taking Dan back to the school-room, he said in the presence of all: "Dan, can I whip you?" "Yes," whined Dan, "you can lick me."

There was no more trouble in that mission.

A Newporter's Handsome Gift.

Mr. Harold Brown, of Newport, has just given $100,000 for the missionary work in the Episcopal Church. It will be used for the endowment of the missionary episcopate of the church, and the only condition is one that is curiously interesting, that whenever, after the date of the gift, any missionary jurisdiction shall have raised within itself $5,000 or more, and shall have been recognized by the general convention as a diocese, it shall be entitled to receive from this fund a dollar for every dollar up to the limit of $10,000. One word of advice about the spending of the money, too, is interesting. Mr. Brown says, "The sooner the fund is distributed the better." He is so of the late John Carter Brown, of this city, and a descendant of Nicholas Brown, after whom Brown University is named. He was a member of the class of 1830

at Brown, but did not graduate with his class.

A Famous Aeronaut.

Services of the Dutch Street Methodist Episcopal Church were held recently in the church. The promises of the bible were discussed. Mr. William Paul, one of the oldest members of the church, delivered an address on the history of the church, and Mr. Elliott, once a famous aeronaut, said that once he was coming down from a balloon in Georgia, and when a congregation of colored people say he was about to drop down upon them in his air-ship, they all took to their heels and ran, thinking that the day of judgment had come, except an old woman, who was preaching with great fire and eloquence. She received Mr. Elliott with an invitation something like this: "Welcome, Lord Jesus! I've been aloft! I've had a long time, and I'm mighty glad you're cum'." When Mr. Elliott said terra firma he was well treated, but he could not establish satisfactorily to all the people that he was divine. This incident led to his conversion.—Baltimore American.

Not the Weaker Sex.

Society women nowadays thoroughly realize the importance of good health in the matrimonial market, and New York women are today much stronger and healthier, as a rule, than the men are. A few minutes on Broadway, when Fortunate street and Third second, on the west side of the street, of a Saturday afternoon, will demonstrate the truth of this assertion. The women, as a rule, are fresh of face, erect of carriage, their heads are well poised and their arms well rounded. Their figures are trim and they walk along with a strong and regular stride. The men, on the other hand, are too often slack in their heads, are well combed and their arms well rounded. They are trim and they walk along with a strong and regular stride. The men, on the other hand, are too often slack in their heads, are well combed and their arms well rounded. They are trim and they walk along with a strong and regular stride. The men, on the other hand, are too often slack in their heads, are well combed and their arms well rounded. They are trim and they walk along with a strong and regular stride.

Canoeing.

Naturally enough, woman, who shares all man's sports, takes kindly to canoeing. Many patterns of canoes are specially designed for her convenience and fancy, and the most sex handsomest of the double-bladed paddle is especially favored by them, and sailing is as yet, except in the case of the more venturesome, left for the men. But many women enjoy sailing, and their husbands and brothers, and the double canoe, with the woman in front steering or paddling, in which case she turns her back upon her companion, or sitting by his side, holding more or less gazing into his eyes, are frequently seen. A convoy of these merry damsels, each in her separate craft, conducted by a few men in their midst, makes a merry party for a moonlight paddle among the leafy lawns of Lake George and the St. Lawrence River.

How Sir Walter Worshipped.

A controversy has broken out in Scotland about whether Sir Walter Scott was an Episcopalian or a Presbyterian. It was in Glasgow when he read the Church of England burial service at Lady Scott's grave, and the same service was read at Scott's own burial. On the other hand, it appears that in 1806 the minister was ordained an elder of the Church of Scotland at Duddingston, near Edinburgh. He also officiated in that capacity at the general assembly. His novels are conclusive proof as to which church had his sympathies.—Canadian Baptist.

A Lutheran Temple.

The cathedral at Ulm, on the Danube, is the finest and largest of the Lutheran churches. It can seat 28,000 worshippers. The spire was never finished, but the work of completion has been carried on so vigorously that the capping stone of the magnificent spire may be placed at the height of 834 feet in 1880. The corner-stone of the minster was laid in 1377; the church was cleared of bones and debris in the year of the Augsburg confession.

Liberal Endowments.

Nearly all of the German universities have large endowments, and yet the state budget every year gives them large sums of money. The University of Leipzig, for instance, is more than four hundred years old, and has large possessions of real estate in the city. The Saxon government, however, gives it every year about $400,000.

The Bible in Welsh.

The trecentenary of the translation of the bible in Welsh is to be celebrated this year by erecting a memorial to the translator, Bishop Morgan, at St. Asaph, and by establishing a Welsh scholarship for biblical learning. It is also intended to issue a reprint of Bishop Morgan's bible, with the revised version in a parallel column.

Moire ashes are in fashion, and will probably be worn all winter.

THE CAMP FIRE.

The Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Five eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord; One eye has seen the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored; He hath loosed the faithful lightning of His terrible swift sword: His truth is marching on.

I have seen Him in the watch-fires of a hundred-dreaming camp; They have built Him an altar in the evening, and down-dropt; They have read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps: His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel writ in burn'd-red rows of steel; "As ye deal with my containers, so with you my grace shall deal; Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel, Since God's marching on."

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat; He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment seat. On, ye swift, untiring hosts of glory, that stand ready to answer Him, be jubilant, my feet! Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea; A glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me; As He died to make men holy, let us die to make men free, While God is marching on. —Julia Ford.

Memories of the War Horse.

The death of Gen. Gillmore recalls incidents in his career not generally known, interesting in themselves and highly honorable to that gallant soldier. Gillmore was a captain of engineers when the war broke out, and early in the autumn of 1861 was ordered to report to Gen. T. W. Sherman, who commanded the troops in the military and navy expedition against Port Royal. The combined force was intended to secure a position that should threaten the main base in a hollow-eyed and certainly but little else can be expected when the late hours usually kept by them are considered and it is remembered how many dozens of cigars they smoked during the day and how many deadly cocktails are imbued.—New York Mail.

The Marksmen of the Regular Army.

The eighth annual competition for places on the rifle team of the Division of the Missouri, Maj. Gen. George A. Crook commanding, will take place at San Antonio, Texas, beginning August 21. The competition will be in charge of Lieut. Philip Heald, Inspector of Rifle Practice for the division, and he has already gotten out a handsome and unique program for the occasion. It consists of a regular army cartridge with the expedition bullet protruding from the end. It has a vicious look, and one is apt to have a shudder with it after reading the instructions pasted on the shell. They are: "Pull out the bullet and examine contents of shell." When the bullet is extracted a ribbon with the program printed on it comes with it. The contest will last from August 21 until August 30, the first three days being devoted to practicing rifle. The method by which the competitors are chosen is as follows: Each of the four departments of the division has a preliminary contest, to which the commander of every company of volunteers or troop of cavalry must send one man, and every regimental band may send a representative. Every regimental commander may also send two commissioned officers. The competition for the Department of Dakota, Gen. Huger, will take place at St. Paul, for the Department of the Platte, Gen. Brooke, at Omaha; for the Department of the Missouri, Gen. Merritt, at Fort Leavenworth; and the Department of Texas, Gen. Stanley, at San Antonio. These contests are to determine the twelve best shots of the department, and these twelve constitute the department team, and with the winners go to the division contest. A gold medal is given to the best shot of each department team, and a silver medal to the best skirmisher. At the division contest the twelve best shots constitute the team, and every one who receives a medal. The first four receive gold and the other eight silver medals. A silver medal is also given to the man having the highest average on the two days' shooting. These medals are among the few decorations that a United States soldier is allowed to wear on his uniform. They are highly prized. The contest is open to officers as well as men, the conditions being the same for all. They are required to use the same weapons and shoot at the same time.

MURKIN.

There has just been placed on exhibition at Winsor a gun with this inscription on a tablet on its mahogany mounting: "This gun formed part of the armament of His Majesty's ship Latonia, totally lost on the coast of Holland on the 26th of October, 1798. On the conclusion of peace, the wreck, which contained a large treasure, was handed over by the Dutch Government to the corporation of St. Joris's, where the treasure was insured. The wreck was insured in and insured in five fathoms of water. In 1886 this gun was salvaged, having lain near one hundred years below the surface. It was presented to her Majesty Queen Victoria, who was graciously pleased to accept it from the corporation."

According to The Financial Chronicle's computation, seventy-four railroads which have shown returns for their earnings for the month of May give an aggregate of $33,838,033, against $31,748,747 for May, 1887. A gain of $1,189,285, or 3.72 per cent. Last year in May they gain over $1,288, of $30,549,758, a gain of 13.03 per cent. Bearing in mind the gains of last year, the net gain of May for this year of $1,189,285 should be regarded as eminently satisfactory.

HELPING DEMOCRACY.

It is plainly apparent to anyone who will stop to think at the moment, that the public object of the third party prohibitionists is to aid democracy and, if possible, defeat the Republican party in the coming election. This fact stands out so boldly that anyone possessed of reasoning faculties can readily see it. It is well known that the Republican party is the temperance party of the country, while the democratic party, throughout the entire existence, has stood as the champion of the whisky cause. The third party prohibitionists know this full well, and they also know that there is no possible chance for the success of the third party ticket, for the simple reason that the major portion of votes cast for this ticket must come from the Republican party, thus decreasing the strength of the latter sufficiently to allow the democrats to win the battle and defeat the only party that has ever accomplished anything in the interest of temperance.

The Republican party agrees with the third party prohibitionists as to the evils attributable to the liquor traffic and differs with them only as to the practicable means of suppressing it where that is possible, and where it is impossible, of restricting and reducing its bad influence. The democratic party, on the other hand, has neither sympathy for prohibition nor respect for laws enacted in view of these facts, what good can the third party agitators expect to accomplish in defeating the democracy in power? Fortunately many of those who at first, thought there was an opportunity for a third party to accomplish more effective work than the Republican party has done, have changed their minds, and the outlook now is for a largely decreased third party prohibition vote in every state. The only road towards their goal is that upon which the host of Republican voters are marching—Grant county "Journal."

Commenting on the announcement that Mr. Mills, author of the Democratic free-trade tariff bill, is coming to Michigan, the Detroit Journal says: "Perhaps he will tell the people of the state how it happened that his bill swept away all objection from the chief products of this state and retained them on the chief products of the southern states. Perhaps, too, he will explain to Mr. Jas. Turner of Lansing, who as the manager of a condensed milk manufactory, is obliged to pay tribute to the sugar trust, why Mr. Mills allowed it to fix the tariff on sugar. Mills can make some interesting speeches if he tries, simply in clearing up some of these points for the benefit of the Michigan Democracy."

It is said that any baby who does not fall out of bed will grow up to be a fool. The Solomon of the next generation will be a baby down in Georgia, which has up to date fallen out of bed 111 times and still tumbles to the racket.

King Alfonso XIII, the baby potentate of Spain, gives the court of Madrid a great deal of trouble. By law it is decreed that only a nurse and certain attendants shall lay hands on his majesty. Not long ago his paregorical highness attempted to crawl out of a new cradle at the risk of his neck. A courtier, one not allowed legally to touch the king, saw his sovereign's peril, and, defying the law, rescued the precious child in the nick of time. For this rash act he lost his place at court. The queen regent, following the instincts of a mother, found the life-saver a place far removed from the baby rule. Any sensible baby would prefer to be an ordinary baby until able to land on its feet from a royal cradle.

England has just achieved one more of those huge land-grabs which are so eminently characteristic of British policy, and which should not be allowed to pass unrecorded. By one stroke of the pen Sir Hercules Robinson, governor of the queen's South African colonies, has annexed the whole of the vast tract of country extending from the Transvaal frontier in the south to the river Zambesi in the north—that is to say, a stretch covering some ten or twelve degrees. Of course the proclamation of annexation announces that Sir Hercules is acting under orders from the cabinet at home. The rights of the case are probably those which exist when the big boy requires the little boy's apple by confiscation.

For the Cobden Club, President Cleveland's message is free trade, and nothing else. Free trade for the United States first and next for the whole world. Our market is the "enormous" spoil his message holds out to the British free trader, in the rest of the world is to come later. The Cobden Club is right. It knows free trade when it sees it. That is what it means, for in London, and has its members men like Secretary Bayard, Speaker Carlisle and Justice Lammie. Mr. W. M. Singarly and Mr. Henry Watterson. The glaring phrase "tariff reform," the Cobden Club is keen to see and frank to say means a "revolution in international trade." It opens the "enormous" profits of our markets to English free trade—"Philadelphia Press."

It is strange how much nonsense gets into some of the papers. The Philadelphia Times wants Congress to put a rider on the bill to give Mrs. General Sheridan a pension of $5,000 so as to give the same amount to Mrs. Major General Hancock. To do that would be to abolish rank, and pension a Major General the same as a full General. It would also select one particular Major General for a bigger pension than the other Major Generals. If a Major General's widow should have the same pension as a Lieutenant General's, and a General's, then a Brigadier General should have as much as a Major General, a Colonel as much as a Brigadier, and every private as much as a Colonel. To merely state such a proposition is to show its folly. "Lansing Republican."

Following close upon the British-made bannanas and British-made campaign buttons comes a flood of British-written and British-printed free trade tracts, which the Cleveland and Thurman managers are spreading far and wide through the Northwest. These campaign documents are not only English in ideas. Their spelling shows English characteristics, and their typography is recognized as that of Paternoster Row. Why doesn't the Democratic National committee move over and establish its headquarters in London at once? It might be able to hire a room from the Cobden club, at 6 Upper Park Road, N. W. As for Republicans, we are quite resigned to plod along with American ideas, expressed on American paper and with American type. They're good enough for us.—"New York Tribune."

FREE WHISKEY.

The Democratic cry of Free Whiskey to meet the Protectionists' charge on Free Trade is one of party's usually silly ways of meeting a great question. Now, do they mean to seriously say that the Protectionists of the country propose to take off the present duty of $2 per proof gallon on spirituous liquors? We do not think that, with all their stupidity and lack of information on economic subjects, they mean this, and if not, what do they mean? Are Protectionists in favor of free iron and steel because they do not impose an internal revenue tax on those productions?—Irish World.

The idiosyncy of the average dog-loving woman is past comprehension. Mrs. Bell, of Thirtyeighth street, New York, bought a $300 lot in Greenwood Cemetery in which to bury her pet golden retriever. An undertaker provided the finest rosewood, satin-lined coffin. Such idiosyncy is positively indecent, and if the authorities permit the brute to be buried there, they insult every lot-owner of the cemetery. Women, however, are not the only fools in this matter. A fellow named Barkeasle died in Tacoma, W. T. and left $2,000 to his dog.

CONQUERING A QUAKER.

thought for her or conquered her enemies, but Robert's replies made the surprise discovery that a really rest-hearted creature remains sweet even on high leats, and before a week was over Edith was the acknowledged ruler of the entire household.

It was even decided in family council that it would do her what, in the worldly world, would be known as a "reception." They had no idea of doing this in looking forward to her visit. It was felt that it would be concession enough for them to consent to receive as a visitor into the bosom of their own family the young woman who had disappointed their fondest hopes for the security of Robert's future.

Edith, however, had her own plans. On the evening before the solemn entertainment she slipped up-stairs, took off all her heavy, laced-up hair-down perfectly smooth and straight over her little ears, twisted very plainly behind her neck, and down from her trunk a little gown of pale green cashmere, reaching barely to her knees, and without a ruffle or a flounce, except the faint, possible plait at the waist, and absolutely devoid of ornamentation of any kind.

"Dear me, mamma, it isn't half so bad I thought it would be. I meant to look like a quaker, and after all it rather effective. If I were dressed for private theatricals I should think myself immensely. Oh, dear, suppose they should like me best this way after all! It was a sorrowful loss to her hopes as this tramp card to find herself still exceedingly pretty. She was perfectly conscious of a certain piquant charm in her novel appearance, and she would not do her after all. Still she would run the risk. She was a perfect little actress. If anything had been needed to shed Robert's complete subjugation after his first vision of her loveliness at the Harvard assemblies it was supplied when he saw her the week after in some private theatricals. She could appear to be a quakeress just as effectively, as she could act her more natural self in a very different world, and it was with her and accent and manner perfectly adapted to her novel role that she entered the parlor again after her escapade up-stairs, and said demurely to Robert's mother:

"Rachel, would you like me to wear this gown to-morrow evening for my friends?" There was a subdued whistle of delight from the reconstructed Robert in the corner. But Robert's mother gave no sign.

"The most was just what the pleasant Edith. If it pleases thee better to wear by gown of red silk." And the wise Edith understood human nature well enough to be sure that "Rachel" would not be altogether displeased if her pretty future daughter-in-law should reconsider her toilet and reappear in the dining room as she had been exhibiting for the past fortnight. "And what does Samuel think?" Edith asked, passing on to the stand before Robert's father.

She hesitated a moment, but her hesitation was merely from a moment's consideration of whether she had any other gown in her wardrobe that would emphasize more distinctly her intention to adhere to her own traditions. She decided that the long trailing skirt of pale green cashmere, with its border of white silk, was sufficiently worldly when one sparkled in the lace at her throat, the dainty lace-edged handkerchiefs, and her white forehead, and she passed only to slip one more lacy over her round wrist, and then, kissing her husband, bowed down-stairs.

Robert never knew exactly what she said or did to the old gentlemen in the parlor. He hung over the banisters and caught the echoes of her silvery tea into the parlor, and at the end of an hour descended the stairs himself as the old gentlemen emerged from the doorway, determined to stand by Edith the last, if she happened to have had monstrosity would be quietly left out to himself, even during the latest episode of farewell; but, to his as help the old gentlemen with their coats, the one who was evidently spokesman for the party grasped his hand and said heartily: "Friend Robert, this has marveled well."

Still another year later and there lay on Edith's arm a little Edith, with lovely eyes and very remarkable, highly considered of clothes.

"Do you think, Esther," said the young mother, anxiously, "that she is going to have curly hair?" "Yes," said Esther, with a smile that was grimly pleasant and yet pleasantly gloomy, "I think she will have curly hair. I know there would find a way to curl it, though it be as straight as—as a pipe and Aunt Esther bent over to kiss the child.

"And you're glad it curls, Esther, you know you are," insisted the "baby's" mamma.

"Yes, Edith, I am glad it curls. For since this would be sure to our it some how, it is best that Dame Nature will be to me of my tricks and please her self." —Hatsboro Bulletin.

SWISH SKIRTS.

Swish skirts are the latest device in fetching drapery, and are especially affected by players of tennis and croquet. The girl should first be engaged in a lattice corset, which is composed of crossed tapes, and therefore merely confines her softer surfaces without imparting any look of stiffness or confinement. Over this she dons a seamless and skin-smooth jersey, unbroken by any sort of trimming. The color is white. From underneath the lower edge of this waist hang, all soft and limp, about four skirts of the finest, thinnest white lawn.

If the maiden possesses well-rounded outlines of her own and is of a daring turn she may cut the number of skirts to three; but if she be thin of lump and somewhat angular of hip and knee, she may overlay as many as a dozen to advantage. The essential point is that the swish draperies shall hang in a statuesque manner, disclosing and yet embellishing every motion of the form within. The well-formed and active tennis girl in a mob cap, large bodice and swish skirt; is all alive from top to toe. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is true that the laboring men of the upper peninsula should know just the position Bartley Green is now occupying politically. He poses before them as a protectionist, and at the same time is trying to sell them out to free trade Democracy. Mr. Green will find out that he can't play the same game up there this year that he did when he ran for congress. The tariff issue must be squarely met this year, and he can't dodge it. He has enlisted under the anti-protection banner, and must be recognized as an enemy of protection as long as he fights on that side. —Tribune.

Grever Cleveland was nominated for president by the St. Louis convention on the June 6th. Nearly two months and a half have gone by. And yet he has not issued his letter of acceptance. This extraordinary delay is unprecedented. There is not a case on record where the candidate has hesitated like this. The longest time that has ever before intervened between a nomination and an acceptance was 43 days. Four years ago Mr. Cleveland took 40 — Philadelphia Press.

"What is there very bad in cigarette smoking?" My boy there are two wretchedly bad things about it; first and worst, the cigarette; and second the fellow who smokes it. Eliminate these two evils and no one will find any fault with cigarette smokers and smoking. —Burdette.

Frank M. Fogg, the labor agitator, is said to be about to commence a libel suit against the Evening Journal on account of the remarks it made about him and his share in the recent state union labor convention. The Journal seems to think that somebody did something for boodle at that convention.

The eminent clergyman, Dr. R. S. Storrs, having been misquoted and misrepresented politically, recently wrote a long letter to the New York Independent defining his position. While he does not fully endorse everything contained in the Republican platform he still adheres firmly to the Republican party and will heartily support its candidates.

A Vienna dispatch to the London "Times" says: "Herr von Schönerer, the Austrian Deputy who some months ago broke into a newspaper office with a gang of rowdies and assaulted the editor and staff, was sentenced for this offense and to thirteenth months' imprisonment, sharpened by two fast days a month; also to a loss of political rights for five years, and to degradation from his rank as a nobleman. This sentence has been confirmed by the Court of Appeals."

The Sunday Herald, intensely Democratic, has this paragraph: "We hear that there is a great rush of Irish voters toward Harrison; that there are five Irish Republican clubs in New York where there was one in 1884. We hear that a Democratic congressman in New York was asked last week if many Irishmen would vote for Harrison and voted for Blaine. 'A great many more,' he answered. He said the fisheries treaty, the idea that the Democrat tariff policy pleased England and many other things had produced this change."

To improve a town the people must talk about it. Inactivity the streets, be friendly to everybody; do good men to all offices, keep the side walks in good repair, sell all they can and buy all they can at home. The north Michigan democrat is an article that is practically opposed to Burt for governor. He feels that republican principles, republican administrations and protection, have done more for Michigan than many states. To see a man who has acquired wealth through the care the republican party has taken of emigration, become a democrat, or assume democratic principles for the sake of filling a gubernatorial chair, is nauseating to the north Michigan man, no matter how firm he may be in so-called conservative ideas, and we guarantee the tall Norway of the Saginaw can make up his fatal table of improbabilities without any regard to the up-country of the Wolverine state. —Alma News.

RETURNED TO LIFE

Sam Nace fell overboard and is reported dead—his awakening at the station.

The advertisement of Samuel Nace is a remarkable story of apparent death and resurrection, says the Philadelphia Press.

Nace is a large and brawny young man, with an attractive face except for the absence of an eye, which was closed several years ago through an accident, and gives him a fawning solemn countenance.

It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the cry of a man overboard brought a great crowd of wharf-loungers and longshoremen to the scene.

A doctor was summoned and after making an examination said very positively: "This man is dead."

"Kain't say that I likes it ortin, sah. Folks is too congenial yer fur me."

"I have no idon," said the unknown, looking into the dark water.

When the night force came on at the second district the sergeant and turnkey were notified that the body of a drowned man was in the corridor.

"Phaw!" said the sergeant, still ridiculing the story, "you're to get 'em, or else you're drowning."

The turnkey insisted that he was telling the truth, and the sergeant consented to investigate.

"Phaw!" said the sergeant, still ridiculing the story, "you're to get 'em, or else you're drowning."

MEXICAN VOLCANOES.

Mount Atlix, Popocatepetl, and Iztaccihuatl, more than 18,000 feet high.

Recent ascents of the twin volcanoes of Popocatepetl and Iztaccihuatl dominate the great white giants which dominate the superb landscape of the valley of Mexico.

Popocatepetl, which is a conical peak 18,000 feet into the blue ether, is comparatively easy of ascent, although at times the snow offers an almost insuperable obstacle.

An Elephant Funeral.

The following letter from a planter in Iceland mentions an extraordinary incident—the removal of the body of a dead elephant by his comrades.

After looking around, I saw the herd had been around during the night, and I soon discovered a track where they followed the elephant up through a thick bamboo jungle, and about five hundred yards further on, I came upon the dead elephant, lying in the bottom of a rocky gulch.

"Some surprise was expressed at the circumstances to my neighbors. I showed them where the elephant had been cut off, and where the body lay in the stream, which proved conclusively that by some means or other the body had got over the snow.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 21 - Yesterday afternoon a terrific storm passed over this city, unroofing many buildings, tearing down telegraph and telephone wires, smashing windows, destroying awnings, prostrating shade trees and doing an immense amount of damage of a miscellaneous character. The loss may reach several thousands of dollars. The signal service building, Masonic hall, Adams two blocks and Thony's block suffered the greatest damage.

There is no news of disaster on the lakes, and the blow was only of a few minutes duration.

Among the democratic congressmen who admit their mistake in voting for the Mills bill is the Hon James E. Campbell, of Ohio. This is the candid confession:

"I voted for the Mills bill, and, it is true, we passed it by a larger majority than we anticipated when the compilation of the measure was begun. It is true, also, that we secured two republican votes and lost but three democrats; but I have a premonition that we have made a bad job of it. You see I sit on the floor of the house right in the center of the democratic members of the committee on ways and means. I have been telling them for months that it was a fatal error to put wool on the free list, and to make such a small reduction of the duty on sugar. I can go to the map and put my thumb on all the territory of the United States which produces sugar, while there is not a county that does not grow wool; I don't understand how otherwise long-headed men on our side of the house have been demanding free wool as the panacea of tariff reform. I do not expect to see more than four or five democratic members returned to the next house from my state.

I am not a candidate for re-election and I do not believe I could be re-elected. I am what you would term a mild protectionist, and yet I have voted for a bill with strong free trade tendencies. If this bill means anything it means a long step toward free trade, because it has put many of our leading productions on the free list. There may be nothing in the fact that we passed the bill by a majority of 18 - an unlucky number - but I have a general feeling that the Mills bill as a whole will be unpopular before the country and that it is a mistake."
