Five years ago a man who said he was John Booth, of Queens county, Ireland, came to Manistique. It became known that the man he gave was an assumed one, but he had refused to reveal his true name. He was a man of good education, and had seen better days. He was killed by the fall of a derrick, and his mystery dies with him.

During the present session of Congress there has been expended for furnishing envelopes used by members of the house in distributing speeches the sum of $21,000. There has been 11,000,000 envelopes used, being the greatest number since 1876, which is accounted for by the large number of speeches which have been made on the tariff question.

The Newberry News tells a roorback about as follows: The celery company had a lot of urdins employed at 50 cents a day to watch the grasshoppers and keep them "moving on" beyond the celery field. The urdins struck for 75 cents a day, and failing to get it marched off the premises. Thereupon every grasshopper disappeared, and not one has been seen near the plantation since.

Captain Samuel Moore, of Portsmouth, Ohio, has in his possession the original copper plate from which were printed the invitations to the inauguration ball given in honor of President William H. Harrison. The plate is adorned with the fine medallion picture of President Harrison; and among the seventy-six managers of the ball whose names are printed is that of Daniel Webster, although as he himself once said, he "never had sense enough to learn how to dance."

Abraham Lincoln when a candidate for the Illinois Legislature in 1832 made the following speech:
 Gentlemen, Fellow Citizens—I presume you know who I am. I am humble Abraham Lincoln. I have been solicited by many friends to become a candidate of the Legislature. My politics can be briefly stated. I am in favor of the internal improvement system and a high protective tariff. These are my sentiments and political principles. If elected I shall be thankful; if not, it will be all the same.

The new steel steamer City of Detroit, which is now being built by the Detroit & Cleveland steam navigation company, will be the largest and finest passenger steamer on the great chain of lakes. She will be 300 feet in length, over all, or 16 feet longer than the City of Cleveland, of the same line. Her beams is 40 feet 3 inches, and from guard to guard at the widest part is 71 feet. The hull is composed of steel plates five-eighths of an inch thick. The hull is divided into eight water-tight compartments, insuring almost perfect safety in case of collision.

TRYING TO CHANGE THE ISSUE.
 Mr. Cleveland cannot charge the issue of the canvass, though his message on the fishery question is a transparent attempt to do so. Egotistical and ignorant as he is, he has evidently become convinced that his free trade message has made the issue for the campaign, with a certainty of defeat ahead, unless public attention can be diverted from the question which has so strongly aroused the Northern states and turned the tide irresistibly in favor of Harrison and protection. Unfortunately for Mr. Cleveland, the American people are not fools. They can readily see through his illusory and demagogical scheme and he will not make the capital he hopes for from his jingo message. No tardy and hypocritical bluster against Canada will deceive the people. They have seen the pusillanimous sympathy which has characterized the state department of the present administration in dealing with the fishery question and all of our foreign relations, and know that it has been subservient to British interests in this fishery treaty, as in its advocacy of free trade for the benefit of English manufacturers. The retaliatory act passed by congress, gave the President abundant authority to protect American fishermen in their rights, but he preferred to disregard it and to betray the fishermen by ceding away their interests by treaty. Now that the senate has repudiated the treaty, Mr. Cleveland comes forward and insincerely asks for more authority to inflict numerous and impracticable injuries on Canada. The present law is amply sufficient to maintain American dignity and this Nation's rights, and congress is not likely to lend its aid to Candidate Cleveland in his efforts to make votes for himself by his hypocritical adoption of a jingo policy.—Detroit "Tribune."

THE CHARM OF AN EDITOR'S LIFE.

One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is in his head-aching it on all occasions. No one who has never tasted the sweats of that bliss, can begin to take in his glory and happiness. He does $100 worth of advertising for a railroad company, gets a "pass" for a year, rides $25; and then he is looked upon as a dead-head, or a half-blown dead-head. He "puffs" a concert troupe $10 worth, and gets $1 in "complimentaries," and is thus passed "free." If the half is crowded he is begrudged the room he occupies for if his complimentaries were paying, tickets the troupe would be so much in pocket. He blows and puffs a church festival free to any desired extent, and does the poster printing at half rates, and merely gets a "thank you" for it. It goes as part of his duty as an editor. He does more work gratuitously for the town and community than all the rest of the population put together, and gets curses for it all, while in many instances where a man devotes a few dollars for the fourth of July, a base ball club, or a church, he is gratefully remembered. He passes "free," you know.—Daily Observer.

It having been denied that John A. Brooks, the Prohibitionist nonpareil for Vice President, publicly boasted that he had been a rebel and a Deponent, but thanked God that he had never been a Republican, the short-hand reporter of the "Chicago Tribune" who reported Mr. Brooks' speech at Decatur, Ill., in July last, has made oath that Mr. Brooks said in that speech: "I have lived in the South and I owned slaves there; I sympathized with the South and prayed for the success of the Confederate cause, but my prayers were not answered. I have been a Democrat, but thank God"—here the speaker shook his head at the same time raising his arm and shaking his finger at the audience—"I have never been a Republican. I will never have that sin to answer for." Two other witnesses, who also attended that meeting as reporters, have made oath that the above quotation is correct. There has been no denial from Brooks himself, but only by prejudicial Prohibitionists who were not at the meeting, and by Prohibition papers that do not know anything about it.—Lansing Republican.

The Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., has the oldest pupil of any educational institution in the United States. He is more than sixty years of age. Crazy Horse is his name, and he was once chief of the Crow nation. He was a bold warrior and an able ruler. He was anxious to learn the ways of white men and is now receiving instruction in blacksmithing. During the coming winter he will attend school. He is a man in full vigor and has a more refined face than is often found in his race. He is docile and patient, and there is something almost pathetic about his longing to learn the customs of civilization before he dies.

Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white and cheap, and every where that Mary went free-traders kicked that sheep. It followed her to town one day, and on the railroad grade, she met a crank trade. What trade my lamb for a bob-tailed dog? Do you think that I'm a fool? No, no, said he, but do you see dear miss, I am entirely out of wool. Besides, my dear, my pants are torn, and I want an old wool hat, for by the old Mosses and jumping Joe, I'm a free-trade Democrat.

Marketing in China.

A Chinese market is noisy and animated. You ask the price of shad, for instance, or of crabs, and the dealer raises the price of an ounce by so many cash, which you have to beat down. What Adam Smith called the "higgling of the market," exists here in its perfection. After wasting considerable time in talking and splitting differences, you at last decide to buy, or the trader concludes to sell. But however much you may congratulate yourself a having made a good bargain, you can not be certain that others may not make much better bargains with the same man. Vegetables are sold by the dealer, and the same process goes on the zone through before you can make a fair purchase. Grocery stores are plenty and there you will find on all sorts of staves, preserves, cigars, and so forth, in fact whatever is sold in by grocers in America. Beef is not often eaten by Chinese on account of their religious scruples, most of them being Buddhists, more or less, with Buddhism, but especially because the ox is used in plowing. Occasionally you will find a stall for the sale of beef. Through the same prejudice, little cow's milk is used only by the people, and that little is made into thin cakes, well salted, to be taken as a relish. But a kind of cheese is made of bean curd. The beans are growing in hard shells and dissolved in water, then strained and steamed. The result is a perfectly white cake, something like luscumage. It is eaten with stirrup sauce. This cake is also dried. There is also a sauce made from beans. You perhaps wonder why I have not described the cats, kittens, and dogs, which are said to be the common food of the Chinese people. The reason is because no such things are to be found in the market. In fact, I know of no place where such articles of food are to be had, except in a low part of Canton, where people who are almost starved will buy almost anything to sustain life. The Chinese people live on a wholesome food, as you will learn from good authorities. They eat rice, soy, and bread. They make their use of wheat, too.—Yan Phou Lee, in St. Nicholas.

Another device, which may be called the Echo-maker, that of Mr. De la Torre, has been examined by a board of naval officers, of which Commander Bainbridge Holt, United States Navy, was the head, and report was made to the Navy Department of a somewhat favorable nature. It may consist of a flange of metal, or of wood, or of any other material, which is used in the direction of the supposed obstacle, such as a rock, an iceberg, another ship, or a cliff. If the obstacle is there, it will be of sound projected, through the funnel strikes the obstacle and returns, and as the echo is more or less perfect in proportion as the obstacle is more or less parallel to the ship from which the gun is fired, and as it is more or less remote, the position of the obstacle may thus be inferred. The board reported that De la Torre's method was being a blank experiment, that in the presence of objects as small as a spar-buoy and as large as a fort, and catching the return sound or echo. He claims that a sharp sound projected at or nearly at an object, and only when so directed, will in every case return some of the sound, so that theoretically there will always be an echo, and the difference in the time between the sound sent, and the echo will indicate the remoteness of the object. The board found that a returning sound can be heard from the side of a fort, a half-mile off, from passing steamers a quarter-mile off if the broadside, from bluffs and sails of vessels at the same distance, and from spars two hundred yards away.—Frank Eugene Johnson, in Popular Science Monthly.

A City Hall official who has owned a bay horse for the last seven years has been talking of buying another to back him, and the other day some of the boys went up to the barn and bought his equine down and hitched him in front of the building and then the owner came out and look at the horse. "That beast," he said, as he looked at his mouth, "is all of twenty years old. I also notice that he is spayed and talk in the back." "Oh, you are mistaken, sir," replied the seller. "I warrant him as sound as a dollar." "Don't attempt to jockey me," said the owner. "I wouldn't give you $20 for him. Talk about a match! Why, he is three shades lighter, 200 pounds heavier, and looks like an old cow besides; horse! You'd better make a deal with some expressman." When the truth came out, the bill for "putting 'em up" for the boys was over $10.—R. A. Free Press.

Halfence events on a million population ten years hence. Bill playing is a base game, anyhow. The block head is of a wooden frame. Chicago men out at the lodge are take grip cars home.

Crooked Roads in Africa.

From a description furnished by a Scotch missionary it is evident that native roads in Africa are hardly in any sense straight. They are never straight. At best they glide along by an easy succession of curves. Sometimes the amount of curvature is very annoying. The roads are little more than a foot broad. Each side is covered with tall grass, which reaches over the traveler's head. You can see only four or five paces in front, and can never predict what curve the path will take after that.

The causes of curvature are numerous, and lay across the path. Every traveler went around the end of it, and the original path grew up to grass that no future traveler will care to interfere with. At another place the path turned aside to go the length of a little village; but the village disappeared years ago. At another spot some one had laid a field, and made the road go around its border.

On many roads we lose one mile in every five. After the grass is burned, or on bad soil where little grass grows, a straight line, laid where the grass is at all flourishing, no one can pass through it without the greatest exertion. If a person leaves the native path with the idea of taking a short cut, he may get into a tangle of long grass and bushes, where his progress will be not more than one mile in four hours.—Yonks's Companion.

The Course of Material Progress.

A comprehensive view of the economic changes of the last quarter of a century, and a careful balancing of what seems to have been good and what seems to have been evil in respect to results, would seem to warrant the following conclusions: That the immense material progress that these changes have entailed has been for mankind in general, movement upward, and not downward; for the backward and not for the worse; and that the epoch of our time, in consideration will hereafter rank in history as one that has no parallel, but which corresponds in importance with the period that successively followed the Crusades, the invention of gunpowder, the emancipation of thought through the Reformation, and the invention of the steam-engine; when the whole plane of civilization and humanity rose to a higher level, each great movement being accompanied by social disturbances of great magnitude and serious import, but which experience proved were but temporary in their nature and infinitesimal in their influence of evil in comparison with the good that followed. And what the watchman standing on his higher eminence can now see is, that the time has come when the population of the world commands the means of a comfortable subsistence in a greater degree and with less effort than ever before; and what he may reasonably expect to see at no very remote period, is the dawn of a day when human poverty will mean more distinctly than ever physical disability, mental incapacity, or unardonable viciousness or laziness.—Hon. David A. Wells, in Popular Science Monthly.

A huge bear attacked and killed a full grown cow in Lake county, Florida, recently.

Bartley Green showed himself a little foxy when he refused the Democratic nomination for auditor and then went into the Union-Labor convention with the determination to force a motion and afterward accept the Democratic nomination, but E. P. Greene had too keen a scent to let that sort of a fox gounce caught.—Huron Tribune.

The pulpit and the platform may denounce, and should denounce all attempts at the overthrow of American morals and American Christianity, but the press must teach and thunder such throughout the land. It must do more. It must lead public sentiment, back to great fundamental truths that has departed from. It must kindly, candidly, but positively demand of American people, We gladly welcome the intelligent foreigner if he comes to our shores to endorse and support American theories and laws, but if he is the slave of the vicious, saloon educational system of Europe and Sabbath desecration, we say amen to a policy that invites him to stay at home.—Atlanta, Southern Star.

A teacher in one of the public schools says that it is sometimes extremely difficult to obtain from young children the names of their parents. In one instance a little boy was asked what his father's name was and gave the surname. He was asked to give the rest and said he did not know. "Well, what does your us call him?" asked the teacher. "The sometimes calls him an old crank."

FOR SALE.—August Winkle has fifteen pies, from 6 to 10 weeks old, that he will sell cheap, for cash.

The great secret of avoiding disappointment is not to expect too much. Despite follows immoderate hope, as things fall hardest to the ground that have been nearest the sky.

William H. Miller, of Seneca, the shooter, to go upon his own recognizance, was dismissed from office on Monday last by Gov. Lacey.

The President will not be able to lay the blame of that blundering message on Hayard, but his secretary of state does not agree with him in his view of the case.

Hon. H. W. Seymour was at the Soo last week to visit his family. He is now on hand in the House of Representatives when an important vote is to be taken.

Two inmates of the Reform school at Lansing stole out of the dormitory and broke into a neighboring saloon and stole a quantity of tobacco. They were arrested and held for trial.

Fifteen hundred workmen, the employees of the Chicago rolling mill company, are out of work. The tariff agitation has caused such a decline in advance orders that the mills had to close for a time.

Gen. Howy, the Republican candidate for Governor of Indiana, is described as "a terror to Democrats." He got that reputation when he was with Sherman on the march to the sea.

Mr. Thurman didn't say a word at Port Huron about his celebrated peace plank declaring the war a failure. We knew he would omit that and a good many other points in his record and his party's record.

The disappearance of the surplus is after all no reason why the revenue should not be reduced. Congress has been more reckless and extravagant in expenditures than it would have been if it had less money to spend.

Gov. Hill, of New York, is now charged with the acceptance of a bribe of $50,000 from the New York Mutual Life Insurance company to secure his signature to an act relieving insurance companies from taxation and returning to them moneys previously paid. Judge Muller, Hill's law partner, received and gave a voucher for the money.

The Albany 'Journal's' New York special says that already the Democratic state committee has taken a preliminary poll of the state, and are appalled at the result. Not only does the state itself, outside of New York and Kings county, show an enormous Republican majority, but in the two cities of New York and Brooklyn the workmen who have been heretofore solidly for the Democratic ticket, are declaring their intention to vote for Harrison and protection, literally thousands.

Let it be kept before the mind of every American who earns his living in the sweat of his brow that the question to be decided next November is the scale upon which he wants his wages fixed. If he thinks he can afford to work for the pauper wages paid in England, he should vote for Cleveland and the English system. If he prefers that they should remain at figures that will enable him to own his own house, educate his children and maintain his family in comfort, he must vote for Harrison and the American system. The issue is a very simple one.—Horrell 'Republican.'

Eminent Doctors, say WARNER'S WHITE WINE OF FAB will never be equaled as a Cough Medicine in use For Sale By E. K. Orr.

Youngman (to editor): I sent a letter to you here yesterday, sir, my name is Waffles. Editor: Oh, yes, are you a son of Mr. Montague H. Waller? Youngman: Yes, sir. Editor: Well, I destroyed the poem myself—burned it and buried the ashes ten feet deep. Your father, young man (with emotion), and I are old boyhood friends, and I love him as a brother. Bless the old boy! Tell him what I have done for him.—Life.

Detroit Tribune: "Almost every day we hear of manufacturing or other projects being postponed until after election on account of the tariff agitation. Should the protective policy be endorsed by the people many of these projects will be abandoned entirely. If the people repudiate this policy and vote for the retention of this protective system these projects will be carried out, and new enterprises giving employment to thousands of workmen will be established. Capital as well as labor is watching this thing very cautiously."

The "So" line officials are as happy over their new passenger equipment as a boy with a new top. Twin trains were exhibited yesterday at the company's depot in the city of St. Paul and were the objects of much admiration. The trains were built after the company's own design, the day coaches being the work of the Ohio Falls Car Company, Jeffersonville, Ind., and the sleepers of Barney & Smith, Dayton, O.

The Soo has made an important innovation in arranging to care for its day coach passengers as well as it does for those in the sleepers. The day coaches are practically parlor cars, with Forney seats, exquisitely finished woodwork in antique oak, observation and smoking vestibules at either end, fire proof heaters and a colored porter to see that every one is comfortable. The sleepers have many new features which will call beneficiaries from the travelers—separate dressing rooms for the ladies, independent curtains for the upper and lower berths and the like. Then the finish is white, mahogany, antique oak with white plush upholstery as very sumptuous. The trains are furnished with all the most approved safety appliances. The four sleepers, Minneapolis, Minnesota; City of Minneapolis and city of St. Paul go into commission Sept. 1st and the whole equipment, with dining cars to match as soon as the through car service to the East is arranged.—Minneapolis 'Journal.'

A Sound Legal Opinion. E. Bainbridge Monday Esq., Day Co., Tex., says: "I have used Electric Bitters with the best of results. My brother was also very low with Malaria Fever and jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. My satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. Wilson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "I positively believe he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters. The great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malaria Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stand unimpaired. Price 50c. and $1. at E. N. Orr's."

An exchange says, and it is about right: Some people occasionally wonder why certain notices of births, marriages or deaths are not found in the paper. Simply because they are not sent in. No leading paper will insert such notices without being ordered, any more than it will insert notices of servants wanted, or other matters of that kind. Sometimes people don't want notices of these matters in the papers. At any rate if they want them to appear they can send them in. Newspapers are expected to give all the news they can, but it is hardly to be supposed that reporters will invade or hunt around people's private houses or sleeping apartments for such items.
