The man who wrote the following article, which wereprint from the Chicago Printer, must have been a keen observer of human nature:

Although country editors are nearly always poor, there are pleuty of persons who believe that half the paragraphs in a country newspaper are paid in the country waspaper are paid for with enarmous briefs. There are pleuty of persons who believe that half the paragraphs in a country newspaper are paid for with enarmous briefs. Lazy incompetent editors nearly always explain the saccess of their more vigorous opponents by declaring that they carry on a system of black-mail.

I one visited a large city, the newspapers of which I had-admired almost with reverence, and I was surprised to hear a citizent say that with the city reality needed was better papers; they would bring "enstern capital," the property of the control of t adomir for for two hundred; herein appreciate low a really good by a president with the property of the proper editor. He longs for an editor with some "snap" in him. I don't know what "snap" means, but I know this is the quality usually thought to be lacking. There are more great men in There are more great men in every country town than reality exist in the antition, and if they are not recognized, the local papers are of no account. I was once bothered a good deal by a certain man who soid he rould clean more chickens in an hour than any other chickens in an hour than any other chickens in an hour the world, and he wanted in fact, the mentioned. Men who are never suspected of greatness by other people, accuse themselves of it to the ceitors, and who are the ceitors, and who are the ceitors are the ceitors and who are the ceitors are the ceitors and who are the ceitors and who are the ceitors are the cei never suspected of greatness by other people, accurs themselves of it to the editors, and when they reduce for mentation this great the editors, and when they reduce for mentation this great the editors, and when they reduce for mentation this great the editors, and when they reduce for mentation this great the editors, and when they reduce for mentation this great the editors of the their mentation of the cours have in the staff not half so interesting. It has occurred to me that when a citizen of a country town becomes draink, the first thing he does is to hunt up the editor to tell him what is the matter with the community.

Flogging the Tied Brain.

Flogging the Tied Brain.

A singular discovery has been made by Dr., Lauder Brunton.

By an needigent he found out the ideas at will. One night, after no long day's work, he was called Goods Promtly Delivered.

Goods Promtly Delivered. upon to write an article. He sait down with pen, ink and papers, and, as very often inpipened be-fore under similar conditions, not a single idea came into his head. He then began to reuson and to attempt to find why the brain, which was apparently J. B. LOWIS,
