THANKSGIVING OBSERVATIONS.

How the Day is Observed in Out-of-the-Way Places.

Half of the observers of Thanksgiving day do not know how the other spend that fine old Puritan festival.

On the plains of Montana and Wyoming the cowboys supplement their Thanksgiving dinner with the grand mysterious mince pie so dear to the traditions of the day.

Another picture incidentally illustrates the perils of gossip, particularly in a case where vigilance is the price of such a hazardous game.

Truly, this festival of the last Thursday in November ought to be universal—there are so many general as well as individual reasons for giving thanks.

Thanksgiving day, then, is a day that stands for home and humanity more than any other day of the year. Into the other great annual festivals, with the exception of those that are purely political, the divine element enters but in a very slight degree than into this day, which is a day of divine appointment, one of the most sacred of any date event, but only of our own gratitude to heaven and man of expressing it by a disinterested and unprejudiced observer, say from another planet or another universe, were such things to be contemplated, that loaded with good appetites, sufficient digestion, friendly faces and all that sort of thing which might be described in St. Lucia's O'Grigger's

Three hundred and sixty different mountain peaks within the limits of the United States exceed 10,000 feet in height.

Any one in possession of 50 cents can go to heaven. It is a matter of fact that a bottle of Serravallo's Tonic will cure rheumatism, neuralgia, or any pain on earth.

In England one person in every thirty-nine is a pauper; in America the rate is one person in every 100.

Do not allow yourself to be imposed on by the most noted salesmen, advertising and untried so-called "cures"; but stick to Serravallo's Tonic, which is a tried and undoubted cure for all ailments of the blood.

It is an invigorating, restorative tonic, a cooling and strengthening medicine, and a general tonic for the blood, and is especially adapted for the treatment of all ailments of the blood, and is especially adapted for the treatment of all ailments of the blood.

German Syrup

My acquaintance with Boschee's German Syrup was made about fourteen years ago. I contracted a cold which resulted in a hoarseness and cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a physician, without obtaining relief, I purchased and advertised a bottle. I received quick and permanent help. I never hesitate to tell my experience. Rev. W. H. Haggerty, Martinsville, N. J.

Thanksgiving day, then, is a day that stands for home and humanity more than any other day of the year. Into the other great annual festivals, with the exception of those that are purely political, the divine element enters but in a very slight degree than into this day, which is a day of divine appointment, one of the most sacred of any date event, but only of our own gratitude to heaven and man of expressing it by a disinterested and unprejudiced observer, say from another planet or another universe, were such things to be contemplated, that loaded with good appetites, sufficient digestion, friendly faces and all that sort of thing which might be described in St. Lucia's O'Grigger's

Three hundred and sixty different mountain peaks within the limits of the United States exceed 10,000 feet in height.

Any one in possession of 50 cents can go to heaven. It is a matter of fact that a bottle of Serravallo's Tonic will cure rheumatism, neuralgia, or any pain on earth.

In England one person in every thirty-nine is a pauper; in America the rate is one person in every 100.

Do not allow yourself to be imposed on by the most noted salesmen, advertising and untried so-called "cures"; but stick to Serravallo's Tonic, which is a tried and undoubted cure for all ailments of the blood.

THEIR FATE. Tol., Nov. 29.—The police today, upon the arrival of a sensational Chicago paper, circulated here by selling on the streets, seized the entire edition and destroyed it as obscene literature. The action of the police is universally commended. One of the correspondents of the paper is now in jail, convicted of libel, and another is to be tried Monday.

REV. SYLVAIUS LAUR Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: "We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family, of five, and had fully equalled to all this is claimed for it. Some people are prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me."

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, small Beginnings. Doing small things fits a man for doing greater things. Every time you do anything well you add to your own strength. If you resist evil once, you can resist more easily next time. If you do a difficult duty once, you can do it better a second time. Every stroke he strikes makes the smith's arm stronger, and his sinews tougher. Doing the small work of to-day makes you able to do more to-morrow. Faithfulness in little things is the ladder to promotion. On the other hand, wrongdoing in little things prepares the way for wrongdoing in great ones. The crumb which makes up a little hole in the massive dam, and only a few drops trickled through at first, but the trickle grows a wider course, and soon a flood overtakes and sweeps through the great valley, destroying many lives. So a little sin or fault leads into a man's life and character, sweeping a larger and larger channel, and at last it breaks over him like a flood and destroys him.

Don't forget Kansas legislators will extend their session to the 15th inst. for the purpose of passing a bill for the purpose of extending the term of the Legislature.

It should be in Every House. Dr. H. Wilson, 211 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa. says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, that cured his wife after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cookport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. First trial bottles, at Thompson & Putnam's Drug Store, Large and Small.

Manufacture of the Liquid Soap. First-class soap is made by the process of saponification. It is a process which can be carried on in a large or small scale, but it is not until the knowledge of the process is absolute, and the materials are of a permanent and steady quality, whether prepared by a manufacturer or an amateur, that it can be made in a satisfactory manner. It has been given in thousands of instances, and it is now being prepared in the most perfect manner in the world. One's attention is invited to the fact that this soap is made in the most perfect manner in the world.
