TOWY AND COUNTRY

The Crystal Falls Clipper and the Bessmer Spirit, two Democratic papers, have gone to the rear. "The Herald" for such papers to succumb in "these good Democratic times."

It is a fact that Schuman & Horvath have the best selected stock of goods, furnishings, clothing, etc., in the city, and by the way, one cannot buy so good goods as they sell for the same money.

According to the New York Journal the principal sin in politics is seldom that of partisanship of self. True, but the principal sin lies in the stay in politics unless he can have some of it.

The lecture given by Rev. J. M. Rogers Sunday night on the "Religion of the World" was, to us, the most interesting of the series. Another next Sunday evening and we urge all that can to attend.

There is quite a demand for houses in this city and will be during the winter months. Early next spring more or more houses will be erected and until then there will be many looking for houses in vain.

The steamer Eugin Hart came to this port Monday morning well loaded with merchandise. She had 2,000 barrels of oats for the L. C. and smaller quantities for Messrs. Costello, Mack and Tucker.

The Macevill house and their regular and very important meeting next Thursday evening at Thompson. Should any of the Manistique members happen to be in the city at the time it will interest them to attend.

The man who comes into this office every evening's since and pursued a page of correspondence and then made it his business to tell it to outsiders. Showed last little manhood. Still is said "A man is a man for a day."

The following parties "prayed up" their names before Clerk Ashford Monday: William Hart, section 2, town 4, range 7; Emily E. Rose, in section 10, town 43, range 16; on Tuesday, J. M. Johnson, in section 2, town 41, range 15.

From the attorney general's report we glean the following: That there were 147 prosecutions and 14,200 convictions in the state of Michigan during the past year. Of this number 49 were accused of taking human lives, 303 which were convicted.

Sixty-one years ago the first saw mill was built in Manistique by Furness & Bond, with a cutting capacity of 100,000 feet of lumber a day. At the present time twenty-one mills are in operation with a cutting capacity of four or five million feet daily.

The U. S. Co. has already received about 5,000 bushels of oats, about 5,000 bushels of wheat, and 5,000 bushels of corn, at the company's grain warehouse at the dock. We learn that something like 3,000 bushels are yet to be received. The grain was brought here by the Hart line.

The Postoffice publishes more columns per week and much more matter than any other paper in the country. At each issue has twenty-eight columns making a total of fifty-six columns each week. We do not use patent sheets. As an advertising medium it cannot be excelled.

The only way in which the women of Michigan can fully realize their right to vote is to have the vote used for a change, or amendment to the state constitution. By the way, why not have a new one? It may not respect the old one does not meet the requirements of the present age.

The log tax law has been effectively repealed. If you want to rent a horse, to exceed half a dozen. The tax has been paid cheerfully upon the very rank of good-for-nothing brutes simply because the law said that their owners could not—fixed a value on them.

Last night was hallowe'en and the young folks and older ones too got up many capers such as moving signs, etc. In some instances property destroyed and this morning several and if found they will either have to pay for the damages done or take a dose of law.

Life is too short, so Hank Fifield thinks, to spend it all running a weekly journal, so he will embark into the daily paper business early in the year. Hank has enough enterprise and push to successfully run a good daily and we hope the people of his city will encourage the undertaking by giving it the required financial support.

The carpenter finished their part of the contract on the Patton Gorman residence, Monday. Gust Ekstrom, the painter, will finish his work on the building in about two weeks. The residence has thirteen large and well ventilated rooms, is fully equipped and will be a cozy house. It will be well served by a furnace which is located in the basement. John Larsen had the contract to put up the residence and the work up to it is creditable.

TIS REPEALED.

The Senate at Last Tardily Does What It Should Have Done Eighty Days Ago.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The purchasing clause of the silver bill is repealed. We have stopped buying silver. The senate majority in favor of repeal was eleven.

The vote, yeas, 48; nays, 32. As soon as the vote was announced Mr. Voorhees made a motion to adjourn, and the senate at 7:30 adjourned until to-day at noon.

The bill was then sent to the House for its concurrence in a slight amendment and a motion was made to concur. But the silver crank, interposed an objection and it went over until to-day, under the rule. The only way to prevent its becoming a law was in the lack of a quorum.

We doubt if the obstructionists will stop to play that game.

That Pluck of Privatization. The most conspicuous thing about the campaign in Ohio is the pull of boom which hangs over the heads of the voters. It is so dense that the night in plough-riden Egypt, it can be felt. There are thousands of small industrial establishments scattering through the cities of that state, and wherever they are in the country, outside of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, has the credit of privatization, a result of the Democratic-lyndard tariff reduction, been felt so severely as among the employes in this country. It is the inability of the Democratic campaign orators to counteract the effects of their party's National policy upon the merit of the intelligent workmen of this state is causing discontent and uneasiness to the result of the fall elections. The result of discontent will be the triumph of William McKinley and the cause of American progress.

He Has a White Wife. Hugo transitionally a white girl was an exhibition at the world's fair. He left for his own country a few days ago, taking with him his white wife, an American girl, who he had become acquainted with at a social function over which he presided at the fair. He has one other white wife here, but he is not intended to give them all to his brother without delay. He claims to be an aristocrat and of the immediate family of the king of Zaire. His young wife, who he probably had intended to report her choice after she has lived awhile in a Zulu hut and learned how women are treated in that country.

The New York Journal of Commerce tells workmen of all classes some plain and simple truths regarding wages. "It is impossible that wages can escape a reduction in price consequent upon the changes of duties. If such a reduction is not made, the result will be a 'retrenchment meeting' at $1, under the new duties, for which he is now getting $1.30, he must be recompensed in some way for the loss of 30 cents in his selling price, or he will be ruined."

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst declared that his life has been threatened and although he has not accepted the advice of friends, who insist that he should have a bodyguard he has taken measures to protect himself. Dr. Parkhurst said yesterday that on Saturday he received a letter in which it was said he would be killed if he persisted in his anti-slavery course, but even the talk of the manner that would be attempted, does not deter him. Dr. Parkhurst would say anything further about the contents of the letter.

Mayor Harrison of Chicago, shot, Chicago, Oct. 28 — Another crazy crack has done his deadly work, and Carter H. Harrison, five times mayor of Chicago and one of the best known men in the west, lies dead in his home, 231 South Ashland boulevard.

Three bullets entered his body, two of them making wounds sufficient to cause death. The murder was committed by Eugene Patrick Pendergast, a paper carrier, who declared that Mayor Harrison had promised to make him corporation counsel and had not kept his word. This, he said, was his only reason for committing the crime.

The only persons in the home at the time beside Mr. Harrison were his son, William Preston Harrison, twenty-five years of age, and the servants. Shortly before 8 o'clock the door bell rang, and when Mary Hansen, the domestic, opened the door, she was confronted by a man about five feet five inches tall, smooth-shaven, his rather clean-cut features lit up by a pair of dark eyes.

"Is Mr. Harrison in?" asked the man in a quiet, pleasant voice.

"Yes, sir," responded the girl, as she threw the door wider open to permit his entrance.

"I would like to see him, please," said the man, as he walked toward the back end of the hall. Mr. Harrison was in the dining-room which opens into the rear end of the hall. Hearing the man ask for him to rise, and stepping into the hall walked toward Pendergast, who by the time he caught sight of Mr. Harrison had advanced about ten feet from the doorway. Without saying a word Pendergast drew his revolver and commenced to fire. He pulled the trigger but thrice, and every bullet hit the mark. One ball shattered Mr. Harrison's left hand, another passed into the right side of the abdomen making a wound that would have been mortal in a few days. The third bullet entered the chest slightly above the heart. This wound was the immediate cause of death. As soon as Pendergast began to fire Mr. Harrison turned and walked rapidly toward the dining room. He walked through the door, across the dining room and passed into a utility room, opening of the room where he lay to the floor.

Pendergast did not follow up his victim or make any attempt to ascertain how deadly his aim had been. He placed his revolver in his pocket with the same deliberation that had marked all of his actions and started toward the door. Just as he was passing through the doorway, William Preston Harrison, the mayor's son, came tearing down stairs just as Mr. Harrison's coachman ran into the rear end of the hall. The cry of Mr. Hansen directed the son to where his father lay, but the coachman was after her game. He had a revolver of his own and as quickly as he realized what had occurred he leveled his weapon and sent a bullet after the disappearing form of the murderer, a second time his revolver spoke but both bullets went wide. The coachman continued the chase but by the time he reached the sidewalk Pendergast had been swallowed in the darkness.

About twenty-five minutes after the shooting, the murderer gave himself up at the Desplaines station, regretting the details of the crime to Sergeant Frank McDonald, as follows:

"I did it." "You did it?" asked McDonald.

"What made you do it?" asked McDonald.

"He said he would make me corporation counsel, and he did not do it. That's what I shot him for.

"That was all there was about it. Nothing dramatic, no bravado, he spoke of his crime as though it was nothing out of the ordinary and a matter entirely to be expected.

He was trembling so that he could scarcely stand and he asked me to lead him to a chair, and asked a few more questions to which Pendergast had but one reply.

mony be published on penalty of contempt proceedings. The San Jose Mercury obtained a brief record of the trial from the court records and published the same, whereupon the judge imposed a fine of $100 for contempt. The case was carried to the supreme court. It was shown the California statutes authorizing the court to forbid the publication of anything, though one section gave the right to sit with closed doors in certain cases. The Supreme court therefore reversed the order of the lower court as tending to abridge the liberty of the press. Secret sessions of a court of justice are bad enough but that a judge should be able to muzzle the press is intolerable.

The following from an exchange is worth fixing in the memory: "Very often we read of some one who has stuck a rusty nail into his foot, knee, or some other portion of his person and lockjaw has resulted therefrom of which the patient died. Yet all such wounds, it is said, can be healed without such fatal consequences as often follow them. Smoke such wounds or bruise that is inflamed with burning wool or woolen cloth. Twenty minutes in the smoke of wool will take the pain out of the worst wound, and repeated once or twice it will allay the worst case of inflammation arising from a wound."

A blue book has been issued which says the farm laborers are better off now in Ireland than ever before. It would take good evidence to make that statement true, but many Democrats Workingmen believe that workmen in this country are better off in 1893 than in 1891 or '92.

The Buffalo Times exultingly shouts: "It takes Senator Hill to sound a keynote." The Times might have added that it requires two-thirds of the Republican Senators to turn Hill's keynote into music. The Democratic majority would do it.

It is said to be a sign of bad luck to open an umbrella in a house. A Wisconsin woman did that very thing and the next day lost her $100,000. We're going to open our umbrella in a house.

The President wrote to Governor Northen, "I will have Congress on my hands." And he has. What a great good fortune it is for the President and the people that there are a lot of level-headed Republicans here to vote.

The New York postoffice is a substantial building and does not threaten to tumble down and kill its occupants as the Chicago postoffice does; but Tammany has a pull on Congress, and Tammany demands a new building.

If the President gains a victory it will be, as Congressman Reed says, "over his own party," and, it may be added, by the aid of Republican votes. Without them he would have been hopelessly snowed under.

The really remarkable thing in the Senate deadlock is to see Democrats actually refusing a chance to vote. The Democratic motto hitherto has been, "Vote early and often."

At last a use for the Chinaman's queue has been discovered. A Los Angeles, Cal. celestial recently committed suicide by hanging himself with one.

The President was "a pointer" from the start, but the trouble has been that his big "Democratic majority" in the Senate were mostly "setters."

Some people buy Fruit Trees only when they are cheap because the trees die. One great trouble is the trees are exposed to the sun and wind to long before the purchaser gets them, then not knowing just how to care for them they die after they are set out. Now if you want to overcome this difficulty and get satisfaction, patronize home trade and call on GREENWOOD & SON, Manistique, Mich.

Boats Flying Follow My Leader. On Tuesday as a drove of bullocks numbering about 140 were being driven from the Canadian shore to the Wood...

Russian Fleet for the Mediterranean. It is stated that the Russian permanent squadron for the Mediterranean shortly to be constituted will consist of the vessels which recently visited America and are now on their way home under the command of Admiral Kozlovskoff.

The Electric Fan Walked. A diminutive electric fan in the office of the department of public works located on a window sill, where its noise disturbed the clerks, and they placed it upon a metal bucket.

In Pleasant Sandwich. A traveler journeying down Cape Cod way the other day was surprised to find around Sandwich more beautiful trees of great girth and more garden flowers...

When General Lee Wallace called upon to speak at the reunion of his regiment, the Eleventh Indiana, at the recent Grand Army encampment at the Grand Rapids, his feelings got the better of him, and he broke down in tears.

To Discourage Profanity. Methodist people have noticed with satisfaction that swearing seems to be remarkably prevalent in that picturesque old Massachusetts town, and especially after the return of sailors from an unsuccessful cruise.

Justice in Midair. Edward M. Green of San Francisco has designed a novelty for the mid-airer to be held in that city which he hopes will rival the Zeppelin tower and the Ferris wheel.

Emil Phillips, the Chicago architect who claims to have secured the use of the buildings, wants the principal ones with try, and left as a legacy to posterity.

Bishop Whittle of Virginia, one of the few prelates in the Protestant Episcopal church in this country, is threatened with total blindness at Clifton Springs, that State.

Outcome of the Religious Congress. The outcome of the religious congress in Chicago is an organization which has for its object, to use Bacon's words, "the glory of the Creator and the relief of man's estate." No man can well decline to promote the former purpose without bringing himself an atheist, nor the latter without confining himself to doing something less than humankind.

A Device Invented to Investigate the So-called Phenomenon of "Seeing in the Dark." A learned Italian, Signor Giuseppe Finzi of Milan, engaged in a peculiar experiment of spectacles by which, in the water...

With the new lenses and their electrical maze the inventor may not believe, but slipping on these spectacles see scenes that in going on, and while helping to dissolve building in the light of truth may get a glimpse of something of phenomena on the plane of mere speculation at least. Some examples of things yet beyond scientific explanation have been encountered by physical researchers in the different countries of Europe of late, as well as Professor James and other students of the matter have been home.

LIZZIE BORDEN'S HOME. It is Now Near the Fashionable Avenue of Fall River. The new house of the Boston girl on French street is not on the lost street in the town, but it is in a good neighborhood and near the most fashionable avenue.

Latter leaves up extremely well after her remarkable experience; indeed she says she is as well as she ever was and is content and better looking than ever. The case is different with the older sister. The family affliction, the horrors of the man and the long strain during Lizzie's trial were more than she could endure, and she is nothing like the woman she was. Her health is far from robust, and she frequently has to give up, or rather to be broken down.

The report of the killing of many lynchings by the military force called in in Virginia shows that there is one region in the south also to the importance of this, and with the resolution to treat the bloody lesson that we fear alone can be effective. Unfortunately, however, even in this case the display of resolution was only transitory and the lynchers claimed their victim within 24 hours. But while all this is said it would be wrong to omit a word as to the intricate character of the portion of the population of the south with whom these lynchings make to deal. Nothing can excuse their act, and it is a fearful mistake in every point of view. But the disregard of life on the part of any of the colored men of the south and the savage passion which they evince in other respects are social with that call for serious attention.

making a man and city failings. The best man in the-looking, about 50 years old, rather stout, has curly hair just turning gray, sunken eye whiskers and mustache, a rusty face, and wears a dark suit. He is here as the guest of Chicago and the fair commissioner. Said he: "I have visited your city two or three times heretofore and admire it greatly. I had hoped to call upon you in person, but we got in too late. No major today, but we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Gilroy, though he came from County Donegal, so I am informed, which is born in an adjacent county. I presume politics do not figure to any great extent in your municipal government" queried the lord mayor recently.—New York Times.

Waiting to Hypocrites. H. B. Walker of Brooklyn started to ride on his bicycle to feel Bank, N. J., where he intended spending Sunday with his wife, who had gone by train. He was riding along by street at a rapid pace when he ran into a rope stretched across the street to prevent the horse car from getting in progress. The rope caught him under the chin and hurled him backward from the wheel and struck him in a moment and struck on the back of his head. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the St. Elizabeth's hospital and died a few minutes after his arrival. His skull had been fractured.
