Who will you have for Village Trustees?
After all, these are very important offices. More so than street commissioner, in the latter person only mission, and in the former, only discharge to be made to the orders of the Trustees, made to him by the committee on street. Talk the matter up on every street that you believe will be discharged by the Trustees. There are three to elect this spring.

The carpenter work on the new
The carpenter work on the new Pavilion has been completed in a few days. Contractor Mecher has finished the work along at a rapid rate, and what has been done is all right. We hope to be in full possession of them with in first of June. They will have a pleasant place in which to chat with the many friends of this paper. Call and give us the news.

Last night as Harry Tucker and
Last night as Harry Tucker and other gentlemen were having a party at the home of Mr. Tucker, there was a lively run; the two jumped out, but Harry held the lines until thrown out. In the fall his cork leg was fractured and he was badly injured about the neck. The horses made quite a jump to South Manistique where they were stopped. The buggy was but slightly damaged.

Next week the contest for filling
Next week the contest for filling the office will become interesting and active. The writing of the outgoing cannot be even until the 1st of May. There are a few less than a dozen candidates for street commissioner, and there will be at least twenty candidates for each of the other offices. Certainly there will be plenty of good material to select from in each of the offices. It is thought that the voters should see to it that the new board will be composed of the right kind of men.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will
The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Friday afternoon with Mrs. Geo. Strong. A ten cent fee will be served from five till seven o'clock. A cordial invitation is given to all.

English ladies of the sixteenth century had enormous head-dresses made of a wire frame a yard in height and in the shape of a halcyon, the smallest resting on the head. Their hair was trained on the outside of this frame and the interior was filled with rags. The expense of making up a head was considerable, and few ladies could afford to "have their heads made" more than once a month. In summer, when the grass and pansies became a little old, a lady's presence was quite respectable, and she used great quantities of perfume in the effort to mitigate the effect of her odorous head.

In an exhibition of training wild animals now open in N. York a number of large and intelligent dogs are always introduced to the cage with the other beasts. This is said to be for the protection of the trainer, the quick instinct of the dogs enabling them to discover instantly any indications of a dangerous temper in the lions or tigers. If there were a likelihood of the upon being at-tacted, the dogs would rush up on the wild creatures and thus give sufficient warning to the trainer to retire. It is an exhibition in which the men in charge run a very serious risk.

Some new uses for paper is heard of almost every week. The latest is to use paper bags for the collection and removal of garbage. They are two and a half feet long made of heavy manilla paper coated with oil and resin, and cost only two cents apiece. The garbage is put in them day by day, and when the cart comes round the bag is lifted into it and carried away for good. They are said to be waterproof, to give off little odor, and to be recy-cleared by the New York board of health. Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartorius did take a house in Washington and hopes her mother will also make her home there. Mrs. Sartorius is said to have left to her by her father-in-law of $30,000 a year. Her eldest son, Algerson, is still in England, and will remain there until after his graduation at Oxford, when he will return to this country. Mrs. Gen. Grant is also well. She makes liberal allowances to her children, and aside from this is reported to have $24,000 annual income.

Some months ago a German tribunal in a town sentenced a man to seven months' imprisonment for lese-majesty, because he kept his seat while the emperor's health was drunk. Recently another prosecution occurred in another town, but the accused was acquitted, the judge decided that keeping one's seat under such circumstances, could not be regarded in the eyes of the law as an insult to his majesty, unless words were used clearly implying an injurious intent.

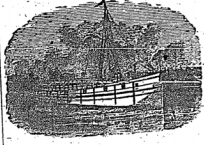

An Alabama mob in pursuit of a negro charged with shooting a woman caught up with two negroes. It was not a thoughtless mob unprepared for emergencies, but had rope enough, and so it hanged both of the men. The certainly that one was innocent and the other probably so was not permitted to stand in the way of justice. If on second, and happily so, thought, the mob does not secure more hemp and hang itself unprejudiced outsiders ought to save it the trouble.

It is said that a young lady in a neighboring city found a rusty horse shoe on the street, which she picked up and took home with her. To bring her unusually good luck she put it under her pillow when she went to bed, as she did her false teeth. When she arose next morning she had just-dropped the horse shoe to her mouth in mistake and it was several hours before she noticed her mistake. Woe mention no names.

Congressman Wilson is said to be steadily recovering health. As his tariff tinkering bill is so changed as to be hardly recognizable by its own father, it would be an amusing development when it goes back to the lower house to see Wilson, opposing the Wilson bill. But if it passes the senate the house will be so glad to see it back alive that it will probably pass it even if it run through a sausage grinder.—EX.

In one of the fights with McClain on the Chickahomby, the late Senator Vance's regiment was advanced as skirmishers. The firing was close and sharp. Just in front of Vance's sharpshooters, a rabbit jumped up and scurried to the rear. "Go it, rabbit," said he. "Go it, Molly Cottontail! If I hadn't these stars on my collar, I'd be with you."

No kissing ever occurs in Japan except between husband and wife, not even between a mother and child, no shaking of hands in salutation. If one were to offer a kiss to a Japanese maiden she would probably think she was going to be bit.
