MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

A greater number of widowers marry in Spain than in any other country in Europe. In no country has the marriage rate declined so greatly in recent years as in Ireland.

The greater portion of divorces take place between the fifth and tenth year of marriage.

Twenty-five states and territories for bid, marriages between white and colored people.

In the last 25 years the marriages in Europe have numbered 11,880,000; the divorces, 18,411; or about one to every 1,000 marriages.

San Francisco has the greatest proportion of divorces and marriages of any city in the world. For every 10,000 inhabitants there are 2,232 divorces.

The Greeks had two forms of divorce, sending away, going away. In the first the wife was despatched in the second, remaining.

In Minnesota a decree was given to the wife because "she defrauded never cuts his toe-nails and being residing in his sleep demands a divorce."

Of 1,500 marriages contracted in Prussia, 1,400 were between blood relatives.

Twenty-four states in the U. S. have laws against blood relations.

During the 20 years ending with 1880 there were 30,422 Ohio grooms and 29,381 Indiana and 23,186 Pennsylvania.

New York, 13,232; Missouri, 10,274.

Nearly all the states fix a period after the expiration which a husband or wife abandoned by the other for legal reasons. The period is from two to seven years, and the absence must be counted from the time the last tidings were received from the absent party.

Divorce is not allowed as follows:

WOMEN'S WHIMS

Congress girls, the old time style, with the elastic at the waistline, are said to be coming in fashion again.

With black hosey is in general demand, there is a steady call for color, and we are asked them to match and fit their hose.

Street costumes show the practical hand of a tailor and are for the most part quite as plain as the more extreme types of dress.

The latest high novelties in the glove line come out with the utmost regularity, but are rarely seen the hands of ladies of distinction.

Ladies' gloves have sleeves made up of a series of ruffles. This style is used upon all materials and with any model that may be selected.

Silks have changed but little since the first great panic came on. They still lie on the ground and are under no circumstances to be made to touch.

Some of the capes are very well, with fluffy collars, and in some cases the open and closeable hood that seems to have become a fact with women who follow the fashions.

One of the new styles is a sleeveless jacket with a cape. This is exceedingly popular, and it slips on and off with very little effort, does not need to be over-lotted in these days of puffy sleeves.

Jackets are short, and therefore, when dressed in the skirt. A great deal of originality is observable in trimmings. Buds are put on with sequins and cross sections.

A simple and stylish house dress is made of olive green wool challis. The skirt is in bell shape, with three tiny

A Telephone With "Body" In It.
A well-to-do un-sophisticated farmer from one of the smaller towns in London, England, went with his wife and daughter to see the sights and do some shopping. Among other places they visited a big draper's, and after buying what he wanted, he turned to the telephone booth in a room which was used by the clerks in the neighborhood.

"What's this thing going on?"
The girl gave the elevator a long, calm, scrutinizing stare and exclaimed: "This you live, it's a telephone!" The first I ever seen!" —London Figaro.

A Past Past.

On board a Baltimore train-pulling info. Pickeralz was a book agent whose demeanor conveyed the impression that he would not fail to make a good sale.

No forthcoming trifling with us in the everyday affairs of this busy old life.

"Mr. Contractor, what time do we get into Pickeralz?"

"Twelve," replied the official politely.

"Yes, what time can I get a train west?"

"Nine-twenty."

"Tomorrow?"

"Tonight."

"Contractor, don't take me for a fool because my head grows the wrong way and my eyes suggest the whisperwills and penwills. I'm serious."

"So good friend, you can make it right."

"Well, now, how?"

"Just keep your seat."

"I'll have to leave an hour before I get in."

"That's the idea, my good friend."

"Look here, you may be a good book that tells the whole truth and the bottom line, unvarnished, unromanticized, bald facts."

"The cost, the man who wants to quit smoking, the money will be a great help."

"The time changes an hour at the river."

"Then, at that rate, if I go to San Francisco, I'll get there some time last May. I guess I'll get off and wait until I catch up with myself," Agents Heraldine.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Great Question.
A lack of knowledge and appreciation of the history and principles of the government, under which we live, by the people or working class of this country, tends more to the defeat of measures introduced in congress for their interest and safety, than all the efforts of the most intelligent of the working men who have, under the laws and constitution of the United States the right to vote, to direct the labor more in the light of a capable, to be disposed to to benefit, or possibly to gratify unscrupulous friends, or to gratify unscrupulous persons, than any action in legislation and in interests of those in like circumstances; whatever they may be in their great country, regardless of their religion, nationality, color or previous condition.

In this latter confined purpose of the ballot and its use we see the only hope of the working people securing their rights and welfare in the interests of their country, while in the interests of the working men, with this purpose in view, strengthens their own hands and makes legislation in the interest of all the people possible. How and why it is that the lawmaking power, the Congress of the U. S. are now organized and in session is under the control and management of the South, always ready to fight for the principle that labor is well qualified the labor has been given enough to eat and keep him in shape to labor, and clothes enough to partly cover nakedness, is a question not so very hard to answer. About one-fourth of the present congress were elected by the people to represent them, and their representatives legislate in the interest of the people.

Three-fourths of the present congress were elected by misrepresentation and applied to the prejudices of one class of the people against another class, though all are entitled to a like consideration in the making of laws for the government of the country. Appointed principles of the South, in the ability and valor we made effective. We conclude that three-fourths of the present congress are under no particular obligation to any body but themselves as they pursued their own, either with each or for their native shrewdness, in keeping the deep people fighting among themselves while they slipped the most wanted for human and social happiness. Having attained their object, which was to "get them somehow," they are in a position to further their own ends, aims and ambitions by dictating with unopposed, and trust that we have heard the rag, rag, rag, tail how! quite about. One-fourth of congress have the power to introduce measures for the detriment of the people of the South. Three-fourths have the power and disposition to defeat these measures.

The utter selfishness, indifference and contempt with which northern working men have listened to the actual of the wrongs perpetrated upon the black citizens of the south by the southern democracy have brought its just punishment. Those that have deprived of the rights and privileges of citizenship, yet they are entitled in making up the number of representatives in congress from the south. Making an invincible horde of southern brigadiers, in congress from choicest not by being elected by the voting population, they are entitled to as many as the north, and with the old and new measures of anti-slavery days, will ask you what are you going to do about it? As they now in the majority
