BREVITIES.

Wanted—A good servant girl. Inquire at this office.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Teshoff a son, Wednesday.

W. L. Middlebrook the west side greener has green wood to sell. Telephone in your order.

W. C. Morgan of Chicago, is the new manager of the telephone exchange. He is a skilled electrician.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hayden and the children, returned from Detroit; and Anherstburg, Ont., Saturday.

Dr. Sattler reports having officiated at one baby matinee this year, where the star actors were boys.

Mr. Girvin moved into the McDonald house, Lakeside, Monday—the house formerly occupied by Prof. Stegenga.

The County Clerk's office is now equipped with one of the best type-writing machines made—the No. 7 Remington.

M. P. Winkelman returned from Hancock last Saturday morning. He thinks that the copper country has a very bright future.

Prof. Hornberger's article on "Our Schools," should be read by every one interested in the progress of our public schools.

At a meeting of Hoss Co. No. 1, held last week, Miller Rose was elected foreman and John Anderson assistant foreman and Geo. Wickwe secretary and treasurer.

Rev. Sayles, who will be remembered as having conducted a highly successful revival meeting in this city two years ago, is now conducting a newspaper at Ypsilanti.

The one mile championship race at Stewart's rink last Saturday evening was largely attended. The contestants were Peter Dube and Jack McWilliams. Dube won out in an easy manner.

Mr. Geo. Ross, superintendent of the Peninsula Cedar Co., was in Detroit and Saginaw on business last week. He also visited his father living at Beaverton, Gladwin Co. He returned Friday evening.

C. P. Hill has been retained as manager of the G. L. Co.'s store for another year. Mr. Hill has occupied the position during the past eight years and his retention speaks well for his ability as a money maker for the company.

Owing to the increased vote at the last general election the number of delegates to the coming Republican convention has been materially increased. That convention will have 1,104 delegates. The call for the convention appears elsewhere.

Major Bowen, well known here, who was treasurer of the state of Washington prior to the November election, is, we learn, from Washington newspaper, to engage in the logging business in that state. His wife and daughter are visiting friends in Kansas at the present time.

The first train load of logs, arrived in the city yesterday over the Manistique & North Western railroad. The train consisted of five cars and were loaded at Klugstad's camp near Sturgeon Hole. About 40,000 feet of logs to be saved into car timber will be transported in that manner. The logs are dumped near the Soo Lincrossing.

Isaac Pauley, who returned from Bay Mills this week reports that that riot occasioned by the selling of the wageshades by the Hall-Munson Co. Windows were broken and the superintendent intimidated. Men were brought from the Soo to fill the places of the strikers and everything is moving along nicely. The wages were reduced to 11 and 7 cents an hour.

We learn that M. H. Quick will be a candidate for the village presidency. Mr. Quick has been tried in that capacity at various times during the past and has never been found wanting. He is conservative and economical, and would be a fitting successor to Mr. J. D. Mesereau who has so ably discharged the duties of village president during the past year. Mr. Quick can be elected by a large majority should he consent to accept the nomination for the office in question.

A. C. Hubbell returned from Lansing last Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Orr has been a pleurisy sufferer this week.

Many improvements have been made in the interior of Blumrosen's store recently.

Sheriff Ekstrom took Albert Maultshaupt to the state industrial school at Lansing Monday.

The Maccabees install their newly elected officers tomorrow evening. All members are urged to be present.

Rev. C. A. Youngberg is in Ironwood at the present time. He will have charge of a congregation at that city for the coming two months.

Geo. Nicholson, president of the White Marble Lime Co. left for Detroit Wednesday for the purpose of attending a meeting of the lime manufacturers of the state.

Mr. Kelsa began his active duties as successor to J. D. Mesereau this week. He is a very affable gentleman and will no doubt be highly successful in his new position.

Will Crowe has been promoted to the position formerly occupied by W. S. Wells at the C. L. Co.'s office. Will is a deserving young man and we are pleased to note his advancement.

Prof. Hornberger will leave for Ironwood on Thursday next week for the purpose of attending the U. P. school superintendent's association. Prof. Croner may go Friday evening.

The childrens meeting held at the Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon was largely attended. The tickets showed an attendance of 450. Mr. McCorrd entertained and instructed those present.

R. Rosenthal, of Petoskey, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. M. Blumrosen last week. He left for Florida Monday where he will spend some time recuperating his health. Mr. Rosenthal is one of Petoskey's most successful business men.

We have in our reliable authority that a tannery in the vicinity of Indian River dam is a possibility in the near future. There is much hemlock timber in this vicinity and no doubt a tannery could be made to pay large dividends upon the investment.

We are informed that John Falk, the present village clerk will be an aspirant for the nomination of village treasurer upon the Republican ticket to be placed in nomination this spring. Mr. Falk is a faithful public servant is very popular and would strengthen the ticket immeasurably.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jordan and daughter of the Soo, are in the city. Mr. Jordan contemplates organizing an amateur company for the purpose of presenting "The Jail Bird" at the opera house within three weeks. Mr. Jordan has presented the play at the Soo, and North Bay with great success.

Rev. McCord of Chicago, arrived in the city Tuesday noon, for the purpose of taking charge of the union evangelistic services, which have been in progress from and including the Week of Prayer. Mr. McCord has been actively engaged in evangelistic work during the past eight years, having confined his labors mostly to Illinois. He is an earnest speaker and uses illustrations in making his points in such a manner that the youngest of his hearers are able to grasp his ideas. The meetings this week have been highly attended and bid fair to increase in interest as the series of meeting progress.

W. S. Wells, who has been connected with the C. L. Co. and the Weston Furnace Co., in the capacity of book-keeper for the past two years, severed his connection with the above named companies on Saturday of last week and left for Chicago Monday where he has been tendered the position of traveling salesman for a prominent wholesale firm. Mr. Wells is a model christian gentleman. He has been a prime factor in the Presbyterian Sunday School and C. E. society, and has the confidence and respect of all knowing him. Mr. and Mrs. Wells and their family will be very much missed by their Manistique friends, and all wish them unbounded success in their future undertakings. Mrs. Wells and the children will probably remain in the city until the early spring time.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John Woolruff, a boy Tuesday.

Casper Bros. double store is being repainted and reinspected by Artid Ward.

We learn that Capt. Parker is an aspirant for the local postoffice appointment.

Geo. Deemer, who has been seriously ill with inflammation of the bowels, is now convalescent.

The net receipts of the Maud Ruggles testimonial concert were $48 in round numbers.

Geo. Scott of the Havathwa Hotel, is shipping 500 cords of pulp wood from this point to the Appleton, Wis. paper mills.

John O'Brien is now located in Moorehead, Minn., where he is assisting in Salvation Army work as a lieutenant.

W. W. Owen returned from his visit to relatives and friends at Detroit and in state of New York, last Saturday evening.

Capt. John Pointain of Seal Choix light house was in the city yesterday and today for the purpose of leasing fishing grounds for his son Eugene.

Chas. Tuck returned from Valparaiso, Ind. recently, when he had been attending school. Mrs. Tuck is in Chicago wrestling with an attack of the measles.

If rumors are correct there is work for a humans society in this city. It is stated that a small child is being treated in a manner, the result of which causes one's blood to boil with righteous indignation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross and son, left for Marquette today on a visit to Mr. Ross's brother. On Monday next Mr. Ross and his brother will leave Marquette for Chicago to purchase goods. Mrs. Ross and son will remain in Marquette until Mr. Ross returns from the market—about three weeks.

Miss V. M. Riggs, who has been stenographer of the C. L. Co. for the past eight years has resigned her position and will leave shortly for her home in the lower peninsula. Miss Riggs has been a faithful employe, a factor in religious and society circles of Manistique. All the years of her residence here, and her many friends wish her all possible success in the future.

The public should appreciate the fast service the Soo line has recently inaugurated for the benefit of Chicago passengers. An exclusive passenger train leaves the Soo at 2:15 p. m. each day except Sunday; leaves Manistique at 4:02 p. m. arrives at Peninsula at 7:45 in the evening, making close connection with the C. M. & St. P. railroad for Marinette, Menominee, Oconto, Green Bay, Milwaukee and Chicago, and other points.

From an article handed us for publication by Prof. J. J. Hornberger we glean the information that the high school has been provided with periodicals treating on current events. The school board did a commendable act in this, but should also have provided for every other department of the public schools. The children in the public schools should keep pace with the world and the best possible manner in which this is made possible is through the medium of up to date magazines and periodicals whose editors make a specialty of current history.

Newspaper men are frequently "raked over the coals," for giving undue "prominence" to the shortcomings of others. A newspaper is supposed to faithfully chronicle the doings of the inhabitants of the city in which it is published. If "John Doe" or "Richard Roe" so far lose sight of their manhood as to become intoxicated and appear in police court for punishment, the papers usually publish the fact because said "John Doe" "doesn't amount to much anyway." If some fellow better known in the community than the proverbial "John Doe" does the same thing and receives punishment therefor, the newspapers are censured for mentioning it. The newspaper man sees as much of hypocrisy and sham in the every day happenings that come before his mind's eye that if he does not acquire the art of reading human nature and does not become heart-sore and weary from such knowledge he is not made of the stuff reported to be found in the make-up of the wicker of the pen.

The Testimonial Concert.

The testimonial concert given in honor of Miss Maud Ruggles at the opera house last Monday evening was not as well attended as it should have been, for the concert was one of the best musical entertainments ever given in Manistique.

The initial number of the program was the overture, "The Caliph of Bagdad," by Prof. Olson's orchestra. The orchestra showed careful training and was warmly applauded for its effort. The Swedish Quartet Club next rendered a selection in its usual pleasing manner.

The third number on the evening's program proved to be one of the most pleasing features of the evening, the vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Kefauver. They sang "I'll Wait Again, from Ait Wieserslein Waltz, very sweetly and to audience showed its appreciation of their effort in a hearty manner. Owing to the condition of Mr. Kefauver's voice they did not respond to an encore.

Prof. Olson's violin solo proved him to be an artist of great ability. Under his masterful touch the instrument appeared a thing of life. He responded to a hearty encore.

The violin quartet rendered by Messrs. Olson, Forsberg, Nennim and Todd was pleasing. Owing to a severe cold Mr. Kefauver was unable to do himself justice in his solo, "Bel Konig." His effort however, was very much appreciated.

The vocal solo, Gipsy Maiden, I, by Miss Ruggles closed Part I of the program. She never sang more sweetly than she did upon this occasion. The range of her voice was severely tested in the presentation of this number, and the hearty appreciation of the audience was evinced in an emphatic manner. She responded to an encore.

The first number of Part II of the program, was a duet, "Night Hymn at Sea," by Miss Ruggles and Mr. Kefauver. The duet was very pleasing and well received.

Mrs. Kefauver's solo, "Gipsies," was also one of the features of the evening's program. She is one of the favorites of Manistique's music loving circles, and again proved her merit for being such in her rendition of this solo. She responded to an encore.

Miss Ballard's piano solos were highly appreciated. She has few equals and no superiors in the upper peninsula as a pianist. She responded to an encore.

A quartet consisting of Mesdames Kefauver and Kinnall and Messrs. Kefauver and Weiser sang, "Cro Panzani's beautiful cantata, "Good Night, Good Night, Beloved."

Miss Ruggles' solo, "Protestations," violin obligato, closed the evening's performance.

The entertainment was of such merit that, were it repeated, the attendance would be larger than it was Monday evening.

The stage was handsomely furnished for the occasion, and cut flowers abounded in profusion. Miss Edith Kennedy, the teacher of vocal music in the public schools made her debut in Manistique musical circles upon this occasion, being the accompanist in several of the numbers. Miss Ballard and Mrs. Arthur Owen also acted in the same capacity. Miss Ruggles has many reasons for feeling proud of the concert.

Seriously Injured.

Clarence Gardner, of St. Paul, a Soo line brakeman, while engaged in coupling cars at Harris Spur last Monday, was caught between the depot platform and the moving train and sustained serious injuries. The bones of the pelvis were crushed, and other internal injuries were received. His condition is extremely critical. The unfortunate man was brought to this city Monday afternoon and taken to Dr. Patterson's hospital. Owing to the absence of Mr. Patterson, Dr. Burdick took charge of the affair by telegraph, and arrived in the city from Minneapolis Tuesday morning.

His condition is still serious and there is but slight hope for his recovery. His parents arrived in the city Wednesday morning from St. Paul. Gardner was a conductor but owing to the dull times he was acting in the capacity of brakeman at the time of the accident.

I. S. Phippeny of the W. L. Co.'s store, was in Saginaw this week.

OFFICIAL PAPER.

Entered as second class at Manistique, Mich., at Special Class mail matter.

FRIDAY, JAN. 22, 1907.

Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Convention of Michigan... will be held at the Manistique Hotel...

Every county will be entitled to one delegate... for each 5000 of the total population...

The delegates from each Congressional district are requested to meet in caucus at 10 o'clock a. m., on February 22, 1907...

In Iron Mountain, dealers selling tobacco to minors contrary to the state law are arrested. The same should be done in Manistique.

The county that the Grand Maraisites wish to form out of positions of Schoolcraft, Alger and Lapeere counties is to be named Piegree.

Rep. Chamberlain, the 'tail piece of the Gogebic,' is to be once more chairman of the committee on liquor traffic...

The debt contracted by Spain to subdue Cuba amounts to about $400 to every citizen of Cuba...

Peffer, the Populist senator from Kansas is noted for two things; the length of his beard and the number of speeches that he made in the senate during this six years' term.

We have never printed a paper which did not contain something we would prefer to have left out. It is easy to err in judgment...

The New York World recently polled the electors of the various states to ascertain their opinion as to the advisability of McKinley serving wine at the White House.

A bill has been recently introduced into the legislature asking the state to assume the bonded indebtedness of the village of Ontonagon.

The average man is in debt. He is hard up. He doesn't own but half the dollar that rattles in his pocket.

A bill has been noticed in the legislature asking that the death penalty be restored. The bill should become a law.

Bryan says the bolting Democrats cannot come back into the party on any other basis than unconditional surrender.

U.S. Minister Wilks died at Honolulu recently.

Senator Moore has won unenviable fame for introducing a bill licensing assignment house.

Senator Sherman has authorized the statement that he will accept the secretary of state portfolio.

Lake Michigan is not quite 900 feet deep at its deepest place. That particular spot is not in this vicinity.

The merchants of Escanaba are waging a war on the department store located there, through the Iron Port.

A bill has been noticed in the legislature regulating the sale of cigarettes. The bill carries with it a tax of $500 on every dealer handling the coffin nails.

Because Editor Smiley of the Galsburg Enterprise published a trade against dancing that lost him the postoffice appointment. A petition largely signed has gone in against him.

In Iron Mountain, dealers selling tobacco to minors contrary to the state law are arrested. The same should be done in Manistique.

The county that the Grand Maraisites wish to form out of positions of Schoolcraft, Alger and Lapeere counties is to be named Piegree.

Rep. Chamberlain, the 'tail piece of the Gogebic,' is to be once more chairman of the committee on liquor traffic...

The business men's association of Grand Marais is agitating the question of organizing a new county with the following townships: Grand Marais, Seney, Gorman and Deer Park.

A Marquette citizen was appointed postmaster of Manistique to succeed Arthur Noster. The residents of a city or village should be given an opportunity of choosing their own postmasters.

The average man is in debt. He is hard up. He doesn't own but half the dollar that rattles in his pocket.

A bill has been noticed in the legislature asking that the death penalty be restored. The bill should become a law.

Bryan says the bolting Democrats cannot come back into the party on any other basis than unconditional surrender.

There will be No Junket.

The legislature has decided to abolish the junket which has heretofore been a legalized wasteful experience of $1,000 of the people's money daily for ten days in order to give a favored few a "time."

Speaker Gordon deserves great praise for the stand he took in the junket matter. The state institution should be inspected but it is not necessary to send three or four carloads of solons and a carload of champagne on the tour of inspection.

The matter of inspection can be done by committees, who can act without interfering with the routine of the legislature's business.

The junket is not popular with the people who foot the bill, and no doubt the personnel of the two houses would have been materially changed in the near future had the solons not taken a tumble.

Mr. Sherman's Foreign Policy. Mr. Sherman's interview with the Pittsburgh reporter is not likely to give courage to the hopeful jingo who expect that Mr. McKinley will "do something" for Cuba.

Persons who insist upon the "morose consistency" which never changes its point of view will be surprised at this utterance. But Mr. Sherman possesses that fluidity of mind that is characteristic of other great statesmen, notably Mr. Gladstone, and he realizes that what is useful in a senator may be inexpedient in a cabinet officer.

At the same time, although his speech has conveyed an intimation of a warlike feeling, it will be found that his feelings have been on safe ground. He is not a reactionary like Senator Grey or a furious radical like Senator Chandler.

Hope that our people will be contented with internal growth and avoid the complications of foreign acquisitions. A republic should not hold deeper debt provinces or possessions. Every new acquisition will create new embarrassments.

In the light of this utterance and of the Pittsburgh interview there is reason to believe that although Mr. Sherman may take his sympathy for Cuba into the cabinet, he will not permit it to carry him beyond peaceful measures to bring contentment to the island. He is for peace, not war.—Times Herald.

McKinley would compliment Michigan and honor one of its foremost sons were he to place Gen. Russell A. Alger in his cabinet.

THE WINDOW DRESSER

How He Goes to Work to Make a Show For Shoppers.

$10,000 FOR A HOLIDAY DISPLAY.

Men Who Trim Windows For the Big Departmental Stores Must Be Artists in the Use of Wooden Frames and Wax Figures, Tricks of the Trade.

From now until after Christmas we are to become a nation of window gazers. Every storekeeper in the land realizes this fact and lays his plans accordingly. He is willing to indulge our taste for this pastime to its utmost limit. For he knows that his kindness will help him to entrap the unwary dollar of the gazer.

So just about this time of year the storekeepers begin to arrange their win-

downs for a holiday dress which shall be more splendid and elaborate than that of their rivals. The preparator of these "emporiums" in a small city usually picks out the clerk who seems to have the most artistic taste for this sort of work and sets him at it. This sort is somewhat crude, but perhaps it answers the purpose.

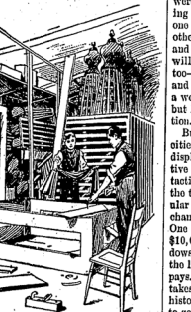

But how different is the appearance of the show windows of the big city stores. There are displayed upon the shelves such as you would expect to find in big establishments, but they are arranged in such a way as to delight and please the eye. The most conspicuous wayfarer can tell at a glance that this is the work of no novice, and it does not require much perception to understand that the hands and feet of an artist planned that deft arrangement of stuffs, those rich combinations of shades.

In fact, window dressing has come to be an art or a profession, just which you choose to call it, for natural talents of an uncommon order are required of an expert window dresser. So the trimming of the great show windows, upon which the big city stores depend so much for trading getting, is not left to any clerk who may chance to experiment in the work, but is put in charge of competent and experienced men—men who do this work and nothing else, and who have to be paid good prices for doing it.

The professional window dresser does not select in haphazard fashion a lot of goods from stock and pile them indiscriminately into the window. He does not begin his work until he has a scheme or plan for that particular window all worked out in his mind. Neither does he depend upon his own skill with tools, but he has at his disposal the services of two or three carpenters who execute his ideas under his personal direction.

He has then made up some of skeletons or frameworks which he may need, and after the slavings and sawdust are swept out it begins that part of the work which he has to do personally. If spent an hour or two the other day with the window dresser of one of the biggest department stores in the city. "Window dressing" said a jovial floorwalker near the main entrance, "I think you'll find them somewhere on the fifth floor."

After walking through a half mile, more or less, of narrow aisles, hemmed in by bins of merchandise of all descriptions, which was being held until such time as it would be wanted in stock, the plan on the fifth floor was revealed. Partitioned off from the rest of the floor was a big square room, in which

from the furniture department, put some fine toilet articles on it, with perhaps a vase filled with freshly cut roses, and left a few other trifles. They will be bringing down some of those floral wreaths, dress them up appropriately, and we will have a window worth looking at.

"We have about 25 big windows to dress here, and the trim ought not to last more longer than a week, so you see it keeps us busy. Look at the size of this window top. It is 16 feet square. That gives us plenty of room for fine effects, but it also means lots of work. Now, for the holidays, I am going to take three of those adjoining frost windows and trim them up just as if they were rooms in a flat and I were furnishing them for actual living purposes. In one will be a complete parlor set, another will be arranged as a dining room, and then there will be a kitchen. There will be several wax figures in the rooms, too—a mistress of the house, a maid and a cook in the kitchen. It will take a week or more to put it in this trim, but I think it will attract lots of attention."

But not all large stores, even in the big cities, make a feature of their window displays. Some of the more conservative and solid old concerns scorn such tactics. The stores which depend upon the transient buyer and have not a regular line of patrons can afford to let no chance of attracting customers slip by. One New York firm spends annually $10,000 for one dressing of their windows. They have been doing this for the last 11 years and ordinarily think it pays. Their holiday display usually takes the form of a moving pageant of historical figures. They do not attempt to get this up themselves, but give the contract to a concern which deals in wax figures and mechanical novelties. There are several hundred professional window dressers at work in the various large cities of the country. They are well paid for their work, and for their salaries range from $25 to $75 a week. A movement has been started in Chicago toward forming a national organization of the object of protecting its members and furnishing a central source from which country merchants may obtain reliable artists for the holidays and other special occasions.

OTYUS SYLVESTER.

out of all kinds of kitchen ware, and we had a crowd around that window every day for two weeks."

"Then he showed me his workshop and explained how he went about his work. In great lines running clear up to the ceiling were piled away scores of dress forms, covered up like so many mummies. Some were made of wood and others of zinc. Modelers, manufacturers, were constructed of wire. More carefully bound in another partition were dozens of wax heads, with heads, arms and busts two of wax.

"These figures," he said, "represent thousands of dollars, for they are expensive. We have them made for us by a firm which makes a specialty of this business, and some of them cost several hundred dollars each. Here is a figure, for instance, which was made to show off a tall gown. That cost $150. We make use of it only once or twice a year, but it is something which we have to have."

In other parts of the rooms were stored old mechanical devices, relics of former displays, and a large assortment of queer shaped frames used for draping cloth and cloaks upon. A complete carpenter shop and a well equipped painter's shop, with forces of half a dozen men each, are also at the disposal of the window dresser. Several electricians are also employed, and upon these the window dresser frequently calls.

"Come down to the first floor," said the chief, "and you can see how we do our work."

One of the big front show windows was screened off from the public gaze by curtains of white cotton, which did not darken the interior as the heavy shades would, and behind this two men were busy at work. Upon the back wall of the window they were tacking sheep cotton flannel of a drab color with a backing of floor paper, such as is used to put under carpets.

Tacks with big bronze heads were used, and they were put in at regular intervals, so that the wall appeared to be upholstered in quilted fashion. At the top heavy curtains were draped, and at a distance of a few feet the effect was rich and luxurious, although the materials were of the cheapest. I mentioned this fact to the head window dresser, and he replied:

"Yes, that's one of the tricks of the trade. We pay special attention to backgrounds, for they lend much to the appearance of the goods. Now, in this window we are going to show some very handsome jackets and capes. Of course a chequerboard background would not be appropriate, and so we get up this one. When that wall is finished, we will do not require much perception to understand that the hands and feet of an artist planned that deft arrangement of stuffs, those rich combinations of shades.

In fact, window dressing has come to be an art or a profession, just which you choose to call it, for natural talents of an uncommon order are required of an expert window dresser. So the trimming of the great show windows, upon which the big city stores depend so much for trading getting, is not left to any clerk who may chance to experiment in the work, but is put in charge of competent and experienced men—men who do this work and nothing else, and who have to be paid good prices for doing it.

The professional window dresser does not select in haphazard fashion a lot of goods from stock and pile them indiscriminately into the window. He does not begin his work until he has a scheme or plan for that particular window all worked out in his mind. Neither does he depend upon his own skill with tools, but he has at his disposal the services of two or three carpenters who execute his ideas under his personal direction.

He has then made up some of skeletons or frameworks which he may need, and after the slavings and sawdust are swept out it begins that part of the work which he has to do personally. If spent an hour or two the other day with the window dresser of one of the biggest department stores in the city. "Window dressing" said a jovial floorwalker near the main entrance, "I think you'll find them somewhere on the fifth floor."

After walking through a half mile, more or less, of narrow aisles, hemmed in by bins of merchandise of all descriptions, which was being held until such time as it would be wanted in stock, the plan on the fifth floor was revealed. Partitioned off from the rest of the floor was a big square room, in which

Cooks.

The mumps keep coming and so do we see.

Mr. Winkle, our butcher is doing a fair business; so does everybody who comes at Cooks.

Mr. Holt of Buchanan, was doing business in our hamlet Monday of this week.

Mr. Jos. Collier who has been dangerously ill the past ten days is quite convalescent.

Randal McIntyre of Manistique, was a pleasant caller, Monday of this week. Glad to see you.

All our merchants are hustling ice at present. That's right—we will not suffer for ice cream the coming summer.

Mrs. Henry Thompson was visiting friends and relatives at Garden the fore part of this week.

If you wish any snap shot taken by Mr. Fisher a call. He says he can best take them lengthwise. Mumi!

The dance at the hall was a boomer. Everybody enjoyed themselves highly. See! Ugh!

Mr. McDonald our hustling merchant, took a ride to the country Monday there improving his health in a financial way.

Angus Black returned home Saturday evening from "courtin'" at Manistique. He says one night is plenty for him, as one week is hard on the constitution.

Never in the history of our hamlet have the people been more stirred than seeing Mr. Wash, a hustling Attorney of Muskegon, Mich., among us on Sunday last. We realized very readily there was an important case on the docket, and a queer noise as to who the jurors would be. When lists were called it was found Mr. Barnhart our teacher, and Mr. Hicks our organist, were the lucky ones.

All these gentlemen proceeded to their post of duty at a seasonable hour and the case was said to be "courtin'."

The defendants greatly objected to some of the evidence but the attorney and jurors smiled a smile as the hours went flying by and the case became more and more interesting. "Lill old judge 12 said it was time," to excuse attorney and jurors.

The verdict rendered was an entire acquittal for the jurors, but the attorney was found guilty.

The way of this transgressor is hard. BRESSARD JOB.

Germansk Items.

Times are improving slowly.

There is quite a demand for railroads. This affords employment for quite a number and indicates an increase in the railroad business.

H. Kneggs, L. M. French and Gerard Stauffer were in Manistique last week, as jurors.

Mr. Angus McDougall has returned from Manistique.

Rev. McElvray was in town Wednesday of last week and delivered a splendid address at the school house. He is getting the citizens to see the necessity of building a church. Germansk will be a civilized country yet.

H. Kneggs says that his lumber camp is under full headway now.

A. J. Smith, of Manistique, has put in a cedar camp on the Fox river.

J. L. Newberry of Petoskey, is up looking over the mill preparatory to starting it up again in a short time.

Many of the farmers are cutting birch for Hargrave Bros. of Seney. "BEE."

William Mason has been chosen senator by the Illinois legislature. The honor was bestowed. Mason is aggressive campaigner and did yeoman service for the Republican party during the last campaign.

The Soo News' agitation of the needs of an executive mansion is baring fruit. Senator Loomis of Kent will introduce a measure for one, and several legislators have expressed themselves in favor of it. The executive mansion is a necessity not a luxury.

Representative Fuller writes us as follows:—"I wish to thank you for your article in last issue in opposition to the junket, as I have used the same argument against the junket as you use." We are pleased to note that Mr. Fuller is in line against the wasteful expenditure of public funds for the purpose of creating a "snap." He is certainly in accord with his constituents in this matter.

Gladstone on Turkey.

Mr. Gladstone's high Anglican theology is at times tempered or excited by a fine touch of puritan fervor. This is noticeable in his recent utterance concerning the atrocities of Turkish rule. He glows with Miltonic fire; his stately prose reminds one of Milton's more stately verse.

Avenge, O Lord! Thy saints, whose bones lie scattered on the Alpine mountains cold.

He insists that the destruction of the unconquerable empire of Islam must precede any effective guarantee of religious liberty in Asia Minor. He predicts the surrender of the six great powers of Europe to the forces of Christian sentiment, and the relinquishment of the shameful policies of international jealousies that have been the scandalous safeguard of the Turkish sword.

Mr. Gladstone is right. Turkey must be dismembered in the interest of civilization. It is as of the world as Lincoln said that it was of the United States, "it cannot remain half slave and half free." Freedom is the ultimate heritage of all mankind, and Turkey or any other power that obstinately obstructs the efforts of mankind to enter into possession of its heritage must perish. Yet Mr. Gladstone is right also, for he is as wise as he is fervid in proclaiming that the time for dismemberment has not yet come. Islam has not yet filled the measure of its iniquities.

The conscience of Europe is not yet fully awakened to a sense of duty. Greed and money worship still paralyze the arm of international justice. But of these things there will be an end. The laws of nature and of God often have been obstructed but never frustrated.

A Cure for Lame Back.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes John Graves, of Seney, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it had given entire relief." Chamberlain's is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Speaking of the arbitration treaty, Rev. T. DeWitt Tuohy recently said in a sermon. "The mightiest, grandest movement for driving brutal war out of the earth's dates from January 11, 1897. The men who on either side of the sea did most to effect that plan of arbitration have made themselves immortal. The evening of the present administration of the United States government has been honored with the gladdest event of eighteen centuries. All civilized nations will copy the sublime example. I implore the illustrious senate of the United States to allow nothing to interfere with a vote of ratification that the bells of all Christendom may ring out 'Peace on earth' good will to men." Senators, many of you, my personal friends, let me say that this is the opportunity of your lives. By an emphatic and enthusiastic vote rise to the splendor of the occasion and win the favor of all the good of earth and all the mighty of heaven. Let the eyes of our American senate resound through all the capitals of Europe, and make all the arsenals and armories of the world hear that there shall be no number amonagations. The worst thing you can do for a man is to kill him; the best thing you can do for a man is to save him."

A new play from the pen of Charles Townsend accrues more than ordinary interest among dramatic clubs, and the "Jail Bird," a play representing city life will be found not the least important contribution of this talented author to the stock of modern acting dramas. The plot resembles that of the "Ticket of Leave Man," but this play is far easier to produce, inasmuch as there are no difficult scenes or properties to handle. It is up to date and has proven popular on the road during the last three seasons, the managers reporting it a great winner. All the characters provide scope for acting, the interest is continuous and the comical portions are warranted to create mirth. Our Schools. We wish, in this short article, to call attention to a few facts in connection with the schools.

It is the opinion of leading educators that it is of first importance to bring school-life into vital touch with world life, to familiarize the pupils with the language and ideas of commerce, politics, and of the world in general.

We are also introducing into our schools as fast as possible the subject of Mental Arithmetic, a subject that for some time has been banished from the public schools, but fortunately for the youth of the land, is returning.

With the introduction of music in all grades we expect to fill a much needed line of work, and one that has been heretofore almost entirely neglected.

In all these lines of work we cordially ask the cooperation of all patrons of the schools, to bring our schools up to the standard of any, in the state of equal size.

We have a much better attendance than we had last year, and have only about half the cases of tardiness. As a direct result of this discipline of the schools has improved about one hundred per cent, and we have much better work done.

In order to do good work in school pupils must attend just as regularly and promptly as if they were employed and paid a salary, and the school should not expect to pass their grades without doing each day's work any more than they would expect a regular salary by working half the time for which they were employed.

While we are pleased with the advancement made in all lines during the past year, we fully realize the fact that there is yet ample room for improvement.

We cordially invite all interested in our schools, or the cause of education, to visit us in any department, at any time. You will always find the latch-string out. Walk right in without knocking for the schools are yours.
