BREVITIES.

Geo. Rose was in Detroit the past week on business.

Miss Ramsay of the Canadian Soo, is in the city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bundy.

Mr. Bundy of the West Side barber shop, has been unable to attend to business a portion of the past week owing to a severe attack of rheumatism.

Every once in a while some man gets into trouble by kissing a woman against her will. Why does he do it? There are plenty of women who are willing.

A public reception will be tendered by Mrs. J. M. Rogers at the Church of the Redeemer, next Monday evening, from 8 to 10 o'clock, every body is invited to attend.

V. X. Lyons, an experienced electrician is in the city for the purpose of superintending the erection of Mr. McMillan's electric light plant. Mr. Lyons is interested in the plant at Standish, and thoroughly understands his business.

Do not fail to attend Dr. John's lectures at the Methodist church, this and tomorrow evening. Tickets for the lecture are selling at 50 cents per lecture or 75 cents for the course of two. Dr. John is the peer of any orator that has ever visited Manistique and his lecture will more than please those attending.

William Donegan, who was employed "down the line," was brought to Dr. Paterson's hospital for treatment a week ago. He was suffering from hemorrhage of the lungs, which caused his death Monday. The remains were shipped to Syracuse, N. Y., in response to the request of a sister. The deceased was 28 years of age.

Geo. Gasprich, died quite suddenly last Saturday. A week previous he came from the woods suffering from the attending physician pronounced catarrh. The deceased was buried Tuesday from the Catholic church. He was forty-six years of age and leaves a widow and five children, reside in Austria, to mourn his loss.

Some time ago we chronicled the fact that the relatives and friends of a Manistique citizen to the number of eighteen "dropped in on him" and signified their intentions of remaining with him all winter. This appalled the old gentleman to such an extent that he "boarded himself" at his shop and allowed his guests the freedom of the house. Forbearance ceases to be a virtue, sometimes; and it ceased to be in this case. The gentleman in question, tired of the arrangement, and proceeded to his domicile accompanied with a "jag" of magnificent proportions. The "jag" and his tongue got him in trouble, and the man and his "jag" parted company after a brief sojourn in jail. Monday morning the man was given sound fatherly advice, by Judge Lorenberg, and permitted to go his way after the payment of the costs.

A Pleasing Social Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Pardee entertained a number of their friends on Tuesday evening of this week. The event was a pleasing feature in Manistique's social circles and was highly enjoyed by the participants. Progressive and all the entertainment furnished.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames—McKinney, MacNaughton, Lindsey, McLeod, Waddell, Lockwood, Le Roy, Guinan, Childs, Rainie, Holbein and Kefauver.

Mesdames Geo. F. Ross, Ron. Ross, E. N. Orr.

Misses—Janior, Costello, Rose, Stoddard.

Messrs.—Knowles, Malngren, Orr, Howell, LeDuc.

Six prizes were distributed. The names of the winners follow:

Ladies—Mrs. Dan Guinan, 1st prize, one glass salt and pepper; Mrs. E. B. Waddell, second prize—sterling silver glove button; Booty, by Mrs. LeRoy—a Brownie.

Gentlemen—J. W. Knowles, first prize—a sterling silver match, safe; A. M. Le Roy, second prize—sterling silver nail file; Booty, by Geo. E. Holbein, small deck of cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Pardee proved themselves ideal entertainers.

A good stove for sale cheap. C. P. Hill.

A. C. Hubbell of Duluth, was in the city this week.

The Holy Communion will be celebrated at the Church of the Redeemer next Sunday morning. Union farewell services will be held in the evening.

An upper peninsula editor jokingly remarks that the game laws should be so amended that no hunter be allowed to shoot more than five persons during the season.

The "stakes" of many of the boys working in the woods this winter will not be very large next spring. The Standish & Northwestern railroad makes it possible for them to spend their Sundays in the city.

Mr. Greenwood furnished a vessel-man, 5,000 Christmas trees recently. The trees were of all sizes and will be sold in Chicago. Last year this same captain cleared $3,000 on a cargo of trees. The original cost is very slight.

Dennis Murphy, foreman of Miller Rose's lathe mill, received a telegram last Monday announcing the death of his father at Painted Post, N. Y. He left on the first train to attend the funeral. The deceased is well known to the York state contingent living here. For thirty years he was an employee on the Erie railroad.

The oyster supper to be given at Odd Fellows hall, next Monday evening, Nov. 29th under the auspices of the male members of the M. E. church, promises to be a great success. Aside from a royal feast, a program will be rendered consisting of songs, recitations and speeches. The charges for the whole is but 25 cents. All invited to attend.

Pointe aux Barques will have a fog- whistle of the first class. The light-house board has given favorable consideration to the recommendation made by the inspector of the eleventh district. There is no money for its erection this winter, but some time next season it will be built. Vesselmen have long wanted a fog-whistle there, as it is a very dangerous point.

The principal comedian in "The Girl from Frisco," which J. H. Davis & Co. will produce at the Opera House here this evening, is called "Klonkyk" in the new play. There is nothing like being up-to-date in a comedy. In fact, if one falls behind the age in a piece of that kind, he might as well never raise the curtain. The plot in "The Girl from Frisco" is entirely original, but it beats with the newest old copies of frus lore, a man granddian, and the final triumph of the young people. There is music in the play too. Likewise dancing.

The Manistique Telephone Co. whose incorporation we mentioned last week, organized on Tuesday of this week by electing the following officers:—President, M. H. Quick; vice president, Geo. I. Orr; secretary, C. E. Kelso; treasurer, T. L. Baxter. The company is capitalized at $5,000. The telephone services during the past year has been uniformly satisfactory to the patrons, and will no doubt continue to be the same in the future. We understand that a block of stock will be placed on the market shortly. The affairs of the company are economically administered, and the stock promises good interest. The shares will sell at $10 each.

Annent the Removal of Rev. J. M. Rogers.

Early next week Rev. J. M. Rogers will have for the past five years so faithfully and acceptably ministered to the spiritual wants of the Presbyterian congregation, leaves for his future home, Lansing.

Mr. Rogers has, during his residence here, won the esteem of our citizens irrespective of creed or conditions. He has been so vitally connected with every movement that has had for its object the betterment of Manistique, that his going away will be universally regretted.

Every human being has influence to a greater or lesser degree. One person may live in a community for years, but when he decides to make another city his abiding place his loss is felt but a few; when others who have made their influence felt, who have, as it were, become an important factor in the community, take their leave, all instinctively feel the loss and regret that he has departed. It is not necessary to add that Rev. Rogers be-

For several years it was apparent that he was out-growing the field in which he labored. Sermons that would electrify city congregations, were weekly presented to his congregation. Prominent persons from the large cities, spending the summer here, would invariably call after hearing him: "How are you able to keep such a talented minister here?"

When he received the call from Lansing, while his congregation was dead to sever the tie that bound him, he bowed to the inevitable. They appreciated the conditions and acquiesced.

Mr. Rogers is a talented logistician and an eloquent speaker, and has the rare faculty of making plain his deepest and severest thoughts to the very abject men in that body. He was frequently the recipient of official honors at his hand and when he severed his connection with that body, he was necessitated to resign twelve offices. The Church of the Redeemer has more than doubled its membership during his pastorate, and while considered one of the smaller churches of the Presbytery, has ranked first in the [way of] contributions to many of the objects of the church at large.

Mrs. Rogers has been actively connected with the Womens Missionary society, having for years been president of that organization. Last year she was president of the Presbyterial society.

The best wishes of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will attend them to their new field of labor.

Lyle Glenning left for Detroit on the Duell yesterday.

Mrs. E. P. Foley returned from her eastern visit, this week.

The Thanksgiving Ball at the opera house was largely attended.

The present weather is curing several local cases of Rheumatism very rapidly.

Miss Greenwood has gone to New York City where she has accepted a position as head nurse in a prominent hospital of that city.

Mrs. Geo. Gagarievics for Highland Park, Ill., next Wednesday, where her husband has a lucrative position with J. D. Messerans' electric light company.

Dr. J. M. Sattler left for Chicago Wednesday afternoon where he will take a post graduate course at Rush Medical college. He will return to the city about January 1st.

"Born, Sunday, Nov. 21st to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. DuBois of Highland Park, Ill., a twelve pound daughter. Mother and child doing well. The many Manistique friends of Mr. and Mrs. DuBois congratulate them upon the advent.

A meeting was held at the rooms of Nob Olson, Tuesday evening of this week for the purpose of organizing a Norwegian Literary society. Twenty or more persons were present and enrolled their names as members. The following were elected as officers: Rev. Prose, President; August Olsen, vice president; Chris Drevdahl, secretary; Miss Jennie Larsen, treasurer.

Mr. Carl O. Peterson died Tuesday evening after a short illness. Three weeks ago while assisting in cleaning out the pond at the Bronson mill he contracted a cold, which developed into his quick consumption. Evidently knowing his critical condition, he decided to leave for Sweden to join his relatives and friends. He purchased a ticket, but owing to the rapid progress of the disease he was unable to start. Mr. Peterson was an industrious and honest citizen. Funeral services were held at the Swedish Baptist church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the benevolent society, "Orion," of which he was a member. Bro. Hofelt preached the last sermon.

Much to the chagrin of many of the pupils, the Thanksgiving holiday this year did not include today.

The ladies are contemplating giving a dance and card party during the coming month.

Thanksgiving day would be hailed with greater delight by the average husband were cold, frozen, turkey not on the daily menu for several days thereafter.

FRIDAY, November 20, 1897.

Entered at the postoffice at Manistique, Mich. as Second Class mail matter.

Congress convenes Dec. 6th.

It sometimes pays to be a poet. Alpena's poet, McNamara by name, is the postmaster.

The Gould City Times skipped a week recently, and when it did appear, was printed on wrapping paper.

The customs collections at the port of San Francisco for the month of October were $42,167, or $149, more than they were in September. Not a bad showing for the third month of the Dingley Bill.

"Blacklisting" received a stunning blow in the courts recently. An ex-conductor of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad was awarded $21,666.33 by a Milwaukee jury. He had been black-listed by the aforesaid road and was unable to secure employment.

It should be made a misdemeanor for careless hunters to take human life. If a long term in the penitentiary was attached as a penalty there would be less shooting at moving bushes. Nine men have lost their lives in the woods since the hunting season opened.

Lieutenant Governor Dunstan will have a big following in the next gubernatorial campaign, and may land the nomination. The upper peninsula has never been honored with a gubernatorial candidate, and if the political fates decree that the peninsula should be thus honored we know of no better timber than Mr. Dunstan.

The Democratic prediction is come true. The Dingley tariff bill has actually "distributed the markets of the world." It has reversed them, for now foreign countries have not a monopoly of American markets, while our foreign commerce this year is $80,000,000 ahead of last year. We can stand that sort of disturbance. Eric "Dispatch."

The governor of Missouri claims that Governor Pingree "cabbaged" a portion of his Thanksgiving proclamation from his. It has been since ascertained that Governor Stephens of Missouri, quoted extensively from Governor Rich's proclamation issued in 1895, and that Pingree's recent proclamation is an almost exact reproduction of the 1895 proclamation.

A near-by publisher failed to issue his paper recently. In the next issue he explained its non-appearance the week previous by stating that an accident was the cause. When a bright young fellow possesses a burning desire to drink all the whiskey in two counties he is quite likely to meet with an "accident," especially if he is the editor of a newspaper.

The Christmas Ladies' Home Journal tells how the German Emperor, with the Empress and the Royal family, spend Christmas Day with their children. The article is written by Mr. Nagel von Brawe, an attaché of the Court, who was permitted to be present at the celebration last Christmas in order to write this article. The pictures were made "on the spot," and approved by the Emperor.

Why is organized labor arraying itself against such institutions of safety and protection as the militia? Unionism is irretrievably committed against lawlessness and the employment of force. It seeks to attain its legitimate ends through the procurement and enforcement of favoring legislation. It deprecates riots and when they are precipitated, or when wanton destruction of property occurs, the offense is always laid at the door of lawless outsiders. What lawful purpose is there in view to which the national guard are an obstacle? They are among the safeguard of the nation and never act save under authority delegated by the people.

Since the formation of the Upper Peninsula Whist league, the state league has ascertained that there are whist players in that portion of the state above the straits, and is taking steps to absorb the youth.

Representative Fuller has out thanks for a copy of the Michigan Manual for 1897. Mr. Fuller's many Schoolcraft county friends are very sorry that he was unable to deliver the Manuals in person as he had intended doing.

What kind of men and women will be developed by a society whose young people can only be amused and entertained by the excitements of the card table and the dance hall? Such amusements are of such high intellectual character and moral force that constant indulgence in them will accomplish wonders for the world!

It still remains to be seen whether Congressman Sheldon or Sam Stephenson will dictate the postmaster'ship of Menominee. M. H. Kern is Sheldon's candidate while Andy Stephenson is chaperoned by Sam. The Republican party of the upper peninsula decided their preference at the Ironwood convention.

By that decision, Mr. Stephenson was shelved and Mr. Sheldon honored. The right to dictate appointments belongs to Sheldon.

George M. Pullman.

Lately we have read in numerous papers that Geo. M. Pullman oppressed the poor. He gave largely to charitable objects. A more splendid will than his has never been probed. He paid his employes better average wages than were paid any workmen in the world. They live in better homes and have more comforts than any other workmen. The town of Pullman is far more beautiful than the average town. The water is pure, the streets are paved and well-kept. The sewerage is perfect. There are flowers and trees planted at Pullman's expense and there is a public library, athletic grounds, gymnasium, schools, parks, churches. Every want felt by civilized and cultured men and women is in evidence at Pullman—the plans of which town carried out the wishes of George M. Pullman. He spent millions of dollars to make the town a desirable place to live in.

He made the rents of the fine houses as low as the conveniences enjoyed would permit him to do. He did all he could, it seems, to please his workmen. He provided that the most faithful men should have gifts annually and promotions of the worthy were arranged for. The children who had marked talent were taken from the public schools and placed in industrial and art schools. Yet the employes—that is some of them—were ungrateful and could not appreciate their employer. They thought he made too much money while they made too little. They wasted time he paid them for—they wasted the materials and ruined the tools he furnished them. They struck for higher wages and the strike they inaugurated cost them thousands of dollars and cost him millions. In the end they were beaten and the meanest ones were driven out of Pullman. No capitalist, no philanthropist, has done more for his fellow men than George M. Pullman living and dead. Yet he oppressed the poor. That is true. All men do. The man who charged him with oppression is an oppressor. But let it be said to Geo. M. Pullman's credit that his genius made him honest wealth and he dealt it out with wisdom.

The Advent of Nansen. (After Ocean.)

The ovation to Nansen was natural. Scientific men excepted, very few comprehend, or even vaguely conceive, the benefits that may result from discovery of the north pole. But every one, from the child to the gray-headed man, indulges visions of "thrilling regions of thick-ribbed and eternal ice," of a domain of which, to use a tremendous phrase that Tacitus applied to Scythia, it may be said, "Here nature ends." There all things are strange, vast, vague, chimerical. From the time of Homer, and from long before it, men have made heroes of soldiers and explorers.

Two great scenic poems there are, the Iliad of War and the Odyssey of Travel; they endure.

Of the last half century the most picturesque figures are those of Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Lee, and Jackson, the soldiers, and Stanley, Greely and Nansen, the explorers. The North has been the cradle, and often the grave, of high romance. Sir John Franklin's tablet is on the wall at Westminster, but his bones are in the icy land. Nansen is the last returned traveler from the domain of perils and marvels, and he talks well of them. This is a story that that rekindles imagination in the breast of the old and that stirs the blood of the young like the sound of a trumpet. Moreover, Nansen has the outward and visible signs of a hero. He is not undersized, like Stanley, but again to use a classic phrase, "like to a king in countenance and shoulders." He is an apotheosis of the ancient sea kings.

Admiration of such a man not only is natural, it is irrepresible. And in Chicago, where every manly sport and exercise flourishes, it is tumultuous.

Protection And Reciprocity.

(N. Y. Tribune.)

The readiness of the Government to treat with foreign nations, and especially with Canada, for the establishment of reciprocal trade relations appears to raise in some quarters unfounded apprehensions concerning the effect of such action upon the protective system. It seems to be thought that protection and Reciprocity are antagonists, and that the adoption of the latter means the breaking down or abandonment of the former. The notion is entirely incorrect. Reciprocity is an outgrowth of Protection. It is dependent upon Protection for its very existence. It must, therefore, always be developed in harmony with the protective system. It may indeed be regarded as the complete fruition of Protection. It is so regarded by enemies of Protection, who are sparing in their denunciation of it as the "most vicious development of the Protection heresy." The friends of Protection may therefore regard its extension without fear and with hearty satisfaction.

The principles which will guide the Government in arranging Reciprocity treaties are therefore perfectly clear. Just as the protective tariff itself is so contrived as to favor domestic industries, and to admit as freely as possible all things that do not compete therewith, so will Reciprocity be arranged. The duty will be remitted on such articles as come least into competition with domestic products, and in return a remission of foreign duties will be secured on articles bearing the same relation to the countries in question. Canada, for example, will not expect the United States to let in free any Canadian product that would destroy a United States industry. Neither will this country expect any Canadian industry to be destroyed for its benefit. To do so would be to violate the fundamental principles of Reciprocity means exchange of benefits, not of injuries. That is the difference between the American system of Reciprocity and the European system of tariff wars.

When the conference at Washington will do, therefore, is to ascertain what Canadian goods can be admitted freely to this country without interfering with domestic industries, and what United States goods can on similar terms be received into Canada. It is not to be supposed that the interests of farmers on this side of the line will be sacrificed. But the question of reduced rates on fish and coal may be considered for many. Protectionists think they could be granted without injury to the United States interests. The lumber tariff may also be considered. The forests of this country are rapidly disappearing. At the present rate of cutting this generation will see the supply of lumber on this side of the line exhausted. There is little doubt that freer admission of Canadian lumber would actually be beneficial to the United States industry, for it would check the destruction of forests and give opportunity for their restoration. It would be far better for the lumber industry here to be confined to smaller compass and to be perpetual than to run to the fullest extent for a few years and then be ended altogether.

There are other things to be taken into consideration. Reciprocity does not mean exclusively exchange of import privileges. It may be that Canada can be compensated by this country in other directions, and, indeed, that she is already enjoying advantages for which this country may well ask further return. The railroad bonding privilege is one. It is of inestimable value to Canada. The prosperity of her entire railroad system depends upon it. That it is of anything like equal value to this country is not to be believed. In return for a prolongation of that system that Government might well ask for a modification of some items of the Canadian tariff, or for other concessions by the Dominion government. There are matters enough at issue between the two to furnish trading material for a comprehensive scheme of Reciprocity without working any hardship to either country.

The Chief Difficulty.

(Times-Herald.)

It is a strange anomaly that the United States, the most progressive country in the world, should halt and stagger in the solution of currency problems which have been settled offhand by other countries, some of which in our eyes, are not yet fully civilized. In all substantial matters that contribute to human progress and happiness, excepting this, we lead mankind. Our people are keen, shrewd and ingenious, and their common sense is proverbial, yet they are confused and bewildered when confronted with the simplest problems of banking. Men whose perception and judgment are first rate in other things are completely befuddled when they come to consider the currency question. And even worse, people of all classes and conditions, whose ordinary dealings are fair and honorable, deliberately advocate a policy of national repudiation.

Our financial laws are a crude makeshift, and the condition has grown from bad to worse, at times paralyzing the industry and commerce of a pushing restless people. Yet we drift on helplessly toward other unknown difficulties and disasters.

Are our people as a whole superior in other respects but blind as bats when it comes to government financing? Or is the trouble chiefly due to the ever-consciousness and egotism of the American character, which leads the humblest individual, though he may be the most ignorant, to feel that he has as good a right as anybody to take a hand in any matter that concerns the general welfare? The right to help settle a public question, and the knowledge of how it should be settled, is hopelessly mixed in the minds of a large class of voters, yet they resent the imputation that anybody else knows any more about it than they themselves.

In other countries the generality of people are content to leave public concerns of which they know nothing to the management of men of special ability and experience; but the American, no matter what his position or degree of intelligence, is jack of all trades, and whatever the question at issue he knows something about it himself. The village statesman, whose knowledge of finance is limited to dealings at the corner grocery, is as certain that an act of congress can add 60 per cent to the value of the world's stock of $4,500,000,000 of silver as the intelligent person is sure it cannot, and he does not care the snap of his finger for the contrary opinion, nor for the person who holds it. Herein lies the chief difficulty of our situation. A large number of voters, through misinformation and misconception, have gone wrong, and so much bad feeling has been injected into the issue that reason fails to reach men who are blinded both by ignorance of the matter and by prejudice.

Dr. Nansen's Lecture.

(Washington Evening Times).
Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the great Norwegian explorer, led the students of the University of Michigan last evening from his home in the mountain wilderness of Norway across the ice-bound regions of the north, on one of the most daring expeditions ever undertaken by man.

In consequence the name of Dr. Nansen is to be found heading the list of famous men of this century. He opened with a description of his ship, "The Fram," for a builder of which he had learned Europe and succeeded in having built, with the consideration of the strongest ship that ever entered the polar regions.

Dr. Nansen closed with an argument for solar expeditions, saying that he opened new fields for science, and with these new fields the whole humanity is benefited. The lecture was accompanied by excellent stereoscopic views which illustrated nearly every incident of his voyage.

Dr. Nansen spoke at length upon the life spent on board ship, how the long winter nights and five months of continual daylight were passed in sleeping, eating, amusements and scientific work. The day time was mainly devoted to astronomical and atmospheric observations.

Jackon, the leader of an English scientific expedition. Said Dr. Nansen: "I can say that I never enjoyed anything as my first week in Jackon's house. Remaining here until Aug. 7th, he set sail on that date for home, reaching Norway on the 13th. Six days after arriving in Hammarfest, Dr. Nansen received a telegram stating that the Fram had left the ice safe and sound as ever."

"Thus," said Dr. Nansen, "was the greatest ice navigation of the world, and now another, Andrew, is penetrating these unknown regions. Let us all hope that he is safe and will return in another year to relate his tale of adventure."
