Mr. Ira Soper, the Lakeside grocer, is suffering from a paralytic stroke. His condition is serious.

Geo. A. Brooks has an old winter's job inspecting cedar and sealing logs along the line of the Manistique and Northwestern Railroad.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Dr. Raino on the afternoon of the first Wednesday in January.

Remember that a "wako sock" will be given at the farm home of Lambert Richards next Friday evening. The proceeds go to the Doyle township Presbyterian church.

We forgot to mention the fact last week that Mr. Chaurin is selling the photograph. As its cost is only $12, it is within the province of many families to own this pleasing instrument.

Any one wishing to consult the Field Notes for Schoolcraft county can have access to them by consulting Harry Asford at the County Clerk's office. The only charges will be for copying same.

During December of each year large sums of money are sent to Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, from this vicinity. The aggregate amount of these cash Christmas gifts is larger this year than for several years past. Another sign of prosperity.

If all that women infer is true, a girl's best hours to ache when she passes twenty, and keeps up the dull ache business until her hands are folded across it in her coffin. Women don't always understand each other; they understand men better.

"Bogoljets" will not have to traverse swamp with mosquito bar screens for the purpose of capturing bug specimens next spring. All the insect life known to entomologists may then be secured in the vicinity of the are lights. Electricity attracts insect life.

Two young men who started to raise mistakes this fall grew discouraged and had them shaved off just before the cold snap. Now they have cold and headaches in place of the small covering their upper lips. It is said to be a very foolish thing to cut off a mustache in cold weather, no matter how little hair there is.

The free guessing contest at Falk & Anderson's grocery store was brought to a close Dec. 10th. The watch in question stopped at 5:15:19. Miss Ada Pattinson and Pat Curran each guessed 5:05. Miss Pattinson secured the watch. Sven Johnson got second prize and Nelson Johnson third prize. H. W. Clarke and A. M. Leroy had charge of the affair.

A Frenchman, went to an American and asked him: "What is a polar bear?" The American told him: "What does a polar bear do?" "Why, he sits on the ice?" "Sit on ice?" "Yes," said the American, "there is nothing else for him to sit on." "Well, what do you?" "What does he also do?" "Why, he eats fish." "Eats fish—sits on the ice and eats fish. Then I sit on the ice," said the Frenchman. "Why, what do you mean?" "You don't accept?" "Oh, no, no, I do not accept. I was invited to be polar bear at a funeral!"

The sum of $800,075 was expended in improvements at the Soo the past year.

Karl Jacobson left for Duluth this week where he will visit relatives for a month or more.

The Poverly Island light house will be in service all winter. Car-ferrage makes this a necessity.

A Manistique man has cured his dyspepsia by eating whatever he liked and as much of it as he could hold.

The Chicago alderman voted themselves each a private secretary at $1500 per year, and then appointed one another secretary. Here's a pointer for their humble brethren.

Ortonagon, a town of less than 1,000 inhabitants, has ten stores and two schools. Several capitalists who have looked the place over, have decided to invest there under any circumstances owing to the drinking habits of the people.

A young student away at college and who was strictly in the pink wrote to the old gentleman in this way: "If you love me as I love thee send me fifty—see?" "Pa" wrote back: "The rose is red the pink is pink; I'll send you fifty—I don't think." And he did it.

"The time of year is at hand when brutes, horses, to hitching posts and leave them standing in the bleak winds or chilling storms for hours at a time, while the owner tosses his chains by some one else's stove, and listens to stale jests, or spends his time in some other equally frivolous manner.

Capt. Bailey, it will be remembered, fell into the hold of his vessel, the Ada Medora, at Naubinway last Autumn and was killed. Hugh Garnr recently received a letter from a friend of his—a lumber inspector—who recently loaded the above boat at a lumber peninsula port. He says that it has been almost impossible to keep a full crew on the boat since the accident, because the sailors see the shades of the departed captain pacing the deck every night. Only two of the original crew were with the boat at the close of the season.

"Hank" Field, editor of the Munieion Herald, never got off a true thing this, which we find in a recent issue of his bright daily. It is better to have the reputation of paying our honest debts than of being a sinner in society. All the glory of social life cannot compensate for the ignominy of getting through on false pretence. The wretchedness of a man or woman who for the sake of display, is hunted day and night by creditors, who almost fear to walk by the street or look at people in the theatre. There must be an end for him, and a bitter one. Character is worth more than clothes, and independence than the social system. It may not cut as great a swell and attract as much attention, but it will last longer and bring much richer reward in the end."

OUT INTO THE SALOONS.

A great manufacturing company in Massachusetts recently paid their workmen on Saturday evening 700 $10 bills, each bill being marked. By the following Tuesday 410 of these marked bills were deposited in the banks by the saloonkeeper of the town. Four thousand one hundred dollars had passed from the hands of workmen on Saturday night and Sunday, and left them nothing to show for this great sum of money but headaches and poverty in their homes—Exchange.

ATTEMPTED TO WRECK A TRAIN.
A bold attempt was made to wreck a Soo passenger train last Saturday night, near Faithorn Junction. Had it not been for the timely discovery by Clarence Harter, of Faithorn, a terrible catastrophe would have resulted.

Four telephone poles were placed across the rails and were found in that position, about a mile west of Faithorn, by young Harter, who was on his way home from the cedar camp of his father.

He secured assistance as soon as possible and the poles were removed from the track just in time to avoid the limited train going west to Minneapolis. The company's detectives are now at work trying to locate the authors of the diabolical plot. Serious loss of life would have resulted had not the attempt been frustrated.—Marquette Eagle.

PINGREE WAS HUNTER.
A Venezuelan dispatch says: In October Governor Pingree of Michigan came here to obtain an opinion on the Federal contract asphalt mine, near the mouth of the Orinoco. He left here, greatly pleased to have obtained it, as he thought. It is said that he immediately after his return home he formed a syndicate of friends, residing in Milwaukee, Detroit, and Chicago to buy and exploit the mine.

Governor Pingree does not speak Spanish and did not discover that the option sold to him to buy the mine for $80,000 was subject to the approval of the general meeting of the shareholders, who refused later to recognize the document signed by their president.

A party composed of Colonel Eli S. Sutton, secretary for Governor Pingree; Edward P. Hackett, a banker of Milwaukee, and two engineers came to Caracas with letters of credit and full power to close the detail immediately.

They were stumped when they were told that the shareholders of the asphalt mine demanded $150,000 for the property instead of the $80,000 stipulated in the option sold to Governor Pingree. Protests were of no avail.

THE BOARD OF POOR COMMISSIONERS.
DATED DEC. 14th, 1897.

THE SUPERVISORS' MEETING.

Orr, President Village of Manistique; A. McDougall, Genesee Township; Thos. McCann, Sovey Township; S. J. Doneshor, Thompson Township; George W. Gray, Inwood Township.

Countersigned, Ed Ashford, Clerk. Geo. W. Gray, Chairman.

APPROPRIATION SESSION.
Board met as per adjournment at 2 p. m. all of the members of the Board being present. Sheriff's report was read and placed on file. The following resolution offered by J. Sweet supported by A. McDougall, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Chairman of this Board appoint a committee of two for the purpose of ascertaining for the lighting of the county buildings with electricity. Said committee hereby directed with full power and authority to negotiate with electric power companies, and procure the necessary apparatus therefor. Provided however, that this committee be required to report only the amount of electricity actually used in lighting said county buildings, within such limits as shall be necessary, in addition to the necessary appliances.

The Chairman thereupon appointed Messrs. Orr and W. L. Middlebrook, as such committee. Upon motion the Chairman appointed Messrs. McDougall, McCann and Orr as committee to investigate the charges filed with the Board of the Board, against a part of the Board of Poor Commissioners of this county, with the intention to report on same tomorrow at 6 o'clock a. m.

Board thereupon adjourned until tomorrow Dec. 15th, at 9 o'clock a. m.

Countersigned, Ed Ashford, Clerk. Geo. W. Gray, Chairman.

WEISSBART, Dec. 15th, A. D. 1897.
Board called to order by Chairman at 2 o'clock a. m. Roll called and all members were present and answered to their names.

The journal yesterday's proceedings were read approved as read, and signed by the Chairman.

The following committee report was read and approved as read, and signed by the Chairman:

COMMITTEE REPORT.
Our Committee appointed to investigate and report in regard to certain charges now pending before this Board against the Board of Poor Commissioners of said county, respectfully report as follows:

The charges are four in number and hereby stated as follows:

First, Dr. H. H. Fletcher as County Physician a salary of $2500 a year other physicians had submitted bids to do the work of said number of said board.

Second, a specification under charge No. 2 alleging one such salary.

Third, habitual neglect of duty and arbitrary action in disposing public affairs.

Fourth, habitual neglect of duty and arbitrary action in disposing public affairs.

We and under first charge that Dr. H. H. Fletcher was employed by the Board at a salary of $2500 per year and that other physicians had submitted bids to do the work at a less figure than that of the person so paid was reasonable, not in any sense exorbitant amount by several hundred dollars than the Board had paid for same services during the past five or six years.

We further find that the rivalry existing between certain physicians was of such a nature that they offered their services so extremely low that prompt and proper attention to the work in hand could not be expected of them and in all probability would not have been given. This however would not apply to all the physicians named in the Board's report.

Second, the second and third may be considered together. Two bids were furnished by Mr. H. H. Fletcher to the Board, the first amounting directly by Dr. H. H. Fletcher, the then County Physician or his representative. One of these bids was furnished in the absence of Mr. H. H. Fletcher.

We are satisfied that no effort has been made by any member of the Board to profit by his position and that no voluntary or intentional act has been done or committed with a view to violate the statute in this particular. We are of the opinion that the charge is too technical to be sustained.

Fourth, We find the Fourth charge to be unsupported and untrue.

The only complaint which we find in this particular emanated from those, who thought capable of self support, have for years been a charge upon the county. During the past year a number of persons have been taken from the list and refused public support. We have found no worthy poor persons on the list.

In conclusion we may say that we have found the affairs of the Poor Board are being managed generally in an economical, impartial and satisfactory manner. Their expenses have not been found to be a figure materially less than the preceding years. Their work appears to have been done in a careful, painstaking and prudent manner. We find little in their record or otherwise, other than that in letting the contract for the County doctoring, the Board failed to agree on a Physician whose bids was other than the highest offered.

The bids of Doctors Patterson, Hardick and Haines ranged from $200 to $250. The amounts so bid were reasonable for the services to be performed and the Board would have been justified in making its choice in the former sum. We are informed that an honest effort was made to compromise their difference in opinion, and we find nothing in their conduct to warrant the belief that they acted from dishonest or dishonest motives.

We respectfully recommend that said charge be discontinued. A. McDougall, Chairman. Dated December 14th, 1897.

Board thereupon adjourned until 6 o'clock p. m. Countersigned, Ed Ashford, Clerk. Geo. W. Gray, Chairman.

APPROPRIATION SESSION.
Board met as per adjournment, at 2 o'clock p. m. Roll called and all the Supervisors were present and answered to their names.

APPOINTMENT.
A petition signed by 17 Freeholders of the Township of Harrison, and 12 Freeholders of the Township of Inwood, to detach from said township of Harrison all of township of Harrison, in the W½ of Twp. 42 N. R. 18 W. of the W½ of Twp. 42 N. R. 17 W. of the W½ of Twp. 42 N. R. 18 W. and to attach the same, to the said township of Inwood, was read and discussed, and on motion of A. McDougall supported by J. Sweet, the petition was granted by the following vote, viz: Ayes, Messrs. Gray, Middlebrook, Sweet, McCann, McDougall, Houschor and Orr, (7.) Nays, Messrs. Quirk and Craver, (2.)

A petition signed by 41 Freeholders of the Township of Harrison, outside the Village of Manistique, to detach from said township of Harrison, to attach to the Township of Harrison, was read, discussed, and on motion, an informal ballot was taken by ballot marked "Yes" in favor of granting the petition, and with ballots marked "No" in opposition to said petition. Result of said ballot was as follows: "Yes" 41 votes, "No" 2 votes. "Yes" and 2 votes were blank. A formal vote was then taken as follows: votes cast of which 41 were "Yes," 2 were "No" and 2 were "blank." The petition was thereupon declared to be refused by not receiving the majority of votes.

The following resolution offered by W. L. Middlebrook and supported by Thomas McCann, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That as the committee have brought in their report in the case of charges preferred against Messrs. Houschor and Houschor, and after an investigation, recommend that Board of Supervisors dismiss said charges.

The Journal of this day's proceedings were read, approved as read and signed by the Chairman. Geo. W. Gray, Chairman. Board thereupon adjourned without day. Countersigned, Ed Ashford, Clerk. Geo. W. Gray, Chairman.

"I have these mysteries any relation to, or any connection with, the sealed cellar?" Sontag finally said. "The woman said nothing about the strange events being located in any particular place, and I did not think to ask her," Sontag finally said. "It could be possible that the strange voice I had heard proceeded from the sealed cellar?" "Ah! I suppose the women are suspicious and think the place is haunted. Such ideas generally get abroad about old, long neglected houses. But you do not mind their talk? You are not afraid of ghosts, are you?" "The old fellow's eyes twinkled merrily. "Well I have never come across any at those shadowy beings. I could tell better after I met one. I hardly think talk alone could frighten me," he replied, somewhat shamelessly, remembering how nearly he had been unnerved the night before by his own reflection. "I will be over some time to-morrow and will see if anything can be done regarding the mysterious cellar." Sontag said, as if to leave. "And pardon me for referring to the unfortunate affair—have you heard any new developments in the robbery cases?" "What!" he exclaimed, "you know it too?" "Certainly. I lived near Philadelphia at the time and I read the papers," he replied, smilingly. "It seems I cannot escape hearing of that terrible affair," I said, bitterly.

"And I acted the part of a fool, too, in every effort to find the perpetrators in the line of the go; let others, who could not possibly have had the interest in the case that I had, undertake the investigation. I am an idiot, and I have heard nothing about it at all. I know what I knew more. Others have failed; I intend to see now what I can do."

"You intend going into the affair, then?" he said, dryly. "I do, with all the energy and resources I am possessed of." "Do you know how near you came to being arrested for the crime?" Sontag asked. "Why, yes. I know, of course, that would have happened could anything have been found against me." "Well, there was enough to hold you, on suspicion at least." "Then why did you not arrest me? I am sure I was willing. I carried a trial."

"But his objection was not strong enough to influence his own in your behalf," continued my agent. "The strongest power opposition to your arrest came from one whose influence outweighs even the president's."

"One of the trustees?" I asked, eagerly. "Yes." "You cannot mean—" "Sylvester Morley," interrupted the lawyer. "Mr. Morley?" I exclaimed, joyfully. "For I knew, that as Sylvester Morley's influence was, there was one who wielded a greater since the death of his father. Was it her sweet self that had come to my aid through her father? It would be happiness to know this; but that why had she passed me without a greeting?"

"My face must have told a whole story to the sheriff old lawyer. When I turned toward him again there was a very grave expression on his face, and a contemplative look about his sharp eyes as he regarded me. "I doubt he was highly elated by this," he said.

"Oh, I am. What young man would not feel highly honored in knowing that a man of Morley's standing had defended him?" I exclaimed. "The old fellow saw the blush which spread over my face, however, and he said: 'You are, I suppose, a man of your confidence, but it is plain there is some power behind Mr. Morley which led that gentleman to defend you. Now, believe me, Mr. Conway, I do not care for curiosity; there is a grave purpose in the question I am about to ask you.' He went on, as the smile died from his face and what seemed to be some real concern appeared instead. "The question is this: Are you an especial friend of Miss Morley's? Are you engaged to marry her?"

"No, not, had the suspicion of the robbery not fallen upon me, I probably would have asked her to be my wife long before now," I replied, rather wondering at myself for telling this to the old fellow on so short a acquaintance.

"She loves you, then?" "What I cannot say. I believe she did think very highly of me at one time; but I promised not to hold any communication with her until my innocence was known. It is a year since then. Whether her feeling for me has changed or not I do not know."

"You have kept your promise, then?" "Yes, certainly. I answered with some indignation at the implied doubt of me."

"Now about the investigation you desire. I am sure you will be satisfied with changing the subject rather abruptly. "What do you propose to do? How go about it?" "I suppose some smart detective," I replied. "I suppose that will be the only way. What else can I do?"

"Do you think the bank officials have done nothing? Do you think you could find any shrewd detectives that have undoubtedly been working on the case?" If the bank with all its tremendous resources has not succeeded in catching the robbers now, how can you expect to succeed when your limited means would make your search merely a superficial one?"

"I have been patient so long and now your trouble, a little more endurance will not hurt you," Sontag said, in answer to my despairing words. "You'll come out of it all right by this time. Now it may not look so to you, but to me it appears that you have done a great deal for yourself in the investigation, which I could not still in progress."

"How can that be? I have done nothing." "And that is exactly what I mean. That very course seems to me to be a great feature in the search, though you cannot see it in that light." Sontag smiled in a knowing way.

"In what respect has my supposition aided the case?" I asked, curiously. "By allowing the real perpetrators of the crime to feel secure in their position, knowing as they probably do that you are still the only suspected party. I was much impressed by the old fellow's words."

"You ought to have been a detective. I remarked, at which he turned his sharp glance toward me and answered: "Yes, I might have done something in that line. But I prefer a quiet life."

"You ought to have been a detective. I remarked, at which he turned his sharp glance toward me and answered: "Yes, I might have done something in that line. But I prefer a quiet life."

"I might expect his leaving at any time?" remarked the lawyer, with a significant look toward me. "I suppose that he would not have returned to his intention so frequently, had he not been so interested in Mr. Morley in a few business ventures. Well, he's lucky. You'll be over, then, to-morrow?" "Yes, Good-by."

CHAPTER VIII.

When I again passed the depot at Sultington on my way home, there was a lady on horseback talking to the agent.

"I needed no horseback to tell me it was Florence Morley. Her face was turned toward the fellow, and she did not see me. I drove along slowly, keeping my eyes upon her, and debating in my mind whether I should stop and address her or not."

"It was a strong temptation, and only fear held me back, a cowardly fear, too. I doubted how my overtures might be received. I had chosen my corner of my own accord and I would follow it, if it was contrary to her wish she would find a way to tell me."

"After passing the station I allowed my horse to continue at a walk, so that I might see her again."

"And what did you answer?"

Florence tried to catch up with me if she intended to ride her horse from Sultington. I knew, however, that she would not do so, and I really was impatient for that word."

"Soon the sound of approaching hoofs beating the hard road reached my ears. It came and near, and finally I caught a glimpse, out of the corner of my eye, of a swaying petticoat."

"She pulled in her horse to a walk, and I turned my head and glanced at her. My heart was in my throat when I looked, but the smile that greeted me dispelled my fears like mist before the morning sun."

"That smile was not all that told me of her emotion at again meeting me. The deep brown eyes were suffused with tears. With my own heart leaping for joy, I reined my horse to a standstill. In an instant I was at her side."

"She extended her hand to me, and I took her horse's bridle over her arm, and with the disengaged hand, helped her climb into the buggy."

"The horse to the back axle, then came here beside me," were the first words she said. I lost no time in obeying."

"Imagine, if you please, the overwhelming joy to be seated once more beside her who held my whole heart in her keeping."

"I could not trust myself to speak, and it was she who began."

"Are you not pleased to see me once more, Conway? Because if you are not, I certainly will not tell you how happy I am in again meeting an old friend."

"The soft, sweet tones of her voice, which I loved so to hear, had now a tremble to them. I glanced at her, and—well, Florence was still my true love, who she had been throughout, notwithstanding my doubt and fear."

"The past year has been an eternity to me," I finally said. "And who is to blame for that, I wonder? And, too, when was the mystery cleared up, since you are now speaking to me?" she said, with a joyous laugh, which told me as plainly as words could how she had missed me."

"It is not cleared up; sometimes I think it never will be. I could not have found facts with you had you forgotten me. Will you forgive me when I confess I was fearful you had?"

"No, I do not think I can quite forgive that. What reason had you for mistaking me?" she earnestly asked. "You passed me this morning, you know, without knowing."

"It was so startling, and I had gone by before I realized that it was you who were standing there. That was a slight cause for mistaking me."

"I have been a fool right through the whole affair. I see it now. I had no right to make such a promise."

"Well, I do not think you were a fool. But, forgive me, that promise was a foolish one, and—just a trifle unkind." The tears again started in her eyes, and her voice took on the tremble which went so appealingly to my heart.

"I hope," I said, "I have been told he strongly objected to my arrest. And I know whose influence caused him to do so—your influence." "Never mind," Florence earnestly replied. "Father believed you were innocent, and took the stand he did for you. I did not know of the robbery until after the first meeting of the trustees. It was at that meeting that he opposed your arrest. I wish, however, that I had been afterwards, for most of the trustees insisted upon your immediate arrest, and it was only after father said that he would have no part in it that they gave up the point."

"Now that is pleasant to hear," I cried, joyfully. "What reason have you to be so angry with me?" "I am not angry," she said, and answered that it must have been a hallucination produced by constantly keeping my thoughts upon her."

"This morning, after we had passed you, I said: 'That looked like Nelson Conway.' Father laughed at me, and answered that it must have been a hallucination produced by constantly keeping my thoughts upon her."

"I am not angry," she said, and answered that it must have been a hallucination produced by constantly keeping my thoughts upon her."

CHRISTMAS-TIDE

Christmastide, with its good cheer and exchange of gifts, is again upon us. The origin of Christmas, or rather the time when it was first celebrated, is shrouded in mystery. Some writers claim that it is of heathen origin, and many good people object to its celebration on that account, and make light of Santa Claus, that personage so dear to the hearts of the youthful.

No matter how obscure its origin, the fact remains that for centuries Christendom has made much of the day. As is known by all our readers, the day celebrates the advent of the Saviour into this world. The date upon which the Saviour of mankind was born has never been authenticated by history. Some historians place the date in January. The exact date cuts but little figure anyway. Why it is celebrated, and the spirit that prompts us to celebrate it, are more important factors than its origin.

The Christian world believes that God sent his only begotten Son into this world that through Him sin-cursed souls might find pardon. No one can conceive of a greater gift. No doubt but that the idea of gift giving as it is now practised by the world upon the anniversary of the birth of Christ, derives its origin from this source.

The day is essentially a day of joy. The receiving of a slight token from friends and loved ones is an ever to be remembered event. There is also so much joy and satisfaction in giving that the finer sensibilities of one's nature are thrilled by the expressions of happiness of the recipient. Was the same spirit manifested throughout the year, what a different world this would be. The slight token, and the kind word should not be reserved for one day in the year, but should be a feature of our every day existence.

Christmas day is more generally observed as a holiday throughout the world than any other day. On that day the business man, whose face bears the scars of the battle of life, forgets that he has responsibilities and cares. He enters into the zest of the event with all his spirit and the taper illumined tree and the riotous joy of the children, as they receive some coveted toy at the hands of Santa Claus, fill him with the fire of youth and reminds him of the by gone days when he believed in Santa Claus as a verity.

Some people run riot in the matter of gift giving. They exceed their ability. This is one of the pernicious evils attendant upon the celebration of the day, that means so much to Christendom. The spirit that prompts the gift, not the gift, is most valued.

Although Santa Claus is pictured as a jolly good fellow, yet he is partial. The children of wealthy or well-to-do parents appear to fare better at his hands. The children of the poor are not unlike the children in better circumstances, in their desires. If you know of some poor family which you think is not on Santa Claus' route, delegate yourself his assistant and see to it that the coveted toy, book or sack of candy is forthcoming. If you do this, Christmas day will mean more to you this year than it ever has before.

Attend the services to be held this and tomorrow evening, participate in the singing of the Christmas carols, make some soul happy with gift or word, and you will be the better for so doing.

JUSTICE IS BLIND

Two young boys, the sons of influential men, robbed the vaults of the Agricultural college last spring of $1,600. They were recently tried, and although their guilt was clearly established by their confessions, etc., yet they were allowed their freedom on suspended sentence. The Goddess of Justice must be blind indeed when such decisions are possible. Wealth and influence should not thwart the tenor of justice. Scores of times famishing men have been sent to prison for a term of years because they, impelled by the instinct of self-preservation, robbed a bakery of a loaf of bread. Half crazed by the pleadings of wife and children made game by the inexorable fate that distributes wealth and poverty in such unequal ratios, the husband and father may be tempted to steal that which may prolong the lives of loved ones. It seems cruel to place him in a felon's cell for this, and allow those dear to him to fight life's battle alone.

There should be no distinction made between the thief that steals a loaf of bread and the one that steals $1,000. All men are, or should be, equal before the law. Justice trails its crime in the mire when it allows influence or wealth to bias its decisions. Such partial exhibitions widen the breach between the masses and the classes, and we are sorry that Michigan has placed itself on record as harboring a blind goddess of justice bearing aloft scales that need the attention of a scale inspector.

ANENT THE O'DONNELL BOOM

The O'Donnell gubernatorial boom is ill-timed. We are frank in admitting that Mr. O'Donnell is the peer of any candidate or prospective candidate for the nomination at the hands of the party, but there is great danger that the boom started so early in the season may fizzle out before the time for holding the convention. It would indeed give us great pleasure to support O'Donnell for the governorship. He is not a "grand stand" politician; he is not consumed with a burning desire to keep himself constantly before the people. He has been a candidate for the nomination before, yet when the members of his party in convention assembled, decided upon some other candidate he did not sulk in the ranks, but at once entered into the fray fully equipped to make deep inroads upon the enemy. Defeat never soured him, and should he receive the nomination he would sweep the state.

The early opening of his campaign may hopelessly complicate matters. A "still hunt" would have been more effective.

The party however, could not make a better choice. He is a statesman, a patriot, an uncompromising Republican, an orator and a gentleman.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to our many patrons.

Washington Hering, ex-postmaster of Chicago, died suddenly of heart failure last Saturday evening.

Mr. Dunstan says that he does not think that he will be a candidate for renomination as lieutenant governor.

An Ann Arbor attorney became so elated at winning a case in a justice court recently that he became insane.

The fifth annual meeting of the association of judges of Michigan, will be held at Lansing, commencing Dec. 28th.

A St. Louis paper accounts for a change in sentiment against Hawaii by saying that "the sugar trust has raised $1,000,000 to defray annexation."

"Pit" has agreed to meet "Pompadour Jim" in the roped arena again. Why not arm the pugs with Winchester and turn them loose in the upper peninsula next hunting season.

D. H. Ball, a leading Marquette attorney, who has been mentioned as a probable successor to Judge Grant as Justice of the Supreme Court, has published an open letter denying the statement that he is a candidate.

The sum of $100,000 will be expended by the Detroit & Cleve and Steamship Co., in improving its fleet of boats this winter. There is not a more popular line than the one on the chain of lakes that the floating palaces of this company. The past season was the most prosperous in the history of the company.

Grand Marais has a "Jack the Kisser," and those most interested are correspondingly happy.

We have been informed that Dennis Hoffman has assumed the managing editorship of the Courier.

Mark Hanna was sick last week and wheat dropped 7 1/2 cents a bushel. The Populistic idea that Hanna has something to do with manipulating the price of wheat is evidently well grounded.

The Mancelona Herald started the gubernatorial ball rolling for O'Donnell last week. The Republican party could not make a better choice at the coming State convention than to nominate James O'Donnell for the highest position within the gift of the people to grant.

The political situation in Norway and Sweden is critical since the failure of the united committee on foreign affairs. A Christiana dispatch says that it is feared that Sweden will see an occasion for armed intervention in Norway. The Swedish press hopes for assistance from Emperor William.

Weyler, the Spanish cut-throat says that his principal mission in the future will be to defend the army in Cuba against the insults contained in President McKinley's message. Hope Weyler will find it convenient to come to the United States in the fulfillment of his "mission." He wouldn't last as long as a snow ball in the proverbial and orthodox hell.

Governor Bushnell of Ohio, is made of the right kind of stuff. He has decided not to sanction the holding of an inaugural ball in his honor, and recommends that the money that would have been spent in that manner be distributed among the worthy poor. The butterflies of fashion do not take kindly to the governor's idea, but nevertheless there will be no inaugural ball.

According to a statement made by Congressman Sheldon of the Twelfth Michigan district, there is not a single person from his district in any of the federal departments in Washington, and what is more; he said that his district needed their bright men at home developing their region rather than sending them to Washington to starve their lives away in a clerical capacity.

In his last will and testament George Washington bequeathed $25,000 toward the endowment of a national university under the auspices of the general government, but in some manner or other that has not been satisfactorily explained the money has disappeared. If it had been invested at ordinary rates of interest and compounded the bequest would at this time amount to over $4,000,000.

General Lew Wallace is a true prophet when he says: "If we do not want Hawaii now we will regret it for fifteen years hence." It is a necessity for the United States if she ever builds the great Nicaragua canal or enlarges her commerce. If she simply desires to settle down and do business under other people's flags it may be best to let Hawaii go to England or Japan would like to have it.

One of the curious things of the time is the excessive complaint of the Democratic organs about the monthly Treasury deficits under the three-months-old Dingley Tariff law. They stood without a whimper a succession of deficits under the Wilson-Gorman law that added $602,000,000 to the public debt, a series of shortages that lasted three years, with a dry eye cheerfulness that one who notes their fearful pleadings now would scarcely think them capable of under Treasury deficits; but the facts demonstrate that it isn't the law under which it is about, but the law under which it occurs.—Salt Lake "Tribune."

RELIABLE BAROMETER

Bank clearings are an absolutely reliable barometer of general business conditions. That a steady and permanent in-bank clearings from week to week means a positive commercial and industrial revival is as certain as the law of gravitation. That a commercial and industrial revival means more employment for the wage earners, and hence increased purchasing power for the laboring classes, is equally certain.

The bank clearings of Chicago for the month of November tell a tale of good times that must completely confound the most resourceful and tactful of the calamity waiters. There is no argument that can be advanced by the apostles of discontent that will prevail against figures which show actual business transactions.

The bank clearings of Chicago for November reached the enormous aggregate of $488,000,000 which is a gain of $100,700,000 over the corresponding month of last year. This remarkable gain is the highest on record since the good times of 1893.

The figures of the politicians sometimes lie; bank figures do not.—Chicago "Times-Herald."

Every community has its curbstone politicians. They stand on the street corners and talk politics from morning until night. They neglect their business—if they ever had any—and spend their time in unprofitable gabbling. If they only hurt themselves the evil would be bad enough but they seek and inveigle every passer-by into discussion.

The curbstone politician is generally an office-seeker. He is in politics for revenge only. He cannot understand that there is principle involved in politics and that some people may engage in practical work for patriotic motives. "What is he after?" is the first and last inquiry of the curbstone politician when a citizen takes part in a political meeting. The curbstone politician is always anxious to "do somebody up." He has continually a knife up his sleeve. He never allows any difference of opinion. If you do not think as he does politically you must be slaughtered. The curbstone politician thinks that he is a great political figure. He is—in his own estimation.
