KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Andrew Johnson Terrio, Manager of a West Bound Freight Train Yesterday Noon.

Mr. Andrew Johnson, aged eighty years, was instantly killed by an east bound freight train on the Soo Line, yesterday noon. The accident occurred about ten rods west of the road crossing between this city and South Manistique.

The engineer saw him walking on the track some distance ahead of the train. He was walking toward the rapidly moving train and did not heed the warning signals of the engine. When the engineer became aware of the fact that the man was unable to get out of the way, he was unable to stop the train. Johnson was thrown about two hundred feet by the force of the impact. His head was horribly crushed and his limbs broken in numerous places. He lay nearly every bone of his body was broken.

Corner Sattler was notified of the accident, went to the scene of the accident. The identity of the man was not revealed until after the body was placed in Anderson & Co.'s morgue. Johannes Anderson, of the firm of Anderson & Norval, was at once notified of the death of his father and from him it was learned that the deceased was a man of good character and gentlemanly who by the way, was eighty years of age and very childish, had left his home shortly before dinner time. Knowing his condition, Mr. Anderson began a search for him and was on the mission when notified of the accident.

Mr. Johnson was born at Grinsted, Sweden, eighty years ago, and has been a resident of Manistique about thirty years. His mind had been full rapidly of late and hence the solicitude of his son when informed that he had left home. Deceased leaves two daughters and two sons to mourn his departure. The children are Mrs. Chas. Thorndell and Mr. Johannes Anderson of this city, and Mathilda Anderson and Carl Anderson of Seattle, Wash. An inquest is deemed advisable and Coroner Sattler will enquire tomorrow. The time will be fixed when it is ascertained at which hour the trainmen wanted as witnesses, will pass through the city.

ACCUSED OF INCENDIARISM.

James Wilson on the Block, Charged With a Serious Crime.

Early on the morning after the fire that destroyed a portion of the Flat front block, a stranger, James Wilson, was arrested on the charge of setting fire to the buildings in question. Wilson's hearing began Wednesday morning and yesterday afternoon. The hearing was adjourned to next Monday morning at the request of Wilson's attorney, Mr. C. W. Danton.

Although the prisoner has told several conflicting stories and some very good circumstantial evidence has been submitted, the outcome of the case is in doubt. He may be bound over to the circuit court.

Officer Hayden's suspicions were aroused several days before the fire and he kept close tabs on the fellow. On the night of the fire he saw Wilson in the vicinity of the block that was destroyed. He notified Sheriff Ekstrom of his suspicions early in the evening of the fire. Hayden also testified that the fire started in a closet at the rear of Boucher's barn.

Leon Laporte testified that defendant was in Richards saloon several times on Tuesday—the day of the fire, and at his request, was shown the fire in question. He was also in Richards saloon Tuesday night at 10 o'clock and left it through a side door leading into Boucher's barn. He went through the barn to the closet and did not return. Shortly thereafter the fire was discovered. Mrs. Sven Johnson, who resides near the engine house, heard the first tap of the bell and quickly left the house to ascertain where the fire was located. She met defendant on the crossing at the corner of Main and Cedar streets. He was walking from the scene of the fire and was looking toward the street and toward the engine house, and she saw him over his shoulder at the flames. He crossed the street and went down Cedar street toward the furnace. Officer Durno testified that Wilson met him near the bridge at about 10 o'clock. He asked the officer to assist him in getting a drink of liquor as he was thoroughly chilled from watching the fire. He also gave the officer a cigar. Since his arrest he stated that he was in bed at the Hiwassee Hotel when the fire alarm was sounded. There is a condensed resume of the testimony as presented thus far.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.

President of the Island Falls Mining Co., Visited Local Stockholders.

John H. Hill of West Superior, was in the city last Sunday and Monday. Mr. Hill is president of the Island Falls Mining Co. and is a heavy stockholder in the Alice and several other Seine River Mining Companies. He is a man of large experience in the mining world, having been born in California when he spent much of his childhood there. He has lived in Colorado, Nevada and New Mexico, and has been engaged in mining business all of his life. In 1880 he graduated from the law department of the State University at Ann Arbor. Thus by experience and education he is well fitted to take hold of, and manage a mining company.

Mr. Hill has become very much interested in the Seine River mining district of Canada. He has personally explored it all, and is familiar with all the mines now in operation and with all the claims on which operations are on a narrow scale. On Monday night Mr. Hill met the stockholders of the Island Falls Mining Company and explained to them the holdings of the Company and the plan that it was being done. He explained that it was not a matter of guess work about the mining possibilities of that country, for it had all been surveyed by the Canadian government and that the mining reports in the department of Crown Lands, would show just what he claimed for it. He did not contend that one Company had all the best properties but showed very plainly that many claims would yet be opened up in the department of Crown Lands, would show just what he claimed for it. He did not contend that one Company had all the best properties but showed very plainly that many claims would yet be opened up in the department of Crown Lands, would show just what he claimed for it.

The character of the mine in this country from the western claims, are the width of the gold bearing fissures and the way in which they extend across the country. The fissures in the Island Falls district extend through a large amount of territory and the general directions of the veins are northeast and southwest. In the West, a vein four feet wide is counted as a large find, but many of the veins in this district are from twelve to twenty feet in width. This was very welcome news to many people of Manistique and vicinity where about 30,000 shares of the stock of this company are held.

Personally, Mr. Hill is a very affable gentleman and the fairness with which he treated all the claims of the Seine River District, impressed those who met him with the great possibilities of that country.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH GUARANTEED.

A VERY STRATEGIC STATEMENT.

The Manistique Bank has Deposits aggregating a Quarter of a Million.

A perusal of the statement of the Manistique Bank which is published in this issue, shows that the deposits of the bank have reached a high figure in the history of the bank—aggregating nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Not alone do these figures speak well for the conservative and safe management of the bank, but prove that Manistique has been visited with a portion of that prosperity which is distinguishing the close of the nineteenth century.

Assent the Institute.

The farmers institute convenes at the court house next Wednesday and Thursday. An excellent program has been prepared and the farmer who has not attended the sessions will be the loser. The citizens of Manistique should also take an interest in the institute. We are pleased in that the Manistique committee has given local program committees a place on the program. It will be noticed in the program appearing elsewhere, Revs. Branch and Casler, and Drs. Sattler and Burdick will deliver addresses. The institute is held last year and an organization effected. The annual dues of the society are fifteen cents. Membership entitles one to a copy of all the bulletins issued under the direction of the state board of agriculture. Every farmer and business man should be enrolled.

FRANK PETERSON & CO.

EDITORIAL COMMENT. President McKinley has decided to give Gen. Wood supreme charge of Cuba as its governor. A very judicious appointment.

As Governor John T. Kohl is being mentioned in connection with the chairmanship of the Republican state central committee.

President McKinley's annual message to congress was a notable state paper and should be read by all. It is our aim to publish some next week.

A poll of the German-American Republicans of Wisconsin was recently taken to ascertain the consensus of opinion of the class above referred to on the administration's Philippine policy. Practically every one was in favor of the policy.

Republicans from all portions of the county are expressing themselves as being in favor of Mr. V. I. Hixson for the prosecuting attorney. Should he accept the nomination at the hands of a Republican county convention he would be elected by a very large majority.

Aguinado has "sided" on Bryan formerly as seen by the following excerpt from one of his recent proclamations: "Bryan, American by blood, by ideas an illustrious son of the Philippines. Bryan is the clasp that links and unifies two friendly peoples, torn by the same dissensions and deserving of the applause and admiration of the world."

The prosperous workmen of country evidently remembered on the last election day the failure of an experiment in change of administration made in 1897, and this accounts for the unexpectedly large Republican vote in the great manufacturing sections where Protection has brought prosperity to every line of industrial enterprise.—Lakewood (N. J.) "Times and Journal."

Billy Mason has come to the conclusion that if he can't swing McKinley the best thing he can do is to let McKinley swing him. He announces, therefore, that his chief difference with the President was that he wanted him to declare his policy. He further announces that if McKinley is nominated next year, and he has no doubt that he will be, he will support him to the best of his ability. With Aguinado a fugitive, and Billy Mason back in line the President will enjoy smooth sailing.—Evening Wisconsin.

Eighty per cent of the native Cubans are illiterate. This fact should be borne in mind when some buncombe orator arises and tells the American people that the Cubans are able to handle their own affairs better than we can handle them, and that the sooner we give the island self-government the better. There should be a vigorous campaign of public schooling in Cuba under the direction of the United States government. It will take time to fit the natives for the duties of local self-government. It may require something else beside time. But we owe it to the Cubans and to ourselves that the island shall not become a Hayti.—Inter Ocean.

RYAN DODGES THE TARIFF. For some unexplained reason Mr. Bryan has not been discussing the Tariff issue during his last electioneering tour. This silence is not taken in good part by some Democratic organs. The "World," for example, takes him to task for his remissness and tries to assure him that "the abandonment of this cardinal Democratic doctrine, fidelity to which has given to the party the only national success it has won since the war, is unfortunate as a matter of principle and must weaken the party throughout the country." But the reason why Mr. Bryan stopped talking tariff is because he knows prosperity when he runs up against it, and that he has encountered it wherever he has gone so to plain argument. He is evidently convinced that Free-Trade advocates at this time will make no Democratic votes. Free-Trade has been weighed in the balance during the past twelve months as it never before, and the result is before the eyes of every man who is not wholly blind.—Chester (Pa.) Times.

WHAT WILL BRYAN DO?

The Republican policy will be a continuation of prosperity, sound money and the restoration of the islands which American soldiers and sailors have won at the point of the bayonet. What Mr. Bryan is going to do for an issue we confess that we do not know. Deprived of Free-Trade and free silver and of expansion, there is little left for him to discuss. There remains, of course, the trust question, but who is going to trust Bryan when it comes to the settlement of that matter? It makes no difference to the working man whether he is paid by an individual or by a corporation, so long as he is paid what he thinks is right.

Mr. Bryan in discussing trusts has taken the ground that all trusts are alike, that there is no good trust—that all are bad. What we try to gain him down to his definition of a trust we find that he is hitting at what he undertakes to destroy all combinations, all corporations, he frightens the conservative business men, and he makes no recruits from the workmen who are paid their price. The trouble is to draw the line between a legitimate business enterprise and the criminal combination. The Republican party believes just as firmly in squelching illegal combinations as Mr. Bryan possibly can do, and when it comes to the regulation of trusts we believe that the people of the United States prefer to have that problem solved by the Republican party rather than by hysterical politicians of the Bryan and Algeid stripe. So we ask again, what is Mr. Bryan to do? He is an opportunist ready to raise any question that he could think of, and he has been beaten in the elections. He can bring up nothing new. The issue of next year must be the magnificent business enterprise and thorough Americanism of the McKinley administration as against Bryanism, whatever Bryanism may mean, and it would make very little difference what it means. In a general way it is simply opposition to the policies of the Republican party, and that will be sufficient to doom it to defeat.—Philadelphia "Inquirer."

A FINANCIAL CONTRAST.

Under Cleveland and Free-Trade we had peace and no extraordinary expenses of any kind, and the Government was obliged to issue bonds in order to keep good the national credit and to get gold for our depleted and well-nigh empty Treasury. Under McKinley and Protection we are conducting a costly war, yet, to relieve stringency in the money market, the Secretary of the Treasury has offered to take from an overflowing Treasury $25,000,000, and put it into general circulation by buying bonds to that amount. The contrasting circumstances outline in vivid colors the difference there is, in respect to the condition of our national finances, between Free-Trade and Protection.

PROTECTION AND CURRENCY.

The great blunder made by Cleveland and the Democratic party in 1893 was in trying to maintain the gold standard while throwing wide open the trade doors of the American Union to foreigners. The consequences asserted themselves almost instantaneously. As the foreign goods poured into the country gold flowed out, and in a short time we were suffering all the ills which manifested themselves whenever apprehension concerning the sufficiency of the supply of basic money exists.

THE NEW SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE.

Col. David Bremner Henderson, the new speaker of the House of Representatives, was elected by the votes of the Republican members of the House in accord with the general sentiment of the country. Col. Henderson is a broad-minded and clear-headed man and without a sagacious politician. He will make an excellent speaker and will be more popular than ex-Speaker Reed because he is more conciliatory in his manners. Like a wise man, he likes to carry his point without riding roughshod over those who oppose him. His elevation to the distinguished position of speaker of the House of Representatives is due not only to his long service in Congress and his personal merits as a patriotic soldier in the War of the Rebellion, but also to the fact that he hails from one of the staunchest, most intelligent and reliable Republican states in the Union. Iowa gave 60,000 Republican majority at the last election—nearly as large as that of Massachusetts.

Col. Henderson is right on the currency, right on the tariff and right on the Philippine question and therefore his election will be considered an unqualified endorsement of the national administration of President McKinley.—Evening Wisconsin.

THE MESSAGE (Editorial).

In his annual message to Congress President McKinley speaks with unusual clearness. Naturally the people will turn first to his recommendation for the government of our island possessions.

REGARDS PORTO RICO.

As regards Porto Rico, Mr. McKinley dissents from the conclusions of the insular commission and repudiates the constitutional hair-splitting of Secretary Root. He evidently looks upon Porto Rico as a part of the United States, for he recommends for the island the same government that he recommends for Alaska, and advises the abolition of all tariff duties between the island and the United States. In other words, he insists that Porto Rico shall be treated as was Louisiana in 1805, and as Alaska should be treated in 1899. It does not assume that Porto Rico will become a regular organized territory or a state, but declares that the island is entitled to that experimental form of government given by Congress to Louisiana territory when it was ceded to this country in 1803. As an indication of a policy, the President's treatment of the Porto Rico question is much more satisfactory than Secretary Root's discussion of the same subject.

AS REGARDS CUBA.

As regards Cuba, the president declares that the pledges contained in the joint resolution of April 19, 1898, must be observed. He adds: "The new Cuba yet to arise from the ashes of the past must needs be bound to us by ties of singular intimacy and strength if its enduring welfare is to be assured. Whether those ties shall be organic or conventional, the destinies of Cuba are in some rightful form and manner irrevocably linked with our own. But how and how far is for the future to determine in the ripeness of events. Whatever be the outcome, we must see to it that free Cuba be a reality, not a name; a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment bearing with itself the elements of failure." This indicates no hasty action on merely sentimental grounds. The President believes "our mission is not to be fulfilled by turning adrift any loosely framed commonwealth to face vicissitudes which too often attend weaker states." In general, these words mean that Cuba shall not be given over to a future like San Domingo's. Beyond this assurance they offer nothing definite or conclusive regarding this government's policy.

THE MESSAGE (Editorial).

While declaring that the future government of the Philippines rests with Congress, the President does not hesitate to say that the "islands now under the shelter of our flag are ours by every title of law and equity, and they cannot be abandoned." The proposition that we renounce our authority over the islands and give them independence under a protectorate, the President declares, is not worthy of serious attention. "It would involve a cruel breach of faith, and would place the peaceable and loyal majority at the mercy of the minority of armed insurgents." The President does not deem it desirable to recommend at this time a specific and final form of government for the Philippines, but declares that until Congress shall have made known the formal expression of his will he will use the authority vested in him by the constitution and statutes to uphold the sovereignty of the United States in the Philippines and all other places where our flag rightfully belongs.

The President repeats his recommendations as to currency reform, emphasizes his wishes and hopes for an American merchant marine, a Nicaragua canal, and a Pacific cable, and enlarges upon the necessity for prompt action in recognizing the government of Hawaii. In commenting on the peace conference at The Hague, he places special emphasis upon that clause regarding the historical position of the United States on purely American questions.

A SURE CURE FOR CHOLERA.

Twenty-five Years' Constant Use Without a Failure.

The first indication of cholera is hoarseness, and is a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mother. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. For sale by A. S. Putnam & Co. Druggists.

"Another matter claims your attention, Margaret. I have to report to you the plans of Burnside's defense in this camp. It was tried for a day to draw him out of his position and condemn him to death..."

"I am not a man to be trifled with," said Gen. Heath. "I will not be trifled with. I will not be trifled with. I will not be trifled with..."

"What was he doing here?" "It was the real spy, waiting to get the plan of Burnside's intentions to Gen. Bragg..."

"How so?" "The officer who made the plans found on me in the night and was summoned as a witness..."

EYEGLASSES AND WHY.

The Increase in the Number. When not an evidence of deterioration of the eyes.

The question is often asked, particularly by those who can read the numbers and experiences of 25 years ago: "Why do so many persons nowadays wear glasses?"

"The increase in the number of spectacles worn is not to be regarded as an evidence of modern degeneration of the eyes, but rather that a long-forgotten law has been met."

It is a well-known fact that the eye is a muscle, and like all other muscles it grows weaker with use. The eye-muscles are weakened by the use of spectacles.

Hints to the Farmer

If He Will Only Read His Family Almanac He Can't Go Very Far Wrong.

By M. QUAD.

Pondering a kicking cow with a feverish look will not break her of the habit. She does not kick because she is naturally vicious, but because things have not been fully explained to her, and she feels that she is detaching herself from personal attack. Every cow has a moral and legal right to know what a farmer means when she sits down alongside of her with a milk-pail and yells out: "Ho, now, but you best over that" and keep minding darned quick or "I'll knock your blamed old horns off with a cross-hatch."

Many farmers waste precious hours in searching the backs of their pen-and-pigs with corn-cobs under the idea that it helps to fatten. It has no more effect on a pig than scratching the head of a boy. There is no doubt that the pig enjoys it, and a scratcher long enough he will fall asleep, but it is only a superficial sensation, and the tendency is to breed sluggish pigs which cannot be fattened. Through a few old cobs of wood into the pen and let your pig scratch their own backs. Farmers' walls are not often suggested, and a case of typhoid fever and a large doctor bill are the consequences. Once in ten years, if at least every pig ought to be pumped out and the manure removed. It is surprising how many old boots, tin kettles, tin wash-dishes, spring chisels, trowels, boxes and broken jugs find their way into the family well, and what a task it is to clean them out of the water after a few years.

A farmer living on the line of a railroad can very easily and cheaply get a newly-bought cow out to look for pasture between the deadly rails. Let him keep her in the field some morning, and while his wife places the dinner-horn and his son exclaims "brother-in-law," she should take the cow with a whistle and her heels as often as possible. A cow is a slow thinker, but it won't take her over two hours to arrive at the conclusion that it won't be safe for her to monkey with a freight train of 25 cars loaded with Portland cement. In case

WRECKING A COWBOY.

How a Tenderfoot from the East Took a "Hair" Out of a Westerner in Arizona.

"There is at least one cowboy in Arizona whose head is three sizes smaller than it was a month ago," said the Chicago drummer as he crushed the tenderfoot's head with his fist. "Tommy, I fell in with a young man from New Haven who was moving over the country in search of a good farm. He was making money where he found it or not. One afternoon he stood with his back to the street and I saw the tenderfoot's head. He had a silk hat, and presently a cowboy emerged from a store on the opposite side of the street. He had a gun in his hand, and he was looking at the tenderfoot's head. He was shooting. In ten seconds the gun was reloaded and there was another shot. The tenderfoot looked at the cowboy and shouting and laughing but the tenderfoot kept his back to the street until the twelfth shot had been

of a yearling calf he may have to be thrown over the fence and back a few times, but he will sooner or later reach the same conclusion.

The farmer cannot too fully understand that all the live stock on his farm with which he is brought in daily contact will partake more or less of his personal moods. If he kicks open the barn-door in the morning and the dog barks at the same time, it is his fault for he has done the dog more or less of his own fault to let her know that he is boss of that ranch, even the hens will be nervous and out of sorts at the sight of him. "Every blessed one of them," replied the drummer, "but no one like it except the tenderfoot, and he destroyed all evidence by his own shooting. The crowd took it that the cowboy had missed and raised a high in him, and when he straddled his horse and looked down the street, he looked as homesick as a dog a hundred miles from home."

Not Intoxic.
Hedrick—Are you familiar with the Godjuns, who live next to you on Olive a blow from a club. It is so with the fowls. The farmer who puts on a benevolent, fatherly expression and scatters the grain will find every hen doing her best that day to lay an egg to prove her gratitude and confidence, while the one who scowls and frowns and tries to knock some hen's head off with a clothes-prop will find herself feared and detested.

The average farmer has no instants for the beautiful and artistic, or if he has he feels that they are too expensive to be indulged in. This is a common mistake on his part, and arises from the fact that he has not potbed himself. The paddock from which he gets his presents to view nothing but fences, weeds and unlighted ditches. For the sum of $1,000 this thing of beauty with English bay and American rose bushes interspersed. Let the try also climb up and over the barn and sheds and scatter the grain thus add picturesque to the scenery. A hundred rose bushes scattered about a barnyard will do more for the eye of a traveler at once, and who can say what would be the effect on the live-stock moving about.

If there is a creek on the farm a couple of thousand dollars will build an artificial lake, and a thousand more will stock it with good fish. When evening comes, and the cows have been milked and the hogs fed, the farmer and his wife can sit on the gentle bosom of their own inland sea and pull vray ood from his water lily. At some point a moss-green water lily should be erected, and the cost is only a few hundred dollars, and the delight of travelers coming upon such a thing unexpecting will be most abundant. If there is not enough water in the creek to turn the wheel of a four-horse power engine, and a few acres of grove of sunflowers. This will even enhance the general effect.

No farm is complete without a garden and a well. The garden should be taken out and these articles will soon be along with the mowers and rippers

CHES FOR MACHINERY.

Do Not Build in Odd Hours and Out of Materials Oftenly Venerated Without Value.

It is a fact which cannot be denied that farm implements will last much longer if they are properly cared for. They are protected from wet weather and the scalding sun as much as possible. The machinery will not only last much longer, but as a rule, will do better work and will require less repairing at busy times, for if a machine is allowed to stand out in all kinds of weather, it is more or less warping, shrinking and getting out of shape, causing bolts to work as properly as it would be done if the machine was kept in good order. All implements on the farm, from the hoe and eye knife to the harrow or loader, may be housed and kept in the shed. Most eastern farmers in the winter months have their implements in the shed, and in the summer months they are taken out and used. In the winter months they are taken out and used. In the winter months they are taken out and used.

How we illustrate the cowboys. As will be seen, it is more of a hen than a rooster. The illustration of the cowboys is more of a hen than a rooster. The illustration of the cowboys is more of a hen than a rooster.

THE FARMER UP TO DATE.

One Who Was Strictly Up with the Times in Everything.

"Well, here's cross," said the young man in the plaid suit, as he dropped his hat and looked at the farmer with the gray chin whiskers and pepper-and-salt hair.

"I hear there ain't much demand for electricity," said the young man, not so happily as he had asked his last question.

"Electricity," answered the farmer, "is pretty steadily" continued the elderly individual, "and I don't know what you mean by that." The young man looked at him and smiled.

"And gasoline grass-stomper every day," said the young man, "but I don't know what you mean by that." The young man looked at him and smiled.

"Other kinds of fodder have come in," said the young man, "but I don't know what you mean by that." The young man looked at him and smiled.

"You can never tell," continued the elderly individual.

The young man paled perceptibly. He had to be honest, and he was not. "I don't know what you mean by that," said the young man, "but I don't know what you mean by that." The young man looked at him and smiled.
