IN UPPER MICHIGAN

A Struggle Royal between the Pennsylvania and Gould Interests.

EACH INVADES SAME TERRITORY

Significance of the Building of the Manistique, Marquette & Northwestern and the Traverse City, Leelanau & Manistique.

"An interesting point to watch the struggle between the Gould and Pennsylvania interests is the upper peninsula of Michigan," said a well known railroad man of Detroit this week. "The organization of the Manistique, Marquette & Northwestern is only one of the important moves on the chess board. There is every reason to believe that the Pennsylvania is behind it, and in fact the denial of this has been made by the men interested in the Manistique, Marquette & Northwestern. The Traverse City, Leelanau & Manistique is under the same control and with the Grand Rapids & Indiana, forms a portion of the chain by which the Pennsylvania traverses the state from north to south. The upper peninsula road means a new opening into the northwest.

"To comment this move the Washburn seemed the Ann Arbor line and its president is now figuring on occupying a road to the iron mines. The same interests are paramount in the Detroit & Mackinac, and if I am not very much mistaken there will be active warfare between these two big interests in the northwest and Michigan will be the base of the conflict."

The trusteeship by the Union Trust Co. of $1,500,000 worth of bonds of the Manistique, Marquette & Northwestern, renders some particulars of the road interesting.

The road extends from South Manistique, on the south shore of the upper peninsula of Michigan, to Shingleton, 40 miles, with a branch to McNeil's 13 miles, the entire mileage, including spurs and side tracks, being about 75 miles. The road is standard gauge, and connects with the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Saint Ste. Marie Ry., and the Ann Arbor R. R., at Manistique, and with the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Ry., at Shingleton. The company will operate a car ferry from Manistique to Northport in southern Michigan, connecting with the Traverse City, Leelanau & Manistique R. R., which in turn connects the Traverse City with the Grand Rapids & Indiana, a line controlled by the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. Bonds authorized ($1,500,000) are applicable as follows: To purchase existing railway and terminal property, $500,000; to refueling, remodeling and rolling stock, $100,000; for car ferries and other improvements, $100,000; reserved for the construction, as required, of an additional car ferry, and the equipment, improvement and betterment of the road, $500,000.

The earnings for the year ending May 1, 1902, of the predecessor company, the Manistique & Northwestern Ry. Co., were as follows: Gross, $173,841; net, $88,735; divided, 5 per cent interest on $600,000 of bonds, $30,000; surplus under present conditions, $58,735. A contract has already been entered into with the American Shipbuilding Co. for the first boat, which is to have a capacity of 30 to 40 feet cars, and is to be completed by April 1, 1903.

FOR A VALUABLE HOMESTEAD.

Interesting Contest Between Two Gentlemen Living at Manistique.

(Mining Journal.)

A valuable eighty-acre tract in Schoolcraft county has been the cause of a great deal of litigation, both in the land department and in court. Ex-Postmaster Zinner X. Orr of Manistique entered the land under the homestead laws in 1890. A contest was initiated against his entry by Randolph Stolp in 1897. The case went clear through the various channels of the department and resulted in a victory for the entryman. Another contest, however, was initiated in 1899 by Dr. R. C. McCosson of Manistique, and since that time has been pending in one form or another before the department. Injunction proceedings were also had in the Schoolcraft circuit court in the meantime to prevent the removal of pine timber from the land. The latest tilt between the litigants was had at the local land office last week, when Mr. Orr appeared to offer final proof for patent. The contest was there won by the witness and protested against the issuing of patent on the ground that the entryman has always resided at Manistique and not on the homestead, as the law requires. Notwithstanding this fact is a valuable one, it will not compensate the victor in the end if the litigation continues to the extent it now bids fair to go.

PROBABLY FATALLY INJURED

Was Edward Telen, a Woodsman, Last Monday.

Edward Telen, a woodsman and formerly in the employ of the L. C. Co., was very seriously if not fatally injured on a log train at Camp 60 on Monday. Telen was looking for employment, and with Harlock McNeil was riding on the train. At a crossing near Camp McNeil got off the train, and told Telen to do so, but he remained on the train and some distance beyond this point, the train which was backing ran against a tree that had fallen across the track, with such force as to cause the cars to do, lie up, and Telen was struck in the head fracturing the skull in two places. The injured man was brought to Manistique, and taken to the county house, where Drs. Walker and Laidie removed a large section of the fractured skull, but as a considerable portion of the brain matter has been lost the chances for the man's recovery are rather remote.

BETTER THAN EVER

ENGINE ROOM CEMENT AND IRON

All Possible Efforts will be Made to Restore Damaged from Fire in Old Mill.

The White Marble Linn Co. are making good progress in the erection of their new plant. Concrete foundations have been put in, and the first story of the mill has been raised. A change of decided advantage has been made in the plans, and instead of a boiler room twenty feet from the north wall will be placed so that the north wall of the boiler room will form a part of the south wall of the mill, and the construction of the boiler room will be entirely of cement and iron.

This construction will mean a large saving in cost of insurance, and an important factor in immunity from fire.

The adjacent lands are being cleared of timber and leveled for storage yards and railroad tracks, several of the latter running clear through the yards, with one each side of the mill, pending the building of the mill, and so on, as well as expeditious. One track will extend along the river for some distance for unloading material, brought from different points by rail, and the extensive steam will be turned into the log pond, thereby rendering it possible to run the mill during the winter. Manager Nicholson will spare no labor or reasonable expense to have a first-class plant of this kind.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Of Venerable Couple, Dr. Daniel Putnam and Wife of Ypsilanti Normal.

Dr. Daniel Putnam, the venerable professor emeritus of psychology and pedagogy at the Ypsilanti Normal, and his wife celebrated their golden wedding at their summer home at Charlevoix, Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Putnam were married in New Hampton, N. H., the year after Dr. Putnam's graduation from Dartmouth College, and while he was a teacher in New Hampton. From their first home they went to Vermont, where the husband was offered a teaching position, and in '51 they came to Kalamazoo, Mich., to enable Dr. Putnam to accept the professorship of Latin at Kalamazoo College. They remained in Kalamazoo for sixteen years, during which time Dr. Putnam acted variously as professor in the college, superintendent of the city schools and county school committee sinner, and in '85 the removed to Ypsilanti, where they have since made their home. Dr. Putnam has devoted some thirty years of his life to building up the Normal and has served the college in various capacities for three years being the acting principal.

His health began to fail recently and the state board formally recognized his long and useful career by the Normal by relieving him of the greater part of his active duties and electing him professor emeritus of his department.

Our fellow townsman, Mr. A. S. Putnam, a son, attended the celebration.

ENGINE BROKE DOWN.

The Soo Line train No. 3 was delayed about five hours Monday on her way east. When about 30 miles this side of Hiramopolis a crank shaft on one side of the locomotive broke. The train was stopped and the broken shaft was taken off. Propelled on one side the locomotive pulled the train as far as Shingleton where a switch engine took it as far as Gladstone. At that point an engine of the regular type pulled the train to the Soo five hours behind time.

Hardships Of Mine Workers

Two recent mine disasters, one the greatest loss of life, one which called attention to the hardships and perils of the men who labor underground with pick and drill. An explosion of two carloads of powder on the 1200-foot level of the Holy-West mine at Park City, Utah, only a few days ago killed over two score of men, while the recent mine disaster at the Cambria mines at Johnstown, Pa., was even more destructive of human life.

Hundreds of thousands of men and boys in this country spend a good portion of their lives deep under the earth's surface, obscured from the rays of the sun, with hundreds, sometimes thousands, of feet of rock between them and daylight.

The labor in a place that is filled with dampness and danger, where hardly a day passes without recording the death of more than one unfortunate, crushed under falling rock, or slake.

Then at frequent intervals while complaints are wiped out by the explosion of gas that accumulates in the mines. These usually are the only accidents heard of by the general public. The smaller ones are passed by without notice.

Every one who can read knows in a measure what a cool mine is like. It is the mother, the galleries crossing each other in all directions, like the streets of a town, with many turnings, a black and deep air, a city of gloom. Some of the galleries are long and wide and well ventilated; others are low, narrow and tortuous, with an suspiciously foul and charged with danger. The laden cars trundling along the gloomy tramways rattle on the feet of the slant rails, and the only ones going back into the hidden depths for other burdens.

With noise of blast, the small of gunpowder, the rumble here and there of falling rock, the glimmer of lamps whose feeble rays barely outline the gloomish forms of the miners at their toil, the noise of water pouring from the many subterranean veins and the pick and hammer are the sights and sounds that surround the miner's labor by night and day in hundreds and hundreds of feet beneath the ground.

Work never ceases in a coal mine. It is being "run" in its full capacity. One set of men go down the shaft at daylight and come out at dusk, meeting at the mouth of the shaft the men who are going down the night "shift" and whom they will meet coming out again next morning. It all has been so.

Accounts of the recent terrible disasters recall other accidents in former years. While the frequency of death in the caverns is every more feared by miners. Sudden and horribly fatal as it is, the cavern gives warning of its approach.

But with all the warnings it gives the cavern too often proves the grave of the miner who has dared to try to save for his company what nature is reclaiming for its own. A few years ago the cavern at Park City was the scene of a fatal accident that cost the lives of fifty-five men.

CHIP OF OLD BLOCK

CLARENCE H. MACKAY, NEW HEAD OF GREAT ESTATE.

Successor of the Insurance King in Paris With Large Business Operations—Fond of Society and Athletic Sports.

Clarence Hungerford Mackay, only surviving son of an individual heir to the fortune left by the "hoosier king," for a number of years has been prominent in social, financial and sporting circles. Although he is only twenty-eight years of age, he has already developed great business acumen and is regarded as a fitting successor in the world of business to his great and far-seeing father, whose time from humble miner to a recognized power in the affairs of the world reads like a romantic tale.

The new head of the Mackays was born in San Francisco. While still a child he was taken abroad, and his education was gained in England and France. His sojourn in Europe, however, has in no way affected his loyalty to his native land, and since coming home he has made his home in this country.

Mr. Mackay has been for years—since his college days in fact—identified with the vast business interests of his father. He is a director in the Commercial Cable and Telegraph Company, of both of which the elder Mackay was president. Mr. Mackay is also vice president of the former and fourth vice president of the latter company and it is believed that he will succeed his father at the head of these concerns.

In late years the elder Mackay suffered much of the burden of management as shown by his son. The latter has also been connected with other commercial interests and has shown great aptitude for business since the social position of the Mackays is of the highest both in America and in England. Much of their prestige is due to Mrs. John W. Mackay and to her.

Clarence H. Mackay, the high standing of Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, was before her marriage Miss Katherine, or Kitty, Dyer, the daughter of a family prominent in New York society since the days when the British held sway on Manhattan Island. Kitty Dyer and Clarence Mackay were married on May 17, 1898, and they have one daughter, Helen.

The safety lamp, however, is the great protection against freddamp. The mines themselves observe the strictest safety as it has no equal. But an experienced miner can tell at once by the condition of his flame not only the presence of gas, but its quantity. The Davy lamp, the invention of Sir Humphrey Davy, was long ago improved to its present state, and is now a working lamp by many miners. If the flame happens to extinguish its flame it is extinguished, however, as a warning lamp by many miners.

The illuminous mines are not as a general thing, explosive as the atmosphere is.

The Mexican pool can get more or less along on its own, but it is not a general thing. In the southern part of the country, where the mountain Indians are at times dropped out of the lower country, these men bring with them a bill of heavy ceremonial paste, about the size of their hands, and about the size of a hand.
