RIG FOUND AT BRASSER'S CAMP

Man Arrested Here Saturday by Chief of Police From Munising.

He stated that he received the bullet wound at Houghton in May while playing cards, one of the players doing the shooting. Sheriff J. M. Conroy and Pros. Att'y. W. J. O'Brien came here Monday night after the man and left the following morning for Munising. They do not believe the story of his shooting and think he may be wanted or crime in some northern county.

Manistique Mill to Resume.

Walter Kelly, of Traverse City, was in Manistique recently and visited the Hiawatha lumbering plant, of which he is now owner, and gave instructions to C. G. Ekstrom, the manager, to go ahead and get in readiness for operation on a bigger scale than ever. This plant has been tied up in litigation for some time owing to the failure of the South Side Lumber Company, of Traverse City, but affairs have been straightened out and the business will continue under the old management with Mr. Kelly the active head of it. Plans are being perfected for the building of a side track into the camp, a distance of about four miles, which will greatly add to the efficiency of operations. The lumber has been hauled out by teams, and the cost of breaking roads, etc., has been considerable of a drawback to successful operation. With a track into the mill, much of the by-product, such as wood, snags and edgings can be brought to Manistique and disposed of as fuel, where now it has to be burned and almost wasted.—Michigan Investor.

Mr. Al Farel of Gernfask was a business visitor here Tuesday.

In Wisconsin is in the northern part of the state, where meat production has never yet been attempted. Its favorable seasons two crops of peas can be grown annually. In Wisconsin this county the first crop is planted about April 20 and cut June 20 in ample time to raise a second crop. Where no canneries are operated in the vicinity the grower can put the entire crop in his silo, enhancing its feeding value. There are millions of acres of land in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota that by feeding of pea silage could be brought to a high state of fertility in a few years, as the pea crop fixes nitrogen in the soil. If feeding silage an abundant supply of manure would be available.

From the foregoing it will be readily seen that there are large profits in feeding Field Pea Silage for finishing sheep and lambs brought on the Chicago market or shipped in from western ranges.

The first Field Pea raised in the United States was those grown on the many loam soils of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, where the yield of shelled peas runs from 15 to 25 bushels per acre and so fine is the quality of these peas, that the seedsmen are buying all they can get of them for seed purposes and paying from $2.00 to $3.00 per bushel for them, so that the farmers in the Upper Peninsula have been collecting money on this crop for several years, and for that reason have not heretofore given any attention to getting in canneries or saving the waste by putting in silos and feeding.

It is believed that for fattening purposes it might even pay better to put into the silos the entire crop rather than sell to the canneries, or for seed.

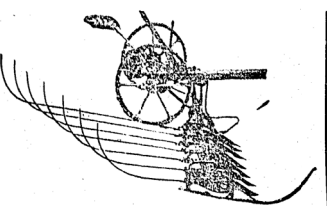

It is a well known fact that the United States Department of Agriculture has for years been striving to induce farmers to raise Field Pea on the light and sandy lands of this crop is acknowledged to be one of the very best for restoring nitrogen to the soil, and hence greatly increasing its productiveness.

A very good illustration of this may be seen on the State Farm connected with the Northern Michigan Hospital for the Insane at Newberry, Michigan. This farm is located upon a high and very sandy ridge south of Newberry, and is such a soil could be called almost too light for successful cultivation, yet by intelligent alternating the crop of Field Pea and Mammoth Clover, the soil has become dark and very productive.

At any points near enough to Lake Michigan ports to give choice of either water rail shipments into the Chicago markets, it seems well established that there could be no bet-

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Taft smile is holding out wonderfully and doing the usual amount of execution.

Peary and Cook may tell their stories, but it takes the regular correspondents to write 'em.

President Taft is getting almost as much space for his speeches as Teddy Roosevelt used to get.

President Taft says he always roots for the home team, which is one way of being always on the right side.

The new law passed at the last session of the legislature making Oct. 12th Columbus Day, a legal holiday, will have the effect of closing saloons at that time.

Michigan evidently believes with Edward Everett that the public school is the nation's safeguard. We pay $5.00 per capita for education and 56 per capita for the militia.

Peary gives it out that he will do no more exploring. Looks to man up a tree as though he had enough to occupy his time and attention without chasing around after any more poles.

The following law went into effect Sept. 1st: "Hereafter the proprietors of billiard halls or any place where dice games are allowed must not permit any minor under 17, or any minor who is a student, to remain in the place, on penalty of incurring a fine of $25."

Atty. Gen. Bird gives his opinion that saloon signs, in modified form, can be used on the front of "grocery shops" all over Michigan. There is but one restriction, the name of the brewer or distiller must not be used. Good thing, thereby a booze joint can be distinguished from a meat market or confectionery store.

Here's one of the provisions of the state's new cigarette law: "No person under the age of twenty-one shall smoke or use cigarettes in any form in public highways, streets, parks or public places of business under a penalty of a fine of $10 or imprisonment not to exceed five days." If the law is enforced in this city an addition to the county jail will be necessary.

Commander Peary's plans for the future are somewhat conflicting. At one time we are assured that he is through with exploring, and again that he and Capt. Bartlett are already arranging for a sixth pole expedition. However this may be, we have no doubts that the first thing on the program is a final disposal of his controversy with Dr. Cook, and that boat may last many a long day.

Michigan leads the world in the production and consumption of commercial waters used for the manufacture of soft drinks. This overwhelming distinction has been conferred upon the Wolverine state by Prof. Samuel Sanford, who compiled the soft drinks statistics and mineral waters. Only one other state in the Union approaches the sublime position of Michigan in soft drinks. This is Wisconsin, but Michigan has it beat by only 200,000 gallons per annum. Michigan's grand total is 1,279,553 gals. per year. All the southern states together use less than Michigan's grand total. Maine in a single year uses but 211,000 gallons.

Again there is much talk pro and con regarding local option, brought about by the posting of the names on Monday of those signing the petitions. Many have read the lists out of curiosity and several—vitality interested—just looked over the names "to see who were their friends." The county contributed about 600 names to the petitions, of that number 256 signatures were obtained in the city. In the city there were 20 per cent of names of city 30 per cent. Doyle was the banner township turning in 75 per cent of its voting population. The number of names required to present the petitions to the county board is 574, and the secretary informs us that at least eighty in excess of the number required were secured. October 1st petitions must be filed with the county clerk. The work of determining the validity of the petitions will fall on the county board, the petitions are to be carefully scrutinized and the regular session to be held in the second week in October. Then, and not until then, will it be definitely known whether the proposition will be submitted to the people next spring or not.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Married men live longer than bachelors? Nonsense! It only seems longer.

We take it for granted that the coming season's football will be one of the debilitated variety.

The teacher of geography who asks a pupil who discovered the North Pole risks precipitating a riot.

Spitting on the walks is becoming quite prevalent again in this city. Enforce the law and stop this filthy practice.

Some thirty-five years ago Jules Verne wrote the story "Filling the North Pole" and now the French romancer's creation has come true just as his "Twenty thousand Leagues Under the Sea" came true in the submarine, and his "Round the World in 80 Days" has been shown easy of accomplishment.

Lumber is one of the chief freight commodities produced by land. Its weight per acre surpasses corn, barley, oats, wheat and rye.

Few people are aware of the care used by mill-roads in keeping tabs of the productiveness of land along their lines from the standpoint of the amount of freight produced by various crops. Heavier the rope per acre, the more business for the railroads. No rare there many people who think of lumber as a crop, and one of the most important crops at that, which contributes a large share of the freight business of railroads.

The quantity of freight produced by a crop depends upon soil, region, and kind of crop. It differs greatly from that point of view. Their profit depends upon tonnage and class, and they want to know what crop pays the carrier best.

Many averages in many localities are necessary to reach reliable results. Care is necessary, too, in applying to one region the figures obtained in another. Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky are the center of a vast productive region, and averages there possess as much value as those of any part of the country, but, of course, they cannot be applied everywhere. An acre is credited with yield as follows:

Cabbage.....	21,000 pounds per acre
Onions.....	19,500 " "
Potatoes.....	4,500 " "
Lumber.....	3,000 " "
Hay.....	2,710 " "
Corn.....	1,725 " "
Barley.....	1,219 " "
Oats.....	886 " "
Tobacco.....	877 " "
Rye.....	848 " "
Wheat.....	792 " "

As the list shows, the three heaviest freight producing crops are cabbage, onions, and potatoes. Lumber is fourth. Up to the present time lumber has been cut almost exclusively from wild land without much regard to the acres gone over. But the time is coming when the yield of wood per acre will be calculated as carefully as the yield of corn, and as much thought will be given to growing it, though not as much work. How much wood grows on an acre in a year?

Some of the abused, burnt, washed, and neglected lands are producing only little. It has been estimated that the typical hardwood regions of Tennessee, where fire is kept out, are growing about 3,000 pounds of wood yearly per acre. Good stands of young pines in other parts of the country are probably doing as well or better. But this is not the limit, for forestry say woodland can do much better under forestry methods. Good timber must be selected, the poor cut out, just as the farmer plants the best kinds of corn and rejects the poor. In Europe where they raise crops of trees they get, under favorable conditions, an annual growth of 4,500 pounds to 5,500 pounds of wood per acre. This country can do at least as well.

The freight carriers, however, seldom transport the whole wood growth. The waste is left in the woods or at the mill. The fat much or little, depending upon what is made of the wood before the transportation company gets it. It is apparent, however, that after deducting for waste, the growth of an acre of timber furnishes more freight than an acre of any one of the agricultural crops except cabbage, onions, and potatoes.

The quantity of any one of these three commodities that will go to the market is limited by demand, but the demand for lumber is not diminishing. All that the forests and planted lots can supply will go to the market. Wooded, under care, yields yearly crops as regularly as wheat fields. The marketable timber only is cut at regular intervals, and new growth is always coming on. As a freight producer, a timber tract may be depended upon as surely as a potato field. In fact, it is surer; for land in farm crops wears out unless constantly fertilized, but timberland fertilizes itself with its leaves and becomes richer. It will yield undiminished crops forever.

Trees grow on rough land where agriculture cannot profitably be carried on, and the freight and other returns from such regions are largely clear grain since such land would otherwise be producing little or nothing.

GOV. JOHNSON DEAD.

Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, is dead. The brave spirit departed Tuesday morning at St. Mary's hospital at Rochester, where he underwent an operation less than a fortnight since.

John Albert Johnson was the sixteenth governor of the state, being elected in 1904 and re-elected in 1906 and 1908. He was born at St. Peter, Minn., July 29th, 1851. He was dear to the people of his state and in fact the whole country.

In the governor's chair, John A. Johnson did nothing to shake and much to strengthen the confidence reposed in him.

Position and power made no difference in that matter of simplicity which at all times characterized him, and which, more than his mental gifts or oratorical ornaments, made him so dear to his own people. As a governor, John A. Johnson united a kind heart with a high purpose and an inflexible will.

His love of the common folk was sincere. He sympathized with their struggles. He aided them by precept. He proved by his life that the battle with luxury and power, while always hard, is never hopeless. He has left Minnesota in his life a legacy which can never lose, more valuable than his grain-covered acres, more precious than the riches of her iron hills.

ELECTION RETURNS TO SUIT.

Swing States and National Chairman in Line in His Reports and Gave the Boys of the Mining Camp the Time of Their Lives.

A funny incident happened on the day of the national election of 1892 in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single uncertain telegraph wire and a single more uncertain telegraph operator. The news of the election of Bryan was not only sought, but demanded, for the average American subject is so anxious concerning the uncertainties of politics as to be concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegraph operator was successful in obtaining the position. He was the "gentle" of the camp.

The "hops" had placed stores of gold powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shot-ers and refilled their cartridge belts. Bryan was really to be elected on the hillside, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Metropolitan. Bryan may not land to bright with Freedom's holy light; Protect us by thy might, Great God, Our King.

SOON BE COMPLETED

Best Link of Vans Harbor Railroad Will be Finished in About Thirty Days.

STEEL RECEIVED SUNDAY

Work and Teams Put to Work Monday to Complete Connection With Van's Harbor.

The completing of the railroad from Van's Harbor to Coaks where it is to be connected with the Soo, is now only a matter of a short time for on Sunday, the long and awkward piece of steel rails was delivered at Van's Harbor from the steamer Maywood.

Work was started Monday morning to complete the last link of the important branch line and as soon as the Soo connections are made, the carrying of passengers and freight will be started. The new line will now enable the farmers and merchants of Van's Harbor, Garden Bay, Nahma and other points to ship their merchandise during the winter months, a pleasant and long waited for innovation.

When the supply of steel gave out last spring, the road had been completed to within two miles of Coaks. During the long wait, the two miles have been graded and placed in condition for the re-laying of the steel. The completed portion of the road has been used all summer, principally for logging purposes.

The lack of transportation facilities has long been a sorely felt want for East Shore residents. During the winter it has been practically impossible for them to ship their freight but with the new at hand connection, fast and regular service can be maintained.—Escanaba Press.

SCHOOLCRAFT FRUIT

That Fruit of the Finest Variety is Grown Here Cannot Be Questioned.

The Pioneer-Tribune is indebted to Messrs. John Riley and Martin McCreary, successful farmers residing some five miles east of the city, for samples of winter apples, which cannot be excelled by any grown anywhere. They are of the Duchess of Oldenburg and Northern King varieties. They are perfect in every way, without spot or blemish and of fine perfection. Many other farmers in the county have just as fine fruit and from the number of trees planted annually this county will soon have apples in abundance, enough to supply the home market and much left for shipment. The former has an orchard of over 100 trees and the latter 25 fruit trees.

Hul Schulercraft county an annual fair the showing of fruits, cereals, vegetables, etc., would certainly be a happy surprise to not only our people but to those visitors from other parts of the state where farms have been developed for many years.

Excellent Kept Farm.

Probably one of the best kept farms in this vicinity is that of Mr. John Riley, located about five miles east of this city. His farm buildings are in most perfect repair as are the fences, and everything about the place denotes thrift and care. His crops this season have been up to the average, suffering but little from the early frosts. Besides the regular farm crop the yield of garden truck was excellent as well as his apples. He has about 100 trees, the largest portion being Golden Delicious. He has one tree, bearing three kinds of apples, from one graft, a limb some six feet long, now contains 102 fair sized crab apples. The limb, to keep it from breaking down with the load is braced up with props.

John E. Knoph has decided to have Manistique and will sell all of his household effects and many other useful articles at a very low figure. The following articles are for sale: $5,029, 719.74, as compared with $4,193, 422.93 last year. While the tax levy this year is considerably higher than it was last, the auditor's general promises that next year it will be about one million dollars less. The amount apportioned against Schoolcraft county is $11,968.18.
