ESTIMABLE LADY PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. John E. Hackenbruch Died Last Friday Afternoon After a Short Illness.

Mrs. John E. Hackenbruch died at her home on Walnut street last Friday afternoon about four o'clock, as the result of hemorrhage of the brain, which resulted in partial paralysis.

Florence M. Strasser was born at Hanburg, Pa., April 6th, 1866. In 1882 she became the wife of Owen Williams, at Doylestown, Pa. Mr. Williams died a few years later, and on Dec. 9th, 1890, she became the wife of Mr. John E. Hackenbruch at Shamokin, Pa. She came to Manistique a few days later, where Mr. Hackenbruch was engaged in conducting a barber shop, and has resided here ever since.

Aside from her husband, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Edith Nowland of Chicago, her mother and stepfather, residing at Shamokin, Pa., two sisters, Mrs. Ida V. Arnold of New York City, and Mrs. Davy Gans of Shamokin, Pa., and a brother Mr. Strasser of New York City.

The deceased was a member of the First Baptist church, and was also a member of the M. B. A., Woodmont Circle, Maccaresses of the World and Modern Maccaresses.

The funeral services were held from the First Baptist church last Monday afternoon, Rev. F. R. Leach officiating and they were very largely attended. The floral offerings were numerous and elaborate, and silently attested to the high esteem in which she was held in this community. The city council, board of public works, the barbers, the various orders to which she belonged, and the K. of P. lodge were among those that contributed floral offerings. The barber shops of the city were closed during the time of the funeral. The pall bearers were Mr. Blumesser, M. P. Winkelman, Gus Howard, Mayor Pattinson, Frank Jane and Wm. Carpenter.

No lady in the city has done more in practical charity during all of the years that she resided here, than did the deceased. Her home was the Mecca for indigent children, and she certainly fully exemplified the teachings of the Master she faithfully followed. She was always doing a kindly act for some one else, and the life of more than one boy and girl has been made brighter for having been a member of her household. She did her works of charity in such an unostentatious manner that few were conversant with her many kindly acts. In this she had a husband that entered into the work in the same spirit that she evidenced. She was the sort of woman that will be sorely missed, and those that have been conversant with her life, feel and know that her journey over there will be brighter for the life of self-sacrifice that she lived while here.

The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community, in this their hour of bereavement.

IS DOING COMMENDABLE WORK

The Women's Reading Club Deserves Credit for Spirit of Philanthropy.

The Women's Reading club is doing a commendable work as will be noted by perusing the report of Philanthropic Day held under the auspices of the club, that appears in another column. At this meeting, Mrs. A. M. LeRoy made an extended report on local conditions, and the members of the club donated generously toward alleviating these conditions. The self-sacrificing work that Mrs. LeRoy is engaged in, has been complimented in these columns in the past. She is doing much of the work that a visiting nurse would do and she is doing it without recompense, save that recognition that one feels after having done a kindly act. Miss Marshall in her report, which appears in this issue, also highly commends Mrs. LeRoy and her work, and urges that the community give her substantial assistance in the performance of her self-imposed task. The Woman's club is showing the proper spirit, and many a home and many a person stricken with illness will have cause to remember the club's philanthropic work.

TWO HUNTERS ARE LOST.

State Game Warden Outes Has Ordered Out All Deputies to Hunt for Them.

Two members of Senator Newton's hunting party, located north of Seney, have been lost since last Monday, and State Game Warden Outes has ordered out all deputies located in the upper peninsula to go to Seney and assist in the search. They were also ordered to take with them one or more men versed in woodcraft to assist them.

Deputy Guinan left for Seney yesterday morning, in response to a long distance message from Mr. Cates. The names of the men are not known.

BOATS WRECKED.

Crews Were Brought to This City Late Last Week.

Last week the Pioneer-Tribune mentioned the fact that the steamer Osceola and barges Tuxford and Norris of the Hines fleet were in trouble on Peikie Reef along the north shore of Lake Michigan.

It appears that the Osceola was hugging the north shore owing to the leaking condition of one of the barges, and in a snow storm that was prevailing struck the reef, Sunday evening. The following morning one of the barges was washed alongside the steamer and a portion of the deck load of lumber was transferred to the barge. The barge began to pound a piece on the reef, and the crew was transferred to the large. The barge began to leak badly and on Tuesday the crews constructed rafts and reached the tow "arge Norris. Fishermen came to their rescue Wednesday, and a tug (was the Soo arrived the same day and took the Norris to St. Ignace.

Thursday morning the tug Gifford of this port and the steamer Holland of the Hines fleet went to the scene of the disaster. They ascertained that the Osceola was a total wreck, and returned to Manistique with the tow barge Tuxford. In the vicinity of Seul Choix that evening, the tow line parted during a severe gale, and the Tuxford quietly passed out of sight in the heavy snow storm that was prevailing. Two of the boats of the Cuffey fleet picked up the Tuxford the following day, and brought it to this port. She was unloaded and will go to the Sturgeon Bay ship yard for repairs. The crews of the three boats were paid off here. That their was no loss of life almost seems miraculous. The boats were enroute from Georgian Bay to Chicago.

The Soo News of Tuesday states that a fifty mile gale prevailed in that city that day and that twenty inches of snow fell. Certainly different weather than what Manistique is experiencing.

DEATH OF MRS. FRANK E. GUINAN

Her Death Occurred at Home of Parents at Alexandria, Minn., Last Thursday.

Mrs. Frank E. Guinan died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Petersen, at Alexandria, Minn., on Thursday morning, of last week at about eleven o'clock.

The deceased had been ill for about three years with tuberculosis, and was making an extended stay with her parents, with the hope that the change of climate might be of benefit to her. She was born at Minneapolis in 1881, and came to Manistique ten or eleven years ago. She became the wife of Mr. F. E. Guinan on January 26th, 1907. She is survived by her husband and a daughter, Camella, aged four and one-half years.

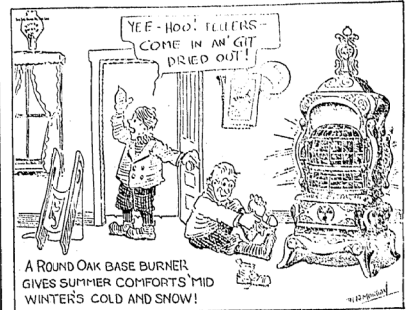

Some difficulty was experienced in locating Mr. Guinan, who is a deputy state game warden. He was located at Munising, and through the courtesy of Manager Craver of the M. & L. S. Ry., who furnished special engine to bring Mr. Guinan to the city, he was enabled to make connections in this city with Train No. 7 for the west. He returned to the city with the remains, accompanied with his little daughter and the funeral services were held from St. Francis de Sales church Tuesday morning.

The deceased was very highly esteemed by all knowing her and the bereaved members of the family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

THE VISITING NURSE'S REPORT

Miss Marshall Gives Elaborate Details of Work Accomplished Here During Her Six Week's Stay

Report of work done in Schoolcraft county from October 1st to November 10th, 1914:

I arrived in Manistique on the evening of September 30th and spent the greater part of the next few days in the Schoolcraft county fair. Here I met and saw many people and received an impression of the civic pride and enterprise which a six weeks stay has fully confirmed.

That this organization during its first year of existence could put up a fair building which is a model of its kind, rebuild the race track, and put on a fair such as we saw for three days, and at the end pay all its bills and have a sizable balance in the treasury is a record of which any county might be proud. Schoolcraft county is certainly cultivating the spirit which when it spends its money in ways which are for the benefit of the whole community, as shown in the enterprise just described; in the miles of magnificent roads which lead out in all directions, in its splendid county building which is a model in its location, the beauty of its construction and the size and care of its lavatories; and in the county infirmary, with its large sunny wards and sun parlor, and smaller rooms where most of the inmates can have a place by themselves, all beautifully clean and well cared for. These are its splendid belongings, and just as soon as a sufficient number of people in the county realize that the health of its citizens is its most valuable asset, and how greatly this may be improved and its value correspondingly increased, then will their provision for this purpose be as generous as it has been for these other things.

Having been sent here by the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis society as the prize nurse earned by the sale of Red Cross Christmas stamps (Schoolcraft county stool second in the list of prize winning counties), my first object of course was to learn the situation in this county as regards Tuberculosis.

This is what I found: Since the first of January, 1914, eight people have died of Tuberculosis and all but one of them lived in Manistique. The eldest of these men reached 87 years and was a mother who left seven children. All of the others were under 30 years of age and three of them were under 20 years. Two of these others were mothers who left small children and the other five were unmarried.

Your health officer has a list of 9 cases now living in various stages of the disease, and I have learned of 8 cases now under observations as suspicious. That there are many other people in this county already afflicted with tuberculosis but not yet realizing it, it is a truth which cannot be disputed by any one who knows anything about the subject. Investigations conducted in many different places have led to the estimates that for every death caused by tuberculosis there are from five to ten persons living and the rate depends upon the means and the length of time spent in fighting it. So you have somewhere between 40 and 80 people in Schoolcraft county in various stages of this disease, many of them a course of infection to other people than they realize, and as carelessness, and only 17 of them are known. Let me tell you of a man 21 years old who came out of a lumber camp two or three weeks ago in an advanced stage of the disease, coughing and raising a good deal of sputum. He told the doctor he had been sick about a week before he left the camp, but the boss of the camp says that he has noticed for a long time that the boy did not look well. Now if that were a case of small pox there would be no question as to what would be done about it. The ignorant man would be quarantined and then thoroughly disinfected until there could be no question of the spread of the disease. Yet tuberculosis kills more than 700 times as many people in Michigan every year as small pox does and can be prevented at least as well. Let me tell you of another case: During the last month a woman was brought to the local hospital for treatment. She had large glands in her neck and thought that if she could have them "cut out" she would get well, but she was in the last stages of consumption, which is tuberculosis of the lungs, and any operation would only serve to shorten her life. She is an ignorant, strong-willed woman and would not believe anything that was told her about the case she should take of herself or what she should do in order not to endanger the lives of those around her. She would persist in spitting on the floor and would not cover her mouth and nose when coughing. She is the mother of three children, the oldest 11 years, and all of these with the husband have been living in a log house the only one in the neighborhood which will not allow a door or window open because she "feels the cold." It is not surprising that two of the children already have enlarged glands in their necks and that the husband looks thin and weak. Only prompt and successful treatment with long continued living in just the right conditions will save any number of that family from death from tuberculosis sooner or later. That family however are not residents of Schoolcraft county, but it is only a matter of a few miles and it is not too far to send a family within the county borders which maybe on the way to a conviction every bit as bad, so far as any one knows—I have seen at least one family of this sort. Such a family is not an asset for any county but it is a constant drain on the county treasury, and it may be brought about through such a source.

These two cases should be enough to show you how this disease is a constant danger to the health of the people of this county. That they are not the only ones a little thought will convince you. These were simply two of the worst-cases which came to the knowledge of a few people only, during the month of October.

What can the county do with cases like these? They are too far advanced to be sent to the State Sanatorium at Howell, and they are at the stage when they become an increasing danger to the community, through their cough and the great number of germs set free from the ever increasing amount of sputum which they are daily depositing. Even if each one is taught how to do this—and they all have been here in Manistique since Mrs. LeRoy interested herself in the matter, as they become weaker and weaker they become unable to do this for themselves, and their relatives or friends frequently either cannot or will not follow out directions.

Mrs. LeRoy has been doing a splendid work along this line of education and supervision, even doing a good deal of the actual work of nursing herself and others in the county. I cannot estimate the value of the services she is rendering the community in this way. Isn't it about time that the community as a whole realize their responsibility in this matter, and support and assist Mrs. LeRoy in her work? Let us go back to the subject of the other phases of the subject, to keep on paying an increasing toll every year from your young men and women, who have been prepared to take their places and add to the wealth of the community—is it economy, I ask, to pay this toll to a disease which can be prevented?

As the first step in its prevention you should provide some place where these advanced cases, who continually spread the infection, can be adequately cared for, with the greatest ease and comfort, so that the less it is going to cost you. Every year you put it off the number of victims is increasing, and the larger sum of money it will ultimately take to provide a place for them. Such a hospital or sanatorium then, which will help the sick and serves not only to help the sick and serve the public, but perhaps its greatest value is in the object it presents to all who come in contact with it in any way, and especially to the foreign born members of the community, who very often do not understand the principles of the prevention of tuberculosis, but which you can see here in operation and so come to understand them. For this reason alone I am inclined to favor a sanatorium in each county, even though the cost of maintenance is somewhat greater, instead of fewer and larger institutions which cannot be so well known by the general public.

The second step in this crusade of prevention is to teach the boys and girls to so train and develop their bodies through right habits of living, that they will be able to destroy at once any disease germ with which they come in contact. This can be done and the money necessary for its accomplishment will be a safe and sane investment with sure and steady returns. That people are becoming alive to this fact is shown by the demand all over the country for the physical education and training of school children, and in Schoolcraft county by the very interest shown in the work which I have done in the schools here. I wish it to be very clearly understood that the inspection I made in the schools has been very superficial. It must of necessity be so, because I am a nurse, not a trained physician, and I can only hope to show in some slight measure perhaps, what skilled medical inspection might mean to the health and development, both mental and physical, of your school children. I have examined the children of all the grades of the Riverside and Westside schools, and in all but the two upper grades of the Lakoside and Central schools; all of the pupils in the Gernkamp school, and all but the upper grades of Manistique, and especially Mrs. LeRoy, whose constant assistance and inspiration has proved her to be the friend indeed to all those whom this work would benefit if possible.

There is no uncertainty about that statement truly, and it will not be long before every city and county in Michigan will understand that they can't afford to refuse to follow the example set by Detroit. Our boys and girls are our most valuable asset, and let us so guard and develop them that they may be able to produce for themselves and the community the highest type of the service for which they are fitted.

I cannot close my report without trying to express my heartfelt gratitude to all who have helped to extend my work here as far as possible; to the superintendent of schools and all the teachers who have shown such marked interest and anxiety to learn how best to increase the efficiency of their pupils; to Mr. Nicholson who so generously furnished an automobile which made possible our visits to the schools outside of Manistique; and especially Mrs. LeRoy, whose constant assistance and inspiration has proved her to be the friend indeed to all those whom this work would benefit if possible.

MISS MARSHALL.

ISSUES THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION TO STATE

A Proclamation—By the Governor. "In all the years since eighteen hundred seventy-six there has been no greater reason for giving thanks to Almighty God than in this year, nineteen hundred fourteen. The United States is at peace with all the nations of the earth. The stars and stripes symbolize to all the world, 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' Storms, rain and cold have given us an abundance of the good things of life. Our glorious nation has gone forward unswervingly toward the goal of civic justice and civic righteousness. We, the people of Michigan, are happy in joining every other state in rejoicing and hearty thanksgiving. Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby join the President of the United States in designating Thursday, the 26th of November, as a day for all the people of this Commonwealth to celebrate in thanksgiving and prayer.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this fourteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and the second year of the Commonwealth of the State of Michigan.

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS, Governor.

DEER HAVE BEEN PLACED UNDER BAN.

Hunters Must Dress and Skin Deer Before Presenting Them for Shipment.

Notification has been received by representatives of the various railroad lines and transportation companies in this city that the carcasses of deer, killed in Michigan woods must be first dressed before they will be accepted for shipment.

The decision to compel hunters to dress the carcasses of the deer before presenting them for shipment has been made by the state game warden, and this section in particular, as the larger share of the deer killed in the upper peninsula are shot within a comparatively short radius of Delta county.

Work for Hunters. The thousands of simruds who are now roaming the woods in search of the antlered beauties will be forced to add to the arduous duties of the hunting trips by cleaning the hides and heads in accordance with the new order. This will mean a lot of added work and will consume a great deal of some simruds' time. The situation invites a somewhat judicious idea, in the thought that many hunters are ignorant of the methods to follow in dressing a dead animal and the resultant efforts are sure to provide a source of amusement for others.

It is a question with some whether or not a considerable trouble will be stirred up over the order of today, due to the fact that a great army of hunters have been in the woods since early in the week and consequently have a considerable number of carcasses. It is admitted that there is a lot of this question, and the only answer will be found when the carcasses are shipped. The hunters will then be faced with the job of losing their deer or of caring for it in conformation with the federal order. The order applies to all deer shipped to any part of the state or to points outside of the state.

UPPER PENINSULA NOTES.

Machine county enjoys the unique distinction of being the only county in the state of Michigan that gave the entire state Democratic ticket a majority.

A $10,000 fire threatened the destruction of Powers, Menominee county, Mich., Monday night. The Commercial hotel, three saloons and several other buildings were destroyed.

The hotel was unoccupied and it is believed tramps caused the fire. The inspection permits that one or more of the latter perished in the hotel fire. The weather hovered around the zero mark when most of the inmates of the village of 400 fled from their homes in their night clothes.

Gladstone was called upon for help, but the fire was extinguished before the outside fire fighters arrived.

On Monday morning one of the horses in D. McCarthy's stable was found with a long, deep gash in his flank, wide and clean cut as if with an axe. There was no projection in the stall on which the horse could have turned himself, and the shape of the wound negated any such suggestion. The only conclusion is that there is some revengeful or insane being at random who should be in a state institution.—Gladstone Delta.

Wedded to Miss Edna Craig James, Prominent Young Lady of Santa Rosa, California.

Mr. F. D. Scott, who was recently elected as congressman from the Eleventh district, was married last Saturday evening to Miss Edna Craig James, at Santa Rosa, Calif.

The James family is wealthy and prominent. Speaking of the wedding, the Alpena Echo says: "The news comes as a big surprise to the many friends of Frank D. Scott, whose election to congress occurred a week ago Tuesday. After his strenuous campaign, Mr. Scott left Alpena to 'spend a few days recuperating.' Mr. and Mrs. Scott will doubtless come to Alpena before going to Washington to take up their residence when Mr. Scott enters the house."

OFFICIAL COUNTY AND CITY PAPER

FRIDAY, NOV. 20, 1914.

Editorial Comment.

Editor Holden of the Mining News, has installed a new modern cylinder press, and is justly proud of his acquisition.

Since the Progressive slump in Wisconsin, LaFollette has decided to change his weekly newspaper into a monthly magazine.

The average householder is beginning to wonder whether the European war will raise the price of the Thanksgiving turkey.

One day a neighbor, four years old was found swinging her cat by the tail. The kitten, of course, was mewing pitifully, but the little girl said: "No use crying, pussy; tan't swing you any faster."

Garden is certainly an enterprising little city. It has a first class bank, a number of wide awake business men, has a railroad, and now has added a moving picture theater to the list of new industries.

The 500 sent 1,000 Christmas packages to the sorry stricken country of Belgium. The little children freely gave up their treasured toys to build the number of packages. How many did Manistique send?

Not necessary for the United States to build more warships. Long before the European war ends, this country will be at the head of the list in the number of war craft. The other countries will lose most of theirs.

The courts have decided against the "drys" in their contention at Escanaba, but that fact will not dishearten them. They will profit by the errors made this time, and will be ready to bring the matter up for solution in April, 1916.

Louis now as though Arthur Vandenberg of Grand Rapids would be a formidable candidate for gubernatorial honors two years hence, should he decide to make the effort.

A French physician claims that Emperor William is suffering from two or three incurable diseases and that his death is imminent except for one. For one that is supposed to be on his death bed, the doughy German warrior appears to be unusually aggressive.

Other cities are doing commendable work in the matter of sending clothing and imperishable supplies of meats and groceries to the stricken country of Belgium. Manistique should not lag in this matter. We believe that the charitable inclined citizens of Manistique would do their part if some organization would take charge of the relief work.

The will of Richard W. Sears, founder of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, has been filed in the Lake county (Ill.) court, showing an estimated valuation of $17,000,000. Dear reader, how much of the above magnificent fortune have you donated, and not one cent of it will ever be spent in the community in which you live. Think it over.—Exchange.

Notwithstanding the fact that Ford of auto fame "divided" his profits with his employees, he reports that his company made a net profit of twenty millions of dollars last far this year. If Mr. Ford really wants to reduce his profits, why does he not reduce the price of his product to the public to such an extent that these enormous profits would be a thing of the past.

Grant M. Hudson, superintendent of the state Anti-saloon league, claims that the majority of the senate and house in the Michigan legislature is "dry," and that radical dry legislation will be a feature of the forthcoming session of Michigan's governing body. If this be true, the scheme to take from Lieutenant-Governor Dickinson the power to name his committees in the senate, was ill-timed.

Hon. M. J. Doyle of Menominee, gives as one of the reasons why he should be appointed state game warden that the position should be filled by a lawyer, and that he is one come to think of it, the position is at present filled by a lawyer, for Billy Oates is a member of the bar. Billy also is conversant with the duties of the office, but as he is a Republican he will no doubt be compelled to give way to some Democrat.

Congressman-Elect James of the Twelfth district is making an innovation in the fact that he is visiting every county in his district and thanking the voters personally for their support at the polls. The usual route followed by candidates in the past has been to quickly forget those that made their election possible. It is safe to predict that James will not be a one-termer for he seemingly appreciates the support of his constituency.

If Schoolcraft county would employ Miss Marshall as visiting nurse during the coming year, a decided advanced step would be taken in safeguarding the health of the school children of the city and county. The money expended in that manner would be wisely expended for the coming generation is a move in the right direction. Her painstaking work here during the past five weeks has so pleased those coming in touch with her work that they feel it almost a necessity that she be employed permanently. Her report of work performed during her stay here, and which appears in another column, will be read with interest and profit by all.

Editorial Comment.

School sometimes looks like a wall to the average boy, but it is a gate.

"Doubtless, boys of college age, full of vigor, superior to the average, are doing the evening Wisconsin."

A new lot of coats is to take place. It is supposed to make one look taller and "to do the channels of commerce."

A Milwaukee patron expresses the following unique sign posted over his car by a restaurateur: "If your children and shoes, don't spend your money for booze."

Some people in New York City feel so badly because Whitman was elected governor of the empire state, that they made an attempt upon his life. A bomb was placed under his office. A policeman happened to see the bomb, and hit off the lighted fuse.

"Did you hear about the buck that was shot at Trumman?" is the question heard along the Copper Range railroads these days. The sequel is, that the station agent at Trumman, whose name is Buck, accidentally shot himself in the leg while carelessly handling a firearm.

How foolish it is to get wrought up over the political fortunes of any man or party. Every man should vote as his principles and give them his best support. But he should be broad enough to concede that others are just as honest in their ideas. We cannot all think alike and don't want to.

There is one city in the United States where the women are not compelled to exploit a lecture course, and that is Lawrence, Mass. In 1882, a wealthy resident set aside a sum of money sufficient to pay the expense of an unusually long lecture course annually, and the citizens have the privilege of attending some free of cost.

Every subscriber of the Pioneer-Tribune should read the comprehensive report made by Miss Marshall, the visiting nurse, upon conditions as she found them in the county and the schools. There is much food for thought in the report; the advice given is worthy of deliberation, and it is hoped that the time may soon come when the suggestions shall be acted upon.

The time is here when editors, some of them at least, can aspire for office and be elected. Pat. O'Brien, of the Iron River reporter, was recently elected to the legislature from his district, and led the ticket in his county and state. He is a member of the legislature and his district will never have cause for regretting that it sent him to Lansing.

In the death of Mrs. John Hackenbruck, this community loses a woman that has done a wealth of good in a quiet, unostentatious way. She has always cared for the sick in her home, and brightening the lives of little girls that needed a home. She not only gave them a home but provided them with clothing and all necessities as well as luxuries. The life of such a lady has not been spent in vain, and the regret is general that she should be called hence.

Because his attention was called to the fact that the prohibition law has "fractured" in Maine, an upper peninsula editor states that it is a useless waste of effort to make people temperate by legislation. There are laws that deal harshly with transgressors of every sort, and while mankind persists in violating these laws, according to the logic the editor in question, "what's the use." Why not repeal the law punishing murder or highway robbery, if they are being violated every day.

Evidently too many Republicans are enjoying the benefits of civil service, to suit the Democrats for now it is proposed to take the rural free delivery carriers out of civil service and to award the carrying of the mails to the lowest bidder. This government is not now overpaying these faithful men that cover rural free delivery routes, six days in the week through storm, sleet and sunshine, over roads of every kind. Perhaps, if the work was farmed out in that manner, it would be more economical. It is a pity that there are always persons that think they can do a task a little cheaper than the other fellow.

There are millions and millions of leaves that are going to waste. The average property owner, if he rakes his lawn, piles them in the back yard and reduces them to ashes. What should be done with them is to pile them up on the garden next summer. There is no better fertilizer. They will make the radishes, the string beans, the peas, tomatoes and roasting ears and the other spring truck crop their hands and shout for joy. They will be a constant reminder that you should make a garden. There is wealth in those leaves, so do not waste them.

The present state administration sees the need of re-employment, and someone in authority proposes that a number of the pretty inspectorship jobs should be consolidated. They should. Sometimes three or four inspectors reach a town on the same day, and most of them have salaries that are more than a few hours work. All are receiving a good salary, and expenses. The state pays four salaries; and heavy traveling expenses for work that one man could do. The oil inspector, for instance, visits every town in his district one or more times a month. He usually completes his work in two or three hours, and wastes the remainder of the day waiting for a train to take him to his home or to the next town. He could be delegated to inspect meat markets, groceries, or do the work of the fire warden.

The Escanaba Journal draws a pathetic word picture of an aged woodman, who was employed on a section at $1.50 per day. He had saved $100 depriving himself of creature comforts, and was planning to use the money in returning to Canada where he expected to spend the winter with his son and grandchildren who were very anxious to have him with them. Upon his arrival at Escanaba he was dropped into one of the saloons of that city, and when he woke up in the morning after spending the night there, he was penniless. He had been robbed either by the saloon keeper or some of the persons hanging about the place. He will not spend the winter in Canada, but will return to the section and expose himself. Such happenings occur not only for a mere daily waiting for a train to take him to his home or to the next town. It is true in every city where liquor is sold. It has happened in Manistique upon numerous occasions, and no doubt will happen again. A man that feels it necessary to frequent saloons, should hide his money under the sidewalk, or throw it into a tree, for by so doing he is more likely to have his money when he emerges, for they are bound to get his money even if they must resort to the use of drugs. One of the unfathomable mysteries is why communities will foster such places in their midst,

THE TONNAGE TAX IDEA DE-SERVES DEFEAT

Mr. Gen. Lord, Tax Expert, Gives Sincere Reasons Why It is Inequitable.

For many years Michigan has been struggling at the general expense to her citizens, to bring about the enactment of the State under the unfavorable operation of taxation, and with the exception of certain forms of credits has finally been accomplished, so that all such properties are now subject to assessment for taxes for what they are worth. If this statutory requirement is carried out it must follow that each class of property will pay its just share of the tax. Equitable taxation in Michigan, therefore, is simply a question of efficient administration. After all the result of effort to firmly establish the adversarial system of taxation, it seems inconceivable that the people of the State will tolerate the attempt that is now being made to again change from the adversarial to the specific system of taxing the production of certain classes of mines. I refer to the proposed so-called tonnage tax, the enactment of a law for the imposition of which is now being sought by power of the initiative. Not only is this proposed change in the method of taxing the production of the State, but the tax contemplated is an absolutely unjust tax and if imposed can only result in crippling the mining industry, which is practically the only industry located in the Upper Peninsula of the State.

The reasons that have been advanced for this proposed tonnage tax are that the mineral wealth of the State is a natural resource which rightfully belongs to the people and that this resource is being depleted by mining operations and that a large profit is being made for the Eastern owners of the mining properties. If there is any sound logic in this argument, it is pertinent to ask why certain of our mining industry should be singled out for the imposition of a special tax on production, and why the tax should be levied on the production of our natural resources? Copper, iron and coal are not by any means the only natural resources that are in the state. We have timber, gypsum, clay, gravel, limestone, mica, silver, power, etc. As a matter of fact, the citizens of Michigan can claim no inherent right to this mineral wealth. In the first place this wealth belonged to the Indians. It later became the property of the citizens of the Northwest territory so that if there is any logic in the argument that these resources belong to the citizens of Michigan, it certainly could be extended so as to include the citizens of all the states which comprised the Northwest territory so that if there is any logic in the argument that these resources belong to the citizens of Michigan, it certainly could be extended so as to include the citizens of all the states which comprised the Northwest territory. Further, the lands containing this mineral wealth were acquired by private parties without any reservation whatsoever being made in the instrument transferring title. If the state made a mistake in letting these mineral lands slip through its fingers into private ownership, it surely cannot now attempt to impose upon the state owners because of its own negligence.

It should not be forgotten that this mineral wealth in its natural state had no intrinsic value and was made valuable only by a large amount of human effort. It is not the percentage of this effort is in the nature of explanatory work which, as is well known by those familiar with mines and mining conditions, is usually unproductive, entailing a large expenditure of money without any return. The point to be impressed upon the people of the state is that the value and production of these mineral properties depends upon human effort, the same as does the value and production of the farm depend upon human effort. The people who have protected their energy in the development of the mining industry should be commended rather than penalized by unjust taxation. This great industry gives employment to an army of workmen and pays out in wages the sum of many millions of dollars each year and this money is spent for the up-building of the state. The mines alone give employment to upwards of 30,000 men. These men are paid in wages approximately Twenty-Five Million Dollars annually and there are many millions paid out each year for supplies and equipment. In addition a large number of men are employed in the transportation of the product of the mines. It is safe to say that for labor alone, the value of the commodities and mining operations in the Upper Peninsula is not less than Five Hundred Million Dollars have been expended. The result has been that the Upper Peninsula has been practically built up and sustained by the mining industry. It seems inconceivable that any citizen of the state would attempt to do anything, especially by way of an unjust exaction of taxes, that will result in crippling this great industry, and that will surely be the result of this so-called tonnage tax. The enactment of a law of this nature means that the upper peninsula mining industry will be worked at a loss and will simply cannot stand any added expense of production. If this unjust tax is added to the burdens they already have to bear they will have to be reduced to one of two things, either the cost of the workman will gain anything by the imposition of this tax upon the production of mines. Certain it is that neither the farmer, the laborer or anyone else will pay one cent less in taxes if this bill should become a law. My experience in government affairs has taught me that whenever a new source of revenue is found, there is at the same time also found a new way of spending it. This is made quite evident by the fact that notwithstanding the new sources of revenue we have found in years ago, the amount of our tax bills have been constantly on the increase.

The claim is made that these mining properties are yielding a net profit of nearly Fifty Million Dollars yearly to Eastern owners. This evidently means that the mining companies should be penalized by the imposition of a disproportionate amount of the tax. In the first place, these statements that are being sent out concerning the mining companies are utterly misleading. If anyone will take the time to investigate, it can be readily ascertained that the mining companies do not make anywhere near Fifty Million Dollars net profit annually, and the statement that the profits go to the Eastern owners is a grossly untrue statement. From this statement it will be assumed by the people of the state that all the stockholders in the iron and copper mines of Michigan reside in the East. The facts are that at least 10,000 citizens of Michigan own stock in these mines, upwards of 3,000 of which are men that work in the mines. As near as I can figure it, about twenty-five per cent of the stock of these mines is owned by citizens of this state. The other seventy-five per cent being scattered all over the world. Certain it is that if this proposed bill should become a law, the working miners who have invested their savings in the stock of the mines would be hit the hardest because in many instances the mines in which they work and have invested their savings work under lease operations, thus not only throwing them out of employment but wiping out their savings. If this is the economic effect that the people of the state desire to bring about in the mining industry, then the best thing they can do is to enact this so-called tonnage tax bill into law. If, on the other hand, it is the policy of the people of this state, and I believe it is, to promote rather than retard the development of mining as well as other industries, then they should defeat this proposed measure in a decisive manner. The unjustness of this tax is made evident when it is known fact that the tax to be exacted would amount to nearly Two Million Dollars annually on the production alone. It amounts to approximately one-fourth of the annual average tax levied upon property every year on all the personal property in the state and it is equal to one-third of the annual state tax levied, and this tax is to be levied upon the production of a single industry. When it is taken into consideration that not to exceed twenty-five per cent of the taxable personal property ever gets up for assessment rolls and that which does get upon the assessment rolls is assessed for taxes at not nearly its actual worth, this proposed tax upon the production of the mining properties is exceedingly vicious and confiscatory in its nature. If and when it shall be considered an equitable tax when I do not know what equitable taxation means. There is no other state in the Union that imposes anywhere near a similar tax upon the production of mines. Our sister states, Minnesota and Wisconsin, with which the mines of Michigan come in direct competition, are assessed on an ad valorem basis the same as the mines of Michigan. Some of the Western states assess their mining properties upon the life basis. The tax here usually being either the gross or net income or a combination of both and net income, and this tax is in lieu of all other taxes upon the mineral wealth. In other words, in the assessment of the real estate mineral wealth is not taken into consideration as it is at the present time in the State of Michigan. Under this proposed bill the mines will be assessed the same as they are now—upon an ad valorem basis, and in making the assessment the assessing officer is compelled, under the law, to take into consideration the mineral wealth. In addition to this, it is now proposed to levy an extraordinary tax upon the production, the mineral wealth being first taxed as real estate and then when it is mined and brought to the surface subjected to another tax as personal property. The mining companies operating in the upper peninsula are, under the present system of taxation, contributing their just share toward the support of government. Indeed, the mining properties are the only properties in the state, excepting the railroad properties, which have been subjected to an expert appraisal for taxation purposes. This appraisal was made by a noted mining engineer at an expense of many thousands of dollars. This appraisal has since been kept up to date by the state geological department, to meet the expense of which there is an appropriation made by each succeeding legislature. This being true, there is no just reason for a specific tax on the production of the mines. When the mining properties, or any other class of property in the state, have contributed their just and equitable share of the tax levy, it is equitable share of the tax levy, it is not one other than those who lack knowledge of what equitable taxation means will make any further attempt toward bringing about the enactment of a law imposing such a specific tax.

Do not believe that the farmers of Michigan or any other class of citizens want to do the mining industry such an injustice as would be done if such a bill as this should become a law. The attempt to impose this additional tax burden upon the mining properties, so far as the few most directly responsible for it are concerned, is evidently actuated by sectional prejudice and a keen desire to shift the tax burden on to the other fellow.

Every citizen of this state having a conscience for fair play and a regard for the "golden rule" should aid in bringing about the defeat of this proposed unjust and discriminatory tax legislation. GEORGE LORD, Detroit, Michigan, Nov. 11, 1914.

PROTEST PLAN OF TONNAGE TAX

Meeting for That Purpose Called for City of Marquette for December 15.

The Crystal Falls Tax Payors' association has moved to obtain a remission of profit from the upper peninsula against the proposed to introduce the tax in Michigan. To that end, it has called a meeting in Marquette for December 15. The plan is outlined in the following letter:

"The movement, initiated by groups of the lower peninsula to pass through by a referendum votes if necessary, a proposition to levy a tonnage tax upon the mines of this state so vitally affects every property owner in the mining districts that this association thinks it wise to seek a united protest from the people and taxpayers of the upper peninsula who are not associated with the mining interests against the unjust burden which our lower peninsula neighbors seek to put upon us.

"This association is composed of local taxpayers and was organized to promote fair and just taxation in this community. Unassociated as we are with any mining interests, we believe in a movement initiated by us to bring concerted action against this tonnage tax proposal will not be interpreted as one for selfish motives but for the good and welfare of all of the people of this peninsula.

"With that end in view, we are writing to you to suggest that a delegate be sent to represent you people as a meeting to be held at Marquette on Tuesday, December 15, for the purpose of protesting to the taxpayers of the lower peninsula just the unjust burden which we are threatened and to form a permanent organization, if deemed advisable for the combatting of the proposition when it is submitted to the people for a vote.

"This circular is being sent to every county, city, township and school district and many prominent men in the mining sections of this peninsula and the holding of the proposed meeting depends upon the number of favorable replies received. If you think favorably of the suggestion will you kindly notify the secretary of this association your willingness to send a delegate.

"Any suggestion which you may have to make will be gladly received. Bear in mind that this proposed meeting is to be one of the non-mining interests and, while we shall invite any and all friends of our cause, we feel that the effect of this proposed meeting will be lessened should any representative other than non-mining men be sent to it and we request that you guide yours accordingly.

"Your truly,
"Crystal Falls Taxpayers' Association."
"THOS. CONLIN,
"President."

FROM BELLINGHAM, WASH.

Gust Lindgren, of Bellingham, Wash., in remitting on subscription account last week, says in Manitoba: "I am always glad to hear from Manitobans through the Pioneer-Tribune. We have had quite a temperance light in Washington this autumn, but we have been dry for four years, but the ex-lipior dealers tried to make it wet again, but the drys won out with 358 majority in the city. Am sending you some of the newspapers so you can read the returns. The state was against prohibition. The liquor dealers have done all in their power to fight the great movement. They had their advertisements on bill boards all over the state. I think that the people of the west have won a great victory when you take into consideration that the daily newspapers were against prohibition. We ought to have many more newspaper men like you, Mr. Hobbin, that dare to speak for the right and against the evil liquor traffic. Bellingham has made more street improvement than any other town they ever did before when they had the saloons. The argument of the saloonmen that no money would come into town was proved a fallacy, and I think that Bellingham will always be dry. When will Michigan go dry? There are four states added to the dry column now, viz. Washington, Oregon, Colorado and Arizona. I think that some of the eastern states will follow soon.

With best greetings to all the readers of the Pioneer-Tribune."

LABOR POORLY PAID

Unskilled Men Get Small Pay in South America.

Women Here Still Worse as Few Occupations Are Open to Them and Wages Are Extremely Poor—Nearly All Illicit.

Miss Lila, Argentine, in a somewhat amusing Brazilian attending on University of Illinois told me that in the percentage of illiterate in the office of the people could neither read nor write. One finds this state of things throughout South America, though in some countries, like Uruguay, the percentage of illiterate is not so great. The women are scarcely schooled at all. Women in South America are far down on life's scale among the cheap things of the marketplace. They are respected by the men and so regard themselves, says Katherine Reynolds in Chicago News. True, the poor opinion that these women have of themselves almost takes one's breath away.

Not long ago I was talking to my cook. She is a native of Uruguay, and unlike the vast majority of domestics who read and write, she could neither read nor write. I found her plowing her way through "Don Quixote." That interested me and I talked. I found her exceptionally bright and intelligent for a native of her class. I drew her on and was surprised to hear her express very sane ideas on South American politics and economic conditions. The girl is an independent cook, but she would make a splendid teacher of political economy. She gave me much interesting information and told me many significant anecdotes bearing on the life of these "new" people. But what astounded me was her closing remark.

"That, señora," she said, "is only what I think and know and is all that I can say. I am a native of this country. I am most certainly only a woman, not a patriot. And a woman cannot, of course, know anything of those things."

So it seems that only men can understand. National patriotic holidays are not women's holidays. Woman suffrage in these lands only a faint, ridiculous sort of far off echo. Indeed, if you mention it even to the most womanly look at you with a smile of pity for your idiosyncrasy even dreaming that such a thing could be.

In all these countries the top layer of society is overeducated. This social class, taking much of its style and temper and education from England, speaks English aristocratically and writes English. The young South American is, as a rule, stentorianly overeducated. The girls, overdressed, overdressed, aping the costumes of a Parisienne, are very nice, but the education they receive is American. They, too, are fitted only for society, and know as yet no way in which to earn a living. The masses have as yet no crudest sort of industrial education.

There are traces here for men and in the cities one can find competent manual carpenters and skilled workmen working on an excellent level. But outside of the cities and the wholly unskilled men working from slaves to serfs here there is no significant work. If for these men begins with the first faint streak of dawn and lasts into the twilight. And for this they are paid 15 cents an hour in our money.

So when you go to a grocery store and discover that crude, dirty granulated sugar is 11 cents a pound and a small bar of cheap toilet soap, that for every quarter of a pound costs 15 cents, a ton, and seven cent cans 35 cents a yard you wonder how they live at all.

One of the chief things in the Argentine republic is meat—best and nation. Pork, ham and bacon cost very nearly their weight in gold and the greater part of the year. And when you go to the market you usually throw it away. It is badly cured, spoiled in part and stinks in the rest. The best one can consider their poor quality, the carcases cutting and filthy delivery. You get 35 cents paper (an Argentine dollar is 40 cents in our money) for a kilo (which is about two and a fifth pounds).

You cannot order a sirloin or porter house steak or a prime rib because there is no such thing as an unknown art. The animal is locked up in any word the word they use for merely mangled chunks of meat. Such a piece of meat is packed every morning on a sort of a paper of paper about it through the hot, dusty streets. Sometimes it is delivered by a man and hands it to another in dirt. Every time the meat man comes you just naturally look around for those fleas you see in the newspaper.

The night before or for very same more to buy is probably killed and cooked before or for very same more to buy. When you come no longer wonder that knowledge is tough and flavorless and you know, too, why so many of those eating natives have stomach troubles. In these places is hard for men it is a thousand times more so for the women. There are at the present time only a few occupations open to the women. They may be domestics, washerwomen or factory hands. As a domestic a girl seldom gets more than thirty cents, or about thirteen dollars a month.

SAYS VAGRANCY IS A DISEASE

Results of Study of 2,600 Outcasts in New York Are Complied by Gotham Official.

New York, Dec. 15.—Results obtained in a study of 2,600 vagrants by the acting superintendent of the New York city hospital, showing that the majority of them are afflicted with a disease of the mind, in a report today that is being made public, is being made public. It is a condition which the greater number of any big city's vagrants are afflicted with, and it is a disease that is thrown out of employment in the course of their advancing years. Contrary to this belief, it was found that by far the greater majority of the vagrants observed were men in the prime of life. Of the 2,600 studied, only a very small percentage, 6.5, were over sixty.

It was further found that less than two per cent were foreigners of two or more than three years residence in this country. And, again contrary to popular supposition, the vagrants were found to be mostly city men, born and bred in the metropolis. The average time of residence in New York proved to be 22 years and two months, with the average age of the vagrants was thirty-six years.

About thirty-five per cent of them were unemployed. With 12 per cent there were evidences of defective mentality. About ten per cent proved to be habitual loafers and confirmed beggars who had lost the habit of work. Some fifty per cent of the men were excessive drinkers. About sixty-five per cent of the applicants were the victims of seasonal trades.

DIG SNAKE HOLDS UP FIVE

Parents and Children Run. Not Move From Edge of Swampy Cleft for Four Hours.

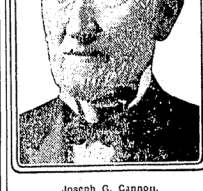

Frankville, Pa. Charles Caputo, six and three-eighths years old, said his eight and twelve-year-old thrilling experience with a monster black snake while they were picking huckleberries on the mountain near here. They were about ready to return home when Caputo spied the reptile, and, picking up a stone, he hit it. This roused the snake, and it sprang at Caputo, who was on the edge of a steep cliff, but he knocked the reptile away.

The cries brought his wife and children to his side. They kept quiet while the snake maintained its position near by without making any more effort to attack him.

For nearly four hours Caputo and his family were held captive without venturing to move. Then Jacob Pozar came along with his dog, and the Caputos made a hasty escape from the scene, while the reptile crept away to some rocks.

Joseph G. Cannon.

Mount Vernon, Ill. How he acquired the "damned" habit was divulged by Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the national house of representatives, in his first Chattanooga appearance. This is what he said:

"I will tell you first how I got the habit," he explained. "I grew up over here in the Walsh bottoms on the Indiana side. Now, I leave it to you if a boy brought up in a team-toeing barn, plowing with a bull-tongue plow in a tangle of roots and getting his shins barbed every time a row flew back and cracked him, would said damn when he got a crack on the shins?"

HIS INSANITY QUICKLY CURED

Kansas City Prisoner Preferred Workhouse to Physician's Mysterious Machines.

Kansas City.—Mikhail Michilivic beat his head against his cell in the jail at the Kansas City police headquarters. Six policemen and a trusty were required to hold him. A doctor was called.

"He's insane from being struck with a brick," the policeman explained in German.

Michilivic fell to the floor and began to roll over and over. In iron he was sent to the hospital. The physician consulted; this brought out a strange looking machine. Michilivic crawled to roll. They moved the machine toward him. Michilivic became perfectly quiet. They attached a tube to the machine.

"It's not crazy; I just thought I'd get out of going to the workhouse," Michilivic protested.

WORLD WAR HITS LUMBER INDUSTRY

Upper Peninsula Concerns, With a Few Exceptions, Reduce Forces and Wages.

The lumber business of upper Michigan is feeling severely the adverse conditions arising from the conflict of the European nations, says the Mining Journal.

Financial and trade considerations are playing an important part in the disposition being made for the logging season now in its inception. Operations will be conducted on a scale considerably below the normal.

Were it not for the demand for pulp-wood and railroad ties, operations in the woods this fall and the coming winter would be curtailed to a materially greater extent. Hard-wood logs are in poor request. The market for hemlock is slack. There is a fair demand for cedar poles and posts, but prices are unsatisfactory.

Spruce, balsam, poplar and small hemlock used for pulp manufacturing railroad ties; but big timber required by sawmills is not wanted in the volume noted a year ago. Wages in the woods generally are considerably below those paid last season, and last season's ruling wages were below the average for several years previous. The condition of the labor market as well as a slack demand for timber products, is responsible. With many mines idle or producing on a reduced basis, labor is pressing for employment. Most woods operators are working but small forces.

There is hardly a mill in upper Michigan that has not large quantities of unsold lumber in its yards. The docks at the big plant of the S. Stephenson company at Wells alone approximate 500,000 feet of lumber valued at $2,000,000. The lumber mill is not in commission, due to the lack of pulling room. The mills of Schneider & Brown at Marquette and the Baraga Lumber company at Baraga have been wrought for some time past on single shift.

The very Marquette company at Rapid River has suspended sawing for the year, as has the Dollar Bay Land company at Dollar Bay. The Eddy Lumber company of Lake Linden is winding up its year's run and the Greenwood lumber company of Ontonagon has scaled down its working forces in the woods.

The old adage of the silver lining for every dark cloud is applicable to the situation. Manistique's most recent manufacturing concern, the Handle factory, is operating its factory overtime to keep up with the demand. Buildings will comprise the plant of the Manistique Coopers company, another new industry at the upper Lake Michigan port. A large force of men will be given permanent employment. At Hancock, a manufactory for the William C. Keller Chair company is nearing completion. The Lake Independence Lumber company, operating at Big Bay, Marquette county, and controlled by the Brunswick-Balke Colender company, is employing a normal force of 500 men in its mill and logging work.

With the European war responsible for an increased demand for paper, the plant of the Munising Paper company at Munising is operating day and night. An addition to be devoted to the manufacture of fine and bonds is in course of construction at a cost of $250,000 and will go into operation January 1.

THE PRIMARY LAW.

Governor Ferris believes that the primary law should be amended, but he is not yet ready to indicate what he will recommend to the legislature.

Discussion of the shortcomings of the statute will apparently have an important place in the forthcoming legislative session. The Detroit News prints a biting criticism of the personnel of the committee appointed by the Republican state central committee to recommend changes.

It is proposed that the independent press of the state will very closely scrutinize its work and its recommendations, and that unless they appear fair and reasonable they will be strongly opposed. It should be clearly understood by all who are busy themselves with this subject, and by the legislature, that what the state desires is improvement, not emasculation of the primary statute. The men who sought to emasculate it would presently hear something dire.

The public will have an attentive eye for whatever is done in connection with the primary law. It will be difficult to slip anything over.—Mining Journal.

It is going dry because the curse of alcohol has become an economic issue and is being put to the pocket-book or acid test and its tremendous cost is becoming impressed upon society.

The railroads and all of the other big and powerful corporations have declared against whisky and whisky drinkers and in the meantime have made a fortune in the process.

The big corporation FIGURES that its success is threatened if there is a whisky drinker anywhere in the organization, and is making sure those days that there is a whisky drinker NOWHERE.

And the nation that is at war in Europe at the present time feels the same way about it.

Volva is going in Russia and the Czar has decreed that when peace shall have come again, traffic in alcohol shall be unknown to his country.

The French soldier no longer is given his absinthe and a notion has now been made in the house of commons in London to prohibit the sale of liquor during the war.

Who will doubt even the Hobson prediction of UNIVERSAL prohibition?

The man who will scoff at the prediction by Rep. Hobson that this mighty and puissant nation is soon to arise like an old man out of its sleep and be the overthrow of the whisky monster, is the present-day fanatic, wildly enthusiastic in his liberal view that he alone espouses the cause of personal liberty.

The brewer, the distiller, the wholesale liquor dealer and the retail liquor dealer probably entertain the idea that Hobson is talking through his hat.

These agents of the monster do not reckon, however, on the sentiment of men whom they would categorize as liberal, but who would be glad of the chance to vote the saloon and booze out of their sight and out of their lives.

The states of this country already dry have been voted dry by their liberals; by fathers who like a drop now and then, but who have boys growing up; by employers who like a drop now and then, but who are aware of the danger in their example before their employees; by brothers who like a drop now and then, but who have weaker brothers to be mindful of; BY SALOONKEEPERS, even, whose troubled consciences have awakened them to the vicious and damnable character of the business.

The personal liberty fanatic is not aware of these facts, nor does he appreciate the progress made for nation-wide prohibition when the spectacle of booze interference in elections is presented as it was recently in Michigan.

Rep. Hobson's prediction will not be questioned in Michigan by those who are familiar with the inside of the late primaries and the late election.

Furthermore, it is the belief of this newspaper that before the next legislature adjourns the ranks of those who support him in his view will have been augmented by a few thousand good people of this state with the fog out of their eyes, who will suggest that, if anything, in his prediction Hobson was too conservative.—Droit Times.

TEN YEARS AGO THEY WOULD HAVE CRIED HOBSON DOWN AS A FANATIC.

Speaking in Detroit in support of his bill in congress for nation-wide prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors, Rep. Richmond Pearson Hobson predicted that in 1925 the United States will be dry.

Had Hobson made this prediction 10 years ago he would have been laughed to scorn.

But in these 10 years there have been happenings in connection with this issue which justify the Hobson view and absolve both the man who espouses it and those who agree with him from any charge of fanaticism.

Nearly one-third of the states are dry today. Four-fifths of the national area is dry.

To have made a prediction 10 years ago that such would be the case, would have exposed one to derision from as a crank.

It is going dry because the curse of alcohol has become an economic issue and is being put to the pocket-book or acid test and its tremendous cost is becoming impressed upon society.

The railroads and all of the other big and powerful corporations have declared against whisky and whisky drinkers and in the meantime have made a fortune in the process.

THE FRIENDLIEST THING IN THE WORLD IS THE LITTLE CHEW OF "RIGHT-CUT". IT SATISFIES A MAN. MAKES HIM WISH ALL MEN KNEW THE RICH TASTE AND SOLID COMFORT OF THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW, AND EAGER TO PASS THE GOOD WORD ALONG.

"Right-Cut" gives up its substance of full-bodied, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the ordinary size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength cheer that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few cheews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a real chew, one fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary cut tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste is pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with peppers and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut".

One small chew takes the place of two big cheews of the old kind.

HUNTERS CONTINUE TO ARRIVE

Men Returning from Deer Hunting Say That Travel in the Woods is Dangerous.

Although the deer season is more than a week advanced, lower state hunters in large numbers, are making their way to various points in the peninsula. Yesterday the afternoon train from the east was more than an hour late, owing to delay in stopping for hunters along the line, and last night's train was belated for the same cause. Last Saturday it was estimated from the number of deer licenses issued that there were ten thousand hunters in the peninsula, and it is now said that this number has been largely increased the last ten days.

Hunters who have returned to the city this week say that there are in the woods so many men with guns that travel is dangerous, and some are returning to their homes, on account of this alone. Shots can be heard in every direction, they assert, and as a result the deer are on the move continually, making it more difficult to obtain a shot each succeeding day. Notwithstanding, however, the number of deer that have been received in Marquette since the opening of the season is much in excess of the number obtained during the same period a year ago, and the snow now on the ground will aid the hunters materially. The deer are said to be fairly plentiful.

From some localities the game warden have received reports that the hares are not being observed as they might be. It is said that in some instances dogs are being used. Deputies are making every endeavor to locate the offenders.

While the woods are fairly swarming with hunters, the number of accidents reported to date in this particular region is less than a year ago. Not a fatality has occurred in this county.—Mining Journal.

RED CROSS STAMP.

The local society will place on sale a large consignment of anti-tuberculosis stamps the latter part of next week. The stamps are sold in denomination of one cent, so that every one can assist the worthy cause. It is hoped that the good record made by this county last year shall be materially exceeded.

The fire department was called to the John Shuster residence on north Second street yesterday afternoon.

The exhibit of upper peninsula potatoes at the Prister Hotel is particularly interesting because it consists entirely of prize-winners at the Potato Congress which was held at Menominee last month. Conspicuous in the exhibit are magnificent specimens of two especially recommended varieties, the Sir Walter Raleighs and the Royal New Yorkers. These potatoes have thin skins and are naturally fitted to yield the best results for people who like baked potatoes.

From the soundness and perfection of the potatoes grown in the upper Michigan peninsula it is evident that the region known as Cleveland, is the No. 1 Wisconsin, superbly adapted to raising what next to bread is the great vegetable staple of the American dinner table.—Evening Wisconsin.

PRACTICAL PHILANTHROPIY.

The Women's Reading Club Generously Donates to the Aid of the Sick of Community.

"I was an hungry, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger and ye took me in."

"Naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick and ye visited me."

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Matthew XXV 35, 36, 40.

The Women's Reading Club held its annual Philanthropic meeting Tuesday of this week at the home of Mrs. V. I. Hixson. It took the form this year of a "showcase" for the Visiting Nurse, and since this community has no one paid to serve in this capacity,

Mrs. A. M. LeRoy is proving herself a veritable "Little Sister to the Poor" by her capable, unceasing and self-sacrificing efforts in this behalf. Mrs. LeRoy was consulted as to the most insistent needs of the sick on her list, and as a result the club ladies responded generously to the demands.

A goodly array of warm, comfortable bed slippers and foot warmers, invalid capes, kimonos, dainty bed caps, wash cloths, soap, talcum powder, bed extract and a large supply of delicious jellies will go to cheer those who are suffering.

An earnest and interesting description of the work in this locality was given by Mrs. LeRoy who quoted the above scriptures to the club.

The Philanthropic committee, Mrs. C. W. Duntan and Mrs. V. I. Hixson served light refreshments at the close of the afternoon's work.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. F. R. Leach of the First Baptist Church, will preach the Sermon at Union Services.

The union Thanksgiving services will be held at the Methodist church next Thursday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, and Rev. F. R. Leach of the First Baptist church, will preach the sermon.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at this service. The community as well as this church have countless reasons for giving thanks to the Supreme Being, for His manifold kindnesses to the people of community and country. We, as citizens can at least make a formal expression of our appreciation of His care, by participating in the public services to be held next Thursday.

If fortune has blessed you above that of others about you, you should not show a selfish spirit by feasting on the day in question and not providing some family or families less fortunately situated, a substantial feast. If you are truly thankful, that spirit will manifest itself in a tangible form.

That the United States seems to be the most favored country on earth, is the conclusion arrived at when one reads of the heartrending accounts of the devastation, suffering and privations that stalk over the greater portion of Europe at the present time.

JUDGE FEAD HONORED.

Supreme Court Adopts His Opinion Without a Change.

Judge Louis H. Fead of this circuit was recently accorded the honor and distinction of having one of his decisions adopted by the supreme court as its own, without making a single change in any of its rulings.

The case in question was that of Closser vs. McBride, tried before Judge Fead in the Chippewa county circuit court in this city, from which appeal was taken to the supreme court. The review was made before a full bench and Judge Fead's opinion adopted in full. In quoting his opinion the supreme justices say: "This case was tried before the court without jury. The opinion of the circuit judge fully states the facts involved and the law applicable thereto. We therefore adopt it as our own."

It is but rarely the supreme court thus honors a lower court in adopting its decision without change, and is considered a high distinction among the legal fraternity. Judge Fead is rapidly acquiring the reputation of being one of the brightest and most learned jurists on the American bench.—Sun Times.

Max is a well known workman and is well and favorably known here.

COOKSON HONORED.

This is the second time that Mr. Cookson has been similarly honored, as he was designated to attend the congress held at St. Louis last year.

NOTICE.

All owners of cattle should white-wash their barns, mixing about 5 per cent of carbolic acid with the whitewash. This is a good preventative for the hoof and mouth disease, and may be the means, if adopted by all owners of cattle of preventing the appearance of the dreadful disease in this county. The county can ill afford to be quarantined for the disease in question.

ASHLAND AND HINES LAMP TO PORT AFTER LONG NIGHT OF TERROR.

Minus its deck-load of 600,000 feet of white pine lumber, valued at $15,000, the barge Ashland, in tow of the steamer L. Edward Hines, both belonging to the Hines Lumber Co., limped into Alton today. Both ships are in badly battered condition.

After a night of terror, during which two members of the largest crew narrowly escaped with their lives, the crippled ship lay a flume at half-mast, opposite Thunder Bay island this morning, and the lifeboats were hoisted in the river here. Capt. Kenneth McKewin, of the Hines, declares the night to have been the worst of his experience of a quarter of a century on the great lakes, not excepting that of Nov. 9, 1913, when he piloted the Hines to safety in Duluth harbor.

The Hines and Ashland went into the gale about 11 o'clock Thursday night at a point about ten miles south of Thunder Bay island. As they proceeded the intensity of the gale increased and for hours the steamer was unable to make headway.

The masts and rigging were torn loose and blown into the lake and at daybreak the deck-load of lumber went. They were unable to see on account of the blinding snow.

How William Johnson, mate, son of the master of the craft, and John Jacobson, a sailor, escaped from being taken overboard with the lumber, Capt. Johnson, of the Ashland, was unable to say this afternoon. The men were standing near the stern of the barge, when suddenly the boat lurched to one side and the lumber went. The men made a flying leap and by good fortune landed on the cabin.

The lumber passed beneath them to the water and floated away. Had they been carried along it would have been impossible to save them. The waves washed over the barge and it was unsafe to stand on deck.

The Ashland's anchor, weighing more than a ton and a half, was picked up by the wind and thrown through the forecabin. Shutters and dishes were broken and the craft was loosened in many places.

The Hines escaped any serious damage, but the waves broke its shutters and windows.

The Ashland is one of the largest lumber barges on the great lakes, being 220 feet long. She is a staunch craft and this alone is responsible for its weathering the gale.

SURPRISING THE NATIVES.

Detroit Paper Praises the Products of the Upper Peninsula.

Referring editorially to Colonel Mack's exhibition of the prize winning potatoes from the Cloverland Congress, and his advertising in connection therewith, the Detroit Free Press of yesterday says:

Michigan's upper peninsula continues to surprise the outside world by fresh revelations of the extent and variety of its resources, but a postcard announcement of an exhibit it is making in Milwaukee shows proof of its capabilities beyond anything yet offered that has gone through the "Clover Land" area of such a uniformly valuable character that they are sent to the market wrapped in individual paper coverings. It is customary enough nowadays to have fine fruits shipped with this extreme care, but to find the humble potato raised to such a lofty eminence is a convincing proof that the upper peninsula not only grows a superior quality of the golden russets, but can get buyers willing enough to pay the price that such choice products must demand.

Those who have been thinking of the upper peninsula as comparable to Alaska, a blank land that seemed sure to be good for nothing at all and later turned out to hold rich treasures of mineral, will have to enlarge their conception of it still further in the face of the continuous proof it is giving of its agricultural possibilities. And they are in for still more pleasing discoveries about this northern country, for they will learn as they get better acquainted with it that it raises also a superior grade of bread and wheat, and corn, which are the best product of any land.
