MOVED INTO NEW BUILDING

The Peoples Store Co. Has Moved Into New Business Block—Formal Opening to be Held Later.

The stock of the Peoples Store Co. was moved into the mammoth new building of the company at the corner of Cedar and Oak street, this week, and while business is being done at the new location, yet the goods are not placed in permanent position, and the formal opening will not be held until July 15th.

The new building is the largest in the city and occupies an area of 110x100 feet, two floors. The building has been previously described in these columns, therefore an extended description of same is superfluous. It possesses the best display windows to be found north of Milwaukee, being 210 feet in length, and eight feet in height.

The interior of the store is exceptionally well lighted during the day time, owing to the mammoth skylight in center of roof. The new system of electrical lighting will flood the store with artificial daylight, at night.

All departments usually found in a complete department store have been aggregated in the new building. The meat department is exceptionally well equipped. The very latest in sanitary fixtures have been installed in this department during the past week by a Milwaukee firm. All meats, whether in the mammoth coolers or on the exhibition counters, will be kept at a freezing temperature.

This department has not been opened to the public as yet, but orders for meats will be taken in a few days.

Every known convenience has been installed in this new building. There are rest rooms for the country people, where they can eat their lunch and visit with acquaintances. No money has been spared in making the store complete in every detail.

The heating plant is sufficiently large to keep the temperature of the store at an even heat no matter how cold the weather may be.

New fixtures have been installed and they are the best that can be purchased. The floors are of wood. The building was erected by Danielson & Erikson, and it certainly proves that they are experts in the endeavor. Fred Williams of the electric light system, while Barton Bros. installed the heating plant and did most of the plumbing.

The building was designed by Architect Demar of the city, and in its plans was incorporated Mr. Yalomstein's ideas as to what constitutes a model store.

Mr. Yalomstein, the manager and chief stockholder of the Peoples Store Co., has been not only for the present but for many years in the store. Manistique will more than double in population until another store of the magnitude of the store in question shall be erected. As was stated last week, Mr. Yalomstein has an abiding faith in the future of Manistique, and is unafraid to back his judgment with his money. The fruits of his faith is a store building that is metropolitan in its appearance, appointments and size, and a stock of goods that is by far the largest in the city.

CANDIDATES FOR REELECTION.

Messrs. John Coffey and Charles R. Orr to Succeed Selves on Board of Education.

The annual school election will be held next Monday, July 12th and but two candidates have filed petitions, viz: Messrs. John Coffey and Charles R. Orr, whose terms expire this year. The city is to be congratulated upon the fact that these gentlemen have decided to make the race for another term. The board of education, as at present constituted consists of good business men that have the best interests of the schools at heart, and such men should be retained just as long as they are willing to fill the thankless task as members of the board of education.

HE HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Mr. Wm. Dennison Fell from Tramway Into the River. Saturday Night.

Mr. Wm. Dennison fell off the tramway into the river last Saturday evening about nine o'clock, while en route home from the city to the west. His cries for help were heard by Mr. Mitterhausen, night watchman at the Consolidated Lumber Co.'s mill, who had gone to the Ironson mill to extinguish a light in the mill upon the orders of Foreman Gaynor. Mitterhausen found Dennison clinging to a pile and was in the water up to his neck. Securing a rope from the mill Mitterhausen was unable to pull him up. Fastening the rope, he ran to the steam mill and secured assistance. Dennison managed to fasten the rope around his body, and he was drawn out.

If Mitterhausen had not heard his cries for help, Dennison would no doubt have perished.

Barton & Larson are utilizing two pages of this issue in price quotations but will be in vogue during their July clearance sale. This company is offering new goods at amazingly low prices, and it will pay the average family to purchase the advertisement carefully.

MANISTIQUE IN MOVIES. THE STREETS

Manufacturing Plants, Prominent Residences and Farm Views Taken.

Moving pictures of Manistique's principal manufacturing plants and best residences were taken this week by the Newman-Dietze Co. Some of the principal near-by farms were also taken, notably the Marbledale farm of the White Marble Lime Co. These pictures will be shown in the various cities of the upper peninsula for the purpose of increasing the interest in the forthcoming Firemen's tournament.

NOTED LECTURER. HERE NEXT WEEK

Mrs. French, who by the way is not a stranger to Manistique audiences, will deliver a temperance address at the First Baptist church next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and hear the address which will be one of the very best ever given in the city on the subject in question.

GLADSTONE TO PLAY MANISTIQUE

Will Play Here Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11—Good Games Expected.

C. E. Scott, secretary of the local baseball club, has booked two games with Gladstone for Saturday and Sunday, and two fast games are expected. Gladstone's line-up has been entirely changed since they played here last week, having won every game except one. They are during here confident of taking both games from Manistique. A large crowd is expected to witness these games.

TO DECORATE THE STREETS

Western Flag Decoration Co. to Doll Up the City for Annual Firemen's Tournament.

That Manistique's business section will present a gain appearance, during the annual firemen's tournament to be held in this city early next month, is a certainty. A St. Louis firm has been engaged to decorate the business streets, the city hall and the C. L. Co. barn which will be used for storage of apparatus. The firm in question will place in position more than fifty strings of flags, and hanging over Oak, Cedar and River streets. For this service they will be paid $125. The firm also hopes to secure contracts for decorating business houses.

The Manistique Light & Power Co. will also erect additional arches, supplementing the present offensive arch system. That Manistique will have a "white way" is a certainty.

No expense is being spared by the committee to give the visitors a good time, and from the present activity of the committee in charge, it is safe to conjecture that the tournament to be held at Manistique this year, will be the most successful in the history of the association.

Manistique wants and expects a good delegation from every city and county of the upper peninsula, and it is itself in a special haste to accommodate every person that shall come.

INJURED AT HANDLE FACTORY.

Henry Mullaup, who is employed at the Handle factory, unloading logs was injured about the neck and forehead when a rope broke while he was hoisting a log.

He was holding a bar when the log fell and struck the bar. The bar in turn, struck him in the face. A few teeth were knocked out, and he received a haircut over the eye.

"HERE OR NOWHERE" HIS SUBJECT.

Also, "Rags and Rainbows," One of Noted Author's Favorite Themes.

Harold Norton Kramer, who lectures in the Manistique chautauqua room the afternoon of the fifth day, speaks upon two subjects which are widely discussed. The first is "Here or Nowhere," which is a striking, earnest, and valuable message. The second is "Rags and Rainbows," in which the author is so full in thought and courageous in statement. It contains the broad sympathy, the soul depth, the optimistic philosophy that have characterized all of Mr. Kramer's novels. Many of his arguments are dressed pleasingly, flashes of wit and humor not only adding to the enjoyment of the address, but also adding to its effectiveness.

In the second subject "Rags and Rainbows," Mr. Kramer presents in a happy manner an optimistic philosophy of life. "Rags and Rainbows" possibly comes nearer touching all of the chords of the heart and soul than does any of the other of Mr. Kramer's lectures, but, bright and scintillating as it is for the most part, through it all is interwoven an unbroken thread of philosophy that is sound. There is an atmosphere about this lecture that is as sweet as June roses and that steals into the hearer's hearts with the chastening power of a benediction.

John Irving Gibbs and Gertrude Blanche Foster, both of Coons, were married at the Presbyterian parsonage Monday, July 14, by Rev. J. R. Mitchell.

FINALLY GOT HIS INTERVIEW

Death of James Greenleaf Recalls Remarkable Exploit of Newspaper Man.

James Greenleaf's death in Germany while still in the prime of life recalls an exploit of which any newspaper reporter might be proud, observes the Wall Street Journal. He was in London at the time of the Baring crisis in 1890, and performed the unheard-of feat of securing for the New York Herald an exclusive interview with the governor of the Bank of England.

It is a matter of history how the governor, the right Hon. William H. Lidderdale, handled that crisis. He lived to see the Barings successfully liquidated and stronger than ever, with the financial situation in Argentina restored, the $3,000,000 gold which he borrowed from the Bank of France returned in due course with the seals of the package unbroken. The London market was lifted over a desperate emergency with the minimum of disturbance, although there were some forty failures in the stock exchange.

Lidderdale did not long ago, leaving an estate valued at only $2,000. He was a strong man and an honest one. But the joke of interviewing him was so remote that only an irreverent American would have thought of it. Greenleaf had no massey or letters of introduction. He simply went to the Bank of England, and starting with the astonishing "hello," worked his way up. He was sent from department to department, to the secret amusement of various heads, until he actually found himself in the presence of the governor.

But the joke failed to explode. Lidderdale was a long-headed Scotchman, much too intelligent not to see the value of publicity at such a time. He was no slave to precedent. He gave Greenleaf an excellent interview, which was published in the following Sunday's New York Herald. It was a great success; and the London papers spent money fanatically on cable toll getting facts on their own situation from New York for their Monday morning issue.

A precedent was set, and since that time Anglo-American financiers have been more approachable. It may be said also that publicity, there, as in Wall street, has done much to clean up admitted evils, and to set honest finance right with public opinion. The story of Greenleaf's exploit, which should never be forgotten.

New Telegraph Code.

A new form code chart for simplifying the teaching of the Continental telegraph code has been evolved by a Chicago inventor. In place of the usual method of representing the different telegraphic equivalents for letters and figures in the form of dots and dashes, the characters are indicated by small and large letters or figures; the former representing the dots and the latter the dashes. For instance, the letter "A" is represented as "na," meaning dot dash—two letters "B" is shown as "bb" or dash dot dot dot. Thus, by this simple method, the inventor has eliminated the great confusion arising from the dash-dot representations of the various characters. The letters and figures are fixed in the memory of the student as large and small characters instead of in the form of a complicated mass of letters, figures and combinations of dots and dashes. It is stated that this chart has greatly simplified the learning of the code.

Facetious Signs in Paris.

On Remontheu's white and gold doors, which were tarred to the smart throng of tea drinkers, appeared the following legend: "Closed on account of mobilization. Mr. Rumpelmayer is a French citizen and is doing his duty to his country. In case of urgent necessity, please telegraph to the regiment at—"

THEIR GROCERY BILL WHEN A MAN MARRIES

OF COURSE MA WAS MOST ECONOMICAL, BUT— IS HE SUPPOSED TO SPEEISE ENTIRE FAMILY?

The Family Had to Have Butter and Anything But the Best, and Lots of it, Was Out of the Question.

"Our grocery bill is larger again this month," said pa, glumly, according to the Boston Globe. "We have got to cut down expenses."

"I'm sure I try," replied ma, in an injured tone. "I try to get along as economically as possible, but we must eat, and everything is 'out of sight.' Perhaps you can suggest where we can cut down."

"Well, I don't know just where. The children might get along without butter on their bread when they pile on jelly the way they do. Butter is a big item."

"Oh, pa, that would be terrible," cried Mary. "I guess you never tried just eating bread and jelly."

"Indeed, I have, and thought it was mighty good, too. Why, when I was a boy we made a loaf of bread spread with molasses, and no butter, either. I could eat a piece now if I had it."

"If you would buy things in the city and bring them home you could probably save money," suggested ma.

"Perhaps I could, but, unfortunately, my time is pretty well taken up earning what is respectfully called a salary. The best thing we can do is to move out where we can raise hens and vegetables. We can't keep on living here if prices keep going up."

"Why don't you ask for a raise?" suggested ma, hopefully.

"Lots of good it would do. Just now the company is retrenching and I'm more likely to get salaries than to increase them."

"The idea," said ma, indignantly. "The trouble with you is you're afraid to ask. I bet I'd talk to them. I'd just tell them I couldn't keep a family of six on such a small salary, and that I had to have more money."

"They should worry," replied pa, grimly. "I don't know where they are responsible for my having a wife and four children. Of course, if I don't want to stay, I can quit."

"They would never let you quit. They couldn't get along without you. Don't you do all the work, while Mr. Smith draws the big salary? He has a motor car and they go everywhere," said ma, waxing indignant.

"You compliment me, I'm sure," replied pa, "but you're not just wise to the situation. It would be very gratifying to think that I was so important, but unfortunately I am very well aware that there are several men perfectly willing to step in if I stop doing my job. No man is so important that the world couldn't get along without him. If I should quit it would cause some temporary inconvenience, but the moon and stars would continue their daily routine, and the company would still do business at the old stand."

"I think they're just horrid, anyway, and I'd like to tell them so."

"Please don't. It might cause the whole board of directors to lose sleep—and they are strongly averse to losing anything."

"There's the order man," said ma. "Margie, don't forget to order five pounds of the best butter."

Consensus of Cases Seems to Show That He Usually Marries His Wife and All Her Relatives—How It Works.

"Does a man marry his wife's family?" the editor inquired. But a prominent society woman declared not long ago that he does—no matter what he thinks about it—and more recently a prominent college professor made the same statement.

Looking around among one's acquaintances, for evidence, it is a pretty general fact that the wife's family is more in evidence than the husband's. One hears more of the wife's kin, and the children seem to be better acquainted with relatives on the maternal side.

When mother's relatives come visiting they are made much of and even on the rim of the house. If any of father's relatives have the temerity to invite themselves for an extended visit there is a chill in the home atmosphere and nobody acts natural—least of all father, who is made to feel that he is imposing upon the good nature of his overworked wife.

The wife's relatives feel that it is not only their right but their bounden duty to but in, in whatever circumstances. And usually the husband is accepted passively and endures more or less amiably by the entire family. Any husband who is a gentleman will do his best to keep himself at home, or, if he cannot contain himself at the moment, go down and make the furnace and chimney with the wife.

And yet, the amount of damage that a husband's relatives can do, once they determine to make themselves felt.

When a husband's mother decides that his children are not being brought up right, or that his wife is a poor housekeeper, extravagant or a poor housekeeper, and that her interference is necessary, real trouble starts, not only for the man's wife but even more so for the man himself.

The mother-in-law does not attempt what his own mother will do to him. The wife may have a mother-in-law brother who occasionally comes and it can't be helped, but if he comes upon her hospitality, but if the husband has such a brother, nine times in ten the brother has married a motor car and they go everywhere," said ma, waxing indignant.

"You compliment me, I'm sure," replied pa, "but you're not just wise to the situation. It would be very gratifying to think that I was so important, but unfortunately I am very well aware that there are several men perfectly willing to step in if I stop doing my job. No man is so important that the world couldn't get along without him. If I should quit it would cause some temporary inconvenience, but the moon and stars would continue their daily routine, and the company would still do business at the old stand."

"I think they're just horrid, anyway, and I'd like to tell them so."

"Please don't. It might cause the whole board of directors to lose sleep—and they are strongly averse to losing anything."

"There's the order man," said ma. "Margie, don't forget to order five pounds of the best butter."

Indolence characters may be written or drawn on glass or porcelain and when treated with hydrochloric acid the surface covered by the characters becomes etched, through the use of a pencil of aluminum. When the characters are not etched, but burnished, they resemble bluish silver. A Swiss scientist in the discovery of this method is the discoverer of this method.

It is indispensable first to remove every trace of grease from the surface to be ornamented by polishing with chalk, else the aluminum will not take hold. As the effect is produced only on substances containing silicic acid, it has been suggested that an aluminum pencil would be an unerring detector of false diamonds. Magnesium, cadmium and zinc act in a similar manner, but their traces readily oxidize.

Americanism.

Glancing over a farming article in an American paper, writes a correspondent of a "London Journal," I found myself "up against" this astounding record, "One calf was nursing two cows." By degrees the things that seemed to stand on their heads came to a natural position, for I remembered that in America it is the suckling that "nurses," and not the nurse. This topsy-turvy is due to a kind of characteristic proclivity, which forbids such words as "suckling" or "suckling." But no such explanation applies to the verb "to feed." We feed a pig with corn or a furnace with coke. The American, invariably, feeds corn to the pig and feeds coke to the furnace, which is really not good English.

Under-Water Tossins.

After the burning of the transatlantic steamship Columbia, one of the boats drifted for no less than two weeks in the path of transatlantic liners; but, although the wrecked seamen saw several steamers, they could not attract their attention by signals. Of the 15 men in the boat, 11 died before the boat was scuttled. Had the lifeboat carried a submarine bell, it is probable that the Titanic steamers would have seen it at a distance of several miles.

Domesticated Geography.

You can wander around Metz (France), and Gibraltar (Spain), and Dunkirk (Belgium) without being shot as a spy. If more scholarly associations beckon, what say you to London (Texas), Stratford (Connecticut), Oxford (Idaho), Hoffenberg (Mississippi) and Cambridge (Maine)? If you love art and architecture, his away to Milan (Tennessee), Florence (Utah), Vienna (South Dakota), or Versailles (Kentucky). And if you seek the antique flavor of Athens, or Pompeii, or Venice, or any other venerable ruin—

But what's the use? We have it all in America! Just run over the map and take your choice. Geography is the finest of indoor sports this year, anyhow.

Barrels of Betsy.

Sol. Bobbster—Hear about the robbery down 't the 5 an' 10-cent store last night?

Elmer Hyrack—Nops. D'they get much?

Sol. Bobbster—Yep. They was in there two hours, and carried away nearly a dollar's worth o' goods.

Fuck.

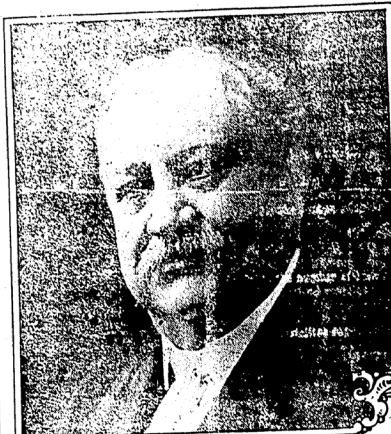

Rather indefinite.

Quest in a—Walter, you don't mean to say this is spring lamb?

Walter—Yassah, dat's what it am, lamb.

Quest—Dat! Spring of what year?

IS TWIN BROTHER TO A JUDGE.

Famous Wit and Humorist to Appear on Chautauqua Program.

Booth Lowrey, who will speak afternoon and night on the opening day of the Manistique Chautauqua, is a twin brother of Judge Ferrin H. Lowrey, of whom he is very fond, and in whose career he takes great pride. Nothing, however, not even the Judge, escapes Booth Lowrey's jokes. "Judge," he said once, in good natured badinage, "you have received a good many honors and will receive many more, but I hope you will not get chesty. Always remember, my boy, that I have one distinction which you can never reach—I am twin brother to a judge."

On one occasion he met a bright woman who is a great admirer of Judge Lowrey, and who, when she learned of their close relationship, began to pay the judge a glowing tribute. Mr. Lowrey "heard her through and then replied, 'Madam, you can't tell me a thing about that boy. I roomed with him twenty years.'"

"I have often wondered," said Mr. Lowrey once to a circle of friends, "how a fellow feels who has no twin. I do not wish to criticize the majority but don't you think it requires great self-assurance for a man to come into this big world by himself? I didn't have the hardihood to undertake it."

EXPECTED TO PAY UP.

Rev. G. Harper Reid Has Been Brought to the Soo by Sheriff.

Rev. Harper Reid, who is charged with obtaining money under the pretenses through the passing of worthless checks on local merchants to the amount of between $1,000 and $2,000, will be arraigned before Judge Colwell in justice court some time this afternoon. This was the information given The News today by Prosecuting Attorney Thomas J. Green, who has the case in hand. Attorney M. L. Marchant is acting for Rev. Reid.

Sheriff John H. Bone returned Saturday with Rev. Reid from New York city, where he was being held by the police officials. The sheriff had no difficulty in prevailing upon Rev. Reid to come back, as he was perfectly willing to return to the Soo.

Although bewildered at the action taken against him by the authorities, Rev. Reid is apparently in good spirits and is planning to contest the case against him with vigor, according to Sheriff Bone. Sheriff Bone declared that the trip back from New York with Rev. Reid was a pleasant one. The minister had no intention of starting proceedings if New York against being brought back to the Soo, according to the sheriff.

Intended to Come Back.

Rev. Reid thinks that the case against him is unfair. It is officially understood that previous to this he has given out thousands of dollars in checks, large amounts of which went to local merchants. It appears that he recently had some misunderstanding in regard to his accounts in a bank and for this reason his checks were not honored. He declares that he was not trying to escape prosecution and Sheriff Bone bears him out in this to the extent that he had written letters to local persons telling where he was going.

Sheriff Bone says there is no doubt that the pastor was on his way to England. Rev. Reid told the sheriff he had written in some of his letters that he was only going over to try and settle things up.

Mr. French of Marinette, who is so favorably known here by purchasing fruit trees, has discovered a solution that will kill San Jose Scale and Oyster Shell, two bunnies that are so apt to discourage fruit growth in this section. The solution has been successfully used by Messrs. Cookson, Chas. Bartlett and the other of the Pioneer-Tribune.
