Defunct Business May Get State Relief

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 30.—A study is being made by the Department of State this year resulting in a request for legislative relief for defunct corporations. At the present time, charters of corporations that are more than one year delinquent in payment of corporate taxes, are automatically revoked. Many of these former corporations, which have lost their corporate powers and which have operated at a deficit for years, now inform the department that they will be able to continue in business at a profit, if their charters can be restored. It is likely that legislative action will be requested to allow delinquent corporation taxes to be paid in installments as are delinquent property taxes.

Many Automobiles Left In Forests As Hunters Hasten Out of Woods

Unless there is an extraordinary and unexpected "softening" of the weather north of the straits, scores and perhaps hundreds of automobiles, trailers and horse-drawn cars, driven into the backwoods by deer hunters before the big snow two weeks ago, will not regain the main roads until next spring.

The mild, almost snowless weather of the last four hunting seasons has led many who go north in automobiles each year to make camp farther and farther off the main roads and beaten trails. This season there was a stampede of hunters to annex the best backwoods locations.

On Sunday, November 12, three days before the season officially opened, there was a literal black-out of hunters at Mackinac City. Although three state ferries were in operation, many cars waited from four to six hours before being moved across the nine-mile water gap at St. Ignace.

And it was these early birds, rushing into the woods to annex the best and most remote campsites, who found themselves in serious difficulty when the heavy snow fell on Monday night and deposited a heavy blanket of snow over most of the hunting country. This difficulty was intensified when steady falling snow on Tuesday and Wednesday night, the heaviest precipitation was measured by feet in the woods and even the main highways were buried deep.

There was little, if any, hunting done in the woods on Wednesday, the opening day of the season. Walking without snowshoes along the woods was almost impossible along the south shore of Lake Superior, and visibility, especially in the evergreens, was down to a few yards. With the clearing of the weather on Thursday, many of the more timid or prudent of the hunters began showing their way out of the woods to the roads in anticipation of the eventual coming of the snowplow. They had enough and were hemeward bound, minus their luck.

One group of 30 men, comprising six camps located near Black crossing northwest of Seney cooperated to dig one another out to the main trail and then, working in shifts, shoveled and pushed

Public Letter Box

November 15, 1932
To The Pioneer-Tribune:
I wish to add my protest to that of everyone else who is at all conversant with the facts in the proposed relocation as a part of U. S. 2. The idea must have originated with some non-resident who has never been over the ground himself and never has seen anyone who has.

There are many reasons against the proposed change and none in favor of it. The present road is the best settlement and the shortest route to the Big Spring summer resorts, and the most convenient road for tourists. This road is so necessary that whether abandoned or not by the Government it will continue to be the road used by all these people counting on it. Its upkeep will be a heavy burden, an additional one, on people who are already too heavily taxed in proportion to their means.

Another reason is that no one lives along the route of the new road, no one needs the road, no one wants it, no one would use it. If the idea was to have a scenic drive along the south dunes and the beach of Lake Michigan, the object is still stronger. As we do, the building of a road to a scenic area of unusual beauty is always the work of a saintly, wide, whooping speedway of necessity destroys a large part of the scenery and adds to that the still greater unnecessary destruction, the laying waste of wide stretches on each side of the road means goodbye to everything under a second look. The sand dunes would be leveled, the trees, shrubs, wild flowers and all that constitutes both game cover, beauty is cut down, dug up, or thinned out under the name of utility brush. The usual "thistle patch" would follow.

As an old resident, a tax payer, and one who frequently drives over this road and other roads in our peninsula I beg for reconsideration of this matter by those in authority. If the facts are known the project will be dropped.

Mrs. A. S. Putnam.

He was married, about 30 years ago, to Miss Jessie Martin, of Manistique, who survives him.
Mr. Dupuis left Manistique about 13 years ago this fall, and since then he resided for a time in Gladstone.
He is survived by his widow, Susan Russell, and a daughter Hazel, of Pontiac, Canada; his mother, Mrs. Joseph Dupuis; five sisters, Mrs. George Kniffen, of Mt. Pleasant; Mrs. Jim Russell, of Toledo, Mrs. Alex Crawford, of Saginaw, and Mrs. Dave Roberts and Mrs. Arthur Miller, of Manistique; and three brothers, William, of Alberta, Mich., Frank, of Bellingham, Wash., and Edward, of Manistique.

HE CAME BACK TO MANISTIQUE . . . to buy!

A MANISTIQUE MAN recently motored to a neighboring city to purchase winter wearing apparel. He priced goods in three or four of the leading stores in that town and found that prices were the same or higher than they were for the same quality of merchandise in his home town.

Another Manistique man returned from Chicago without finding the exact style of hat he wanted. He went into a local store and found it!

As a result he returned to Manistique to do his buying.

His trip cost him money in gas and oil, and wear and tear on his car. But he learned something worthwhile: Manistique merchants do sell merchandise of high quality at a price range comparable to any city in the upper peninsula. By buying in Manistique he did something else too. He put his dollars to work at home where they circulated probably a dozen times during the following week in the purchase of local commodities and the payment of labor. Had they been spent in the neighboring town, they would have been lost forever to Manistique.

Former Resident Passes In Canada

Word was received here last week by Mrs. Joseph Dupuis that her son, Daniel J. Dupuis, age 56 years, a former well known Manistique resident, had passed away last Thursday evening at his home in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canada.

He was born May 24, 1877, in Montreal, and came to Manistique while still a young man from Ohio. He was educated in Manistique schools, and for a time worked at the John Falk hardware store. Later he was employed as salesman for a Minneapolis wholesaler fruit firm and during the following years he held similar positions.

TUBERCULOSIS THE SPENDTHRIFT

Tuberculosis, as a spendthrift, has few equals. Every year, he costs the people of the United States one billion dollars. That means two and one-half millions per day or eight dollars per year for every man, woman and child in the country.

A THIRD PARTY

It is unlikely that Michigan folks will become uncivilly excited over the news coming out of Detroit a few days ago, announcing the birth of a third party in this state—the Progressive-Fusionist party.

We are living in a day of government by trial and error. Under such conditions anything is liable to happen. But with any party capable of contesting successfully for political control, either in the state or the national, its membership will not be composed of the self-starter type of political self-seekers.

A Sailor's Life For Slim Proves Dog's Life For ZaSu Saturday

How would you feel if you were a man who longed for a life on the open sea, and were filled with contempt for the ramshackle ferry boat which served your home town, only to learn that your wife had spent your entire joint savings to make you a present of the ferry?

This is a situation which confronts Slim Summerville in "Her First Mate," the hilarious Universal comedy which comes to the Gero Theatre on Saturday. ZaSu Pitts, his wife in the picture, has secretly bought the ferry as a means of making him quit his job on a gay Albany River night boat, and including him to spend his nights at home. And she doesn't know that he has already been fired, anyhow!

"Her First Mate" is said to be filled with a swift succession of such laughable incidents, and to present this comedy pair in the funniest picture of their exciting starring "team." Supporting Summerville and Miss Pitts in this newest fun-film are Una Merkel, Bertou Churchill, Warren Hyman, Henry Armetta, George Marion and other screen favorites.

Newberry—Andrew Kievi, age about 40 years, is dead, and Sam Alexander, age 30, is in jail here following a hunting accident at New Camp Six of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company north of Newberry on Sunday. According to the story gathered by officers, Alexander was hunting on Sunday afternoon. He saw a buck and shot at it, missing his target. He followed the trail through the woods until he saw where the animal had left the track and appeared to be hiding in some oval. He could see a slight movement of a man object and fired. It was Kievi, who appeared to be sitting on a log he had just felled. He screamed. Alexander rushed back to camp and reported, "I have shot a man! He had a little difficulty in persuading the other men that an accident had occurred. When Kievi was reached, he was bleeding from a high wound.

$100,000,000 Worth of Dogs

Did you realize that it is estimated that in spite of the depression, Americans today have a $100,000,000 investment in dogs? It is estimated that there are now in the United States more than eight million dogs, or one to four families. And did you realize that there is one firm that can enough dog food to feed a half a million dogs a day?

These facts lend special interest to the exhibit of this firm which is now being shown at the Century of Progress International Exposition in Chicago. The exhibit is on display in the Hall of Science building, and its central theme is the meat horse. Its origin, nature and uses—for it has been discovered within the last decade that the flesh of horses furnishes the best possible food for dogs.

From 50,000,000 Years Ago to Today

A spectacular feature of the exhibit is an authentic reconstruction of the horse and dog history from pre-historic times to the present day. Graphically presenting facts well known to geologists, shows that the horse was a meat animal exclusively from about 60,000,000 years ago down to 10,000 years ago, when man began to adapt it to other uses. It was a prey of dogs as early as 30,000,000 years ago, and in an early ancestor of the dog from a period as early as the evolution of the horse itself.

This display shows how man, in a comparatively few centuries of breeding, has gradually changed the horse from the meat animal which he was in nature, and how the purveyors of canned dog foods, applying scientific work-out principles, have striped away civilized veneers to produce

THANKSGIVING

WE all know the feel of the Thanksgiving season. Our blood is tingling with the first fall frosts, and our appetite is revivifying to its accelerated pace in a way that reminds us of the Thanksgiving of our childhood. And the child part in all of us that always survives the years is secretly wondering just what there will be for Thanksgiving dinner. That remains a dark mystery in most well-regulated households, except for certain rumors that will leak out, but we're going to lift the curtain to reveal what we think will make a most toothsome Thanksgiving dinner.

Of course there must be turkey in it. That has been traditional ever since the Pilgrims carried their Thanksgiving to church on Thanksgiving morning and glanced anxiously over their shoulders for a whizzing arrow shot by some lurking Indian. And there must also be cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie and cider.

But our mouth is beginning to water. We can't wait any longer. So here's the menu, with recipes calculated for eight people. You can multiply or divide these ingredients to suit your needs.

The Recipes

Spiced Cocktail: Drain one 8-ounce can of breakfast sausage. Combine the tiny prunes in centers of cocktail glasses. To the prune syrup add two tablespoons of sugar, two tablespoons of ketchup, one-half cup of water and an inch stick of cinnamon, and boil five minutes. Cool, and remove cinnamon. Pour over the sausage. Four California oranges, being careful to leave no part of white fibre, and arrange flower-fashion around the center.

Consommé with Egg Slices: Cook the potato in letter form in two cans of consommé and two cups of water until tender. Season rather lightly with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Pour in the soup, and garnish each cup with a slice of hard-boiled egg. Excellent cranberry sauce can be bought in cans, and its purchase in that form saves a lot of labor in the kitchen.

Gingerbread and Banana Shortcake: Cream one-fourth cup of butter and one-fourth cup of sugar.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual

A not wholly unjustified tradition has grown up both here and abroad, that European diplomats are pretty smooth stuff, and that American public men are so many babes in the woods when it comes to dealing with them. It's possible that that thought was in the mind of the associate shrewd, experienced Livinoff when he climbed the steps of the White House to confer with President Roosevelt over the American-Russian recognition.

If so, Mr. Livinoff soon became padder and wiser. He found himself confronted by an excellent horse-trader — a suave, polite horse-trader with a Harvard degree to be sure, but a horse-trader nevertheless. Where Mr. Livinoff had announced that so far as he was concerned, the negoti- ation was concluded in half an hour, he found them extending on through the days.

Upshot was that, the 16-year breach between two of the major powers was ended, with the United States on the long end of the deal so far as most of its demands were concerned. Points of view include: Waiver by the Soviet of all claims growing out of the famous Siberian expedition of 1918; a guarantee against official Siberian expedition of 1918; a Siberian expedition against official Soviet propaganda in this country; another guarantee against the formation of any group designed to change the government of the United States; fair and prompt trials for Americans erring against Soviet law; guarantee of the free exercise of religious beliefs of American residents in Russia. Little mention is made of trade relations and details concerning them remain to be worked out.

First American Ambassador to present himself to steel-jawed, steel-eyed, steel-mannered Number 1 dictator of the world, Stalin will be William C. Bullitt, wealthy young Socialist, who has written a sophisticated novel satirizing Park Avenue, a popular son or two, and has been the State Department's Russia expert. One of Mr. Roosevelt's bright young men, he was instrumental in bringing about recognition and is considered an excellent choice.

Colorful, dramatic, important, bizarre—all these adjectives fit the November municipal elections. They demonstrated that the American people are still in a belligerent mood—as they demanded, a change in National Administration a year ago, they demanded and received many changes in municipal administration. Main counts on which old machines were thrown out, were inefficiency, high taxes, graft.

tion in New York where fire-eater LaGuardia, who has earned a reputation as an erratic political general, has decisively defeated Tammany's O'Brien and the Recovery ticket's McKee. For the first time in 20 years the Philadelphia Republican machine was overthrown. The machine was won in Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Nowhere did partisan spirit seem stronger; the demand was for a new municipal deal, and the cards were shuffled tirelessly.

And important were proposals for communities to go into the power business. Public ownership advocates believed that government power development at Manistiquette would assure them sweeping victories. But when the votes were counted, results were mixed, and the expected landslide did not materialize, apparently because of the last harden involved caused the voters to turn away from increased municipal debts. Camden, New Jersey, which is already $500,000,000 in debt, gave the city government permission to spend $10,000,000 for a power plant, but this election was fought principally on the theme of unemployment relief, rather than government ownership. In a number of smaller towns public ownership mayors were elected, city light plants authorized.

On the other hand, Salt Lake City voted 2 to 1 against a light plant. San Francisco followed suit, as did Burlington, New Jersey, Cincinnati and Youngstown, Ohio, and various smaller towns.

When it comes to selling most commodities, woman is the deciding factor. She manages the best of all markets, the American home. The Administration, in its drive for higher prices, is faced with definite housewife protest against advancing costs.

The housewife speaks through the figures. Department store sales, based on dollar value and not volume, have fallen steadily. Mrs. American had become accustomed to bargains; when they disappeared she stopped buying. To offset this, the government is intensifying its campaign to get more money into the hands of the public.

As for business in general, the picture is so mixed as to be impossible to depict accurately. Some businesses are up, some are down, and some are pursuing a sedate middle course. On the whole, industry is substantially better off than it was when the year opened, and the heartening signs have been made in employment, wages, working hours, and in profits of many large corporations. The dark spot in the picture still is the farm situation.

MYSTERY OF PAST IS LOCKED IN DISCOVERY IN STURGEON SWAMP

In the dense wilderness flanking the vast Sturgeon River swamp, rated by many as the wildest and most inaccessible part of Michigan a strange discovery has been made that savors deep of the mysteries that have made fiction writers famous. James Carpenter, who operates a hunting and fishing resort at Kenosha, which is close to the line between Schoolcraft and Alger counties, recently discovered a house and barn located in a small clearing while hunting with some friends. The clearing, located about a mile and a half from the Sturgeon river, was overgrown with trees, and the house, divided into two stories, was filled with household effects, apparently left in a habitable state years ago by the unknown owner who wandered away and never returned. There were dishes on the table bearing evidence of having been used just prior to the departure of the tenant. A bed was in place, and there were chairs, tables and a cooking stove. A Mauser rifle, bearing the manufacturer's date of 1872, was in the cabin. Outside was a hay rake, secured in position in its place by young trees that had grown through since its strange owner had been obliged. Other farm equipment was found, including plows, a mowing machine, hay forks, and a wagon.

BURNS WILL NOT BE TRIED IN DECEMBER

Case Was Scheduled For Trial At December Term In Sault Ste. Marie

It was definitely learned late this afternoon that the case of Patrick Burns, facing charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, will not be tried at the December term of court in Sault Ste. Marie, which is slated to open Monday, December 4.

Burns faces the same charge on which Joseph Isaac was convicted at the September term of circuit court here.

Movements Upper Peninsula Produce

George D. Peters, manager of Lake Superior Potato Growers, Inc., Marquette, reports that to date 14 cars of potatoes, 15 cars of rutabagas and 23 cars of cabbage have been shipped over various railroads by the association to outside points this season.

Over 850 crates of 1933 potatoes will be handled by the association for members' account. Potatoes are not moving in large volume as yet, and farmers are holding for better prices which are expected to come soon.

Farmers in the Sturgeon river valley lands of Baraga and Houghton counties have produced 40 carloads of extra fine cabbage this year, which they have had no difficulty in selling at good cash prices. About half the shipments were handled by the association, the balance being handled and shipped by local dealers.

Rutabaga growing bids fair to become a steady source of income to members of upper peninsula farmers, according to Mr. Peters. Move systems attempted this year have paid to rutabaga culture this year than ever before. The agricultural department of the South Shore railway, co-operating with the association and the state college extension department, distributed last spring large quantities of the best Canadian seed to many farmers through the various county agents, and results have been very satisfactory.

The discovery invites the imagination to play tricks. Who was the strange hermit that built his home in this out-of-the-way wilderness years ago, when it was ten times more inaccessible than now? What strange fate did he meet when he apparently left his unwashed dishes on the table and wandered away, never to return? "Who in H— would want to live here?" was the query inscribed by a later visitor at the place, probered a game warden who signed his name as Miller. The profanely humorous question was almost obliterated by time, so it must have been long ago that the strange owner of the place walked away into the woods and disappeared.

Another Payroll Of $1,500 Is Scheduled For This Saturday

(Continued from page 1) No additional information has been received on the relief contemplated for the Hiawatha National forest, which is expected to absorb approximately 500 men from Schoolcraft county welfare rolls.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Graefe have left for their home in Iron Mountain after spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webster. Mr. Graefe enjoyed a hunting trip in the Steuben vicinity.

Flotsam and Jetsam

(Continued from page 1) erimus," yet all of them had a flaw somewhere. The Wynkoop affair in Chicago presents the State with many peculiar problems. What would you do if you were sitting on the jury, and the case went to trial with no more facts than have been made available up to date (Tuesday)? Dr. Wynkoop claims her daughter-in-law died under an anesthetic legally administered and after death, she, the Doctor, in a state of hysteria, shot the girl. That would not be murder. The doctor could have intentionally given the girl an overdose of the anesthetic, and thus brought about death. Could the State prove that? The girl might have been under the influence of the anesthetic but not dead, and the bullet really killed her. Can that be proven? If so further confessions are forthcoming the trial will be a most interesting one.

It's peculiar how people acquire nicknames. The eccentric professor who figured in the Lindsberg kidnapping case and had the ransom of $50,000 to parties who were supposed to but did not deliver the child, was called "Jafsie." He was given this nickname because his initials are F. C. His name is John F. Condon.
