Wet Hands And Barbed Hooks Save Small Fish

Washington, D. C., July 20.—Practicing conservation at the point of a hook, sportsmen can save an innumerable number of small fish this season by first wetting their hands before touching the impaled fish—in most cases, then ever so gently in disengaging the hook, and letting the little fish swim away, according to a bulletin of the American Game Association. Never THROW a fish back; the shock alone often kills.

Although no definite figures have been compiled as to the mortality of fish released from hooks, it is the observation of veteran fishermen that nine out of ten will live if they have not been hooked in a vital organ—in most cases, the stomach—and are gently handled with wet hands and replaced in the water so that they may swim away.

Once the slime is broken, fungi and injurious bacteria attach to the bare places, and, in the course of time, destroy the fish through rot. If the hands are thoroughly wet—or better still, hold the fish under water while disengaging the hook—there is little likelihood of disturbing the slime coat to the extent of allowing disease or fungi growth to develop.

Fishermen in ever-increasing numbers are using the barbless hook, or else filing or pinching the barb off hooks, to make it easier to release fish they catch. Most fish are hooked lightly through the lips or cheek—except where gang hooks are used. The single barbless hook can often be released without touching the fish in most cases, if the angler gives the fish a little slack line he will throw the hook (as many fishermen have learned to their chagrin when they were trying to land a big one, even on a barbless hook).

New Methods Of Potato Culture

Old timers who once put in long hours in the potato field may have noticed that potatoes are no longer a hardy manly Upper Peninsula farms. Their potato patches are as level as a floor.

'The future progress of the American iron and steel industry will be greatly affected by its ability to maintain a strong position in alloy irons and steels,' a recent bulletin says. 'It has taken nearly a century to develop the present state of the art of large-scale production of carbon steels. The world is moving too fast to await a similar deliberate development for alloy irons and steels, and it is necessary to approach critically all the research on iron and its alloys reported in the technical literature of the world.'

'The Engineering Foundation's first book, 'The Alloys of Iron and Molybdenum,' was published last year. The second volume of the series, 'The Alloys of Iron and Silicon,' will be published September 1. It will contain a critical review of all data on steel and cast iron embracing silicon as an important alloy.

moisture which falls as rain and snow on the Upper Peninsula. Potatoes require considerably more moisture than the average crop. One inch of rainfall to the crop weighs 12 tons. If that acreage is planted to potatoes and produces a 200-bushel crop, the latter will require at least 600 tons of rainfall during the growing season.

'Michigan state college and other agricultural authorities advise level potato fields to prevent evaporation of moisture and increase potato yield. They also advise stopping the use of the cultivator soon after the crop starts to bloom. After that, a little soil may be thrown up around the plants to prevent sun-burning, and also to prevent freezing of the tubers close to the surface in case there is a light frost before digging.'

East Lansing, July 20.—Michigan boosters will find plenty of solace in the statement of the soil college that the state has no worthless land. 'The only waste land in the state according to the soils men, is contained in those areas which have been devoted to the wrong purposes. The task that confronts Michigan residents is to survey their soil and determine the use to which the various sections are best adapted.'

'The rival captives are Andy Adams, Leland, and Dr. F. E. Stiles, Battle Creek. Business managers are listed in the team line-ups but Farmers Day visitors are assured that the managers will not be allowed to try to make up any financial deficits in the organization which they represent. The game will continue for five things if the physical condition of the players permits.

'Ball games are only a minor part of the day's events. Inspection of the College experimental work begins at 9:00 a. m. and will continue until time for the hitch-hike and driving contest. Country choir competing in the singing contest will complete their time in time for the winning choir to appear on the afternoon program.'

'The rule against smoking at the London conference has been relaxed, and the boys now enjoy their pipes and cigarettes while working. The charge probably was made on the theory that nothing could make the fog any thicker anyhow.'

'Part of it can be used most profitably for farm crops, some of it should be growing timber, and some of it is most valuable for recreation. The resort, travel, Michigan has been one of the

OLD FASHIONED TOWNS

For a long time we were led to believe that the small town as an important part of American community life was slowly falling into decay. Like the crossroads store, writers said, it was doomed to extinction. Many reasons were given for this change, chief of which was the refusal of the younger generation to conform to the standards of the old-fashioned social standards, its determination to cling to the homely paths of truth, virtue and rugged individualism in the midst of a world that seemed to have gone mad in its desire to follow after strange gods.

There was a reason for this rebellion of youth. It was a time of swift changing social practices which made them restless, they felt they were being unduly subdued. They longed for the big centers of population where they were told of riches to be gained almost without effort, where there was opportunity for wider expression of personal freedom, where much of the old time restrictions surrounding youth had been removed, where life was no longer the mirror of the soul.

PAYING THE DOCTOR

It has long been a standing joke that the last bills to be paid were those of the doctor. Invariably he rendered his services with cheerful promptness, only to be forced to wait with much patience for his pay. During the years of the depression his lot has been much worse than the average. He was lucky to collect 50 percent of his outstanding accounts. In addition he was called upon to donate a small part of his work among the sick and afflicted. This he has done cheerfully.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

Michigan has a number of large areas where the annual value of the potato crop is of vital importance. Generally the price received for the crop is the difference between seed and bad times. This applies not only to the growers, but to the community where they are grown. Faced with out-state competition in recent years the problem of the grower has been to get his crop onto the market under the most favorable conditions. To do this the growers have formed associations, given prizes for the biggest and best potatoes grown, and in other ways have added to the fame of Michigan as a potato growing state.

Consequently they will be interested in the suggestion that has been made that the federal government hereafter grade potatoes on the basis of crop and demand. Any one who knows anything about potatoes—and most people will admit that that much intelligence—know that strict grading can take almost any proportion of the crop that may be wished. It can take just the small ones, or it can take half the crop. When the crop is large and the market is in poor potatoes. When the market is strong, keep in mind and poor potatoes. When the market is strong, keep in mind and poor potatoes. When the market is strong, keep in mind and poor potatoes.

SEEN AND HEARD IN OUR TRAVELS

Every year about this time the county, the members of which are men from outside who canvas the city seeking various kinds of jobs, such as sharpening lawn mowers, cleaning chimneys and furnaces, etc. They pick up a lot of work and they make fairly good money. In fact, some of them appear to make mighty big profits. One citizen was telling us one week that a man recently called at his office and solicited a job of cleaning his furnace. The price was $3 and the man received his money. It didn't take the man long to do the job, according to these at home. What we started to do, however, is that we are not interested in what our local men don't get into the same business. It evidently pays well for the outsiders cut here and do and it would be a whole lot better to keep this money at home. There is no question in our minds as to whether they rather help out men of their own community but they aren't to be blamed in this instance because this kind of labor never seems to be active. We trust that this item will give some of our local men an inspiration to put their hand at some business of the above kind.

A life insurance company has offered seven "horse sense" rules for keeping fit. The rules are not given as cure alls but a plan for cooperating with nature in her ceaseless efforts in prolonging life and preserving health.

NO CHANGES MADE IN HUNTING LAWS

Seasons Will Remain As Heretofore; Gun Permit Is Explained

Lansing, July 20.—For the first time in many years, a legislative session has terminated without a single change in Michigan's hunting seasons.

For the next two years, hunting seasons will be identical with those of 1931 and 1932, unless an emergency might necessitate the closing or shortening of some particular season by the Conservation Commission or unless the Federal Government should impose its restrictions on waterfowl hunting.

Very few changes were made by the 1932 legislature in any of the game laws according to the Conservation Department. Practically the only revisions included the re-establishment of the so-called "Shooting Gun Law" affecting the carrying of hunting arms in closed seasons; the lowering of the cost of licenses for taking small game and deer; and the enactment of a new fox-pokings law.

viol of carrying firearms without a permit. No permits will be issued by the Conservation Department this year to anyone who does not have an unexpired small game license. The permits will be issued by the conservation officers and from the licenses will be sold at a fee of $1.00 to residents and $5.00 to non-residents. The deer license may, with a seal, will cost $2.25 with a non-resident fee of $5.00.

No change was made in the snout trapping license fee, which is $2.00 for the first 20 traps and 10c each for each additional trap. No license is permitted to have more than 100 traps.

Orchard owners and nurserymen are given consideration in a new law which legalizes, under permit, the propagation and possession of ferrets. The propagation, importation and transportation and possession of ferrets is permitted now under a $10 license, to be issued by the Department of Conservation.

In instances where rabbits or rats are doing damage to property, permits may be obtained from the Department of Conservation to possess ferrets to stop the damage. Rat catches, who use ferrets, may obtain, under bond, a permit from the department.

EYE CLINIC WILL BE HELD SHORTLY

Children Can Obtain Free Treatment Offered Through Children's Fund

The Children's Fund of Michigan in its desire to render much more service to the children of Michigan, has added to this staff ophthalmologists, specialists who devote all of their time to the treatment of eye conditions. This was done because the need for such services among school children appears to be very great, and, in many counties, the expert services of a specialist cannot be readily secured.

In order to make a satisfactory examination of children's eyes, it is sometimes necessary to put drops of medicine in the eyes. This causes the pupil of the eye to become dilated and for a short period may cause some slight disturbance of the vision. This, however, is a harmless condition which will wear away of itself in a short time.

"In Schoolcraft county we feel a real need of this program," said Emma G. Johnson, county nurse. "Many children due to defects of this kind are falling down in their school work." Dr. M. Stevenson, will arrive in Schoolcraft county, August 17, 1934. Request blanks must be signed by the parents or guardian before any work is done for the children. Glasses, when needed, will be furnished without cost to children whose parents cannot afford to buy glasses. Request blanks will be mailed, after being turned to Emma G. Johnson, county nurse, who will make necessary arrangements.

Emma G. Johnson, county nurse, will be in her office at the court house every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9:00 to 11:00 a. m. and from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. Saturdays, from 8:45 to 12:00 noon.

A Cottage at Sunset Beach

Will give you more genuine pleasure, enjoyment, and satisfaction than you would have believed possible. If you enjoy fishing, Indian Lake is one of the best fishing lakes to be found. The bathing beaches are unsurpassed anywhere in the country. Boating, canoeing, and water sports can be enjoyed in an ideal setting, and the Lake is large enough for sailing. The chief attractions of Sunset Beach are plenty of room, hundreds of acres of ideal natural woodland to roam over, berry patches and woodland trails, and nearly two miles of wonderful sand beach. Congenial company, and a year-round caretaker.

As An Investment

Indian Lake cottages have depreciated less during the depression than other classes of property. There are over 150 cottages at Indian Lake. A number were built during the depression, and four or five were completed at a time when all other property was at an absolute standstill. This is a remarkable record. A summer colony is developing at Indian Lake of people who have seen the property and been attracted to it, and have told their friends about it. There has never been any high pressure advertising campaign to promote Indian Lake. It has grown on its merits. Indian Lake combines more advantages for summer recreation and sport, and vacation possibilities than any other lake anywhere. One of its chief attractions is the Big Spring State Park which is attracting more people every year. Indian Lake also has one of the finest golf courses in the country. Over 600 foresters are now working in Schoolcraft County. This is all new labor, and the reforestation program will add to the value of all property.

Michigan's Small Fruit And Its General Value

By H. E. Prater, Director of the Bureau of Foods and Standards.

When you realize the value of Michigan's small fruit crop, quite as when we have a crop of quality such as our strawberry crop has been this season, you will appreciate the value of the Michigan's small fruit crop in the pleasure we derive in eating it. Yes, these berries, cherries, the cranberries, and oh how we would like to be deprived of them, but think of the many thousands of small growers, living on small farms, who are in reality laboring to support the outside world for their main income.

To such small growers those berries and other small fruits come at a time when their money is sorely needed, when the children are out of school, and can't help daily out with picking, carting, clothing and a little spending money during their vacation.

While we have several commercial growers who enter the small fruit deal on a large scale, thereby giving employment to many of our small fruit crop is produced by the home family. Over $900,000.00 has been paid for small fruit this season for the commercial crop of strawberries which went to the wholesale trade via rail trucks; another $300,000.00 was sold by the growers on municipal growers markets, roadside stands, and direct to grocers and consumers in their home markets at a considerable volume.

Red raspberries are produced for the constant increase for several years. They are more of a commercial proposition. Berrien county is the largest producer, but those specializing in this excellent fruit in the Ludington, Oakesma and Cheboygan sections are not making a fine quality fruit but are making a major contribution to the state's volume. Improved varieties and cultural methods have brought the reds to the front as a major small fruit crop. Last season's commercial crop brought in $502,904.00, and the pleasure the consumers had in securing this queen of all small fruits is by no means an unimportant part of the picture. There is nothing like red raspberries and cream. The crop is now at a canning period. The greater share of this luscious treat is just about to be picked.

Black raspberries are more of a canning product. The major portion of the crop is produced in Berrien, Van Buren, Allegan and Kent counties. They, however, make delicious pies, sues, chocolate puddings and are not to be overlooked at the time of year, especially at the favorable prices at which they are now going.

The Dewberry or Trading Blackberry formerly was considered a nuisance. Once established, they are hard to kill but with improved varieties and the trellising method of culture, they have rapidly come to the front as a major importance. Berrien county leads in production of this wonderful fruit which is just coming in. For many growers sufficiently near to receive them in sound condition, there is nothing finer than Michigan Dewberries. They brought in approximately $132,300.00 last season and are steadily growing in favor with consumers everywhere.

Michigan exceeds all other states in the production of sour cherries. Volume is grown in the lower belt of Berrien, Van Buren, Allegan and Kent counties, but the real cherry country is the Harty Shelby, Ludington district, and the world famous Traverse city, Souds are largely canned, and our Michigan canning industry stands at the top of the list for a quality product.

Michigan is rapidly coming to the front as a sweet cherry producing state. We have the quality and volume, and are near the market, but sweet cherry canners have formed the habit of buying them by the pound from fancy packed flats and lugs. They don't want tree run fruit and are willing to pay for the best. Some of our growers have found this out and are packing western style. They get more for a fifteen pound lug than they can for a sixteen quart crate which weighs twenty-five pounds. The quality of Michigan sweet is unsurpassed. The cost of picking Michigan's commercial cherry crop last season was approximately $465,000.00 and some of the growers had it wanted to come back these days. He would find a difficult task. The value of any commodity is marked out for him in finding and selling to the consumer. Only a few features in the product have to be sold to force on him to hold their audience, money. It is the former Ed Wynn show product must be attractive, clean, Phil Baker, Fred Waring and the most and wholesome to first attract the consumer at the market. The others do not have enough to hold the consumer's attention.

There are all kinds of fruit grown, fine, good and ordinary. N.R.C. organist, prove to be the best. A girl who does such a fine job of each and it is for the purpose of protecting values, encouraging play and the use of our fruits by the consumer. I had, but that a few lessons she gave for their extra care in growing and packing that our standardization and quality have been maintained. Small fruits are a problem for the Bureau of Foods and Standards. They are largely picked by the children of the neighborhood. Usually the grade is largely controlled by the quality of the crop which is just coming in. For many growers sufficiently near to receive them in sound condition, there is nothing finer than Michigan Dewberries. They brought in approximately $132,300.00 last season and are steadily growing in favor with consumers everywhere.

It Takes More Than Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, or Laxative Pills To Arouse a Sluggish Liver

They Give Only Temporary Relief From Constipation and Biliousness, Because They Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons your food does not digest but ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, ailments, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural.

"No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eight in its price range combined."

Public preference for Buick today is so overwhelming that with 11 eights in its price range to choose from—more people buy Buicks than all of the other 10 combined.

To the man or woman who is not familiar with the new Buick Eight, such dominance may seem almost unbelievable; but to those who have driven this car, and gained even the most casual acquaintance with its capabilities, the reasons for Buick's nationwide leadership are crystal-clear.

"What," you may ask, "is so different about Buick? Why do so many people consider it superior to any other car selling at similar prices?" The answer lies chiefly in principles of design.

Because of its more enduring design and its finer quality, you will enjoy driving a Buick more years and many more thousands of miles than you would want to drive most automobiles. And you can buy it on easy G.M.A.C. terms. As a result, selection of a Buick is an economy as well as an assurance of thorough satisfaction.

Two outstanding golf meets will be broadcast over WTMJ during the next few weeks—the Wisconsin Open and the P. G. A. tournament. The amateur tournament will be broadcast from Beloit, Wis., where WTMJ will use its short wave bands, W9XAI and W9XAJ, to broadcast from course to clubhouse. The amateur meet will be heard on WTMJ July 29 and the pro tournament beginning August 5.

Short wave will also be used when WTMJ broadcasts events at the National Elks' convention in Milwaukee during the week of July 16. Among events to be broadcast are a motorcycle hill climb, boat races, parades and band music. President Roosevelt is expected to attend, and a group of delegates over WTMJ and a nationwide N. B.
