One Business Man To Another

I signed the President's agreement, not for patriotic or humanitarian reasons, but for self interest.

As our people haven't any money, they can't buy. As they can't buy, we can't manufacture. As we don't make goods, we can't pay wages and salaries. Without wages and salaries there would be no sales. This vicious circle must be broken somewhere or this depression will go on and on. Where can it be broken?

Motor Boat Race, Parade, Aerial Stunts And Log Birling Features

Declared to be one of the greatest outings in the history of Schoolcraft county, the Legion community picnic Sunday at Arroyo, Michigan, has attracted an immense throng of approximately 3,000 people to the crowded grounds and it gave them a couple of days of pleasing entertainment from morning until late at night, despite a blistering sun that sublimed many hatless brows and caused a shortage of liquid refreshments before the program ended.

From every part of Schoolcraft county the people flocked to enjoy the program, to bask in the lovely sun, to watch the parade, to take relaxation from the cares and troubles of everyday life. There were many visitors from the surrounding communities and Escanaba, the latter community sending its snappy bugle and drum corps to take part in the well-planned program and to enliven the day's festivities.

and as everybody wanted to see a bunch of pretty girls they were all disappointed that it turned out to be a dud. We were all glad to see LaFleur and his family and he made quite a fine looking drum major and we also enjoyed the drill of the Evamauha corps very much. Where is the corps of the Manistique Legion? Taking a little out on the grass everybody enjoyed the day to the limit and we hope that the Manistique Legion will have another blow-out some of these days and will show them how to have a beauty contest. We heard some of the married ladies say they knew they had a perfect thirty-six but they were to old to know what are we going to do about it? We ought to have three such contests, one for youngsters from sixteen to twenty, one for married folks from twenty to forty and one for the old ladies just anything they are afraid someone might think they were being undignified or too smart. Anyway we all loved every bit of it.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels. But the state of the art was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced. Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars. But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost. For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense. We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us. Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed. Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933. In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak. The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you. By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it. The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE - Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rain' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you jump out of your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these tiny pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wood, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amounting when it comes to making the bile flow.

Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the same Carter's Little Liver Pills on the label. Repeat a substitute. Ste at drug stores. ©1933 C. M. Co.

N. R. A. HAS TEETH

With the complexities of the Michigan general sales tax and the rigorous provisions of the national recovery act come the merchants of Manistique and Schoolcraft county are still dazed by the vastness of the many new problems which have been thrust upon them, and are still seeking information on ways of solving their troubles.

There is no specific charge which can be made against the administration of Governor Comstock, and general charges will go far with the public. To simply make the assertion that an office-holder is incompetent does not prove anything.

There will be another election a year from this fall, and that will be early enough for the voters to make a new choice if they so desire.

Look at any city's newspaper and you may judge the community, its people and its business. The home newspaper is the eyes, the voice and the conscience of the community.

The City of Manistique is going through that transition period experienced by all lumber towns. Its lumber industry is not nearly what it once was because of the depletion of the timber, but it has natural resources other than that.

There were two newspapers in Manistique back in 1916 and 1917 when this writer secured his first editorial experience, managing the Courier-Record, then owned by Benjamin Geroy, who remains one of Manistique's substantial citizens.

A stock company is just as much out of place running a newspaper as it is a business man and the time has come when absolute devotion to the community's best interests, unhampered by political or other prejudiced entanglements.

Problems of Relief Are Discussed At Munising Meeting

Despite the fact that about 15 per cent of the population of Michigan is wholly dependent upon the federal government for aid there is a gradual lightening of the poor relief burden in practically every county.

Michigan speakers before the monthly meeting of the Upper Peninsula Association of County Superintendents of the Four on Grand Island on Tuesday, last week, said.

More than 75 persons representing eleven of the fifteen counties of upper Michigan attended the meeting held in the Hotel Williams on Grand Island.

Excellent talks were given by William Carpenter, state welfare director, and Walter Berry, representative for the emergency relief committee.

The possibility of combining various county infirmaries in Michigan as a means of reducing expenses were discussed and a questionnaire will shortly be sent to all counties seeking an expression of views upon this subject. Some action very likely will be taken at the next meeting which will be held at Sault Ste. Marie in September.

That about 15 percent of the state's population is dependent entirely upon the federal government for aid and that the total relief money assured for this year is around $36,000,000, was explained by William Carpenter, state welfare director.

Of this amount $12,000,000 will come from the state sales tax; $6,000,000 from the federal government under the Kulp bill, under which Michigan receives that much credit from the R. F. C. for work relief; $18,000,000 will come from the federal government as the state's allotment under the first $250,000,000 piece of the federal relief money.

Michigan's one ray of hope for the coming winter, Mr. Carpenter said, is that it has been estimated $30,000,000 of public improvement projects catalogued for action under the federal trade recovery act and Mr. Carpenter predicted that the carrying out of this program would take thousands of persons off welfare relief lists and put them to work on a free labor basis which not only would make them self-reliant but would give them purchasing power and bring about economic recovery through regular industrial channels.

Carpenter reported that in June there were more than 181,000 families on relief rolls in Michigan compared to 188,322 in May, 158,071 in April, and 163,051 in March and that the cost of relief in Michigan in June was $4,197,888.84, of which $3,828,881 came from federal funds and $369,107.25 from state and county funds.

Mr. Carpenter reported further that for the six months ending June 30, Michigan received and used $20,894,466 in R. F. C. funds for relief.

He explained the new state act which created the emergency relief commission. Under this act relief in Michigan during the next two years will be directed by the three-man commission recently appointed by governor. The act authorizes this commission to name three-man emergency relief commissions in each county and these commissions are being named as rapidly as is deemed feasible.

Carpenter explained that the creation of this new emergency relief set-up would in no way curtail or supplant the routine welfare work done in his department. But all outdoor emergency relief

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

The progress of the London conference during its first week brought out one salient fact—that while the French, the British and the Italian delegations probably know exactly what they wanted, there was no such unanimity of opinion among the members of the American delegation.

As Senator Cozens very pertinently pointed out, the first thing that would have to be done by members of the American official family would be to decide on an interparty, either of nationalism or internationalism. It was evident, he pointed out, that little could be accomplished by a delegation that was neither one nor the other, only a mixture of both.

All of which strengthens the belief in many quarters that there has been no unanimity of opinion in the President's official family on international affairs. For example, there are leading supporters of the administration including Secretary of State Coadwell, Hull, who are internationalists, especially where question of tariff is concerned. They want tariffs reduced under the mistaken belief that the way to restore prosperity is to throw the American market open to the competition of the poorly paid labor of Europe and Asia the hope of benefiting abroad.

On the other hand, there are prominent supporters of the administration who disagree with Mr. Hull and the proponents of the free trade school. Among these are no less persons than Professor Moley, one of the President's chief advisers, who is reported not to think so much of what can be accomplished at London, and Mr. Bernard Baruch, who is said to feel that it will be impossible to raise further the standard of living and to restore prosperity in America, if this standard is to be subject to the assault of blood of cheap imports from Europe.

Evidently the schism extends to the American delegation at London which is neither fish nor fowl when it comes to the question of nationalism versus internationalism. We were informed, official-

Sharpensteen Ends 12 Years of Service With Highway Board

J. T. Sharpensteen, division highway engineer in Escanaba for the last 12 years, Monday completed 12 years of service with the Michigan highway department. Tuesday he was succeeded by Ben Sparks of Powers, who was recently appointed as district engineer with headquarters at Escanaba.

Mr. Sharpensteen has no plans for the immediate future, and for the time being will continue to reside in this city.

Born in Arkansas, he spent his childhood also in Oklahoma and Texas. After graduation from high school, he enrolled for a course in the engineering department of Valparaiso university, receiving his degree in 1917. He enlisted in the U. S. army and was stationed at Camp Taylor at Louisville, Ky., first with the 20th Engineers for a period of eight months and later with the 8th artillery for about two years. While in Escanaba, Mr. Sharpensteen has been active in Legion affairs as a member of Cleveland Post No. 82 of the American Legion.

Worked With I. C. C.

Leaving the army in 1919 Mr. Sharpensteen entered the employ of the Interstate Commerce Commission and was engaged in railway valuation work in the northern territory, with headquarters in Chicago. A year later, he joined the engineering department of Illinois Central Railway, but left that position several months later to enter highway department work at Virginia, Minn., later transferring to Duluth.

He entered the employ of the

PUSH CANDIDACY OF FITZGERALD FOR STATE CHIEF

An organization more further the candidacy of Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, for governor in the 1934 campaign was reported under way yesterday.

Carlisle M. Gray, who resigned last week as executive clerk in the department of state established an office in a Lansing hotel to "do organization work." He also resigned his connection as secretary of the Republican League of Michigan, headed by State Senator Gordon P. Van Emannan, of Muskegon.

Gray refused to state the nature of his organization work or who his associates will be. Both he and Fitzgerald said the latter is not backing Gray's efforts.

"I am just undertaking a gamble which I cannot explain in detail at this time," Gray said. "It is my own idea and Mr. Fitzgerald is not financing the work or exercising any supervision over it."

Gray said he resigned his post with the Republican League of Michigan because of his association with Fitzgerald.

"After being associated with Mr. Fitzgerald the last ten years, naturally I would consider him the outstanding Republican for governor. I thought it would be more desirable for me to resign as secretary of the league so I could feel free to do whatever I can for Fitzgerald," Gray said.

Fitzgerald has often been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor. He is the sole Republican member of the state administrative board. He was urged to make the next year but he declined to seek re-election as secretary of state. He was the only Republican state officer on the general election ballot to win over Democrats.

Thousands of Trout To Be Planted in U.P.

Three hundred and fifty thousand baby trout are now being reared in the Otter River Trout Feeding Station for distribution next fall to streams in the western part of the upper peninsula.

Planting of the trout in one station represents the station's first actual use. Construction, which began last year was completed last spring and the Fish Division of the Conservation Department has announced that the caretaker is now housed in the new station building.

The station building is believed to be one of the most attractive log structures in the upper peninsula. The station may be reached by way of a road leading north from Highway M 35 four miles west of Bangor, through Foberg and a road leading northwest from this village.

In addition to being a trout feeding unit, the station is also a graying experiment station and is located on the last stream in which this once prevalent game fish is now known to live in Michigan.

About 200,000 baby trout have been placed in each of the other two northern Michigan trout feeding stations; at Eckerman and the Fox River, for planting in these particular sections of the peninsula. This will mean that with the product of the Otter River, close to 1,000,000 trout, four to seven inches long will be planted in upper peninsula streams during September and October.

Another million trout will be planted north of the Straits of Mackinac next fall from the Thompson, Watercourt and Marquette State Fish hatcheries.

While the building and repairing of fire lines and the removal of slash and other fire hazards constitute the largest single work project, there is a wide divergence of duties. In some camps stream improvement work is being carried on in conjunction with preliminary work done during the past three years by the institute for fisheries research. Blister rust control is being done with the supervision of the department of agriculture. Extensive improvements are being carried on in most of the larger standard game refuges, including the Escanaba River Tract in the upper peninsula just now being organized. More than a score of state parks are obtaining renovation and fire protection work.

During the fall season crew work will be placed on planting operations in the various state forests.

There have been few more sweeping proclamations made than when President Roosevelt approved the proposal designed to bring all industries into wage-sharing and work-sharing devices.

It represents an effort to avoid great increases in production and price levels without proportionate gains in wages and employment.

The Administration has been frankly worried for fear that the program might be defeated.

Progress is being made with the trade codes. Some of importance which have recently been filed include:

- Steel—40-hour week, minimum pay ranging from $10 in South to $12 in North.
- Electrical Goods—36-hour week at $12.60 up.
- Wool Textiles—40-hour week, with wages ranging from $10 to $12.
- Lumber—40 to 48-hour week, depending on branch of industry. Minimum wage from $10.80 to $13.80.
- Oil—40 hours; $16 per week in the South, $18.80 in the North.

Treasure Hunt Begins A Tremendous Romance—Saturday

WANTED: A man who has been faithful to his wife for twenty years; and— A girl who has reached the age of twenty without having had a love affair.

"There are no such animals," try the people at the treasure hunt party given by the Countess in "Christopher Strong" an RKO-Radio Picture showing at the Geva Theatre Saturday.

This is the provocative start of the strange romance between Christopher, who has been happy with and faithful to his wife for twenty years, and the aviatrix who has been so busy breaking air records that she has never really noticed that there are men in the world.

Colin Clive plays Christopher, Katharine Hepburn is the aviatrix and Billie Burke has the role of the wife, Dorothy Arzner directed.

Elissa Landi Favors Freedom From Clothes—Sunday-Monday

"It's a lot of fun to act with your clothes off."

Elissa Landi, telling about her role in "The Warrior's Husband," it might be added hastily, was speaking figuratively, rather than literally.

In this successful Broadway comedy, which was adapted for the screen by Ralph Spence and Sonya Levien, Miss Landi has the role of a general in the Amazon Army—a sister of the Queen who rules her sisters and the men of the kingdom with a will of iron.

Her costume consists of a mail-ed shirt, extending just below the hips, a brief pair of shorts, helmet, "graves" and heavy sandals. Graves, it should be explained, are armored protectors worn by the Amazons to protect their legs from enemy arrows.

"It is great to have freedom of movement," Miss Landi said, "and not be hampered by tight skirts, or a change. My costume is necessarily light, because in the story I am a frisky youngster who goes leaping about like Doug Fairbanks used to do in his exuberant type of roles."

Miss Landi shares starring honors with Ernest Truex, while Marjorie Rambaue has the role of the Queen. David Manners is the leading man. "The Warrior's Husband" comes on Sunday-Monday to the Getz Theatre.

For a good many months we've been talking about recovery. At last, but talk principally represents optimism. Then some actual signs of recovery began to appear. It takes time to move from a question about it. Recovery is here. There's hardly an industry that isn't feeling new blood in its veins these days.

A recent New York Times survey is a good example. It is based on six of the most trustworthy barometers — automobile production, steel mill activity, lumber production, electric power output, freight car loadings and cotton forwardings. On March 18 the combined index stood at 60.0. On July 1 it had reached 97.3—a gain of better than 50 per cent.
