School Board considers budget cuts

Written by Jan Belderstadt

"What do we do now?" was the theme of Tuesday night's Manistique Area School Board meeting.

The meeting was well attended by local citizens who are concerned about what will happen next following the defeat of a 4 mill increase two weeks ago.

School Superintendent Richard Bonifas said that the school district should plan on a program based on 20.5 mills.

Bonifas also suggested that the board should consider the possibility of another millage election.

The 1976-77 budget calls for $2,480,000 while the projected income is $2,156,000, a deficit of $324,000.

Bonifas said that he felt the figures on the projected income were quite accurate and this shouldn't change much within the next two months.

Bonifas recommended that the board should consider cuts in 16 categories, which include:

1. Close one elementary school,
2. Close two elementary schools,
3. Eliminate 3rd, 4th, and 5th grades at Lakeside.

4. Eliminate all special programs, such as instrumental music, vocal music, speech therapy, reading support, etc.
5. Schedule special ed for Lakeside.
6. Schedule K-6 at Fairview.

Supportive Areas

1. Lay off or adjust clerical staff schedule, so as to function with one less.
2. Lay off Community School Director James McDonough.
3. Lay off Director of Services William Geeseman.
4. Lay off one custodial staff, perhaps two, depending on use of elementary schools.
5. Do not add two new bus routes.

So far, two administrators, James McDonough, Community School Director and William Geeseman, Director of Services have received their "pink-slips" effective June 30.

In the faculty, 14 teachers have been pink-slipped, five at the elementary level, two special ed at the elementary level, eight in the secondary school and one part-time vocal music teacher.

Of the teachers to be laid off, football coach Dan Skatska and girls' basketball coach Diane Stimak are included in the list.

Skatska and Stimak are the only two teachers that have their Life Saving Certificate and Water Safety Instructor Certificate so they can supervise in the new pool.

High School principal Marvin Frederickson told the Tribune Wednesday that he felt that football and girls' basketball have a good chance of getting cut.

Federal law (Title IX) has no discrimination because of sex in school sports, so in order to cut girls' basketball, boys' football must also go since they are played in the same season.

Frederickson requested that a decision be made soon by the board on what they are going to do, so he can start scheduling. He said that he needed to know what teachers are going to be there next year and what classes he has to offer.

He pointed out that the board should be wary of cutting classes below 20 enrollment, since many involve seniors who need certain classes in order to go on to college.

Frederickson also was concerned about vandalism in the new school since so many programs have been cut, with so many teachers leaving. He felt that morale might sag during the middle of the year.

Board member Billie Doyle suggested borrowing the additional money needed, but Board Secretary Margaret Waters said that the state prohibited borrowing money for operating expenses for a greater amount than the income. She also felt that it would be spinning their wheels, and asked "How would we pay it back?"

One member of the audience asked why it would cost $24,000 more to run the school next year than this year. Bonifas explained that the district had a $280,000 "kicker" which was spent to operate the schools.

Cockram told the board toward the end of the discussion, "Between now and July 8, every board member must come up with his own interpretation on how to cut the budget and hurt the students the least and I don't know how in the hell we're going to do it."

The decision on what to do will be made at the special Monday night July 8 board meeting which will also see a new slate of officers elected.

In other business, Bonifas reported that the gym floor in the new high school was two months behind, arising from conflicts between the general contractor and a subcontractor. The superintendent is expecting a letter shortly on the situation which should give a more detailed explanation for the delay.

JUDY AND MIKE BROOKS chat with other members at their table over dinner at Saturday's chamber of commerce meeting held at the Fireside Inn. The meeting was highlighted with a talk from Mac Fridmog on the DNR and a treasurer's report that the chamber was now in the black.

SPRUCE BUDWORM:
The Spruce Budworm is starting to show damage in our county. Three reports of the insect have been phoned in and I have observed 2 others on home visits. You should check for the new growth of your Spruce Trees to identify this pest.

Control can be obtained by using Malathion or Sevin as directed on the containers. Weekly spraying for about 3 weeks should adequately control the Blue Spruce Budworm. Remember, this insect attacks other Spruce as well as the Blue Spruce.

BRIGHT ON TOMATOES AND POTATOES:
We are getting near the stage when blight (early) or late blight could hit your tomatoes or potato vines. Usually this happens later in July or August. However, if the hot dry weather continues the fast growth and matures your plants faster the spores of the blights will work faster. Be prepared by purchasing a blight control product, such as Maneb, Manzate 200, Polymar or M-65. All will effectively guard against blight if used properly.

FERTILIZER CORN WITH N:
Around the 4th of July your corn may be ready to side dress with a high Nitrogen fertilizer. This really gives the corn plant a shot in the arm. A high Nitrogen fertilizer, such as 20-10-10 can be used or Urea 45-0-0 and Ammonium Nitrate 33-0-0 can be used. If you use either of these fertilizers, remember to avoid getting Nitrogen on the plant leaves, because it will burn them.

I would recommend using a hoe and making two trenches about 2 inches deep along the side of the corn rows. Trenches should be about 2 1/2 - 3 inches from the plants. Place about 1/2 cup per 10 foot row in each trench and cover with soil. With 20-10-10 you can place a little more in each row.

Nitrogen is usually a limiting nutrient in the production of corn.

Scandinavian Smorgasbord set for June 27th

Artifacts chairman William Olson is requesting that items be brought to the dinner for display. Bicentennial dress is encouraged but not required.

DON'T BE FOOLED WITH MAIL FRAUD SCHEMES

Every year victims of mail fraud are cheated out of millions of dollars, according to Dr. Anne Field, Michigan State University Extension family resource management specialist. Mail fraud doubled last year, with consumers bilked of an estimated $305 million.

There are so many mail fraud techniques that it is often difficult to detect them before it is too late. Much of the fraud increase is due to the economy. In a recession, the public is more receptive to schemes which promise money.

Many fraud artists are offering to sell employment lists. You are promised that if you send $2 to get a list, you have an excellent chance to get a high-paying job. When the list arrives, it looks as though someone compiled names from a phone book. Most of the companies listed aren't hiring and haven't given permission to have their names printed.

For some schemes, you send your money and never receive a thing.

You may be trapped with the "lucky winner" scheme. You receive a letter stating you are lucky winner of a drawing and a coupon worth $50 toward the purchase of a specified item at a particular store.

However, the item is outrageously priced. To take advantage of your prize, you have to pay more for the item than you might somewhere else.

How can you avoid mail fraud? Check carefully before you sign anything or send money. You may be better off dealing with a local business that you can get information about.

Investigate the company before sending money by mail. Companies that request money before they will give you hard information about their activities are generally questionable.

Don't be fooled by slogans or names. Sending $2 to a company is not likely to help you become a millionaire.

If some mail swindler does pull the wool over your eyes, contact the local postmaster. If you let the swindler keep your money without letting authorities know about it, they won't be able to do anything to stop the fraud. And the same swindler just may come up with a new scheme to get your money again.

Historical Architectural Survey conducted in the U.P.

Schoolcraft County is one of seven counties in the Upper Peninsula which have been selected for Michigan History Division of the Department of State and the Art Department of Michigan State University, according to Secretary of State Richard H. Austin.

Other counties included are: Alger, Chippewa, Delta, Luce, Mackinac, and Menominee.

Two Michigan State University students, Sue Sanborn and Lydia Wielenga, will note and photograph significant houses, churches, commercial blocks and public buildings. They will pay special attention to the architecture which resulted from the presence of Indian settlements and of the mining, shipping and lumbering industries in the area.

The data from the eight week survey will help to document the area's importance as a mining, shipping, and lumbering center.

The data will be deposited at the Michigan History Division where it will be available to scholars inquiring about historic buildings, and planners concerned with their protection.

The most significant structures will be nominated to the National Register of Historic Places, a listing of the National Park Service.

The Schoolcraft House at Sault Ste. Marie, the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, and the First Street Historic District in Menominee are among those places already listed in the national Register.

The project is directed by Professor Sadayoshi Omoto of Michigan State University and Kathryn Eckert of the Michigan History Division, and supported equally by M.S.U. and by the History Division with funds made available by the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior.

First United Methodist Church news

The First United Methodist Church Board of Trustees met Monday evening, June 21, with Donald Carlson, Frances Hoar, William Mueller, Dennis Potia, Emma Tufnell, William Tufnell and William Wright in attendance. Mary Prater was present as a representative of the Administrative Board.

Following brief devotions and a prayer by the Rev. Michael Peterlin, Chairman, William Mueller began the meeting with the opening of bids for the installation of the church building. The three bids were close in price, but only one had included the installation of vents and the R-factor quality of their insulating product. The other two bidders were contacted in reference to these two items.

Minor maintenance items for the church building were discussed in terms of having been completed or needing to be done with assignment of responsibility for the latter.

An informal committee of Francis Hoar, Dennis Potia, Emma Tufnell, and William Wright was selected to work with Rev. Peterlin on a ten year plan for the church plant.

William Wright reported on the need for and estimated cost of installing a four foot chain link fence around the new parsonage. The project was approved to be done with volunteer labor under the direction of William Tufnell.

In a review of maintenance requirements for the parsonage, it was decided that a set of standards must be devised for the rental property. Donald Carlson, Dennis Potia, and Emma Tufnell were directed to examine the building for such repairs are essential at this time, leaving redecoration items for a later date.

It was decided to set regular monthly meetings for a specified length of two hours instead of having meetings called as needed as has been done in the past. The next meeting will be July 19.

The Cook's in the Kitchen

by Doris Holmstrom

Vicki Belcik isn't addicted to cooking

"Like most wives, I'm a sounding board for my husband," said Vicki Belcik, wife of Schoolcraft County Board member LeRoy Belcik. "I haven't been involved in politics myself for a number of years. I have been, but now I don't have the time to learn enough about the issues to make decisions."

Unlike others of the board members wives, she said she listens, but she doesn't often try to influence her husband, even by offering suggestions as to his part in the board's decision-making process.

"We discuss things, but he makes his own decisions. He doesn't ask my advice and I wouldn't feel that he should be on the board if he couldn't make up his own mind."

After 28 years of marriage, two children and five grandchildren, that seems to be the best arrangement for them. It's a poor joke, but Lee and Vicki first met at a roller rink (as did her parents, coincidentally) and they've been going around in circles together like that ever since.

Mrs. Belcik was working as a secretary in the Chicago area at the time. Shortly after they were married, the couple left their Illinois home for the quiet life of the Upper Peninsula and settled here in 1948.

When both their daughters were in high school, she made up her mind that she didn't want to be left alone at home and went to work at the Pioneer Tribune. After 10 years of that and a brief hiatus as a woman of leisure, she's working again. This time as a receptionist at the doctor's office.

She took the job when her husband was elected to the board. "I didn't want to be alone at home again and I love meeting people," she said and then added, "although they may not think so when I don't remember their names."

As for cooking, however, "if you want to know what kind of a cook I am...we go out all the time. I'm not addicted to cooking. Both our children are very good cooks but

PUFFED HAMBURGER

- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 3 egg yolks
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 small onion
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Beat egg yolks slightly. Mix all ingredients with egg yolks. Beat egg whites until they cling to bowl. Mix. Fry slowly to golden brown.

KOLACKI

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 three-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 cup flour
- dash of salt

Blend butter with cream cheese. Add flour and salt by hand. Form into a ball. Roll out on floured board to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut into circles with rim of small juice glass. Place small amount of any prepared filling in center of each circle. Bake on greased sheet for 15 minutes in 400 degree oven.

Although cooking isn't her favorite pastime, she has other interests which keep her busy. All winter long she bowls in two leagues with her husband on Sunday nights and alone Monday evenings. She also likes to crochet and is active in her church, Divine Infant of Prague in Gulliver.

Newberry Art Show and Bazaar coming soon

Calling all artists, craftsmen and creative collectors: show is the time to show your talents and share your wares! The Luce County Bicentennial Commission is still soliciting registration for their Art Show and Bazaar slated for outdoor exhibition early in the July Fourth weekend.

As this date approaches, they emphasize that the event is designed to attract both displays of fine arts and crafts as well as hobbies and handicrafts, bazaar and quality flea market items, and antiques.

Although responses to date reportedly have been enthusiastic, there is still ample display space available for additional participants. All interested individuals are being urged to make space reservations as soon as possible to enable the Bicentennial Commission to finalize plans for this creative event.

The Art Show and Bazaar will be held all day Friday and Saturday, July 2nd and 3rd, on the School Circle Drive, Newberry Avenue, in Newberry. In the event of inclement weather, displays will be moved indoors to the School Cafeteria.

THE MARTIN KAPUGI TAMBURITZAN BAND from Chicago will play for the Bicentennial Yugoslavian Festival dance which will be held Saturday, July 3, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the new arena, Martin Kapugi (far right) is a tamburitzan musician, arranger, singer and entertainer who is well known among ethnic groups throughout the United States and Canada. He made many recordings for various recording companies and also accompanied on records and on stage such well known artists as Edo Lahich, Hasla Radenkovich, Yvona Seterovich, and Vinka Eletin. He travelled throughout the U.S. with his orchestra and at one time joined with the late Dave Zupkovich making records, traveling and entertaining. For several years he appeared in Chicago on Rudy Brisk's Balkan Musical Caravan over WTAQ radio station and international cafe television show. There besides his own performances he accompanied artists of international fame such as Martha Schlamme, Judy Henske and well known gypsy violinist Dave Romaine. Mrs. Leo (Kay) Curran arranged for the appearance of Kapugi. Tickets are available at the cost of $5 per couple from committee members Mr. and Mrs. Leo Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Klarich, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nelli, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bosanic, Mr. and Mrs. George Rubick, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rozech, and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Weber.

STARR MCGREGGOR, 13, rode her horse to Manistique Friday from Gulliver so she could participate in the Schoolcraft Co. Horse Show. She said the ride took her two and a half hours.

"No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main; if a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were, as well as if a manor of the friends or of those over were; any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee." - John Donne

Annual meeting held

The annual membership meeting of the Alger Delta Cooperative Electric Association was held Wednesday, June 16 at the National Guard Armory in Gladstone. President Raymond Bengert chairing the session, reported on actions taken by the board during the past year and on other highlights. Two amendments to the bylaws were approved.

Roy Hawkins, Manager, reported on expenses and revenues. He stated that normal growth has been about 10 percent but due to energy conservation and falling off of business activities the growth for 1975 fell to 7 percent. Wholesale power costs account for 68 cents of every dollar spent. The system consists of 1182 miles of rural distribution lines, serving 5950 meters. He also explained that in the not too distant future the billing will be done by computer on a monthly basis for full-time consumers.

The election of four directors was affirmed by the membership. They include Eugene S. Sinerov, District number 2; Avo Kallio, District number 3; Clifford Hayward, District number 4 each for three years and Joseph Strielemann, District number 1 for one year. Jerry L. Ellefson, Assistant Vice President and Assistant General Manager of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company, who is one of the wholesale power suppliers to the Cooperative, was the speaker of the day. He explained some of the causes of present day rates and the different costs of producing electricity for generation. He explained why electric rates vary amongst various utilities, some of those factors being density, type of customer, industrial loads, etc. He mentioned the fact that the rates of the Cooperative were very much in line with other utilities. He cannot foresee electric rates going down but fees there will always be an abundance of electricity due to new methods of generation.

The membership enjoyed the music and songs by the Gospel Songfest Singers and the magic produced by Jeff Larche. Small prizes were awarded throughout the meeting and Mrs. Lee Ervin-Stonington was the winner of the $100.00 savings bond grand prize. Coffee and donuts were served at the close of the meeting.

Dutch Elm disease increases

Increased severity of Dutch elm disease in the Upper Peninsula, where it procures the wood supply for its Escanaba mill, has created a problem for Mead Publishing Paper, says Lynn Sandberg, its woodlands manager. "Mead is severely limited in use of open grained woods, such as elm and oak for pulping," says Sandberg, "and the whole sale killing of elms by Dutch elm disease has thrown an inordinate amount of elm on the pulpwood market as woodland owners and loggers attempt some commercial salvage of the dead trees." Hollow vessel wood cells in elm pulp create segments that don't bond with the other fibers to form the paper sheet and these pick off on the offset printing press blanket. This makes it necessary to restrict the use of elm in pulping to protect paper quality and the control problem is aggravated if elm is chipped with other tree species in the forest. Sandberg said that Dutch Elm disease has been attacking U.P. elms for 10 years, but that its intensity has increased in recent years. "Mead is not able to absorb this volume and no one should cut for Mead without a contract," said Sandberg. He reported that an estimate of the elms in the Upper Peninsula forest in 1966 when the disease struck was 500 million board feet and 2 1/2 million cords of elm. There was no established pulp market for the species because of the hollow vessel cell problem, but it was used extensively for saw-timber and veneer. Much of the deteriorated elm in the high areas is being used for pallet lumber, but it deteriorates very rapidly after the trees die.

D.N.R.

The spruce grouse doesn't carry any of the credentials of a game bird for without a doubt, it's the tames wild critter in Northern Michigan...just ask Dr. William Robinson of Northern Michigan University's Biology Department.

During the course of an extended study of spruce grouse in Northern Marquette County, Dr. Robinson and his students captured a number of birds for banding simply by slipping a noose over their heads while they sat ogling the strangers. One mother hen with a brood of young chicks was so unconcerned about her temporary imprisonment in gentle hands that she ignored the protective motherhood tradition and munched blueberries off a bush extended to her.

On a number of occasions, Dr. Robinson has taken a recording of spruce grouse conversations into the woods with some unbelievable results. In the fall, for example, when mature cocks are confirming old territories and young males are establishing new ones, they'll challenge anything that disagrees. The pertinent cock on the tape recorder, for example, or the fellow holding it.

But during the spring mating season, the seductive call of a hen is need gives the young swain a chance to really display his smarts. Carrying a mounted spruce hen in one hand and tape recorder clucking say tunes in the other, Dr. Robinson wanders through the jackpine until an excited male breaks from cover with love in his heart. It makes no difference that the mounted hen fastened to a board has been scaped by previous encounters...spruce grouse are notoriously energetic lovers...or that she is extremely passive for one with such a sultry voice. Biology carries on right at the feet of the matchmaker with the tape recorder.

Fortunately, this total confidence in mankind does not extend to other predators and spruce grouse are just as concerned about fox and hawks as the nest feathered resident.

But Fool's Hen...where would a fellow ever pick up a nickname like that?

Bicentennial History of the First Baptist Church

In October 1872 the first Baptists, Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Quick, came to reside in the little village of Manistique, which then had a population of about 150. At that time there were no churches here and no religious services were maintained. In August of 1873, a Sunday School was organized with M.H. Quick as Superintendent. As the town grew and other Baptists moved in, they began to long for distinctively Baptist services, and in the autumn of 1880, Rev. C.W. Burnham, a business minister from Pontiac, came with his family to Manistique and for nearly two years conducted services in the school house. On the 9th of April, 1882, the little company of Baptists gathered in the school house, and the First Baptist Church of Manistique was organized with eighteen charter members as follows:

C.W. Burnham Mrs. Margaret McIntyre
Mrs. C.W. Burnham Sasannah McIntyre
Samuel Burnham Mrs. Anna McChesney
Allie Burnham Chas. M. Button
E.L. Clapp Mrs. Clara Burley
Mrs. Emily F. Clapp Hiram Quick
Martin H. Quick Mrs. Ida Quick
Mrs. Martha J. Quick F.H. Thompson
Alex. McIntyre Sophia A. Towne

The first officers of the church were: M.H. Quick, senior deacon; E.L. Clapp, junior deacon; F.H. Thompson, clerk; Charles M. Button, Treasurer.

Rev. Burnham became the first pastor, and on May 20th the ordinance of baptism was administered for the first time in Manistique.

In the early autumn the church was reorganized under the state law so that they might legally hold property and steps were taken toward the securing of lots on which to erect a suitable house of worship. Immediately after this Pastor Burnham resigned, and moved with his family to Rhode Island. Just before leaving he baptized two converts, and these with additions by letter, increased the membership to 28.

The little church remained pastorless until April 1883, when Rev. James B. Lambley was called to the pastorate. Two lots were purchased at the corner of Maple and Walnut streets, and a building erected which was dedicated November, at which time the church was also recognized as a regular Baptist church. Dr. L.M. Shanefelt, of East Saginaw, preaching the dedicatory sermon and Pastor Clarke of Cheboygan, the recognition sermon. The church was received into the Detroit Association, but in the following June was dismissed to join the Grand Traverse Association.

In June 1885, Pastor Lambley severed his connection with the church. At the close of his pastorate the membership had increased to sixty-five.

Rev. A. Cornell of Iowa served the church during the summer of 1885. In July of that year, eight members were dismissed to unite with others in organizing the Second Baptist church, better known as the Swedish Baptist church.

In January 1886, Rev. J.L. DeLand of Saginaw, came as a supply for three months. In April a call was extended to Rev. F.K. Fowler of Blossburg, Pennsylvania, and was accepted. During his pastorate the church sold a part of their two lots, and with the proceeds of this sale paid off the debt on the church and built a commodious parsonage. In June 1890, the church was dismissed from the Grand Traverse Association to unite with other churches in organizing the Marquette Association. In November 1891, Pastor Fowler resigned to accept a call to Olean, New York, having served the church more than five years, during which time seventy-eight were added to the membership.

Rev. Fowler's successor was Rev. J.C. Rooney of Kalamazoo, who became pastor in December 1891. During his pastorate of nearly ten years, the church adopted the envelope system of raising current expenses, and began systematic contributions to missions. During his long term of service, Pastor Rooney baptized 136 and endeared himself not only to the church and community, but to Marquette Association as well. His pastorate terminated September 1901, and in October a call was extended to Rev. J.B. Fox of Canton, Massachusetts.

Pastors who followed Rev. Fox from 1908 to the present were: 1908-1914, Rev. Wm. Shoemaker; 1914-1920, Rev. Fredrick Looze; 1920-1924, Rev. Edward Webster; 1924-1933, Rev. Joseph Gross; 1933-1937, Rev. Joseph Nelson; 1937-1941, Rev. George King; 1941-1943, Rev. Peter Bisson; 1943-1945, Rev. Wm. Harrington; 1945-1947, Rev. J.D.B. Adams; 1947-1951, Rev. Wm. Schabert; 1951-1957, Rev. A. Barton Brown; 1957-1966, Rev. E.H. Eckstein; 1966-1969, Rev. Roy Pitts; 1969-1974, Rev. C. Haas; 1974-Rev. Stephen Graham. In August of 1975, our present pastor, Rev. Stephen Graham and his mother from Pawtucket, Rhode Island were welcomed. Pastor Steve, as he is known, is a graduate from Rhode Island College, B.A., and Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary. With a Master of Divinity degree, before coming to Manistique, Pastor Graham served six years at the Woodlawn Baptist Church in Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

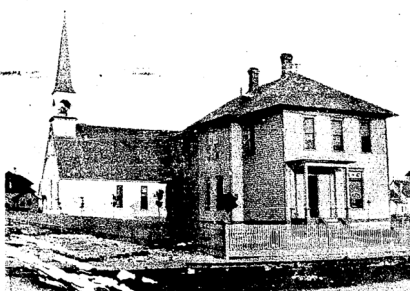

The church is grateful to Rev. Ora Wise, and his wife Ester, who served in the church from July 1974 to July 1975. They endeared themselves to all the members, and were an inspiration and guidance to all who knew them.

In 1948 a meeting was held, and a decision was made to remodel the church. The following spring a new Baptistery in the Sanctuary along with remodeling the kitchen was completed. In 1960 a new parsonage was built; a great amount of labor was furnished by the church members. It was necessary to borrow $8,000 from a local bank, and on Christmas day six years later, the mortgage was burned.

Editors note: This article was prepared by Mrs. Edwin Ekdehl, Mrs. Leona Linderroth, Mrs. Hassel Osterhout and Mrs. June Woodland. They prepared it as a salute to the Bicentennial and as a salute to the first church in Manistique.

HOW TO MAKE ROSES LAST

Today's cut flower foods, dissolved in water, simulate the natural sap in plants, especially roses, encouraging blooms to open naturally, and in many instances, to last even longer in a vase than on a living plant. Professional rose growers plunge their newly cut roses into deep containers of warm water to which cut flower food has been added; retail florists likewise put cut flower food into vase water so that roses will stay lovely longer. All that you need to do is to add more water to the vase each day to make up for that which the flowers have used. Rose-like all cut flowers, last longest under cool conditions.

Senior Citizens'

I spent a couple of days last week in Lansing trying to secure some funding for our Centers because soon will be grant time again. I don't know how successful we will be.

Next week will be a busy one as we will have to work on the 4th of July float. Please call us if you can help us with it. There will be no 4th of July picnic as planned because so many people are expecting out of town company.

Our summer schedule is one without Community School classes so we do have more free time. Our people enjoy being on the lake and if you have a cottage or summer home and like to share it with us for a pot-luck on a Wednesday or Thursday noon we will help you set up and clean up and furnish paper plates and ect. They would really enjoy that. Call me at 341-5923 if interested.

Our Thrift Store should be open next week for business at the Triangle Park across from the Post Office. We really have a good selection of clothing at a bargain price.

We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Basil De Hut and Beth Cozeman for their generous monetary donations.

Our sincerest gratitude goes out to Bob and Elsie McEwan; Robert and Ruth Boyer; Henry and Anna Hakola; Clarence Whitman; Marian Jacques; Mike and Laura Johnston and Hoholik's Inc. for memorials given to the Center in the name of Clara Whitman.

Political Reform Act a good idea that went sour

Michigan's effort to put into effect a comprehensive law regulating political financing came to a sad end recently. The Michigan Supreme Court delivered the fatal blows, axing sections of the bill an unconstitutional.

The Legislature and Governor Milliken should not, however, drop the political reform effort from their agenda. Now, armed with knowledge of their errors, they should tackle the task with renewed energy, and complete the job they began last year.

The political reform act was a good idea that went sour.

In this political year it is particularly important that the Legislature and the Governor address the abuses so clearly revealed by Watergate.

The state high court had earlier nullified the entire reform bill because the Legislature had violated a provision of the state constitution that limits each new law to a single subject. In effect, the comprehensive nature of the political reform effort was its major defect.

But there were still several questions the House of Representatives had raised concerning the bill and it is these the court responded to in its most recent rulings.

The problem with the act as written, was that it required the same degree of financial disclosure from the governor, a mayor, a county road commissioner, a member of the state Board of Horology (watchmakers), a member of the State Bar Commission, or a city clerk, the Supreme Court said.

The lawmakers must, if they are to face this problem of financial disclosure of public officials, draft a bill which conforms to the judges' prescription by making a distinction between the governor and a clerk when demanding financial disclosure.

The Political Reform Act also was seriously in error by stating that it would be a crime for newspapers or others to report on the activities of the state Political Ethics Commission. This clearly violated the constitutional right to freedom of speech.

Also ruled unconstitutional were parts of the Act which would have placed limits on how much a candidate could spend on a campaign and prohibited the spending of corporate funds to endorse or oppose a ballot question.

The court upheld sections of the defunct law which would have required lobbyists to register and file expense reports on how much they spent to influence legislators; placed limits on how much organizations or individuals, except the candidate or his family could contribute to a campaign; required the public naming of campaign contributors; prohibited contributions by a corporation toward the election or defeat of a specific candidate.

Rep. John Markes, D-Westland, has started the legislative process by introducing a bill dealing with the public financing portion of the Act in the House of Representatives. Other separate bills addressing the issues as defined by the Supreme Court, should also be proposed.

The lawmakers should give this their highest priority and complete enactment of the legislation in the current session.

Weekly Special

Majority not silent

by Jack Anderson

With Joe Spear

WASHINGTON The silent majority isn't keeping silent about the sex scandals in Washington. Judging from our mail, they are upset over the moral conduct on Capitol Hill.

The public is asking whether the sex stories are typical of the conduct in Congress. Our investigation indicates the moral standards on Capitol Hill are about the same as they are anywhere.

But the rules and customs in Congress prohibit one member from disparaging another in public. Senators and congressmen can also shut themselves behind thick cabinet doors. Their actions are wallflowers between them and unwanted intrusions.

This has produced a protective, permissive atmosphere which, in the past, has shielded the philanderers. But the hanky-danky in the backrooms of Congress doesn't appear to be any worse, for example, than in the board rooms of the great corporations.

Most of the affairs on Capitol Hill are normal office romances between consenting adults. To illustrate, here are a few stories that our staff has checked out. When they are omitted the names because these girls earn their government salaries. They aren't really paid by the taxpayers to be mistresses.

A Southwestern Senator has squandered a number of beautiful girls to date in Capitol Hill watering hole. One evening he showed up with his wife. The waitress, in a naughty stage whisper, said to the senator, "Not up to your usual standards, Senator."

A few congressmen have maneuvered to take their lovers along on overseas trips. A Pennsylvania congressman carefully arranged for his paramour to take a separate plane to meet him in Colombia. A New Jersey congressman slips out with his secretary almost every day to spend an hour necking, like a couple of high school kids, in his car in the Rayburn Garage.

Here are perhaps a dozen more such stories. But these are the exceptions. The average Member of Congress sees 100 or so moral as the people who sent him to Congress.

Friendly Inves... Labor Secretary William P. Sullivan... the multi-linked Teamsters Union and its embattled president, Frank Fitzsimmons. Yet this same U.S. in... will benefit such airlines as TWA and Eastern, whose executives have contributed to Cannon's campaign.

convention, his own Labor Department was investigating underworld infiltration of the Teamsters. His investigators have alleged that mobsters have their hands on the Teamsters' central state pension fund.

This raises a serious question. Can the Labor Secretary conduct an honest investigation of a union that he has publicly endorsed? Our associate, Marc Snodgrass, called the Labor Department, but Usery refused to retract his praise of the union.

His investigators told us privately that they were surprised at his remarks. But they insisted the secretary has not tried to impede their investigation.

The secretary's statement also sounded like an election endorsement of Fitzsimmons, who recently came up for re-election. As an example of Teamsters democracy, Fitzsimmons barred his critics from the convention hall.

Nine of Fitzsimmons' goons escorted the dissidents out the door. When they attempted to protest from the sidewalk, the Las Vegas police forced them to leave. The police claimed the sidewalk was rented by the Teamsters. It's worth mentioning that the Teamsters have loaned more than $100 million to food and gambling casinos in Las Vegas.

Of course, the Labor Secretary is not supposed to take sides in union politics. Yet he not only endorsed Fitzsimmons but sat through these strong-arm tactics without a protest.

I'm Howard. Fly Me... Nevada's Senator Howard Cannon holds three Senate posts which give him enormous influence over the aviation industry. Aviation bigwigs, therefore, are raising money for his re-election campaign. We have been able to trace more than $200,000 in campaign contributions back to aviation executives.

Recently, Sen. Cannon went to his colleagues to fight for a $20 million windfall for the airlines. He urged Senate House conferees to stick the taxpayers for the overtime of federal inspectors who work on Sundays and holidays.

Since the early days of aviation, the airlines have had to pay these overtime costs. But Cannon wants to transfer this $20 million expense to the taxpayers. This will benefit such airlines as TWA and Eastern, whose executives have contributed to Cannon's campaign.

If It Fizz

A boy—and his ship

by Jim Fitzgerald

The sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald last Nov. 10, after only 17 years afloat, reminded me it was about time for my youngest child to graduate from high school.

It that sounds confusing, be patient. This is somewhat of a ghost story, and such stories must be told slowly to retain the spookiness.

The Edmund Fitzgerald was launched May 31, 1958. At the time it was the largest ore carrier on the Great Lakes. A big boat. On that same day, a big boy was born to my wife. We named him Edmund Fitzgerald.

It was a coincidence. When we named our Edmund, my wife and I didn't know a thing about the boat. We didn't realize there had been a twin birth until we saw the news on TV that birthday evening. The newscaster said the Edmund Fitzgerald had been launched sideways.

"So was ours," my wife grinned.

Naturally, our family followed the wake of Ed the boat closely through the years. One day we drove to Toledo where the vessel was docked. Our Edmund was five years old by then and a big ham, eager to pose for all sorts of goofy pictures with his namesake. He even came through with one of his few bright sayings.

"If this boat ever sinks," he said, "I hope I'm not taking a bath at the time."

Another memory remains vivid. The huge Fitz clan gathered one evening for dinner at a restaurant on the bank of the St. Clair River, north of Detroit. It was our Edmund's 10th birthday. There was a grand view of the water, and an ore carrier could be seen approaching from the south.

"Wouldn't it be great if that were the Edmund Fitzgerald?" someone remarked.

It was, or I wouldn't be telling you about it. There was much excitement as "our boat" passed by almost close enough to touch. From the noise we created, the other people in the restaurant thought the giant carrier was coming through the window.

Everyone thought the boat's appearance at that particular time was an amazing coincidence. Until I explained that I had chartered the vessel to sail by an Eddie's birthday.

My family was properly impressed, as Ed has been practicing for the big announcement while standing on the bar. Easily it was the most glorious lie I ever told.

Those fun times were remembered with a bitter poignancy when our family heard that the Edmund Fitzgerald had sunk in Lake Superior, in a November storm, with the entire crew dead.

We noted that our Edmund had not been taking a bath at the time, and there were some lame chuckles. And then some real tears.

I know I cried that day for more than a ship lost at sea. I also cried at the reminder that life is uncertain and full of ugly shocks - for big boats and for little boys.

The boy is no longer so little. Last week he got his high school diploma. And he got his high school entrance into the month he will signal his exit into the adult world by putting a pack on his back and beginning an open-end hike scheduled to take him down some wilderness trails in Oregon and back home again, someday.

Too many fathers quit kissing their sons, once they are out of diapers. It's acceptable for mothers to weep late at night and wonder about about the terrible things that might happen to their little boys "out there." But fathers are supposed to make jokes.

Eddie has been practicing for the big night by carrying his pack around his waist, sometimes every evening. I told him this was the same as practicing going to the dentist.

But fathers also have their late-night moments, when they fret about the future and wonder what can happen to the babes, still so secure, so so happy.

Edmund Fitzgerald the boy, born on Nov. 10, 1958, didn't go down the bathtub drain on Nov. 10, when Edmund Fitzgerald the boat sank, much too young.

But the spookiness lingers and twitches. Now, it is my father's birthday. His name was also Edmund Fitzgerald.

Responsibility needed

by Frank Senger

In a "recess address" at the annual meeting of the Hiawathaland Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Dr. Kenneth Shoultice, president of Lake Superior State College, made some rather pointed remarks on what he feels is wrong with thinking in America today.

The college president noted that "security is the number one goal of most Americans today and that goal is followed close behind by the pursuit of happiness and freedom from control."

"More than ever before," Dr. Shoultice went on, "Americans want security in the form of jobs and freedom from want, but there is something missing from the formula and that is responsibility."

He went on to point out that we just always "do your own thing" without regard for the feelings and needs of other people. There is need for cooperation and teamwork.

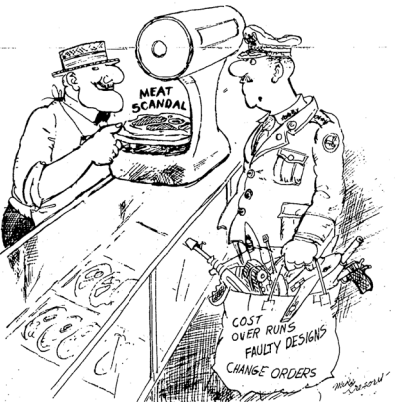

He also spoke about his concern for the present "decay in fundamental values." Young people are looking for leadership but adults are ignoring them.

"I long for the return to the day when parents will their children enough to discipline them," Dr. Shoultice commented.

...L.D. the college president said we're... for security a happy life and freedom... and more and more citizens seem to think these things are all owed to them rather than taking on the responsibility of working and even fighting for them when necessary.

We want our sons and daughters... their own grandchildren to have all the best things in life and a better life than we had. But again we are choosing the easy way out rather than the responsible way. We show our love with gifts, money, the best of educations, etc. but fail miserably in being willing to give them our time, attention and love that they need so badly. We also seem to be doing a pretty poor job of teaching them respect for other people and their property; that wrong doing results in disciplinary action; and that happiness and the money to obtain it will doesn't grow on trees but must be worked for and earned.

The key single word seems to be "responsibility." We don't seem to be putting much value on it ourselves anymore and neither are we doing a very good job of instilling the importance of this responsibility in the minds of our young people.

They'll get him every time!

Letters from readers are welcome. All letters to the editor must be signed; however, names will be withheld if requested. Views given are not necessarily those of The Pioneer Tribune.

Letter to the Editor: Last weekend, we were tourists in your town and quickly became totally lost for lack of information since your Chamber of Commerce was closed.

The sign on the water tower door (a very attractive building) also stated - not open on holidays.

The sign paying members are not well served by this closed policy, and the tourists are somewhat frustrated. In less than 20 minutes about 12 people were stuck in the locked doors in vain.

Traveling the downtown sector, my friends were high but after trying four different businesses on both sides of the street, none had any Chamber of Commerce literature.

The historical museum was closed also to tourists in sympathy with the Chamber of Commerce.

There is in Michigan a great surge of history covering buildings, monuments, etc., all attracting the roaming tourists.

Yet, searching for dates on many of the old buildings in town including the water tower, I found nothing available; no directory source of this building must be close to the 100 year mark and ready for historical workers; another tourist attraction within the scope of your historical society.

Returning to the water tower, again 2 cars were stopped and knocking on the locked door of the Chamber of Commerce and expressions of frustration were heard.

Upon crossing the bridge, we read the dedication markers of the Lions Club, but noticed they failed to consult the 8th graders to advise on the proper spelling of the first word, on each sign.

Future visitors may see less, but enjoy more - if the Municipal marina was an excellent project well maintained.

Yours Truly,
Pierre Bodwin

Dear Editor: Once again vandals struck at Fayette State Park. Sunday night vandals smashed all the newly replaced windows at the entrance booth in the Picnic Area and then stepped over, in addition, several box toilets were pushed over, park rules and regulations signs were ripped from the posts and several signs were taken. Total taxpayer cost $1200.

Total taxpayer costs for vandalism that has occurred over the last year and one half at Fayette Park amounts to $2,299.50.

Much time is spent maintaining our park facilities to provide recreational facilities for area residents as well as other park visitors. We have received good cooperation from many of the local residents assisting us with keeping Fayette Park clean and neat. It is too bad that the acts of a few lawless individuals are forcing citizens seeking or knowing of their acts notify the proper authorities, for it is repairs.

William R. Manning,
Park Manager,
Fayette State Park.

I saw the pictures of the old Manistique School, recorded in the Tribune last week. While you were showing pictures of that school why didn't you or don't you show pictures of the Fairview School, a relatively new school, which, I understand, will have only two or three regular classes next year and also the Mueller School, not much older than the Fairview School, which, I am told, is completely closed. These are both in the Manistique consolidated School District.

Granted, the old Manistique School was in a deplorable condition but it seems to me a million dollars or, at the most, two would have gone a long way towards renovating it and another million or two should have built the new school that was contemplated, at one time. This would surely have made enough room for lockers, etc.

I don't know just what could have been done with the money, but when I think of the $200,000 eight million dollars that you've built the new school, that sounds steep to me, and I'd sooner have my youngsters and the teachers also climbing a few steep steps than a lot of people having to pay the steep taxes that we now must pay.

Also I really don't think the majority of our teachers or students are mediocre or uneducated. I guess we all have had ego-builders, but the building of the new school, if it was done as an ego-builder, cost too much. I hope it isn't.

Maybe you're too emotional about the old school. It holds so many fond memories for me. Perhaps that is why it seems to have so much character, at least on the outside. The new one looks, to me, perhaps mistakenly, cold and unfeeling. Perhaps it will mellow with the years, I hope so.

Anyhow, what is done is done so let's buckle down and make it a school of which we can be proud.

Signed,
Concerned citizen

To the Editor: The State House of Representatives will be voting on an open meetings bill next week. The House substitute for S.B. 2021 is a good bill. It provides for open meetings at all public bodies including school boards, city councils, and county and township boards.

Meetings such as these need to be open to the public, so citizens can learn what decisions are reached, and how they are reached, by their elected officials.

Many public bodies resort to holding closed executive sessions to discuss extensive public business. This bill would especially spell out if it were very few instances when it is in the public interest not to hold an open meeting. It also includes provisions on the type of notice required before meetings are held and sets penalties for violations.

We need a good open meetings bill for Michigan. I urge its passage by the House of Representatives.

Whether these open meetings bill is passed by the House may depend upon the degree to which members of the public express their support for such legislation to their Representatives. I would urge, therefore, that every citizen immediately call his or her Representative in connection with this bill.

Sincerely,
Nancy Cray

Wildlife is Krumrey's inspiration

Editor's note: Detroit Free Press columnist Tom Opre featured Manistique artist Dietmar Krumrey in Sunday's sports section. His column is printed here in its entirety.

At 72, Dietmar Krumrey shows more talent than wildlife artists twice his age. His work is so exact, so definitive it easily eclipses some of America's most noted artists - in this scribe's humble opinion - to become an absolute "must have" for any serious collector of outdoorsmen's art. "Outstanding" describes it, surely, and so does any other superlative you care to apply.

An Upper Peninsula boy who grew up here, went to the big city and then fled it to return to the serenity and life-style he realized he honestly wanted, Krumrey's background is almost as interesting as his art.

His father, who had spent five years in an English prisoner of war camp, decided to emigrate to the U.S. after returning to a war-ravaged Germany. Dietmar was a child of three when they left for their new home.

"We went to Elgin, Illinois, first," he recalled, "but I can remember my Dad walking the floors at night with terrible asthma attacks. It was awful. Then he discovered Manistique."

The elder Krumrey moved immediately and began a painting contracting business that continues today. But he also found time to pursue his own hobby of artistic painting and, incidentally, to encourage a "young son."

"Big murals were his real love," Krumrey explained. "We still have some decorated buildings down in Wisconsin - big murals that the two of us painted together."

Graduating from Manistique High School in 1966, Krumrey left for Chicago and two years at the American Academy of Art. "I thought I wanted to be a commercial artist," he said. "So he [his father] had them [the murals] done in Kansas City where all they wanted me to do was paint signs."

He returned to Chicago and a box-like stall office filled up with other Yellow Pages Ad artists at General Telephone Co. God, they made you wear a white shirt and tie to work every day where all that said and garbage would ruin them."

Krumrey said. He had bought a new car in Chicago, and a year later discovered he had put 72,000 miles on it running back and forth every weekend to hunt or fish to "escape the city."

By then he knew what he wanted to paint, too - the animals and birds, even the fish he had come to know and care for as a wildlife artist.

What was about then he hit on watercolors, realizing their versatility and lasting qualities.

"Oh, I can work in oils and have," he said. "I like the effect of watercolors in relation to wildlife." His own style began to emerge, too, as he moved from solid white backgrounds to colors that harmonized with the subject and brought life to the painting.

"The splash of color almost give the effect of a background out of focus, as it would be in a photograph," Krumrey said, "leaving the subject sharp and distinctive."

Yet it isn't exactly sharp, either. Not in the lines, anyway.

"I don't find hard lines in nature," the artist explained. "They're exact lines, true, but they blend in with the surroundings."

His work is gradually gaining recognition, too. The Truffed Grouse Society of North America is highlighting his painting of a grouse in flight in its newsletters and stationery. Ducks Unlimited clubs have gratefully accepted limited edition prints from Krumrey to auction off in money-raising projects for waterfowl programs.

And sportsmen-wildlife lovers across the country are beginning to commission special paintings of animals or game birds... or even portraits of favorite hunting dogs. Krumrey works from the actual animals, too, taking photographs himself or using those provided by customers.

"The average painting probably takes a week or more of work, spending some time each day," he said. Prices run from $275 to $1,000. Limited edition prints are available, too, $55 to $75 (famed or unfamed, by writing him at his studio (Northwoods Wildlife Art, Box 179, Indian Lake, Manistique, Mich., 49854).

Chandler's in Petoskey is currently the only shop handling Krumrey paintings and prints regularly. A special two-day show is scheduled there with the artist on Thursday and Friday, prior to August's second weekend. He'll also appear at the Outdoor Art Fair in Charlevoix this year, and at the following artists' exhibits: Watercolor Art Fair on the Northwestern Michigan College campus in Traverse City July 31; "Art on the Rocks" in Marquette Aug. 1; the Manistique Art Fair July 3 and 4; and the Dickinson County Art Fair in Iron Mountain.

Other guests who will be included are the all state officers. They will exemplify the degrees at the Masonic Temple at 8:00 p.m.

A reception will follow in the dining room sponsored by the Past Matrons Club.

WORLD OF PROMISE

It looks like fun outside. A bright, happy, wonderful day - and a pal to share it with. A world of promise.

As the future unfolds in every life it looks like a world of promise. Whether it lives up to our expectations depends less on what's outside than on what's inside. Human character tends to shape the events and experiences of life.

Our tremendous responsibility as parents is to nurture a human soul, foster its spiritual growth, cultivate the crucial development of our child's character.

As a window lets light reach inside, the teaching of moral and religious truths lets faith find its rightful place in each youthful heart. To discover all the Promise in this world the soul must begin by realizing the promises of God.

Manistique Youth Center will celebrate first anniversary

The Manistique Youth Center, for students in grades 7-9, will celebrate its first anniversary Sunday with an open house. "We'd like to have the adults come and see what there is to offer here and how well chartered it is," said Director Mike Flynn. "It's a place where their kids can come without money or with very little money. More than that, the Center provides many games, has furniture that a kid can put his feet on and always has cold pop in the school.

Director Mike Flynn

Last year the city provided the building rent and utility-free. Donations came from area citizens in the form of games, furniture, supplies and so on.

Each month the Center sponsors at least two major events, such as a pizza party or a dance. From the money taken in they purchase records and are saving to buy the pinball machines so that all of the games there may be played free of charge.

In addition, the building is open Mondays-Thursday from 8 to 10 a.m. and Fridays and Saturdays from 6 to 11 p.m. Flynn emphasized that, during open hours and at every activity, there is always adult supervision. "If there's trouble," he added, "we call the parents and ask them to take their child home."

This week, the Center began work on a float for the city's bicentennial celebration. Tomorrow night (June 23) a local band will play for their celebration of America's 200th birthday.

Plans are also being made to hire a band June 30 for a concert at the bandshell. All junior high students are invited to attend the birthday party to be held on Friday night. Music will be by Larry Frette and his band members. Neither Mr. Flynn or Mrs. Gagnon are being paid for their volunteer work, but there are three others whose salaries are paid through a Federal grant program. Flynn said that they are working on an application for a Federal grant right now. If the youth center qualifies, there will be between $5,000 and $10,000 for operation.

Save your heat next winter by keeping your cool this summer.

That's right. Good insulation conserves energy the year-round. Summer as well as winter. In the summer, insulation helps to keep heat out. And if you aircondition your home or business this means you'll be using less energy to do the job. In the winter, insulation prevents loss of heat. So good insulation can pay for itself by reducing your energy and fuel cost.

Insulating is an easy project for the do-it-yourselfer. Remember the "R-Value" in insulation. It stands for "Resistance to heat flow." The higher the "R-Value" — the better the insulation. If you have any questions give us a call.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Manistique City Council

A special meeting of the Manistique City Council was held on June 7, 1976 at 7:30 P.M. at City Hall. There were present: Councilmen Hewitt, Rose, White, Mathson, Becks and City Attorney Brooks. Absent: None.

The public hearing for adoption of budgets for the next fiscal year was held. The following statement was made by Councilman Rose:

"I believe that the City of Manistique is in very poor financial condition now and will be for the next fiscal year. I believe that this is true because of: 1. The past city manager's position to overspend in nearly every area of the budget and to spend funds where those funds should not be spent. 2. For the same person's inability to cope with the everyday management problems of this city. 3. For the past administration's inability to, in my opinion, accurately report to the Council, particularly its financial position. 4. The inability of the last city council to exercise its balance of power over the city manager and to provide sound and procedural guidance that is necessary in the operation of this city. I believe that we can overcome our financial burden with:

1. The ability of this new council to stand up to its newly acquired responsibilities and to provide a balanced budget to the citizens of Manistique. 2. That this council has the co-operation and understanding of its citizens in coping with this problem. 3. That the city council appoints in the near future a city manager that is capable of giving this city the honesty and integrity that this position should provide. I would like to say that with this statement I am not trying to shrug my responsibility as being part of the last city council."

A very lengthy discussion followed the above statement. Moved by Councilman Hewitt, supported by Councilman Becks.

RESOLVED, That the budget of the City for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1976 and ending June 30, 1977, as submitted by the City Clerk and amended by the Council, providing for general expenditures of the City in the amounts as follows:

PATRICIA ERICKSON, City Clerk
A special meeting of the Manistique City Council was held on June 7, 1976 at 7:30 P.M. at City Hall. There were present: Councilmen Hewitt, Rose, White, Math-son, Becks and City Attorney Brooks. Absent: None.

A public hearing on the special assessment district on Intake Park Road was held, and the following objection was heard:
"To: The Manistique City Council
I am writing this letter to protest the proposed special assessment on my property. The reason I protest this is because I feel that a special assessment district is created to provide an improvement to these properties. It is my contention that this improvement will not benefit my property because we presently have a sewer service provided us.
I believe that the sewer line should be extended but I believe that the cost of the project should either be divided between the properties that it benefits or the City should pay the front footcasts up to the property lines that will benefit by the improvement.
It is my opinion that the City has done this in the past and that those properties that were not improved were exempt from the special assessment."
Doug Rose*
After a lengthy discussion on the above, it was moved by Councilman Hewitt, supported by Councilman Becks,
WHEREAS notice having been given of the proposal to construct an extension of the sewer line presently located on Intake Park Road from the existing sewer line a distance of approximately 200 feet, all of the cost of the same to be paid by special assessment on the lands benefiting hereunder and the fact that an estimate of the expenses thereof and a plat and diagram of the work and the locality to be improved were submitted with the clerk for public examination, and that the council would meet and consider any objections thereto at this time and date; and all objections having been heard and duly considered by the council:
- THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That such improvement be made, and the same is hereby ordered; the said improvement to be made according to the plans and specifications thereon on file in the office of the city clerk; and that the entire cost of said improvement be paid by special assessment to be levied upon the lands covered by plate numbers 256 A, 256 B, 2292, and 2293, or equivalents thereof, all located on Intake Park Road. The said special assessment shall be apportioned by frontage along said Intake Park Road.
Yes: Councilmen Hewitt, Becks, White, Mathson. No: None.
Abstain: Councilman Rose.
The special assessment roll for improvements on New Delta was reported to the Council.
Moved by Councilman Hewitt, supported by Councilman Becks,
RESOLVED, That the V. B. Guidebook property, covered by plate number 254 included in the special assessment district on New Delta.
Yes: Councilmen Hewitt, Becks, Mathson, White. No: Councilman Rose.

Moved by Councilman Mathson, supported by Councilman Hewitt,
RESOLVED, That the special assessment roll regarding New Delta, as presented by the City Assessor is hereby accepted.
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the same is hereby divided into ten equal annual installments.
Yes: Councilmen Mathson, White, Hewitt, Rose, Becks. No: None.
Moved by Councilman Hewitt, supported by Councilman Rose.
WHEREAS, the city assessor has completed and reported to the Council a special assessment roll for the extension of water and sewer lines North of the intersection of Wolf Street and New Delta.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That such special assessment roll be filed in the office of the clerk and numbered as follows:
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That on June 28, 1976 at 7:30 P.M. at the Council Chambers in the City Hall, the Council will meet and consider any objections to such special assessment roll.
Yes: Councilmen Hewitt, Rose, Becks, Mathson, White. No: None.
A request received from the Yugoslavian Association was considered by the Council.
Moved by Councilman Becks, supported by Councilman Rose.
RESOLVED, That the City Council of the City of Manistique has no objection to the issuance of a special license for sale of beer, wine and spirits at the Manistique Army by the Yugoslavian Association on July 3, 1976.
Yes: Councilmen Becks, Rose, Hewitt, White, Mathson. No: None.
A resolution regarding the wastewater treatment facility was requested.
Moved by Councilman Rose, supported by Councilman Hewitt,
WHEREAS, The City of Manistique wishes to undertake the construction of Wastewater Treatment Facility Steps II and III;
WHEREAS, The total cost of said project is estimated to be $1,750,000, and
WHEREAS, We desire to secure financial assistance from the Federal and/or State government to help defray the cost of the project, and we understand that the remaining local share of the cost must be made available from local sources, such as user fees, millage, etc.;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That such local share will be available for matching with Federal and/or State aid during the 1977 calendar year.
Yes: Councilmen Rose, Hewitt, Becks, White, Mathson. No: None.
Moved by Councilman Hewitt, supported by Councilman Becks, that meeting adjourn.

Bay Cliff Health Camp opens its doors

For the forty-third consecutive season, Bay Cliff Health Camp for handicapped children opened its doors on June 19 and 20 when approximately 200 campers arrived from all parts of the Upper Peninsula. Campers will spend seven weeks at Bay Cliff receiving therapy and participating in a variety of activities. In the past years, once campers arrived at camp their families did not see them until the end of the session. This year for the first time on a trial basis there will be a family visitation weekend July 17 and 18. A limit of four visitors per camper has been set and the visitors are divided so that half of the campers can receive visitors Saturday, July 17 and the other half can receive visitors Sunday, July 18. This is similar to the opening weekend of the school. During this trial weekend all visitors must register with the Bay Cliff office. If the group visiting the campers does not include a parent or guardian of the child, a note permitting the visit is required. Visitors will be permitted to use the campgrounds including the orchard, beach, auditorium, recreation center, swimming pool. Campers will not be permitted to leave the Bay Cliff grounds. The staff of the camp stress that this is not an open visitation period and that numbers must be limited because even with the present arrangement an additional 400 visitors could be added to the resident population of 350 staff and campers. More detailed guidelines for this visitation have been sent to the families of the campers.
Located near Big Bay in northern Marquette County, the camp provides various therapy programs including physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing therapy and reading instruction. An integral part of the camping experience for the children is their participation in swimming, nature, boating, arts and crafts, and recreation programs. The wooded area within the camp grounds and the nearby shores of Lake Superior and Lake Independence provide abundant opportunities for cookouts, campouts, and hikes.
Bay Cliff is known throughout the United States for its outstanding program of helping handicapped children. The staff is composed of registered and certified professionals from various parts of the country. Many of the 145 staff members in addition to the regular professional staff are studying in the field of special education and seek positions at Bay Cliff for the experience they may gain from working with children with a wide variety of handicaps.
Bay Cliff employs a full-time dentist, one dental hygienist, a dental assistant, a physical nurse, a nurse's assistant to care for the medical needs of the children.
The approximately 200 children who will be enrolled this summer come from all 45 of the Upper Peninsula counties. In addition, four campers come from outside the Upper Peninsula.
Proceeds from the 1976 CBC Radio, Television and the Major Project Fund from the Manistique Elks Club have provided funds for the following children to attend camp for the next 6 weeks.
Children attending Bay Cliff Health Camp for the summer of 1976 are: Karole Burns from Gormfask, William Carval, David Fleming, Marvin Fleming, Wayne Fleming, all of Manistique; Anne Frank from Manistique Township; David Hickman of Thompson; Samantha Kane from Doyle Twp.; Anita Meffer from Doyle Twp.; Merice Michaels, and Sharon Pizala from Manistique; Kurt Steinfeld from Hiawatha; Karip Wickwire and Stephen DeRousha all of Manistique.

Employed at Bay Cliff this summer from Schoolcraft County are: Paul DeSautel, Janice Petrick, Cliff Clifton and Kathy Quick.
Pre-camp enrollment approximations indicate that Marquette County has the highest enrollment with 58. The enrollment for other counties is estimated at: Alger, 6; Baraga, 10; Chippewa, 16; Delta, 21; Dickinson, 11; Gogebic, 7; Houghton, 20; Iron, 5; Mace, 6; Mackinac, 4; Menominee, 14; Ontonagon, 9; Schoolcraft, 14.

Proceeding and following the regular seven-week camping period, Bay Cliff facilities are used for a variety of educational and camp programs including Adult Easter Seal Camp.
John A. Vargo, director of the camp, extends an invitation to individuals and groups to visit the camp during its forty-third summer of operation so that they may see with the assistance of every person in the Upper Peninsula is needed to help operate this program which is financed primarily by contributions. Visitors would also be able to see how their assistance is put to work. Vargo says: The 1976 camping session will end on August 8.
