

After the ball...

PROM NIGHT BROUGHT DISAPPOINTMENT when the band schedule to play didn't show up at all. By 10 p.m. a tape station was going and the dancers danced till early morning. Principal Marvin Fredrickson said that the school will file suit with the musicians union against the band. "Nothing can replace that night, but we plan to follow through against the band to the fullest extent possible" he said. (Thompson Photo)

School sets election date

Manistiquet Area Schools Board of Education, meeting at noon Monday, set June 14 as the date for a regular school election to elect a member to the board. At the same time, it postponed a decision on millage until noon Friday, after the Schoolcraft County Tax Allocation Board has met.

The decision came after Board member Dr. Bruce Steinbold's suggestion to ask the Allocation Board to raise this year's increased allocation to the schools from one-tenth mill to two mills, for a total of 9. In a memo to the School Board, Superintendent Richard Bonifas explained the allocation situation. "Last year, we received 7 mills through the Allocation Board," he said. "For 1976-77, preliminary indications are for a 7.1 allocation to the schools. This is a .1 increase, or approximately $7,200.

"With the tremendous increase in State Equalized Valuation in the Schoolcraft County area, a one-tenth of a mill increase is a great injustice to the citizens of the district."

Board member Margaret Waters said, "The Allocation Board should give us two mills. The state average is 9 and over. But, we have to get the people down there to exert pressure on these elected officials to allocate millage from existing tax monies."

After the Allocation Board sets final allocation at 7 p.m. this evening, the School Board will face the decision Friday of whether or not to ask voters for an increase in millage at the school election or of how many mills to place on the June 14 ballot.

Senior Citizens

by Eileen Males

Last week we wrote on "Sam, King of His Own Stew." The man couldn't find anything right with the world and always looking for the worst to happen. This week we are going to talk about "William, King of Living." These excerpts are taken from the book "How to Live 365 Days a Year," by Dr. John A. Schneider. Which of the two are you? "QUOTE":

The other man to contrast with Sam is a man still to be seen on the streets of our town. His hat is respectable but old. His coat is clean but worn. His smile is sincere; the look in his eyes is glad. He is called William.

William, too, inherited a good round sum from his father, just as Sam did. And in an adventurous sort of way he tripped it and quadrupled it, and enjoyed it, as only William knew how to enjoy.

Then came 1929 and 1930. The bankers (and one was particularly bad) set upon William gleefully, and cleaned him out. I can't say on good authority, that with a little lenience William could have come through the depression in good condition. But this one "banker" snapped "what William had, while the snapping was good. William went on W.P.A.

I stopped one day when I saw him digging in a ditch with a string of men. William was 60, and he hadn't worked at manual labor for years, if ever. When he saw me he smiled a great big smile and rested on his shovel.

"You might almost say," he laughed, "that you are watching an honest man earn an honest dollar. But it isn't quite true. I earn only 79 cents of it. The rest of the time I lean on my shovel and talk. But then that's what the Government wants - it's so much to get this ditch dug as I is to help the public's morale, and so the 21 cents I don't earn showing, I make up for by boosting the general morale of these fellows working here with me."

All the fellows down in the ditch laughed with him. They had been feeling good ever since he joined them. He always made everybody feel good.

William still had a few irons in the fire and he made a little money over and above his W.P.A. intake. But then both he and his wife, whom he adored, developed an abdominal malignancy at the same time. Each had an operation. He lived and was cured. But he lost his wife. And it took all his recent savings to pay the hospital. Through the whole thing, William never changed, he never talked about himself, or complained.

He had a pleasant story, an interesting anecdote, cheerful greetings, whenever anyone came to see him in his hospital room. His wife's death must have made a great hole in his life, but he never let on. He filled it with the old smile which shone so brightly that he seemed to be all he could afford. Here and there, he made a little to live on, one way and another, but always happy.

Then he developed a malignancy of the larynx. More operations. I'd see him in the office, and he had so many interesting things to tell me I had difficulty finding out how he was. And, miraculously, he was cured of the malignancy in his larynx. He still goes around the town, smiling, interested in everything, and interesting everyone in something.

Probably the most remarkable thing about William is this: The banker who cleaned William out in the depression has never had a friend. I have never heard anyone say a good or kind word about him - except William.

William thinks the banker is a man of great capacity, and told me once, "People think the man has no heart, but he is kind, really. Nobody seems to pay any attention when he is kind, but they sure talk about it when he does the kind of thing a banker necessarily has to do."

One of William's neighbors, having admired the manner in which Will kept his head up, the cheerful smile on his lips, and the friendly, unsmiling greeting through all his misfortunes, stopped Will one morning and said, "William, if you'll excuse me, I want to say simply that I admire the way you come through misfortune after misfortune. I'd sure like to know your recipe. Would you mind giving it to me?"

William smiled warmly. Like everyone else, he liked a pat on the back.

"Well, I'll tell you. A long time ago I sat down to try to figure out my next move. It didn't look as though there was another move. I thought a long time. And then the answer came to me. I got up and repeated it to myself, "William, you might just as well cooperate with the inevitable." And that's what I've been doing ever since - cooperating with the inevitable!" "UNQUOTE"

Family Living

There's a spring vegetable around that is getting the jump on spring. Can you guess which one? It's rhubarb. It really is a vegetable, but we usually refer to it as a fruit. Rhubarb seems to fit into the fruit category because of its flavor and high acidity. It also lends itself well to "steaming up" with fruits rather than vegetables. No matter what we call it, it tastes so refreshing early in the year.

Most rhubarb that we see early in the stores in from "forced" crops. A forced crop is one in which the large, mature roots of the plants were grown in the field then brought into hothouses during the winter months. Michigan is one of the leading states in the production of this hothouse rhubarb.

The field rhubarb will not be available until later in the spring. Small amounts appear in late May usually, with limited supplies available throughout spring and early summer. Many home gardeners also begin to enjoy their own homegrown product, and may keep pulling rhubarb during the summer if weather conditions permit.

There are several differences between the fieldgrown and hothouse varieties of rhubarb, but both have that delicious flavor. Fieldgrown rhubarb has the rich dark red color, while hothouse rhubarb is light pink. The fieldgrown plants will have a course, green foliage which may or may not remain attached to the stalks in the produce counter. Hothouse plants have small light green leaves which are usually removed before the stalks are sold at retail. The leaves of either type of plant are not edible as they contain harmful amounts of soluble oxalic acid. Fieldgrown rhubarb stalks usually have a more tart flavor than hothouse stalks.

When selecting rhubarb at your grocery store, look for stalks that are fresh, firm, crisp and tender. The stalks should also be fairly thick as these are the ones that are more likely to be tender and free from strings when cooked. Look for good color, whether it be pink or red.

Rhubarb is usually sold by the pound or in "bunches." For calculating the amount to buy, you may find the following guide helpful:

1 lb. fresh equals about 2 1/2 cups sauce
1 bunch equals about 1 1/2 cups sauce
2 lbs. fresh for generous 8 or 9 inch pie.

When you bring the rhubarb home from the store, cut off the leaves (if any), then wash the stalks and pat them dry. Place in a moisture proof container and refrigerate. Rhubarb left at room temperature will wilt rapidly.

We usually buy rhubarb for its refreshing tart flavor rather than its nutritive value. It does contain small amounts of Vitamins A and C, but is mostly water. The calorie count is fairly low, but few of us brave rhubarb without sugar. Most recipes call for 1 cup of sugar to 1 quart of rhubarb. This takes the calories up to about 140 for a 3 1/2 ounce serving.

It goes well in salads, desserts, with meat and in jams and jellies. It also freezes and cans well. And it is one of the easiest products to freeze. Simply trim and wash the stalks. For ease in future use, cut stalks into 1 to 2 inch pieces. Place in a covered flat pan in the freezer until frozen through. Then pack in moisture vapor-proof bags and return the rhubarb to the freezer, individually frozen, only as much as you desire will need to be removed for use. If you wish, you may freeze it with sugar, as rhubarb sauce or other rhubarb products.

RUBY RED JAM

5 c. rhubarb (cut in 1/2 inch pieces - heating)
3 c. sugar
1 pkg. unseasoned Kool-Aid
1 small pkg. red jello

Mix rhubarb and sugar and let stand overnight. Cook rhubarb and sugar over low heat until slightly thick, about 10 minutes. Add Jello and Kool-Aid. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

ORV Registration

a must by June 1st

Off Road Vehicle (ORV) operators are reminded that registration is now required for all ORVs operated on lands not belonging to the operator. The registration requirement began May 1 but won't be fully enforced until June 1. The extra month is being allowed to provide time for the preparation, distribution and sale of registration certificates and decals. ORVs are defined as motor-driven vehicles capable of cross country travel without need of conventional roads. Among vehicles which must be registered for cross country use are four-wheel drive vehicles, dune buggies, motorcycles and multi-tracked vehicles. A vehicle registered under the motor vehicle code is exempt from the additional registration requirements unless the vehicle is operated as an ORV off highways, roads, streets and forest roads.

The registration certificates and decals cost $9 for three years for Michigan residents and $6 per year for nonresidents. The landowner's permission is required prior to ORV operation on private property, and the ORV operators are liable for damage to trees, crops, animals, buildings and the land itself. On state-owned lands ORVs may only use existing forest roads, trails and other area designated for ORV use.

Violations of provisions of the ORV act can bring fines up to $100 and 90 days in jail, or both.

Geese hatching at Seney

The Seney National Wildlife Refuge reported the first sighting of a brood of goslings on May 11.

This year's hatch may be right on schedule since May 11 is the average date of the first brooding sightings over the last 14 years. Last year goslings were first seen on May 18.

Auto tours at the refuge will again be closed until June 15 to avoid disturbance to family groups of geese which are attracted to the new grass along tour roads.

However, visitors can observe Canada geese with their broods from the Visitor Center grounds and the 1.4 mile nature trail which are open to the public seven days a week.

DANIEL SCHULZ, SON OF GOTTLIEB SCHULZ, graduated with highest honors from the Minnesota School of Business, Minneapolis. He graduated on March 25 from the business management course. His grade average was a 4.0 point.

Off-season fun

Never could stand fun out of season... there's something about tennis in winter, skating in summer and smelt in August that flaunts tradition to the point of indecency and stifles anticipation of upcoming seasons. Yet technology is determined to take the seasons out of fun.

My biggest complaint involves matter of the stomach. Contemporary freezing, pickling, canning and drying equipment and techniques have resulted in year-round eating of seasonal yummys... and by golly, it's wrong.

If, for example, you put up enough thimbleberry jam or blueberry preserves to reach the next harvest, you've robbed taste-buds of months of preparation and diluted family pickling enthusiasm to the point of rebellion. There are few richer feelings in the world than topping out the season's first 2-pound can of wild strawberries and those who would tamper with such ecstasy deserve a double ration of stink-bugs on their morning cereal.

Advocates will argue into the night that smelt frozen in water will retain all the succulence of those introduced to the iron skillet while waders are still clammy, but people with 50 milk cartons of fish in their freezers are obliged to feign enthusiasm.

Sure you can dry or freeze morels, putting them back into service on a February steak but they won't have anywhere near the impact of those couple fresh fried messes in May - the ones you think about all winter.

4-H report

by Chris Keener

4-H TEAM CLUB: Who are we? What do we do? What do we stand for?
 The 4-H Team Club in Schoolcraft County included 137 teens. P.E.A.M. stands for Peer Enrichment and Maturity. To be a member gives a teenager a sense of individualism, togetherness, security and creatively all wrapped up in one package.
 The Team members in the past 3 years has grown tremendously. What do they do? They do volunteer work at the Fairview School, (each Friday they work with the handicapped children and also sponsor the projects they work on.) Recently a party was given at Medicare, foods were donated by Team members. They keep our community clean by cleaning county roads, they hold special activities for younger children, (like having movies, record hops, special 4-H projects and provide trips to various places.) The Team members last year gave 50 scholarships to children, other than themselves, to attend 4-H events in Michigan. They work at community events, such as CBC, 4-H Chicken Barbecue, and other events. They've taken in youngsters from all over the state of Michigan to share their homes and ideas with. (usually they go on and on, especially what some of these youngsters to help families.)

PLANS FOR THIS FALL:
 These teens need bicycle parts to make specially designed bikes so handicapped children can ride a bicycle. Have any old parts or bicycles your not using? Contact the Extension Office at 341-3600. If you have any. We need them now so we can be ready to start this fall.
 Also, they plan to work with the mentally retarded this summer. Anyone having out-door games (safety kinds of things) or ideas for safety games, information would be appreciated.
 40 Team members themselves have taken a trip to Detroit and stayed in an all black community; this type of thing gives our youth an understanding of the inner city, its problems, racial problems and what the world is actually all about. Two years ago 15 youth from our county and 15 from Delta County visited Milwaukee, Wisconsin for an Awareness Trip. This year 47 adults and teens will visit 3 states on a Bicentennial visit with Southern hospitality. They will meet with other 4-H groups, participate in activities besides cooking, singing, dinner. They've taken in youngsters from all over the state of Michigan to share their homes and ideas with. (usually they go on and on, especially what some of these youngsters to help families.)

MICHIGAN'S AGRICULTURE:
 Michigan farmers produce nearly 50 agricultural products at the present time. In 1975, Michigan led the nation in five crops; navy beans, cherries (tart), blueberries, cucumbers for pickling and soft white winter wheat. We also ranked in the top five states in 17 other crops.
 On the economic side, Michigan farmers received 1.7 billion dollars for their products. With the addition of transportation, processing and marketing, this brought the value of Michigan's Agricultural Industry to approximately five billion dollars.
 What does our agriculture industry mean to Michigan? Agriculture is the second largest source of income in Michigan. In 1975, twenty seven percent of Michigan's citizens received some part of their income from agriculture. Over 12 million acres of land is farmed today, compared to 20 million farm acres in Michigan, 50 years ago. Of the 12 million acres today, only six and one-half million is cropland.
 As has been the case for many years, the size of farms is on the increase and the number of farms has decreased. We now have approximately 80,000 farms in Michigan and the average size of farms has increased to 155 acres per farm.

operations require more acres per farm to carry the numbers of head to make the operation profitable.
 Recent cropping changes in the county include about 300 acres of potatoes and 250 acres of beans grown as cash crops. Cattle and beef cattle farms remain just about the same as they were in 1973, when we increased to our 2,000 brood cows in the county. Dais and Barley have also increased in acreage since the demand and price has increased.
 Of course forestry still remains as one of our highest agricultural enterprises in the county.

As a special notice, To parties interested in a location for business catering to the tourist trade. I have such a location for sale. Be it, a motel, restaurant, store, trailer park, permanent trailer sites, laundry, home buildings, garage, gas station, farming in a small way or just a lovely home site. 10 acres of land with a good 2 bedroom house with good well of water. Gas heat, landscaped. On blacktop road just one half mile south of the Big Springs. This would make a perfect location for snowmobile headquarters, plus ice fishermen. Also a right of way easement in our place on Indian Lake for docking boats, and snowmobiles. This property joins the Hiawatha National Forest, so your customers will not have to trespass on private lands. This is a very important feature. I have retained 66 foot right of ways through out my lands for this purpose.
 There is a 40 x 60 foot foundation and a good extra well of water ready to be used with what ever type of building you would want or need.
 This is a year around location for the right type of business and this is something that is hard to find in this part of the country. And most of all these services are needed very much up here. And there is one more suggestion for one to consider, a complete recreational area. This is perfect for such.
 This is too good a location and property for just a single house when all these other services are needed in this area. It may be worth your time to investigate it.

June Hoholik

The Cook's in the Kitchen

by Doris Holmstrom

Busy, busy, busy

Married for 31 years, June and Ernie Hoholik first met at a Catholic Youth organization party. "It was love at first sight and believe it or not," she said, "I proposed to me that night."
 As it turns out, the couple was participating in a game which involved drawing cards and acting out the directions given. His instructed him to propose marriage to June.
 Whether she accepted that night or not she doesn't know but, five years later, they were married.
 "It's their life together since that time," Hoholik says. "It's been real full. It couldn't be any more exciting. There could be eight days in the week, though, I could have a job and I see every day of Ernie."
 "Ernie Hoholik works at the Three Mile Supper Club. "I'm a waitress but I do a lot of everything," she explains. "I work on tables, tend bar, cook, anything I needs to be done."
 She's worked all of her married life, "between babies", as she put it, first at the Dairy Bar, then at the Greenhead Inn and the Three Mile Supper Club as a live-in babysitter.
 Today - five children and five grandchildren later - Mrs. Hoholik not only holds a full-time job and manages her household beautifully, but finds time for her many hobbies and entertains regularly.

Her hobbies include macramé, refinishing furniture, arts and crafts, gardening and quilting. "I'm still sit still," she said. "On Thursday, my day off, we do the chores. We have three acres of house, lawn and garden, which includes a par three golf course, and we mow every inch of it. Together, it takes all day to get the chores done, then we usually have a barbecue Thursday night.
 "On Sunday we play golf with our mothers and then have a picnic. It's not that we're great golfers. We do it for our own entertainment. We don't go anywhere. This is where we spend our time because we have so little time together."
 Although Mrs. Hoholik loves to cook, her husband wears the apron on these Thursdays and Sunday outings. In the morning, he prepares breakfast for the ladies of the house and, in the evening, he grills the meat. "He won't let us lift a finger," she said.
 Five days a week, however, Mrs. Hoholik reigns over the kitchen.
 "We have a house full all the time and we love to entertain, but I've cooked for so many years now that it's routine. I have all of the cooking ready to go when company gets here, so we'll have more time to visit. And all my children love my cooking," she added. "They love about it."
 The recipe she's sharing with Tribune readers is excellent, she said, for a meatless Friday night when you're out of fish.

POTATO CHEESE PIE

2 cups flour
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon salt
 two-thirds cup milk
 one-third cup Kraft oil
 . . . Combine all of the above ingredients, knead and spread on a pizza pan.
 8 large potatoes
 1 large onion
 1/2 pound Kraft American Cheese
 . . . Cook and whip 8 large potatoes. Fry one large onion in margarine. Grate 1/2 pound Kraft American Cheese. Mix three together and spread on dough.
 . . . Bake for 35 minutes or until dough is golden brown in 350 degree oven.
 A dream come true would be if she were given an entire day to spend in the kitchen, but again she says, "working cuts down on my time in the kitchen. I'm just too busy."
 As an illustration, she told the story of a regular customer at the Three Mile Supper Club who presented her with a pair of hand-carved, cherry roller skates after she had apologized for being too busy to wait on his table sooner. "I told him that I needed a pair of roller skates in order to keep us with business. Then he brought them in! I'll tell you, I've never laughed as hard as I did then."

NMU board approves tuition increase for '76-77

MARQUETTE, Mich. - Following an intensive review of available opinions and consideration of even larger increases, Northern Michigan University's Board of Control today agreed to a tuition increase of $2.20 per student credit hour for the 1976-77 academic year.

The current tuition rate is $20.50 per student credit hour. The Board's action after President John X. Jamrich outlined the University's fiscal situation for the coming year, in which he estimated general fund spending would require approximately $1.4 million in additional dollars.

"I know the Board's record is one of keeping the cost to the student at the bare minimum," Dr. Jamrich said. "In light of the State's financial plight, this is a minimum increase. Northern will still be the over-third among the State-assisted institutions in tuition costs."

The increases cited by Dr. Jamrich included: $11,000 to employ additional faculty, as a result of enrollment increases; An increase of $75,000 in student financial aid; $440,000 to operate the new Physical Education Instructional Facility well below the $760,000 needed for total

State police

Michael Rowland, 25, Norfolk, Va., was cited by State Police for violation of the basic speed law after an accident at 8:50 p.m. May 11 on C.R. 442 approximately 2 miles west of M-94.

Police say Rowland lost control of his car on a curve and it struck the guard posts. He was taken to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Robert Cole, 22, Pontiac, was cited for violation of the basic speed law and failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead as the result of an accident at 3 p.m. May 17 on US-1, 1 mile northeast of C.R. 442.

A second driver involved in the accident, Deborah Taylor, 18, Gladstone, was cited with failure to change the address on her license.

According to police, Cole said that he struck the rear end of the Taylor vehicle when it braked directly in front of his car. Taylor told police that the Cole vehicle passed her car, pulled off the road to let her pass and back on again at a high rate of speed, striking her vehicle in the rear end.

Cole sought his own treatment for injuries sustained in the accident.

State Police reported the malicious destruction of an outdoor toilet at the Doyle Township Park May 17. In the incident, which is still under investigation, they say several wall boards were kicked in.

Herbert Hill, 81, Garden, was transported to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital May 17 when a police reported that he had sustained a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police recovered a vehicle stolen from Sault Ste. Marie near Nahma Junction May 16. It was returned to its owner.

County Board

Council paid a visit to the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners during its meeting Tuesday night at city hall. The councilmen were there to ask that the board reimburse them for the court's extended use of city hall.

Use of city hall. "This has been going on for two years," said Mayor Frank Hewitt, "and it's gotten to the point where we are having to reschedule city business around court use of the building."

Although the two could not agree on a definite date for discussing a rental fee, they have tentatively agreed to meet sometime in June.

Ed Shan, regional field representative for the Michigan Department of Public Health in Marquette, also appeared at Tuesday night's meeting to outline plans for consolidating the five Upper Peninsula coordinating agencies.

Governor Milliken, he said, is asking for such consolidation on a state-wide level in an effort to reduce spending. Ten U.P. counties, exclusive of those in the Western end of the peninsula, have agreed to cooperate. Shan told the board that he was meeting Wednesday with the various agencies interested in assuming Public Health administrative duties for those counties.

"A meeting will be held July 2 to review the proposals submitted by those agencies wishing to assume a coordinating role," Shan said. "I'm asking that you appoint two representatives to attend that meeting."

The board will cooperate by sending William Tenyson and LeRoy Belick.

In other business, the board finalized plans for construction of a chapel at the Medical Care Facility, and agreed to pay the hospital $10,000 of a $32,000 bill for food services contracted by the Medical Care Facility.

Filtration funds coming

Funding for the water filtration plant, held up by a lawsuit from downstate, will probably be on its way in time to make the payments to the contractors. City Attorney Mike Brooks said that bond counsel for Farmers Home Administration in Washington had given approval to continue funding to nine projects now underway in Michigan, including Manistique.

Sensar Hart's office reported that FAHA will not hold up funds for the filtration plant, according to Brooks, and the city can expect payment sometime next week.

Award presented

Life Scout Boyce E. Cousineau of Manistique and Star Scout Karl L. Levin of Manistique were presented the Pro Deo Et Patria emblem at the Zion Lutheran Church at the morning worship on May 15. The recipients of the award are both members of Troop 402 of the Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Zion Lutheran Church.

The Pro Deo Et Patria program is a religious growth program which fosters in Lutheran youth in Scouting a deepening understanding of the relevance of their Christian faith to life and strengthens their relationship to God and their Church, pastor and community. Recipients must give evidence that they have a meaningful knowledge of the Christian faith, that their worship life reflects their love for God, that they witness their faith in word and deed, that they are concerned for the spiritual and physical welfare of their fellowmen and that they render worthwhile service to their church and community. The two Scouts have each given 150 hours of service to the Church over the past two years. Only six Scouts in our area have earned this award.

The Pro Deo Et Patria program is administered nationally by the Office of National Youth Agency Relationships of the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A. on behalf of the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Scoutmaster Randy Eide, leader of Troop 402 presented the candidates for this special recognition by the Church. The Reverend Ingmar L. Levin, pastor of the Church, officiated at the presentation ceremony.

SHARON LARSON was honored with a special Mother-of-the-Year award at the annual Zion Lutheran Church Mother-Daughter Tea, held last Saturday at Zion Lutheran Church. She was awarded the honor because of her outstanding service to the church and the community. (Tribune Photo)

Time to fish for Rainbow

Conservation officers and field biologists report that rainbow are now showing up in most Upper Peninsula streams tributary to the Great Lakes. Barring any major changes in conditions, the next two weeks should provide the best steelhead fishing opportunities. Whether you call them Rainbow or Steelhead, these fish are very exciting to take on light tackle from streams high with spring floodwaters.

Fishermen are reminded of two recent rule changes which effect spring fishing. Landing nets larger than 5 1/2 feet in circumference or with handles longer than 14 inches are prohibited on trout streams during April, May and June and double or treble pointed hooks larger than 3/8 inch are prohibited on all streams until May 15. Hook size is measured as the distance from the point of the hook to the shank. Of course spearing, snagging, dynamiting, poisoning and similar methods are also prohibited. Anyone having knowledge of such activities should immediately notify a conservation officer or the DNR office.

Correction

In last week's State Police report, the Tribune was in error when it stated that a motorcycle driven by 13 year old Terry Vanatta struck one driven by Donald Lawrence, 14, Germfask. Police say the Vanatta cycle was struck by another driven by Donald Lawrence, 14, Germfask, as it was parked in the drive of an area surrounding the refuse boxes there.

PAUSE AND REMEMBER

Michigan Week is a time to remember... the rich heritage of Michigan and its citizens... the Indians who lived here thousands of years before the coming of the white man... the fur traders and missionaries of the French-British struggle for North America... the hardships of the pioneers who migrated here by the thousands... the stout courage of the ethnic people who chose Michigan for their home... the engineering genius which has fashioned an outstanding industrial state.

Michigan Week is a time to remember that Michigan... is a four-season vacation state... has more fresh water shoreline than any other state... is the only state which touches four of the five Great Lakes... owns the best toll-free highway system in the country... has agriculture, education, business and industry which take second place to no one.

Michigan Week is a time to remember... to talk up Michigan... to applaud what's right in our community and state... to improve what's wrong.

Michigan Week is a time to remember... all that we have going for us here... our Michigan Week success story... our pride in Michigan... our stake in her future.

Pass the aspirin

by Frank Senger

Saturday afternoon I had occasion to wander through the woods near my camp at Sieben. Among the flora and fauna that I spotted on that beautiful spring day was a woodpecker busily at work on one of the Hiawatha Forest's Finest trees.

It was somewhat surprising to find at my office on Monday a column out of Saturday's Free Press by Gerald Nuchman concerning the plight of woodpeckers and a heavy study by UCLA researchers. Maybe you missed the UCLA study. But we're passing on the column by Nuchman to broaden your exposure to the critical issues of our day.

A study by UCLA researchers reveals that woodpeckers are protected from concussion and headaches due to a sponge bone in their skulls, but one man has written in to ask the scientist, "How do you know woodpeckers don't get headaches?" A recent news story says that "Dr. Philip R. May and his colleagues are preparing a reply."

All of the woodpeckers I interviewed tell me that, yes, indeed, they do get headaches-lots of them, bad ones that really throbb-but that "it's all part of the woodpecker game."

IN THE WORDS of one longtime bird: "It comes with the territory, pal. What am I gonna do at my age? Become a bluebird?"

Dr. May wanted to learn why woodpeckers can withstand repeated jarring impacts, in the hope of designing a safer crash helmet for test pilots, athletes, workers and perhaps commandos.

The woodpecker community greeted Dr. May's report with understandable suspicion. "When they get one of them fancy helmets designed," said a woodpecker on a lunch break at UCLA, "I hope they build a model small enough for me to wear."

Some birds report nasty bruises and many woodpeckers end up after years of tapping, dazed victims of an occupational hazard, "bark-shock." They must leave the forest for some other line of work or go batty; many woodpeckers wander around the woods with double-vision, unable to fly straight.

Do you think anyone in the lumber industry gives a damn, asks a prominent woodpecker leader who, like his colleagues works with cotton stuffed in his ears to keep out the racket of surrounding woodpeckers.

Woodpeckers don't get headaches, says Dr. May, because "evolution would not permit the woodpecker to perform his function and suffer from it at the same time."

A woodpecker replies: "If you've lived as long as I have, Dr. May, you lose faith in evolution."

"Simple reasoning," adds Dr. May, "would dictate that if woodpeckers got headaches, they'd stop pecking."

That's easy enough for an elitist scientist like Dr. May to say. He gets to lool around UCLA, gazing out his window at woodpeckers all day. If you're a woodpecker, there is not much else you can do to scrape by these days.

DR. MAY MIGHT AS WELL claim that hummingbirds don't get dizzy spells, when in fact many suffer from vertigo if they hum too high and too fast, or that larks don't get laryngitis, but they do - also strep throat and, the day before spring, opening-night jitters.

You don't hear these birds complaining, though, because they realize they're here to perform a function, with little or no compensation, often at great personal risk to life and limb. Evolution has failed them, but they have a job to do and they do it quite well, too, if I may say so.

If only more of us were as selfless and dedicated as our little woodpecker chums, we'd never again wince about a headache. Instead of studying any more woodpeckers, Dr. May should figure a way to get a few million aspirin out to them. I wouldn't wait around for evolution any longer."

If It Fittz Reasons of Health?

by Jim Fitzgerald

The newspaper article said Dr. Joseph Deminon had resigned as superintendent of Oakdale Center, Michigan's largest mental institution, because of poor health. "That's a lot of bull," I said to myself. So I asked the doctor. He admitted it was 50 percent bull.

His health could be better. But half of the reason he quit is because he's fed up and frustrated with the leadership and philosophy of a Mental Health Dept which does not have "a sincere concern for citizens confronted with problems of mental illness or mental retardation."

Dr. Deminon said the state's mental patients are "belittled, humiliated and degraded" by crummy facilities and lousy administration from the department's top executives in Lansing. He was slow to name names, but there's no question that most of his criticism was aimed at Dr. Don Smith, a pediatrician who has headed the Mental Health Dept since June of 1974.

Recent horror stories in the headlines describing the neglect of patients in private nursing homes. Allegedly untrained patients have drowned in bathtubs, or fallen from windows, or been beaten to death. One of the reasons the nursing home business is booming these days is because so many mental patients are being discharged from state mental institutions and "released into the community." They still need constant care and some of them are not getting it in nursing homes where the bookkeeping gets more attention than the patients. Usually, taxpayers pick up the tab.

It was a year ago that Dr. Deminon told me many retired persons were being forced out of public hospitals before they were ready, and before the community was ready to give them proper care. "I'm afraid an injustice is being done the patient in some cases," he said.

Last week the doctor was specific about who to blame for these mistakes. "The decisions as to which patients should be released are made by the central office. They should be made by the institution which is caring for the patient."

The premature release of mental patients is only one of Dr. Deminon's complaints against the hierarchy of the Mental Health Dept. But all of his gripes run along the same theme: Dr. Smith and other top level management ignore the opinions of their employees "on the battle lines" who deal directly with the mental patients "the most important decisions are made by the most important executives. Dr. Deminon admits he has "a reputation for being quite outspoken." His big problem is that he really gives a damn about mentally ill and retarded persons. If you give a damn, you should listen to what he has to say about them.

The source of Dr. Deminon's discontent is underlined by what he says about the man Dr. Smith replaced as chief of the Mental Health Dept. E. Gordon Yudashkin used to have the job. "Yudashkin was in constant touch with the superintendents. You could talk to him. He gave you an answer," Dr. Deminon said.

His credentials are impressive. Before coming to Michigan, he was superintendent of state mental hospitals in Tennessee, Delaware and Indiana. He was director of the Mich Dept of Mental Health and chief of state hospitals in Caro and Kalamazoo. He has been running Oakdale formerly the Lapeer State Hospital for the past year. But now, after a long career in the mental health field, the 61-year-old doctor is chucking his paper job with the State Dept of Education.

Obviously, he feels the opposite is true of Dr. Smith who is aware of Dr. Deminon's charges. So far he has not publicly responded.

"People handicapped by mental disabilities are not mere social security numbers, nor are they inanimate objects to be dealt with through a variety of electronic computers, data banks or calculators," Dr. Deminon said. "Leadership or philosophy within any mental health system which demands that its clients meet the criteria of the system rather than the system meeting the criteria or needs of the client is universally ineffective. Unless the mental health system is dedicated completely to serving the needs of its clients, it should not be allowed to continue its existence."

Dr. Deminon said that "discrimination, confusion and bewilderment at the top level" causes poor morale among lower level employees.

Last week the Clinton Valley mental health center at Pontiac lost its accreditation. It was cited by a hospital commission for various violations, such as unsanitary conditions and understaffing. State Sec Joseph Snyder (D-St. Clair) immediately said conditions are worse at Oakdale. I asked Dr. Deminon if he agreed.

"Certainly I agree," he said. But Oakdale doesn't have to worry about losing accreditation. It never had any. "Oakdale doesn't qualify. It doesn't meet any standards. No one would ever accredit it."

Which is just damn good for the 1500 patients at Oakdale. Dr. Deminon, who gives a damn, has quit in frustration. Does anyone else give a damn?

Weekly Special Midwest Maneuvering

by Jack Anderson With Joe Spear

WASHINGTON - The United States has played a quiet, backstage role in preventing the Lebanese crisis from erupting into another Arab-Israeli war, reports my associate in the Middle East, Joe Spear.

Since the first of the year, Syria has been maneuvering behind the scenes in Lebanon and Turkey, in purely hypothetical moves with great suspicion. Spear cables from Damascus that every move Syria has taken has been calculated, in a sense, with the United States and Israel.

It has worked like this: Syrian leaders would talk to the American Ambassador, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who talked to Israel's Ambassador Simcha Dinitz. Then Dinitz would cable Jerusalem to get Israel's reaction to Syria's hypothetical proposals. These were communicated to Kissinger, who relayed them to Ambassador Murphy in Damascus.

Then Murphy briefed the Syrians on what the Israelis could be expected to do.

It has all been extremely subtle. Syrian President Hafez Assad has never asked the United States specifically to act as an intermediary with Israel. Yet Assad, the leader of one of the most militant nations in the Middle East, has been guided by the information and advice which he obtained beforehand from the United States and, indirectly, Israel.

The Syrian-American dialogue, Spear reports, has cooled somewhat in recent weeks. The Israelis have sternly and publicly stated what they will and will not accept from Syria in the Lebanese crisis. This has deeply embarrassed Assad, who cannot appear in the eyes of his Arab brothers to be bowing to Israeli demands.

Thus, Syrian officials spoke to Spear of their "disappointment" in the United States. Assad has the means to keep the Israelis quiet, the Syrians said, but has refrained from using them.

In an earlier cable from North Yemen, an obscure country located near the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula, Spear reported that top officials, even with the President because of Nixon's preoccupation with the Watergate scandal.

At last, in the spring of 1974, Ghegham got his appointment; but to mention where his office was located - even if the President should ask. For the ambassador's office happened to be located in the Watergate complex.

Powerful Friend: Shortly before the House recently began consideration of the Energy Research authorization bill lobbyists from the giant utility companies swarmed over Capitol Hill, bulldozing congressmen and cajoling their aides.

Their aim was to kill an amendment which would authorize spending $10 million for solar energy research. The utility companies, you see, oppose solar energy, which could be produced right at the homes and factories. This might put the utility companies out of business.

The congressman who is carrying the ball for the industry is Mike McCormack, D-Wash., chairman of the House Energy Research Committee. At all committee hearings he has been pushing the industry line.

Now, we've learned, the industry is planning to hold a fund-raising party on June 7. Guess who the honored guest will be?

It's right in their solicitation letter. The fundraiser will be sponsored by biggie from firms like Florida Power, Molson Power and Southern California Edison.

McCormack says the letter to candidates who "best represent our industry views."

Another interesting moment comes when the Congressman Mike McCormack.

Easter Funnies: It is against the law for a civilian to impersonate an Army officer. But a cartoonist has been sued for an Army man to impersonate a civilian.

In Peoria, Ill., for example, the press reported that local Army recruiters had been ordered to work on Easter Sunday. Staff Sergeant Paul Laird decided to play a practical joke on his superior, Sergeant First Class George Lacey.

Laird called Lacey and pretended to be one of our reporters. "This is Phil Calloway," he said. "From Jack Anderson's office in Washington." Then Laird, imitating a reporter, asked some tough questions about the Easter Sunday order.

Five minutes later, Laird called Lacey to confess that the call from Jack Anderson's office was a belated April Fool's joke. But the Army was "amused." An investigation was ordered; sworn statements were taken. An Army lawyer was assigned to determine whether Laird could be court-martialed.

The sergeant, too, is no longer laughing. He told our office that he was sorry about the whole thing. An Army spokesman had nothing to say, except that they are reviewing the incident. But our sources say the Army brass intends to have the matter determined whether Laird could be court-martialed.

Centennial Bombs: A special alert has gone out to law enforcement agencies in the United States and Canada. They have been warned that terrorists will attempt to spoil both the Bicentennial celebration and the Olympic games.

The terrorists are expected to strike in July, when the Bicentennial will reach its climax in Washington and the Olympics will open in Montreal. Both events are expected to attract millions of tourists.

The FBI has succeeded in penetrating some of the terrorist groups. The terrorists refer to themselves as "fish," and they plan to hide in the sea of tourists.

THAT VITAL SOMETHING

The trust of a child is a beautiful thing. Do you merit it?

Sure, you work hard every day to keep up payments on the nice, modern house where he has a room of his own and physical well-being, haven't you? You give him the best modern medical and dental care. You even started a special bank account for him for the years when he will be going to college.

But — haven't you missed something? In your concern for his mental and physical well-being, haven't you overlooked that elusive, vital "something" called the soul?

Remember, man is neither all mind nor all body. He has a spiritual side, too!
