

County: no Medicare millage levy this year

It looks as if Schoolcraft County won't have to levy any of that tax increase approved by voters last month to fund operation of the county Medical Care Facility this year at least.

According to a report by County Treasurer Bill Cowman at Tuesday night's County Board meeting, "in my opinion, for 1982, we would not have to levy any millage for the Medical Care Facility."

At the Aug. 10 primary election, voters approved a property tax increase of up to 2 mills to help pay bills the county had received for operation of the facility. In urging passage of that tax increase, the county had said it would be levied only if necessary. Now, according to Cowman, the levy will not be necessary in 1982.

Cowman said that surplus funds turned over to the county by the Medical Care Facility, along with lower-than-expected bills from the state and money from last year's county budget surplus, combined to make a 1982 tax levy for the facility unnecessary.

Under a complicated change in the way the state helps fund operation of county medical care facilities, state payments to the local facility were increased. However, most of the cost of that increase was billed to the county and the millage passed last month was to be used to pay those bills. Those bills amounted to $164,389 in 1981 and are expected to come to $166,000 this year, Cowman said.

At the end of 1981, the county had deposited $163,000 in a special account to be used to pay the bills. $113,000 of that amount was from the county's own budget surplus and $50,000 came from the facility's surplus.

Since then, the medical care facility has kicked in another $45,000 to the fund and is expected to be able to contribute another $120,000 in December, Cowman said.

That, along with interest earned from investment of the money, amounts to $331,262 and should be enough to pay the 1981 and 1982 bills. Those bills are smaller than originally expected, Cowman said.

The complicated formulas to determine how much the county would pay to help operate the facility have an inflation factor in them. Initially, the state used an average factor of 9.5 percent to calculate the local facility's share, which came out to $8.88 for each "patient day." After the bills were recalculated using the actual cost increase factor for the local facility—5.6 percent—the county's contribution was reduced to $7.79 per patient day.

In a related matter, the board authorized Cowman to pay the state $100,000 from the special fund before Sept. 15. The county has protested since the new state aid scheme went into effect that it does not owe the money. Rather than pay the bills, it instead deposited money in the special account, hoping to eventually avoid payment.

The state recently sent a letter to the county demanding the $108,000 payment by Sept. 15 or threatening to cut off state revenue sharing payments. Although County Board Chairman Merwin White said the Michigan Association of Counties advised Schoolcraft County to hold off payment as long as possible, he recommended payment before the Sept. 15 deadline.

Board members Lindsay Frenette and Lyle Kotchon voted against making the payment. "I think once you pay part of it, you admit to owing the bill," Frenette said.

Frenette had drawn up a proposal for combining the Medical Care Facility with Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital under the direction of the hospital Board of Trustees. The County Board agreed to submit the proposal to the hospital board for its consideration.

Frenette claimed that the cost of both operations, located in adjoining buildings, could be reduced if run by a single administration. He cited central purchasing and elimination of duplication of services as two ways to shave costs.

Shut out Manistique 28-0 Miners bury Emeralds in opener

Scoring in their opening drive and twice more in the first half on their way to a 28-0 rout, the Negaunee Miners handed the Manistique Emeralds a season-opening football defeat last Friday here at home.

While quick credit a big Negaunee team for its aggressive play, a disappointed Emeralds Coach Jim Hunter said Manistique's first Mid-Peninsula Conference loss was largely self-inflicted.

"You have to give Negaunee a lot of credit, but I don't think they have the kind of offense that should score 28 points on us," Hunter said. "We did not execute on defense. We got ourselves into a bind early on—we shouldn't have to score 30 points to beat them."

Hopefully, Friday's beating at the hands of the Miners will prepare the Emeralds for this Friday's game at Ishpeming at 7:30 p.m. Both the Miner's and the Hematites use a nearly-identical offense, according to Hunter. "We're going to see about a carbon copy of what Negaunee played," he said. "A slot-in with a lot of options. Almost the exact same offense. Defensively, we don't think Ishpeming is as big as Negaunee was, but they're quicker."

The key to defeating the Hematitles, themselves beaten by Iron Mountain last week, 29-6, will be better performance out of the Emeralds' offensive line, Hunter said. "Our offensive line has got to control that line of scrimmage. We just got beat up against Negaunee."

"I think our big problem Friday was mental. I just don't believe that they (Negaunee) are 28 points better than us, but we'll find out Friday against Ishpeming," he said.

Negaunee's first score came on the first possession of the game. A 13-play drive punctuated by a couple of passes culminated in Negaunee fullback Dan Carlson punching in for the touchdown from four yards out. The extra-point kick was good, and Negaunee led 7-0.

Three times during that Negaunee drive, long runs by tailback Terry Barrie on third-down plays kept the Miner hopes alive, much to the chagrin of Hunter. "The sad thing was we had them contained a couple of times and they cracked a long run on us or we would have had them in a box," he said. "In the first quarter, we just got beat—physically beat-even when we had players where they were supposed to be."

The Miners' second score came towards the end of the first quarter. A five-play drive capped by a 20-yard run by Barrie made it 13-0 Negaunee and the extra point attempt was again successful.

After the second Miner score, Manistique managed to push for a first down before an errant pass was intercepted. Manistique's defense stiffened to stop the Miners after an eight play drive. The Emerald of-

Fate of public transit still uncertain

Fate of the county's public transit system is still up in the air despite agreement by the County Board Tuesday night to sign another one-year contract with the state to provide the service.

Even with the agreement, it is not clear whether the dial-a-ride minibus service will continue after the Sept. 14 expiration date of the current contract. With a budget for the state's next fiscal year yet to be hammered out, nobody knows whether the state will live up to its commitment to fund 75 percent of the system's $201,000 1982-83 budget.

"No, there isn't any news," according to Diane McClelland, director of the transit system. "We still need to know if the state is going to fund their share" of the system's cost before service after next week can be assured.

Even if the state does come through with its part of the deal, the county itself may balk at spending some $30,000 to subsidize the bus service. That $30,000 would supplement $20,000 in projected fares to make up the county's 25 percent share of the operating cost of the system. At Tuesday's County Board meeting, Board members Rich Pawley and Lyle Kotchon both voted against signing the contract with the state. Also, since the county can back out of the agreement at any time, the board could vote to cancel the bus service whenever it wants.

Before voting against the agreement, Pawley suggested that the county funds for public transit instead be given to the County Road Commission as matching local money for road repair grants. He said a $25,000 local share could generate $85,000 more in grant money to repair county roads.

Such a move, Pawley said, could keep the Road Commission's sum of 30 employees on the job.

"This system can never support itself," Pawley said of the bus service. "To pay $30,000 to give a

Chartier benefit planned

The Elias Brothers' Big Boy restaurant in Manistique is planning a benefit for John Chartier, the Thompson youth paralyzed in a recent accident.

Aaron Stein, one of the owners of the local restaurant, said that 40 percent of the money taken in next Tuesday, Sept. 14, between 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. would be donated to a fund to help defray Chartier's medical expenses.

The menu and prices will be as usual, Stein said, but 40 percent of money raised would be given to the Chartier fund.

Chartier, 14, was injured last month while jumping from a hay loft. He broke three vertebrae in his neck when he landed head-first on a bale of hay. He is currently hospitalized in Marquette General Hospital, paralyzed from the neck down.

His mother, Jean, has been making frequent trips between Thompson and Marquette. Donation canisters have been placed at 35 locations in Manistique and at the Outpost in Thompson. Donations can also be sent to the Manistique Federal Credit Union, Phyllis Frankovich is serving as drive treasurer.

Cards can be sent to John in care of Marquette General North, Room 627, Marquette, Mich. 49855.

Elderly housing gets go-ahead from HUD

The Schoolcraft County Housing Commission Tuesday received approval from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to purchase sites for $3 million in elderly housing projects in Manistique and Gerafsk.

That approval appears to clear away a long-standing roadblock to development of the Gerafsk site.

The 16-unit apartment building to be located on 4.3 acres in Gerafsk had been jeopardized after it was found the site originally planned for the building's septic system was not acceptable.

The housing commission had switched the location of the septic system and needed approval from HUD officials before purchasing either the Gerafsk or Manistique sites.

The entire project is HUD-financed.

The letter the letter received Tuesday by Housing Director Eileen

Males did not specifically say the revised septic system plans for Gerafsk were OK. It did authorize the commission to purchase the Gerafsk site for $17,350 and a 3.5-acre site in Manistique for $20,000. The Manistique property will be the site of a three-story, 48-unit apartment building for the elderly.

Lon Barone, architect of both of the proposed buildings, said that HUD approval of the Gerafsk septic system plans was "implied. They don't say so specifically."

Males told the commission at a meeting Tuesday that "we should be from the letter, we can go ahead with the purchasing of that property immediately."

The commission authorized Males to set aside $40,000 of commission money from reinvestment to purchase the two sites. "It should be within the next month that we'll be

Indian artifacts found at Bishop Baraga Park site

Start scratching around in the dirt and there is no telling what will turn up.

Indian artifacts have been found at the Bishop Baraga Park on Indian Lake, some of which may date back as far as 2,000 years. Concern that development planned for the site may ruin its archeological value has prompted an archeologist to ask the county to limit earthmoving activities that may disturb any remaining artifacts.

Don Henson, local artist and archeologist, has noticed early last month that bulldozing at the park to clear the way for a picnic area and historical exhibits had stripped a layer of topsoil away from part of the park.

Henson had found other artifacts at the old Indian burial ground located in the park and started scratching around in the newly-cleared area. He found such a density of bone fragments, glass shards and other signs of human habitation he decided to ask a professional archeologist he knew to take a look.

The archeologist, Pat Martin, a professor at Michigan Technological University, spent a Sunday afternoon scratching at the area shown to him by Henson and came away impressed. Among the artifacts he uncovered during his brief digging was a spear head of the "Middle Woodland" cultural period, placing its age as anywhere from 300 B.C. to 500 A.D.

Also found were glass and pottery shards probably dating from 1830's, and an animal bone fragment with a shell button's and beaver bone chips.

"But there is also earlier stuff which suggest continuous occupation from as early as 2,000 years ago," he said.

Martin was quick to point out that the importance of the site may extend well beyond the discovery of a few old trinkets. "The objects themselves are not important. The objects don't have much information by themselves. It's the context of the artifacts that is important. This site would be important if we could demonstrate there is an undisturbed layer of artifacts," Martin said.

Since it is the apparently undisturbed nature of the site that is significant, Martin hopes that by the bulldozing and stump pulling that had gone on prior to discovery of the artifacts would be curtailed if not stopped altogether.

He wrote a letter detailing his concerns to County Clerk Fred Lesica and work at the site has been stopped, for the meantime, anyway.

"My only concern is for the integrity of the site," Martin said. "It has a sort of contextual integrity" which is worth preserving, he said. "Earth moving is the big thing, whether with heavy equipment or with shovels," that could wreck the site's archeological importance, he said. "Unfortunately, much of the damage has already been done" by brush-clearing along Indian Lake and stump pulling over the old burial ground, Martin said.

The site is important not only because it appears to have a cache of undisturbed soil that could detail 2,000 years of human habitation. Also unusual is that the soil at the site is not as acidic as others in the U.P., allowing the bone fragments to remain remarkably well-preserved.

Added to that the fact that the site is of historical significance and Martin advised the county to go slow in any

At home with Sarah

by Sarah Bignall

Tuesday morning a new program was aired on our local radio station called "Home-maker of the Week." I was honored to be selected as the first homemaker to start out this program. I was asked to give a recipe, step by step, which I did. But if you missed it or could not get it copied, here it is for you now. This recipe is for a chocolate cake called Heavenly Hash Cake. What makes this cake different is a layer of marshmallows between the cake and the frosting which makes it look so pretty. It is a special cake and so very delicious.

HEAVENLY HASH CAKE

| 2 cups sugar           | 1 1/2 cups flour |
| 2 sticks oleo (1 cup)  | 1 teas. salt     |
| 4 eggs                 | 1 teas. vanilla  |
| 4 tbl. cocoa (1/4 cup) | 1/2 cup nuts     |

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add vanilla, salt, flour, and cocoa, beating well. Add nuts. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees in a greased 9 x 13 pan. Remove from oven and put 1 bag miniature marshmallows on top and return to oven for 5 minutes. Cool and frost.

Cream butter and some of the sugar. Beat in cocoa. Add milk and sugar until it is spreading consistency.

Sarah says...When you are creaming butter and sugar together, rinse the bowl with very hot water first and they will cream faster and easier and creamier.

Food for thought...love adds and multiplies as you divide it with others.

Moose auxiliary is formed

A chapter of Women of the Moose, an auxiliary to the Loyal Order of the Moose, organized recently and holds two meetings a month.

A "Chapter night" program is held on the second Tuesday of the month. A business meeting is held the fourth Tuesday of the month.

Two main objectives of the Women of the Moose are to support "Child City," located at Mooseheart, Ill., about 40 miles west of Chicago, and a home for the elderly called Moosehaven, located 17 miles south of Jacksonville, Fla.

Each chapter member plays an important part. All members belong to one of eight chapter development committees: membership, Mooseheart, library, social service, child care, hospital, Moosehaven and publicity. Each chapter member is assigned to one of these committees even though she may be an officer.

Each committee chairwoman is responsible for a program the night of her chapter meeting and also for a fund-raising project. The funds raised by the Women of the Moose are used to assist the Loyal Order of the Moose in caring for the children at Mooseheart and the residents at Moosehaven.

The chapter also plans to take part in civic affairs by making donations to various organizations. In addition, it will help the local lodge when necessary.

Public Transit

Is it worth the cost?

Tuesday night's decision by the County Board to sign another contract with the state to provide another year of the county's public transit service was not as simple as it appears at first blush.

In the first place, merely agreeing to the contract, which provides for 75 percent state funding of the dial-a-ride van service's $201,000 (1982) budget, doesn't mean the transit system will continue to operate past the Sept. 14 expiration date of the current contract. Both parties to the contract—the state or the county—may back out any time and the state's commitment to pay 75 percent looks pretty shaky at this point.

Second, even if the state does agree to pay its share, the County Board itself appears less than determined to continue the van service. The vote Tuesday was 4-2 to sign another contract with the state, with board members Rick Pawley and Lyle Kothorn against continuing the service at all.

Pawley suggested that the $30,000 the county will have to kick in to subsidize the service (the other $20,000 of the county's 25-percent share will be generated through fares) could be better spent elsewhere. He noted that the money could be given to the County Road Commission as matching local money to obtain over $90,000 in road repair grants.

We agree with Pawley that the benefits of spending the money on a public transit system should be carefully weighed against those of spending it elsewhere, be it on local roads or any other county service.

Since the transit service was first begun in September of 1980, it has provided rides for thousands of county residents at reasonable fares, but it has never evolved into the regular bus service envisioned at its inception. Despite the repeated urgings of the County Board, the public transit has never developed any regularly scheduled routes that would most efficiently serve the greatest number of people. It remains a dial-a-ride service, closer to a taxi than a bus.

Failure to establish regular routes is nobody's fault; the county simply doesn't have enough people for logical bus routes to be laid out. It's like trying to set up a mass transportation system where there are no masses to transport. Eventually, sooner or later, the transit system will have to go. It can never be self-supporting and will be terminated in any event if the state reduces its support.

So we feel the county could be better served if the $30,000 in local tax money required to continue operation of public transit was plugged in elsewhere. A van service for elderly residents could still be provided, but the current, larger system makes little sense to us.

We agree with Pawley when he said Tuesday night: "What's the point in spending $25,000 on a program we all know isn't going to fly in the long run anyway?"

Lack of livestock disappoints fairgoers

Dear Editor:

Friday we went to the Fair. Our daughter was very disappointed when she ran into the nice new livestock barn and only found three goats.

After questioning around it seemed the general consensus of this was due to a misunderstanding.

ing, hurt feelings and a considerable amount of meddling by some other people.

I hope for the children's sake in the future we will all be willing to work as hard as making our Fair a success as those few have to detract from it in order to make their point.

Reader says news coverage is beneficial

Dear Editor:

To the teenager who came to the defense of her father who left his crippled wife and his three daughters to the mercy of criticism of the news media (her letter was published in the July 21 Pioneer-Tribune).

When a man or a woman places themselves in the position of which she wrote, what else can they expect but to make headlines—good, bad or otherwise?

The man in question placed himself in his own fall. He was a brilliant student in school. He learned many trades by which we make a good living and provide well for his family.

To make an honest living in this world is to work hard, to face the responsibility of paying respect to his co-workers, himself and his country.

You cannot play the role of boss shot and expect to come out on top—it seldom or ever works.

Credit union wants local contractors for building

Dear Editor:

We want to start this letter with a thank you to Leanne Senger for the article that appeared in last week's Tribune, on behalf of the Manistique Federal Credit Union.

However, we wish to clear up one portion that was printed in error.

The Board of Directors did not request that all phases of construction be done by Credit Union members. Their request was that all construction be done by local contractors, and as much material as possible be purchased in the Manistique area.

We're sorry for this misunderstanding.

Phyllis and Nick Frankovich

Why can't we learn?

Dear Editor:

There is ample reason for all citizens of Michigan to be concerned about U.S. Labor Department reports showing unemployment in the construction industry hitting all time highs.

In Michigan alone about 29,600 construction jobs have been lost in the past year.

While Michigan's overall unemployment rate stands at about 14.1 percent, construction unemployment nationally is 20 percent.

When World War II ended in 1945 and we had thousands of people looking for civilian jobs, major public works projects such as highways, ports and dams were created.

The results were a booming economy, low unemployment and low interest rates.

Today, we have the opposite—a ruinous economy, high unemployment

Say good-bye to US-2
HERE'S A VIEW that no one in Manistique will be able to enjoy again. This row of stately houses on west Arbutus has been torn down to make way for the rerouting of US-2 through the south side of town. State transportation department officials said that bids may be let for the project, which includes a four-lane bridge across the Manistique River, by December, with construction to begin as early as next spring.

County signs transit contract, but uncertainties remain

few dozen people rides doesn't make a lot of sense to me. What's the sense in paying $25,000 on a program we all know isn't going to fly in the long run anyway?", Pawley asked.

Bill Tenyson, chairman of the board's finance committee, noted that the bus service was only one of several county programs that were expensive to operate but benefited relatively few people. "We can't just say 'this is costing us money, we're going to dump it,' because there are a lot of places that are costing us money" in the county's budget, Tenyson said.

Another element in the issue is the cost of not providing the bus service now that it has been established. McClelland pointed out that not only would the county stand to lose $150,000 in state money if it drops the system, but that it would face paying about $40,000 in unemployment benefits to laid off transit workers.

Already, seven of the 10 employees are laid off, McClelland said.

with the most recent layoff of four drivers coming Aug. 27. In April, three other drivers were laid off. All that remain are two drivers, a dispatcher and McClelland.

McClelland said the layoffs came because revenues from fares were lower than expected and maintenance of the transit system's six-bus fleet cost more than anticipated. "We had such a rough winter that it took more money as maintenance than we anticipated spending," she said.

Currently only one bus each in Manistique and Germfask is operating, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Even if the state and county continue to fund the service, McClelland said all the drivers would not be recalled at once. "We'll just gradually bring them back as business picks up" during the cold weather, she said.

each laid off employee, Pawley said, the state is not helping out.

"We were assured repeatedly when we first started out that we would never have to pay unemployment benefits. We asked for it in writing and they said 'don't worry about it. We didn't worry about it and now they're getting us,'" Pawley said.

HUD approves housing property purchase

able to buy this property," Miles said. The commission currently holds options to purchase the sites.

When actual construction will begin on the project is still not clear. Barone said that the final plans for the buildings would be re-submitted to HUD by Sept. 17. Final approval by HUD—the last step before advertising for construction bids—could take anywhere from several weeks to several months.

Initial approval of an application for HUD funding for the project was given in May of 1981. The commission considered over a dozen sites in Germfask before finding the current site on the corner of Ten Curves and Losey Roads in Germfask. This June, it heard that soil drainage on the part of the site planned for the septic system drain field was not adequate, setting off a scramble to find a suitable alternative without scrapping the Germfask building altogether.

In another matter at Tuesday's Housing Commission meeting, Barone went over the latest HUD-revised budget for the project. That new budget, totalling $3.01 million, reflects about $280,000 in cuts made from the budget submitted by the Housing Commission earlier this year.

The biggest cut came in contingencies, Barone said, which were reduced by nearly $100,000. Another cut was to eliminate purchase of a truck by the commission for travel by maintenance staff between the two sites.

Barone noted that the cuts could be restored before final HUD approval of the project. "They don't lock up the final budget until the Sept. 17, he said.

The commission also decided to sponsor a public contest to name the two apartment buildings. Miles said details of the contest would be publicized next month.

County pays Humane Society bill

—Voted 5-1 to pay a $128 bill submitted by Eva Burrell of the Schoolcraft County Humane Society for care of stray dogs. Burrell said she had cared for 16 stray dogs during July and August. She said that, until a dog pound under construction is finished, she felt the bill to the county was justified.

"We're not authorized, but we are doing your job," Burrell told the board, noting that dog control is a county function under state law. "We know you're not legally liable for that bill but we were wondering if you could help us out."

Noting that completion of the pound was about a month behind schedule, Frenette said the bill could be paid from money earmarked for a county animal control officer after completion of the pound. The pound is now complete except for paint and electrical wiring, Frenette said.

Board Member Bill Tenyson voted against paying the Humane Society, saying it could encourage other people to bill the county for emergency services. Board Member Ernie Hoholik was absent.

—Held a public hearing in which no one commented on the county's proposal to accept increased revenue from its 5.5-mill property tax levy. The hearing was required under the new "truth in taxation" law. It was required if the county wanted to keep any extra tax money generated through increased property valuations. Under the law, the millage levy would be rolled back to 5.3 mills if the county did not go through the hearing process.

development Corporation (EDC). The board voted 6-0 to table the request until a detailed budget request was submitted by the EDC.

—Approved budget increases totalling $3,790. The Sheriff's Department will get an additional $1,650 for forest patrols, the treasurer's office will receive $150, $1,500 will go to the veterans' burial fund and $490 was transferred to District Court for postage costs.

—Held a public hearing on the proposed 1983 federal revenue sharing budget. That budget would fund all of the $107,000 anticipated in federal revenue sharing payments to the Sheriff's Department.

Big Bay de Noc ends their two-year drought

After a two-year drought, the Big Bay de Noc Black Bears football team finally found the well Saturday. The Black Bears defeated Brimley 13-0 at Brimley for their first victory in two seasons.

Black Bear Coach Jeff Pierce noted that the win is only the third triumph for Big Bay in six long years. The victory two years back itself snapped a four-year losing streak.

Pierce hopes to put together the first Black Bear win streak in a long while Saturday as Big Bay will face Mid-Hen at Big Bay at 1:30 p.m. Corey Potvin drew first blood for Big Bay against Brimley late in the first half as he ran in for the TD from three yards out. Jeremy Hardwick's extra-point kick was good, making the score 7-0.

Emerald effort falls short in opener against Negaunee

Negaunee proceeded to put together another long drive-10 plays-to score again on a five yard run by Carlson.

After another Emerald interception, Negaunee tried to get a last-second score at the end of the game with a half Mary pass, only to see it picked off by Emerald back Mark Hoholik, who ran it back 35 yards before being brought down with 11 seconds left in the half.

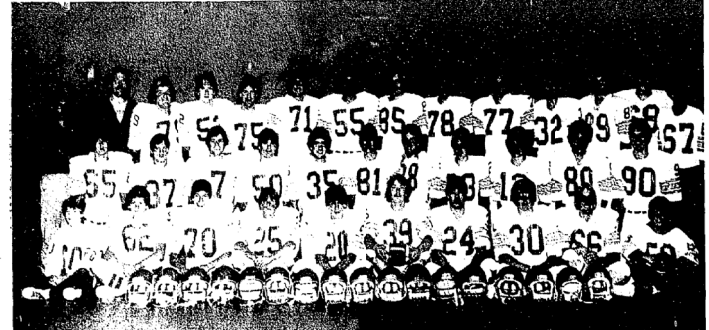

"That's the first decent field position we had and it's just before the buzzer," Hunter lamented. Manistique was unable to score.

At the end of the third quarter, Negaunee scored for the final time after a short Emerald punt gave the Miners the ball at the Manistique 40. A quick pass from 20 yards out, a successful point-after kick and Negaunee had a 28-0 lead.

Manistique's only drive of the game came in the third quarter when the Emeralds put together 15 plays and a couple of key first downs to battle to the one-yard line. Then, an off-side call put the ball at the eight-why not at the six. Hunter still can't figure-and Manistique's only scoring threat fizzled three yards out.

Despite the final score, Hunter cited the following bright spots for the Emeralds:

Hoholik: Besides his interception and breaking up another pass play, Hoholik accounted for 66 of the Emeralds' 135 total yards in the game. He was the leading ground gainer with 40 yards in 11 carries and snagged four passes for 26 yards.

Rubick makes Lions' final cut

Manistique native Rob Rubick survived the final player cut this Monday by the Detroit Lions and will be a member of the Lions' squad this year in the National Football League.

Rubick's father, Larry, is a former Manistique resident now living in Newberry. As a player for the Newberry Indians, Rob Rubick was familiar to Manistique grid fans during his high school career.

He graduated from Grand Valley State College and was chosen by the Lions during the 12th round of this year's college draft. The youngest player on the Lions' 49-man roster, Rubick weighs 230 pounds and stands 6-1.

CINDY KITLEY, 13, from Munith, Mich., caught this small mouth bass Aug. 10 while rowing on Gulliver Lake. The bass, which was 19 inches long and weighed 3/4 pounds, was caught using a worm as bait.

Michael Rubick attends NMU basketball camp

Michael A. Rubick attended a basketball camp for girls ages 10 through 17, which was held recently at Northern Michigan University.

The camp was under the direction of Tom Izzo, assistant coach for Northern's Men's Basketball.

The camp, which attracted 147 youngsters, was one of several Sports Schools offered by Northern this summer through its Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER) Outreach Program.

The camp provided individualized instruction and emphasized development and improvement of fundamental skills.

Participants received a certificate for attending the camp. Trophies and awards of excellence were also presented.

Growing U.P. organization will discuss new bylaws

Jon Haindl, beef and crop farmer from Cooks.

Krommeyer stated that the "Growing U.P. Committee" is emphasizing a total Upper Peninsula agricultural organization designed to work for the betterment of Upper Peninsula farmers and U.P. agriculture.

He urges anyone interested in Upper Peninsula agriculture to attend the September 9 meeting.

Doug Hawthorne wins annual fishing contest

Over 100 friends and relatives gathered for the 4th annual Charly Hawthorne Fishing Contest, that was held on Aug. 6 and 7, followed by an awards picnic on Sunday at the Manistque Township Park for the presentation of the championship trophy. The contest is dedicated to the late Chuck Hawthorne, a long time resident of Manistque.

Doug Hawthorne received the individual trophy for his championship 11-5/8 inch perch. Additional prizes were awarded to Bill DeRousha, Mark Vroyhart, Bud Weber, and Mike Farentino.

In the Junior Division, prizes were awarded to Jim Bauman, Bob Parish, Jeff Vertz, Chris Weber, Brian Weber and Craig Herbst.

In a tribute to the tradition of the area, a special Bill Jensen wood chopping contest was held with Doug Hawthorne taking first place at 12 seconds.

A horseshoe pitch contest was held with Brent Nygard and David Lander taking first place.

Plans are being made for the 5th annual Charly Hawthorne Fishing Contest to be held on the weekend of Aug. 8, 1983.

The category next year has been designated as bass.

Coast Guard: small craft need caution around ships

Pleasure boaters that travel in the Great Lakes are in danger when they overestimate the maneuverability of a large vessel. For this reason the U.S. Coast Guard wants to stress a few boating safety rules.

"It is very dangerous to underestimate the speed of a large vessel when it is approaching. Boaters may think the large vessel can quickly maneuver to avoid a collision. This is not true. A deep draft vessel travels from 10-20 knots usually and at this speed it cannot maneuver around a smaller craft at a short distance. In some cases the boater's mistake proves fatal. A simple rule to always follow is always yield the right of way to the larger vessel.

"It is recommended that boaters not only learn the Rules of the Road, but also gain a full appreciation of the problems facing the mariners they may encounter," said Captain Gordon D. Hall, Chief of the Operations Division of the Ninth Coast Guard District. Locally, the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary offers boating safety courses to the public.

If you would like additional information about safe boating habits call Hank DeSautel of the local Coast Guard Auxiliary at 341-6876.

U.P. loses out on hunter's permits

Hunters will be allowed to take antler-less deer in much of Michigan this fall, the Natural Resources Commission agreed at its July meeting.

Most of the Lower Peninsula will be open to antlerless deer hunting, but only a portion of Menominee County in the Upper Peninsula.

Only two Lower Peninsula counties—Emmet and Iosco—will not be open to antlerless hunting, which will be allowed in all or portions of all other Lower Peninsula counties.

Hunters will have until October 1 to apply for hunter's choice deer permits. Post card application forms will be provided when hunters purchase their deer license, which now are on sale. They must complete the application, specifying the hunter's choice unit in which they want to hunt, and then stamp the post card and mail it to the DNR. Only successful applicants will be notified by November 1 of the results of the drawings.

A hunter's choice permit and valid deer hunting license authorize the holder to take one deer of either sex within the hunter's choice unit specified on the permit, during the specified season. This fall's hunter's choice season will include both the traditional November 15-30 regular firearm season and the December 3-12 muzzleloading season.

The landowner's limited permit, which along with a valid deer license authorizes the holder to take one deer of either sex on his or her own land, will be in effect again this year. Qualified applicants must check the designated box on the post card form and include the township and county in which their land lies.

It is believed that Michigan's deer herd survived the severe 1981-82 winter with no worse than moderate fawn losses. This summer's fawn crop should swell the herd to a size approaching that of a year ago.

Tourism meeting is Sat.

Setting priorities for expanding and refining Upper Peninsula tourism promotional efforts will be the focus of discussion for members of the Upper Peninsula Travel & Recreation Association (UPTRA), as they gather for the Association's Annual Meeting in Newberry (Soo Junction) on Saturday, September 11.

Headquarters for the meeting will be the Falls Hotel in Newberry. Business sessions and a Board of Directors meeting will be conducted enroute to the Tahquamenon Falls aboard the Toonerville Trolley and Riverboat. Members and guests will depart from Soo Junction at 10:30 a.m. (local time) for the day-long session and Tahquamenon Falls tour.

UPTRA President Art Della-Moreta, operator of the Quality Inn-Straits Breeze Motel in St. Ignace, stressed that all business sessions are open to tourist business operators who wish to learn more about the U.P. travel industry as well as Association policy and strategy for the coming year," Della-Moreta said.

Len Barnes, Editor, AAA Michigan Living Magazine, will be the featured speaker at the Annual Banquet, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Falls Hotel. Barnes is internationally known and respected as a travel writer and editor. Barnes will address the needs and desires of the potential Upper Peninsula visitor from his perspective as editor of one of Michigan's leading travel magazines.

For more information on the annual meeting schedule, contact the UPTRA office, P.O. Box 400, Iron Mountain, MI 49801. Phone 906/774-5480.

Hunters need not register bear kills

For the first time in several years, it will not be necessary for successful bear hunters in the Upper Peninsula to register their kill at a DNR office. Hunters will receive a tag when they buy their bear license which will be secured to the bear's lower jaw after the kill.

The Senior Hunt license includes bear hunting, however, no kill tag was provided for this activity with the licenses already purchased. They are available at DNR offices, and those who hold this license and plan to hunt bear will have to obtain a kill tag prior to their hunting.

In the Upper Peninsula, bear seasons run from September 10 to October 31 and from November 15 to November 30. Dogs are permitted during the first period only. A bear license is required for both seasons.

One of the most interesting outdoor experiences, preferably shared with youngsters, requires only a fine mesh net, a couple of fruit jars, and a magnifying glass. Just muddy up a spot in a pond, dip deeply into the much with your net, and deposit your catch into jars with water. After the water clears, you will be amazed at the variety of creatures revealed by the magnifying glass. You may be encouraged to expand the experience into more serious study.

Waste lengths of monofilament should not be thrown into the water or on land. They tangle birds, lawnmowers, and outdoor motors. Either burn or bury such lengths after wrapping them into a ball or on a small stick for later disposal if on or along the water. Such lines can seriously damage some outboard motors by destroying the oil seal in the housing next to the propeller.

Here is how the Jamestown Slough got it's name

Memories Jack Orr

I don't know about you, but I've always been curious about how Jamestown Slough got its name and never took the trouble to look it up. The only day someone gave me a copy of the Grand Marais Pilot of Oct. 11, 1972, which contained an article on Jamestown based on an interview with Harvey Saunders, ex-president of Manistique and pioneer lumberman. (From time to time over the years the Tribune has also carried articles based on talks with Mr. Saunders.) Also, this article establishes a connection we have spent some time on in this column: The Ruggles family.

According to Harvey, his talks with the real old-timers on the matter of Jamestown establish that in 1875 two men, Ebin James and Cornelius Ruggles who at the time had a sawmill in Oshkosh, burned out and were looking for a new location having a good supply of timber. Mr. James, in partnership with a Mr. McArthur, owned land on the Manistique River and also in the Thunder Lake and Murphy Creek area. The timber was for sale and James and Ruggles made a deal with McArthur. James and Ruggles would cut and saw and market this timber.

Upon arriving in Manistique they found that the Chicago Lumbering Co. owned nearly all the land on both sides of the Manistique and Indian Rivers, up to about where the old Haywire crossed the river, and as Harvey said, "as the Chicago company owned nearly all the town, they did not welcome newcomers." James and Ruggles were looking for a place to build their mill and found that the site now known as Jamestown Slough was government land and they filed on it. James and Ruggles advertised in Oshkosh for men for mill work, and since there were no railroads coming here then they had quite a few men come up by boat for these jobs. One of them was Ed Cookson.

At this point we pick the story of the Ruggles family as previously told in this column. Coriolous homesteaded the property to the south of the present airport and Reg Ruggles, his son, became a good friend of Harvey Saunders. Harvey's story is based on talks with his uncle, Ed Cookson, and Murdock MacNeil, both from the original Jamestown crew. The Chicago Lumbering Co. gave jobs to most of the old Jamestown men and also bought the logs and remaining timber of the Jamestown partners and helped them get re-started. Ed Cookson became walking boss for the Chicago Co. operations and later became an independent jobber.

James and Ruggles did very well with their mill for about three years while the timber from the Hiawatha plains lasted. This came directly to the mill via the river. However, when this ran out and they cut on Murphy Creek they had to come across Indian Lake and down the Indian, then upstream to the mill, about a half-mile. They rafted the logs and built a boat, a side-wheeler, to tow the logs upstream to the mill. They used a "grouser," a long 12x12 beam standing on end, to drop into the river bottom to hold the boat and then winched the rafted logs up to the mill and at times this was impossible: their mill was frequently idle. The partnership of James and Ruggles went broke.

Harvey tells an interesting little story about John Fernier, who later worked for the C.L. Co. and who Harvey calls "the best axe salesman I have ever met." Harvey told John he needed an axe and John went through the price range, including the most expensive one at $3 which he said was tempered by a special process and designed to "chill hock locks and never make a face at them." To demonstrate, he took a chopping block and stuck this axe into it; then took a six-inch spike and laid it across the top blade of the axe and with a hammer cut the spike in two with one poke. Harvey says he could detect no defect in the blade as a result and never even dulled the axe. He says he "learned the trick and repeated it many times."

DNR REPORT

by Carol Schmidt
Newberry DNR Office

Department employees keep records during summer months of the number of deer and also the number of ruffed grouse broods they see. The first reports in this area show both species to be down from last year. June and July grouse reports were almost 50 percent below last year, and deer were down about 20 percent. The deer figure agrees with the spring surveys which also showed the local herd was affected by the severity of the past winter.

Blueberries are done everywhere except Alger County where they are in their prime. There are not too many, however, so pickers may have to put a lot of effort into their work. Blackberries in Alger County are starting to ripen. Color is starting to show up in the northern portion of the District, and nights are becoming downright nippy.

Jigs are good lures because they are worked on the bottom where fish frequently feed. Keep this in mind when conditions demand underwater plugs, spoons, and spinners. Wait until the lure has settled to or near the bottom before starting the retrieve. Reel line in slowly to keep your lure in productive water as long as possible. A fast retrieve shortens the time a lure can work bottom water.

The very small popping bugs used for blingis also will bring up big trout at night. It is necessary to keep the lure moving so that normally suspicious trout will not get a good look at it.

Perch are still doing quite well in Little Bay de Noc at Black Bottom off Squaw Creek. Early morning to midmorning is the best time, and minnows fished in 7-11" of water are producing nice size fish.

Walleye fishing is fair in Little Bay de Noc using leeches and crawlers.

Fishermen are catching some chinooks off the Escanaba Harbor and near the Escanaba River in Little Bay de Noc. Downriggers set about 25' seem to be best. Silver, pearl, or blue spoons and plugs seem to do the trick.

Lake trout fishing at Shelter Bay in Lake Superior has been good when weather permits the fishermen to get out.

Brook trout fishing in Alger County has been good with the cooler weather and rain.

Hospital, Medicare get license renewals by state

Both the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital and the Schoolcraft County Medical Care facility were both issued license renewals last month, according to the Michigan Department of Public Health. The 55-bed Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital was one of 16 in the state to be issued another license and the 75-bed Medical Care Facility was one of four to have its license renewed.

The county medical care facilities that were issued licenses are all located in the Upper Peninsula. They are Acock's Medical Facility with 98 beds at Marquette, Pinecrest Medical Care Facility at Powers which has 160 beds and serves Menominee County, Schoolcraft Medical Care Facility and Iron County Medical Care Facility with 109 beds at Crystal Falls.

At the end of August, Michigan had under license and/or certification, and in operation: 382 nursing homes with 41,064 beds, 134 homes for the aged with 8,886 beds, and 216 hospitals with 40,094 beds.

Should check Social Security work record

By Amy Bilski
Field Representative

People who work in employment covered by Social Security should check their Social Security work record every 3 years or so according to Amy Bilski, Social Security representative.

This is especially important if the person changes jobs often or has more than one job. A post-card form is available at any Social Security office for a person to request a statement of the earnings reported to his or her account.

A person's earnings record is very important. Eligibility for and the amount of any benefits due will be based on the information contained in that record.

Once a person receives a statement of earnings, he or she should examine it carefully to make sure that the proper amount of earnings has been reported to Social Security. If the person's own records do not agree with the amounts shown on the statement, he or she should contact the Social Security office right away.

This is important because most counties report an earnings record must be reported within 3 years, 3 months, and 15 days after the end of the year the earnings were paid. The person should bring his or her own records of the earnings record that is available so that an investigation can be made.

More information about Social Security earnings can be obtained from your representatives who are at the Court House in Marquette on the First and Third Wednesday of the month from 10:00 A.M. - 1:00 P.M. Most Social Security business can be handled by telephone. The toll free number is: 1-800-562-4820.

Want some free trees?

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free trees to all the new Foundation members joining during September, 1982.

The fall trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote fall tree planting.

A Colorado Blue Spruce, White Flowering Dogwood, Red Maple, Norway Spruce, Walnut, Red Oak, American Redbud, European Mountain Ash, Flowering Crab Apple, and Butternut tree will be given to each new member joining during September. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall packed with enclosed planting instructions.

"Fall is an excellent time to plant trees because the roots establish themselves over the winter and support faster tree growth in the spring," John Rosenow, foundation executive director, said. "However the advantages of fall planting are often overlooked. This is why the National Arbor Day Foundation is making this special offer."

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to new members contributing $10 or more during September.

To become a member of the Foundation, a person must give the fee trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by September 30, 1982.

Davis gets Medicare "zoning" changed

Congressman Bob Davis announced recently that senior citizens in the 11th Congressional District and other rural areas in the state will spend less of their own money for medical services covered under the Medicare program starting October.

After two years working with the Federal Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) and Michigan Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Davis said he has convinced HCFA to change the unfair "zoning" system through which Medicare reimbursements were made in the past.

Michigan currently is divided into three Medicare reimbursement zones. They generally are identified as metropolitan (zone one, the four counties comprising the Detroit area); urban (zone two, those counties which include Michigan's other large cities); and rural (zone three, the remaining 57 counties in the state). With the exception of Emmet County (which is in zone two), the entire 11th Congressional District is in zone three which reimburses Medicare costs at the lowest level.

By law, Medicare reimbursements must reflect local health care costs.

Dr. Khan joins the staff at Marquette General

Dr. Hidayat A. Khan, a specialist in the field of pediatric and adult allergy and immunotherapy recently joined the medical community in Marquette.

Upon the opening of his practice at the Marquette Medical-Dental Center on July 26, Dr. Khan became the first and only allergist in the Upper Peninsula, answering a long-identified need of the residents in this region.

Dr. Khan stated, "Allergies are caused by genetic familial factors and environmental stimuli or a combination of these factors. They include conditions like asthma, hay fever, insect allergies, as well as food, drug and insect allergies."

In addition to his medical practice, Dr. Khan intends to conduct research to identify the aeroallergens (pollens) prevalent in the Upper Peninsula as well as other major environmental factors in allergies for this region.

He will be a member of the consulting staff at Marquette General Hospital.

Headlee to be here Saturday

Republican gubernatorial candidate Richard Headlee will be in town for a "Dutch-treat" breakfast meeting this Saturday, Sept. 11, at 8:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn.

Headlee will use the occasion to meet and listen to the concerns of Manistique area residents. Manistique is one of the only small-town able to make this change." Davis added, "It was a long and frustrating adventure through the Medicare bureaucracy, but we know our senior citizens were not getting a fair deal and that had to be stopped."

Because of the three-zone system, Medicare reimbursements in Northern Michigan were often less than 50 percent of the actual medical bill.

By law, Medicare should be reimbursing at an 80 percent rate of the reasonable medical charge for covered services.

"I'm pleased that we were finally able to make this change," Davis added, "It was a long and frustrating adventure through the Medicare bureaucracy, but we know our senior citizens were not getting a fair deal and that had to be stopped."

Starting Oct. 1, all zone three counties will be moved into the zone two bracket.

stops Headlee will be making in this campaign swing.

There is no charge to attend the breakfast meeting other than the cost of breakfast.

Headlee, an insurance executive, will face Congressman James Blanchard in the November election for governor.
