

GERMFASK RESIDENT TONY McLaren can smile now, but he and his infant daughter Beth underwent some tense hours last week when they were taken hostage by a knife-wielding kidnapper and forced to drive to Wisconsin. McLaren tipped off Michigan State Police after he escaped, and the felon was captured.

He counts himself lucky

by Rick Buck

Tony McLaren had a lot more to be thankful for than the rest of us over the recent Thanksgiving holiday. He was happy just to be alive, after a couple of close scrapes in the past six months.

McLaren, a 21-year-old Germfask resident, made headlines two weeks ago when he and his infant daughter were taken hostage by a knife-wielding convict who forced them on an interstate odyssey Nov. 19. McLaren eluded his captor in Wisconsin and alerted Michigan State Police, who captured the man at an Escanaba bus station.

This June, McLaren had another narrow escape when he put his car in Lake Ann Louise. Both incidents happened on Friday, a day upon which McLaren might want to tread lightly in the future.

His recent ordeal began as a routine shopping trip to Seney. McLaren took his 11-month-old daughter Beth along, first stopping to pick up his paycheck at McMillan Wood Truss Co. in Seney. It was there McLaren encountered a man he identified as Charles McGee, who police said had escaped a prison bus the day before.

"I entered the building and went up to get my check out," McLaren said. "He came up behind me and just kind of put his hands on my shoulders and told me not to move or say anything."

McLaren described his assailant as a black man, about 6-1, weighing around 160 pounds. Ordinarily, the escape would be no match for McLaren, a husky former football player. But the man was heavily armed. McLaren said he carried a paring knife, hooked the knife, sharp letter opener and a hammer, some of which were apparently looted from McLaren's workplace.

"He wanted to know how much money I had and how much gas," McLaren said. "I kept asking him not to hurt us."

McLaren had to turn over $120 he had planned to use for shopping and then was ordered to drive toward Wisconsin. He stopped for gas in Gulliver and later that afternoon went to a K-Mart store to get the man some civilian clothes to cover his prison uniform.

"He had me buy him a set of coveralls," McLaren said. Although McLaren went by himself into a crowded store, he was helpless to report the armed felon waiting in his car. "He kept my daughter."

The kidnapper wanted to reach Milwaukee. He told McLaren to take him to a bus station in Wisconsin, so they drove south through Escanaba and Menominee. It was a tense ride for McLaren.

"I was scared. I thought we could be gone at any time," he said.

His captor did not say much along the way, according to McLaren. At first he told McLaren he wanted to be called "Faboo," and later told him to turn on the car radio. It was there that McLaren heard a bulletin about McGee's escape from a bus transferring 40 prisoners from Marquette to Jackson. The man was amused because the radio reports did not mention his name. McLaren said, but he was not menacing.

"The only threat he made really was at the shop. He said he wouldn't hurt us but I didn't believe that with all the weapons he had," McLaren said. "I felt more relaxed after a while. He would talk now and then but he didn't talk much."

At times, the kidnapper showed his own nervousness.

"He told me he'd only been free for 16 hours and that his life was in my hands," McLaren said. The man also seemed confused, and often said "Wyoming" when he meant Wisconsin.

They finally arrived in Peshtigo, Wis., a town about 10 miles south of Menominee. McLaren was made to buy the man a bus ticket to Milwaukee. A bus arrived, but the armed man did not get on because its destination sign read "Chicago." A short time later, McLaren went in to ask about the kidnapper's bus and found that the one they just saw was headed for Milwaukee. The man then made McLaren race to try and catch the bus.

They made it to Oconto, Wis., about 15 miles south of their first stop. McLaren then had to buy the man a ticket to Kalamazoo. A bus pulled in at 6:15 p.m. and the armed man jumped out of McLaren's car to ask the bus driver a question. That was all McLaren needed.

"I shut the door, got the baby and took off," he said. McLaren was a bit rattled by the day's events, so he headed straight for home territory.

"I just kept going. I had to get me and my daughter out of there," he said. It might have been wise not to stop. "When I did get back, he was in Escanaba right behind me," McLaren added.

McLaren stopped at the State Police post in Manistique and told them what had happened. His description of the armed man and his bus route were all that the authorities needed. McGee was captured in a bowling alley beside the Escanaba bus station and taken back to Marquette.

McLaren and his daughter both came out safe. Although he lost the $120 his kidnapper stole from him, McLaren hopes to get it back from the state.

But his wife Darcy has some questions for the prison authorities. McGee's escape was not noticed until the bus reached Jackson. He had apparently stayed overnight in the Seney area. Why did the bus stop there in the first place, she wonders.

Police told the McLaren that McGee picked open his handcuffs with wire, but she wants to know where the wire came from and why there were no guards watching the convict.

McLaren is hoping he will not get the opportunity to ask these questions in court if McGee is tried for offenses allegedly committed in the course of his escape. McLaren has seen enough of that particular prisoner. The state had not made any decision about it as of last week.

There was some good that came out of the incident for McLaren. He learned that many of his friends and neighbors worried about him.

"I had a lot of people concerned," he said. And now he appreciates life a bit more.

"Two lives could have been no lives," McLaren said. "Just being here is a big plus."

Farmers getting into old act

There's a new name for an old enterprise, except more farmers are getting into it. Yes, today several farmers in Schoolcraft and Luce Counties are growing out beef steers (dairy beef).

One system used by a number of the farmers is to purchase 3-5 day old bull calves from area dairy farmers. From that point on they dehorn, castrate, give various vitamin shots and disease prevention shots to the calves. The calves are started on milk replacer and when old enough are fed high quality alfalfa hay and grain.

There are several options for selling these dairy beef. One option is to sell them as 4-500 pound feeders, usually in the fall. A second option would be to feed them to about 1,250 pounds and sell as slaughter animals.

How does this fit into the beef or potato farmer production program? Quite often in the crop rotation used by cash and crop farmers, they have excess forages and grains. When prices for hay and grains are low they can more profitably market forage and grain through livestock.

The investment needed to go into dairy beef is relatively low and with good management can return a modest profit.

Teachers contract still out, board facing grievance

The Manistique Area School Board will have to hold a special meeting Dec. 7 to consider a special grievance filed by one of the system's bus drivers.

The board decided at its last meeting Nov. 23 that it should change the date of its next regular session in order to comply with contract terms requiring it consider the complaint within 10 days. This pre-empted the school board's regularly scheduled next meeting.

In other contract action, the board reported that there is still no contract with the teachers. Board members went into executive session after the Nov. 23 meeting to discuss negotiations and there is little information available on the progress of the talks.

"We haven't had ratification from both of the unions that represent our teachers yet," said Billie Doyle, board chairman.

Booster club concerns took up much of the time at the recent school board session. Club president Jim Barr was there pleading the case of swimming and seventh and eighth grade basketball. There had been a possibility that some of those programs might be axed because of funding problems.

"I hate to see it go under this year, we have so many people that are asking for it," said Barr, adding that 33 people have already signed up for swimming.

The school board agreed with Barr and John Males, Manistique High School principal, that the sports should be retained. So they worked out a compromise between the board and the boosters.

The boosters still owe the school system close to $4,900 for expenses from last year's athletics. Although the boosters would be willing to pick up the tab for swimming and junior high basketball, Barr said they could not do that if they had to pay off what remained of their debt.

The school board agreed to cancel the debt if the boosters would pay for the swimming and basketball. The board will make the boosters' payment out of the school system's $200,000 fund equity reserve.

The two sports being picked up by the boosters are expected to cost about $2,300. The competition will be intramural, with games played against teams from within Manistique instead of going to other schools. But that is better than nothing at all, according to board member Dick Stoll.

"We'd at least be giving the students an opportunity and training for the future," he said.

The vote on the compromise went 6-1 in favor. Board member John Hendricks voted against it because he said it was the boosters' duty to pay what they owed the schools.

Principal Males and the school board also discussed the problem with Diane Stimac, who acts as athletic director as well as teaching classes. Males pointed out that most schools give their athletic director some hours free from teaching so they can handle their sports duties. Stimac was overburdened by her two jobs, he said. Norway is the only other school in the area which does not give its athletic director a break.

The school board also voted to borrow $100,000 from the State Savings Bank at an 8.2 interest rate.

Time, vandals take a toll

'Fantasy' now a memory

by Bob Nelson

No other holiday is prepared for in greater detail or so well in advance. Christmas has become the most celebrated day on the calendar. Gift catalogues begin arriving in June. Halloween is barely over when Christmas commercials start glutting the airwaves.

But Christmas is much more than mass consumption and confusion. It's a magical time of year when differences are set aside and the best in each of us is brought out.

One of the best holiday displays in recent years was the colorful tableau featuring Santa and his elves which delighted Manistique youngsters for many years in the 1960s. However, it met a sad end.

Early in 1957 preparations were made by Paul Vezina, purchasing agent for Inland at the time, to give the people of Manistique a special Christmas present. Christmas came early to Inland that year as employees at the company pooled their talents and began working on "Santa Fantasy," a very special Christmas display.

Vezina drew the design for the display on memo pads and graph paper. A lighting design for the display was sketched on the back of an inland stock option plan folder. A small model was made out of cardboard and construction paper, complete with moveable parts.

Materials for the display were ordered from companies in Milwaukee, Chicago, Appleton, Green Bay and Minneapolis. Construction on the display began as a small army of electricians, machinists and carpenters set to work paying special attention to detail. A comment made by an anonymous employee in the Limestone Chips, a company newsletter, summed it up best: "The work was completed on the project. It required a lot of painstaking work, but it was fun too!"

The "Santa Fantasy" made its debut in front of the Inland office in Manistique (now the Forest Service offices) during the Christmas season of 1957.

The animated display featured Santa at his North Pole headquarters basking in the glow of a fireplace while five of his elves played instruments, danced and laxed about. Outside several reindeer harnessed to a toy laden sleigh patiently awaited.

Children and parents were delighted. Christmas music piped out of the display as the intricate machinery worked its magic, whisking a child's imagination off to the North Pole for a brief glimpse at Saint Nick.

The display became as much a Manistique Christmas tradition as Santa's annual visit to Lincoln school.

Inland stored and maintained the treasure display until 1961 when it was donated to the city. The display was relocated to Triangle Park each Christmas, sitting in a city warehouse until the Yuletide season.

"It was a beautiful little display. There was quite a bit of mechanical work on it," Paul Gunderman, former master mechanic at Inland, recalled. "I often wondered what became of it."

AREA RESIDENTS MAY find this familiar sight—the old Inland

Christmas display. The animated holiday scene suffered from age and several years ago.

Regretably Mike Fackety, superintendent of Manistique's DPW, had bad news about the display.

"We had it in our old garage at the end of Cedar Street. Some kids got to it three or four years ago. It was in bad shape," he said. According to Fackety, part of the machinery was saved and the rest was taken out to the solid waste disposal site where it was destroyed.

Fackety said that the city had tried to sell the display in 1978.

"We advertised in the local paper that any local organization could have it for $100. We only got one bite from some guy in Gulliver," Fackety said.

The chief problem with the display, according to Fackety, was maintenance. "It's nice that organizations donate things to the city, but it cost the city to maintain them," he said.

Justin Nelson, a former stock clerk at Inland who helped to put together the maintenance done on the display each year.

"Every year we recovered the men (with sparkle sheeling), the shiners would go out of the paper because of the weather. It would always need some touching up," Nelson said.

Unfortunately the "Santa Fantasy" has become a fond memory.

Attempts to replace it with some kind of community Christmas display haven't materialized. The city did have a Christmas tree located in the center of town, but vandals got to that too.

The "Santa Fantasy" delighted parents and children alike for over 20 years. Now it is nothing but a thing of the past.

As Ron Gunderman pointed out after hearing about its fate, "It's a shame. You have to go to the stores in big cities to see those animated things anymore."

Funny business in Curtis mail

Something funny may be afoot in Hiawathaland. Many Curtis residents have received letters from the American Testing Institute of 6660 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, Fla. 33138, offering prizes of merchandise or up to $2,000 cash for filling out a return form.

But the Better Business Bureau of Detroit has sent Pioneer-Tribune correspondent C.A. Lewis the following letter:

"The U.S. Postal Service Law Department has just advised the Better Business Bureau of South Florida that American Testing Institute has been included in the civil complaint filed by that agency against the United States Testing Authority charging them with conducting a lottery. The U.S. Postal Service is seeking to stop all incoming mail for possible violation of federal mail statutes."

Curtis residents and anyone else who gets this sort of mail should keep in mind the old adage that reminds us "Anything that seems too good to be true probably isn't."

SITTING BEHIND A DESK cluttered with the tools of his trade, new Pioneer-Tribune editor Rick Buck types out another story for this

Editor joins staff

As of this week, the Pioneer-Tribune has a new editor. He is Rick Buck, a 24-year-old Maryland native who has worked for several other Upper Peninsula weeklies.

Former editor Kirk Searle, who worked for the Pioneer-Tribune for the past two years, left to look for work with a larger paper.

Buck was previously editor of the Copper Island Sentinel, a small weekly in Calumet. Before that, he worked for the L'Anse au Loup as a reporter. He graduated from the University of Maryland journalism school with a bachelor's degree in May, 1981.

Among his hobbies are reading the Washington Post, bicycling, working on his vintage 1963 Corvette split-window coupe and traveling. Back recently returned from a cross-country tour to California, he lived in Israel, visited several other countries and plans to take a trip to Jamaica as soon as he can talk the boss into some time off.

At the Pioneer-Tribune, Buck will be responsible for covering news and sports events, writing stories, taking photographs and performing other editorial duties.

At home with Sarah

by Sarah Bignall

If it is a sweet tooth you've got, stir up a batch of fudge or divinity. Homemade candy is a tradition at Christmas, but there is no reason that you cannot make it any time of the year. Even though it is expensive to make candy, and getting more so every year, it is also very expensive to buy it in the stores. So if you plan on making candy for your family this Christmas season, remember to make a little extra for someone away from home. There is no gift quite as special as one from your own kitchen. Here are two fudge recipes that are family favorites. Peanut Butter Fudge was given to me by Marge Fountain and is one of those recipes that have passed from one to another so who knows where it originated. It is an easy recipe to make.

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE

2 cups white sugar
 2/3 cup milk
 Cook to soft ball. Then add:
 1 cup peanut butter (also good made with crunchy!)
 This recipe of Panocha reminds me of fudge made by my mother when I was a child. It was given to me by Wanda

1 cup marshmallow cream
 1 teas. vanilla
 Beat thoroughly. Put in greased 8x8 pan.
 Swanson, and it is delicious. Also easy to make, and makes 1-1/8 pounds.

PANOCHA

1 pound brown sugar
 pinch salt
 1 tbl. light corn syrup
 1 tbl. butter
 Mix sugar, salt, syrup, butter and milk thoroughly. Cook over medium heat to soft ball stage (237 degrees) stirring constantly. Cool. Stir in vanilla and nuts. Beat until crystalline. Turn into buttered pan. Mark in squares.

3/4 cup evaporated milk
 1 teas. vanilla
 2/3 cup chopped nuts if desired.

Sarah says...Use clear lacquer in an aerosol can to brighten up old Christmas tree ornaments. It will make them glossier and less fragile. If ornaments have become chipped in packing, red nail polish is a quick fix, even on ornaments of a different color. It is more effective than a blank spot on an ornament.

Food for thought......the manner of giving is worth more than the gifts.

Democrats to meet Dec. 6

The Executive Committee of the Schoolcraft County Democratic Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6 at the employees lounge in the County Building. The purpose of the meeting will be to nominate Democratic Party officers for 1983-84. Lunch will be served, and all committee members are asked to be present.

Leor, 500; Janice Redeker, evening bridge and Helen Davenport, 500. Winners of afternoon bridge, Lois Phillips and Charlotte Drago, were not there for the picture-taking.

Sheedlo featured at Aglow

Walter, who is also an Aglow advisor for the past 2 1/2 years, has just returned from three weeks of intensive scripture study in the Holy Land and will have much to share with us.

The meeting will start with coffee and rolls at 9 a.m. at a cost of $1.50 per person. For reservations please call Jean at 341-6183 or Sandy at 341-2430 or Carole at 341-6066.

Money spent at home
does you more good

You know it's Christmas season when you walk down Cedar Street and listen to the holiday music coming from the stores while you gaze at the decorations put up by the merchants. Or are you walking down Cedar?

Some people aren't. They have fallen victim to "Marquetitis," or maybe "Escamabobias." These poor souls are driven to extremes at this time of year—they use extreme amounts of time to take extremely long drives to go shopping elsewhere.

What could motivate such folks? The big malls? The great bargains? The urge to see new things? Are they still doing that?

Of course, you and I know better. Anyone who takes a close look sees that there are plenty of good reasons to shop at home for the holidays.

For instance, what's in those big malls? There are department stores, clothing shops, appliance dealers and other retailers, just like Manistiquie. The names may be different but the products are pretty much the same. Who can figure why that attracts some consumers?

They might be going after the big discounts. Isn't it funny how some people will use $25 worth of gas, spend $15 in a restaurant because they got hungry along the way and fritter away hours of their priceless time just so they can save 69 cents on a pair of longjohns? If they stopped to calculate all the costs, those people would know they could come out ahead by staying behind all the other misguided shoppers. Besides, stores in Manistiquie have sales too.

Some might drive far away just for a change of scene. It's possible that they enjoy being jostled in crowds full of strangers and picking their way around unfamiliar streets. After all, it takes all kinds to make this world. But can they really like stoplights and traffic jams?

However, most of us are aware of the benefits of sticking close to home when it comes time to shop. It's convenient, and there is more courtesy when you're waited on by familiar faces. Shopping in Manistiquie means there's no need to check the weather reports to see what it's like out there, and there's no worrying about the air in the spare tire or the condition of those highway flares, just in case. Some people have to go through a checklist just like a bomber pilot for their shopping.

They're the ones that arrive home late at night, tired, broke and with a lot less than they had planned for. For them, Christmas shopping is not a pleasant experience.

Those of us who shop at home return relaxed. We can have the satisfaction of knowing that we helped keep our community strong. After all, the people we helped support with our spending aren't unknown salesmen; they're our neighbors. They're the ones we ask to advertise in the high school yearbook or to buy our raffle tickets. We put up our fundraiser posters in their windows. Because we shop locally, those windows aren't shuttered. We know that what helps them helps us. A buck spent in the community gets around in many positive ways.

Let's hope that many more people realize the virtues of buying in Manistiquie. Maybe they'll remember what Dorothy said in "The Wizard of Oz," about how if it wasn't in her own back yard, she probably didn't need it anyway. But I hope you know it all along.

Clear your snow

Dear Editor:
 Many letter carriers are injured by falls during the winter months because ice and snow was not cleared from sidewalks and steps. We'll make every reasonable effort to work with our customers to accommodate them, but we want to remind them that snow and ice on steps and sidewalks to homes or businesses must be removed where carriers must walk.

We realize that it is not always easy to clear ice and snow, especially for the elderly, but carriers are not required to risk personal injury from unusual hazards to deliver the mail. Postal regulations also require that rural or curbside boxes be kept clear of snow, vehicles, or other objects, so the carrier can drive up to a mailbox to deposit or collect mail without leaving the vehicle.

With the arrival of winter conditions in our area, I urge all residents to cooperate in making winter delivery of mail a smoother and safer operation.

Thanks, Charlie

Dear Editor:
 I sincerely hope that Mr. John Matthews will give special consideration to Charles Varnum's application for the City Manager.

At the time of my retirement in 1980; a question arose over whether those who were covered by pensions would be ineligible for unemployment benefits.

I contacted Chuck late Sunday afternoon regarding this. He told me that I would hear from him on Monday. At 11:15 a.m. Monday his secretary called me advising me as to what I should do.

However, due to other conflicts I did not receive it.

It is my feeling that anyone who is so interested and has faithfully served the Manistiquie people will certainly continue to do so in the capacity as City Manager.

Many thanks and good luck to you Chuck in the future.

Wintery Sunset

IT'S BEEN AN unusual December so far because there is no snow on the ground. The wintery sun setting through these trees would usually reflect off a mantle of white. But anyone who knows the Upper Peninsula winter is not counting on it staying that way. Enjoy the weather and warmth while you can—it's not likely to last.

Greetings from a news bum

Please allow me to introduce myself. You'll be hearing a lot from me in the future, and I'll be asking many of you all about yourselves, so it's only fair that I should tell you a little about the guy who will be filling these pages.

I've been hacking out U.P. newspapers for about a year and a half now. If you read the news blurb about me, you might wonder how someone from Maryland came to be a Michigan newspaper bum. It was pure serendipity.

Buck's Shot

by Rick Buck
 A column of personal opinion

After graduating from college, I decided to take a motorcycle trip through the U.P. because I had heard it was so beautiful. I wanted to combine some business with pleasure, so I sent out resumes to a few papers in the region. They liked my stuff in L'Anse, so I went to work there.

It didn't take me long to figure out the U.P. is a good place to be. I've been around a lot of the USA, and there's no place east of the Rockies that tops this area for natural beauty. The quality of life is superior, too—the air is pure, prices are low and the streets are safe. The people are much friendlier than the suspicious, stuck-up citizens back east.

I liked the U.P. so much that I bought a house here, near L'Anse on the shores of Lake Superior. Unfortunately, I couldn't stay in the same place all my life. Ambition drove me onward to look for a better job, just as it drove the previous editor, Kirk, who wants to hire on at a daily. I'm one step behind him, so I wound up here.

You've probably seen a lot of names come and go at the Pioneer-Tribune in the past few years. The paper has had its ups and downs. I hope to be one of the ups. I enjoy the newspaper work immensely and take pride in putting out a quality product for you readers.

The Pioneer-Tribune is already one of the top five weekly papers in the U.P., and I'd like to move it into the top three. I think I can do this with what I learned at the L'Anse paper, which is the best weekly in the U.P. (I don't say that just to be bragging; it always wins far more Michigan Press Association awards than any other paper here.)

One thing I picked up is a feel for what people in the community like to read. The Pioneer-Tribune already does a good job of reporting the official news, what governmental bodies are doing to you and for you. But there is more that goes on than just this.

I plan to keep up the emphasis on weighty matters, but add more stories about everyday people, too. The U.P. is full of interesting characters and events, and not all of them can make it into Jack Orr's column. I want to spotlight these with more feature stories.

Sports is another big thing for a community like Manistiquie. I'm a big sports fan, and I intend to cover the best out of every event I can make it to. That's what people like to read.

I also want to go on with this column. I want to spotlight these with more feature stories. I'm not Dave Book, but it's hard to compare with a man who some have called "the Mark Twain of the Upper Peninsula." Nevertheless, I'll keep up the commentary on our local scene in my own style. (By the way, it's called "Buck's Shot" because sometimes let loose with both barrels.)

His door is open

Dear Editor:
 As a candidate in the past election I would like to thank The Manistiquie Pioneer-Tribune for their excellent coverage and analysis of the issues and the candidates of the past election.

Many of us rely on your newspaper to give us the facts before we vote. I believe your election coverage team did a noteworthy job. I can assure you folks and voters of the 107th District that my door always will be open!

Dear Editor:

Your article in last week's paper quoted me as saying that "scabies have also been found on local schools."

Although scabies can infest the scalp, the more common sites would include the hands between the fingers, wrists, around the beltline on the abdomen, and around sock lines on the lower legs. I have not yet identified any scabies on the scalp in our local schools.

The usual medication recommended for treatment of scabies is obtained by prescription from a physician. The user should follow the instructions carefully, not repeating the treatment before the recommended time.

As before, anyone with questions may contact myself or Carrie DeWinter, R.N. or Susan Bjorne, R.N. at the Health Department.

Deer, rare animal stories abound

The 1982 deer season is coming to a close. The latest Mackinac Bridge Count is 3,063 deer and 20 bear, compared to 3,167 deer last year.
Officers in the district have made 144 arrests, received 30 actionable complaints, and recovered 12 illegal deer. Thompson Field Station personnel checked a 195 pound 10-point buck with a 27-inch spread.

Don Schroeder of Curtis told Conservation Officer Jim LaPointe
he saw some type of animal standing in a field by his house with five does.
It had antlers on its head with a 3 1/2-foot spread and no less than 3/8 feet high. The animal had a white patch on its rear just like an elk.
Wally asked, "How much did you pay for your deer?" and the woman answered, "550."

Wally soon learned that she did, in fact, pay $100 for the buck, and the name of the man who sold it to her,
who has since also been arrested.
The case has not yet gone to court, but the charges for illegal possession are $100 for the deer, $200 fine, five days in jail and loss of hunting privileges for three years.

At the beginning of deer season the district office received a number of complaints on a nuisance bear in the village of Paradise. He was hanging around the residences, peering in windows, knocking over bird feeders, stirring up the dogs, and in general making a pest of himself.

Roger Chesebro of Superior Campground, Paradise, shot a buck on Friday, Nov. 20 and hung it on the buck pole in front of his place of business. He skinned out the deer and draped the hide over the fence.
Later in the day the bear came and made off with the hide.

Roger gave chase and did manage to retrieve the hide, then he and another resident stood watch with their guns. The bear reappeared in the early evening at the buck pole, and Roger dived him with one shot. The bear dropped right under the buck pole, and all they had to do was get a rope on and hoist him up.
Tom Weise, Wildlife Biologist at Sault Ste. Marie, says the Upper Peninsula with its relative remoteness and lower human population has several wildlife species that are rare and unusual.

One of the species that is oc-asionally reported is the cougar or mountain lion. Reports are received in various parts of the U.P. on an irregular basis including the eastern counties.

There are several other rare species that are occasionally reported that the DNR would like more information on. These species include the pine marten, fisher, lynx, badger, moose, and eastern timber wolf. The fisher was introduced in the western U.P. and appears to be expanding its range to the east. A marten was caught in a trap in 1981 in the Sault Ste. Marie area and released unharmed.

Lynx were quite commonly reported in the 1960's but have rarely been observed in recent years. Occasional reports of lone wolves are received.
The last evidence of a viable pack in the eastern counties was in the early 1960's in the Whitefish Bay area.

Positive evidence for any of these species would be photographs or tracks. Often there is no good evidence or at best some indistinct tracks which are soon obliterated by rain or snowfall. There are no open seasons on any of these species in Michigan so specimens cannot be legally taken.

conservation officers have reported some strange experiences while they were conducting their deer hunter checks. Area Supervisor Salminen was stopped on a back woods road checking a hunter vehicle when another car came tearing down the road. One of the hunters in the moving car, in his haste to eject the shells from his loaded gun, shot right through the floorboard of his car, blowing out the front tire. The car slowly rolled to a stop right behind the officer's car. Both driver and passenger were issued tickets.

Last year, Officer Davis arrested 2 deer hunters hunting in a scaffold on opening day. Three days later, Officer Taylor arrested one of the hunters again in the same scaffold. This year, Taylor arrested the other hunter in the same tree. Some people never learn. Officer Taylor also arrested a deer hunter for carrying an unregistered gun. Later in the day, the hunter contacted the district office and claimed he was a resident of North Carolina, where the only requirement is a purchase registration. Taylor dropped the non-registration charge and ticketed the hunter for hunting on a resident license. The "switch" cost the hunter $75.00.

We received a folded, stamped map of Luce County addressed to the DNR at Newberry in the mail this morning. The following message was hand printed on the inside: "I shot a doe and hid it there. Please have someone get it and use it. It should still be good. Please forgive me as it really bothers me. It will never happen again. I hope someone can use it." Officers went to the location marked in detail on the map and found the doe hanging in the woods.

A week or so ago Charlie Johnson, a local trapper brought in a fox he had caught in a trap on the Tahquamenon River in Luce County. The body was both reddish and gray, the legs were black and the tail was tipped with black. The biologists soon identified the animal as a gray fox, rather uncommo in the Upper Peninsula. Bob Aldrich tells us more about this animal.

The gray fox, also called the tree fox, is found throughout the eastern half of the United States, all of the south-west, and along the Pacific Coast. It is rarely found in the extreme southern portions of Eastern and Central Canada. It is a warm climate animal that ranges through all of Mexico and Central America.

The gray fox is about the same length as the red fox but generally weighs less. They have longer legs and a smaller body than red foxes. The head and body usually run 21 to 29 inches long with an additional 11 to 16 inches of very bushy tail. Adult gray foxes weigh from around 8 juv 13 pounds. In the field, gray foxes may be distinguished from red foxes by their obvious gray upper parts, long bushy tail with a black median stripe, and a black tip on the tail. The tails of red foxes are tipped with white.

The gray fox can be a desperate fighter when at bay. Unlike the red fox, the gray fox commonly climbs trees to elude pursuit. It can attain a speed of 28 mph in a sprint. The gray fox is not real particular about where it dens. It may den in a hollow log, a hollow tree, under a rock pile and occasionally in burrows in the ground.

Mating takes place in February and March. After a gestation period of around 51 days, there are 3 to 7 young born in April or May. As soon as the pups are able to leave the den, they go on night hunting prowls with the adults.

Mice and other small mammals are the chief fare of the gray fox. To that, it also adds insects, fruits, acorns, birds, and eggs.

Habitats of the gray fox include open forests, brushland, swamp country, and chaparral.

DNR REPORT

by Carol Schmidt
Newberry DNR Office

After a slow start, deer hill has picked up. As of this morning, 2,545 deer and 8 bear crossed the Mackinac Bridge, compared with 2,359 deer the same date last year. Officers have made 113 arrests in the district, received 21 actionable complaints.

Successful deer hunter patches have been issued for 20 deer checked at the Soo, 30 at Seney Refuge, 24 at Newberry, 30 at Nautawinway, and 18 at Thompson. One of the deer checked at Newberry was an impressive 15 pointer taken off the Skyline Road in Luce County. Bob Villeneuve of Newberry bagged a huge 10-point buck in north Luce County, aged at six or seven years.

Rubick's crew prepped for year

Coach Seb Rubick has been tuning up his Emerald squad for the season opener at Ishpeming on Friday. In this past week the boys' varsity team was involved in two scrimmages.

On Tuesday, Nov. 30 they traveled to Marquette and scrimmaged with the Redmen varsity for eight quarters. Although no score was kept, the Emeralds outscored the Redmen and looked very impressive at times, according to Rubick. Manistique's press was quite effective forcing Marquette into several turnovers.

Marquette held a slight edge on the boards but Rubick felt his smaller boys did a good job of boxing out against the taller Marquette squad, especially during the later stages of the scrimmage, as Marquette's first three or four field goals were scored on offensive rebounds. Overall, Rubick felt his boys did a good job and held their own against the Class A Marquette team.

Last Wednesday the Emeralds played an intrasquad scrimmage, commonly referred to as the "Green and White" game. In that contest the white team outscored the green team 51-66.

Analyzing the game, Rubick said that "both teams shot well from the floor with the white hitting 44 percent and the green 42 percent. Neither team rebounded well offensively with the leading offensive rebounder grabbing only two." Again Rubick felt both teams did a good job defensively by boxing out on the boards.

Both teams appeared to be a little tight and hesitated to shoot during the first quarter. But as the game progressed, the players loosened up and got into the flow of the game. A man to man defensive with no pressing was used by both squads, along with a running fast break type of offense.

All players on both squads got into the game and contributed with everyone scoring. Leading scorers for the white were Provo 16, Mickelson 13 and Cooper 13. Leading the green were Miller 15, Godlewski eight.

Looking ahead to Friday's contest against the Hemetites, Rubick will be starting five seniors with Bosanic and Provo at forward along with Godlewski, Farley and Mickelson at guard. Without a big man inside, the Emeralds will be starting a three guard offensive or more commonly referred to as "Rubick's Triangle."

Balance will be the key to the success of this year's teams as Rubick can get several players deep on the bench. Rubick hinted he may do a lot of pressing, fast break, and running to best utilize his team's quickness, depth and lack of size. If this is the case, Emerald fans can anticipate an exciting season of fast and furious basketball by the Green and White.

Game time Friday at Ishpeming will be 8 p.m. for the varsity and 6:15 p.m. for the J.V. contest. The freshmen game will be played at a middle school gym starting at 6 p.m. The Emeralds first home game will be the following Friday when they host Westwood.

IT WAS MANISTIQUE vs. the Emeralds last Wednesday in the annual Green and White scrimmage. Here, Steve Calhoun goes up to shoot after a fast break while Troy Farley raced along behind him. The Emeralds got the regular season rolling Friday with a conference game at Ishpeming.

Lasich, Calhoun receive honorable mention

Two members of this year's Manistique girls basketball team got a nod from the coaches when it came to honors time in the Mid-Peninsula Conference. Seniors Shelly Lasich and Barb Calhoun received honorable mentions in the all-conference balloting this week.

Lasich, a 5-5 guard, led the Emeralds in scoring with a 9.6 average. The co-captain was also tops in assists with 93 this year. Coach Don Videtich credited her wit for being the team's floor leader and showing lots of hustle. Lasich played nearly every minute of every game, he added.

Barb Calhoun, a 5-8 center, was Manistique's big player this season. She also got an honorable mention from the coaches. Calhoun had to play against many opponents much taller than herself but Videtich said she gave as good as she got.

"She gives away a lot of height, but she's battling every game," he said. Calhoun led the Emeralds in rebound with 10.4 per game and was second in scoring.

Masons to meet

Ag association kicks off membership drive

The Growing U.P. Agriculture Association is an organization for farmers, agribusiness and individuals interested in promoting agriculture. The Association was formed as an expansion of the original Growing U.P. Committee to help find answers to the many concerns, problems and opportunities of Upper Peninsula agriculture and agriculture research. The association brings together people in agriculture across the U.P. Just a few of the concerns the organization will be addressing will be: shrinking agricultural markets and low prices, increased government regulations, high cost of getting into farming, young people leaving the farm and the future of U.P. agriculture research.

On a broad basis, the Growing U.P. Agriculture Association stands for: promoting and supporting agriculture, working for agricultural legislation, developing additional U.P. agricultural leaders. Listening to, prioritizing and coordinating efforts to address the concerns mentioned above and encouraging youth involvement in the U.P.'s agricultural future.

The association will be kicking off its charter membership drive this month. Membership dues are $10 and anyone interested in agriculture can join.

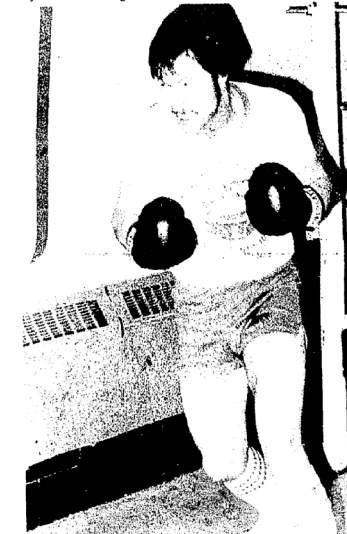

To help get the association started, Fred Hahne, a great backer of the agricultural community, has accepted the Treasurer's position until the first annual meeting in January when a new slate of officers will be elected.

For more information contact either: Jon Haindl of Cooks at 644-2385 or Elvin Hepker, Schoolcraft County Extension Director at 341-5050.

If you didn't guess Whitley Wilson, the chart below, which lists the top season scorers for Manistique boys' basketball, may be of help. SCHOOLCRAFT COUNTY USED to be big potato production, known statewide. The chief producer at that time was often Alphonse Vershure, whose farm was on M-94. He was known as "The Potato King". This photo from 1940 shows the king and some of his court harvesting the annual crop. (Photo from the Historical Society)

Frontier home was a castle

A few weeks ago, after a sight-seeing trip out to Seul Choix with visitors, we expressed some memories of this scenic spot including the following comments: "...the strong feeling one gets of the past... when cruising around Seul Choix, although it takes a little imagination because not much remains of the original settlement. In spite of that the feeling of antiquity and the early settlers persists, and in the case of Seul Choix the remembrance of times past is inevitably tinged with tragedy, and the absence of any tangible evidence of the old settlement seems only to add to the mystery and give added poignancy to the historical events connected with the area. Seul Choix's claim to historical significance is based in part on a killing back in 1859. I believe I have read somewhere that this tragedy and the eventual acquittal of the man who did the shooting constituted a "landmark" decision of the Michigan courts."

After that column appeared, I looked back through some file material and found that some time ago I had received a letter on the subject from Ed Johnson. The following is a quote from the Manistique Journal.

MAN'S HOME IS CASTLE
1859 TRIAL DETERMINED
"Manistique, Mich. The adage that a "man's home is his castle" owes much of its stature to an 1859 slaying case in Upper Michigan.

"It was the trial and subsequent appeal which established that legal principle.

"The episode began with the shooting death in Seul Choix, a tiny fishing settlement, of the local 'strong man', Isaac Blanchard, Jr. Isaac towered six-foot-seven and his 250 pounds of solid muscle hefted him bring off feats of strength that won him renown.

"One time he moved a massive rock to demonstrate his prowess. Through the years, townspeople kept it right where he left it (perhaps because they couldn't budge it) as a tribute to him.

Time For Showdown
"On June 18, 1859, Blanchard and several cronies decided it was time for a showdown in their running dispute with Augustus Pond, according to historical records and a historical booklet titled "Michilimackinac".

"Pond, they complained, had been mistreating his neighbors. They said Pond had picked on smaller men.

"The men went to Pond's home and challenged him to come out. Pond refused. So they walked over to the building where he stored his fishing nets and began ripping off boards.

"Pond was infuriated. He rushed out to defend his property and a shot was fired. Blanchard was wounded and died soon afterward.

Alger Co. celebrates

December evokes thoughts of Christmas, but does the spirit exist yet? For a warm glow in remembering Christmases past and to get into the mood of Christmas "present", why not attend the 6th annual Christmas Open House at the Alger County Historical Museum, 203 Oneta St. W., Manistig, Mich. Dec. 4 and Sunday, Dec. 5. The hours are 2 to 8 p.m. each day.

This event is Alger County's official launching into the holiday spirit. There will be the sounds of Christmas music, a festive all day tea table and punch bowl, the traditional trees and wreaths, group caroling each evening, and much more.

Dolls and doll accessories will be on display throughout the three floors of the museum. If you wish to display your dolls or accessories, please call Betty Ebbeson Johnson 387-2404 or Isabella Sullivan, 387-4207 before November 29. Co-chairpersons of this event are Florence Snow and Betty Johnson.

Memories Jack Orr

"Pond was arrested and later convicted of manslaughter in a jury trial.

"In 1860, however, the conviction was appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court. Pond's attorney argued that a "man's home is his castle" and a person should be permitted to protect it. That phrase rang out many times at the trial.

"The justices agreed with Pond. They held that the lower court had erred in its verdict. The high court pointed out that destruction of the building was a felony and that protecting one's property with a weapon was not necessarily wrong.

"A new trial was ordered. Records of subsequent developments are clouded, although Blanchard relatives say the defendant was never brought to trial again.

"Blanchard was buried in the Gros Cap cemetery beside Highway 2 in Mackinac County, midway between Manistique and St. Ignace. In the decade that followed, part of the word "murdered", which had been inscribed on the tombstone, was chipped away by an unknown person."

I guess this is the week to catch up on old columns, but to add fact omitted or otherwise bring them up-to-date.

On Oct. 14 our Memories ran a photo of the Manistique High School band on parade at the annual festival in Escanaba. The year was 1935, and since we had graduated slightly earlier than that we had lost track of the band members. We have now heard from Bill Reardon, whose memory is good, and his listing of the 1935 band personnel follows: Wayne Martin, still conductor. On trumpet Wilfred Norton, Dick Abramson, Bill Creedon, Franklin Creedon, and Bill Reardon. On clarinet Fran Beater, Dick Neville, Woodrow Kiefer, Pearl Christensen, and Harold Cockram. On alto Dan MacPhail. Tabo Hollis Matthews, Dorothy Howard (instrument unknown), Hugh Smith on sax. Trombones were Louise Bolitho, Ralph Hamiel, Jean Hollenbeck and Nina Yoder. Helen Capla Rute.

There are still a few names missing but I hope they'll turn up also. I'd bet a dollar to a donut that Wayne Martin still has complete records on them.

Once, not too many weeks ago, I was talking about childhood and all the secret and sometimes funny things that kids do. I think I may have mentioned that we all had dogs and we all had private ways of calling them. One of my friends, Harris Johnson who lived on Oak Street, had a spaniel who answered to Harris' yodel: Any time you heard a loud yodel on Lakeside you could be sure the Johnson pooch was on the loose or on the way home, one or the other.

What I started this paragraph with was prompted by another call between friends, but I'm not sure now I should mention it in connection with calling your dog. The gals had a call, used when they wanted to attract the attention of a pal also of the female persuasion. (Boys would never resort to this kind of malarky). The gals had this signal that went "Te-oh-Weet", with the accent on the "Weet" and uttered in a high sort of screech that only young gals can manage.

I've been trying to figure out the origin of such an inhuman sound and have come to the conclusion that it imitates a bird call. What bird, I don't know. Maybe that's why one of the current slang names for a gal is "bird". I'd like to be enlightened on this, for the benefit of the curious men in the audience. How about it, birds?

Brady cuts album

"It's been a long time in the making but it's been worth the waiting" said former Manistique resident, D.J. Brady, who recently released his first solo album on Good Fruit Records.

Brady is a 1978 graduate of Manistique High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brady. He started the project over a year ago but with finishing his senior year of college and working full time as a radio announcer, the time left for producing an album was limited.

"I think the biggest things I have learned from all this is patience, and how to survive on four hours of sleep," Brady remarks. "Our society is a very anxious society. I never realized how impatient I was until I started this album. I mean, I couldn't even wait for the water to boil for my instant coffee. Now that the album is out it really doesn't seem that long ago that we started recording, but near the end of the final mixes it seemed as though I'd been doing it forever.

Brady began writing songs and performing midway through his freshman year of college when he learned from a friend how to play guitar. Most of Brady's songs are what is known today as Contemporary Christian Music, a more up-tempo and electric way of conveying the precepts of Christianity.

"Young people today are being driven by the beating drums of certain rock groups to accept the lyrics of the songs as reality, when actually they're being fed a lie that in so many words says party your brains out and everything will be alright," Brady said. "Problem is, that things aren't turning out alright with teenage alcoholism reaching epidemic levels, with V.D. already an epidemic, plus not to mention the soaring suicide rate among young people. I feel if music can be used to have that much power over someone, to make them follow an unhappy disillusioned life style, to the point of self destruction, why can't I use it to bring the life giving message of Christ that has the power to build instead of destroy lives."

The title of D.J.'s album is Sight of Things Unseen, which comes from his desire to encourage others to put their hope in Christ instead of temporal wealth. The album features nine of D.J.'s own compositions totaling over 40 minutes of music. Sight of Things Unseen is available in this area at the Manistique Radio Center.

D.J. BRADY is the latest star to shoot out of Manistique. The 1978 roll with a religious message. The Manistique High School graduate's 40 minute disc is available locally. Just cut his first album, titled Sight of Things Unseen. Brady plays Contemporary Christian music, rock 'n' roll and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brady.

Moir buys own store

Many people in Manistique remember Denny Moir as the civic-minded manager of the JC Penney store downtown. Moir is still managing in the retail business, but recently took a giant step up to begin operating his own Ben Franklin franchise in Bloomington, Minn.

Christmas is an especially appropriate time to remember Moir, because he was instrumental in organizing the Christmas decoration activities in downtown Manistique. Although he returned to Bloomington in 1974, evidence of his efforts is still around today.

Moir worked for the JC Penney chain for 24 years in a number of different stores. In fact, he once managed the Penney store in downtown Bloomington which is located next to his present Ben Franklin outlet. The South Dakota native has been running the show there since August and there are certainly many Manistique residents who wish him luck.

State Police

A Manistique man sought his own arrest for injuries received in a single vehicle accident on Sunday. According to Michigan State Police, Steven S. Neville was southbound on M-94 when he lost control of his vehicle. The vehicle slid off the road, hit a tree and rolled over.

Police are still investigating a hit and run accident in Gulliver. Police report an unknown vehicle hit a utility pole on CR432 on Friday. The accident caused a power outage in the area.

Paul D. Roemer was cited for failure to signal for a turn after a two-car accident on Friday at 4:20 p.m. Police said the left rear signal light was not working on Roemer's vehicle. When Roemer braked, the lights on the vehicle signaled a right turn. The vehicle following him, hit his vehicle as Roemer turned left. The second vehicle was driven by Edward N. Daniels of Los Angeles.

Another horse was killed by a vehicle in Schoolcraft County. Police report a vehicle driven by Lawrence Marshall of Mt. Clemens hit a horse on M-77 at 5:45 a.m. Marshall said three horses ran into his path and he was unable to avoid hitting one. The horses are owned by Harry Priesner.

Last week a horse was hit and killed on M-94.

Sometime during the past two weeks the Sweet Spot in Curtis, owned by The Rev. John Pelon was entered through a forced side door. A coin collection valued at approximately $1,000 was stolen. The drawers in the furniture were all pulled open, which might indicate that whoever took the coins had an idea that they knew what they were looking for. The Pelons were away at the time.

The Curtis Volunteer Ambulance service assisted the Engadine group in two runs to Helen Newberry Joy Hospital in Newberry as a result of a fatal accident near the Gould City overpass.

The Volunteer Fire Dept. was called to the John Abram residence south of Curtis for a chimney fire.

Plans are well under way for "Christmas in Curtis-Past and Present." That is the theme of the children's poster contest. Vada Rosenberger has visited the classes in school and explained the contest to the children who seem very enthusiastic.

The contest is voluntary but we hope all the children will participate. The posters will be judged by number-not by name. And a good idea has just as much chance of winning as a masterpiece with not much thought behind it.

The judges for the contest are Jim Curran, Mardee Klussmeyer and Harry Wickham. The contest will be over on Dec. 2 with the judging to be held on the 3rd or 4th of December. The awards will be made at the Christmas potluck. Like the Miss America contest, only the judges will know the winners until it is announced that night.

We hope all the residents will come to the potluck at 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 6. We are trying to plan things so that even those at the end of the line will have enough to eat. If you have a large family, please bring enough to feed them.

The committee for the potluck consists of Ilean Kinsey, Chairman, Ann Olson, Sue Curran, Clara Warner, Minnie Tuttle, Shirley Burns, Agnes Houseman, Alice Morrison. Let's all get together for this most joyous occasion.

The Ladies Aid would like to give a special thank-you to Rennie LaFond and Bud Bonfield for their help with the electrical connections for our Christmas lamps. And a big "Thanks" to the firemen for putting up and taking down the lights. The Ladies Aid can plan and raise the money, but we old gals would be in sad shape trying to climb telephone poles.

At this time our calendar for Christmas is filling fast, but we are still interested in any visitors, entertainment or help we can get at this time in the vicinity are invited. Bring a gift (not over $3) for the gift exchange and a dish to pass and enjoy a very pleasant holiday afternoon.

We would like to thank the Post Noble Grand of Newberry Rebekah lodge 437 for the fresh turkey and fresh fruit they brought the residents for Thanksgiving. This gift was greatly appreciated by all the residents Thanksgiving Day.

The residents were treated to a special valentine Sat. Saturday, Nov. 23 for a trip to Germfask and Newberry. They also stopped for hot chocolate.

WNMU 'goes public' Dec. 3

What do Charlie Pride, Luciano Pavarotti, Alan Alda, Leontyne Price, Tennessee Ernie Ford, the Kingston Trio and Zeph Grunfeld have in common?

They and many other celebrities will be "attending" WNMU-TV's 10th anniversary "Go Public" celebration and fundraiser. Channel 13-NMU's public television station will celebrate 10 years of broadcasting with 10 days of special programming beginning Dec. 3.

Starting off the festivities Dec. 3 at 9 p.m. will be "A Concert at the Me!" featuring Leontyne Price and Marilyn Horn in a program of favorite arias and overtures by Mozart, Handel, Verdi, Rossini, Bellini and Puccini, simulcast in stereo over WNMU-FM.

On Saturday, another musical extravaganza will showcase different sounds: "Down Home Country Music" with Charlie Pride, Tom T. Hall, Larry Gatlin, Mel Tillis, Tammy Wynette, and Janie Fricke will invite viewers to stamp their feet and sing along.

So it will go for 10 days. "Great Performances" will celebrate its own 10th anniversary with a show of highlights from past performances. Tennessee Ernie Ford will present more "Songs of a Lazy Lord." Viewers can see how the hit series M.A.S.H. is produced, or drop in on the reunion of the original Kingston Trio, or hear Pavarotti's Christmas concert.

Among these and other special shows will be short reserved time slots, occupied by some familiar local faces, as station personnel, aided by area service organizations, call on viewers to "go public" by pledging their financial support to the station.

Fund raisers, too, are traditional, according to Scott K. Seaman, General Manager. Channel 13 held its first one in 1975, when federal and state financial support was first reduced. That appeal raised $975.

Last year, on-the-air fundraising brought $134,025 to help pay for Channel 13's programming. Underwriting contributions, many of which were also pledged during fund-raising, added $9,855 to bring the total to over $140,000. Corporate gifts and the "Annie" premiere brought the grand total to more than $175,000.

It's a far cry from the old days. If at this point some readers are beginning to think, "But my kids were watching 'Sesame Street' in 1968—that's more than 10 years," they are right. Northern has had a television station since 1963, said Turner, who has been with WNMU from the beginning.

In that year the unofficially designated WNMU began transmitting via cable from studios set up in the old ballroom of Lee Hall. Because there was no direct hookup with the Public Broadcasting Service, programs on film or tape were shipped in to be "cablecast" to 33 widely scattered communities. It was all black-and-white, closed-circuit in those days. But the station kept adding capabilities.

In January, 1970, the station moved to its present location in the Edgar L. Harden Learning Resources Center. During the next two years a transmitter was built in Ely township. The 1,000-foot tower with its 110-foot antenna put Channel 13 "on the air" as WNFBS in black and white with 316 kilowatts visual and 61.7 kilowatts aural power on Dec. 28, 1972. That is the 10th Anniversary being celebrated with the "Go Public" specials this year.

Williamson honored

Suzanne Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williamson, is among the 46 Ferris State College students selected to be included in the 1983 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Williamson is a student in the FSC School of Pharmacy.

Students are chosen for listing in the annual directory by campus nominating committees and directory editors on the basis of academic achievements, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential. The directory was first published in 1934. Listings now include students from more than 1,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

But the out of sync program timing continued until November of 1975, when American Telephone and Telegraph lines provided the vital inter-connection with the Public Broadcasting Service. No longer did programs arrive by mail. "Live from the Me!" could be seen live.

In December, 1975, the call letters were officially changed to WNMU-TV.

Most recently, in September of 1980, the station gained the capability of producing stereo simulcasts with WNMU-FM, so that special programs may be received on FM stereo radio, while viewers watch them on Channel 13.

Cut your own to save

Whether it's a table-top sized pine or a giant Colorado blue spruce, there's a Christmas tree to match the home and budget of any family at one of Michigan's cut-your-own tree farms.

"Michigan is the nation's leader in plantation Christmas tree production and this season families can pick from nearly one-half million evergreens at 59 choose-and-cut farms," according to James Drury, Michigan Auto Club travel operations manager.

"This year's excellent production also has helped keep prices generally unchanged for the second straight season."

Prices for Scotch pines, the most popular variety, start at $2.50, 50 cents less than last year. The more exotic blue spruce and Douglas fir set up for $35, unchanged from a year ago.

*Saw the trunk close to the ground. If it is a Scotch pine, bounce Club's 1982 Cut-Your-Own Christmas Tree Guide sell trees by the foot, ranging from $1 to $5. Families can select from 16 tree varieties, including common pines, concolor and French green firs and Black Hills spruce. Some farms sell potted Christmas trees which can be planted outside later. Thirty-eight farms offer evergreens up to 30 feet tall.

If planning a trip to a choose-and-cut farm this season, The Auto Club suggests these tips:

*Bring a hand saw. Most farms lend saws, but bringing your own saves time if all in use. Axes are banned.

*When choosing a tree, make sure the needles are flexible and do not come off easily. Most pines and Douglas fir hold needles while spruce and balsam trees shed.

*Saw the trunk close to the ground. If it is a Scotch pine, bounce it in the field to remove old needles.

*Bring twine to tie trees to cars, although most farms have rope. Tie the tree's base at the front. Fourteen farms will wrap trees for easy transport.

*After bringing the tree home, store it in a cool area. Before placing it in a stand, cut an inch or two off the bottom and immediately place it in the stand filled with water. Check water level daily.

*Before decorating, check tree lights for bare wires and make sure electrical outlets aren't overloaded.

*Trees should be kept away from flames and heating ducts.

*Tree bags, available at many farms, help keep needle drop to a minimum when the tree is removed.
