

County: Medicare Facility may close if millage fails

Failure of a county property tax increase request Aug. 10 will probably result in the closing of the county's Medical Care Facility, the Schoolcraft County Board said Tuesday.

The millage proposal to be decided by county voters during the primary election Aug. 10 asks for approval of up to 2 mills in additional property tax to fund operation of the facility, home to 75 residents and the source of 75 jobs in the county.

According to the board, if that tax is defeated, as it was in a Feb. 9 election, the county will have little choice other than to close it.

In discussing how the board might "sell" voters on approving the property tax increase, Board Chairman Merwin White said Tuesday "if this millage fails, there is an outside-chance year that this facility might close." Board Member Ernie Hobolik agreed, saying of the millage proposal loses again, "we'll either have to suffer or go along with the consequences."

White added that if voters "vote eyes for up to 2 mills, they want the Medicare facility. If they vote no, they don't want it."

In the February election over the same proposal, the tax increase was defeated in a low turnout by a razor-thin 20-vote margin, 779-759.

The millage needed by the county to generate money to pay bills it has been receiving from the state under a controversial change in the way state aid is issued to county medical care facilities.

Under that change, which went into effect last year, the county expects a bill for $163,000 for 1981 and a respective $206,000 tab for this outside-chance year.

The bills are justified by the state as a "maintenance of effort" by the county in support of the facility, but the county has protested that it never contributed over $30,000 a year to operate the facility.

The property tax will not be needed to pay for the $163,000 bills for last year. Although those bills have not yet been paid, the county earlier this year set aside $113,000 from its 1981 budget surplus for that purpose. An additional $50,000 was supplied by the Medical Care Facility from capital expense payments it received from the state that were not used for operations.

This year's bill won't have a county surplus to fall back on, according to County Clerk Fred Lesica. However, because the reimbursements by the Medical Care Facility will continue, the county may not have to levy the full 2 mills, Lesica noted.

If the Medical Care Facility can contribute over $40,000, the full $160,000 generated by 2 mills of property tax would not be needed. County Treasurer Bill Cowman said that the county has never levied the full 1 1/2 mills authorized by voters in 1974 to build an addition to the facility.

In other matters Tuesday, the board:

- Heard that the state Department of Corrections rejected the county's request for an exemption to a regulation that requires a 24-hour watch on the second-floor cell block of the county jail. Currently, deputies are stationed on the ground floor and make hourly rounds of the upstairs cells.
- The county had requested the exemption because it estimated compliance would require hiring an additional five deputies.
- The board voted to request a report from Sheriff Lloyd Gray detailing the costs of compliance and to notify the Department of Corrections that it was studying the matter.
- Approved a cooperative agreement with the city over operation of a city-county dog pound. That agreement

GET YOUR BALLOON HERE! Tuesday was the day for the annual sidewalk sale for the downtown merchants, who closed off a block of Cedar Street and brought their wares into the street. Bright sunshine, concession stands and these shiny balloons being sold by Mariene and Merle Sellers gave the occasion a festive air.

Plans shape up for county fair

Hurry, hurry! Step right this way—the Schoolcraft County Fair gets underway next month and the Fair Board is busy finalizing plans for this year's festivities.

The fair this year will be held Aug. 27, 28 and 29. In addition to the other attractions that have contributed to the fair's popularity since it was revived in 1977, the 1982 version will include for the first time a carnival complete with rides and games.

The Schmidt Amusement Co. of Standish, Mich., has put together a package for the fair that includes expanded midway games and rides including a ferris wheel, scampier, octopus, tilt-a-whirl and kiddie rides.

The fair this year will open at noon on Friday, Aug. 27. The big event on opening day will be the Miss Schoolcraft County pageant, which gets underway at 7 p.m. Candidates to replace reigning Miss Schoolcraft County Lisa DeMers are being sought. Interested girls between 16 and 20 years old should contact Pageant Chairman Donna Gilroy or stop by the Pioneer-Tribune for more details.

On Saturday, in addition to livestock and exhibit judging, activities include performance by a 4-H performing arts troupe at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., a 4-H horse show at 1 p.m., square dancing at 6 p.m., and a fundraising dance at 9:30 p.m. Sunday will feature a karate exhibition at 2 p.m.

Passes for the fair are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children between the ages of 13 and 18. Children under 12 are admitted free. Three-day passes are $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Varnum ponders life after politics

Manistique's state representative for the past 16 years, Charlie Varnum, said Wednesday he still has no definite plans for the future after his surprise announcement last month that he will not seek a ninth term in the state House of Representatives.

Noting that he has had a "couple of solid job offers," Varnum said that he nonetheless planned to wait until his term expires Dec. 31 before making any commitments about a job. "I have an obligation to the people in my district until Dec. 31," he said. "Plus the fact that if something else comes along that pays less than I would enjoy doing more, I'd want to be able to take that," he added.

Varnum wouldn't say what sort of job offers he has received so far, other than they were "close to government, but not in government." His response when asked if he had been offered a job as a lobbyist in Lansing was "could be."

Although the decision to call it quits in the legislature was a tough one, Varnum said he doesn't regret it and held out the possibility he may return to politics. "I really agonized back and forth—it was not an easy decision" not to seek reelection, Varnum said. Before making that decision, Varnum said he considered running for the Republican nomination for the 37th Senate District.

It was the rigors of politics in a huge legislative district that finally persuaded Varnum to quit.

"After driving 60,000 miles a year for 16 years, I wasn't ready to be in Traverse City at night and Escanaba in the morning." After he decided not to run, Varnum said he "felt absolutely great—the pressure has subsided. I still get 20 calls a day, but I feel great."

"If I find I get into something that I don't particularly like, two years from now I might say 'I've had a rest and I'm ready to go again.' Now, I'm physically tired."

Varnum would not comment on whether his legal troubles stemming from an arrest last year in Lansing were a factor in his decision to not seek reelection. He was arrested last July for allegedly soliciting sex from a policeman posing as a prostitute. He is currently appealing a motion denied by Lansing Circuit Court to dismiss that charge on the grounds he was illegally entrapped by police.

Varnum did say that the reapportionment of his district was not a factor in his decision to step down.

Has he enjoyed his tenure in the legislature? "On the whole, I enjoy it very much," Varnum said but added "No one will ever realize the pressure involved in being in the legislature."

"There is a tremendous amount of pressure involved. Anyone who is in the legislature really has to be tough. It's a constant fight. You've got to be tough and not afraid to work an 18-hour day. You've got to be on call 24 hours a day," he said.

Bring on call around the clock can bring some bizarre brushes with the law, Varnum recalled. One constituent, who lived in a rest home, decided it was a job for his state legislator when he was not being issued enough snuff to suit him. "They chew snuff, apparently, and they aren't getting enough snuff," Varnum said. "I called the rest home and got him some more—he hadn't asked them for any—and he couldn't thank me enough."

Then there was the case of the diamond and the cow. A cow stepped on a constituent's diamond ring, smashing it to bits and losing the diamond in the process, Varnum said. The man wanted Varnum to call the insurance company and convince them his claim was no exaggerated. "Over 16 years, I'd say there have been hundreds of thousands of people who have had problems that we've been able to cut the red tape at all levels for. That's been very satisfying when you've been able to help out voters is one of the help."

Nat Dellis elected tourist council head

Members of the Manistique Area Tourist Council elected Nat Dellis, owner of the Ramada Inn in Manistique, as the director of the council at a recent meeting.

The council was formed earlier this summer by a group of local hotel and motel operators to "enhance the tourist, travel and recreation business in the Manistique area."

Among the major goals of the council is to eliminate posting of room rates by member motel operators, a practice the council claims depresses local rates and profits—and gives Manistique a bad name among other U.P. lodging operators, who steer tourist traffic away from the area.

So far, seven local motel and hotel operators have joined the council, although membership is open to any business catering to tourists, such as merchants, restaurants and gas stations. Of the motel operators along U.S. 2 near Dellis, who do post room rates, none have joined the council.

Besides Dellis, other officers elected by the council at the July 8 meeting were Dan Shultz of the Manistique Motel, vice-director, Steve Provo of the Dipper Motel, secretary, and Miriam Warner of the Breakers Motel, treasurer.

The council also approved the design of a logo to be used in advertising and for distinctive signs that will be posted in front of members' businesses within the next few weeks.

In addition to the signs, the Council hopes to develop maps of the area that include a list of tourist attractions along with promotional information for distribution to visitors.

According to a news release, "the council wants to make people aware of the area, to develop a favorable attitude and to motivate people to come to Manistique for the services and attractions which only Manistique can offer. The Manistique Area Tourist Council asks your help in improving the image of the community by supporting those hospitality businesses who are trying to promote Manistique."

The long-term goals of the council are to "develop and improve Manistique's image as a prime tourist area, retain a competitive pricing policy to prevent erosion of sales, distribution and trade relationships," and to "develop, improve and introduce new services that can contribute to area growth and profit."

Century-old anchor catches on at Pioneer Park

A century-old anchor, for years a tourist attraction at Seal Choix Point, found its final mooring last week at Pioneer Park in front of the old water tower.

The anchor, found in Seal Choix Bay in the early 1930s, was donated last month to the Schoolcraft County Historical Society by the George Goudreau estate. It was Goudreau and his brother Martin, then children of 11 and 12, who discovered the anchor in the bay while fishing.

When Goudreau was 16 in 1851, he willed the anchor to the commercial fishermen of Michigan. A plaque to be installed on the site will dedicate it to the fishermen. Permission to move the 2,000-pound anchor from Seal Choix Point was given last month by Mary Wachter.

The 20-mile trip from Seal Choix was probably one of the least eventful in the anchor's long history. Goudreau had asked the Smithsonian Institution about the origins of the anchor, which is inscribed with the words "Lloyds, Liverpool 1472." The Smithsonian advised him that the anchor was a type first used in the steamboat era starting in 1860.

How did it end up at the bottom of Seal Choix Bay?

Mrs. John Goudreau, George Goudreau's mother, writing in the March 23, 1933, edition of the Pioneer-Tribune, connected the anchor with the wreck of a four boat around 1908. "About 25 years ago, a four boat, the Rochester, getting too far down under the lighthouse point and, running into the shallows, almost broke in two just off this fishery," she wrote.

"The well-known Favorite pulled her out but one of her anchors, of the type used 70 years ago, is still there. When John (George Goudreau's father) pulls it out this summer with his lighter and a winch, he will have an antique the like of which many museums can not boast of owning."

John Goudreau apparently did winch out the anchor in 1933 and it sat on the Goudreau property near the Seal Choix lighthouse for 49 years, until this summer, serving as a backdrop for tourists' favorite photo.

The anchor sat on the property, that is, except for a short time in December of 1960 when some heavy-handed thieves dragged the one-ton piece from the site. State police found the anchor and the culprits, and a newspaper account said "the person who removed it, thinking it belonged to no one, is to return it to its original site."

Last week's removal—legal this time—was under the supervision of the Manistique Yacht Club. Ken Thorelli made the concrete base for it and hauled it from Seal Choix. Roy Nelson welded the anchor into place.

Discussion of a proposed 36-unit Indian housing project at Tuesday's County Board meeting seemed to raise more questions than it answered.

The persistent questions prompted the County Board to again invite a representative of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of the Chippewa Indians to a board meeting to discuss the housing project.

The county was apparently taken by surprise when the Soo Tribe began advertising in May for applications for tenants in the low-income housing project. Groundbreaking for the housing development on the corner of the Manistique River Road and Fafney Road east of Manistique is slated for September.

Although George Nolan, housing director for the Soo Tribe, did not

HIGH AND DRY in its final resting place, this old anchor, dating back to the 1860's, is now an attraction in Pioneer Park. Discovered by the late George Goudreau in the 1930's, the anchor was donated attend Tuesday's meeting, he did respond to a list of questions the county had sent him and volunteered to attend a later meeting.

County Board mulls over Indian housing

One of those questions was whether the housing development would be legally declared an Indian reservation. While Nolan said that a 40-acre parcel of land was not a reservation but federally-owned land "in trust" for the Soo Tribe, he added the project will have many of the characteristics generally associated with reservations, including exemption from property tax, local codes and police jurisdiction.

Manistique State Representative Charles Varnum attended the meeting and noted that the development could be declared a "reservation" at any time by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. He also noted that "impact aid payments" to offset the additional burden on local schools from the 150 residents at the site may be the victim of federal budget-cutting.

One unanswered question raised at the meeting concerned the status of non-Indian residents of the project. The Soo Tribe has said that it would accept non-Indian residents if there were not enough tribe member applicants. Chris Gerlach, who lives near the proposed project, asked whether those non-Indian residents would also be outside of local and state police jurisdiction, as the Indian residents would be.

Gerlach also objected to including non-Indian residents in the project at this, as the Soo did, you're going to build another low-income welfare subdivision—another one. We're the biggest welfare community: it's one thing to have Indian housing and it's another to have more welfare."

Asked if the county would fight the project, County Prosecutor Bruce Plackowski said a similar case in Sault Ste. Marie had been fought in court up to the federal appeals court, which upheld the right of the tribe to build housing wherever it had access to land. Varnum agreed, saying "if you're going to spend four or five hundred thousand dollars fighting this, as the Soo did, you're going to lose."

Board Chairman Merwin White said "we'll have a better chance negotiating with these people than trying to force things." Board Member Ernie Hobolik agreed and said that the objections to the project made it seem "we're being discriminatory towards the Indians."

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oliver Rehn

Grover, Rehn are wed

Shari Anne Grover, daughter of Marvin and Marie Grover, M-94, Manistique, and Kenneth Oliver Rehn, son of Oliver and Beverly Rehn, Riverview Drive, Manistique, were married July 2, at the Bethel Baptist Church of Manistique.

The 3 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Venandenburg. Music for the double ring ceremony was provided by vocalist Luanne Kauppi and pianist Bill Verandenburg.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by matron of honor Mrs. Jeannette Ellis, Dianna Zellner and Nancy Grover, sisters of the bride, and Sessie Frenette and Kelly Miller, friends of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The groom's father, Oliver Rehn, was best man with John and Bill Rehn, brothers of the groom, and Scott Rehn, the groom's cousin, serving as groomsmen.

Christy Nelson, niece of the groom, and Jeff Zellner, nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer.

The bride chose a traditional gown with a scalloped neckline, daisy chain pattern appliques and long sleeves with fitted cuffs. A cascade of white roses, carnations, lilies, breath and white satin ribbons made up her bridal bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held for 250 guests.

Both the bride and groom are employed at Ollie's Red Owl and will make their home at Greenville, South Carolina this fall where the groom is a senior at Bob Jones University.

Becky and Bob Brunton

Gospel duo to sing at Cooks Congregational

Bob and Becky Brunton, a husband and wife gospel duo team from Eaton Rapids, Michigan, will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 27, at the Cooks Congregational Church.

The concert will include songs written by Bill and Gloria Galtner, Ralph Carmichael, Andrea Crouch and Don Wyrzten, as well as some of their own compositions. Bob and Becky were married in 1963, and were engaged in educational careers for many years in the Lansing area.

They resigned their positions in 1979 to devote full time to their singing ministry. Becky was a music teacher for the Michigan School for the Blind and Bob served as Director of Payroll for Michigan State University.

In the past they have conducted many adult and teen choirs throughout the Mid-Michigan area. They travel extensively through the United States, and their delivery is crisp and dynamic featuring the use of piano and taped accompaniments.

Bob and Becky have released four albums on the Pinebrook Label. Their latest album entitled "Jesus Made the Difference in My Life" is also the theme of their concert.

At home with Sarah

by Sarah Bignall

We do not appreciate our cool summers until we leave for a trip elsewhere and the heat is unbearable. It is great here in Manistique - don't knock it! Summer time is a perfect time for Gazpacho, a cold summer soup. This was for me and I enjoyed it very much. It is delicious and healthy, great for a summer luncheon. This recipe was given to me by Kay Henschel from Sault Lake.

GAZPACHO

Blend together in a blender:
1 can Tomato Soup
1/2 medium cucumber, cut in pieces
1 medium tomato, cut up
1 tbl. sugar
1/4 cup salad oil

Mix together:
2 1/2 cups tomato V8 juice
1 medium potato, finely chopped
1/2 med. cucumber, finely chopped
1 small onion, finely chopped

Combine all together and chill. Serve very cold with any two of the following garnishes:
CROUTONS
Chopped hard-boiled egg whites
Chopped green peppers
Chopped green onions

Sarah says...open up the weiner package and lay the weiners out on a cookie sheet and fast freeze. Then put them in a freezer bag, return to freezer, and you are able to take one or two out at a time because they will not be stuck together. (When we grill hamburgers, someone always prefers a hot dog!)

Food for thought... A reckless driver is seldom wreckless for long.

The voice of Manistique County since 1876

Election promises Listen closely

For the first time in 22 years, Michigan won't have an incumbent governor seeking a full term in this fall's election. William Milliken's decision that 14 years are enough threw the race wide open, and the field in both political parties is packed.

We are already seeing campaign propaganda on TV, even though the primary election unit for another three weeks. Before long there will be oodles of commercials, mailed flyers and ads in the paper.

So here's some election year advice.

Packaging candidates nowadays is a political science of its own. While this may be the age of the candidate, consent has gone beyond a candidate's packaging, his looks, age, voice, family, dog and media hype. Look inside his package.

Listen closely to what he says when dealing with a tough question. You can't tell Candidate So-and-So that he's talking out of both sides of his mouth, but you should be alert to know what his rhetoric and good old American ball. Just remember that if you find yourself wondering whether he really answered your question, he probably didn't.

Beware the candidate extolling apple pie issues or saying the obvious. Any candidate vowing the U.P. is going to be in favor of more jobs and industry in the state, simplifying the U.P. and cutting taxes. But how is he going to do it? Some candidates will have well-thought-out answers. Others will talk a lot and say nothing.

This state's ills have no easy cure. Keep that in mind. Don't look at candidates whose ideas are different. Original thinking is badly needed in Michigan.

The No. 1 issue, aside from the economy? We feel the state in recent years has been shirking its responsibilities to public education, creating problems at school districts here, there and everywhere in the state. The state contribution toward local districts' revenue has virtually been cut in half in recent years.

Michigan's new governor will have to face this major problem during his term. Listen closely to what the candidates say on this issue.

News coverage doesn't help Norris family

Dear Editor:

I'm just a fifteen year old girl not many know and thanks to you, many don't want to know.

Who am I?

I'm Ron Norris' oldest daughter. I decided to write and let you know how hard it is to keep a family together, make ends meet, raise three daughters, help my adult responsibilities, face adult problems, face my father's problem and worry about what "facts" you're going to print in your next article about my dad.

You are probably wondering what I know about all the above except the last. Granted, I'm one of those three daughters, but I'm right beside my mom helping her raise my six-year-old sister and deal with my 13 year-old sister, both of whom don't understand why their father is the way he is and why people are so cruel. I try to keep my problems to myself because whom sure doesn't need mine on top of those she already has.

And what of making ends meet? Well, all those who know it, you have no telephone, no electricity, no land, and/or no home. Making ends meet is paying all the bills and still having enough left to put food on the table. Believe me, I know how hard it is for someone in a wheelchair, raising three daughters and not having a husband.

Sure, there are others who have trouble financially. But, are they all permanently handicapped, raising kids, without a spouse, and refused help when they need it most? No, not all!

Humane Society urges you to adopt a stray dog

Dear Editor:

The Humane Society of Schoolcraft County desperately needs homes for a number of stray dogs.

A mother dog-terrier mix and her seven puppies were abandoned recently when their owner left town. A year old Chihuahua-mix who was abandoned near Gulliver needs a home, as do two male black lab puppies. One is two months old, one four months old.

Two young adult male golden retriever-type dogs were found (one near Manistique Avenue, one near Thunder Lake area) and are being cared for. These last two are presumed to have been lost, but the owners have not contacted the humane society. The dog found near Thunder Lake is wearing a red collar.

The HSSC hopes a solution to the dog pound situation is found soon; it is the responsibility of the local government to take care of strays. We are not equipped to handle the present number of abandoned animals.

Pawley 'despairs' over dog pound agreement

Dear Editor:

I read your article regarding the dog pound with despair. I can see the frustrations of Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. Burrell and others who have worked on this seemingly simple problem.

For years Ed Leonard served as dog warden and all was well. Two years ago, for reasons known only to them, the City Council decided to close the kennel rather than repair it.

At that time the city was maintaining the kennel and boarding the dogs. The County supplied the dog wardens. When the city closed the kennel, the County Board voted to lay off the dog warden because he had no place to put the animals he picked up. Then the city said it could not afford to build a kennel. The county said it wasn't our problem and there we all sat.

After months of seeing people sent back and forth between the city and county, Lindsay Fremette and I volunteered to work out the problem.

We convinced the County Board to reallocate the $7,000 for the animal control officer. Since the year was half over, we proposed to the City Council to use the money not spent in the first half of the year to build a kennel for them, so we could reinstate our previous agreement. The City Council agreed.

Because of an oversight, the words "sewer consent" were left out of the agreement. The commissioners asked to add that word and to limit themselves as to the pound's cost. Now, the council apparently wants to rework the entire agreement. I invite any council member with any questions to call Lindsay or me and we will be happy to answer them. If they would let us know when the agreement is on the agenda, we would be happy to attend any meeting.

I think that if the city and county work together we can accomplish much more than we can separately.

Richard Pawley,
County Commissioner

County tries again on dog pound contract

ment, approved last month by the county, had been rewritten to meet objections raised by the city council at its last meeting. The new addition to the contract specify that the city is responsible for feeding and care of animals in the shelter and that the county animal control officer would answer complaints from police agencies and the public and also be responsible for killing and disposing of animals not claimed at the pound.

County Prosecutor Bruce Plackowski told the board that, with the additions, "we now have a solid contract that probably will pass at the next city council meeting," set for this Monday, July 26.

The board also approved a job description for the animal control officer to be hired upon completion of a shelter, expected in mid-August. The description specifies that the officer will be paid $5 an hour for a maximum of 10 hours a week and be responsible for answering complaints about animals, patrolling county and city streets, impounding loose animals and destroying those not claimed at the pound.

New prosecutor pledges to be fair

Dear Editor:

I felt it would be appropriate to publicly acknowledge my tenure as Schoolcraft County Prosecutor, and thought that the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune would be the best medium for that purpose.

I am pleased to have the opportunity to return to this area and to serve the people of Schoolcraft County as Prosecuting Attorney. I am sure that I have much to learn in the job and also much to learn about the community. I, however, look forward to the experience and challenge.

I intend to do the best job I am able to do representing the people of Schoolcraft County and the State of Michigan in my capacity as Prosecuting Attorney. I, frankly, can promise no more than to state that I will consider each and every matter that comes before me in a fair and conscientious manner according to law and ethics and not according to politics or prejudice.

As long as I hold the position of Prosecuting Attorney in Schoolcraft County, I intend to be concerned, fair, and courteous to the average citizen, and I want to further stress that my office door will always be open. The office of the Prosecuting Attorney will be accessible to all of the citizens of Schoolcraft County.

Welfare workers help projects

Dear Editor:

After reading yet another article on projects being done by the city and county, I thought I would add some little-known information and offer a verbal reward to a number of people.

Many of the projects being completed in the community have been completed with the help of people receiving Public Assistance. These people have provided thousands of hours of labor and should be commended.

The Department of Social Services places people in work positions under the Community Work Experience Program in public agencies. The agencies provide the necessary supervision. Many of the agency coordinators have expressed their appreciation to the office and to the workers as they realize the economic situation prevents the hiring of necessary manpower. The Department is ever hopeful that when the monies are made available, some of the above-mentioned people will be hired, based on their experience and performance. This has happened in the past.

City sets hearing on tax request

A public hearing on the city's request for $1.2 million in bonds to separate sanitary and storm sewers will be held in the high school auditorium on Wednesday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m.

City Manager John Matthews encouraged anyone with questions over the proposed bond issue to attend the meeting. Members of the City Council, the city Planning Commission, the engineers who have planned the project and the state Department of Natural Resources will be on hand to answer questions, Matthews said.

Users of the city will be asked to approve the bond issue when they go to the polls in the Aug. 10 primary.

Although the total cost of the project is estimated to be $5.7 million, $3.5 million of that amount will be picked up by a grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency. A state Water Resources Commission grant may be available for another $200,000, leaving the city's minimum share at $2 million.

Currently, the city's storm and sanitary sewer systems both flow to the wastewater treatment plant. The sewer separation project would allow the storm water to drain into Lake Michigan and avoid the cost of treating it at the treatment plant.

Special postmark is approved

Use of a special postmark commemorating the centennials of Burt Township and the Grand Marais Post Office has been approved by the U.S. Postal Service in Washington, D.C.

Kay O'Brien, co-chairman of the Historic Section of the Burt Township Centennial committee, said that permission has been given to use the special cancellation die on August 14 and 15 only.

Stephanie Nyman, Grand Marais Postmaster, said that persons wishing the commemorative postmark "district hearing" plant that would use waste wood to provide steam heat to several public and business buildings near downtown Manistique. Board Member Lindsay Fremette said the remainder of the $10,000 cost could be paid by a grant.

was very happy with what I found here overall. I thought Mr. Cowman did a very good job and the cooperation here was as good as I've ever had.

--Approved appropriating money for repairs to the county airport runway. The estimates for fixing cracks in the runway, painting lines and trimming trees near it will be submitted to the board's finance committee.

--Approved paying the county's share of the $1,000 local cost of a study to determine the feasibility of a "district hearing" plant that would use waste wood to provide steam heat to several public and business buildings near downtown Manistique. Board Member Lindsay Fremette said the remainder of the $10,000 cost could be paid by a grant.

Paid for by the Committee to Elect John D. Webb, Jr. to the State Senate

The Humane Society of Schoolcraft County is seeking a permanent home for a female Beagle-type stray dog who has been named, appropriately enough, Orphan Annie.

In mid-June Annie was spotted near Indian River by the Allen Grimm children-Terr, Jason and Ryan-but she was initially too timid to be caught, when the family would get close to her a few days later, they saw she was injured, as well as having evidently lost her right hind foot in a trap at some time in the past.

The Humane Society, when contacted, agreed to pay for veterinary care. Dr. Stienfeldt cleaned her infected wounds and prescribed antibiotics. She had been shot through the jaw (broken right jaw and teeth) and another shot had grazed the top of her head leaving a furrow in addition to a hole in the ear flap. At a second visit a week later, Dr. Stienfeldt repaired her lip and spayed her.

Annie, light brown and white with soft brown eyes, is very gentle and affectionate, loves to cuddle close and be petted. She is good with children and should make an excellent pet. She is being kept at the Grimms; persons interested in adopting Annie may call them at 341-6405 or the Humane Society at 341-2806.

The Humane Society would appreciate donations specifically for emergency care of injured strays. Any such money will be set aside and will be called the Orphan Annie Fund. Donations may be sent to Sharon Mitchell, Treasurer, c/o the First National Bank, 130 S. Cedar, Manistique, MI 49854.

Reminder: if you have lost a pet, please contact the humane society as well as the state police and sheriff's department. We receive calls concerning animals which have been found and we are frequently able to help reunite lost pets with their owners. The radio will also mention lost animals.

Bullard's Bar wins in Escanaba

Enroute to victory in a 20-team Escanaba tournament Bullard's Bar rallied over Erickson's Sporting Goods this weekend to advance to the final round in the men's slow-pitch softball tournament.

The Bullard's II team battled to a 5-1 record to take the tournament while Erickson's, the only other local team to participate, managed a three-way tie for third with a 2-2 record.

After defeating Erickson's, Bullard's II dropped its only game of the tournament to the Flat Rock Merchants in a playoff for the tournament championship. Bullard's II took that final game, giving Flat Rock Merchants second place in the tournament with a 3-2 record.

Tied for third with 2-2 records were Prim's, Terrace Motor Inn and Erickson's.

For local fans, the climax of the tournament came during the Bullard's-Erickson contest that pitted Orv Collingwood, pitcher for Bullard's II, against son Steve, on the mound for Erickson's.

The younger Collingwood held off opposing teams to only two runs in Erickson's first two outings in the tournament, taking the opener last Friday 3-1 from the Flat Rock Merchants and beating U.P. Office

Another Erickson's team competed Sunday in a tournament in Escanaba (see story).

In the open class competition, the Escorpe Sharks took top honors, Cher-Ami of Grand Rapids came in second and Escanaba's Wolverine team took third place.

In Class C, Mario's of Escorpe was the first-place winner, the Alibi Inn team of Tawas was second, Barnacle Bill's of Tawas took third and Taqua Lanes of Newberry came in fourth.

Recalling scouting in the twenties, night baseball in 1932

Besides Mr. Carlyon, Vern Noble was also a Scoutmaster and Ted Hentschell has lent us from his scout scrap book some of Vern's memories regarding those days. Vern arrived in Manistique in November of 1923 to take charge of the radiotelegraph station for the Ann Arbor Railroad. This station had been operated during World War I by the US Navy and had just been released to the railroad. Vern was introduced to scouting by Dr. Harold Mead, who asked him to talk to the committee on radiotelegraphy. Vern was asked to be a Scoutmaster at this time.

There was already a scout building at Indian Lake, and since interest in scouting had almost died out, this building was being used mainly for the storage of scout tents and other equipment. The KC was sponsoring a troop and the Scoutmaster was Ed LaFave, who managed the reorganization movement. It was at this meeting that Hart Forshar was elevated to Eagle Scout.

A second troop was formed under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club and Vern became Scoutmaster of this troop. Others helping in the organization were V.L. Hinton and Dr. Southard. In the summer of 1925 a summer encampment was organized and Stan Carlyon took charge, assisted by Angus McLeod, who supervised a number of camp chores and was heard to remark that "these kids really go for my pancakes and can consume about twenty pieces with no effort."

However, after this summer encampment and the onset of winter and reduced activity, interest in scouting began to wane; Vern was able to arrange only one Court of Honor that year. Vern recalls one meeting attended by John Girvin, Sr. who brought along one of his dock employees who was good with knots. Also, Dr. Rutledge presented a program on first aid, so the winter season was not a total loss. Vern was unable to find an assistant scoutmaster but they agreed to continue the organization as long as possible and occasional hikes were held, but as these boys grew older and developed other interests, the group gradually disbanded.

Several years later interest in scouting was revived under the sponsorship of Fred Hahne. Vern recalls one day when a hike to the scout camp was planned and they had made arrangements to meet at the local station. One of the boys of the troop, Oren Gooch, showed up with a horse and sleigh which was elevated to Eagle Scout.

After this early beginning and temporary cessation of scouting activity, the reorganization movement went on to get things going again and scouting activity has continued successfully to this day. Local scouts are getting ready for their summer encampment and visit to their activities at Camp Hiawatha and a visitor's day is a rewarding experience.

I haven't been keeping up with developments with the Chicago Cubs since the Wigley family sold the franchise, but I recall that as long as that family owned them they remained the only major league team to do with it night baseball. This may have happened since, but Wigley Field never experienced night ball in all those years.

Manistique has had a variety of semi-pro and pick-up teams through the years, sometimes very good teams and sometimes not so good but in one respect we've got it all over Chicago: There was one night baseball game played here, in 1932.

At the time we had a Lakeside team called the LSN - Lake Shore Nine - under the management of George Dorman. George was approached by the rep of a Detroit team that played only night games; they had the lights and supporting poles for their out-of-town trips and needed a guarantee of $75 to come up here. George hustled around to get a little financial cushion - remember this was 1932 and the height of the Depression - and got favorable responses in many cases although in some instances this was about a dime a head. He recalls approaching Doc Finch, a local dentist, for a contribution and was rebuffed instantly, Doc saying he wouldn't give a nickel to see a game let alone finance one for visitors from Detroit.

George informed him that the fans weren't the only beneficiaries of visiting sports teams but sometimes a ball player caught a ball in the mosh and had to go to a dentist. That convinced Doc and he reached down and came up with a ten-spot. The team had to make a little at the gates so they had to fix the fences to keep out the free-loaders. The fair committee furnished the materials and the guys did the fence repair. Admission fee was 15 cents. The city graded and rolled the diamond. Then they borrowed a tractor from Richards Bros. to run the light plant and John McCarthy contributed a dozen baseballs.

Bill Cook umpired the game and due to a disputed decision in the ninth inning the local team lost by a run. The game had been scheduled for early in the evening but due to rain was delayed until one in the a.m. The lights worked fine. Ground rules regarding the surrounding darkness were in effect: anything in the outfield that fell in the dark was considered to be out, but somehow with Detroit up in the ninth a ball rolled out and was declared fair and they broke the 1-1 tie and won the game.

The team was organized in 1930 and played surrounding area teams at Garden, Cooke, Gulliver, Thompson, Nahma, etc. The clubhouse was the Dorman barn.

The famous night didn't end until almost three in the morning and a dance had been planned that took place in spite of the late hour. This was in the clubhouse at the Furnace and was illuminated by kerosene lanterns. Music was fiddles, guitars, mandolins and what-have-you. A good time was had by all.

Local firms sought for U.P. show

The sponsors of an industrial trade show are seeking local firms to exhibit their products during the September exposition. Called "Epo U.P. '82," the show is designed to display Upper Peninsula products to the 25,000 industrial buyers, manufacturers' representatives and government procurement officers that have been invited.

But according to Ivan Ryan, vocational education coordinator with the Delta Schoolcraft Intermediate School District, local business es have been slow to sign up as exhibitors. "We've had good response from the eastern U.P. and the western section. The area that has been slow is the central U.P.," Ryan said.

He encouraged any local business interested in exhibiting at the exposition to call Arthur B. Neiger at Northern Michigan University at 906-22-2101 for registration information.

The industrial exposition will be held in Marquette on Sept. 24 and 25 in Lakesview Arena. According to Dr. Glenn Stevens, co-chairman of the event, "all U.P. communities and manufacturers will be interested in this effort. Epo U.P. '82 will provide an opportunity to give visibility to products and services related to U.P. manufacturers and businesses. It will be a regionwide economic development effort to increase sales and market exposure for U.P. products, with a view towards job development."

Seney 'wildlife drive' offers chance to glimpse bald eagles

Two eaglets have been sighted on the nest at Seney National Wildlife Refuge in addition to the young-adult bald eagles are frequently seen along the seven-mile Marshland Wildlife Drive which opened June 15.

Bald eagles return to Seney Refuge each spring to occupy their territories and to begin their elaborate courtship and pre-nesting activities. The birds will leave the refuge when freeze-up of pools occurs each fall.

Large red and white pine trees often provide suitable areas for nest sites and the abundant fish populations in refuge pools combines to provide ideal habitat.

These birds cannot reproduce in large numbers since they normally raise only one or two eaglets each year and they often do not begin until they are three or four years old. Bald eagles are listed as a threatened species in Michigan while in most states the bird is listed as an endangered species because the population has been so reduced. This month will mark the 200th anniversary of the bald eagle as our national bird. A joint resolution of Congress marked June 20th as National Bald Eagle Day.

United Methodist plans film series beginning Sept. 27

The new "Marriage Enrichment Film Series" will begin at the First United Methodist Church on Monday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. and continue for three consecutive weeks. It is open to the public with no admission fee, but a free-will offering will be taken to cover expenses. A coffee and fellowship time will follow each presentation.

The color films feature Dr. Carl Brecheen, a marriage counselor, and Dr. Paul Faulkner, a certified marriage and family therapist who supervises couples training for the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy. They both are graduates of Southwestern Baptist Seminary and have 20 years experience in marriage enrichment.

Tens of thousands have attended Brecheen and Faulkner's live seminars across America. Their recent book, "What Every Family Needs," has more than 100,000 copies in print.

Max W. Weeks, minister of the First United Methodist Church said, "The Marriage Enrichment Film Series" offers a certified way to renew stable marriages and also provides hope for troubled marriages. Brecheen and Faulkner have an optimistic, practical message for couples who are tempted to say, "Is this as good as marriage gets?"

The eight films contain live presentations plus illustrative dramatic scenes. The titles of the films are: "Made for Each Other," "The Trouble with Us is Me," "What Husbands Need to Know," "What Wives Need to Know," "How to Kill Communication," "The Communication Lifeline," "Speaking Frankly about Sex," and "Renewing Romance in Marriage."

The series is the most recent production from Earl Miller, producer of James Dobson's "Focus on the Family" films and "The Prize." "The films contain some of the best material I have seen anywhere. From the point of view of both content and production quality, they are excellent," Miller said.

Popular author and Christian psychologist, Dr. Gary Collins, of Deerfield, Ill., observed, "...their humor is captivating but not overdone and their psychological understanding is sound. Best of all, they bring clear, biblical perspective to their films."

"We encourage all to make a special effort to see these films," Weeks said.

Senior Citizens

by Diane McClelland

Everyone enjoyed another great potluck Saturday night with lots of good food and fun.

The highlight of the evening was the poker tournament put on by Tony and Helen Jean Wuehler. We began with sixteen players and had a process of elimination down to three winners. But before I tell you about the winners I'd like to thank Tony and Helen Jean for giving their time so freely. The evening was enjoyed by everyone and has had requests to have another, so we'll be keeping in contact.

As the game began we were divided into two tables. There were eight players per table. The clock started and the cards were dealt. You played until you were out of chips. Which for some didn't take long. My problem is I've got to stay in to see that last card. So you know how long I lasted!

After a few hours of playing the winners came out of a few dollars richer. First place went to Bud "Bluffer" Brauer, second place going to Norm "Luck" McGargat and coming in third was "Wild" Bill Olsen. They deserve congratulations, because they were up against some mean players.

I don't know about the rest of you but I'm going to start practicing for the next one. Listen ladies, we can't let the men win again!

Memorials were given to the Center in the name of Ethel Burrell by Clifford and Irene Smith; in the name of Jack Williams by Clifford and Irene Smith; in the name of William Vincent by Clifford and Irene Smith.

Plan ahead for retirement benefits application

By Amy Bliski
People in the Schoolcraft County area who are planning to apply for Social Security retirement benefits soon can help speed the application process if they get some information together first.

A person will need proof of his or her age. The best evidence is a public or church record of birth recorded before age 5. If this cannot be submitted, other evidence may be used.

Other records that might be used include school, church, state or federal census, insurance policies, marriage, passports, employment, military service, children's birth certificates, union, immigration and naturalization. There are other records as well that may prove acceptable.

A person needs his or her Social Security card or a record of the number.

Also requested are W-2 forms for the past two years, or, if self-employed, copies of self-employment tax returns and proof of filing for the past two years.

If the worker's wife or husband is also going to apply, she or he will need the same documents. It would be a good idea to have the marriage certificate available. Birth certificates should be available for any eligible, unmarried children as well as their Social Security numbers.

Other documents may be needed in some situations, but these will be enough in most cases. Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable.

For more information about applying for Social Security benefits, contact one of the Social Security representatives who are at the courthouse in Manistique on the first and third Wednesday of the month from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Most social
