

THE PAPER MILL FLUME was diked this week to allow workers to begin annual repair chores. Besides the precarious work of refilling the interior wall of the flume, bulldozers were busy blowing accumulated debris from the bottom of the reservoir, used to generate power at the mill. The repair and cleaning is expected to take about a month.

City awaits voter verdict on sewer bond issue Tuesday...

The city of Manistique threw a party of sorts last week as nobody came. The "party" was a public hearing held last Wednesday to explain why the city is asking voters to again approve a $2.2 million bond issue at next Tuesday's primary election. Approval of that issue could raise city property taxes between 13 and 15 mills.

To that end, City Manager John Matthews had assembled a panel of experts that know all there is to know about why the city needs the money. Besides other city employees and a couple of reporters, however, only one interested resident took time to attend the hearing.

The purpose of the bond issue is to pay for the city's share of the cost of separation of the city's storm sewer network from the sanitary sewer system.

The current bond issue would help finance... "Either Manistique will pay $2.2 million if there is a yes vote or we'll pay $5.73 million if there is a no vote," Matthews said.

Jack Bydquist, a sanitary engineer with the state Department of Natural Resources, confirmed that Manistique is under a "final order" to complete the entire project, including the sewer separation. Until that separation is complete, raw sewage will continue to be spilled into the Manistique river and Lake Michigan.

That dumping of raw sewage occurs during heavy rainfall or snow melt, which, added to the usual amount of sanitary sewage, causes the sewers to overflow.

through court action. Skagstad said "Not to mention the fact that the existing collection system is in rotten shape and if you don't do it now, you're going to have to do it anyway and probably all with local funds," he said.

Lecke cited several advantages to the separation of the sewers if the bond issue is authorized Tuesday.

"Ten miles of city streets where new sewers are to be installed would be completely repaired for the first time in years as part of the project. Despite the three-year lapse since voters first approved the bond issue, Lecke anticipated that bids would come in at or below the estimated cost of the project. Because of the poor economy, he said contractors were much more competitive than in 1979 when the city advertised for sewer work and received no bids. "If bids were taken right now, there is a good chance that some would come in below estimate," Lecke said.

"Sewer separation would take the strain off of the wastewater treatment plant. Wastewater Plant Superintendent Ollie Sholander said the plant treats an average of 1.7 million gallons a day, much of that surface runoff that could be drained directly to Lake Michigan if the sewers were separated.

Sholander said a drop in amount of sewage treated by the plant could allow the plant to operate within its budget for the first time, easing the drain on the city's general fund budget.

MHS to go for second straight in alumni football game Friday

If past experience is any indication, it should be a hot time in the old football stadium Friday night as graduates of Manistique High School take on their counterparts from Big Bay de Noc in the fourth annual alumni football game to benefit the school's booster clubs.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at A.F. Hall Stadium in Manistique. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Money earned from ticket sales will be split between the Manistique and Big Bay booster clubs to benefit the athletic programs at the two schools.

From the shows put on by alumni teams in the past three years of the contest, it should be money well spent. Manistique currently leads the series, 2-1.

Big Bay will be looking to even up the record this year after losing last year for the second time in a row to the Emerald alumni and winning the inaugural game in 1979.

In last year's game, Manistique took the lead in the series by holding on for an 11-7 win over the Black Bear alumni. In that game, Manistique drew first blood when it drove 90 yards early in the second quarter and made the two-point conversion to lead 8-0.

The Emeralds stretched that lead to 11-0 with 2:43 left in the half on the strength of a field goal. Big Bay came back in the third quarter with a touchdown and extra point of its own to make the score 11-7. The Black Bears had a chance to win the game on the final series of downs, after engaging an interception, but a clipping penalty nullified the play and Manistique ran out the clock.

The first two games of the benefit series both went down to the final seconds also before being decided on interceptions. In 1979, Big Bay defeated Manistique, 12-4. In that game, Manistique drove nearly to the goal line in the closing moments only to lose the ball, and the game, when the Black Bear alumni intercepted an Emerald pass.

In 1980's game, however, it was Manistique that was on the receiving end of a last-minute interception. Manistique was leading in that game, 6-2, after quarterback Norm Jahn had scored the only touchdown of the game by plunging across the goal line from one yard out during the third quarter.

With time running out, Big Bay had the ball and an opportunity to take the lead. On the last play of the game, Rodney Weber for Manistique intercepted a Black Bears pass in the end zone, sewing up the contest for Manistique and evening the series at 1-1.

Over $2,300 has been raised in the three games played in the series so far, which was split between the two booster clubs. In Manistique, $800 of the proceeds went to purchase headsets for coaches during football games and $200 went to purchase basketballs.

Most recently, the booster club donated $100 for the local boys' softball team to go to Georgia to play in a national tournament after taking the state junior softball crown.

This year's Manistique alumni team will have three 1982 grads on it: Ken Mills, Bill Zellar and Mike DeSautel. At 38, Curt Norton is the oldest Emerald alum on the squad. Complete rosters were not available for either team.

Here's where to vote

Tuesday's primary election will be the first county election since the boundary lines for the county commissioner districts were redrawn earlier this year. As a result, many voters will have to vote a different polling place than in the last county election.

The changes are greatest within the City of Manistique. Because of reapportionment, voters in city precinct four, east of Stouphen St., will vote for the District 2 commissioner at the Lakeside School. Also included in District 2 is Manistique Township, where the township hall is the polling place.

City precinct three voters will select the District 4 commissioner candidates at the Manistique Community Center on Maple Street; precinct three covers roughly from Stouphen St. west to the Manistique River in the south part of town and to New Delta Ave. in the north.

Voters in the city's precincts one and two, the west side, will vote for the District 5 commissioner candidates at Lincoln School. Also voting for the District 5 commissioner will be residents of Thompson Township, who will vote at the Township Hall.

The county's District 1 commissioner candidates will be selected by voters in Seney, Germfask, Mueller and Doyle Townships who will cast ballots at their respective townships' halls.

Inwood and Hiawatha Township voters will vote for the county's District 3 commissioner candidates at the Inwood and Hiawatha Township Halls.

...While county again asks 2 mills for medicare facility

Voters in Schoolcraft County Tuesday will take to the polls to decide the fate of many aspiring politicians in the general primary election.

They may also be deciding the fate of the county's medical care facility, home to 52 jobs and 75 residents requiring nursing care. The county will ask voters to approve a property tax hike of up to 2 mills to help fund operation of the facility.

At the last meeting of the County Board, Chairman Merwin White said there was "a better than even chance" the facility would have to close if voters do not approve the tax hike, which would generate up to $160,000 in revenue for the county.

It will be the second time the issue has come before county voters. In a February election, the same millage issue was narrowly defeated, 779-759, in a low voter turnout.

Specifically, the money raised by the tax would go to pay off bills the county has received from the state since last year to pay for part of operation costs of the facility.

Those bills were justified by the state under a complicated change in the way medical care facilities are funded as a "maintenance of effort" by the county. Despite protests from county officials, that local contributions never exceeded $30,000, the state continued to bill the county.

Those bills amounted to $164,390 in 1981 and are estimated at $173,500 this year.

Earlier this summer, the state threatened to cut off future revenue sharing payments to the county if some arrangement for paying the past-due bills was not worked out by July 30. After being notified of the millage proposal to be voted on Tuesday, state officials related and agreed to wait until after the election before pressing for payment of the bills.

Satellite antenna His TV gets 52 channels

Here's a lawn ornament that no front yard should be without: a 15-foot-high fiberglass satellite dish that looks like it just landed out of a scene from "Star Wars."

At over $3,500 a pop, it's unlikely that you will see the futuristic antennas sprouting on very many lawns around the area, but at least three local residents, Joe Fakety, Charlie Lander and Don Schuetter, took the plunge and now have the antennas gracing their front yards.

The whole purpose of the antennas, of course, is not to decorate but to pull in a multitude of television signals from any one of nine satellites circling overhead, 22,300 miles up. That's the reason Fakety, Lander and Schuetter each paid out about $7,500 last November for their deluxe version of the satellite antennas (the price for the basic system has since dropped to $3,495).

And, according to Fakety and Lander at least, the stiff price was worth it: each can now tune into any of 52 channels from the nine satellites as well as receiving the two stations from Marquette and the Green Bay station piped through Escanaba.

All three antenna owners live in the Manistique River Road area where cable TV is not available. The lack of cable was a major factor in persuading them to shell out the money for the more glamorous high-tech alternative.

"If I could have got cable down here," Lander said, "I wouldn't have bought one of these things. People who can't get cable go the next best route—but this is a hell of a lot better, actually."

Why is it better? While the cable TV antenna with its stationary dish draws off only one satellite, the home version of the antennas are powered by electric motors to move toward any satellite from which the viewer wants to receive television signals.

Whether that is strictly kosher is still not clear, since private owners of satellite dishes can "pirate" signals that commercial operators and other subscribers pay good money for. It's a legal issue that still has not been thrashed out but pending legislation in the U.S. Senate may settle it. In the meantime, however, Lander and other private antenna owners are free to purchase the "decoder" discs to allow the antennas to unscramble signals from whatever satellite is floating high above.

8 Democrats vie in County Board primary

Voters casting ballots in Tuesday's Democratic primary election will face a greater choice than in past elections for the county Board of Commissioners.

The increased competition is due in part because of reapportionment earlier this year, which changed the boundaries of the districts represented on the County Board. Also, because the number of districts in the county were reduced by reapportionment from seven to five, four incumbents—all Democrats—will face each other in the primary.

While there are contests on the Democratic side of the ballot in four of the five county districts (Lindsay Frencet in District 1 is the only Democrat unopposed), no Republican candidate in the primary faces opposition. In the GOP primary, the candidates are John Tobin in District 1 (Seney, Germfask, Mueller and Doyle Townships), James Barr in District 2 (Manistique Township and the east side of the city), Darryl Carlson in District 3 (Hiawatha and Inwood Townships), George Danko in District 4 (central Manistique) and Howard Stafford in District 5 (Thompson Township and the west side of Manistique).

Here is a rundown on the candidates in the contested districts in the Democratic primary:

8 Democrats vie in County Board primary

There are nine of them currently, with more on the way. Each can carry up to 24 channels. Although "only 52 channels are available from the satellites now, 146 are expected by next year with 232 scheduled to be beamed from 14 satellites by mid-1983.

Not surprisingly, with that many stations available on the tube, the variety of entertainment offered is staggering, ranging from the intellectual to the X-rated. One station televises, live, sessions of Congress for its viewers' edification; another, "EROS," offers such savory fare as raunchy movies and "The Playboy Network."

In addition to the unconventional programming, the satellite antennas also pick up regular cable programming: ESPN, Cable News Network, Home Box Office and more. Lander notes "we were the only ones in the area to get the Holmes-Covey fight" held last month.

Fakety said the selection offered by the expensive gadget sitting in his front yard makes it worth the money. "Before I had two stations and I was watching nothing but reruns to the point we was sick of them. Not everyone could afford it, but I couldn't get cable, so what else could I do?," he asked.

The satellite antennas are marketed locally by Gaylord Communications and Electronics. For more information, call Lander at 341-2849.

Dressing:
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup pickle juice (sweet)
1/2 cup vinegar
2 tbs. Worcestershire Sauce
6 hard cooked eggs, minced
2 tbs. minced onion
1/2 cup sweet pickles, minced
Combine dressing ingredients. Refrigerate at least one hour.

Break lettuce into bite size pieces, chill. Toss with dressing. (Toss lightly, never stir.) Place lettuce in bowl or individual bowls. Top with chicken, ham, tomato, eggs, cheese and onion rings.

Sarah says Salad ingredients should be uniform in size, small enough to be bite-size and large enough to retain their identity. Use lettuce leaves as a cup to hold salad ingredients. If leaf is flat, split halfway, then lap one side over other and line salad bowl.

The value of Schoolcraft County since 1878.

City bond issue Approval is only choice

Besides the myriad of candidates to choose from in Tuesday's primary election, city voters will have another important decision to make: whether to approve a $2.2 million bond issue to help finance separation of the city's storm and sanitary sewers.

While that may not sound very exciting, it is probably the most important issue on the ballot for Manistiquette voters. $2.2 million is big money for a town like Manistiquette. How big? Paying off the bonds will require a painful property tax hike—somewhere between 7 and 13 mills.

Voters already authorized the same $2.2 million bond issue three years ago, but the tax increase it would have required was never levied because of delays in getting the separation project ready for bids.

While a 7-mill tax jump may seem to be an unreasonable request in these tough economic times—or in the best of times, for that matter—we feel voters have little choice but to again approve the bond issue.

Basically, it all boils down to the fact that the city's sewer system is in terrible shape. It has been for years and something has to be done. The way things are now, the wastewater treatment plant spends nearly half its time—and your money—treating surface runoff that should be piped into Lake Michigan. The expense of that unnecessary treatment, coupled with the cost of patching up the antiquated sewer mains when they break, is one of the major reasons the city can never maintain a balanced budget.

To fix the problem requires construction of over 10 miles of new sewers and repair of another two miles. While $2.2 million sounds like a lot of dough, it would cover less than half of the project's total $5.7 million cost. The rest of the money would come from a federal grant.

However, if the city can't come up with its share of the money—that is, if voters turn down Tuesday's bond issue—not only will the city have to pay the entire cost of the separation project, it will face repayment of all federal and state money spent on wastewater treatment so far: a whopping $8.7 million altogether.

So the city finds itself between a rock and a hard place, they say. Delay in approval of a painfully expensive bond issue will only result in the need for even more money in the not-too-distant future.

There are some bright spots in that gloomy assessment, assuming voters do approve the bond issue. For one thing, the project has not risen in cost since the bond issue was okayed three years ago. That's a poor economy for that. For another, a lot of city streets will be resurfaced after the new sewer lines are installed as part of the project.

Small consolation, perhaps, but maybe it's enough to encourage city voters to do what is necessary: approve the bond issue Tuesday.

Medicare Millage It is still needed

There will also be another request for money on Tuesday's ballot: the county is again asking voters to approve up to 2 mills to fund operation of its Medical Care Facility.

That proposal lost by a mere 20 votes in a February election that saw a low voter turnout. Apparently the county's strategy is to hope a primary election will attract more voters to the polls and with them more support for the property tax increase request.

We hope so. We supported the idea in the earlier election and we continue to support it. The county needs the money the millage would generate (about $160,000 for 2 mills) to pay off bills it has received from the state for operation of the facility. While we don't feel those bills are justified, the county needs the money to pay them off. The money is available if and when it is finally forced to pay them off.

County officials have promised only to levy the amount of tax needed to pay the bills if the millage is approved. We believe them: the county has never levied the tax it could have to pay for construction of the courthouse; instead it has paid off the cost through income tax on office rentals.

While failure of the millage may not result in closing of the facility, it might. We feel 2 mills is a cheap price to pay to assure the continued care of its 75 residents. In economic terms, the millage would keep the 52 employees of the facility on the tax rolls and off the unemployment rolls. Those factors alone to us make a "yes" vote Tuesday worth the tax increase.

Think before voting on Medicare millage

Dear Editor:

Along with the traditional end-of-summer activities that occupy local residents during the month of August, this month will also be a crucial time for patients, families and staff at the Medical Care Facility. The topic of conversation these days concerns the upcoming millage for the Medical Care Facility: the people must decide whether they wish to keep their facility operating.

The facility has been operating without help from the county for almost 14 years and now, due to changes in state reimbursement payments, the counties must repay the state a portion of the daily rate for each patient.

With all the cuts made by the state, it is easy to see why the millage is needed for the county to operate its facility. It's also difficult to part with more of your income for taxes, especially when jobs are scarce and cost of living is so high. However, eliminating jobs does not help matters in a day when it takes two working people in a household to make ends meet. You see less of the elderly being cared for by their family, not by choice but by necessity.

It's wonderful to be able to grow old gracefully but many are not that fortunate and because of unpreventable illness or disability, they can no longer be cared for at home because of the type of care required. What happens then? They are too ill to be home or sometimes have no family and hospitalization insurance does not always cover extended hospital stays.

It's nice to know there is a halfway mark. We have had residents who have been here for a long time but also many who have reached a point where they were able to return home. It's a good feeling to know that, due to staff efforts to rehabilitate, good volunteer services in the community and supportive families, we are able to look at this facility not only as a permanent home but as the halfway mark for many as they work toward recovery. The main goal for everyone is to return to their home.

The past 12 years I have worked at the facility have taught me a lot. I see many situations I could not cope with at home as it is too much for one or two people. I have met many wonderful people through the years and shared many experiences with them, good and bad, but I would not trade any of them.

Before you vote, consider your future. Will you ever have a need for this nursing facility? Weigh all possibilities before making your decision.

Vandals finally win at Manistiquette Township beach

Dear Editor:

An open letter to the people responsible for making Manistiquette Township Park what it is today: Congratulations! After ten years of strenuous toil and numerous hours, you have finally accomplished what you set out to do - destroy the park and one of the nicest beach areas on Lake Michigan. The harder we, the people of Manistiquette Township, have worked to have something erected, repaired or purchased, the more you were challenged to tear it down or burn it for fire wood during your beer and pot parties. Well, I'm sorry to have to report to you that we

Hockey Assoc. needs money

Dear Editor:

Since the fall of 1978, the Manistiquette Junior Hockey Association has grown from 13 to 88 players, and more than 200 persons have been involved in the program. Through the efforts of the youth, their parents and many other interested persons, we have raised thousands of dollars to buy equipment, an ice refinisher, hockey boards, etc.

Now our program has grown so that we will be competing with teams from other towns in league games. It has become necessary that we provide a place for players to change in and out of their hockey gear. We feel that if this is not provided, it will cause too much of an inconvenience to established teams to continue coming to our small town and will ultimately hamper the growth of our organization in which we have so much invested.

Therefore, we are asking for any monetary support that you can give for building materials to erect a 20-by-42-foot addition to the ice facility, for the purpose of a locker and storage room. The labor will be donated by the men and women of the association. The cost of the material is approximately $6,000.

We feel that our program has been a benefit to youth and adult alike, as hockey is an exciting game for players as well as spectators. Our program has been a community effort from the start. It has generated goodwill here as well as in the other communities where the Manistiquette hockey teams have competed. Donations may be given to Lois Holohik at the First National Bank or have finally given up the fight. Now, we will pay one more time but this time it is to tear the pavilion down and have it removed before it falls down and injures someone who would be there trying to enjoy it.

I have been on the Manistiquette Township Board for almost 14 years and at that time we have spent a considerable sum of money on the park to make it a place where people can bring their children to play on the playground equipment, play in the sand dunes, picnic, swim or just relax and enjoy the scenery.

In 1972 the Township Board appointed a Recreation Board to look into the possibility of applying for a grant from the State of Michigan to make the park larger. After many hours of work this was accomplished and the pavilion was built on the sand dunes. Tables and stoves were bought and assembled. The two toilets were rebuilt and a caretaker was hired to keep the park clean and to haul the garbage away. The caretaker was hired for 15 days in May, the whole month of June, July and August and for 15 days in September.

Since 1972, the people of Manistiquette Township have spent $8,134.70 in wages for the monthly maintenance. This was expected and we were happy to pay for this service. What we did not expect was the $7,516.70 that we have had to pay to replace, repair and rebuild what was put there for everyone's enjoyment.

Besides the money that has been spent, there are countless hours of time that have been donated by too many people to try to mention.

Thanks for reunion help

Dear Editor:

We would like to express our sincere thank-you to all of the people of Manistiquette for all you did to make us feel "at home" again during our Indian Lake reunion July 17. We would like to say "thank you" to Vi Paquin for the gracious hospitality and very nice accommodations at the Beachcomber Motel, to the staff of the 3 Mile Club for bearing with us and a most delicious meal. Thank you to Sunny Shores for serving all of us each morning and to the Fireside Inn for our farewell dinner and coping with the singing and the laughter. And, of course, a special thanks to Freddie of Freddie's Bar. A personal thank-you is also in order to Janet Orr, Margaret Olson, Frank and Molly Bonifas, Pat and Liz Chartier, Ron and Mindy Asp, the Forstners, and R.L. Storm for playing such a vital role in the success of this weekend. Your efforts will long be remembered by all of us.

We have no doubt that we will return again in years to come, and so until then, we remain...

care facility. Facility Administrator Denny Boyd said that the facility would most likely again be able to divert some of its "capital expenses" payments to the county to help offset the bills—maybe as much as $100,000.

That contribution by the facility towards the bill would lower the amount of the millage levied, Boyd noted. "We're asking for up to 2 mills, but if things continue like they are and don't change, I think the most we will have to levy is a mill, maybe a mill and a quarter," he said.

That assessment assumes the millage does pass, however. If the millage increase request fails, Boyd said, "we're just going on the assumption they're going to close it. That's the statement they made at the board meeting and that's all we have to go on."

Despite the statement by White at the last County Board meeting, it is not clear if the facility would indeed close if the millage fails. One option for the board would be to levy the millage authorized for construction of the courthouse and use the money saved to pay the bills. Another option would be to sell the facility to a private operator; a possibility pursued without result earlier this year.

Another suggestion that has come up at County Board meetings is to consolidate the hospital and medical care facility under one administration. Boyd expressed doubt that such a move would save much money, either in administrative costs or on services the hospital now purchases from the facility, laundry and meal preparation. "I don't know what we could save on (with consolidation). The net cost would be the same," Boyd said.

He noted that "housekeeping" costs at the facility have been cut by about $50,000 annually since the county began receiving the bills from the state. Cuts in staffing and supplies were made to realize those savings, he said.

"I think we're at the point that any more cuts you make right now and you'll see patient care suffer. If we cut any more, the facility is just going to go downhill more and more. To run the place, you've got to have minimum staffing or the state's going to fine you or shut you down," Boyd said.

He also counted the possibility that the county may somehow avoid paying the bills by arguing to such the state they are not justified. "We're not the only ones that haven't paid, but I think we are all going to have to pay in the end."

Voters face crowded ballot in primary for county board

In District 5, incumbent Democrats Ernie Hoholik and Rick Pawley face each other.

Ernie Hoholik

Hoholik has been on the county board for 14 years, ever since it was changed from the old Board of Supervisors system in 1968. A lifetime Thompson Township resident, he was Thompson Township supervisor from 1953-58.

Hoholik, 58, said he supports the medical care facility millage request also to be decided Tuesday (see separate story). "I feel we have so much invested in it as it is and I feel it would be a shame to let it go down the drain," he said. If the millage does fail, he said he does not feel the facility would necessarily have to close. In addition, he favors using any surplus from the county's own budget to help defray the amount of millage levied if Tuesday's property tax increase request is approved by voters.

Hoholik and his wife June have five children.

Rick Pawley

Pawley, 35, is completing his first two-year term on the County Board. He said his main reason for seeking reelection is "to keep property taxes down."

let your imagination soar...

You leader in professional and creative printing services for over 30 years.

Pioneer-Tribune

He noted that under the new "truth in taxation" law, local governments must vote to collect any additional tax revenue generated by increasing valuations. Pawley said he would vote against the county collecting any increase in tax revenue.

He also favors cutting funding to the county public transit system instead of putting the proposed $25,000 county subsidy for the mini-bus system towards repair and maintenance of county roads. He would vote to reserve one or two of the mini-buses for senior citizens' use, he said.

About the medicare facility millage, Pawley said "I didn't support it before but I think we've wrung out everything there is to wring out" in cost-cutting measures at the facility and that he favors the tax increase.

Pawley and his wife Cindy have three children. He is a graduate of Manistiquie High School and of Western Michigan University.

In District 4, Democrat incumbents Lyle Kotchouk and Bob Barr are on the ballot.

Bob Barr

Barr, 48, was appointed to the County Board in November after the resignation of Bob Males. He ran in a special primary election this January, was elected in February and is now seeking nomination for a full term in Tuesday's election.

"Anyone who runs for the same office three times in six months must have an interest in county affairs," Barr said when asked why he wanted to be on the board. "I felt I was interested in local government and now that I've held the office for a while I feel I can contribute quite a bit."

Barr also endorsed the 2-mill millage request to help fund operation of the medical care facility. "I firmly believe it should be kept open, because wherever the residents are accommodated it is going to cost people." Of the millage vote, Barr said "It is one of the few things where people can express their opinion and it really counts."

Barr was born in Manistiquie and raised in Marquette. Now a sergeant at the State Police post, he was stationed here from 1962-68 as a trooper and returned in 1979. He has an associate's degree from Southern College. He and his wife, Laura, have two children.

Lyle Kotchouk

Kotchouk, 54, was elected to his first term on the County Board in 1980. Ironically, he said he was first motivated to run for the board because he wanted to try and reduce property taxes but now finds himself a backer of the 2-mill medical care facility tax increase.

"Before I ran (in 1980) I was one of the biggest complainers and here I am backing the millage. The medical care facility vote of the 22-22-22-22 would back it for me," he said. The millage proposal for the medical care facility is "shocking" to the state's health and long-term care industry for operation of the facility.

Born in Manistiquie, Kotchouk and his wife Cleo have two children.

In District 3, Pat Moberg and Nancy Veresan are breaking the Democratic nomination.

Nancy Veresan

POLLING PLACES FOR voters in the city at Tuesday's primary election may be different this year because of the redrawing of the county's district lines earlier this year. This map shows the three districts included within the city limits and the polling places for residents residing in them. District 5 voters in the city (most of the west side) vote at Lincoln School; District 4 (central part of Manistiquie) voters vote at the Community Center on Maple Street; and District 2 voters (city's east side) cast ballots at the Lakeview School. All other county residents cast ballots for their respective districts at their township halls.

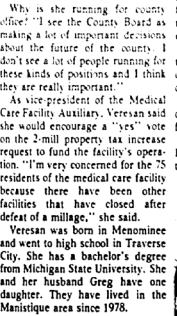

Veresan, 30, will be the first woman to serve on the County Board if elected. She is currently on the School Board, an office she won in the school district's June election.

She sees no conflict of interest in serving on both governmental boards. "I don't see any conflict of interest whatsoever," she said but added "I wouldn't be able to sit on the tax allocation board."

Why is she running for county office? "I see the County Board as making a lot of important decisions about the future of the county. I don't see a lot of people running for these kinds of positions and I think they are really important."

As vice president of the Medical Care Facility Auxiliary, Veresan said she would encourage a "yes" vote on the 2-mill property tax increase request to fund the facility's operation. "I'm very concerned for the 75 residents of the medical care facility because there have been other facilities that have closed after defeat of a millage," she said.

Veresan was born in Menominee and went to high school in Traverse City. She has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University. She and her husband Greg have one daughter. They have lived in the Manistiquie area since 1978.

Pat Moberg

Moberg, 36, was born and raised in Marquette and is an English teacher at Manistiquie High School. He was appointed to the City Council in 1977, was elected in 1978 and resigned in 1979 when he moved to Indian Lake. He was president of the Manistiquie Educational Association for four years.

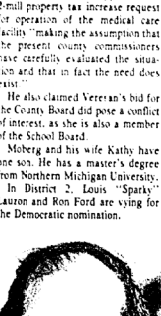

Why is he running? "In a nutshell, with the reorganization of the board, it is vital that we have experienced people serving on it to deal with the variety of crucial problems presently facing the county."

Moberg said he supported the 2-mill property tax increase request for operation of the medical care facility "making the assumption that the present county commissioners have carefully evaluated the situation and that in fact the need does exist."

He also claimed Veresan's bid for the County Board did pose a conflict of interest, as she is also a member of the School Board.

Moberg and his wife Kathy have one son. He has a master's degree from Northern Michigan University.

In District 2, Louis "Sparky" Lauzon and Ron Ford are vying for the Democratic nomination.

Louis "Sparky" Lauzon

Lauzon, 39, is currently serving as Manistiquie Township supervisor, a position he also held from 1974 to 1978. If elected to the County Board, he said he would resign as supervisor.

He said he is running for election "Because I am experienced in local government. I feel I have the necessary ability to best represent the people of Schoolcraft County."

About the 2-mill property tax increase request for operation of the medical care facility, Lauzon said he did not know enough about the issue to endorse or oppose it. "From what I can gather right now, we are going to end up paying no matter what," he said.

Ron Ford

Ford, 34, has lived in Manistiquie since 1977, when he came here to work for the 1st National Bank, where he is currently vice-president and senior officer.

He is running for the County Board because "I just think that everyone should participate in the process and I believe at this point in my life I have the time and energy to do that. Basically, the nature of the work and the way I've been trained would lend itself to the proper management process. I feel I have the ability to do that."

About the 2-mill proposal for a tax increase to fund operation of the county medical care facility, Ford said "I think it's essential that we have it here. Not only does it provide good jobs but I think it is important to have a place for the elderly."

A native of Newberry and graduate of Newberry High School, Ford and his wife Carol have a daughter. Ford has an associate's degree from Baker Junior College in Flint.

Hot water at the turn of a faucet is a real convenience. For thousands of young children every year, it turns into a real tragedy.

City Police

Manistique Public Safety officers cited a Menominee man for making an improper turn after his vehicle knocked a pole down on top of another vehicle.

Police said a blood mobile van driven by Warren C. Hoffman of Menominee attempted to turn into the alley next to McClelland's Store from Walnut St. when his vehicle hit a pole. He then tried to back the vehicle out of the alley, which caused the pole to fall on top of a parked car owned by Carl Wegner of Manistique. The accident happened on Friday.

Kevin D. Brown was cited for failure to report a property damage accident on Wednesday at 1:30 a.m. Police said Brown's vehicle hit a blinking caution sign on S. Cedar St. and Brown failed to report the incident.

A vehicle driven by Debra L. Sutter of Gernfask hit a door that was opened into the alley next to the White Steer Market on Tuesday. Extensive damage was done to the door.

Leon Jenerou reported the theft of a chain saw from his truck while it was parked downtown on Thursday. Ted Hentschel reported the theft of two speakers from his jeep while it was parked behind the Top 'O Lake Store on Tuesday.

There were no fire calls last week. The yearly total of ambulance runs is 167.

State Police

A Rapid River man was cited for violation of the basic speed law following a three car accident on Wednesday.

According to police, a vehicle driven by Richard A. Havasian slowed for a vehicle in front of it, which was turning into a private drive. The Havasian vehicle was hit in the rear by a vehicle driven by William R. Robner of Sturgeon, Wis., which was then hit by a vehicle driven by Daryl R. Erickson of Rapid River. The impact of the Erickson vehicle forced the Robner vehicle into the first vehicle again. Erickson was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law.

Michelle J. Jackard of Bloomington, Ind. was treated and released from Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital for injuries received in a one car accident on CR483 on Friday. Police said Jackard swerved her vehicle to avoid hitting a deer. The vehicle went off of the roadway, into a ditch and rolled over.

Dale L. Hauserman of Madison Heights, Mich. fractured his right arm when he lost control of his motorcycle on a private driveway on Saturday. Hauserman was treated at Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

According to police, a vehicle driven by Terry A. Van Brocklin of Gladstone went off of US-2 and hit a mailbox on Monday. Van Brocklin told police he was reaching for a can of pop when he lost control of his vehicle. He was cited for careless driving.

William N. Young of Rapid River was cited for driving under the influence of alcohol on Wednesday following a one car accident on US-2. Young's vehicle went off of the roadway and went into the Little Fish Dam River.

An unoccupied two story frame building was damaged by fire last Wednesday. The property, which is owned by Virginia Lalonde, is located on CR35 in Garden Township. The State Fire Marshall is assisting in the investigation.

During the month of July, Michigan State police logged 11,730 miles, made 138 traffic arrests, issued 146 verbal warnings, made 2 drunk driving arrests, assisted 38 motorists and made 35 criminal arrests.

Preparation speeds application for Social Security

People who plan to apply for Social Security monthly retirement, survivor or disability benefits can help speed the process if they are well prepared at the time they apply.

The applications are designed to obtain information about the worker, spouse, children, work history, including military service, and railroad employment. Applications for disability benefits also obtain information about the person's disabling condition.

A person will need certain documents to support his or her claim. Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used.

Some or all of the following documents may be required in a particular case:

- Birth certificate, proof of military service, W-2 forms or self-employment tax returns for the past two years, proof of marriage, proof of divorce, children's birth certificates,

- and death certificate if applying for survivor benefits. People applying for disability benefits should also have information about the sources they were treated by for their medical condition.

A person should not delay applying for benefits because he or she does not have all the required documents. People at the Escanaba Social Security office may be able to suggest alternatives.

Thompson centennial celebration sparks equine reminiscences

The celebration at Thompson has a lot of enthusiastic supporters, to say nothing of amateur historians and Good Old Days investigators. The folks currently involved in the present celebration need no introduction; the material I'm going to use for this column is about the old Thompson and was related to me by yet another historian, now deceased: Mrs. Georgia Osterhout. This little tale was apparently thoroughly researched by Georgia and is the kind of human or equine interest anecdote that I find hard to resist. I'm sure if Mrs. Osterhout were still here she wouldn't mind my repeating it. Here it is, pretty much in her words:

"Horses were indispensable beasts of burden in the old days; our freight and communications with the other world were largely dependent upon these friends of man, especially since the time we're talking about was before even the advent of the railroads. Roads as we know them today were of course unheard of."

"The first horses arrived in Thompson soon after 1870 and because serviceable roads had not yet been built, came by boat. Lending the animals was sometimes a tricky business, especially since the docks had not even been constructed in these early times. The unloading technique usually followed was to unload from the ships onto rafts, which were then brought into shallow water where the horses could be taken off to wade the rest of the way to shore. This operation was handled by Milo Gibbs, Chaney Hinkson Sr., Pete Archambeau and the Phillips."

"You can well imagine what it must have been like when the weather was bad and a sea rolling; serious injury was inevitable, both to horses and men. The horses were sometimes very frightened of this procedure, and the men had to be experts to handle them. We have had no reports of drowning yet that too was an ever-present danger."

"Horses and oxen were the backbone of the early logging operations. Millions of feet of clear white pine were cut and shipped to the developing Midwest and the treeless plains of the Western states, and many phases of this undertaking were totally dependent upon the horse. In the case of Thompson, a huge barn was built near the present site of the hatchery ponds; this structure housed thirty teams and up to fifty men."

"The horses were cared for by their drivers. Often after a hard week they had a Saturday evening treat of warmed oats, bran and linseed meal, all mixed up with molasses. It occasionally also happened that the company diningroom appeared in the barn, and these were undoubtedly much appreciated by the hungry animals."

"One of the highlights of my early childhood in Thompson was to hold the reins of a favorite team named Topsy and Picadore. This pair was used for hauling firewood to the homes in the area; the charge was $1.25 a cartload. Fred Hinkson, the driver, would sometimes wait by the creek and let the village kids drive the team to the barn, after the animals had their drink."

Not long ago we ran a column on George Bergman, King of the Blueberries. This brought back memories for many readers, including the following letter from a descendant:

"Dear Mr. Orr: It was with great pleasure and interest I read your article about my grandfather, George Bergman. The Blueberry King legend in a family photo of his float in a blueberry festival parade. Although we don't have a picture (full) of the truck, we do have one of my father, Cliff, near the one. I believe the truck was destroyed by fire."

Memories Jack Orr

"Marsh is buried alongside his parents and Carl, in Manistique. Cliff died in 1971 and is buried in Corinth, New York."

"Occasionally we grandchildren journey back to Manistique and our heritage. Thank you again for a story that struck home."

Sincerely,
Jim Bergman

Thompson marks 100 years on Sunday

Thompson's centennial celebration gets underway this weekend with a variety of activities including king and queen contests, crosscut sawing contest and a dance with Lori and the Big Spring Boys.

Starting at noon there will be a brief review of Thompson's history to launch the program. At 1 p.m. the oldest man and woman who are Thompson natives will be crowned senior king and queen. Seniors are urged to be sure foregather so they may be considered for selection as the king and queen. Judges will review the junior entries for king and queen, choosing a boy and girl in the 2-year through 7-year age group. For this event, the children must be current residents of Thompson. Parents may register their children before the centennial by calling 341-6821.

A centennial dress contest will take place at 2 p.m. with prizes for men, women, boys and girls to be awarded. At 2:30, there will be games for children: bag-racing, three-legged racing and others. Beards and mustaches will be judged at 3 p.m. with a prize in each category.

me it is no longer legal for the fish boats to cast their fish entral- overboard as they near the harbor due to the rules regarding water pollution. I had to see how fish gulls eat by sea gulls can be a pollution problem, and if it is I wish someone would enlighten me; I don't like being in the dark. Fish gulls are bio-degradable, right?

To get back to the gulls and their antics: I watched a couple the other day who must have had an argument about something to eat. They were having a sort of aerial dogfight over Range Street, and the maneuvers were a sight to see. I didn't know gulls were such accomplished acrobats.

(I'm trying to figure out how the above got into a column about the old days. Maybe, like some of the other old-timers, the gulls are getting a little...you know, childish, too. Except for you and me, that is, and sometimes I wonder about you.)

At 3:30 p.m. all the kids can dig in a sandlot pile for money. A log-sawing contest using a two-man crosscut saw is slated for 4 p.m.

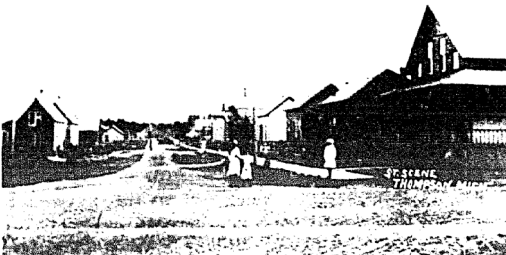

Then, at 5 p.m. the drawing for door prizes will be held on the band stand. Directly following, dancing will begin to the music of Lori and the Big Springs Boys.

Throughout the day, there will be a picnic in the hall where there will also be pictures and artifacts on display. On the grounds there will be a paddle-wheel, barbecued chicken, bratwurst, hot dogs, sweets and refreshments.

The committee asks that each one attending the celebration register so that there will be a record of attendance for the scrapbook to be preserved for future residents of Thompson.

Picnic dates changed

Because of conflicting dates, the Schoolcraft County Historical Society has changed the date for its annual picnic to Sunday, Aug. 22 at Pines Park from 2 to 4 p.m. The museum and log cabin will be opened for viewing historical artifacts. Members and guests are asked to bring a basket lunch. Coffee and punch will be furnished.

Manistique man survives close call

Manistique native Wally Sidback figures he's lucky to be alive after he survived a chilling experience in Alaska's Kachemak Bay last month that left two of his elderly companions dead.

Sidback, 63, was born and raised in Manistique before moving to Alaska in 1960. He is a 1937 graduate of Manistique High School. Dorothy Broolin of Manistique is his cousin.

Sidback homesteaded in Kasilik, Alaska, and taught in the Nikiaki, Alaska, elementary schools for 17 years. On July 3, he and two friends, Grant Chappell of Arizona and Martha Grant of Eagle River, Alaska, both 74 years old, set out in an open boat to pull Grant's crab pots from the cold water.

This account, excerpted from a local newspaper story headlined "Nikiaki man saved by miraculous rescue," tells the story: "The Lord was really with me," said Sidback of his rescue from the chilling waters of Kachemak Bay Saturday afternoon, where he had been for two or three hours after a boat capsized.

A passing tour boat had spotted the overturned boat to which Sidback had tied himself before losing consciousness. Earlier he had watched his two elderly fishing companions stiffen and die as they perished in the cold water. "My first clear recollection is in the big bath tub at the hospital where they were trying to raise my temperature."

Sidback later learned his rescuers were two young men with Rainbow Tours who were returning from dropping a party off at Bear Cove. They spotted the boat projecting from the water, first thought it was a tree, but decided to check. "They found me hanging there. They cut me loose and got me into the boat and took my clothes off and covered me with all the warm things they had," Sidback said.

sudden a wave came over the back of the boat and over we went."

"The title is evident in a family photo of his float in a blueberry festival parade. Although we don't have a picture (full) of the truck, we do have one of my father, Cliff, near the one. I believe the truck was destroyed by fire."

Sidback then managed to get Chappell on the part of the boat which was sticking out of the water.

"I went under and cut the buoys and the boat started to drift. While we were on top of it we saw a boat come out from Homer. I waved and hollered, but they didn't see us."

"Just shortly after that the waves hit the boat and Grant and I fell off. I swam around to where he was to get him out of the water. While I was trying to help him, he gasped a few times and suffered until I wrapped the rope around him so he would stay with the boat."

At this point Sidback considered making an attempt to swim to shore, about a mile in either direction.

"I went about 25 or 30 feet and then I started to get stiff and the Lord told me to go back. I tied myself to the boat so my head was out of the water and started to pray. "I passed out and didn't know anything more until I came to in the ambulance or emergency room. I can't really remember. My first clear recollection is in the big bath tub at the hospital where they were trying to raise my temperature."

Sidback later learned his rescuers were two young men with Rainbow Tours who were returning from dropping a party off at Bear Cove. They spotted the boat projecting from the water, first thought it was a tree, but decided to check. "They found me hanging there. They cut me loose and got me into the boat and took my clothes off and covered me with all the warm things they had," Sidback said.

Highway recycling goes into high gear

Recycling highways-making new ones out of old has moved from the experimental to the commonplace in Michigan.

It's a process now used on more than half of the asphalt paving jobs on the state highway system and is being done locally on the repaving of nine miles of US-2 in Schoolcraft County.

Until recent years, deteriorated roadways all were resurfaced by placing a new layer of asphalt on top of the old. With recycling, the existing pavement is ground up by huge milling machines, mixed with a quantity of new asphalt and laid back down again.

In appearance and durability, recycled highways are like new ones. The savings in cost, energy and natural resources are substantial.

"Recycling is one of the real success stories in the highway industry," said G. J. McCarthy, deputy director for highways in the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

The department's program began five years ago with the recycling of 15 miles of I-75 Freeway in Cheboygan County in northern Lower Michigan. Last year, 135 miles of state highways were recycled, by far the most in any construction season and placing Michigan among the top 10 states with recycling programs.

Twenty-five projects are underway this year. McCarthy cites numerous benefits from recycling: -The cost of material in recycling projects averages $18 a ton, about 57 a ton less than in those using all-new asphalt.

-The new method makes use of dwindling natural sources, not only the petroleum which forms the base of asphalt materials, but the increasingly scarce gravel and stone aggregates which are part of the mix of materials in the roadway.

-Recycling solves the long-standing problem of "reflective cracking" in which cracks in the old pavement are reflected upward into the new layer of surfacing material.

-By removing the old pavement before laying down new, the heights of curbs and the vertical clearances at highway overpasses remain the same.

Since the program began in 1977, the transportation department has recycled about one million tons of asphalt on some 480 lane miles of pavement. Many county roads have undergone the same treatment.

Airport authorities also are taking advantage of the new method. Runways of airports at Flint, Iron Mountain and Marquette have been recycled and more projects are planned.

Contractors use one of two recycling processes. With "hot recycling," the ground-up material is taken for processing to a nearby hot-mix asphalt plant and trucked back to the project for re-laying. The finished pavement is stronger and longer-lasting than those undergoing the "cold recycling" process in which the used material is crushed at the project site, mixed with a quantity of new asphalt and laid back down.

Generally, cold recycling is used on roadway shoulders or in light-traffic areas.

Nearly half of the 130 or so asphalt plants in Michigan are capable of recycling asphalt pavement. More are being equipped for it as the process comes into greater use.

Medicare Auxiliary

by Sally Schuetter

July 21 marked the second annual picnic for patients and families at the Medical Care Facility. This project was started by the Medical Care Facility Auxiliary which formed last year and which, through this year has been co-sponsored by the Medicare project of the Manistique Women's Club Home Life Committee.

Now that the Auxiliary is on its feet and has many hard-working members, we look forward to their keeping this annual project going. A lot of work goes into the project starting two weeks prior to the picnic. Families must be notified by phone or posting notices so we know how many will be attending.

Food for families is donated by volunteers. We are always looking for entertainment, tables have to be arranged outside and residents and families seated outside.

We are looking for residents to wear brimmed hats for more shade when outside as we are still short a few and they need the protection from the sun. Out of 75 residents here, 58 were able to picnic outside. Those who remained inside had either a family member or volunteer with them.

Everyone worked very hard and did a beautiful job. Thanks to the Medical Care Facility Auxiliary and the Manistique Women's Club for food, phone calls and assistance; to Toby's Specialties for decorations and to Keith and Patti Polkinghorn, Paul Quello, Julie, Holly and Melissa Cyrus, Renee Martin and Amy Berger, Donna Maxwell and Lisa Burns for the singing and dance performance. We appreciate it all.

Final chamber concert will be Sunday

The second and final concert of the current chamber music series will be presented Sunday, Aug. 8, again at the Presbyterian Church at 8:00 p.m. The program will include a wide variety of styles and combinations of instruments and voice.

Two students from Manistique High School, Cathy Orr and Darryl Norton, will perform as flutists in a Trio by W.F. Bach in which they will be joined by Dr. King, violinist, who is director of the series. Luanne Kaupila, soprano, will appear in two works; an Aria by J.S. Bach with piano, played by Mary Orr and violin, by Dr. King, and a contemporary setting of the folk song "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair" by Howard Bestwright which is accompanied by violin alone. The first half concludes with the brilliant Concerto for Three Violins by Vivaldi, performed by Dr. King, Mary King and Kevin Ryan and pianist Mary Orr.

Both Mrs. King and Ryan are violinists in the Winona Symphony conducted by Dr. King. Dr. and Mrs. King are first violinist and violin in the newly-formed University Quartet at Winona State University in Winona, Minn. Kevin Ryan is assistant concertmaster of the Winona Symphony and first violin in the University Student Quartet.

The second half opens with a Terzetto by Dvorak for the rare combination of two violins and viola.

This colorful and charming work is one of very few examples for such combination of instruments and represents one of the composer's most successful chamber music compositions. It is played by violinists King and Ryan and violinist Mary King. The concert concludes with Chabrier's own arrangement of his ever-popular musical impression of Spain, "España" played in a piano four-hand version by Mary Orr and Mary King.

DNR REPORT

Three duck hunters were apprehended on Indian Lake for hunting waterfowl during the closed season. Arrests came about as a result of a citizen's complaint to the State Police. Another citizen used his boat to transport the State Police and overtake the violators on the lake. Fine and costs totaled $345. Application is being made for RAP reward for these cooperators.

Wild strawberries are about over; raspberries and blueberries are coming on. We have received no reports of any concentrations of either. Will be closely monitoring the crop for any positive information.

There appears to be some confusion about the operation of off-road vehicles on private property and Great Lakes beaches. The public should be aware that it is unlawful to operate an ORV where there is no visible evidence of a forest road or forest trail without proper written permission. This would include all Great Lakes beach area under control of the State of Michigan. Persons should also be aware that Federal Rules also prohibit the use of ORV on beach areas under Federal jurisdiction. The operation of ORVs on private beach areas is restricted to that area and operators must have permission of the land owner.

PERCH - When the wind is blowing just a little, fishermen are catching nice perch in the Manistique River by the mouth of the slough. Pike and Little Lakes are also producing some decent sized perch.

Some caught in Bodi Lake, but they were a little smaller. Fairly good success in Les Cheneaux Islands in Government and Hessel Bays, Hill's Island Channel, Club Cut, and a few good catches in McKay's Bay. A few medium sized perch caught in Millecoquin and Muskallonge Lakes, and the west side of Big Manistique Lake in the weed beds. Perch fishing at Whitefish Point is slow.

NORTHERN PIKE, MUSKY - John Lukins of Engadine caught a 49 inch, 30 pound musky in Brevoort Lake on Sunday. Some northerns caught in Bodi, Millecoquin at Pike Lakes last week, also in Little Lake. Lots of small pike caught in Carp Lake, only a few keepers. Pike fishing in the Cedarville area has been fairly good-Duck, Musky and Mackinac Bays and the shoals around Hills Island.

Humane Society

by Kayo Barker

The Humane Society of Schoolcraft County would like to thank those who have donated to the "Orphan Annie Fund" money set aside specifically to help provide veterinary care for injured stray animals. Donations have come from Muskegon, Gladwin and Manistique. Annie herself, the inspiration for establishment of the fund, still needs a home. Anyone interested in adopting her should call 341-2806.

The HSSC maintains a list of animals needing homes, although owners keep their dogs and cats until new owners adopt them as well as a list of persons desiring a specific type of pet. Call 341-2806 if you fall in either category and wish to be added to the list. We also keep information concerning lost or found animals and have helped to reunite pets and owners on a number of occasions.

There has been an abundance of letters to be given away at past several weeks. While we are happy to list these animals, we urge pet owners to have their females spayed and males neutered—the HSSC will help with the cost of sterilization to prevent additional unwanted litters in the future.

A female dog can have puppies twice a year and a female cat can have up to four litters in that time period; males can sire many more.

Art Club plans ahead

At the Manistique Art Club business meeting on Aug. 2, the members voted to hold the 1983 Art and Craft Show in the first week of July, with a definite date to be determined at a later time. It will be at the water tower park area.

The next business meeting will be held at Carolyn Stump's home on Gulliver Lake and will be a pot luck dinner on Sept. 13. Audrey and Paul Martin volunteered to be chairpersons for the judges of the 1983 Art Fair.

Berries are scarce at Seney

Although the Seney National Wildlife Refuge is open for blueberry picking, the blueberries are very scarce. Late frost destroyed the majority of the berries. Hopefully, the blueberry crop will be better next year.

such litters. Either species is capable of reproducing at about a year of age and homeless animals end up engaging garbage being shot at, poisoned or hit by traffic. In addition to being a better companion, a sterilized pet also prevents the growth of the number of strays in the area.
