

The recent formal dedication of the new lake highway attention has focused attention on that still-undisputed domain that Lake Superior here. Somehow or other, the name "Boyer" doesn't get the prominence of engineers who think nothing of traveling to other parks, not so beautiful than Lake Royale, but for more famous.

Lake Royale must be made more accessible, and there are several ways in which it can be done. It is the completion of the main-lake Superior highway, a project which has been discussed in many American road building papers. Last year's international road meeting in Port Arthur and Fort William set a lot of enthusiasm for making up the 200 miles or so that are still unfinished, but practical things have been done since then, and the job is well on its way.

The fact is, according to many opinions, that the road is in politics, if the rest of the world is not. It is a highway that is being built for many other projects have been in the same fix more than once. The last time it was in the hands of the heavens with the stories of what they were going to do for the dear "peepul" in the way of more and better highways for Ontario. Once in office, they got all about their promise. The around-lake highway is in the moshals until the next election, and that is three long years away.

It will stay there unless heavier pressure is brought to bear for getting busy. Ontario and the Dominion are up to their ears in road debts, just as we are, and there are a thousand places in every tax dollar. Nevertheless, there are plenty of Canadians here who can see the chances for profits in linking up the chain of roads around the big lake, and the keeping plans alive for the road.

For example, it is estimated that Fort William and Port Arthur alone would do an extra million dollars worth of business yearly if there were a fact. With no doubt, thousands of American motorists would like nothing better than to make the 1,200 mile jump across Superior. They realize that in many ways, in both the United States and Canadian directions, the trip would be with equal as an advertised scenic tour on the continent.

It would also be a godsend to the Royale patronage. The hotel is in plain sight from the lake, and the new and recovered abacher, the Coastal Queen, has been playing regularly to it. The new summer, the new owners, bring an immense amount of new business to the north shore and masterly build a travel to the new national park.

Another chance for business is in the new air line proposed by the Canadian Pacific. The ships may land at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Ontario, and portage for two emergency. Upper Canada landing fields have been asked for. Port William and Port Arthur will thus have daily air service, which will be a good thing for Lake Royale.

The Canadian like the Americans, are an enterprising people. In years past, have been attending each morning, arriving in the way Vancouver on the evening of the same day. They travel by way north of Lake Superior, but the new line will cross the lake, flying to Winnipeg. The connections will be made for Lake coast traffic.

The case had to do with a watch which Tyrell held as custodian for an acquaintance.

The judge found that Anderson established the officer's illegal conduct and completely exonerated Tyrell of any wrongdoing. Sheehan said in court.

RETAILERS FAIL TO DECIDE ON STORE CLOSING

Revision In Hours Postponed; Questionnaire To Be Distributed

The possibility of revising store hours in Manistiquette to provide for Saturday afternoon closings was indefinitely postponed at the meeting of retail merchants Monday evening because of widespread disagreement.

Members at the court house, the retail merchants accepted virtually all of the recommendations submitted by its board of directors in its report on Saturday afternoon closings and retail promotions, but were unable to accept the Saturday afternoon suggestion.

Proponents of the Saturday afternoon closing argued that such a move would reduce working hours and give both managers and employees week ends. Opponents said that stores also owed an obligation to the buying public, and that store service should not be reduced to a point where people would be inconvenienced.

The secretary of the group was instructed to prepare questionnaires for distribution to all local retail merchants in an effort to obtain complete retail opinion on the Saturday afternoon closing proposition.

One new change was approved by the merchants. Armistice Day following November 11, will be a full holiday in Manistiquette. This is the first time since shortly after the end of the first World War that this day has been so observed.

Those who favored suspending business on Armistice Day said that this event means just as much to World War I veterans as V-J Day does to veterans of World War II.

Retail merchants also approved a hunting season promotion, including the distribution of folders at Mackinac City several days before the opening of season on November 11; the wearing of hunting season tags by employees of local stores; and the decorating of store display windows in the hunting season.

Included in the deer season details of which are to be worked out by the retailers' board of directors.

The merchants also approved the program of street lighting and decorating, including the awarding of prizes for the best lighted and decorated homes and businesses in the formal opening of the Christmas season on Friday, December 6; a program of three open events by employees of local stores; and gifts stores immediately before Christmas.

Regular observance of Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's closing also was approved, including the closing of stores at regular hours during the week of holidays, immediately preceding these holidays.

The Manistiquette Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce, following a joint meeting with the executive board of the local Council of Veterans Affairs, Tuesday evening hired Leonard Mulhaupt, veterans' counselor here, as joint secretary of the chamber to succeed J. Mauritz Carlson, who has resigned.

In effecting the change, the office of the Council of Veterans Affairs is being moved to the information building at Victoria Park, where Chamber of Commerce headquarters will also be located.

There was considerable discussion of the future of the veterans' program in the future. William W. It was suggested that the American financial aid when the present fund is exhausted. Leonard Carlson, of the Manistiquette branch of the American Legion, explained that Legion finances do not permit the support of the veterans' program, and another member of the Veterans Council observed that "it would hardly be fair to send these fellows out to fight the war and then expect them to come back and pay for your assistance or adjust their leg."

With two important amendments to the state constitution, plus the election of state officials, congressmen and a United States senator, coming up Nov. 5 for a Michigan election, thousands of Michigan citizens in cities, villages and townships of less than 5,000 population may lose their right to vote on these issues.

Why? There's no dictatorship in Michigan! you reply. Vouchsafed for by Secretary of State Herman H. Dignam, the statement still stands. All citizens now residing in cities, villages and townships of less than 5,000 population will not be registered by Oct. 15 with the town clerk.

If any citizen fails to register by Oct. 15, the last day he can vote on Nov. 5.

"Act 291 of the Public Acts of 1945 provides permanent registration in all townships, cities and villages regardless of population," states Secretary of State Dignam.

Permanent registration of electors is now mandatory in all election precincts in Michigan. In all townships and cities having a population of 5,000 or more, the 1945 legislature extended this provision to governmental units of less than 5,000 population.

Failure to vote within a period of two years will automatically cancel registration unless application for continuation is made within 30 days from receipt of notice from the clerk.

Education views of Michigan's two party nominees for governor—Murray D. Van Wagener and Kim Sigler—were solicited recently by the Michigan Education Association.

Ballot proposal No. 2 at the Nov. 5 election would divert one cent of the state sales tax to local governments and would "freeze" into the state constitution a formula for state aid to public schools. Based upon the 1946 tax collections, school state aid would increase from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

Van Wagener's statement to the M.E.A., whose membership comprises school teachers, points out that the "crux of entire issue" is the "restricted narrow local tax base," the 15-mill tax limitation which was put into the state constitution in 1902.

"Enabling legislation is needed, I profoundly believe, to permit the broadening of the local tax base, to give the municipalities badly needed funds, and to encourage democratic self-government at the local level."

"Given sufficient funds municipalities would, I am confident, be compelled to face up honestly to the educational demands of their communities."

It is the opinion of Van Wagener that "sales tax funds, subject to fluctuations in amounts from year to year and subject to demands of reservations of an oftentimes hostile legislature, provide no firm or lasting basis for a constructive and progressive such aid program."

"Consolidation of small, inefficient school districts is one of the definite needs in any overall solution to our school problem," states Van Wagener. "Hundred of school districts in Michigan with 15 or less pupils, simply point up this wasteful, inefficient phase of our educational picture. In further evidence of my good faith toward a betterment of education, I appointed an Educational Study Commission made up of the best cross-section of urban and rural educators I could find and representatives from both major political parties in the House of the Legislature. If re-elected to the office of Governor in November, I pledge a continuing and forceful effort in behalf of our educational system."

Sigler's views of the proposal for a constitutional division of state sales tax revenue include the following excerpt taken from this statement to the M.E.A.:

"Public education, as I see it is one of the most important functions of government. It is recognized by the Michigan Constitution as a State responsibility. But it is more—much more—than a responsibility. It is a real moral obligation."

"However, down at the grass roots of our educational system is the local school district. That is as it should be. It is a guarantee of the application of democratic principles in the conduct of our educational system. But I am entirely aware of the fact that the local districts are restricted by the fifteen-mill tax limitation in the amount of money that can be raised locally for school operation."

"Thus, in addition to the supervisory advantages of centralized leadership and guidance, the State has a definite financial responsibility. But in a consideration of this responsibility I again insist upon being realistic rather than politically expedient. And I repeat that such responsibilities should and must be met on the basis of financial availability and public approbation, keeping in mind of course that public education is one of the most vital functions of government. I will never be in favor of ignoring the public in the expenditure of public funds. But by the same token, I can assure you that I will always support any expenditure necessary to guarantee to the people of Michigan an honest, efficient, and forward-looking administration of their State governmental affairs. For that, I assume, is a standing order among honest citizens everywhere."

"I am entirely in accord with the principle of a sound teacher's retirement, with adequate pensions and a proper retirement age. The teacher's retirement fund should be ample to meet all equitable needs and should receive adequate and proper State aid. So far as tenure is concerned, it should be based upon performance and never upon whim or any kind of consideration. To give the highest type of service expected from them, teachers should be given a maximum of security in the job, and I consider the leadership and guidance involved in this guarantee to be the direct responsibility of the State."

CARD OF THANKS

We are taking this means of expressing our sincere thanks to the number of friends who expressed their sympathy during our recent bereavement. We are especially grateful to the Rev. E. J. P. 1946 U.P. Fair Best In History, Reports Lindsay, Secretary

The 1946 Upper Peninsula State Fair produced the best financial report in the history of the exposition. Harold Lindsay, secretary, has reported.

Gross receipts totaled $35,143.01, twice as much as in 1941, the last year that the fair was held before resumption of the U. P. exposition this year. Deductions for commissions paid to the WLS troupe and the Jimmie Lynch show plus $8,732.08 in federal taxes, totaled $14,030.72, leaving net receipts to the fair board of $21,112.29. This constitutes the amount of money returned to the State of Michigan, which advanced $25,000 for payment of premiums and other expenses in connection with the fair.

Expenses for premiums, labor, grandstand attractions not booked on percentage of advertising, judging, etc., totaled $24,987.24. Appropriately $10,000 was expended for capital improvements on the fairgrounds, an item of expense not assessed against the 1946 exposition. Administrative expenses of the fair board also are items paid by the state that are not assessed against receipts of the fair.

WALLACE CREATES CONFUSION

Henry Wallace, although he has been silenced by Presidential orders, has succeeded in creating a lot of confusion in the minds of the American people.
There is a bare possibility that Wallace is right. Maybe the international policy we are currently pursuing is blazing the trail to a new conflict. No nation, unless it is run by madmen, is seeking to create conditions that lead to war. On the other hand, no group of statesmen is so politically wise that it can say with finality: "This course leads to war; this course will lead to peace." Hindsight tells us what factors caused our wars; no foresight has yet been enough to chart a positive path to peace.

We do know, however, that certain policies Wallace has preached have not prevented war in the past. Foremost among these is military impotency. The second is appeasement.

After the first World War the United States deliberately weakened itself in the hope of saving the peace. And years before Hitler invaded Poland, appeasement was tried—and failed.

By every means at her disposal Soviet Russia has been trying to induce the United States to withdraw from Europe and Asia, to reduce our army, to eliminate military appointments. And Wallace and Senator Claude Pepper have been preaching about the same line.

There is no guarantee that a strong, resolute United States will insure peace. Weakness we have tried. Collective security with military weakness has been tried. Pacts of honor have been tried. All have failed. Perhaps honest intent, backed by strength and firmness, will succeed. It is at least now, it may work, and if everything else fails, it may save our necks.

The birthplace of Alexander Hamilton, distinguished early American statesman, was the island of Nevis, in the West Indies.

During the Civil war President Lincoln suspended the writ of habeas corpus. Congress later legalized his action.

GROUND FORCES WINTER EQUIPMENT TEST IN ARCTIC
Winter's cold and snow, as illustrated here, will be a daily companion to 4,000 Army Ground Forces troops taking part in winter equipment tests to be held in Alaska and Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, between October 1 and April 30, 1947. Three separate task forces will determine the extent to which existing equipment will function and what new equipment is required for the ground team to fight under all winter conditions. Task forces "Willow" and "Frigid" are being assembled for early departure for Adak, Alaska, and Fairban, Alaska, while task force "Frost" already is at Camp McCoy. Left, equipped with heavy clothing to offset extremes of cold, the pictured soldier is representative of 4,000 Ground Forces troops to test equipment in Alaska and at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. Right, in a practical test showing a patient being brought to a first aid station on an improvised litter toboggan.

First Electrically Driven Lakes Carrier Coming To Port Inland

The Great Lakes' first electrically driven carrier, the E. J. Block, which left the Lorain, Ohio shipyard on its trial run Tuesday, is expected at Port Inland, shipping point of the Inland Line and Stone company east of Manistique, early in October. A. W. Heitman, superintendent, reported Tuesday.

The E. J. Block, owned by the Inland Steel company, of which the local plant is a subsidiary, will introduce not only diesel electric power to the Great Lakes ore carrier fleets, but also will introduce many other revolutionary features. They include a new principle of hydro-electric steering and direct control of the engines from the bridge. The reconstruction of the ship from the traditional type carrier to one with such up-to-the-minute improvements as diesel electric power, radar and an all electric galley has taken place during several months at the Lorain yards of the American Shipbuilding Corporation.

The reconstruction of the ship, which has a beam of 56 feet and an 11,000-ton capacity, has been complete from stem to stern, ranging from removal of the old steam engines, boilers and coal bunkers to lifting the fore-castle four feet and installing a stream-lined, shortened aft smokestack for the diesel engines' exhaust. All the modernization was designed for greater speed both in travel and in unloading and loading, greater safety, and more comfort for the crew. New ballast pumps of exceptional capacity, for instance, will be able to empty the ballast tanks much quicker than ever before and thus allow the ship to load more quickly and get underway for Indiana Harbor with its cargoes of iron ore, limestone or other raw materials it will haul on each trip.

The permanent installation of a new type of radar on the E. J. Block gives the ship immeasurably added safety during the bad weather and makes it the first ship so permanently equipped on the Great Lakes. Several other ships are equipped with experimental radar sets, but none, according to inland officials, have actually purchased and permanently installed such equipment.

The most revolutionary changes are those brought about by the installation of the new diesel electric propulsion unit and the new hydro-electric steering gear. Here, after the captain of the E. J. Block will have direct control over the ship at all times instead of having to operate it by remote control through bell signals to the engine. The steering gear is controllable from several points throughout the ship. Tests have shown that the rudder can be turned from "hard over to hard over" in 21 seconds.

The E. J. Block was built in 1908 and is named after one of three sons of Joseph Block, a founder of Inland Steel company. E. J. Block joined the company in 1901 and served with it until his death in 1939. He was vice-president in charge of purchases from 1919 to 1939.

The ship is one of five in the Inland Steel company fleet. All of them take on limestone cargo at Port Inland.

BISHOP IS SPEAKER AT LIONS MEETING

District Governor Urges Unselfish Service in "Troubled World of Today"

George E. Bishop, of Manistique district Lions governor, was the principal speaker at the Manistique Lions club dinner Tuesday evening at Almo's restaurant.

He stressed the need for unity of character, for mutual understanding among various nations, and for unselfish service in the troubled world of today.

These qualities, he said, are the basis of the Lions code of ethics, and therefore, the opportunity to help build a better and more peaceful world.

Bruce Brackett, district deputy district governor of upper peninsula Lions, also spoke briefly, and also presented gifts to E. Cookson and Ronald E. Peterson, members of the local Lions club. Membership certificates and pin were presented to three new members — Oliver Hubbard, Mrs. Parsley, and Glen Hightower-William L. Norton.
